County Picnic On Labor Day

SPORTS, BALL GAMES, AND MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT BEING FEATURED

Arrangements are being developed for the big Charlevoix County picnic to be held at the Whiting County Park on Monday, September 18. This is the 19th year that this big event has been held and down through the years it attracts from three to five thousand folks. The program will start promptly at 1:00 and from then until 5:00 there will be entertainment and amusement of interest and enjoyment to all.

Running races and sports of all kinds for the children will be featured. A special attraction has been secured which is brand-new to northern Michigan, Gene Eddy and his "Montana Buckeros" will furnish variety, music and songs. It has been rumored that two old time baseball groups will be pitted against each other as one of the baseball attractions. Right now the names of the two teams can not be announced but several young ball players, 40 years of age and over are reported to be getting in shape.

Free coffee, sugar and cream will be served during the noon hour. The American Legion Eggs and the Junior Farm Bureau will have concessions to take care of the needs of the public. Everything looks most favorable for a highly enjoyable day. Watch next week's paper for full details of the program for your entertainment at the Charlevoix County Picnic on Labor Day, Monday Sept. 18.

4-H LIVESTOCK SHOW IMMENSE SUCCESS

The Third annual Antrim County 4-H livestock show held at the Gravin Park at Bellaire Tuesday, August 12, proved to be a very successful event. One hundred twelve head of livestock were exhibited. Approximately four to five hundred people from all sections of the county visited the event during the day.

High spots of the days event were the showmanship contests in cattle, horses, and sheep, with Jason Shinn of Mancelona and Berner-Hansen of Kewadin, repeating last year's victory in these contests in cattle and horses, respectively, and Victor Schuler winning the contest in sheep. Nevels Pearson, state club leader, Michigan State College, was judge.

Another interesting feature of the day's show was the display of Junior Herd Stires exhibited by breeders throughout the county with all but one or two of the sires being secured as baby bull calves last year. Mr. A. C. Baltzer, Dairy Extension Specialist, and Michigan State College, was present to discuss the records of the sires and talk with individuals regarding them.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of the many acts of kindness extended by friends during the illness and at the death of our beloved wife, mother and daughter Mrs. Arthur Buchin.

Potato Growers Advised To Be On Guard Potato Blight

All growers of potatoes should be on the look out for the first appearance of late blight in this county. While very little has been found in the county as of this time adjoining counties report the first symptoms. We remember what happened last year and the year before and know that practically all seed planted this spring has some blight.

With seed more or less infected and with proper weather conditions the next three or four weeks will determine the status of potatoes all through this area. The only means of control is to be sure that the vines are covered at all times with a Bordeaux mixture. The standard formula or the Blue Vitroil - Lime solution is 8-12-100, which means 8 pounds of Blue Vitroil and 12 pounds of Lime to 100 Gallons of Water. Many growers are using a slightly stronger solution such as 10-16-100. We still feel that the 8-12-100 is strong enough but on the other hand have not found any serious injury to the foliage where the stronger spray material has been applied.

To be on the safe side I certainly believe all fields should be covered at all times and that means an application of spray every seven to ten days from now until harvest time. The past two years the greatest damage took place from September 1st, to September 15th. With a decrease in acreage all through the state with the general price increase and with the average yield in view, it would seem that all potato growers can afford to spray adequately. Sometimes saving ten dollars in spray materials will mean a loss of hundreds of dollars. Spray and sleep well.

Thirteen Hours Devotion In St. Joseph Church

Sunday morning at 7:30 will mark the opening of the Thirteen Hours devotion in St. Joseph Church. Adoration before the Blessed Sacrament will continue during the whole day until the closing services in the evening at 7:30. It will be a solemn closing and many of the neighboring clergy will be present for the services.

The larger parishes usually have Forty Hours Devotion while in the smaller parishes the devotion is limited to Thirteen Hours.

THE MEANING OF THE FORTY HOURS DEVOTION

This beautiful devotion, in memory of the forty hours during which the Body of Jesus lay in the sepulchre, is held in each Catholic Church and chapel once every year, and is welcomed by every parish and religious community as a period of special graces and blessings. The devotion dates its origin as far back as the year 1534, and has for its object the solemn adoration of Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, propitiation and impetration. The worship of Jesus in the Eucharist is the primary devotion of Holy Mother Church, before which all other devotions pale as the stars at the coming dawn.

MARRIAGES

Pollit — Sonnabend

Mae Hazel Pollit was united in marriage to Laurence Faye Sonnabend, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neuman, Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiating.

The bride was attired in a gown of white sharkskin her corsage was of white roses. Vera Staley attended the bride as bridesmaid and Vale Gee was the groom's attendant.

Refreshments were served to about sixteen guests following the ceremony.

After a short honeymoon they will be at home in Midland where the groom is employed at the Dow Chemical Laboratories.

Both bride and groom are graduates of the East Jordan High school, the former in the class of '41 and the latter in the class of '40.

The best wishes of their friends are extended for a long and happy marriage.

Jackson — Heller

Jannie Ruth Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden W. Jackson of Anderson, Ind., and Clayton J. Heller of Indianapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Heller of Elk Rapids, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage Thursday evening August 14. Rev. J. C. Methews officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Numan of Traverse City attended the bride and groom.

A wedding reception and dinner was served the bridal party at Meguzee Hotel at Elk Rapids. The guests included A. J. Wely of East Jordan, grandfather of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Numan and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wells of Traverse City; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Heller of Elk Rapids; and Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Mathews of East Jordan.

After a short honeymoon they will make their home in Indianapolis, Ind., where the groom is employed as radio engineer for W. F. B. M.

Great Entertainment

The Temple this week is presenting one of the finest entertainment programs we have ever to come to our notice. Each of the four presentations is outstanding and accompanied by interesting short subjects. These include the Naval Service, Musical comedy, farce and a pictorialization of one of Harold Bell Wright's best loved works. Look over the exciting line-up that appears below:

Saturday only; Robert Young, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore in "Navy Blue and Gold."

Sunday Monday; Don Ameche and Mary Martin in "Kiss The Boys Goodbye."

Tuesday Wed (Family Nites); George Murphy and Lucille Ball in "A Girl, A Guy, And A Gob."

Thurs. Friday; John Wayne, Betty Field and Harry Carey in "The Shepard Of The Hills."

SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE

Lansing — "Woodman, spare that tree" goes an old sentimental saying. Despite all the conservation education which Michigan has had in the last generation or two — and surely our state is far ahead of most others in this regard — we still are a long ways from solving the forestry problem.

This fact was impressed upon us forcefully during an automobile trip through a section of the Upper Peninsula which, according to the 1941 state highway map, is "roadless" and apparently impassable.

Two newspaper editors, both lovers of the Michigan outdoors, were our companions. A. H. Weber, Cheboygan and Oscar Schumann, Grayling, know their outdoors — particularly "Hudson Bay Al" as we affectionately nicknamed Mr. Weber who has visited the Hudson Bay country and was once introduced by Philip T. Rich of Midland to a New York group by that title. Incidentally, Weber rose to the occasion with long and tall tales of his life there.

It was Schumann's first trip west of Sault Ste. Marie, and it was our first experience in following Lake Superior from Munising to Emerson, all within a few miles of the shore. We spent the night in Weber's log cabin, 36 by 18 ft. located in a stand of virgin white pine.

Selective Cutting

First of many impressions about the forest resources was received on a visit to a logging camp operated by the four Lindahl brothers of Iron River, Harold, Walter, Oscar and Arthur. This camp is near Penelton Creek, some 20 miles from Iron River, and is situated in a 3,000 acre tract of fine timber which the Lindahl brothers have been holding for some time as taxpayers.

Because of a recent rise in lumber prices due to national defense needs, the Lindahls now find it profitable to cut their timber. A modern camp has been erected in the woods; lumberjacks work only 40 hours a week, and their food is excellent as we can personally testify.

Is the timber being cut on a selective basis? The answer is: No. The Lindahls are not to blame, for such is the competitive condition in the North, plus the economic handicap of a longer growing season for timber in the South and lower labor costs there. We understood from good authority that the Ford Motor Company at L'Arce cuts in the same manner. Slash or waste timber is left in large amounts.

Scenic Resources

To utilize timber stands for commercial purposes is obviously a necessary and worthwhile industry.

Furthermore, the federal and state governments have recognized the public value of preserving large tracts of timber. The map of Michigan is generously "green" in the North.

If the economic future of the Upper Peninsula lies in the development of its tourist resources, and you will find many persons today who preach this gospel, then it must be apparent

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Everts Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Everts of Phelps, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in the community Building at East Jordan Tourist Park on the beautiful beach of East Jordan August 10th.

