Special School Election To Change Maturity Date On Bonds

The Board of Education of the East Jordan Rural Agricultural School District No. 2, is calling a special election Monday, September 22, to change the maturity dates of the $70,000 in bonds approved June 9th by the school electors. This is necessary due to the fact that the Public Debt Commission ruled that the increase in millage approved at the same election, must be spread during the years 1942-46 inclusive. This makes it essential that our bonds mature in the years 1943-47 instead of 1942-46 as originally voted.

No change is asked in the original amount of money voted. These bonds will be in place of those approved June 9. The question of raising taxes is not involved in this election.

No portion of the special school tax approved June 9 will be spread until the fall of 1942.

Orders For Young Dairy Sires Now Being Accepted

As was the case last year an effort is now being made to bring into this county a truck load of young dairy sires out of high producing herds. By arrangement with the Dairy Department of the Michigan State College it is possible to order these young animals at an extremely reasonable price. By the way the prices will be very similar to last years baby bull project.

For approximately $30.00 it is possible to purchase a young sire of the major dairy breeds and out of a dam making around 400 pounds of butterfat in a cow test association. These calves will be approximately one month of age. If a person wants an older animal the price will increase at the rate of around $5.00 per month.

These animals are from high producing herds in southern Michigan where the owners sell their fluid milk to the big city markets. Because of the need of all the milk possible the majority of dairymen do not raise any male calves and yet many of these herds average 400 pounds of butterfat per cow.

If you are interested in securing a nice young bull calf at a reasonable price kindly get in touch with your county agent and place an order for one of these splendid animals at once.

B. C. Melencamp, County Agr'l Agent.

Emmet Fair Next Week

AT PETOSKEY, SEPT. 16-19. EXHIBITS TO BE PLENTIFUL

Wilson J. McDonald, secretary of the Emmet County Fair, at Petoskey Sept. 16-19, has announced that the Emmet fair will have one of the "cleanest" midways in its history when the fair opens the "Midway De Magnificent" next Tuesday night, September 16.

For the first time in many years the placing of each concession will be under the personal direction of the fair board and only shows that have a good reputation in the amusement business will be allowed.

The long midway will be lined with games of all varieties in addition to the rides for the children, such as the merry-go-round, ferris wheel, octopus, loop-o-plane and miniature rides.

Robert Lincoln, county agricultural agent said that more than 25 ant-county exhibits are planning to be at the fair. These in addition to the local exhibits will tax the capacity of the exhibition buildings. Several fine exhibits are expected in the livestock, poultry, fruit, vegetable, canning, 4-H Clubs, and handicraft divisions. The fair board is offering $3300 in premium awards.

John Kilgorn, chairman of the horse racing committee, states that he has nearly 20 saddle horses entered in the many heats and races on the racing program. There will be special exhibitions including a Gaited Horse demonstration and a chariot race. All of the horses and riders in these events will be experienced and promise many thrills.

The local campaign chairman, Mr. Drew, wishes to thank all who were able to contribute either in time or money to the end that the splendid work of the U.S.O. be furthered.

Famous Week At Temple

There are many reasons for calling the new week's pictures "famous" but just the mention of Jack Benny, Scattergood Baines, Dr. Kildare and Charley's Aunt will prove our point! # WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—It was quite by accident that little Dorothy Dale of Kansas became a sorceress and overthrew the Wicked Witch of the East and freed the enslaved Munchkins. We wondered why Lucy Monroe, the "star spangled soprano," kept reminding us of all this, and now it is all clear. Miss Monroe's mother, Anna Laughlin, was the first Dorothy Dale, in "The Wizard of Oz," with Fred Stone, and when the daughter made her musical comedy debut in "Louie the Fourteenth," in 1925, old-timers in the audience, this one among them, were moved to poignant and all but tearful memories by the winsome daughter's resemblance to her mother. Little Dorothy Dale was forever young, still in a land of enchantment—that was all there was to it.

The sorcery of Miss Monroe, opera, concert and radio star, is, unlike that of Dorothy Dale, quite premeditated, and involves a somewhat wider outreach in world liberation, but at a time when people are hoping that somebody will pass a miracle. She has become our national patriotic songster and song-leader, here and there and everywhere, and at the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Philadelphia Municipal stadium recently, she led the second "community sing," in a series of great public invocations of old-time patriotism throughout the country. More than 30,000 persons attended the first one at Washington several weeks ago.

The "star spangled" phase of Miss Monroe's career began in 1937 when she was made official soloist for the American Legion. This stirred in her deep patriotic fervor which found a response in her audiences everywhere.

She is an eighth-generation American, trained as a singer entirely in this country. She made her Metropolitan debut in "La Bohème" in the spring season of 1937.

IN THE first World war, facing a hurry-up job of army morale-building, they slammed Irving Berlin into a corner and told him to dish up a few red-hot morale songs, right away. Here are a couple of lines from the first one:

Broadway Is Out;
Osborn In, to Back
Up Army Morale

"Don't you worry, mother darling, Although the skies are gray,
For there's always a little bit of sunshine,
In the Y—M—C—A."

This time they pick for the bucking-up job a eugenist, population expert, conservationist, business researcher, corporation executive, art connoisseur, banker, and traffic expert—all in the one distinguished person of Frederick Osborn, of New York. The war department names him as head of its morale branch, with the temporary rank of brigadier general.

The appointment may or may not have something to do with the recent, disquieting magazine articles about unrest in the new army. General Osborn has been occupied, as a dollar-a-year man in Washington, as a consultant in various endeavors and has been chairman of the army and navy committee on joint recreation. Hence it is possible that his appointment to the army post had been decided upon before the recent flare-up about discontent among the National Guard and selectees.

Whatever the appointment may mean, the choice of a civilian for this office sets a precedent. General Osborn replaces Brig. Gen. James A. Ullis. Furthermore there is disclosed here a trend away from showmanship as an old-time, dependable morale builder. Billy Rose of Broadway was back in New York a few weeks ago, after a session with the army morale-builders. He was all fussed up. "Nothing happened," he said. "They told me my blueprints were wonderful, the ideas were wonderful and I was wonderful. Then they said good-by. That's all I expect to happen."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Food Shortage in Europe This Winter Means Thousands Are Doomed to Starve In Most of Areas Occupied by Nazis; U. S. Court Obtains Spy Confessions

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What Price a Mad World!

The scene is a street in Uniondale, N. Y. The country is not at war. It is, however, arming for defense. Arming as never before. For the menace, it is charged, is world wide. And so an army pursuit plane leaves Mitchell field, New York, one day. A few minutes later it crashes in Uniondale street. You see the wreck still burning. You don't see three children burned whose clothes caught fire. The pilot of the plane bailed out.

INCIDENT:

U. S. S. Greer Attacked

When the news was flashed that a submarine attacked the U. S. destroyer Greer while the latter was en route to Iceland, the words "incident of war" leaped to the thoughts of many. Still, there were other "incidents" and they did not bring war. The Greer was not hit.

FOOD:

For Conquered

Most were agreed that the coming winter will find starvation walking the lands of conquered Europe. Germany took the bull by the horns by stating her position clearly. Not only, said Berlin, was Germany not going to feed the hungry in conquered Europe, but she felt at complete liberty to feed herself from the stores of conquered countries. If anybody was to feed conquered nations, let Britain and the United States, who control the seas, do it, declared Berlin.

