EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1941.

NUMBER 41

Delinquents Are Paying Dog Fees

CITIZENS OF CHARLEVOIX CO. CO-OPERATING WITH OFFICERS

Satisfactory results have been obtained during the past three weeks from a campaign launched by Prosecuting Attorney Norman Ance and Sheriff Floyd Ikens to collect delinquent dog license fees in Charlevoix County.

From 656 letters mailed delinquents as shown by the list turned over by the County Treasurer's Office approximately 500 dog owners have responded, leaving those negligent in a small minority.

Those in charge of the campaign have expressed appreciation of the fine response. In East Jordan the list of delinquents has been reduced to 26 and this number is being reduced daily. The lists for the City of Charlevoix and the townships of Norwood, Marion, Evangeline, Charlevoix, Eveline, South Arm, and Chandler have been nearly completely accounted for.

Prosecuting Attorney Ance reports that thus far officials have failed to contact any single individual who has refused to pay the license fee, indicating that the most prevalent reason for delinquency has been neglect. He stated that the campaign would continue vigorously until all dog license fees in the County are paid. Those who have not responded up to the present time are urged to do so as the state law makes it mandatory that proceedings be instituted against those persons whose names remain upon the list of owners, keepers, or harborers of unlicensed dogs.

C. H. McKinnon Dies Suddenly From Heart Ailment

C. H. McKinnon passed away suddenly Friday afternoon, Oct. 3rd, while at the City Dock at foot of Esterly St. He had been ailing for some time with heart trouble, and while his sudden passing was a shock to our community, it was not unexpected among his close associates.

Charles Hector McKinnon was born at Ripley, Ont., Canada, September 29, 1890, his parents being Hector and Doretta McKinnon, deceased. They came to Alpena in 1891 and in 1909 to East Jordan. On Dec. 1st, 1909, he was united in marriage to Mary M. Bashaw at E. Jordan. They have since resided in East Jordan except from 1928 to 1933 when he was in the auto business at Gaylord. He was salesman for the Northern Auto Co. for over 20 years, and the past few years has been a distributor of house trailers. He was a member of the East Jordan Latter Day Saints church and for several years was its pastor. He has served as president of our Chamber of Commerce for several years and was always active in municipal affairs.

He is survived by the wife and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Herbert Blodgett, East Lansing; Charles McKinnon, Mackinaw City; Omer McKinnon, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mrs. Kenneth Schreier, Gaylord; Hector McKinnon, Michigan City, Ind.; Mrs. George Walton, East Jordan; Richard and Phyllis McKinnon at the parental home. Also by two brothers: John McKinnon, Mancelona; Albert McKinnon, Toledo, Ohio. Funeral services were held at the Latter Day Saints church, Monday afternoon, conducted by Elder Allen Schreier of Gaylord. The services were largely attended by friends in East Jordan as well as many from the surrounding region. As a mark of esteem the business places in our city were closed during the funeral hour. Burial was at Sunset Hill.

Among those here to attend the funeral were the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. John McKinnon, Mancelona; Albert McKinnon, Toledo, Ohio; uncles and aunts — Mrs. Adam Gierke, Mr. and Mrs. Al Gierke, Ed. Gierke, Grayling; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pradshaw, Mancelona. Also friends from Boyne City, Gaylord, Alpena, Bellaire, Charlevoix, Traverse City, Onaway, Lachine, Grayling, South Boardman, Detroit, Lansing, Alma, and Amarillo, Texas.

Skilled Workers Wanted For Overseas Service

The Petoskey office of the Michigan State Employment Service at 215 Howard Street has received orders for recruitment of certain skilled and semi-skilled workers for overseas service with the British Civilian Technical Corps. Service will be in the United Kingdom or elsewhere overseas. The work is non-combatant and non-military and consists of maintenance and repair of technical equipment used by naval, military, and air forces of the British and their allies. The British government furnishes food, lodging, clothing, and wages. In most classifications, the applicants must be between 18 and 50 years of age. These openings would appear to offer considerable chance for adventure without attendant military obligations.

work and our work after the improvements are made.

We do not think the closing of the requested portion of Spring St. will materially affect the rights of anyone except ourselves since we own or plan on owning all property on both sides of the portion we propose to have you close.

Dated October 6, 1941.

East Jordan Iron Works: By W. H. Malpass.

Moved and seconded that on Monday, November 3rd, 1941 at 7:30 p. m. on said date this council meet at the City Building and hear any and all objections to the said proposed closing of the above described portion of Spring St. that if there be any objections they be filed with the City Clerk in writing before the time of said meeting; and that if any such written objections be filed the said portion of Spring St. shall not be vacated, discontinued or abolished except by a concurring vote of two-thirds of the councilmen elect.

That Notice of the hearing of objections to the proposal to vacate said portion of Spring St. be published in the Charlevoix County Herald for four successive weeks commencing with the October 10th, 1941 issue. Ayes — Healey, Sinclair, Malpass. Nays — Shaw. Not Voting — Winston. Motion carried. Moved to adjourn.

JUNIORS SELECT RINGS

Last Wednesday, the Junior Class held a meeting and decided the style for their class rings. Mr. Terryberry of the Terryberry Co. displayed several beautiful styles. The class decided on a rather plain but distinguished style. These rings can be had in either silver or gold, or gold with a silver band. They can be ordered from the Sandac Jewelry Store any time this week. The rings will probably be here about the first of December.

New Technique Aids in Teaching of Chemistry

AMES, IOWA.—Chemistry now is fun at Iowa State college—ever since it tangled with streamlining and came out second best. For Iowa State has adopted "semimicro" chemistry.

Test tubes no bigger than the little finger—liquids measured in a medicine dropper—that is "semimicro" or "midget" chemistry. And this science on a small scale has injected a new fascination into the college curriculum.

In semimicro chemistry students need use only one-tenth the chemical material as under the old, or macro-chemistry system, but that isn't the only advantage.