Those that were there to help make it an enjoyable affair are as follow; Mrs. Cody Stanley, daughter Violet and son Allen of Miami, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Haas of Atlanta, Mich.; Mr. Leslie Everts, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Everts and son Johnnie of Detroit; Floyd Everts and daughters Beryl, Eunice and Grace Mae of Hazel Park; Mrs. Rena Reid of Rochester, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, son Joseph Jr., daughter Lucille, Edna Mae and little grandson of Cadillac.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ross of Central Lake, Mrs. Greenhoe of Walloon Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Everts and daughters, Barbara, Beatrice and Esther and son Jackie of Clarion; Mrs. Leslie Everts and daughter Dolna, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hinebauch and son Tommy of Charlevoix; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denny and son Richard of Ellsworth; Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell and sons Oscar and Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dixon and daughter Phyllis, Harry Perry and son Edward of East Jordan; Miss Marie Blanchard of Phelps. A delightful lunch was served and many lovely gifts were received by the guests of honor.

Also that scenic resources should be conserved if not restored for the future welfare of this region.

Let us cite an interesting example.

Automobile Tourist

With the Cheboygan editor as a guide, we explored by automobile through a forestland region of both cut-over and virgin timber, all lying just south of Lake Superior between Munising and the Soo.

The modern tourists travels by automobile for the most part. If he goes by train, he usually supplements the trip with side trips by motor.

Consequently what he sees from his automobile — except for lakes and streams — constitutes 90 per cent of his outing enjoyment.

North of Newberry and south of Lake Superior lies a wild timber country. You go through miles of land where stumps of pine trees, three feet from the ground, stand like an army of cemetery tombstones. You traverse through blueberry plains which the Indians burned frequently to provide pruning of plants by fire.

You go through virgin timber, some of which is being logged right to the road's edge and which leaves a desolate wasteland, ugly to behold. Traveling is a slow job, and you are lucky to make 15 miles an hour. Incidentally, we passed automobiles from Detroit and North Dakota, loaded with tourists seeing the sights.

Strips of Timber

To safeguard against this desolation of scenery along tourist traveled highways, Iron county pioneered in Michigan by acquiring during the early twenties a 446 foot strip of timber along U. S. Route 2 between Crystal Falls and Iron River.

We'll let H. F. Larson, engineer-manager of the Iron county road commission, tell the story.

"During the early twenties, a party of us went on a short tour through a section of northern Wisconsin's famous lake region," he explained. "We found it difficult to locate a place to eat our lunch without someone kindly reminding us that we were on private ground and that we would have to move on. Unaccustomed to that sort of treatment, we hoped these conditions would never exist in Upper Michigan. The thought occurred that as soon as the Upper Peninsula was discovered by resorters, lake property would go up by leaps and bounds.

"Thus in the early twenties roadside parks and tables were erected along our highways so people who went motoring could take their lunch and enjoy it."

Virgin Pine Scarce

"This section was at one time covered with a beautiful stand of pine and hardwood. Within a space of 30 years the pine was wiped out and a beginning was made in the cutting of other kinds of timber.

There are old lumbermen who came here among the early settlers. They saw the Menominee Range before the woodman's axe had sounded throughout the forest. It was their belief that the pine would last forever — that it would be impossible ever to cut it all, and that hardwood timber would never have much if any value.

"These men lived to see the virgin pine practically exterminated and the so called hardwoods disappearing at an alarming rate.

"Hence the idea was conceived by Iron county officials acquiring strips of timber 466 feet in width along

Mrs. Arthur Buchin of Ellsworth Dies at Charlevoix Hospital

Mrs. Arthur Buchin of Ellsworth passed away at the Charlevoix hospital, Friday, August 15th, from a complication of diseases.

Charlotte Matilda Greenman was born at Elk Rapids August 25, 1903, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Greenman of Flint. On May 4th, 1921, she was united in marriage to Arthur Buchin.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and five children — Helen 17 years, John 15, George 13, Goldie 11, Ernest 8; her parents; a sister, Mrs. Donna Giem, Boyne Falls; two brothers, Orin Greenman of Flint and Earl Greenman of Ellsworth.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, August 18, at the Pilgrim Holiness Church, Ellsworth, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Swanson, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. Bearup, and Rev. Bridges of the East Jordan Church. Burial was at Sunset Hill, East Jordan.

main highways and thus having a permanent snow fence in winter and a pleasing scenic view in the summer. Iron county's example was adopted later on by the state highway department.

Historical Markers

Where ancient Indian trails now cross our main highways, suitable markers have been erected. We have included in Pentoga Park on Chicacon-Lake an old Indian village and cemetery which today is one of our most popular places.

A marker has been placed where iron ore was first discovered in 1851. (The first recorded discovery of iron ore in this district was made by Harvey Mellen, a U. S. surveyor, who reported August 8, 1851, an outcrop of iron ore five feet high on the west face of Stambaugh Hill. The Caspian Mine in this vicinity has shipped more than 6,000,000 tons of ore since 1903.

A suitable monument is to be placed on the site of the first lumber camp near Stager opened up by the K. C. Lumber Company in 1877.

Since 1918, when we made our first park purchase, we have acquired a total in parks and parkways of 2,500 acres. Probably no other factor all through the depression has contributed more enjoyment and pleasure in helping people keep troubles off their hands by the use of our county parks.

State Highway Policy

The practice of acquiring timber strips along tourist roads has been followed diligently by the state highway department. Furthermore, thousands of pine trees have been planted in some sections along state routes by the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Yet this policy has been only introduced in a small way for obvious reasons, chiefly the cost involved. County governments could follow suit.

It's something worth thinking about: If the public was awakened to its need and demanded positive action, such a dream could readily become a delightful reality.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. Can my children buy Defense Savings Stamps?

A. Yes. Hundreds of thousands of American children are buying Stamps regularly as their share in the national savings program.

Q. Why should children be encouraged to buy Savings Stamps?

A. Because by buying Stamps they write their names on a Roll of Honor of Americans who are doing their part to show the dictators that united America will never flinch to preserve her sacred liberty.

Q. After my child has collected enough Stamps to exchange for a Bond, can the Bond be registered in the child's name?

A. Yes. A minor may own a Defense Savings Bond. Many parents are registering Bonds in their children's names to prepare for future educational needs.

NOTE — To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for a mail-order form.

Roosevelt-Churchill Meeting at Sea Brings Joint Declaration of War Aims Seeking 'A Better Future' for World; Vichy-Nazi Collaboration Strengthened

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL From their historic meeting at sea came an eight-point joint declaration of general war aims and a plan for "a better future for the world."

HISTORIC MEETING:

A Declaration

After a secret meeting at sea, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, issued and signed a joint declaration of general war aims.

This declaration in its introduction explained that two men, "being met together, deem it right to make known certain common principles in the national policies of their respective countries on which they base their hopes for a better future for the world."

The declaration then went on to outline the sort of world that would be sought following the end of the war. In its eight-point text, the message expressed in a general way the foreign policy of the present U. S. administration and from the British point of view it was most concrete statement of war aims yet disclosed by that government.

In the opening point of the declaration it was declared that neither the U. S. nor Britain sought "aggrandizement, territorial, or other." In the next and following points the deals expressed included: the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government; a system of world trade working to the benefit of all nations; a desire for "fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field"; "after the final destruction of Nazi tyranny" hope was expressed for a peace in which all nations could exist in safety and "traverse the high seas... without hindrance"; and finally, a plea for the abandonment of the use of force between nations of the world.

This historic document and meeting, when they were announced ended two weeks of rumors about the possibility of the men meeting. No sooner had the President left Washington on what was announced to be a short vacation cruise before the speculation and guessing began to sweep through this country and England. Churchill was said to be absent from London on "pertinent war matters."

For five days no direct word as to the President's whereabouts was available to the U. S. public. Then came word that an "announcement" was to be made.

It was reported that at the meetings there were several conferences high ranking army and naval officials of both countries were present. From the White House came a statement that they had examined "the whole problem of the supply of munitions of war."

DRAMA:

In Washington

It was high drama, that passage of the bill which makes the service of selectees, guardsmen and regulars 18 months more than they signed up for.

The closeness of the vote, 203 to 202, was part of it, but the suddenness with which it came, the bitterness of the press and forensic fight on the measure, gave the battle its punch and severity.

The climax came when the calm voice of Speaker Sam Rayburn announced the totals, a victory for the administration by one vote. This was met by a tumult in galleries and on floor of almost indescribable excitement.

It had been one of those things that no one could have predicted, and in which both sides felt sure of victory until the totals had been announced.

As the count grew late, low and apprehensive whistles were heard from the members of congress as the vote balanced and then unbalanced each other.

The vote found the widest split of delegations in many a year. There were 182 Democrats for the measure and 21 Republicans; 85 Democrats and 133 Republicans against, 14 paired and 14 not voting.

This vote did something that legislation seldom does, in giving each representative a keen realization of the value of his single vote.

COLLABORATION:

Vichy-Nazi Pact

Coming at a moment when the Russo-German war was in its most critical stage, and at a time when the Japanese situation was at a sort of peak crisis, the Vichy-Nazi rapprochement, ending in an upset of the government's policy of limited collaboration, and putting the highly anti-British Darlan practically at the helm of French affairs was a sensation indeed.