As long as this was the declared Nazi policy, it was a certainty that the United States and Britain would do no feeding of these populations, for if the food was sent over, Germany felt "at liberty" to feed herself with it. The food would just be going into enemy hands and doing no good to the starving millions, it has been held.

Assuming that the Russians in conquered sections of the Ukraine had not been able to flee, but had been able to burn their wheat, as seemed likely from general reports from the area from both sides, then there were a few million Ukrainians in danger of starvation within the shortest possible time.

Nor were the people in France, Norway, and the low countries in any better condition, and with the exception of the Rumanians, the Hungarians and the Croats, reportedly fighting with the German arms, and the Finns, coming down from the north into Russia, most of Europe was going to be hungry.

I talked with a Russian refugee from Paris, who had been conquered by the Germans but escaped to this country by a devious route, and he told of the French people eating dogs, cats—any meat they could get their hands on.

Starvation already was stalking the land in August, he said, when he escaped via Lisbon.

Medical men said this hunger would not point definitely to revolt, however, for starving people soon lose their ability to fight or to resist even the inroads of their own hunger. Starvation carries with it only apathy, finally coma and then death, they declared.

JAPAN:

Full Mobilization

Ordering a full mobilization of his country, and at the same time, according to rumor, bidding President Roosevelt to visit him "in the Pacific on a Japanese battleship," Premier

Prince Konoye of Japan seemed to be throwing a monkey wrench into what little hope remained that Nippon might be peace-bound.

The tempest, which these sources figured the Nazis were stirring up in Japan on the question of the Siberian port, was raging full blast when Konoye issued his order of complete mobilization of the country.

Konoye said "Japan is facing the greatest crisis in her history, and a total mobilization of the nation is necessary to overcome the emergency."

This statement was a far cry from his July 30 position that all Japan wanted was peace and prosperity in the Pacific, to "close out" the China affair, and to be friendly with the United States.

Dispatches from Washington said that diplomatic advices had been sent to Tokyo, probably the cause of Konoye's action, stating that this country was going to "stand firm" on its right to send lease-lend aid to Russia through Vladivostok, and to continue to send such aid as long as peaceful relations exist between Russia and Japan.

The same day Nichi Nichi, influential Japanese paper, defied the United States to "place any obstacle in Japan's rightful sea routes in the name of freedom of the seas." It continued:

"Japan will not hesitate to take steps against any obstacle such as this."

Complicating the issue at about the same time were two Russian seaplanes, carrying 47 Soviet airmen, flying over the Bering sea on their way to Washington to join the Russian mission to this nation's capital.

While Moscow disclaimed anything but a peaceful intent for this trip, another Japanese paper, the Times and Advertiser, took alarm at it, stating it was "an effort to establish a warplane service between the United States and Russia."

This newspaper said that Japan felt itself now encircled by the British and Americans on the south, through these countries' aid to China and the Dutch East Indies, and that any "effort to encircle Japan on the north" would be a matter for grave study.

SPIES:

First Trial

News readers turned their eyes to New York where 19 out of 33 members of an alleged German spy ring went on trial on charges of espionage.

The other 14 pleaded guilty, which made it improbable that the full story of their guilt would be told.

But the trial of the 19, prosecutors in the federal court said, "would unfold ramifications beyond belief." U. S. Attorney Kennedy said that much of the information in the possession of the prosecution had been obtained from those who had pleaded guilty.

One of these, Everett Minster Roeder, 47, pleaded guilty to "obtaining information and sending it to a foreign power." He worked in the plant of the Sperry Gyroscope company, makers of the famous secret bomb-sight of the United States army—one of the country's most prized war possessions.

But the airing of the secrets of the spy ring in open court promised news readers a delectable dish they were looking forward to. Sensational revelations were expected of fifth-column activities.

Spy

Lucy Boehmler, 18, who pleaded guilty in New York to charges of espionage for Nazi Germany. She is said to be part of a ring which visited various parts of the country to obtain military secrets.

LENINGRAD:

Near Siege

Despite what undoubtedly has been one of the greatest defensive actions in world history, the Russian defenders of Leningrad had before them the question of a siege of the city itself, and the problem of whether they could hold the attackers back until cold weather comes to their rescue.

Like northern New England, Leningrad weather is described as "nine months of winter and three months of early spring," and this spring-tide has now given way to the autumnal rains, which will shortly be supplanted by winter's heavy snows.

The Russo-Finnish campaign at the beginning of the war demonstrated that mechanized warfare doesn't pan out so well in the snow and ice, and the Reds are hoping that if they can hold out through the rest of this month, they'll get a progressive breathing spell along the whole front that will permit American aid to materialize, and a reorganization of their defense.

It was evident, not only from the Soviet but from the German communiques that the Russians were putting up a magnificent resistance all along the line, that Budenny's army got across the Dnieper without being completely knocked out as the Germans had forecast, and that General Timoshenko in the center is carrying on a protracted and more or less successful counter offensive, while Voroshiloff on the north is holding the attacking Germans and Finns back as long as he can, while keeping his armies generally intact.

Berlin dispatches told of Russians "contesting every foot of ground," and halting the spearhead advance of the Nazi forces to only a couple of miles or so a day.

Moscow said that first reports of a separate peace with the Finns were premature and inaccurate, yet this might have meant simply that the Russian negotiations with Finland had fallen down, and that the Finns had decided to stick with the Nazis and carry through.

Some observers had thought that as soon as the Finns reached the Russian frontier, and had recaptured all the old Finnish territory that Russians had taken over at the beginning of the war, they would probably quit, or be glad to negotiate for peace.

GASOLINE:

Still a Fight

The gasoline shortage in the eastern section of the United States still was in the controversy stage, with much of the muddle being discussed in print, and revealing how hopelessly confused legislators, administrators and oil operators were with regard to each other and the problem itself.

Some filling station operators wanted to close down, said they were forced out of business. Others wanted a price rise of a cent a gallon. Others wanted a government subsidy. Still others said they were getting along O. K.

Some oil suppliers said there was no shortage, others wanted barges built, still others wanted 17,500 idle tank cars used, and yet the Washington authorities said they couldn't find the cars.

The railroads offered to cut the tank car rate 50 per cent, from 5 cents a gallon to 2 1/2 cents, and the big oil companies pointed out that the tanker rate was one cent a gallon, though this was difficult to figure because practically all the tankers are owned by the companies themselves and they need figure no profit.

Meantime, three pipeline propositions were milling around, trying to get ready to start, while several senators and congressmen, including Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, charged "bureaucratic blundering."

HITLER:

Long-Range Plan

Perhaps the most novel view of Hitler's long-range war plan came from the pen of the talented John T. Whitaker, former Chicago correspondent in Europe.

He said Hitler believes fifth-column activity in America is undermining democracy, and that eventually Washington will call on the British to surrender. Whitaker says the Germans feel that America, not Britain, is the "weak sister."

Colored Fireplace Flames
QUESTION: How can I treat pine cones so that they will burn with colored flames?

