Band Concert Well Received

ADJOINING PLACES ENJOY MUSIC

The annual mid-summer concert of the East Jordan High School Band was played on the shuffleboard courts n the West Side Tourist Park Friday evening.

People in cars filled all available parking space and the benches sur rounding the courts were well occu-pied. Three numbers "Cavalier pied. Three numbers "Ca March;" "Tenderness Waltz," "Mignonnette Overture," were given excellent interpretation under the diection of our own John TerWee.

The baton was then wielded by Victor J. Grabel, veteran band director, and composer, who is spending the summer at his summer home on the east shore of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. Under an uncernithe band played "The Thunderer," ne of the works of Mr. Grabel's old riend, the late John Philip Sousa. The next two numbers, "The Ol-Church Organ," and "Hall of Fame, were given under the leadership of Max H. Smith, Director of the Charlevoix School and City bands and clar-net instructor on the Bay View Faulty this summer. Mr. TerWee then resumed the podium and conducted through the manufactor of the numbers; "Grandioso," "Johnny Trombone," and "Intermezzo."

DEFENSE BOND

Q. Why should Americans buy Defense Bonds and Stamps now?

A. Among the reasons are: (1) It is the quickest way in which every citizen can both serve his country and conserve his earnings, and (2) the purchase of the Bonds and Stamps helps not only to finance National Defense but also to prevent high prices and increased cost of living.

Q. Can I pledge a Defense Bond as collateral for a bank loan?

A. No. Bonds are registered and not transferable. They are payable only to the persons named on the

LINCOLN:

An Echo

For some time after President Roosevelt had quoted Lincoln's gloomy words following the first rear of the Civil war correspondents puzzled themselves as to what interpretation could properly be put upon them. The words (Lincoln's) were these:

"I have no word of encourage ment to give. The military-situament to give. The military steation is far from bright, and the country knows it as well as I do.

The fact is, the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the South.

"They have not buckled down to the determination to fight this war through, for they have got the idea into their heads that we are going to get out of this fix somehow by strategy! That's the word, strategy!

"General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the rebels by strategy, and the army has got the same no-They have no idea that the war, is to be carried on and put through by hard, tough fighting; that it will hurt somebody, and no head-way is to be made while this delusion lasts."

— President Roosevelt wrote his own headline over this interview based on Lincoln's words to a group of Chicago women in an "off the record talk" and let it be known that he intended drawing a parallel.

But the newsmen saw two parallels—one that the President was telling American people that some of them "were going to get hurt" in this war; the other that he was telling the people that "hard, tough days" are ahead, and "that the military situation was far from bright."

Though either of these parallels seemed simple enough to draw from the words of Lincoln, others pointed to the fact that the President himself, when talking to the corre-spendents, underlined that portion "the people have not made up their minds" and so torth. And this, in view of the fact that there was still a considerable antiadministration group, and that they that a blockade of Vladivostok "cerwere extremely vocal, and claimed tainly would bring war between large numbers, seemed one of the more likely parallels to draw from the President's echoing of Lincoln's words.

Later in his talk with the correspondents the President let drop a remark which despite his expressed wishes, for med the "lead" of most of the dispatches that the war propagations were being made for it to first at least until 1948:

- he had said previously that the Russians, he believed, would hold out through the winter of 1941, that the winter, he believed, would see a general cessation of the lighting on the east front due to weather conditions, and that Britain and the United States would concentrate on getting and to Russia for the opening of the spring campaign in 1942.

'Be Assured'

Haye is pictured being interviewed by the press following his latest conference with Sec. of State Hull. The Ambassa-dor assured the Secretary that France has no intention of turning over the French fleet on French colonial bases to Germany. These assurances where part of the formal explanation of Mayer shak Penain's declaration with Germany.

Phases of War?

Assuming it to be correct that the Germans will be bogged down by the advent of winter on the eastern front, many were asking what the ext phases of the war would be

It was generally agreed that the center of activity and interest would shift to the Near-East, and to northern Africa, for the advent of winter in the Soviet battlefield would bring to that territory what many believed the Nazi army had been waiting for -cooler weather.

General Smuts predicted that the Nazis would try a huge assault in North Africa in September, and that it would fail.