It was one of those sensations of the type that "we knew all along was going to happen, but it was still a major shock when it happened."

One was forced to look at the matter both from the British-American viewpoint, however, and from the viewpoint, largely a matter of one's imagination, of Marshal Petain himself.

Preparatory articles had been written by escaped Frenchmen quoting the record of Petain's career to show that he had been both obstinaciously and defeatist in the last war, and not at all the hero that early histories had painted.

His collapse, therefore, was not unexpected in wiser quarters, and yet a double analysis of his reasons was possible, one perhaps more charitable to the old man himself, the other perhaps a more realistic summation of the whole affair.

Petaim, one might say, viewing the impossible situation of France, was making a complete surrender to Germany's demands, hoping for and betting on an eventual German victory, and at the same time expecting that when the debacle and reorganization of Europe might come, France would get some crumbs from the conqueror's table.

History Will Tell

That was the realistic view of the situation, and the one most generally accepted in Britain. More charitable was the thought that Petain, working for France in a country already vanquished, and with Laval and Darlan, both friendly to the Nazis, at his side, had no other course than to surrender and those so viewing his act expressed the hope that Petain was secretly wishing for a complete resistance to German occupation of French colonies and bases by the Wehrmacht forces.

Whichever might turn out to be the factual reason, the eventuality was the same, for few doubted but that the French fleet, barring British preventive measures, perhaps aided by the United States, would be placed at Hitler's disposal for some move in the western Mediterranean.

Perhaps, it was said, full collaboration was a prerequisite to an all-out invasion attempt on the part of Germany, and, if successful, a complete German victory.

That, in sum, was Petain's dream, say the British, when he addressed his people over the radio and said: "Frenchmen, I have grave things to tell you!"

RUSSIA:

Second Phase

The Nazis' big second push on the eastern front was producing results in territory gained, but it still was debatable as to whether Russian resistance was being shattered, or whether the pattern of Chinese resistance to Japan was being repeated in another sector of the war.

Russia admitted gains of considerable importance on the northern and southern fronts, with Germany making the border claims, one asserting that a territory of approximately 35,000 square miles had been snipped off in the Black sea region.

They asserted their panzer divisions had driven down to the Black sea coast past Odessa, trapping within this territory some large numbers of Russian armed forces, which, they asserted would be annihilated in due course of time.

Russian fliers still continued to raid Berlin.

A 'Mixed' Artillery Battery in Britain

The present World War is an experimental ground for many things that "were never done before." Typical of the never-nevers was the fetish that men and women could not work or fight together in the same regiment. At an artillery practice camp in England these taboos are ousted. Left, we see men and women of the battery parading together, and on the right they are receiving gun instruction together. The test is successful.

NEW EFFECTIVE HAY FEVER RELIEF

Hay fever, which annually causes more sneezes, more inflamed noses and more red, streaming eyes than any other scourge, may have its final big fling this September, all because a Pennsylvania electrical engineer was served a dish of corn meal mush which was entirely too salty.

The engineer, sneezing, and with all other hay fever manifestations, stopped at a hotel where he was served a dish of mush which he considered sending back as it was much too salty. Finally he ate it, however, the hay fever attack presently ultimately ceased. Next day he had three meals, all over-salted, and experienced his most comfortable time in years in the "hay fever season."

His analytical mind quickly grasped the possibility that the saline substance in his food was responsible for his relief.

About this time, Dr. E. E. Selleck, a graduate of Columbia University, met the engineer, made notes, and when he returned to his home, began experiments. Today Dr. Selleck declares he has found a certain means of relief for hay fever and is supported in his contention by other medical experts, and a nationally known chemical manufacturing concern, the Hollings-Smith Company, at Orangeburg, New York, has taken over making the remedy, which is called Nakamo Bell.

Describing the experiments, Dr. Selleck said, "After I was sure I had found a means of quickly relieving hay fever through the chloride group, I tested it in the most practical way I knew, I held a three day clinic, to which many hay fever sufferers responded from ages ranging from 10 to 60 years. Each person was given two tablets with a little water. Some took them in all within ten minutes. Reports on these cases during the ensuing weeks showed practically a complete cessation of symptoms." Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes fail in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Ottenheimer's no name for a girl who wants to be an actress and a model—so Miss Ottenheimer became Dana Dale when she acted and modeled in New York. But Dana Dale was no name for a movie actress, especially at Paramount, where Virginia was the reigning Dale. So—Dana Dale became Margaret Hayes, did a Western, then "New York Town"—and jumped into the second feminine lead in "Sullivan's Travels," the new Preston Sturges picture which stars Joel McCrea and Veronica Lake. She changed her personality along with her name.

George J. Schaefer, president of RKO Radio, has announced the result of a poll of theater audiences made by the Audience Research Institute and sponsored by his company. For a year audiences throughout the country were questioned, and it was found that stars who make three pictures a year gain 9 per cent in marquee value; those who make one a year average a 17 per cent loss, two-picture stars lose 11 per cent. It should be a warning to those who limit their screen appearances to avoid paying the higher surtaxes of the upper income brackets.

Pretty Mary Paxton has joined NBC's Tuesday night "Hap Hazard" program, which stars her brand new husband—which brings up the fact that, unlike the stage and screen, radio thrives on husband and wife combinations. The Benny's, Burns and Allen, Fibber McGee and Molly, Sanderson and Crumit, Block and Sully, Mary Paxton Jeannette Nolan and John McIntyre of "Meet Mr. Meek"—radio's roster is full of them.

The U. S. S. North Carolina, newly commissioned 35,000 ton battleship now stationed in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, is the latest navy ship to acquire a Walt Disney drawing as its official emblem. It shows a "Fantasia" pegasus in fighting attire, posed against a bolt of lightning. As one who longed for a drawing of one of those little winged horses, the writer extends congratulations to the officers and crew of the North Carolina.

To make sure that Spencer Tracy's appearance as the villainous "Hyde" of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was a surprise to us all, Tracy worked on a barred sound stage, and no still photographs were made of him in the role. Even scraps of film from the cutting room were destroyed. Lana Turner and Ingrid Bergman share honors with him, Miss Bergman playing "Ivy," the tough little barroom singer.

Paramount is asking 1,000 chambers of commerce if there is in their locality a deep, narrow rugged gorge with a few small pine trees and a vast, rugged territory beyond. Water in the gorge and a bridge over it are desirable, but not necessary. You see, the search is on for a setting for "For Whom the Bell Tolls"—shooting begins in October.

Simone Simone—remember her?—returns to the screen in RKO's recently completed "Here is a Man," after a three-year absence. Her second assignment is the feminine lead in "Call Out the Marines," in which she will appear opposite Tim Holt.

ODDS AND ENDS—Air Marshal Bishop of Canada became a film actor for scenes in Warner Bros. "Captains of the Clouds." Gloria Swanson has really said a come-back—she has a new RKO contract. Metro's next "Our Gang" comedy will show American youngsters how to help in national defense. Mary Martin and Bing Crosby teamed so successfully in "Birth of the Blues" that they'll appear together in her next picture. Dan Ameye obligingly showed Rosalind Russell how to hit him for a scene in "The Female of the Species." Dancing Eleanor Powell's next starring film is "I'll Take Myself."

Canada's Effort in War Explained to U. S. Public

Commissioner McDonald Attempts to Correct 'Inaccurate and Unjust Statements' Regarding Dominion Activities.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.
The breathless calm of a tropical Washington Sunday was disturbed by a unique gathering recently. It took place in the midst of the period of debate in the senate over the extension of military service for the emergency army. But it was a long way off from the Capitol, and the setting was in sharp contrast with the somewhat drab chamber where "the greatest deliberative body in the world" convenes.

We met, a little group of newsmen, in a stately room of marble pilasters and ceiling-high mirrors, at the top of a wide staircase upon which looked down the ermined figures of royalty. Through the doors of the room itself, their majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth, had passed when they graced that famous garden party at the British embassy two years ago.

Some of us sat in the summer-covered furniture, some in gay lawn chairs brought in to take care of the added number of guests. There was ice-water, and cigarettes were offered. A smooth-faced, quick-spoken Briton, his majesty's high commissioner to Canada, Malcolm McDonald, faced us with a few sheets of memoranda before him.

Purpose of Visit.
He had come, he said, to dispel certain "inaccurate and unjust statements" concerning Canada's war efforts. That, I felt, was only a part of his mission. I knew that many of the letters written to American congressmen by their constituents were protesting the extension of the military service period on the grounds that the United States, a nation at peace, was asking more of its citizens than Canada, a nation at war.