Answer: Heat them on a radiator or otherwise to make them open, and then soak them in a solution of copper chloride in water, letting them dry naturally. The color will be a rich blue. Pine cones burn quickly. For a more lasting flame, soak paper toweling in water until it becomes pulp; squeeze handfulls into lumps and let them dry. They soak in the copper chloride solution, and again allow to dry. Drying should be on strips of wood; not on metal, because of the corrosive effect. The stronger the copper chloride solution, the better. Because of the poisonous nature of copper chloride, rubber gloves should be worn when handling the wet lumps. Other chemicals can be used to obtain different colors, but to my mind the intensity of the copper chloride color is the most effective.

Disposal Plant.
Question: What is the advantage of a septic tank over a cess-pool? When we built our house two years ago we were advised to install a septic tank to avoid the trouble of cleaning the cesspool. Now we are told that the septic tank must be cleaned, for which the cost would be $20. We cannot see any advantage in having a septic tank.

Answer: You are evidently the victim of a poor installation. Properly put in, a septic tank should go for many years without requiring attention. A septic tank has many advantages over a cesspool, and should be used whenever possible. With cleaning necessary at the present time, I should have the job done by someone who is thoroughly expert and able to make the changes that seem to be necessary.

Tar on Sidewalk
Question: Some tar or roofing compound was spilled on my sidewalk by some mischievous boys. Turpentine and scraping do not seem to help. Could you advise me of anything that would remove this unsightly blotch?

Answer: First soften the tar by covering it with a few drops of oil, (engine or olive oil will do.) After several hours scrape off as much of the tar on the surface as you can. Then, cover the stain with a paste made of fuller's earth or powdered chalk and a half and half mixture of carbon tetrachloride and benzine. The paste should be put on at least one-quarter inch thick. Place a piece of metal over the paste to prevent fast evaporation. When dry, remove the powder, and repeat the process, if necessary.

Radiator Finish
Question: With which finish does a radiator throw off more heat; paint, or bronze or aluminum? Has the difference actually been proven by tests?

Answer: The National Association of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, New York city, announces officially that an oil paint finish radiates about one-sixth more heat than a metallic paint finish. Color of the paint makes little difference.

Grimy Andirons
Question: My brass andirons are blackened near the bottom. Brass polish has no effect. How can I clean them?

Answer: Add salt to vinegar, as much as will be dissolved. Mix with flour to make a paste and spread it on the brass. Allow to remain for an hour or two, and wash off. Be sure to remove all traces of the salt. If necessary follow with polish.

Paint on Screening
Question: When painting the moulding of the galvanized screens for my porch, black paint was touched to the screening. How can I remove it?

Answer: Wipe the screening with a strong solution of washing soda, in water; this will soften the paint which can then be washed off. Follow by rinsing with clear water.

Painted Telephone
Question: How can a couple of layers of paint, lacquer, and aluminum be removed from the base of a telephone hand-set?

Answer: Your contract with the telephone company forbids any work on the telephone instrument; painting, or anything else. You should ask the company to replace your instrument.

Venetian Blinds
Question: What are the essential good qualities to demand when buying venetian blinds; type of wood, finish, metal parts, etc.

Answer: Your best move will be to buy the blinds from a reliable manufacturer or from a dealer of good reputation, and to pay a good price. Quality must be paid for.

'Morale for Defense' Is National Problem

Lack of Rhythm Marks American Efforts to Arm; Wider Use of Plastics in Industry Would Benefit Farmer.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H St., N. W.,
Washington, D. C.

If you've ever watched a slow-motion picture of a high-diver, a professional golfer, or any other trained athlete in action, the thing that strikes you first is the perfect rhythm.

If you come back to America's peace-capital of Washington from Canada's peace-capital of Ottawa, the first thing you notice is the lack of rhythm.

As one just returned American who was comparing notes with me remarked: "Canada seems to be taking the war in her stride."

Certainly Washington is not. Today the one topic in the capital is—"Morale for defense," how to achieve it. And very few people can say how. Morale by speeches doesn't work so well because speech is free and there are always "un-morale" speeches, too. Morale by committee doesn't seem to work. There are plenty of committees. They solicit funds for advertising. Ads appear in the metropolitan papers. One greeted my eye this morning, the first line of which read:

"The next few weeks may decide what will happen in America in these next weeks. You can make people see the truth about the peril you face, that your family faces, that this whole nation faces."

But can you? Or do you want to?

Civilian Defense Effort.

A few days ago, as some of you may have heard me mention over the air, I sat in a little group in Washington where a very earnest, very emphatic man was talking about this very thing. He was an army officer in a branch of the service that is tied up very closely with the civilian defense effort. He is at his desk from 7:30 a. m. to 6:00 at night. I never heard a talk that sounded less like what the average person thinks a professional soldier says when he "sounds off."

"If things go the way they are going," he said—(he referred to the lag in defense production and the lack of civilian support of our defense effort)—"it will be fine for me. I'll be a major-general. But you civilians and your children will have to pay for a bigger and bigger army, the rest of your lives. In the end, there will be nothing left of life as we have known it in America."

He went on to say that the time had come to explain to the American people that "it is no longer a question of whether you like Britain, whether you approve of the administration, what you think of the President, but just what is going to happen to you" if the United States doesn't end dissension over defense, and build up an unbeatable machine right now which is stronger than the potentialities of the Axis.

Need for Co-operation.

Objective observers here say that the trouble with the defense program itself boils down to this: civilian demands have been taken care of rather than defense demands. You can't have your guns and your butter, too. Nearly 9,000,000 man-days have been lost by strikes. Business that wants to help the government has frequently been given insufficient co-operation—that is the government has not been geared to tell just what it wants. Business that doesn't want to help has not been forced to.

Back of it all is public apathy. And that is the key note. Washington can't be described as apathetic. It is hectic. But there isn't sufficient drive from the people throughout the country to move congress into dynamic action. The leaders in Washington have not the sufficient assurance that congress and the people are back of them so that they can drive through their programs.

In Ottawa there are no bands playing, no soldiers on parade.

But there is some tension. An Englishman just over said to me that, after spending two days in the Canadian capital, he was worn out and "longed for the tranquillity of London." But Ottawa's tension is merely the strain of a nation with a relatively small population carrying a heavy burden.

Excitement seems to vary in direct proportion to the distance from the shooting. The nearer to the front, the more folk saw wood and the less they say.

Use of Plastics Would Aid Farmer

Have you been to the five- and ten cent store lately? I went down in the basement of one the other day and had some surprises. I bought a cake knife. It was made of plastic, but it was plenty sharp enough to cut bread. There were a lot of other things—fountain pens, inkwells, automatic pencils—made from plastic. So I began to wonder if maybe the shortages in metals caused by war was really beginning to absorb some of the farm surpluses from which plastics can be made. I asked a member of the department of agriculture.

"The use of plastics is slowly on the increase," I was told, "but the little gadgets you see in the stores are just the bridge from the test-tube to commercial production."

Already the aluminum parts on certain machines are being substituted with plastic. Washing machines. Business machines. However, so far these smaller articles are chiefly synthetic, chemical plastics. They aren't touching the cornstalks. They are as yet experimental.

Tung Oil Production.