As to the Russo-German war, it was believed certain that the Nazis would try a blitz attack across the Dnieper river in an attempt to complete the conquest of the Ukraine before cold weather, and that the use of large numbers of parachute troops similar to the attack on Crete might be looked for --

In fact there were dispatches that the Russian anti-aircraft fire had shot down large German planes actually carrying tanks proof that this had been part of the plan the Nazis have for the invasion of Britain.

The only time that the Budenny army will have, these authorities pointed out, to prepare to meet the onslaught of the German army under General Von Rundstedt, would be that required by the Nazis to "mop up" such resistance points as Odessa and others in the part cut procession of military movements off-by the pincer movement.

A method by which American fliers could ferry British war planes to Suez and Africa without technically impairing this country's war potion was found.

Pan-American Airways agreed to do the delivering, hiring pilots for this purpose, and flying the bombers and fighters over already organized Pan-American passenger routes.

This showed the advantage well-organized air lines in time of war. The Pan-American officials pointed out how difficult the ferrying job was in view of the fact that the British had no such organized routes, and that when planes were delivered, there was great difficulty on the part of the British in gettin; the pilots back to their starting

But Pan-American, with mail and passenger routes to South America and the Near-East, could send the planes over with hired pilots, and fly them back to this country as passengers on their regularly scheduled planes, or could add more spe-cial transport planes to already organized routes, with weather reports landing bases, -fuel supplies and radio communications already es tablished.

The plan, evidently soon to be put into effect, was another implementing of America's lend-lease aid to Britain, and was seen as wiping out another bottleheck.

DETROIT:

One of America's key defense cities, Detroit, automobile center of the world, was badly tied up when the street car and bus operators struck in a jurisdictional dispute involving one union each of the A. F. of L. and the C.I.O.

Some 400,000 factory and office workers use this means of transport and had to find emergency ways of getting to and from work. Mayor Jeffries said to the A. F. of L. conference: "You can't run the city of Detroit."

Washington Vigest REA Has New Program For Aiding U. S. Farmer

Electrification Administration Backs Plan for Placing of Nourishing Foods on Rural Dinner Tables.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W. Washington, D. C.

For the past few weeks the directors of rural utility companies and the members of co-operatives which furnished electric light and power have been hearing about a new idea. The idea has to do with a judicious mixture of kilowatts, vitamins and dollars—its purpose is to bring the kitchen to the schoolhouse and more nourshing food into the home.

The idea was launched at a dinner at Grand Island, Neb., and the dinner was addressed by four prom inent persons who weren't there (they talked by telephone and loudspeaker) and by officials of the Rural Electrification administra-tion. The people who weren't there were the secretary of agriculture. Claude Wickard, the federal security administrator, Paul McNutt the commissioner of education John Studebaker, and the REA ad ministrator, Harry Slattery.

The next day the plan was described in detail to the Grand Islanders.
Wallace Statement.

Perhaps the best way to explain the plan is to begin with a recent remark of Vice President Wallace

"On a foundation of good food we can build anything Without it, we can build nothing. We want to make sure that or millions are so fed that their teet are good, their residents are so that their teet are good, their residents are so that their teets are good, their residents are so that their teets are good for the sound and their residents are so that their teets are so that their teets are good for the sound and their teets are so that their teets are good for the sound and their teets are good for the sound and their teets are good for their teets. digestive systems healthy, their resistance to premature old age en hanced through strong bodies and alert minds.'

That is part of the credo of the "food for defense" program: And the Rural Electrification administration hit on the idea of starting things in the one-room schoolhouse.

The electric power and light wires of the 824 systems which receive loans from the government pass by some 11,545 school buildings. More Many already are electrically lighted and more lines are being constructed by more schoolhouses.

—Says the REA to people in these communities: "Install electric equipment in these one-room equipment in these one-room schools which will make it possible for the children to have warm lunches. Make the school a nutrition center where the proper choice and preparation of foods is taught. If possible, obtain equipment for three methods of preservation of food for the use of the community (The three methods are refrigeration (perhaps freezing), canning, and dehydration.) Also, add an inexpensive mill for the grinding of whole grains which have the vitamins and the other contents which we know the American diet now

Asks Free Equipment.