The commissioner spoke. The first misconception which he wished to correct, he said, was the frequent statement that there is no conscription in Canada, that her youth serve only a few months with the colors and are then returned to civilian life. This is not the case, he said, for every Canadian between 21 and 24 is subject to conscription for defense and for the duration of the war. After four months of intensive training these men are assigned to military service within Canada, thus relieving units of the regular army, and navy and air force for service abroad.

The conscripts cannot, by law, be sent outside of Canada, MacDonald explained, but so many have volunteered for foreign service that conscription for this purpose is unnecessary. Canada has more men under arms today than she had at any time during the last war. Forty per cent of Canada's national income is devoted to her war effort. That amount would be equivalent, MacDonald said, to $40,000,000,000 reckoned in terms of United States income. For the supplies she sends to Britain, Canada is not paid. The commissioner offered other detailed information, some of which was confidential.

Tremendous Effort.
Canada has not been drawn willingly into this war. It is true, as the British high commissioner said, that her present effort, in proportion to her population and wealth, is tremendous. But it was not until last May that by orders in council, military service for the duration of the war was established. At first only 30 days of intensive training was required. But now, indefinite service is retroactive and all those boys who did their 30 days and were discharged are called back to the colors.

I could not help thinking of a line from Kipling as I sat there in the transplanted Queen Anne palace which is the British embassy and heard that very earnest Scotsman pleading the cause of Canada: The verse I thought of is from "Our Lady of the Snows" and Canada speaks: "Daughter am I in my mother's house but mistress in my own," she says.

The British commissioner was not asking that the United States do for England what Canada is doing for her. But I could well imagine that he was talking over our heads to the men who would be in heated debate in the senate chamber the next day, deciding what the military duties of a citizen of the United States are to be.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Laying Linoleum

QUESTION: I have rolls of linoleum one yard wide. Please advise on laying it in the following places: A shack with wood plank floors in poor condition, 18 inches above the ground; the wood floor of the main house, in good condition; the dirt floor in a damp cellar that I intend to concrete over cinders and drain tile. Should I use tar paper or felt paper? Should the paper and the linoleum be stuck down with linoleum cement?
ANSWER: In the first place, linoleum should be laid over a smooth surface, for roughness underneath would quickly wear it through. Also, it must be protected against dampness from underneath, for this would cause rotting. For this reason you should not use it either in the shack or on the concrete floor of the cellar, unless in the latter case you first put down a layer of waterproofing. In the main house the linoleum should be laid over felt, stuck to the floor and with the linoleum stuck to the felt. This part of the job requires experience, and the proper tools; you should have it done by a professional linoleum layer.

Cement Floor Coverings

Question: We are going to move into an apartment which has cement floors all through. It is right on the edge of a lake. What would be best to use under carpets and linoleum?
Answer: If the cement floors are laid directly on the earth, there is moisture in them, and any kind of floor covering except asphalt tiles will rot. If there is an air space under the cement, so that it is really dry, you can use any kind of padding under the carpets. The linoleum can be cemented down over felt in the usual way. To test the dryness of the floor, lay down a piece of linoleum, cardboard, or something similar to prevent evaporation, and leave it for several days. If on picking it up the cement underneath is found to be damp, you cannot use any kind of a floor covering that will rot, unless you first put down a layer of waterproofing.

Wall and Floor Cleaners

Question: What do you recommend for cleaning painted plaster kitchen walls, painted and varnished woodwork, waxed hardwood floor?
Answer: For cleaning all kinds of painted surfaces, you can use a general cleaning powder that you can get at a paint store; it is used by professionals, and gives excellent results. A waxed hardwood floor can be cleaned with a dry string mop or a hair push broom; water should not be used on it, nor should an oiled mop be used. Soiled places can be cleaned with a cloth damp with water, followed by wiping dry, or with liquid floor wax; not water wax. The floor should be polished once or twice a week and re-waxed with paste floor wax when wear begins to show at doorways and elsewhere.

Clear Waterproofing

Question: Is it possible to get a transparent waterproofing for brick that will last indefinitely? I am told that there is such a substance.
Answer: There are many waterproof coatings on the market whose makers claim their product will last forever, but I have yet to find a well-known reliable manufacturer who will make these claims. The durability of transparent waterproofing cannot be definitely predicted. A masonry wall that is very sandy or porous may need a re-coating in three years. In other cases the waterproofing will last for many years.

Cement Floor Paint

Question: What kind of paint can we use on the floor of our cellar to make the floor smooth for dancing?
Answer: Any large paint store should be able to get you a kind of floor paint that is based on rubber and that is not affected by the lime in the cement. These paints are comparatively new and are made by specialist manufacturers; smaller dealers may not know of them, but they are on the market and are available.

Cigarette Burns

Question: How can I get a cigarette burn out of the top of a soft wood table?
Answer: Scrape it out with a razor blade. This will leave a slight depression, which will hardly be noticed when the table top is refinished. It will be less noticeable than the burn.

Clogged Vent Pipe

Question: What can I use to clear a vent pipe leading from kitchen plumbing, which apparently is clogged with rust and grease?
Answer: A new pipe is advisable.

Life for Elevator Boy Has Its Ups and Downs

He was an elevator boy in days of the big department stores, and he hated to be asked needless questions.

"On this particular day a fussy old lady entered his lift. After riding up several floors, she opened a conversation.

"Don't you ever feel sick, going up and down in this lift all day?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," said the boy.

"Is it the motion going up?"

"No, ma'am."

"Is it the motion going down?"

"No, ma'am."

"Is it the stopping that does it?"

"No, ma'am."

"Then what is it?"

"Answering questions, ma'am."

PENINSULA

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

About 20 young folks of the Star Community gathered at Dewey Deils Wednesday evening for a good bye party for Charles Clark who has spent some weeks with the John P. Seiler family near East Jordan and has very kindly helped with the Star Sunday school. The young people wish to thank Mr. C. H. Dewey for his kind assistance in helping to make the evening one long to be remembered. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Clara Kitaman and Mrs. John P. Seiler of East Jordan. Mr. Cihak bid the Star Sunday school goodbye August 17 and plans to start for his home Macon, Ga., Monday. He hopes to return next year.

Don't forget the social evening to be spent at the Star Community Building Saturday evening August 23.

Mrs. Fred Wurn is still confined to her bed with the injured foot and leg sustained two weeks ago by the tractor running over it. Her daughter Mrs. Elwood Cyr of Boyne City is assisting with the work and canning for her mother.

Mr. C. A. Crane and Mr. Wm. Little and Mrs. Stocker of Detroit came Saturday to Cedar Lodge to visit Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Little. Mrs. Crane returned to Detroit Sunday but Mr. Little and Mrs. Stocker remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Howe of Overlook farm spent Saturday in Charlevoix.

The Pine Lake telephone lines were gotten in repair again Wednesday after more than a week the poles at the intersection of Ridgeway and the Lake Shore road had to be moved when the road was widened out and the task of setting telephone poles in a shale bed is no holiday amusement. It was accomplished by different members of the crew helping.

The third annual Cemetery meeting which was called by Supervisor Wm. Sanderson for the second Wednesday in August brought out only 6 voters but those present decided to go ahead and do something. Marvin Russell of Boyne has been working in his spare time for a long time and has pulled up all the young cherry and poplar trees out and mowed the brakes and has the plating a lot better. The Supervisor and others present planned a small stone building and stone steps from the lake side the work of hauling the stone is to start this week. Cash Hayden of Orchard promised to get the stone on the ground soon. No more beautiful place could be found anywhere with the hills on all sides but the front with beautiful Lake Charlevoix there. An appropriate name is also to be decided.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gaunt of Flint and daughter Freda brought a friend up Saturday to attend a funeral in East Jordan and spend Saturday night at his old home with his brother Will and family, his parents Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt being away on a vacation, they plan to return Monday.

Miss Viola Robinson of Bay View had lunch Sunday evening with the Will Gaunt family in Three Bells Dist. While returning from town Saturday afternoon with quite a heavy load of feed on the back of the family car Mrs. Charles Arnott of Maple Row farm broke the axle on Tibbits Hill and had to call her mother, Mrs. Ray Loomis of Gravel Hill North Side to come and get her. In the evening

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Platte of Lansing who have been coming to Whiting Park for some time returned to their home Wednesday.

Bob Jarman of Gravel Hill South Side took the boys 4-H Calf Club to Charlevoix Wednesday where they took a boat and spent the day at Beaver Island. Thursday evening the 4-H Club held their regular meeting with the Orval Bennett family. Mr. Melencamp was with them. They spent a very pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nieloy, of Sunny Slopes Farm received word their son Curtis who was at Roger Field in Oklahoma had been very ill with pneumonia but was better again.

Joe Leu thrashed grain on the Peninsula Wednesday the yield is very light.

Mr. and Mrs. Derby A. Hayden of Bob White farm called on his brother F. K. Hayden and family at Pleasant View farm Sunday afternoon.

Mr. H. Gould of Mountain Dist. and Perry Looze and Don Tibbits of Cherry Hill motored to Evert Sunday and brought back a pure bred short horn bull calf to put with Mr. Gould's dairy herd.