In other fields, the war has created new uses for agricultural products. War conditions have hastened perfection of these uses. Formerly we imported 10,000,000 pounds of tung oil a year. This year we have produced 5,000,000 tons from our home-grown tung and we have made great progress in producing drying oils from other things such as soy beans, linseed and castor beans. Thorough tests have been made of the use of soy oil in paints and enamels and a report on that subject is now available from the department of agriculture. I'll be glad to send you one.

The humble soy bean, once considered good for little but to be plowed under as fertilizer, is coming to the help of Britain. Casein from soy is replacing casein from milk, which makes it possible to release more cheese for England—cheese, and dried milk, too, are two of the island's crying needs.

Waste Found
But No Graft

Senator Truman, Democrat of Missouri, has been checking up on how efficiently the defense program was being run. Among other things, he reports that a million dollars have been wasted because of lack of plans for training the huge force of men which was inducted into the army. This applies specifically to housing the soldiers.

As a matter of fact the army wasn't expecting any such number as was suddenly placed on its hands. They had to hurry, and haste makes waste. But there is one consolation. The senator found no graft.

Checking Up on Air Propaganda

When I was broadcasting the early days of the war from Germany, it always gave me a strange feeling to sit in the government-controlled radio station in Berlin and listen to the foreign broadcasts coming in. I knew that it meant penalties as high as death for the German citizen to listen to what I was hearing. Of course, German radio officials monitored the stations.

Today the American government is monitoring foreign broadcasts. Not because they care whether the Americans listen or not—not very many do—but because, to quote from a statement by the Federal Communications commission: "Today almost every political, diplomatic or military move is presaged by shifts in propaganda treatment. Consequently through study of propaganda trends, it is often possible to predict such moves—the altered tone of foreign broadcasts gave the first indication that Germany was about to invade Russia, and that Japan intended to occupy Indo-China."

Propaganda by air, the FCC says, uses "the old devices of exaggeration, suppressions, distortion, appeals to selfish pride and interests, and exploitations of prejudices and jealousies."

Remember that when you tune in on a foreign broadcast.

DISCHARGING A RESPONSIBILITY

A Statement of Employee Policy by the Central Western Division of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The privilege of leadership in any industry carries with it heavy responsibilities and obligations. Honest discharge of these duties, we feel, is imperative to the maintenance of an orderly, going business—a business in which management shares with its employees and customers savings effected through efficient operation. Such a business is ours.

The necessity of taking stock is recognized in all business by employee and management alike. In the A&P organization, however, there is considerably more to this routine "must" than counting the number of cans of foodstuffs on the shelves of our stores; the tea, coffee and butter poundage. Stock-taking with us means consideration of all the interests of our customers, suppliers and our employees.

Officers and directors of A&P are confronted by this tremendous responsibility every day. Careers, human personalities and scores of other "intangibles" are in the balance. Shelves are easily restocked; not so these other factors.

After a series of "stock-takings," with pardonable pride we announce that, effective this week, all of the some 4,500 full-time store clerks in this area will share with fellow employees from coast to coast what we believe is the first 5-DAY, 48-HOUR WEEK in the history of the retail food industry, labor contracts and other local variables permitting.

To our employees in this division whose untiring efforts and efficiency have made possible the position we enjoy in the food industry, and to hundreds of thousands of satisfied customers whose cooperation we respectively seek in making our new work schedule a success, we take this opportunity to reaffirm a few of the cardinal principles upon which A&P was founded 82 years ago by the late George Huntington Hartford, father of its present day owners.

The new work schedule is in line with a long-standing policy of A&P to give its employees the shortest working hours and the highest wages in the industry. It provides that wages of all employees will be the same as for the 52-hour week which has been in effect for several months.

It was in the cracker-barrel period a quarter-century ago that A&P boldly defied tradition and broke with the dawn-to-dusk hours of the grocery business by reducing the work week from 72 hours to 65.

Regardless of the highly-competitive nature of the food business, A&P has always felt work hours of retail food store employees were too long. It has constantly sought ways and means of reducing them so that A&P employees could enjoy more leisure and, to a greater degree, the warmth and comforts of home life with their families.

Our recent decision to further reduce employee working hours once again has paced the industry in raising the living standards of retail clerks. But the management is confident the continued efficient support of its employees will prove, as it has in the past, that better working conditions, fewer hours at the store and more at home, and higher wages will in no way endanger the savings we have always made available to our customers.

Wage increases and added compensation during the last year, coupled with a recent shortening of working hours, have given A&P employees the best average wages and the shortest general working hours in the industry — dramatic evidence that through efficient operation it is possible to achieve both low prices to consumers and good working conditions for employees. Wages of full-time clerks in the Central Western Division alone have risen approximately 65 per cent since 1934, at which time they exceeded appreciably the average for retail food store employees in all sections of the country.

During the last decade, A&P has effected a considerable reduction in working hours, inaugurated vacations with pay, provided free and additional group insurance, sick benefits, half-days off, hospitalization and compensation to employees joining the nation's armed forces as well as many and frequent increases in the wage scale.

The A&P management has always been keenly conscious of its responsibility to its employees, many of whom have devoted their working lives to its interests.

The company will continue to maintain the same interest in its employees' welfare it has always shown. Additional improvements in working conditions and benefits will continue as rapidly as increased efficiency in operation make them possible.

DEFENSE BOND Quiz

Q. Can Defense Savings Stamps be redeemed?

A. Yes; they can be redeemed for cash at face value or exchanged for Defense Savings Bonds. For example, 75 of the 25-cent Stamps — total cash value $18.75 — may be exchanged for a Defense Savings Bond which in 10 years will be worth $25.

Q. How long have Defense Savings Stamps been on sale at retail stores?

A. Sale of Stamps at retail stores originated in the State of Michigan on July 10. The idea met with such success that it is spreading rapidly, and soon Stamps will be sold in most retail stores on a Nation-wide basis.

NOTE — To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for a mail-order form.

INSTALLMENT FOURTEEN—The Story So Far

Laura Maguire, wife of happy-go-lucky Mike, editor and mayor of Covington, is mother of four children, hit by the depression.

Tom, who separates from his wife, Mary Etta, when she refuses to give up her secretary job, to join him in the smaller town after his real estate job peters out.

CHAPTER XX

Shirley took a quick step forward, then paused abruptly, her knees trembling as Jaid went on.

"I found a second-hand clothing man who relieved me of my dress suit and studs for thirty dollars. But I've nothing else to sell, Joe. And you gotta be reasonable. A hundred and fifty's all this hole is worth. There it is on the table. Take it like a good boy and call it a deal."

"No! No!" cried Joe violently. "Two hundred dollar! Not a cent less."

"But, Joe—"

"No can do."

"I'll pay you the rest so much a month."

"All cash, no credit."

"But, Joe, have a heart." Jaid's voice was hoarse. "You don't know what this means to me. There's a girl I love her better than she's everything to me. Everything! And I'm losing her because we can't get married. You say there's a living in this place. If a man can make good by sweating his heart out, I will. Maybe she'd laugh in my face if I asked her to move into a dump like this. But it's my only chance. For God's sake try to understand. I'm losing the girl I love and I can't do anything about it."

"Two hundred dollars," insisted Joe.