Perhaps the most important thing about this streamlined version of chemistry is that it makes the laboratory a healthier and a safer place. Since chemicals used are cut to fractions, so are laboratory odors. Existing ventilating equipment can whisk away in a jiffy the fumes on a scrap of metal.

System Ready to Keep Check on the Ohio River

CINCINNATI.—A radio-telegraph system to keep communications open in time of flood and other emergencies in the Ohio river drainage area has been placed in operation.

Col. E. H. Marks, army district engineer here, said that the system will be manned at all times, ready for 24-hour emergency duty. It will be used for regular messages in normal periods.

While essentially a telegraph system, radio telephone is provided for patrol boats in flood emergencies. There are 24 stations, six of 250-watt power and 18 of 100 watts. Six are land stations and the rest on boats. The chief stations are located at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Huntington, Louisville and Nashville.

Work is progressing on a chain of 14 stations of 15-watt-power at dams in the Muskingum conservancy district, to be used normally to send news of rainfall and water stages.

King Zog's Law Restored in Greek-Held Albania

ATHENS.—Gen. Alexander Papagos, chief of the Greek general staff, issued a decree recently providing for restoration in Greek-occupied areas of Albania of the law of King Zog, who fled when Italy seized Albania early in 1939.

The decree set forth that normal Albanian civil tribunals would administer justice henceforth and that Albanian law would be applied except in cases where it might obstruct the Greek forces of occupation. Validity was restored to the deeds and laws of King Zog's reign. (Ex-King Zog was last reported in London, where he has passed most of his exile. The opinion there was that he would not return to Albania soon.)

Hunting Regulations of Last Year Remain in Effect

The hunting regulations printed in red on the new game law digests are the ones that will be in effect during the hunting seasons this fall. These are the same regulations that were in effect last fall.

When the digests were printed, it was not known whether new laws, effecting hunting which were passed by the present legislature would be in effect or not. Therefore, both the old and new laws were printed on the digest. New laws do not take effect until ninety days after adjournment of the legislative session. The legislature has not adjourned as yet therefore; new hunting laws passed by the present legislature will not be effective this fall.

East Jordan Runs Over Mancy

CRIMSON WAVE TAKES MAN-CELONA GAME 34 - 0

Showing the most drive that they have had all year, the high school football team defeated Mancelona 34 to 0 last Wednesday.

In the first half, Mancelona held East Jordan to one touchdown and extra point, although East Jordan threatened to crash over on several occasions.

In the second half, the Crimson Wave really began to roll, pushing over four big ones, plus three extra points.

Bad luck, off the field, continued to plague the team; when it was learned last Monday that Bill Walden, junior, a second string half back who has shown lots of speed from that position, had cut his foot on a piece of glass and may be out for some time. Grutsch, senior guard, cut his leg before the Frankfort game, and will see his first action of the year at Charlevoix next week.

The only accident to happen on the field as yet, happened two weeks ago when Jack Sommerville, freshman end, twisted his arm in practice and tore a ligament.

Charlevoix looked good in the Boyne game although beaten 12 to 0, and may be a tough nut for East Jordan to crack. But with two weeks in which to practice, the locals are given a good chance when they travel to Charlevoix Saturday, October 18.

Home Economics Leaders Hold First Lesson

The first lesson in the coming winter project was held last week Wednesday, with 26 leaders in attendance representing 15 communities.

Miss Ruth Peck is again our specialist from Michigan State College. The forenoon session was devoted to a little business meeting followed by a general outline of the five lessons which make up the project.

The first lesson was devoted to the "Selection of Fabrics for Slip Covers." Later on it is estimated that some twenty chairs will be recovered or other spring unit articles.

This year the following communities are carrying on the extension project: Peninsula, Burgess, South Arm, East Jordan No. 1, East Jordan No. 2, Barnard, Evangeline, Clarion, Charlevoix, Deer Lake, Marion Center, Chandler, and three groups from Boyne City.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Nazis Launch Repressive Campaign In Answer to Anti-German Revolts And Widespread Acts of Sabotage; England Claims Mastery in Air War

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Scene of U. S. army war maneuvers has shifted from Louisiana to South Carolina and this picture shows a bit of action as the "fighting" got under way. Here one side had established a bridgehead and a pontoon bridge was built for trucks and artillery. But before they could cross completely, enemy planes appeared and "bombs" exploded to "demolish" the rear units.

NAZIS:

More Trouble

According to reports from Europe, German officials were busy with a repressive campaign throughout their conquered and occupied territory to prevent the spread of a vast behind-the-front anti-German movement. Acts of sabotage were reported from Belgium, France, Denmark and Czechoslovakia and the Nazis were doing everything to put down what to some observers looked like a general revolt.

The slaughter of Czechs in Bohemia and Moravia through "drumhead" courts-martial instituted by the new regime had continued to keep pace with, even to surpass the killings in occupied France.

Eighty-eight were reported killed in three days, 58 in one day.

Reinhard Heydrich, former chief of Berlin's secret police, who had been made "protector" of Czechoslovakia, or what was left of it, was using the mailed fist to stamp out a persistent rebellion.

The same story was coming out of Bulgaria, with reports from Sofia of 543 persons arrested in one day in one Black sea port.

The Bulgars, blood brothers and friends of the Russians, were revolting at any efforts the Germans might make to use their country as a by-pass to get eventually at Caucasian-Russian oil fields.

AIR MASTERS:

Churchill

The first victory of the war of any real import to Britain had been announced in most positive terms by Winston Churchill when he told the house of commons that the Royal Air force had attained mastery of the air.

The information was given to parliament just as London celebrated its second month without an air raid alarm. The prime minister asserted that the R.A.F. was in a position to bomb Rome at any time that it seemed convenient or advisable, and reported that Cairo definitely had not been bombed, denying previous reports that this had occurred.

The reaction was swift in coming from Berlin and from Rome. In the latter city the pope was reported to be sending a message via Myron C. Taylor to President Roosevelt asking him to use his influence with Britain to pass up the bombing of Rome.

The President, on the other hand, was said to have sent a message to His Holiness suggesting politely that he might take up his residence at a safer spot.