The REA also suggests to the men own the co-operative power lines that they install the equipment large companies have already agreed to sell the schools the necessary equipment at low rates and on easy

The cheapest equipment, without the refrigerator, would cost about a roaster, a small flour mill, a small The most expensive equipment includes a walk-in refrigerator with a freezing equipment, larger mills and dehydrators, water pressure and water heater systems.

The purpose of making such in-stallations is two-fold. One is to make available proper lunches and demonstrate their preparation to the children in the hope that they will carry home the ideas. The second is to provide centers for demonstration by experts, and also a place where the women of the community can preserve food, where food can be kept in frozen storage and where facilities for dry-ing and canning for the use of members of the community are at

The final goal of this plan is ex-pressed in Vice President Wallace's reference to "strong bodies and alert minds." The immediate purpose is to provide a practical means starting the nutrition program in the place where it will sprout the school

In a grass-covered triangle in historic Pennsylvania avenue's "el-bow," where it obligingly stops to keep from running into the Treasury building, stands a temporary glass house. Around it are booths and tents, a bandstand, and fierce-looking cannon. In the glass house defense bonds are sold. In the booths, there are representatives of the Red Cross and the United Service organizations. Recruiting of ficers for the army, navy, and ma-rines will politely explain the tools of their trade the market. Three and a half million more men in the armed services will have to be demobilized, and most of themwill have to earn their keep at

There are some people who think it is not quite patriotic to think about such things, right now. But the thoughtful ones know that preparation for peace is an even bigger problem than preparation for war-and now is hardly soon enough to begin thinking about it.

Planning Board.

And so they are thinking about it.

Especially a little group with modest offices in the state departmentthe National Resources Planning

The chairman of this board is Frederic Delano; one of the vice chairmen is the noted political sci-Charles Edward Merriam. The board was established in 1939, under the Reorganization act, as a principal division office of the President. It operates with technical assistance, co-operating with federal, state, regional and private agencies and institutions, private agencies and institutions, preparing reports and outlining plans and programs on the use and conservation of natural resources.

Right now, this board is beginning the tremendous job of preparing for peace. Its members believe that switching back to production for peace will be easier than switch-ing over to preduction for war-

These planners say that production of peacetime goods can be balanced by consumption, that the process, thanks to this nation's great resources, will pay for itself, and that a higher standard of living will be possible for everyone.

Two things are necessary to achieve this end: First, defailed planning. Second, co-operation of government, industry, agriculture and labor. As in all such govern-ment-guided efforts, the degree of co-operation obtained will determine the amount of regulation required, so that, in the end, it comes down to the individual. In the hands of each of us rests the solution of this great problem—the prep-

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhege

What is morale? The Associa-tion of Future Farmers of America in Florida and in New Mexico each bought a $1,000 defense bond. In Mississippi, three youngsters bought a $3,000 bond. The money came dimes and quarters, from boys of 14 to 21 years old. I am wondering about some of the other youth groups in the country.

For we might as well face the fact that whenever production exceeds national demand the farmer takes 50 cents instead of the dollar he has earned. We have solved production. We must now solve the infinitely more difficult problem of distribution and that can be done only through national legislation. -Representative Cannon of Missouri.

JOHN URGES CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT-I John 3:13-18; 4:7-21.

Love is a word so abused in modern speech that one almost hesitates to use it, and yet it stands for the very finest in all human relationships, and presents to us the very essence of the nature of God. We do well to redefine the meaning of love in our Sunday school classes this next Sunday. Love is not that centimental, "wishy-washy" feeling which prompts the writing of emo-tional ballads, which are (like the supposed love of which they speak) "here today and gone tomorrow." Nor is it that lustful thing which now parades itself shamelessly as love, when it is nothing but animal passion. Nor is it that weak thing which totalitarian dictators make it out to be when they declare that to attain, a people must hate, not love

Love is a desire for and delight in the welfare of another. It reaches out to all mankind, coming from God and being manifested in It is stronger than any earthly bonds. It is able to bear unbeliev able burdens; yes, because He loved us Christ bore the sins of the whole world on Calvary. It expresses itself in courtesy, in high standards of life, and in sacrifice. Love is, as Henry Drummond put it, "the greatest thing in the world." Read I Corinthians 13 for Paul's exalted descrip tion of love. Our lesson reveals two important facts about love—

I. Love Is an Evidence of Regeneration (I John 3:13-18).

There are two groups of people the saved and the unsaved. The unsaved in Scripture are designated as "the world," meaning, not the physical world, but the world of unregenerate men who are against our God and His Christ. The saved are those who have come to God-in Christ, who love Him and are in the center of His love. That love is. according to John, an evidence that we know God. There is an interest ing contrast here. The World Hates and Kills (vv

Today the wicked heart of man apart from Christ is revealed inthe tragic events which have em-broiled the whole world in conflict.