"And I thought I'd found the way out," muttered Jaid with something that was almost a sob.

"You have," whispered the girl in the doorway to the rear room.

"Shirley!" At first he could only stare. At her radiant eyes, her tremulous lips.

"I sold your ring, Jaid, for a hundred and twenty-five. Here it is. Give Joe his price and tell him to clear out."

She was in his arms. They clung together. "It will be hard work and everybody will laugh at us," he whispered.

"Do you mind?"

"I don't mind anything when I have you in my arms like this."

"Neither do I," whispered Shirley.

Again his laugh rang out exultantly. He added to the pile of bills on the counter.

"Pack up your duds and beat it, Joe. This place has changed hands."

They hung out a sign, "Closed Temporarily for Repairs" and visited the dollar store. They had some working capital, that precious seventy-five dollars above the cost of the place. Shirley selected pale yellow dishes and green glasses with a cut crystal effect and glittery new pots and pans that had green handles. They bought yellow oilcloth by the yard for the table covers and window drapes. Shirley knew how to scallop them with the scissors. Jaid purchased paint and hammer and nails.

They were back at ten. They hired an ancient Negro with a moth-eaten mule to cart off loads of rubbish. They scoured the floors and Jaid painted the walls an apple green while Shirley did the chairs in ivory. They tacked up the yellow oilcloth drapes and stacked the new green glasses and yellow dishes behind the counter. Jaid solved the bedroom problem by turning the hose on it and leaving the sun and air to do the rest. Late in the afternoon they moved the furniture back inside and Shirley made up the bed with crisp new sheets and a green crepe spread.

"It doesn't look half bad," said Jaid with a throbbing pride in his voice. "You aren't weakening, are you, darling?"

"No! No!" exclaimed the girl in his arms.

Again they clung together. They were going to be married at last, after four years! This was their wedding night. Shirley's heart thudded deliciously against her side. Jaid's face blazed with fugitive color. They locked up the place and walked down the street. Jaid's coupe had gone the way of his dress studs. But he had a marriage license in his pocket. His hand tightened on her arm. And they laughed above the tumult in their pulses.

Of course it was nothing like their plans, that quiet ceremony in the old Methodist parsonage. There were no bridesmaids, no flower-strewn aisles, no music. It was very still in the old-fashioned parlor. But the windows were flung open to the garden. The air was soft and sweet with dusk, the old minister's voice very gentle and reverent.

"I do pronounce you man and wife."

Shirley's hand closed convulsively on Jaid's. He stooped and kissed her. The old minister's wife wiped her eyes. She wasn't always happy about the couples who came unexpectedly to be married under her roof. But this boy and girl had meant it when they swore to cherish each other always—in sickness or in health, for better or worse, till death did them part. They were wedded to each other's hearts, those two. It shone from their eyes.

Laura, with Lou's aid, was setting the table for dinner when Shirley and Jaid came in. Their faces were a revelation. They did not need to say anything.

"You're married! And you didn't tell me!"

For a minute Laura felt she couldn't bear it. She had tried never to fail her children. And yet Shirley, her beautiful sweet Shirley had married without a word. In someone else's house. Laura had not even been there, or Mike. It wasn't as if they would have disapproved. Laura was glad, terribly glad that Shirley was married. But it hurt that in the biggest hour of her life she had not come home to her mother and father, had not even told them.

And then with a glance at her daughter's radiant eyes, Laura swallowed her resentment.

"You see," said Shirley when they had explained about the sandwich shop. "Jaid's mother will be furious. But she can't be angry at you, Mother, because you knew nothing about it. No one is to blame but Jaid and me. And I'm afraid we don't care a lot whether she ever forgives us or not.

At least, thought Laura, none of her children had ever said quite that about her. She went upstairs with Shirley to pack her overnight bag. Her other things would be sent on in her trunk the next day. Laura managed to be very gay as she helped Shirley collect her frilly little pink negligee and a demure white nightgown from her hope chest.

But Laura was not really gay. It wrrenched her heart when Shirley closed the door on her girlhood forever and came down the stairs to Jaid, but Laura did not betray it. Mike was waiting with his new son-in-law and he kissed Shirley and told her she had never done a smarter day's work and warned Jaid to expect him to drop in often for a free handout and sent them off with a chuckle. Only Laura knew that Mike's lips were quivering. Only she was there when he turned to her with blurred eyes.

The moon had risen when Shirley and Jaid came back to Joe's place. It silvered the oak leaves. Jaid snapped on the lights inside. They gleamed on shining walls and new china and glittering green glass. But in the back room, the moon cast light enough.

"It isn't the way I promised," Jaid said, "but I love you, Shirley. And I'll work myself to death to make up to you for everything you ought to have and haven't."

"What haven't I?" whispered the girl. "I've the man I love. I've his name and his love and his respect. The right to make him a home and bear his children. The right to live for him and for them. What more can any woman want?"

"Darling!"

His lips found hers.

"I love you, I love you!" whispered Shirley who had been unable to say the things that mattered.

Back home Laura Maguire wiped her eyes and carefully put away the miniature of Great-grandmother Ashe.

It had served its purpose.

CHAPTER XXI

Alec Maguire did not come home to dinner the night Shirley married. He did not even telephone. Laura found herself wishing that her son

A SELECTED STORY
BY A GIFTED
AUTHOR

Alec, who, out of a job, had been running around with a flashy divorcee and who becomes interested in Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter. Her father died rescuing a crippled boy in a fire. He takes her to his mother's home. Shirley, engaged to Jaid Newsum, who is also out of work and whose mother wants him to marry Connie

Mays, the banker's daughter. Kathleen, who against her will, is becoming interested in Ritchie Graham, who is also a newspaperman and aids her father in angering the banker. The latter causes the paper to lose its advertising.

Shirley pawns her ring to buy a hamburger stand. Jaid also comes to buy it.

Alec was not too old for a session with the hair brush. It seemed to Laura that on top of everything else, Lou was just too much. Of all days in the year to be saddled with the girl. And such a tongue-tied, nervous little creature. Laura had talked herself hoarse trying to relieve the child's dreadful timidity. But Lou still trembled when Laura spoke, and her eyes watched the door—for Alec.

Kathleen was dining out. She might have helped. Lou had seemed less afraid of her than of the others. She shrank every time Mike addressed her. He had even less success than Laura with the poor little thing. Tom looked tired and depressed. He scarcely spoke at all. Mike had had another run-in with Banker Mays over an editorial in the morning Clarion. Mike detailed the episode with gusto. He thought it highly entertaining. But it worried Laura. Mike laughed when he discovered that Kathleen's engagement was with Eugene Mays' son. Laura also failed to find that amusing.

Altogether dinner at the Maguire house was not a happy occasion that night. Laura was glad when they rose from the table. Mike had a Council meeting. He was gone when Laura finished in the kitchen. Tom, looking drawn and white, went up to his room and closed the door. His haggard face haunted Laura. But it had not invited confidences. He wanted to be alone. She was his mother and she ached with his pain. But she could do nothing. Another woman had his happiness in her keeping.