Floyd Jones who has been staying at Stoney Ridge farm for some time and was called back to work a week ago by mistake was called to go back to work and left Sunday a. m. he hopes there is no mix up this time.

Eddie Jones who has been spending his lay off with the Zola Mathews family in Jones Dist. spent Saturday night with the George Staley family at Stoney Ridge farm and returned to Detroit to work with his brother Lloyd Jones Sunday.

Mr. George Staley and son Buddy and daughter Vera of Stoney Ridge farm and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Tibbits Sr., and Ervin Tibbits Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tibbits and a sister of Mrs. Ervin Tibbits Sr., of Traverse City had a picnic dinner at Whiting Park Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Bennett and younger children were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Jessie Papinaw in Boyne City.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reich who came up from Detroit Thursday expecting a two weeks lay off was called back Friday to go back to work and Mr. Reich went back Sunday taking Don Hayden who has been at Orchard Hill since July 3. Mrs. Reich will remain until Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Bennett lost a valuable cow Saturday it had been sick several days apparently from eating poisoned mud. The Chemical Truck from Gaylord removed the carcass.

THE ENLARGED Michigan Bell Central Office building at Flint on May 14, ten weeks after the roof was taken off the original structure.

FLINT—Fastest growing Telephone City of its size in America

★ Among the industrial centers working night and day in the national emergency, none is busier than Flint.

★ A year ago there were 31,500 telephones in Flint. Now there are 38,500 — an increase of over 22 per cent. And telephone growth is still climbing faster than in any other American city of comparable size.

★ As a part of the soundly financed Bell System, the Michigan Bell is enabled to obtain capital funds with which to meet that growth. The Company will spend more than $1,000,000 in Flint this year for new equipment, cable lines, and in addition to the Central Office building.

But Flint is only one of many places in Michigan where such situations must be met. $11,000,000 is programmed to serve camps, arsenals, factories, and others engaged directly in defense work. And the Company's total 1941 plant construction program exceeds $26,000,000.

The telephone has a little part in almost every National Defense effort. And a little part in every effort adds up to pretty big figures.

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN—The Story So Far

Laura Maguire, wife of Mike Maguire, happy-go-lucky editor and mayor of Covington, is mother to four children, not too well treated by the depression. Tom, whose real estate job in the big city he came profitless and who proposed moving to Covington rather than depend on the earnings of Mary Etta, his wife, secretary to a big shot, Alec, who, unable to get a job, runs around with a

Nevertheless Kathleen had felt in a way revenged. And then Ruth had spoiled everything. She was one of those saccharine persons whose mission in life is to shed sweetness. She cooed like a mourning dove at every opportunity and was quite pretty in a soft, fluttery, ash-blond way. Her elders said she had a beautiful nature. But she was apt to enjoy it taken in steady doses. For that reason Ruth was always avidly interested in the appearance of a new man in town. And somewhere she heard about Ritchie Graham. She promptly telephoned Kathleen and insisted that he be added to the party.

All things considered Kathleen arrived home practically ready to throw things. Laura was lying down with a touch of headache or so she had given out. But when Kathleen heard about Tom she surmised that her mother had gone to bed of a heavy heart. Privately Kathleen thought her brother was well rid of an unpleasant incubus.

To Kathleen's surprise Shirley was also going to the swimming party. They didn't usually run in the same crowd except at very large affairs to which the whole town was invited. But Shirley gave the show away when Kathleen in all innocence asked if they couldn't all four go together. Away from Ritchie, Kathleen was not at all anxious to be alone with Gene Mays.

"Sorry," said Shirley evenly, "but Connie Mays asked us to ride over with her and Lance Ferguson."

"I see," said Kathleen, staring fixedly at the red leather belt she was fastening about her.

She did see—a lot. Of course Connie had engineered the whole thing. She had probably refused to go at all unless Laird was invited. And Ruth was one of Connie's yes-men. But to get Laird, Shirley had to be included. Only Connie, with her usual brazen disregard for other people's rights, had arranged that too to her own taste. Ostensibly Lance, a weak little baa-baa sheep, was Connie's date. Actually he was being taken along for the ride, as Kathleen knew. And of course so did Shirley, even if she did not breathe out fire and brimstone as Kathleen would have done.

In the end they went off with their respective swains, Shirley first. Both Kathleen and Laura noticed that Connie had waited till the last to collect the second girl. And when her smart car disappeared, she was driving as she usually did with one hand, while she faced the back seat and carried on an animated and gesticulative conversation with a rather silent Laird and a totally silent Shirley.

Hot Shot Mays drove up almost before his sister's dust had settled. He was in a terrific hurry to be on his way. He did not bother to exercise his famous charm on Laura. It was not necessary with most mothers. As a rule they were overwhelmed on his side. Laura knew he would always be like that. Unnecessarily brusque unless forced to be otherwise. But Kathleen for once missed the little telltale pucker between Laura's eyes. Kathleen had worries of her own.

Gene Mays was a bit overpowering. There was no getting around that. He had a smooth way about him when he strove to please. And he had every intention of pleasing Kathleen. She baffled him a little. Other girls struggled to impress him in a big way. Kathleen reversed the process. It was a new experience for Hot Shot Mays to sit in the uncertain seat. Kathleen even laughed when he ladled out what he called "heavy sugar."

"Maybe I'm boring you," he said at the end of twenty miles, when he seemed to have got no farther fast with his campaign.

"Maybe," agreed Kathleen and smiled.

By the time they reached their destination Gene Mays felt a little like a dirigible in a high wind, and Kathleen's equanimity was somewhat restored. She might not have made any dent on Ritchie Graham's consciousness, but she had Hot Shot Mays doing acrobatics against his will. He was a big bluff as a menace to female hearts, or so it seemed to Kathleen. She had him pawing the air and she could grin at his best efforts. She felt perfectly the mistress of the situation and decidedly cocky and pleased with herself.

CHAPTER XVI

The new Porterville Swimming Pool was ideally situated on the edge of town in a ravine between two fern-clad hills. There were sixty acres of wooded grounds, a huge outdoor lake fed by springs, a number of rustic dressing huts and the usual diving boards, floats and soft drink stands. But the big dining room, like the dancing pavilion, was more impressive than effective. The food tasted as the mechanical orchestration sounded, a bit tinny.

flashy divorcee older than he and on a bet dates up Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter. Shirley, engaged to Laird Newsum, also out of work since his father closed up the factory to stop losses and whose marriage is thus delayed; Kathleen, in whom a stranger, Ritchie Graham, also a newspaperman, is interested. Ma Newsum wants Laird to marry Connie Mays, the banker's

"Anyway," as Ruth brightly explained while Ritchie was helping her unload hampers and thermos jugs, "it's so primitive to eat out under the trees, don't you think?"

"Absolutely," he agreed.

Kathleen darted him a glance. Ruthie was going strong in her own sweet way. But Ritchie appeared to like his flattery rank. If he was even aware that she was hanging around the outskirts, he concealed it. Shirley was helping Ruth collect the various eatables in a shellacked spot. But Connie Mays never put herself to such inconveniences.

"I'll bet you a kiss, Laird, that I beat you into the water," she challenged.

"Say," growled Hot Shot Mays, "did we come out here to swim or what? I'm hot as two firecrackers."

"Come on, Hot Shot," cried Kathleen crossly, slinging her bathing suit over her shoulder, "how's for getting dressed? And don't be all day about it, Tarzan."

When she emerged in her brief one-piece white suit, a scarlet bandana about her head, Hot Shot was waiting for her at the diving platform, but Laird and Connie were already in the water.

"You sort of make a feller pin his ears back in that outfit," said Hot Shot Mays as his hard blue eyes traveled over Kathleen's lithe young body with the straight sun-burned legs and small pointed breasts.

"Listen, Baby, if I was staging beauty contests you could be Miss Universe."

"But you aren't," Kathleen made a beautiful dip-flop in the air for a perfect landing.

He dived after her, hitting the water a split second later. But he failed to overtake her before she crawled up on the raft between Laird and Connie. The latter looked distinctly annoyed at the intrusion, which did not afflict Kathleen. She even enjoyed it and thought she might stay where she was till Shirley joined them. But Gene Mays had other ideas. He dragged Kathleen off her perch although she fought him like a tigress and sent her to the bottom, clawing and scratching. He howled with mirth when she came up choked and breathless. He managed to pinch her thigh, for which she boxed his ears. But there was no peace from him except to keep swimming just out of his reach. And that was a little wearying.

"The big stiff," she thought angrily, aware of a catch in her side as she dodged one of his sidewise.