The point is that we as Christians should not be surprised if that kind of a world hates us. In fact, we should be troubled if it does not hate us, for if our Christianity means anything, it must be utterly distasteful to a world driven by hatred and the lust for blood.

2. The Christian Loves and Gives

The mark of a Christian is love for God and love for the brethren. That love demonstrates its genuineness by giving freely to meet the need of a brother, just as God freely gave His Son for our redemption (cf./James 2:14-17).

The background of such an attitude is a proper understanding of our relationship to God, and an appreciation of His nature.

II. The Very Nature of Love (I John 4:7-21).

God not only loves, but He is love.

1. God Is Love (vv. 7, 8).

"Love is the very essence of His moral nature. He is the source of all love" (R. A. Torrey). Only the one who knows God as love knows Him at all.

There is much thoughtless and neaningless talk about the love of God, as though it meant that He is careless about enforcing His divine law, that somehow He will overlook and excuse careless and wicked living. The fact is that the love of God has no real meaning unless it is understood in the light of the cross, for God's Love Is Manifested in Christ (vv. 9-16).

He was sent as the giver of eternal life, the propitiation for our sins, our Saviour, and thus as the highest and deepest expression of God's love. Faith in Christ (v. 15) puts the believer in the very center of the love of God. Precious hiding

3. Love Casts Out Fear (vv. 17-

Fellowship is impossible in an atmosphere of fear, but love rules fear out. In Christ we realize that God first loved us, and then our hearts go out to Him in a warmth of devotion which brings us so close to Him that all fear is gone. The result of such fellowship with God follows, for 4. He Who Loves God Loves His Brother (vv. 20, 21).

If a man loves God, he will obey Him, and His command, which to the Christian is, "Love your brother." That is "the first and great commandment" (Matt. 22:36-40; Deut. 6:5; Luke 10:25-28). There is no use in our talking about loving God if we have no love for the brethren, for in doing so we make God testify against us that we are liars (v. 20).

Grand Coulee World's Number One Dam

Grand Coulee, biggest dam in the world, is now in action. The Columbia river, which has been dammed, is one of the swiftest and flercest in the world, and to curb it a barrier has been erected which is three-quarters of a mile long and 500 feet high.

The result will be a lake 151 miles long, the irrigation of 1,200,-000 acres of land, and sufficient electric power to supply an area five times the size of England.

Boulder dam, which harnesses the Colorado river, with all its collateral works, was completed in 1935. It is thrown across a terrific gorge called Black Canyon, which is 2,000 feet wide, and the lake behind it is 115 miles long and took three years to fill.

So tremendous is the weight of water in this lake that geologists have suggested that it may cause a bending in the crust of the planet. Habits of Salmon

A group of Pacific salmon, or king salmon, that inhabits the Northern Pacific waters, dies after the breeding season (July to December) is over, says Pathfinder. Phese salmon never return to the

Other types of salmon, however, ceturn to the sea after spawning, and remain there until the next breeding season. All salmon live partly in the sea and partly in fresh water, breeding in the latter. They ascend rivers and tributary streams to spawn.

RIGHT NOW, it's just good judgment to buy the best. That's why motorists are equipping their cars with the world's first and only tires that are Safti-Sured—the new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires. They are Sufti-Sured against blowouts by a new Safety-Lock Gum-Dipped cord body so amazingly strong, so remarkably cool running that excessive internal friction and heat cannot occur. They are Safti-Sured against skidding by the remarkable Gear-Grip tread. And they are Safti-Sured for longer mileage by the exclusive new Vitamic rubber compound.

Call on your nearby Firestone dealer or store before you start your Labor Day trip. With the liberal allowance he will give you for your old tires, you'll be surprised how little it costs to equip your car with a complete set of new Firestone DeLuxe Champion tires.