Laura, with Lou trailing after her like a shy dejected shadow, sat down in a big wicker chair on the veranda and leaned her head wearily back. For once Laura's natural buoyancy deserted her. She had a wild desire to indulge in a few well-salted tears, a luxury she rarely allowed herself. Shirley was married, a bride this night in a hamburger joint. The bride's mother always weeps. Laura felt in the humor to do a lot of that. Only there was Lou, huddled in the porch swing, small, dejected, pitiful. Laura felt like swearing. She couldn't let down even for a minute and be just a plain discouraged human. She knew Lou would most likely faint with fright if her hostess put on a sob act.

"It's a lovely evening, isn't it?" murmured Laura, trying for the hundredth time to thaw the ices between herself and her guest.

"Yes," whispered Lou.

"At least with Shirley gone I needn't inflict you with the couch," murmured Laura, thinking with a pang that Shirley would never again share Kathleen's virginal bed.

Lou's small hands clenched. "I'm going tomorrow," she said huskily.

Laura glanced at her quickly. The girl's eyes met hers. They were very unhappy and very apologetic. Lou's big blue eyes.

"Alec shouldn't have brought me here," she said. "And I shouldn't have come. I knew you'd hate having me."

Laura flushed. "I don't hate having you, Lou. It's just that I've been a little at a loss fitting you in."

"I know," Lou said. "That's why I shouldn't have come. I don't belong here. I've never had anything or been anywhere. I'm poor white trash and you—you're lovely and so kind, but I—I'll go away tomorrow."

"Where will you go, my child?" asked Laura very gently.

Lou looked away. "I don't know."

Laura reached over and laid her hand on the girl's knee but Lou shrank away.

"You'll stay here till I can work something out for you," said Laura. "I would never forgive myself if I let you go otherwise. And neither would Alec."

"He's ashamed of me," Lou burst out in a smothered voice. "He took me to the Aldrome on a bet. But he doesn't like me. He's just sorry for me and kind-like you."

Laura drew a breath of relief. So there was nothing between Alec and the girl except his instinct to befriend a friendless creature. Laura remembered how all his life Alec had brought in crippled sparrows and dogs with broken legs and insisted on repairing them.

"I can't believe Alec is ashamed of you, Lou," she said. "It doesn't matter that you are poor. So are we."

"But Alec's so wonderful!" breathed the girl with a little sob. "He's just as far above me as those stars up there, and always will be."

She got blindly to her feet and slipped into the house. Laura heard her going up the stairs, heard the bedroom door close behind her, and knew Lou was crying in that mute heartbreaking way she had. Of course she was in love with Alec. Laura signed. And he hadn't come near her all day. Laura wondered where he was. She supposed he was helping Myra Boone massacre time as usual.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE ETERNAL GOD. THE SOURCE OF HELP

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 7:9-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.—Revelation 4:8.

A look into the future is something that would interest most of us, and we have it in this lesson. We agree with Dr. Wilbur Smith that "this is an excellent opportunity to bring to the hearts of our pupils some of these divinely revealed truths which the world, in its mad rush today, so easily and tragically puts aside."

The portion of Revelation, chapter seven, which is before us comes immediately after a section dealing with Israel. The Church is not mentioned. The ones spoken of have come out of "the great tribulation" (as the Revised Version rightly translates it) and are evidently Gentiles who have come to believe in Christ during that time of unparalleled tribulation described in later chapters of this book.

Our lesson therefore deals with a specific time and a certain people in connection with an event yet to take place. But we find in this passage the description of the experiences of those who, like Christians of our day, triumphed through their saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. We may therefore here learn something of the future blessedness of the redeemed.

I. Saved Forever and Ever (vv. 9-12).

Salvation is a reality, and we are never going to be more certain of it than when we, like this multitude, stand in God's presence to praise Him for what He has done in our lives. It is real. Praise God!

Notice that there was an unnumbered multitude from all nations. The good tidings at the time of Christ's birth were for all people (Luke 2:10), and some from all nations respond. Note too that the hosts of the Lord are greater than we might at first suppose.

These redeemed ones had immediate access to God's throne, offering their praise direct. They were clad in the white robes of God's own purity and bore in their hands the palms of victory. They, with the angels, the elders (possibly representing the Church already caught up into heaven), and the living creatures (not "beasts" as in A.V.—They are divine beings of highest character), ascribed a seven-fold praise to God "forever and ever. Amen." It is a glorious picture of completed redemption.

II. Serving Day and Night (vv. 13-15a).

It should be observed that even those who came through the great tribulation did not look to their own deeds or faithfulness to save them. Their white robes of righteousness were washed in "the blood of the Lamb" (v. 14).

Now that they had reached eternity through peril, toil and pain, they would (according to many folks' idea of heaven) sit down for an eternal rest and retirement. Not at all—they found their joy in serving their blessed Lord "night and day"; that is, without any weakness or exhaustion, without any failures or defeat.

III. Satisfied Throughout Eternity (vv. 15b-17).

To be covered by the "tabernacle" of God (whatever it may mean) surely betokens the perfect and constant protection of His own presence. Everything destructive and disturbing will be gone. There will be no lack of any good thing needed to satisfy every desire. There will be no thirst unquenched and no hunger unsatisfied (see similar descriptive passage in Rev. 21:3, 4).

The redeemed are said to be under the tender care of the Good Shepherd Himself; the Lamb (our Redeemer) who is in the midst of God's throne shall lead them, not beside "the still waters" of the Twenty-third Psalm, but "unto living fountains of water." Thus in the beauty of figurative speech, we are assured that God's provision for His children, the redeemed in Christ Jesus, will perfectly satisfy every need of soul and spirit. There is no such satisfaction this side of eternity, but we shall find it there.

Then too, there is to be no sorrow. God Himself is the guarantee that there shall be nothing in that blessed land to cause anyone to shed a tear. Think what that means! Think of the weeping of boys and girls, men and women, who in this world of hatred, sin and suffering, shed bitter tears of pain or sorrow. Well, it were almost enough to know that heaven is a place where there shall be no tears.

Remember that the promises of joyous completed redemption for the great tribulation, will be for all God's children, for us who believe in Christ. Reader, will you not join us today if you are still an unbeliever? Take Christ now as your Saviour.

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR LEFTOVERS!
(See Recipes Below)

TRIMMED TO TEMPT

Leftovers on purpose! There are so many delicious ways of using leftovers why not call them "planned ahead"? Casseroles, meat loaves, salads, soups and so on will do much to turn the tag ends of yesterday's dinner into mealtime "comers".

The trick is not to serve the same old hash or stew in the same old way, but to give leftover foods fresh faces with fresh recipes. Like many thrifty homemakers, you, too, can discover the economy, both in time and money, of buying and preparing a large roast, or more than enough vegetables, with leftovers in mind.

You can't always make mealtime foods come out even. So, let's be practical about the situation. If you serve roast chicken or baked salmon for Sunday dinner, plan to do all sorts of things with the leftover portions for weekday meals.