Jaird swam in to shore to meet Shirley while Connie glowered. It looked as if Ruth was going to get into the water at last. Ritchie was already in his suit and lounging on the end of the pier waiting for her, a cigarette in his mouth. Kathleen paused long enough in her hectic flight from Gene Mays' cavernous tactics to observe that Ritchie looked provokingly handsome in his black jersey. She felt she could bear him better if just once he showed to a disadvantage. Hot Shot Mays seized upon her momentary preoccupation with another man to push her head under water until her lungs caught fire. The catch in her side was more pronounced when she again took to flight.

She began to feel a little like a heavy bellows. She tried to edge up to the raft, but Gene yanked her off. She made for the ladder which led up to the diving platform. Only she was there first, daring her to set foot on a rung. She was beginning to wish that he'd go off somewhere and die for a week or two. Her pointed face took on a slightly haggard look. She did not beg for quarter. Somehow one didn't with Gene Mays. But there was still that catch in her side, only more of it.

A little grimly Kathleen made for the big buoy at the upper end of the lake. It was quite a distance, but ordinarily no swim for her. Nevertheless, strangely it seemed to come no nearer however many strokes she took, and her limbs felt weighted. Lethargy attacked her arms. She glanced over her shoulder. She was quite far away from everybody. Even Gene had paused to fish a pair of water wings from a small girl who was doing her utmost to hang onto them. Kathleen measured the distance between going back and struggling on, and decided the buoy was nearer. Even then it did not occur to her she might not make it.

Again she risked a glance over her shoulder. Hope clanged a brazen bell in her heart. Gene had draped the water wings about his neck and was again swimming after her. Kathleen sobbed once. She knew by the exquisiteness of her relief how nearly she had lost her nerve. She had only to stay afloat till Gene reached her. She turned over on her back. But the cramp in her side doubled her up. She went under, gasped and almost lacked the energy to come up.

"You would run off and make me wear myself out chasing you!" shouted Gene.

He was only a few feet away, flailing water like a porpoise, and laughing uproariously. If he ducked her again—Kathleen was suddenly frantic. She tried to call out, to tell him she was exhausted. But the muscles in her throat locked with panic and fatigue.

"All that goes down is bound to come up!" bawled Gene and made a dive for her feet.

He meant to drag her under. With a terrible bitterness Kathleen realized that he would probably repeat the process with appropriate brays of laughter until finally she did not come up at all. And then he would feel dreadful of course. But she wouldn't be there to witness his remorse. She tried again to call out, failed, and saw Gene gathering his huge muscles for the lunge.

"You damned fool, can't you see she's in trouble?" cried a sharp voice.

But Gene didn't see. He leaped. Only a fist caught him on the jaw and dropped him back in his tracks.

"Put your hand on my shoulder," Ritchie Graham commanded Kathleen.

But she was past doing even that. White as death, she slid down into the water. Down. Down. Down. She thought listlessly that it was perilously easy to die. Only Ritchie's hand closed on her shoulder. He had dived after her. They rose to the surface. Keeping one arm about her waist he towed her to the buoy, picked her up in his long strong arms and laid out her full length on her face like a wet paper doll.

After a while Kathleen's shuddering breaths subsided to something approaching normal. She sat up dizzily. "Thanks," she said in an unsteady voice.

"Don't mention it."

He did not look at her. Apparently he was a little bored at having dragged her from a watery grave. Or did he realize that it had been as bad as that?

She flushed, and sudden tears burned her eyes. "Maybe you'd better throw me back in if that's the way you feel about it," she said bitterly.

He turned with one of those quick movements that always surprised her. He was very white. And his gray eyes blazed at her. "I don't trifle, Kathleen," he said in a rough uneven voice. "I told you once before I'm no ladies' man. I wouldn't flirt with you or anyone else."

"I don't know what you mean."

"You know exactly what I mean. Ever since the first time I saw you, your eyes have dared me to do this—and this—and this."

His arms were about her. Gripping her in a fierce embrace that hurt. His lips hurt too. Because his kisses were more antagonistic than tender. And they pushed Kathleen across the border of everything she had ever known into a region of strange pain and a heart-breaking ecstasy.

"I hate you!" she blazed.

"Do you?"

"Yes!"

He made her a little mocking bow. "Probably we were meant to hate each other like hell or else—" his voice shook—"to love each other that way."

"I don't love you," she cried.

But Ritchie had slid off the float and was swimming to shore.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A SYSTEM THAT CAN PROVIDE GREATER JOY OF LIVING

WHAT CHANGES BUT a few short years have wrought in our American methods of work and play and living.

A trip by auto from Chicago to Sturgeon Bay, Door county, Wisconsin, and return, demonstrated many of these changes, most of them as a result of the invention of the internal combustion engine.

Horses have disappeared from the countryside. Over a period of 10 days I saw but two on the road, and not more than a dozen in the barnyards and pastures. Horses have been replaced by the automobile and tractor as a means of transportation for the farm family and power for the cultivation and harvesting of farm crops.

My little trip was made during the height of the grain harvesting season but I saw only one threshing machine. They have been replaced by the tractor-drawn combine. The great stacks of straw that were formerly a part of each farm picture, marking the scene of threshing operations, are no more. The combine leaves it scattered over the field, to be plowed under and to help to some extent to enrich the soil for the production of another crop. A tractor, not the faithful old Dobbin of former years, supplied the motive power.

Automobiles, busses and trucks have replaced the lowly local passenger trains and way-freights of former years. Many of the towns through which I traveled were lake ports to which lake boats for the transportation of freight and passengers are no longer daily, semi-weekly or weekly visitors. All that is left of water transportation are the great ore, coal and grain carriers, the only evidence of which is a smoke line far out on the horizon.

The feed stores, livery stables and blacksmith shops have given place to the garage and gas station. The old ice-house of the country home, which I was a visitor had given place to the electric refrigerator. "The work of the farm and home was done by electric or motor-driven power. You but pushed a button for lights, instead of the filling and cleaning of lamps of yesterday."

A visit to the market place is no longer a matter of a day's travel over rough dirt roads in a horse-drawn wagon, but is now made in a few minutes over concrete as smooth as a floor, with a few cents worth of gasoline in an automobile engine to supply the motive power.

America, city, town and farm, is on gas-driven wheels and the change has come about in an incredibly short period of time. The first automobile I ever saw was a crude machine, capable of some 12 miles an hour, when it would operate at all, displayed at the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. The first one I ever rode in was a single cylinder "gas-buggy," with carriage wheels, a dashboard instead of a windshield, coal oil lamps, a crank, with which to start it if you could, and that was less than 40 years ago.

These represent but a small part of the progress America has made since the opening of the present century. They represent the rapid upward trend of the American standard of living made possible by the American system of free competition. It is a system that creates more opportunities for enjoyment of living, less work and decreasing hours of work, at higher wage standards, more jobs and an ever-decreasing cost of the pleasures and conveniences we enjoy. It is a system we cannot afford to sacrifice.

THE TAX COLLECTOR GETS YOU ALL RIGHT

YOU MAY NOT SEE the tax collector with a bill in his hand at the front door, but you may be sure he will sneak around the back and come in with the groceries.

He collects from every dollar you spend. He is represented in 53 different ways to a total of one cent on each loaf of bread you buy.

From each dollar you spend, he collects a fraction over 19 cents. These are the "hidden" taxes our representatives in congress hope we will not know about or object to. With them is not included any item for which the tax collector directly presents you a bill. They do not cover the taxes you pay on your home, your farm, your personal property, the license for your automobile or your income taxes.

It does mean that for every hundred dollars you spent during 1940, you paid the tax collector more than $19.

You will pay much more of the same kind of taxes for many years of the future.

Your family owes a mortgage, its portion of the national debt, of more than $2,000, on which you must pay interest, and in addition, your share of the cost of operation of the local, state and national government.

JOBS

AN EVIDENCE of returning prosperity is the increasing number of graduating college students who are now going into jobs, instead of into the bread lines.

Household Hints

Keep all cleaning rags that have been treated with oil in a covered container before putting away in closets. If this is done, fires may be avoided.

To eliminate the mutton flavor from lamb, cook it with raisins.

It is a good idea to have the kitchen table on rollers so you can move it wherever you want or need it.

If metal tops come off of shoe strings dip them in mucilage. This will stiffen the ends and make it easy to put them through eyelets.

If there is a constant smell of burning when cooking is going on examine gas burners. They are probably filled with sediment from "boilovers."

If stove polish is moistened with vinegar instead of water the stove will have a brighter polish.

HERE'S TO SHORTCAKE TIME WITH CHERRIES BRIGHT (See Recipes Below)

SUMMERY DESSERTS

Bring the tartness and sweetness of fruit into play with fresh, crumbly cake, top with a dash of whipped cream and you have summer's answer to a delectable dessert.

Garden-fresh berries peeking out from under their green foliage or fruit hanging heavy and ripe on richly laden branches deserve your best attention for they'll do mighty nice things by your meals. Since most of the fruits need no cooking you are doubly sure of getting the full quota of minerals and vitamins which they have to give.

Cherries bright and red make a tart and colorful dessert which you'll enjoy serving. If using the fresh ones pit and sugar them before using.