The Berlin answer was a quintuple bombing raid, not on London, but on five northeastern cities, with heavy casualties reported. The defense of these cities was presumably not as good as that of London.

At the same time the R.A.F. was conducting continuous and heavy raids with squadrons running as high as several hundred planes. One raid on the port city of Stettin was conducted for five solid hours by waves of bombers.

Italy made a strong attack by air on a British protected convoy in the Mediterranean, but eyewitness reports were that terrific casualties in men and planes were suffered, and the battleship Nelson, while damaged by a torpedo, "suffered only a slight diminution of her speed."

SEA POWER:

Viewed by Knox

Sea power of Britain and the United States—both present and to come—will spell the end of the triple Axis, said Secretary of the Navy Knox in an address.

He also declared that once the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance had been defeated it would be up to the United States and Britain permanently to pool their forces "to stop new aggression."

Many wondered if he left Russia out of the picture deliberately.

Starts Taking

The government had started with the first of the month the heaviest "take" of taxes in American history—$3,000,000 a day.

But it was only a small part of the whole tax program, which would nick the American pocketbooks to the tune of $13,000,000,000 a year, and when one figured that a billion is a thousand million, and that three million a day is only a little more than a billion a year—it gave some idea of what the huge burden would be.

Contrasted with the World war "take" it was 13 billion against about 7 billion, or not quite twice as much money—and there were 30,000,000 more people to share in the payment.

For instance, in 1918, the exemptions were $2,000 for the head of a family and $1,000 for single persons—as compared with $1,500 and $750 today.

That, it was figured, would bring still more of the nation's 150,000,000 people into the burden-bearing fold.

The first taxes to be levied had been the special excise taxes, and the government was taking unusual steps to prevent merchants from raising prices more than they should, so as to be sure that the burden should be placed squarely on the buyer, and that the buyer could know he or she was paying it.

There was some heavy buying in advance of the day, but not more than had been expected.

LABOR:

Still Restless

A sudden strike at the Dodge division of Chrysler Motors had been settled, but there were many other strikes or threats of strikes, showing plainly that labor unrest was far from settled.

Twenty thousand had walked out at the Briggs auto body plant in Detroit, and the eight largest hotels in Pittsburgh were closed down because of a general strike of some 2,000 workers.

An ordinance strike was reported at Sandusky, Ohio, involving truck drivers and iron workers.

At the same time the government decided to increase widely the steel capacity of the bigger companies, which would mean not only a heavy construction program to be financed by the government, but a further shifting of the labor population.

AMERICA-FIRST:

Gets Publicity

Most of the interventionist newspapers were pursuing a new policy toward the utterance of America Firsters as they held their convention in Bridgeport. The idea, apparently, was to play up the speeches with front-page headlines instead of "burying them inside the paper" on the theory that the nation was sufficiently aroused to be further aroused by hearing what the America First leaders had to say.

The speakers, including Senator Nye and others did not disappoint the editors. Nye electrified a Bridgeport audience by telling the public that by working in defense plants, and by turning non-defense plants into defense work they were laying the groundwork for the complete financial ruin of the city.

The North Dakotan painted a horror picture of a Bridgeport with no work, no money, hardly anything to eat after the defense boom was over, and informed them how foolish they were to throw themselves into the defense construction campaign with such enthusiasm.

Other speakers condemned critics of Lindbergh's anti-Semitic speech at Des Moines, and the new commander of the American Legion was called in one address a "Benedict Arnold," hoodwinked into being one by Frank Knox.

"Defend me from my friends; I can defend myself from my enemies."

That is what the farmer is beginning to say these days as he casts a wary eye toward some of his "friends" in congress, who are shouting "let her rip" when others urge some kind of a "ceiling" on farm prices.

The people who really have the interest of American agriculture at heart talk this way:

"The farmer has been on the downside of parity for a long time. He ought to be allowed to ride on the upside awhile. But inflation means deflation and deflation hits the farmer hardest as he knows from his bitter experience in 1921 and '22."

So these more conservative folk are urging a ceiling placed at 110 per cent of parity. And from the way things look now, in spite of the farmers' professional friends who are shouting "let her rip," that figure will probably be established in the pending price control bill, plus a good set of teeth to enforce such a limit on runaway farm price figures.

Well, says the farmer, how about a ceiling on wages, too?

It would be a courageous prophet who would predict that wages will be limited by law now, although the administration would like to see that happen—if congress made it happen. There is just one argument that the worker puts up against a wage ceiling, and while it is hardly based on sound economic principles it has in it a certain amount of the quality of justice that cannot be denied. The workman says:

"There is no limit on supply. Nature can go on producing and the producer can reap the benefit as long as there is a demand. But the amount of labor a man can do is limited no matter what the demand is. There are just so many hours in the day."

And that is what the government faces when it sits down and tries to figure out a price control bill that will be fair to everybody.

Prediction Impossible

Nobody can sit here in Washington and predict just what is going to happen to farm prices, wages, peace, war, love or silk stockings in the next few years. The officials know, as the farmer knows, what happened to agriculture in and after the last war—chills and fever, with the feverish days of high prices and land speculation followed by the chilly days when the banker owned most of the farms and there were more absentee landlords than there were ticks in a grandfather's clock.

That is history and the job the department of agriculture has done—with the help of the farm organizations and congress—is to try to keep history from repeating itself. This is the way one official summed the situation up for me:

"A billion dollars is going to be spent for food for Britain in the next year. Wages are up all over the country. Pretty soon when defense production pushes a lot of gadgets off the market, folks will spend more on food because they won't have a lot of other things to spend it on. It will be a case of going down to the corner and getting another dish of ice cream instead of going riding in the new car you can't buy because there aren't enough cars to go around."

So far, so good for the farmer.

But what about the time when lend-lease spending ends, when there may not be so many dollars in so many pay envelopes? Will the farmer be faced with more surpluses on his hands?

Let's listen to my friend again on that subject.