Summer Meat Pie

- (Serves 6)
- 2 pounds beef-neck or shank or
  - 2 1/2 cups leftover meat, cubed
  - 3 tablespoons flour
  - 2 tablespoons lard
  - 1 small onion, sliced
  - 1 green pepper, chopped
  - 1 cup carrot-slices
  - Sliced mushrooms
  - Salt and pepper

Have the beef neck or shank cut into 1-inch cubes. Dredge in flour, seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown meat in hot lard with onion and green pepper. Cover with hot water and let simmer 1 hour, with kettle tightly covered. Transfer to baking dish, add carrots and mushrooms. Thicken meat liquid, pour over meat and vegetables. Cook in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes, then pipe a border of mashed potatoes around the edge, and bake till potatoes brown.

Salmon a la Ring

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 pimiento
- 1/2 small green pepper
- 2 cups flaked salmon
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- Salt and pepper to taste

Melt the butter, blend in flour, add the milk and cook slowly, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Add green pepper and pimiento cut into strips. Add flaked salmon. When hot, add egg yolks which have been beaten, cook a moment, then fold in mayonnaise and seasonings. Heat again and blend thoroughly. Serve this mixture in the center of a rice ring which has been turned out on a serving platter or chop-plate. Garnish with the buttered peas and sprinkle with paprika.

LYNN SAYS:

When brown sugar hardens so that it cannot be measured accurately, spread it in a shallow pan and heat it slowly in a 275-degree F. oven. If too high a heat is used, the sugar caramelizes. Stir and mash it with a fork. Only enough sugar to be used at one time should be softened, as it hardens again as soon as it is cold.

To sour one cup of milk, put one tablespoon of vinegar in a cup and fill the cup with sweet milk. Stir well.

To clean silverware, mix one tablespoon soda and one tablespoon salt with one quart of water. Boil the silverware in this in an aluminum kettle until the tarnish is removed. Rinse and rub dry.

Give the baby his cod liver oil in the bath tub to avoid the brown stains on blankets and clothes that are so hard to remove.

Rice Ring

Cook 1 cup of rice in 8 cups of boiling salted water. Cook rice until tender and fluffy. Remove from boiling water and rinse well with cold water. Drain thoroughly.

- 1 cup parsley, chopped fine
- 1 onion
- 1/2 green pepper
- 1 cup whole milk
- 2 tablespoons any well-flavored cheese
- 4 eggs
- Salt and pepper to taste

Beat egg yolks until thick, then add the milk, rice and other ingredients. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites last. Pour into a well-greased ring mold. Set in a pan of hot water and bake from 30 to 40 minutes in a 350 to 375-degree F. oven. Or you may want to add leftover meat or fish to your rice foundation. Try one or all—you'll find the combinations tempting.

Romantic Meat Pie

A very nutritious kind of pie is this one, with crescent biscuits riding a sea of meat, vegetables and gravy. And it's an excellent way to serve left-over meat. Almost any of the thrift cuts can be used. You'll need:

- 4 tablespoons fat
- 3 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons green pepper
- 1/2 cup diced celery
- 1 cup diced cooked meat
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk or meat stock
- 1/2 cup diced cooked carrots

Slowly brown onions, pepper, celery and cooked meat in cooking fat, stirring often. Add flour slowly, stirring constantly until brown. Add remaining ingredients. Heat thoroughly. Pour into well-greased baking dish and cover with baking powder biscuits which have been cut in crescent shapes. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until biscuits are browned.

Why not try this sweet potato left-over which is sure to be a hit with either fish, fowl or meat? Mash the potatoes and shape into 1/2-inch cakes. Sprinkle with flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Then serve.

Sure, it's a big problem to figure ways of using assorted flakes and bits of yesterday's meal. But, don't eye them coldly—show them the heat again. Your family will love you for it!

Ham Souffle

- 2 cups scalded milk
- 3 tablespoons butter or other fat
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Buttered bread crumbs
- 2 cups ground cooked ham
- 3 eggs
- Grated cheese

Make a cream sauce of milk, fat, flour and salt. Add bread crumbs and cook 3 minutes. Add ham and egg yolks and carefully fold in whites beaten until stiff. Turn into well-greased baking pan or casserole, spread top with buttered crumbs and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake about 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve at once.

Meals that follow holiday feasts can be made beguiling by clever use of foods left from the feasts themselves.

Salvage leftovers from the relish tray, grind or chop them, moisten with a little salad dressing and out comes a brand new sandwich filler. Spread some between hot toasted rolls or bread slices at snack time. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WE, THE JOHN DOES, ENTITLED TO KNOW

IN LESS THAN 18 months, the congress of the United States, our representatives at Washington, has obligated John Doe, Mrs. John Doe, John Doe Jr., Sally Doe and Baby Doe for $512 each, the whole Doe family for $2,560.

All of us John Does, and our families, realize the need of being prepared to defend our nation, our institutions, our way of life, our homes, but as those who must pay for that defense, we are entitled to know what it is costing and what we are buying.

Appropriations made by congress for 18 months, up to August 1 of this year, have amounted to $67,559,885,510. During that 18-month period, congress has obligated each man, woman and child, including the babies, for $512. Each family of five is obligated for $2,560. And that is not the end, for additional appropriations of from 6 to 10 billion more will probably be made before the end of December.

We John Does do not object to digging down in our jeans to pay for whatever may be necessary to defend this land we love, but as the fellows who must pay the bills, we feel we have a right to know what we need and to receive an accounting as to what we are actually getting for these sums for which we have been obligated.

Certainly someone must know how many really serviceable planes we had when the agitation started and can give an honest statement of what we have now. We should know how many light, medium and heavy tanks we had when it started and how many we have now. We are entitled to more than a statement of an 800 per cent increase in heavy tanks because that is meaningless when we do not know how many, if any, we started with.

With an army of one and a half million civilian employees, it should be possible to keep books, to take an inventory, to know what we have, what we need and what we are getting. If those who represent us at Washington do not know these things, they are spending our money like drunken sailors and when the opportunity offers a year from now, we should carefully pick as representatives others who can be depended upon to obtain the facts and give them to us fellows who must pay the bills.

If it is our money that is being spent so lavishly and we are entitled to know what we are buying, and why.

LIGHTNING RODS

WAY BACK when I was a boy, the wagon of the lightning rod erector was a familiar sight on the country highways. He disappeared with the passing of the last century. It is a safe bet that the farm home or barn ornamented with lightning rods was erected before 1900. It was a profitable racket for a number of years.

GETS IMPORTANT POST

PAUL APPLEBY worked for a couple of years in the print shop of a country newspaper in Missouri. With that experience, he went to Montana and for a few months operated a weekly newspaper there. Then he went to North Dakota and another paper for another few months, and then on to Minnesota. In Des Moines, Iowa, as a member of a debating society, he became acquainted with Vic President Wallace and that acquaintance resulted in his appointment as undersecretary of agriculture. Now Paul Appleby is in England investigating the food needs of the British people for the American government. You might term it "from 'devil' to ambassador."

GOVERNMENT BONDS

A GOOD BUY

WHEN I was a small boy in Iowa, old General Weaver of that state, then the leader of the Greenback party, was a frequent visitor at father's home. His demand was for printing press money. In recent years, we have come close to General Weaver's idea. We have sold the banks 27 billion dollars worth of government bonds and the banks have issued the printing press money. More money means more inflation. To prevent an increase in the currency, the government is selling its nontransferable bonds direct to the public. If the public does not buy voluntarily, it is possible that congress may conscript a portion of each person's income as a means of disposing of the bonds. They are a good buy and their purchase by the public will go far toward preventing that greatly-to-be-feared inflation. We have now more currency than is good for us.