When I asked my mother how she made her extra delicious shortcakes, she replied, "There's nothing to it, my dear; just biscuit dough—but make the dough short and the fruit sweet!" This tip is a good one. I hope you'll follow it when trying:

Old-Fashioned Shortcake.
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening (8 tablespoons)
1/2 cup milk

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift again. Work in shortening until mass resembles coarse meal. (If you want to, add a tablespoon of sugar and an egg and count the egg as part of your liquid.) Now, add enough milk to make a soft dough, one which you can barely handle. Turn onto lightly floured board, knead a few seconds, divide in half. Pat one half about one-fourth inch thick into deep buttered 9-inch cake pan. Butter top and pat second portion of dough in layer over first. Brush on softened butter and bake about 20 minutes in hot oven (450 degrees F.). When baked, pull layers apart, spread sugared fruit on bottom layer, stack second one, crust-side down, on this, cover with more fruit, then with whipped cream and a garnish of fruit.

Variations from the original type of shortcake which we all know so well are much in order. Some people prefer a sponge cake base rather than a biscuit dough and for a real individual treatment of this type, you might like to try one with a custard filling for cool deliciousness. Since it is a trifle more elaborate than shortcake, this Cherry Sponge Custard Shortcake is ideal as a dessert for company. You'll need this sponge cake as a base:

Hot Water Sponge Cake.
4 egg yolks
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup boiling water
1/4 cups cake flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract
4 stiffly beaten egg whites

Beat egg yolks until very thick; gradually add sugar and continue beating. Add water, mix well, add flour sifted with baking powder. Mix until smooth, add flavoring. Fold in egg whites. Bake in ungreased pan.

LYNN SAYS:

Though dessert problems are easily solved by berries, be sure that they get the greatest care before reaching the table. Berries should appear clean and fresh, be full and plump and have a bright solid color. When they are over-ripe they look dull and often stain the container.

Don't wash berries until ready to use them since damp berries mold very quickly. The best method for washing is doing a few at a time in a bowl, lifting them out into another bowl while the hands are used as a sieve. When the berries are clean let them drain in a strainer or colander.

Cream Custard Filling.
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 cups milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine dry ingredients with slightly beaten egg yolks; stir in enough hot milk to make a thin paste. Then add paste to remaining milk and cook over boiling water 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Cook 10 minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla.

If you top with fresh cherries be sure they're sweet enough. Then garnish with whipped cream. Frozen berries need only be thawed and more sugar added if required.

If you want to make a sponge cake base and use just berries, then plan a lovely surprise so no one will even suspect they're getting a berry dessert.

Make a sponge cake using a regular 9 or 10 inch cake pan. When the cake is still warm cut a round circle in the middle of the cake about an inch from the edge. Lift this out carefully keeping it whole. Into the hollow put in sugared berries or peaches or bananas mixed with sweetened whipped cream. Replace the cake top, wrap carefully in a slightly damp towel and chill for 3 to 4 hours. Garnish before serving with whipped cream or sprinkle with powdered sugar. They'll come back often for this one.

For luscious, shortcake puddings, there's nothing like a juicy gobbler. Here's a recipe made for large quantity, excellent if you're planning a church supper.

Cobbler.
(Cherry, Blueberry or Peach)
5 quarts fruit
2 quarts juice
Biscuit dough
5 cups sugar with cherries or berries
2 1/2 cups sugar with peaches
Pour fruit and juice into square cake pans. Add sugar and mix lightly. Cover with biscuit dough (approximately 1/4-inch thick), made in proportions of 1 1/2 quarts flour, 2 1/4 cups milk, 1 tablespoon salt, 4 tablespoons baking powder and 1/2 cup shortening. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., from 30 to 40 minutes. Serve hot with cream.

A light, easy-to-make dessert is the best one with which to bring a hearty supper to a close. With raspberries at their brightest and juiciest, this combination with a graham cracker crust and frothy meringue will really be hard to resist.

Red Raspberry Fluffs.
(Serves 6-8)
Mix and press in a square pan: 1 1/2 cups rolled graham crackers, 1/4 cup melted butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, and a dash of cinnamon. Cover that with a meringue made of 4 egg whites stiffly beaten and 1/2 cup of sugar folded in the whites carefully.

Bake this in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 20 minutes. Cool. Spread with 2 cups of sweetened red raspberries and whipped cream.

Asparagus With Browned Butter and Crumb Sauce.

Asparagus, tender and green, should be cooked gently so as not to lose its color. It cooks quicker when stalks are tied in bunches. Stand them up in boiling water in a deep narrow pan. The steam will cook the tips while the water bubbles around the stalks.

Instead of serving plain butter, try browning it for a change, seasoning it and then adding a teaspoonful of fine bread crumbs. Have this piping hot and pour it over the asparagus just before serving.

THE WRITER OF HEBREWS EXPLAINS THE NEW COVENANT

LESSON TEXT—Hebrews 9:11-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him.—Hebrews 5:9.

The infinite superiority of the Lord Jesus Christ, in both person and work, is a theme which the writer of Hebrews presented to encourage Hebrew Christians who were suffering much for their faith (Heb. 10:32) and were being tempted to turn back to Judaism (Heb. 2:1; 3:12). His purpose was not only to stem the tide of unbelief and discouragement, but to urge them to go on to better things (6:1-3) because of the better covenant under which they had come as believers in Christ.

The portion of the chapter before us deals with the heart of the matter in presenting the sacrifice of Christ as being superior to all the sacrifices of the Old Testament. The verses are somewhat difficult to outline, but the following, adapted in a measure from Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas, will be helpful.

I. The Ministry of Christ—a Better Ministry (vv. 11-14).

Every act of worship calls for a sanctuary and a worshiper. Under the old covenant the Jews were familiar with the tabernacle into which their priests went daily, and the holy of holies into which the high priest went once a year with the blood of goats and bulls; but now under the new covenant they had

1. A Better Priest and Sanctuary (v. 11).

No longer do we need the mediating priesthood of a fellow man set apart for that office, for Christ Himself has become a High Priest and is the "one mediator between God and men" (1 Tim. 2:5), yet He is not one "who cannot be touched with the feelings of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15).

2. A Better Sacrifice and Blessing (v. 12).

The blood of Christ, the perfect and final sacrifice for sin, resulted in a once-for-all solution of the sin problem and provided the blessing of eternal redemption.

3. A Better Result (vv. 13, 14).

The sacrifices of the Mosaic ritual had an outward result. They "removed ceremonial disabilities, they restored the unclean to fellowship, they kept the chosen people in covenant relation with God." They "did sanctify and cleanse the flesh; how much more the blood of Christ" (Moorehead). His sacrifice gave spiritual cleansing—the cleansing of the "conscience from dead works to serve the living God" (v. 14).

II. The Ministry of Christ—an Efficacious Ministry (vv. 15-22).

This ministry of our High Priest, Christ, is well characterized by the word "efficacious," which means "having the effective energy to produce an effect." He came into the world "to save sinners" (1 Tim. 1:15), and He did it. We note

1. The Power of the New Ministry (v. 15).

The surrender of Christ even unto death gives validity and efficacy to the new covenant. "All the transgressions of the old covenant had been treasured up; the death of Christ gave satisfaction to all that that covenant could claim, and brought release. So the Mediator of the new covenant begins an entirely new economy, with sin put away by the sacrifice of Himself, and an open path to the beginning of a new life in the favor and power of God" (Andrew Murray).

2. The Guarantee of the New Ministry (vv. 16, 17).

Speaking of our redemption as an eternal inheritance (v. 15) naturally leads to the thought that a testament or will does not become effective until the death of the testator. God has "blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ; according as he hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world" (Eph. 1:3, 4). He has bequeathed all that to us, and the bequest is made certain by His death. That means that not only our salvation, but "everything we have had, even our temporal mercies, are a part of those purchased and bequeathed blessings; everything is sanctified by the precious death of our Lord Jesus Christ."

3. The Confirmation of the New Ministry (vv. 18-22).

The shedding of blood on Calvary's tree for the remission of sin was not a new or strange thing. The proof for that is given by referring to all of the old covenant procedure for the cleansing of the sinner. How was it brought about? Through blood. In the Old Testament covenant it was the blood of goats and bulls, not sufficient to perfectly cleanse the spirit of man nor give him once-for-all remission, but nonetheless a type of the better sacrifice of the Lamb of God.

Then "let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering (for he is faithful that promised)." (Heb. 10:23).

Fall Social Calendar Demands Smart Clothes for the Matron

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE time is not too far away now when you daughters of the household will engage in the exciting experience of getting off to school in the fall, with a wardrobe tuned to your exact needs and whims. Only please remember you are not the only heroines holding the spotlight in fashion realms. You have rivals, yes indeed.