This is the story of an American family in depression years. Laura Maguire, wife of Mike Maguire, happy-go-lucky editor and mayor of Covington, is moth er of four children:

CHAPTER XVII

Alec Maguire gravely balanced himself on one foot like a stork and squinted along the bottle of gin as if it were a shotgun.

"Ready, fire!" he said with vast solemnity and killed the bottle dead. Myra laughed herself into hic-coughs. "You're so comical," she alcoves which lined the large dining room at the Porterville Swimming Pool. They had been sitting there since four that afternoon. According to the original plan they had intend ed to start back home when they had their swim. Only Myra had dared them to go somewhere else where they could dine and dance.

To do Alec justice he had meant to go home for dinner. But he felt unusually low that day. relief was to get so cockeyed he could laugh and laugh.

Natalie, who so far had been more sleepy than convivial, suddenly gig-The mechanical orchestra at the other end of the big pavilion was playing an old record, "Shuffle Off to Buffalo."

"Why don't you two stop facilin and pull a real one?" she suggested. The others stared at her. "I mean elope. Get married. I mean middle-aisle it. Or what have you?"

Alec stared: Marry Myra Boone! For a moment he was jolted back to himself and saw the woman beside him with painful distinctnessthe coarse blowsy face, the weak self-indulgent mouth, the metallically yellow hair which was drab at the roots. Everything within him revolted. Marry a woman like that! Take her home to Laura as his wife? He'd rather die.

"I said you weren't game," murmured Myra.

The drive back to Covington did nothing to clear Alec's confused brain. Myra put the gas throttle down to the floor board and the speedometer touched eighty more than once.

They had just entered the suburb of Covington, still at a maniacal speed. Each of them at the same moment saw the big fire engine careening toward them down the middle of the street. Myra was a true neurotic. She covered her face with her hands and shricked. It was Alec who reached over and gave the steering wheel a tremendous jerk. It threw them into the opposite curb to the detriment of fenders and running board. But at least they did not meet the fire engine head on.

"And was that a near thing?" laughed Alec.

The others, still weak from shock huddled in their seats and said nothing.

"Where's the fire?" Alec asked of a man running down the street.

Over on Kirby Street." Kirby Street! Mike had always those ramshackle buildings down that way were nothing but fire traps. He had begged the City Council for years to condemn them be fore they went up like waste paper bonfire, taking their dreadful toll of innocent lives. Alec's brow

"Sit down and let's get going," muttered Myra irritably. "We've a little private matter to attend to."

She meshed gears, and the big car shivered hway from the curb and began laboriously to pick up speed.

Alec had, however, already snatched open the door and leaped out. By the time she had brought the big machine to a halt which burned the tires, Alec had picked himself up and disappeared toward that ominous coppery glow across the tracks.

He knew before he was within two blocks that his hunch had been right. The conflagration undoubtedly cen-tered in that section of Kirby Street where Pete Knight had a dingy flat. Alec began to run faster. Covington had a naive idea of adequate po-lice protection. Usually there was need for anything elaborate in that line. But in emergencies things were likely to get beyond the venerable chief and his two men. They were doing all they could to hold the crowd back from the danger zone. But that amounted to little. Alec, already feeling the heat of the blaze on his face, slipped under the ropes.

The -whole row of dilapidated frame buildings was a strut of licking, crackling flames. Alec's heart turned over. Quite suddenly he saw Lou. She was standing in a little knot of weeping women and chil-dren. All of them hugged small possessions which they had rescued from the fire. Lou clasped the strag gly red geranium in its forlorn tin can to her breast. Like the rest of the women she stared as if fascingly ed into the roaring red flames. Tears ran slowly down her cheeks. Lou seemed dazed by the completeness

She turned slowly and stared at Her eyes were a little blank and they returned at once to their fascinated study of the crackling, leaping flames which were feeding greedily from roof to ground on flimsy buildings. Alec looked around for her father. He thought it likely the old sot was dead to the world somewhere in a gutter. Pete had failed Lou on every other occasion. It was too much to expect him not to now. But Alec discovered Pete Knight almost at once just out of range of the flying sparks. A tragic yet ludicrous figure, as usual. Reeling a little as his bleary eyes stared into the inferno before him. Once he attempted in a clumsy way to aid with the fire Hose but he succeeded only in drenching himself. People laughed hysterically. Even at that moment shambling Pete Knight furnished the comic relief.