"We've got a law, you know," he said, "a law that says that this extra production the government is urging has a price guarantee of 85 per cent of parity—a promise, an obligation, on the part of the government to support prices for milk and eggs and pork and chickens at 85 per cent of parity."

"And we also have a law—part of the same one—that says the secretary of agriculture has to give due notice in advance when it is time to stop extra production of these products. So this time the farmer will have a chance to get out from under—to shift his production while there is yet time, to cut his cloth according to his suit."

Will it work? Well, if we can prevent the fever now, there certainly is a chance of avoiding the chills—afterward, when we beat our tanks into tractors again.

Can a War Be Won Without Fighting?

Whither are we drifting? That is the favorite question posed by all the good, old-fashioned orators.

What is the answer today? Is it into war?

Sitting here in my office looking down over a busy street in the capital I wonder. I see the slim tip of the Washington monument in the distance. I see the gentle hills of Virginia beyond. Between the hills and a filmy fringe of trees the peaceful Potomac is flowing. I can imagine, when I close my eyes, equally peaceful scenes across the nation: Busy corners in midwest towns, the hurrying crowds in Denver—a mile up with Pike's Peak and sister mountains rimming the horizon—the soft bay at San Diego, the wide sweep of Lake Michigan, palmetto-fringed squares of the South, steep streets of Seattle, the neat white houses of the Southwest still bearing the gentle mark of their Spanish heritage.

Are these quiet places to send their sons to die in some far country? I think not. Perhaps this is a wishful thought. But let me repeat to you a conversation that took place as I walked home from a recent news conference at the White House. Three of us came down the winding drive and out onto historic Pennsylvania avenue.

Another American-owned ship had been sunk. The President had spoken very earnestly, very emphatically. He had spoken about new measures of defense, about resisting attempts of a group who were trying to gain a foothold to dominate the Western hemisphere.

"It looks," said one of the men, "like a declaration of war."

I glanced up quickly to see what the other member of our threesome would say. Like me, he had fought in one war and covered two.

"No," he said, "I believe that Franklin Roosevelt wants to go down in history as the President who won a war without having to fight it."

I smiled because I agreed.

That man's comment is not pontifical. But it is typical of at least one group of observers here in the capital. Perhaps they are right. I hope so. I still believe so.

Legion's Attitude

Take, for example, the more beligerent attitude of the American Legion. The Legion has always been strong for defense. (You would be, too, if you have ever been in a fighting unit.) But heretofore it has always been against foreign entanglements. It has always been against foreign wars. At its convention in September, however, the Legion voted to support the President's "shoot-on-sight" naval policy with all it implies.

Why the change?

As a former soldier and Legionnaire I had my ideas. But I heard them best expressed by a man who knows the Legion better than I do.

He said, with the philosophy of an old soldier:

"We have started shooting. You can't shoot and argue at the same time without spoiling your aim."

But this does not mean to me that we are going to war tomorrow. It simply means that the President has more backing in carrying out his policy of beating Hitler without fighting a war. Of course, there will be naval engagements, but the President puts these in the category of the early battles in our history between the navy and pirates and privateers.

Easily Won Small minds are won by trifles. Latin.

"IT'S to be another jumper year," says every fashion prophet who knows a thing about school smartness. Pattern No. 1450-B sounds a new note in jumpers—it has a jacket, too. The jacket is long sleeved, waist length, collarless—of a peasant feeling which keys it perfectly for the youthful, wide-skirted jumper. The latter is cut with a square neckline, low enough in front and in back to allow a great part of pretty blouses or soft sweaters to be clearly visible. The jumper closes with a placket in the side which may be closed with snaps, hooks and eyes, buttons or a zipper.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1450-B is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Cor.

Irrepressible Small Boy Has Ready Explanation

"Now, children," said the school teacher, after a nature lesson, "I have told you how the new little birds learn to fly. I am going to play the piano and I want you to imitate the little birds' movements with your arms in time to the music."

She sat down at the piano and as the music went on, all the children waved their arms energetically, with one exception, little Johnny.

"Come along, Johnny," said the teacher coaxingly; "why did you not imitate the newly hatched birds as I told you?"

"Please, miss," replied the small boy, "I'm a bad egg!"

Mr. C. H. Dewey who lived alone in his Dewey Dells cottage on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, had a paralytic stroke Monday, Sept. 29, or possibly Sunday. He had no recollection of what happened but Monday he awoke enough to realize he needed help and nature asserted itself and he made his way to the east or up-hill toward the David and Will Gaunt home although the way is very steep part of the way. He got in sight of the Gaunt home when he was seen staggering and not making much progress. Mr. Barber of Knoll Crest, who happened to be in the Gaunt yard with his car went to him, got him into the car, and took him to the Gaunt home where he was put to bed and a doctor was called. He remained there until Wednesday when he was taken to East Jordan on a stretcher to the home of Clarence Healey, a relative. His two daughters, Mrs. U. Browning of Chicago, and Mrs. Iva Hodgkinson of Kalamazoo are caring for him. The Gaunts called on him Sunday and found him much improved and able to talk some. Mr. Dewey is a retired school teacher and a writer of some note, both in essays and song. One of his productions is "When the Mist from the Hills Clears Away", published in a religious song book about 25 or 30 years ago. Since his retirement he has traveled extensively, spent several months in Cuba and also built Dewey Dells with his own hands and set out unusual plants and shrubs and added other features of interest which makes it a place well worth going miles to see. A few years ago, when the depression was the worst, he had young people come to his place for amusement and recreation as it cost them nothing. For several winters it was a gathering place for many a delightful party. Here's hoping he may be spared to enjoy his delightful home and add to its interest.