We are not telling who but here is a tip. Keep an eye on modern mothers, matrons and women in general, who are so importantly carrying on in club work and in social activities that tend to "keep the home fires burning" while college-faring daughters are away from home.

Fashion is catering to the costume needs of women with whom "life begins at forty." With unbounded zest and enthusiasm inspired by an ever-increasing appreciation of the tremendous influence smart clothes have, they are achieving new chic and poise. It's no secret or myth or fairy tale that women who "go places" and "do things" in this busy world of ours have gone utterly modern in matter of dressing glamorously. So look to your laurels Miss Teen-age, Miss Debutante and Miss College girl, you will have to step lively to keep up with queen-mother's fashion pace!

One of the fashion gestures that will serve mothers and matrons well who happen to be limited to a restricted budget, is to select a simple basic dress, smart in lines, made of good material and styled with the thought of complementing this one gown with flattering interchangeable accessories. These have a magic way of glorifying their appearance. Chic jewelry, feminizing and lovely lingerie neckwear touches, can do wonders in transforming the entire aspect of your costume. And don't forget flowers! Be sure to wear flowers for that refreshing accent of youthful charm that is always so endearing.

To the right in the illustration "somebody's mother" presents a lovely "picture" as she graciously presides at the initial autumn meeting of her favorite club. She is clad in the simplest sort of a gown made of fine sheer black velvet to which frilly white lingerie accent lends endless charm. In the lovely quaint Victorian bouquet of carnations, violets and stephanotis which she carries so caressingly in her lovely hands, one immediately senses the gallantry of friend husband or a devoted son who, perhaps being out of town, wired to the nearest florist for the prettiest bouquet fancy might picture. Just as an afterthought this dainty bouquet may be a tribute of admiration to their leader from various club members.

The lady seated goes in for ultra modern fashion as you can readily see in her swank gown of hand-some black wool ribbed crepe. This together with her chic English sailor so pliantly veiled, goes to show how very smartly one can dress in all-black. Notice the low-cut V-neckline, a styling detail that was popular this summer and will continue good form right through the fall. The patriotic corsage she is wearing is of blue cornflowers, fragrant red roses and white carnation petals.

Glittering satin is scheduled for a big play this fall. A satin dress is a good "buy" for it not only gives marvelous wear, but it has that air of dressiness that tunes in with social environs. The lady in the top oval has on a satin frock which is intriguingly shirred about bodice and sleeves. She wears a tiara of salmon pink gladioli. Evidently the lady in the oval below to the right has a yen for pastel colorings. Her eyelet-embroidered dress in soft blue crepe is really lovely. She adds to the glamour by dramatizing her well-groomed hair with a cluster of rosebuds and hyacinths.

MERCHANTS

Your Advertising Dollar buys something more than space and circulation in the columns of this newspaper. It buys space and circulation plus the favorable consideration of our readers for this newspaper and its advertising patrons.

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT IT

Jeweled Bow Knots

There is going to be a big play made on unique buttons and jewel fastenings of every description this fall and winter. Note the tailored jacket of chalk white crepe shown here. Its sleeves, yoke and front panel are cut in one, a characteristic feature of the newer fashions. The five crystal and enamel bow-knot fastenings herald intriguing gadgets to be used like buttons.

Rich Browns for New Autumn Wear

There is considerable emphasis on handsome browns for fall. The dresses in initial showings are mostly of rayon crepes and jerseys. These are simply styled so far as "lines" are concerned but have interesting surface treatment in stitching, self-fabric appliques and quilted decoration.

The dressier afternoon models often combine fabric with lace dyed to match or with velvet or satin.

In keeping with the trend to browns, touches of embroidery appear in bronze sequins and metal threads, also favor is expressed for mink fur. Milliners are making up smart little mink hats with matching neckpieces.

Fringes Take On New Importance in Style
Fringed dinner gowns appear in scores of individual treatments. Afternoon dresses too take on accents of fringe. The originality and versatility expressed in trimming with fringe is most interesting. There is every sort of arrangement from narrow fringe placed row and row in tiers covering the entire skirt to long swinging panels of fringe extending in one continuous line from waist to hem. Fringe also is worked in interlaced manner to give the new drop-shoulder line and to form pockets and girdle effects with long streaming ends to add grace.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

The city's newest subway is the final link in the Independent system, first planned 19 years ago, and the total cost of which has been $800,000,000. The Sixth avenue line is short, running only from Fourth street to Fifty-ninth street, yet its cost was $60,000,000, which figures out $4,377 a foot. Construction costs were increased by the fact that it runs under or over six other underground railroads that cross its path. Added expense was that while the subway was being dug, the elevated railroad was still running and precautions that cost real money had to be taken to prevent its collapse. Then, too, for nearly a mile at its northern end, it is only 150 feet above the Catskill aqueduct. New York's underground maze of conduits, wires, etc., didn't make the job less expensive.

At Thirty-fourth street is the largest station. It is 360 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 10 feet high, and has three different levels. There are 17 entrances and 16 escalators. Also there is a tunnel above the tracks, much like the enclosed deck of a ship, through which pedestrians may travel from Thirty-fourth street to Forty-second street without coming out into sunshine or bad weather. It's a free tunnel and so, during the Christmas rush with attendant rain, it did a heavy business. Speaking of business, it is estimated that the new line will carry 40,000,000 passengers during the coming year.

It was the custom of an attractive young business woman, who lives alone high up in a big apartment house, not to complete dressing until after breakfast. But she always did reach outside her door to gather in her mail and the newspaper so that she might have something to read while waiting for the coffee to perk. The other morning the newspaper was just out of her reach. Noting there was no one in the hall, she stepped outside. Before she could bend over, the door, equipped with a spring lock, banged shut. And there she stood as if posing for a lingerie ad! The only way to get a pass key was to call the elevator operator and wait while he made a round trip. She was about to do that when something moved her to try the door. It opened readily enough. She hasn't figured out yet when she threw the catch but the newspaper and mail now wait until she is fully clad.

Al K. Hall is a veteran vaudeville and burlesque comedian who has been on and off Broadway for 25 years. He's never been ashamed of his job although in his career he's entertained in some pretty rough theaters. But Al's kid, a girl, has been growing up. Before he died, he wanted to do something that would make his daughter proud of her daddy. So he sat down and composed a patriotic song called "We Are All Americans." Harry Salter heard it and thought it so good he put Hall on his "Song of Your Life" program, so the comedian could tell of his lifelong dream and how it had come true. Even if the song is never published, it won't make any difference to the composer. He feels he has done one thing in his life of which his daughter may be proud.

If you have seen W. C. Fields' latest picture, "The Bank Dick," you may have noticed that the story credit was given to one Mahatma Kane Jeeves. One of this department's Hollywood scouts reports that many folks know that the story was actually written by Fields himself, and a few know how the comic came to choose his pseudonym. If you say the name slowly, you will discover that it is really one of Field's favorite off-screen expressions, "My hat, my cane, Jeeves." (Bell Spedicate-WNU Service.)

Labors 26 Years on Odd Map of America

Former Cartoonist Pictures History of Country.

DENVER.—If Fred J. Kingan were so inclined he would make an interesting teacher.

His pupils wouldn't need books. All they would have to do would be to look at a giant map Kingan, a retired lumberman, has completed in his spare time.

On the map—measuring 15 feet in length and 8 feet in height—Kingan has pictured a visual history of the discovery, exploration and early settlement of North America.

Started on a much smaller scale and as a hobby to fulfill a desire to know more about the early history of the nation, the map has grown far beyond his early plans and now represents, nearly 26 years of research and seven years of painstaking drawing and painting.

Starting with Leif Erickson's voyage in 1001, he has depicted in 14 colors all the major voyages of discovery, the explorations of the Cabots, Coronado, De Soto and so on down to Lewis and Clark, Pike, Fremont, Custer and scores of others.

There are no state-line demarcations, but on each state he has painted the official seal and flower, and dotted about over the map are small paintings of historic happenings and personages.

A job as a newspaper cartoonist aroused his interest in art.

Next he turned to more serious art and studied at the Chicago Art Institute and from that he turned to architecture and drafting.

It was while working as a draftsman in Buffalo in 1914 that the idea for his map came to him and he continued working on it when he went into his father's lumber business.

New Capital of Fashion May Rise in the West

LOS ANGELES.—Southern California is expecting a new rush and if it materializes a new fashion capital may arise in the Far West.

The Los Angeles Fashion Group, a unit of an all-feminine international style organization, is planning to mobilize at least 70 creative style ideas and present them at an elaborate fashion show on February 13.

The show, which will be preceded by a dinner dance, will be called "California's Fashion Futures."

The Fashion Group, composed of some 50 key women in fashion work from merchandise managers to advertising directors and stylists, has been working for weeks on a list of California's most noted style creators.

Each of the designers will be invited to contribute a special creation that is to serve as an indication of future style trends. None of the designs will be for sale, since the show is to be non-commercial, but they will serve as future "ideaguides" for American designers.