"I don't know what we're going do," whispered Lou suddenly. 'Everything's gone except what we've got on our backs."

"Gee, Lou, I'm sorry-" gan, but paused abruptly.

A tremendous shout went up from the crowd swelled by the wails of women and the frightened whimpers of small children. Alec followed strained pointed fingers with his eyes. A little boy stared from the window of the flat to the left of the staircase: A small, white-faced boy with a crutch and eyes mad with terror.

"It's Joey! Bess Wilkins' Joey!" shrieked a woman.

Alec knew about Bess Wilkins. she was night operator in the tele phone office down town, a widow with one crippled child whom she had to leave alone while on duty.

"Oh, God, everybody forgot Joey!" sobbed Lou.

"He's fainted!" "Oh, God!" whispered Lou.

"Stop that damned fool!" shouted a policeman. Alec whirled. A shambling figure was on the staircase weaving in his tracks, but fighting his way up against the ferocious heat and blind-

"Father!" wailed Lou Knight: Alec caught her in his arms. She fought him furiously, but he held her against his heart.

Lou hid her eyes against Alec's breast. He held her tightly in an agony of pity. There was a gasp, a tremendous cheer. People surged forward. Pete Knight stood at the window of the flat. He had Joey in his arms. A limp, unconscious Joey! Awkwardly but gently Pete Knight still swaying on his feet, tossed the little body. Again a sigh rose from tightened throats.

"Jump, men! Save yourself!" "Father!" screamed Lou.

Pete Knight gathered his big uncertain body together. But it tricked him as it so often had before. He lurched, gasped, fell back. And with a terrible sucking roar the floor beneath him collapsed as the roof gave way. Street boys would never laugh at Pete Knight again. He was gone forever from the sight of men.

CHAPTER XVIII

The girl in Alec's arms had not fainted, although her slight trem-bling body felt lifeless, as if a cord had snapped. Even the small hands no longer clutched him. He stared about wildly. What on earth was he going to do with her? The forlorn human huddle of which she had been a part hovered near for a moment and then, after a glance at Lou's ghastly still face slowly drifted away, words sticking in locked Words were so inadequate throats. before the dumb tragedy of Lou's These people were her neighbors, her closest acquaintances. Yet too were bereft, helpless. without a roof or a bed on which to stretch themselves. They had nothing to share with her except their inarticulate pity. -

The fire having glutted itself was dying of its own passion. There was no longer anything to see but gaunt blackened ruins above red coals. Curious spectators began to drift It became possible for the police to erect ropes and have them respected. Gently Alec took Lou by the arm and moved down the street. Her face was stark. she walked steadily along beside Alec.

In a factual survey of 165 corporations, made by the American Federation of Investors, it was found that these corporations had a total of $2,565,356,532 for taxes in 1940.

The tax collector took that amount out of the pockets of the 165 corporations. These dorporations in turn took it out of the pockets of the ultimate consumers, and we paid it in the form of an increased price for the merchandise and services we purchased. The corporations had to pass along the tax collector's bill if they were to continue in business and provide jobs for their 3,490,801 employees. They could not have taken it from their 5,888,689 stockholders, the people who supplied the money to create the 3,490,801 jobs, for the total dividends paid were only $1,247,358,722, or less than one-half the amount of the tax collector's bill. Had they attempted to take it out of the pockets of their employees, it would have meant taking from each one an average of $735.

The only practical, or possible way was to get it back from the consumers—the Toms, Dicks and Harrys—by including it in the price f their merchandise, and we, in the end, paid all of it, and then some

"then some" was the taxes paid by the wholesale jobber and the retailer. They, too, if they were to remain in business, had to pass on to the consumer the amount the tax collector took from them, and we paid it.

Such are a large part of the "hitden taxes" we pay. Our law mak-ers tried to cover them up, and they succeeded for a time, at least with a percentage of the people. They realize that to levy a direct tax on the consumer of an amount equal to the indirect tax he now pays would arouse a protest expressed through the ballot box. They are trying to fool all of the people all of the time, but will find it will not continue to work.