Mrs. Will Gaunt and son Junior motored to Bridgeport, September 27 to fetch home Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt who have been visiting their sons Arthur and family of Flint and Ralph and family of Bridgeport. Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross called at the Gaunt home but found no one home but Mr. Will Gaunt who works on the night shift at the Foundry in East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sanderson of Northwood spent Sunday evening with Mrs. C. A. Crane at Cedar Lodge, Mr. Crane having gone to Detroit Sunday a. m. They report their older son, Bruce Sanderson, who has been a cadet at Fort Knox, Kentucky for about a year had passed the examination and been made a Lieutenant in the Signal Corps on Sept. 30. Of a class of 300, one-third failed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Craig, who are employed at the Willow Brook farm by Healey & Son in their dairy, are starting on a week's vacation Monday. They plan to go to Detroit where Mrs. Craig has a host of relatives, also to take Mrs. Craig's sister, Mrs. Rolland Beyer and family where they expect to remain for a while where Mr. Beyer is employed.

Mrs. Rolland Beyer and three sons, who have spent some weeks with the F. K. Hayden family at Pleasant View farm, went on the school bus Wednesday noon to the Richard Beyer home in Chaddock Dist. for a few days prior to going to Detroit to join her husband who has employment there.

Laura Maguire is wife of happy-go-lucky Mike, editor and mayor of Covington, whom banker Mays threatens to ruin for criticizing his banking methods. She is mother of four children, hard pressed by the depression: Tom, who had separated from his wife when he decided to move from a bigger city and she wouldn't give up her job as secretary. Laura patched that up, however, and divorced Mays. Alec, who fell in love with Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter, and secretly married her. Shirley, engaged to Jaidr Newsum, also out of a job, who pawns her ring

CHAPTER XXVIII

Mr. Eugene Mays, his pompous face apoplectic with rage, stumbled through the outer office and slammed the door behind him. Mike stood in the doorway, grinning. "The old so-and-so," he cried blithely. "Have I got him worried or have I got him worried?" "If you ask me," laughed Ritchie, "he's on the ropes."

"Though he may drag me down with him," admitted Mike ruefully. He and Ritchie strolled arm in arm into the inner office. Two of a kind, Kathleen thought. Impractical idealists with a gay, almost flip-pant disregard for consequences, and thoroughly charming with it all. "You think it's heroic to fling Mr. Mays' money back into his face," she told Mike in a thick jerky voice. "You think it's noble to bankrupt yourself in favor of a town full of people who show their gratitude by refusing to buy your paper or advertise in it. You are all puffed up because you can't be bribed or scared off. But has it ever occurred to you who really foots the bill while you do your Don Quixote stuff?"

Mike went quite white. But Kathleen could not stop. "It's mother who bears the brunt, who has borne it for years," she said furiously. "It doesn't bother you if we haven't any money of a decent house to live in or if the car's falling to pieces under us and there aren't glasses enough to go around. You'd just as soon be penniless as not. You'd probably get a kick out of begging on the street corner with a tin cup. But Mother—" Kathleen's voice broke. "Do you realize she's putting up 60 jars of watermelon preserves today in this heat to get money toward the taxes? And she hasn't had a new dress in two years. She grew up with the best people in this town but she can't run around with them any more because she can't afford to. And it isn't fair. It isn't fair!"

Mike did not speak. But suddenly he looked almost old and his blue eyes stared at her with something stricken back of them. Kathleen realized abruptly that it was her father to whom she had been speaking. The father she had always adored. And her heart almost broke at the look in his face. But the bitterness had been accumulating inside her for months. She could not bite back the words, although they were such dreadful wounding things, the angry words she spat at Mike.

"I thought you were sweet," she ended with a sob, "and I guess you are, but it's at her expense. I used to take it for granted she was happy. But she isn't. She's been short-changed. By life and love or the brain storm that passes for love. And it makes me sick. Thank God, I'll never make the same mistake!" She whirled on her heel and walked out of the room. At her desk she dropped into her chair and stared blindly at her note pad. And she quivered with the agony of what she had done.

Ritchie stood beside her. He was very white. "How could you?" he asked. She flung out her hands in a goaded gesture. "Do you think I liked telling him those things? My daddy!" She sobbed once and then her face hardened. "I don't care what you think. Despite me if you like. It doesn't matter."

His long, slender fingers gripped her shoulders till she flinched, at his fierceness. "We do matter to each other, Kathleen. Whether we want it that way or not. We can't escape it. I love you. And you love me."

"If you still think I'm in love with you—" she cried in a choked voice and picked up her telephone. She was several minutes securing her connection. "Gene, this is Kathleen," she cried into the receiver. "You know that little matter you've been trying to get me to consider? I've made up my mind at last. Surely you've won out. I'm telling you, I'll marry you. Whenever you say. Certainly I'll have lunch with you to celebrate. Until then, all of the best, dear heart."

Kathleen and Hot Shot Mays had been engaged for a week. And a lot of good it had done him, he reflected as he stared at her with morose eyes over tall frosted glasses of fruit punch in Henderson's drug store. Kathleen had proposed to marry him. But she never had been more exasperating. She had refused to wear his diamond. Although he had selected a handsome two-carat stone impressively set in platinum. She said it would be time enough for that after their engagement had been formally announced. She insisted he could name the day and she would be there with the orange blossoms and a yard or two of bride's veil. But if he so much as laid a finger on her, she turned on him like a little jungle cat. "You don't own me yet," she always said.

He hadn't even kissed her. And six weeks ago Hot Shot Mays would not have believed that possible. "Have you told your folks about us, yet?" he now demanded with asperity. Kathleen winced and shook her head. "You act as if you were ashamed of me or something. Hell, you're doing grand to land me and you know it. How's for my speaking to your father tonight?"

"All right," she said at last. "I'll tell Dad at dinner that you have something to say to him. But, odd as it seems, don't expect him to fall on your neck. He won't. Maybe everybody else in town will think I've pulled a fast one to grab you off. But Mike will hate the idea. He's funny that way."

"He's as funny as a harse," said Hot Shot Mays sourly. "But he can't go on acting the fool forever. My old man says the Clarion won't last out the summer. You aren't kidding me. With the bread line staring him in the face your dad will have one sigh of relief when I'm his son-in-law."

"You are mistaken," Kathleen said icily. "My father will never lick your boots nor anyone else's. And it won't mean a thing to him that I'm marrying money."