MAIN STREET

MORE THAN three-fourths of all the counties in the United States contain no town of more than 10,000 people. A fraction over 50 per cent of the members of the house of representatives come from districts in which there is no town of over 5,000 people. This is an indication of the part rural America has in determining national policies and legislation. People of the towns and farms can, if they wish, dictate what we, as a nation, shall do. Main street has greater influence than Broadway.

Handsome Wools Are New Style For Town, Travel and School

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A "HONEY" of a jacket suit in deep-honey-colored wool is pictured at right above. The round yoke of the dress ties in a bow under the chin. The all-over embroidered or braided effect is important news for fall. This jacket subscribes to the new technique in an all-over embroidering, in matching honey-colored yarn. Brass buttons artfully blend to the color scheme. The modish off-lace tailored brown felt hat has a corded brim.

Perfect for fall travels is the simple slim black wool dress topped by a plaid jacket in red, black and white as pictured to the right. We have never seen such gorgeous plaids as those out this season. The fashion edict is "plaids for everything," skirts, blouses, jackets, suits. Dresses also have plaid accessories with monotone costumes. Interesting clips fasten it, in line with the sentiment that prevails for spectacular buttons and gadget clips of all sorts. The dashing upstret hat of black felt has a colorful pheasant feather.

Soft two-toned wool makes the goodlooking dress to the left. Here is a model to delight any career girl. It is destined to be a campus favorite too. It flaunts several outstanding fashion trends that college girls adore. Huge patch pockets as shown, register in the list. Then there are the simple straight sleeves. The belt is studded with simple nailheads and there are more nailheads being used this season than you can count. Watch nailheads! Silver buttons fasten it, and the big emphasis is on buttons for fall. Note the pheasant feather on the hat! Hats are being be-feathered as they have not been for years and years past.

Speaking in general, there is lots of jersey being used for everything, from jenkins to hats, daytime dresses and formal evening modes. Designers are trimming silks and wools with velvet also a vast amount of fringe is being used in versatile ways. Buttons are spectacular and look like handsome jewels. Leather trims abound on sports and travel togs.

Take a look at 1941 autumn fashion showings and you will find a new high in costume design. The play made on colors this season is simply fascinating and the big news is rich quality-kind materials, especially the new wool weaves that glorify the entire fashion picture. Most of all, there is that indescribable something about the new coats, suits and dresses, that is surprisingly goodlooking and assuring to women who dress with discriminating taste.

Seeing a prevue of fashions as recently staged by The Style Creators of Chicago, one is especially impressed with the exquisite finesse and workmanship. And the lavish yet subtle use of intriguing surface decoration that marked the styling of the hundred or more coats, dresses and ensembles presented at this gala occasion, by exhibiting members of this noteworthy organization. The foursome of fashions shown here were especially selected from this galaxy of smart fall costumes, selected because of their adaptability for smart town, travel, school and office wear.

You will be wanting a tweed costume suit, of course. If it has a full-length topcoat, as pictured to the left at the top in the group and it will prove a many-purpose outfit that will give you infinite wear. The new raglan shoulder and above-the-waist bulkiness is well portrayed in this toast brown rough tweed. The long coat is closed with large wooden buttons and belted in crushed brown kidskin. The dress beneath has a silk crepe top with draped neckline, interesting pockets and a gold clip.

Lipstick on Lapel

Your lipstick worn at your lapel! Here it is, swinging from a bar-pin on this perfect date dress for the teen-age. No more rummaging about in your purse when you have that impulse to wield woman's most effective weapon. This adorable dress with the lipstick gadget attached is in deep peacock blue-velvet, with bright wool embroidery, accenting the square-neckline.

Feathers and Veilings Popular for Fall Hats

You will be in fashion whether you wear a very large hat or a provocative little confection that plunges forward in a saucy tilt. The little hat is keeping veils in the picture. The newest arrangements calling for veils that mass at the back so as to accent the new back-coverage treatments.

Most of the little hats have snoods to get that back-coverage look that milliners tell us is such an important style feature. If not snoods, then some other novelty that conceals the hair at the back. Larger brims are also shaped downward or curtained with ribbons so as to achieve the back-coverage look.

It is a season for fine feathers of every description. Entire feather hats will be worn and on most of the felts gay quills and pheasant feathers flaunt their bright colors.

'Little Black Dress'

Is Still One Favorite

The dressy afternoon black dress will be repeating its triumphs all over again this fall. Very charming types are fringe-trimmed. Others have wide bands of velvet as trimming. Then again, very ultra types are made of fine fabric cut along the newest doiman-sleeve, loose-fitting blouse lines. They are classics in simplicity.

The dressier blacks are enhanced with lace trims or with jet embroidery. However be the styling dressy or conservatively practical, the big news is that black remains steadfastly in the new autumn style picture.

Trees and Shrubbery Can Be Protected From Rabbit Gnawing

When the snows blow next winter and the law-protected cottontail rabbits get hungry, valuable fruit trees won't be gnawed by the hungry animals if they are protected by a process perfected and tested by horticultural workers at Michigan State College.

By experimentation the process has been simplified and the materials now recommended do not curtail tree growth as some of the previous preparations indicated.

Rosin and ethyl alcohol are the ingredients. The rate is seven pounds of rosin to a gallon of alcohol. The rosin is pulverized and the mixture is permitted to stand 24 hours in a warm room. No heat should be applied as this not only is dangerous but would drive off enough alcohol to alter the composition of the mixture.

Rabbits have a habit in tough winter periods when food is scarce of chewing off tender areas of bark. Orchard operators call this "girdling." It leads to tree killing or the necessity of grafting new tops. Surveys indicate the rabbits reach as high as two feet above the height of drifted snow, so that protection of the bark must extend to that probable height.

One gallon of repellent has been found sufficient to treat 150 to 200 two-year-old nursery trees. The exact number depends on size of trees and height of treatment.

A cheap brush is used for the application. The brushing is done while the tree bark is dry. Subsequent moisture causes a white precipitate but this does not affect the repellent results. One application has been found sufficient for a winter season.

MANY AN ELECTRIC RANGE HAS BEEN SOLD OVER THE BACK FENCE

Today, there are more than twice as many electric ranges in use by our customers as there were but five short years ago.

Here is a fact that becomes all the more impressive when we stop to consider that a greater number of our customers have changed to electric cooking, during the last five years than did during all of the twenty-five years prior to 1936.

What has accounted for so rapid an increase in the number of electric ranges, used by our customers?

There are many reasons of course, yet, it is not difficult to point to one as outstanding among all others. It is the wider knowledge of electric cooking facts that becomes more prevalent as new electric range users are added to the host of women who tell friends and neighbors.

Many a customer's first interest in electric cooking has been aroused by conversation with her electric range owner neighbor. Many a customer's decision to buy her first electric range has been influenced by the facts she obtained from an actual user.

Undoubtedly, electric range users are both directly and indirectly more responsible for many electric range sales than any other single factor. Many an electric range has been sold over the back fence.