Either in the form of direct or indirect taxes, the consumer is today paying close to 30 cents to the tax collector out of each dollar of his income. He is working for government nearly one-third of his working time.

The taxes of those 165 corporations for 1940 amounted to $585,518,-634 more than in 1939. There will be a tremendous jump in 1941, under the new tax law, and again we, the consumers, will pay it all.

These advertising experts cannot, if they would, hide their talents. They must display them each day and in each issue of the newspapers in which they buy space, day they offer a lesson in effective merchandising advertising.

By a day-to-day study of the copy they produce, rural merchants can learn the "how," "when" and "what" of effective advertising. If, and when, the lessons are applied to their own merchandising problems. the rural stores will find how much effective newspaper advertising will do in the development of home-town patronage.

Campus clothes collections are so intriguing this fall it is going to be After you have window shopped and looked to the limit, the better part of wisdom is to calmly and deliberately take time off to go into con-ference with yourself. To think it through with the aid of notes you jotted down as you meandered through miles and miles of aisles and aisles of sports clothes sections, dress shops and departments, mil-carton of cigarettes or a pound tin of smoking tobacco. Tobacco rates first as a gift with them. And when you check up, actual sales records show that in Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard service stores (where the men buy their own) Camels outsell all other cigarettes. It is well-known that Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco is the "National Joy Smoke." Local tobacco dealers are now featuring Camel cartons and pound tins of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco as number one gifts for men in Uncle looks as if it had been expertly mantailored of a stunning wool weave.

Once try on a woolknit jacket twopiece and instantly you will be making an inroad on your clothes allowance to the extent of the amount on the price tag. There is a great deal to be said for woolknits "as is" these days. Their production has been so perfected they neither stretch nor sag and they are styled to the 'nth degree of chic and charm.

See the charming machine-knit dress shown to the left in the illus-ration. This casual two-piece of tration. gold nubby wool chenille yarn has all the appearance of a "classy" ex-clusive handknit. Its only trim is the knotted plastic buttons and crescent bordered pockets. With it is worn a new and flattering hand-knit hat made of bows that stand up behind a pompadour, the bows attached to a band of the same hand-knitted yarn. The accent on knitted and crocheted hats and trimming defails on wool dresses is "strong" this season.

Jersey for this, jersey for that, jersey for everything from hats to dresses and blouses is a trend that is bringing vast influence to bear as to what must be included in every well-ordered wardrobe of schoolgirl and college miss. For office wear, unwrinkable, unstretch-able jersey is regarded as the ideal fabric. The jersey dress pictured to the right is designed on a pattern of simplicity that's news for fall of 1941. Smooth "dropped-shoulder" voke, elongated molded midriff, accent on hips are exclamation points high fashion that point to a def initely new silhouette for this casual gray jersey frock. The plaid suit in the oval also announces a silhouette so new and "different" it is sure to intrigue the interest and fancy of every style-conscious school-faring maiden.

The 1930-1940 depression decade marked the first break in 140 years of constant trend toward urbanization of America. For the first time in a century and a half more folks have been moving into rural and suburban areas than into the cities.

This trend towards small towns and rural areas has been noticeable, for the rate of rural growth has been almost three times is great in urban as in rural regions. More and more city dwellers have been going "to the country" for their homes. Many small towns at the fringe of large cities have boomed during the depression, largely because of this human quest for happiness in a more peaceful and crowded environment.

Champion Cow at State Fair

Detroit, Mich. In the largest showing of dairy cattle ever entered in a Michigan State Fair, Carnation Ormsby Fayne Madcap, from the well-known Carnation Milk Farm, Seattle, Wash, will be a prominent feature of this year's show at Detroit, August 27—Sept. 7. In a handsome throne stall of velvet and stainless steel in the main cattle pavilion, this dairy queen will be seen while undergoing her milk production test which closes Jan. 26, 1942. A half sister of Carnation Ormsby Butter King, holder of both the world's milk and butter records since 1936, she has already tested close to 30,000 pounds of milk and 1500 pounds of butter in a previous official 365-day test period. In addition to Carnation Ormsby Fayne Madcap, the Carnation Milk Farm is showing a herd of seven bulk and eighteen females of all ages.