"But it does to his daughter?" sneered Gene Mays. "What do you think?" His hard blue eyes mocked her. "You'll find out some day," he said. Kathleen felt a rising tide of nausea. She had thought if she married Gene Mays she need never worry about the cost of anything. But it came to her with a thud that Mrs. Eugene Mays had paid a ghastly price for her limousine and her mansion and her trips abroad. She hadn't had to make over last year's

"You act as if you were ashamed of me." evening dresses nor had she been compelled to patch the living room curtains. But she had lived with tarnished standards and bedraggled illusions. Her children had grown up in an atmosphere that befitting integrity and made a mock of honor. No wonder her daughter had no shame. And her son's strongest attribute was cruelty. They had seen their mother humiliated from their cradles. They had lived intimately with luxury purchased by their mother's acquiescence in their father's degeneracy. At least Laura had never known that particular hell. She had drugged and economized and employed every ingenious artifice to manage on Mike's erratic earnings. But corruption had not brushed her or hers. Kathleen thought of her father. A quixotic egoist perhaps, but clean. As clean as a fierce wind from the poles. Mike had not swaddled his wife in sables. But neither had he taught her children to sneer at her.

CHAPTER XXIX

"I've got to go back to the office," Kathleen rose abruptly. "You shouldn't have enticed me away in the middle of the morning. At least while I'm on the payroll I can make a pretense of earning the old salary check." "Six weeks from now," said Hot Shot Mays, "and the Clarion payroll will have gone up in smoke." Kathleen's slim hands locked. "And that will tickle you and your father to pieces." "We won't shed any tears," admitted Hot Shot Mays. Kathleen stared into his complacent eyes and her throat tightened under a revulsion of feeling that shook her from head to foot. Eugene Mays and his son did not deserve to triumph over Mike. "Can you, shed tears, I mean?" she asked in a stifled voice. "If so, turn on the faucet. Because I think I've been a little goofy. But I've come to. And I'm not marrying you." Hot Shot Mays gasped as if the breath had been knocked out of him and his face mottled with a furious dark flush. "You can't do this to me," he cried. "Can't I?" Kathleen's lips curled. "But I have. I've been cuckoo, I think. Unbalanced by growing pains or something. But I'm over it, thank God. And I'd rather die than marry you."

She turned and walked into the rickety building which housed the Covington Clarion. Hot Shot Mays stood perfectly still where she had left him, his big hands clenching and unclenching helplessly. But Kathleen forgot him completely when she entered the newspaper office. Something was drastically wrong. She knew it by the gray of Roger Whyte's twitching face and the way Tommy South's mouth quivered when he looked at her and the beads of sweat on old Ducky Miller's upper lip. "What is it?" she asked, stopping quite still. "Do you know where your father is?" asked Roger Whyte at last in a thin quaver. Kathleen caught her breath. "Has something happened to my father?"

Someone was opening the door. Kathleen whirled. It had to be Mike. She couldn't endure the knife that was jabbing at her heart. But it wasn't Mike. It was Ritchie, and he was very white. From a great distance she heard Tommy South's thin piping voice. "Gee, Mr. Graham, didn't you find him?" Ritchie shook his head. Roger Whyte suddenly dropped into his chair and covered his face with his hands. Old Ducky Miller carefully polished a piece of type while slow rusty tears ran down his withered cheeks. Kathleen put out her hands blindly. "Ritchie, no one will tell me what's the matter." "No one knows, Kathleen. 'We're only afraid.'"

Tommy South began to blubber. "I'd ought to have followed him after I seen him going over those insurance papers." Roger Whyte shivered. "The premium's due tomorrow and he hadn't the cash to pay it," he said. "He told me so yesterday." "He called up Lawyer Isgrigs this morning and asked about the insurance clause," said Old Ducky Miller wiping his eyes on his inky shirt sleeve. "That's when he told me he was worth more to his wife dead than alive." Kathleen clutched at a chair. "My father has fifteen thousand dollars' worth of insurance in favor of my mother," she said in a high colorless voice. "You think he's killed himself." She felt herself breaking up. Shattering into a million pieces. "Kathleen!" cried Ritchie and caught her beating hands. "I said everything cruel to him that I could think of," she whispered. "I said he'd taken his fun at Mother's expense. I said he'd cheated her. I said he and love had short-changed her between them. I was always his favorite. And now I've killed him."

Laura stood in the center of her shabby living room and held onto her dusting rag until her fingers ached. Until for weeks afterward she had only to close her eyes to feel the gritty cloth clenched in her aching hands. "I'm afraid I don't understand," she said. "You'll have to tell me again." "I told him he had been an idealistic clown, while you bore the shock of his beau gestes," repeated Kathleen in a dull voice. "I said he had never been fair to you. Never! I twitted him because you've had to wear shoes from the basement and trim your own hats. And I said you'd got the dirty end of the stick although you never complained because you're not the whimpering kind. I asked him if it had never occurred to him what a rotten bargain you made when you refused Eugene Mays to marry him. And I sneered and inquired what he thought you had got out of it, if anything." Laura's clear cheeks were suddenly scarlet. "I've had the only man I ever wanted. He's been mine. Body and soul. With no reservations. Never once has he failed me when I needed his tenderness and his understanding. I'd stake my immortal soul on his integrity. He's given me my children. Each of them is stamped with his idealism. When the blackness threatens, his strong arm gathers my weakness in and strengthens it. He's the rock under my feet. The breath in my nostrils. Sometimes I lie beside him at night while he sleeps and my heart almost bursts with gratitude because God gave him to me."

IT TAKES A LONG TIME TO SPEND SEVEN BILLION

HOW LONG WOULD it take you to spend $7,000,000,000 if you could call upon Johnny Bull and John Chinaman as assistants, and with all the mass production facilities of American factories and the productivity of American and Canadian farms from which to buy? Under those conditions, our Uncle Sam, up to August 31, had worked six months on such a job and had succeeded in actually spending $190,447,870. That is a little less than 3 per cent of the seven billion. If that represents his top spending speed, which it does not, it would mean something more than 15 years to spend all the seven billion congress gave him last winter.

That sum represented what Uncle Sam had actually delivered to England and other war-torn democracies in the first six-months period. During that time he had either delivered or had "on order" war materials, ships and food representing a total of $3,555,585,895 and had decided what he would buy, as rapidly as he can get it, up to a total of $6,281,277,421.

In the way of quick deliveries, the farms did a better job than the factories. During the six-month period, food represented a total of $118,074,538, with only $72,373,332 from the factories and the shipyards. Of the total purchases Uncle Sam has made, ordered or decided upon, $975,008,578 will come from American and Canadian farms.

The old gentleman is stepping on the gas and the next six months should show a much greater spending speed than he displayed during the first six months, but we cannot expect him to get through all that seven billion in less than two years.

MEETING UNCLE SAM'S HOUSEHOLD EXPENSES

BACK IN THE GOOD old days of 1915, which does not seem so very long ago to many of us, our Uncle Samuel picked the pockets of some Americans—especially those with plenty to pick from, of the comparatively small amount of $668,000,000. By 1922, when we were paying for World War I, he was taking from more of us $3,487,000,000. By 1932 he had eased off to only $1,788,000,000. In 1940 he "nicked" us for $5,556,000,000. Now he comes along with a new demand for $13,000,000,000, and has so fixed it that none will escape contributing a share, for we will pay either directly, indirectly, or both—and in practically all cases it will be both.

Uncle Sam will charge you $5 a year for the privilege of driving an automobile. That 10 cent movie will now cost you 11 cents. You will pay 5 1/2 cents on each 1,000 of the wooden matches you use, or you can get away with two cents on each 1,000 paper matches. If you have a telephone, you will pay six per cent of your monthly bill. If you go places by rail, air, boat or bus, 5 per cent of the price of your ticket will be added for your Uncle Samuel. Such are but a few of the many items we will pay for directly and know we are paying. Indirectly we will pay on everything we buy.

Even with all of this we will not pay enough to meet Uncle Samuel's house-keeping expenses by several billion dollars. Our children and our grandchildren will have to pay the remainder of the bill through many years. If our Uncle Samuel's bill were the only one that is skyrocketing, it would not be so bad. Our state and local expenditures have also reached the stratosphere altitude. In 1913 the total of state tax collections amounted to $300,000,000. By 1940 they had jumped to $3,028,000,000. In 1913 the municipal taxes of all cities, villages and towns amounted to only $1,219,000,000, but by 1940 that had increased to $4,893,000,000.

For 1941 we Americans will pay in taxes an average of $159 per individual, or $795 per average family of five. And we will pay it whether or not we know it. The tax collectors will get it either directly or indirectly, or both.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

THE ONE INSTITUTION which does most for its community is the newspaper. It promotes the town as a market place. It preserves and advances the town as a social and cultural center. It serves week after week, year after year, and we take the service rendered very much for granted, without attempting to realize its value.

A RECENT issue of Collier's gave the result of a poll of 10,000 American families on the method they preferred for the collection of their part of the cost of national preparedness. Of that number, located in all sections of the nation, 60 per cent wanted a national sales tax on their day-to-day purchases. But congress still prefers to use indirect methods in the belief that it is fooling a majority of voters. The man who carries a dinner pail knows he pays, and he would rather know when he pays and how much.

UTENSILS applied in the color that is to be accented in the kitchen—shall we say yellow or red—would be pretty for this set of tea towels. Lovellier still are these designs when delicate, harmonizing tints or shades are used for the flower appliques as an accent.

View of Life

Life is a fragment, a moment between two eternities; influenced by all that has preceded, and to influence all that follows. The only way to illumine it is by extent of view.—William Ellery Channing.

"Mail call sounds as sweet as pay call when the folks back home send a carton of cigarettes or a tin of tobacco." This is the consensus among men in all branches of the service who have ranked tobacco first in the gift line. Actual sales records from service stores—in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard—showing the favorite cigarette is Camel. The popular smoking tobacco is Prince Albert. Local dealers have been featuring cartons of Camels and pound tins of Prince Albert as most welcome gifts from the folks back home to the boys in the service.—Adv.

PIE PERFECTION—A WINNER EVERY TIME
(See Recipes Below)

AMERICA'S FAVORITE DESSERT

Confess now, how often would you turn down a tart lemon pie, a deep-dish cranberry pie, or a juicy cranberry one with the bright berries peeking out of the lattice crust? Not often, I imagine, or pie wouldn't be our country's favorite dessert. So here's to pie, favorite at dessert time or at a bakery sale, made in big tins or as individual servings:

Lemon Angel Pie.
(Makes one 8-inch pie)
4 egg whites
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Cream egg yolks and sugar together. Add lemon juice and cook in double boiler until thickened, stirring often. Add butter. Remove from heat and fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into a baked pie shell. Top with meringue and brown in moderate (325-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Meringue.
2 egg whites, beaten until frothy
4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Add sugar gradually to egg whites and continue beating until egg holds up in peaks. Fold in lemon juice.

Any pie is as good as its crust, and if you've mastered the art, your pies will always be something to come back for. A good crust is tender, short, flaky, well flavored and smart enough to stand by itself. If you make a crust to be filled, cool the filling before it comes in contact with the crust so you won't have soggy pie.

Flaky Pie Crust.
2 cups flour
¾ cup shortening
½ teaspoon salt
About ½ cup ice water

Mix and sift flour with salt. Work in shortening using pastry blender, fork, knives, or fingertips, until mixture appears crumbled. Moisten with water until dough just holds together. Roll out on floured board and cut to fit pie tins. This makes enough for a double crust for a 9-inch pie tin. For a one-crust pie, use: 1 cup flour, ¼ cup shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, and 2½ to 3 tablespoons water.

Delicious Rhubarb Pie.
1½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon melted butter
4 cups cut rhubarb
1 pie crust

Combine ingredients and let stand about 15 minutes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry rolled one-eighth inch thick, allowing pastry to extend 1 inch beyond edge. Fold edge back to form standing rim. Fill with rhubarb mixture. Moisten edge of pastry with cold water; arrange lattice

LYNN SAYS:

To keep your pie crust short, have the shortening and water ice cold. If possible, have your bowl cold, too, and when handling the crust, use your fingers as little as you can, to keep the heat from the hands from getting into the dough.

Avoid rolling extra flour into the dough for this makes tough pastry. Fold the pastry over several times while rolling to help make flaky pastry. Never stretch the pastry into the pan. Make it large enough before fitting into pan.

Pie crust should be baked quickly on the lower shelf of the oven to prevent sogginess. The intense heat of the oven expands the cold liquid in pastry into steam, making the crust rise in flaky layers.

of pastry strips across top. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes; then decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

Apple Pie.
1 recipe flaky pie crust
2 pounds cooking apples
1½ cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons cornstarch

Pare, core, and slice apples. Mix with sugar, cinnamon, and cornstarch. Fill pie tin which has been covered with crust and dot fruit with butter. Lay on top crust which has been pricked with a fork, and flute edges. Bake 45 to 50 minutes in a moderate (350-375 degrees) oven.

Tang and color are this cranberry pie's delectable recommendations, so make enough to have seconds. You can have your vitamins, too, for cranberries are an excellent source of vitamin C, necessary for teeth and bones, and also a fair source of vitamin A which promotes appetite, stimulates growth, and makes for general well-being. Make it with a criss-cross crust and you'll come in with top honors:

Spicy Cranberry Pie.
(Makes one 9-inch pie)
1 recipe pie crust
4 cups cranberries
2½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water

Wash and pick over berries. Bring to a boil with the water, add sugar, boil gently, being careful not to break berries. Boil 5 minutes, remove from fire, cool, and add lemon juice, rind, and spices. Fill unbaked pie crust, cover top with strips, and bake 30 minutes in a hot (400 degrees) oven.

There are pies in which you bake just the crust, pies in which you bake crust and filling, and other pies which you don't bake at all. In this latter class are those pies whose crust is placed in the icebox to cool, then filled with filling and cooled until set. Here's a pie with crust, rich and crumbly, a filling that really melts in your mouth:

Coconut Custard Pie.
(Makes one 9-inch pie)
2 egg yolks
1½ cups milk
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water

Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook egg yolks, milk and sugar in double boiler until thick and pour over gelatin. Cool, add vanilla, and pour over a crust made of:

3 cups oven-popped rice cereal, rolled fine
½ cup butter melted
¼ cup sugar

Combine cereal crumbs, sugar and butter and press evenly around the sides and bottom of a pie pan. Chill before filling. Pipe meringue on top of filling. Use 2 egg whites stiffly beaten, to which add ½ cup sugar slowly, and ¼ cup of coconut. Brown lightly in broiler.

In making a successful meringue, beat the egg whites until stiff and glossy, then blend in sugar completely to prevent beads of syrup from forming on top of the meringue. Leave the pie on the top of the oven after it is baked. Cold air striking the meringue will cause it to fall.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRIST OUR SAVIOUR

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 20:28-29; Luke 19:1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

"I believe in God, the Father Almighty, and in Jesus Christ His only Son, our Lord. I believe in the Holy Ghost." How often we have solemnly repeated these words in the Apostles' Creed, and how appropriate it is that our present three month series of lessons on great Christian teachings should begin last Sunday with a study of God, the Creator and heavenly Father, and continue today with Christ the Saviour, and present next Sunday the Holy Spirit, the Comforter.

These are profound Christian truths, but at the same time they are so simple as to be grasped by the youngest child. Today we have the great privilege of presenting in our classes our Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. He was

I. The Self-Denying Servant (Matt. 20:28-29).
Scripture clearly teaches that God's standards are not the same as the world's standards, and that His methods of operation are just the opposite of those of the world. All too often Christians and churches imitate the world both in principle and practice, with disastrous results. Consider

1. The False Greatness of the World (v. 25).—"Rulers"—"greatness"—"exercise authority"—how altogether up-to-date these words sound. They are the big and swelling words of the small hearts and minds which rule after the manner of this world. They epitomize the ambitions of the great majority of mankind, but they are definitely non-Christian. We see that as we go on to consider

2. The Humility of True Greatness (vv. 26, 27). Service in the spirit of humility and self-sacrifice—this is the standard of Christ. Yes, and it is His command to His followers. To be great for Christ one must become the servant of others. This teaching appears all through Scripture (for example, see Luke 4:11; John 13:13-17; 1 Pet. 5:5, 6).

How often service in the church is rendered in a spirit of pride, self-glory, and for the commendation and reward of men. When that reward is not forthcoming or some real humbling sacrifice is required, the work is not desired or the worker becomes offended. Here is one of the roots of trouble in the church. Let us put it away as we look upon

3. Christ Our Example (v. 28). He paid the price of our redemption, going to the death of Calvary for us. From the highest glory which He had with the Father (John 17:5), He graciously stooped to deepest ignominy as He became sin for us (II Cor. 5:21). Throughout both His life and His death He perfectly represented that self-denying, self-humbling service which He expects of His followers.

II. The Seeking Saviour (Luke 19:1-10).

There is much that is precious and beautiful to be said about our Lord, but perhaps nothing which brings Him so close to needy humanity as the fact that He had "come to seek and to save that which was lost" (v. 10). He was

1. Ever Interested in Sinners (vv. 1-7). Jesus was on this occasion coming up to Jerusalem for the last time. The cross was ahead. He was much taken up with His coming death and greatly straitened in spirit (see Mark 10:33 and Luke 12:50). He was passing through the great and wicked city of Jericho, yet in the midst of His deep sorrow and out of the vast multitude of that city He reached out to touch one sinner.

Zacchaeus was a man despised for his calling of tax collector, and hated for his dishonesty. He was an outcast from his own people and a stranger to God's grace, but Jesus was interested in him. Are we ready thus to go to seek and save the lost? Are we better (or busier) than our Lord?

2. Always Able to Save Sinners (vv. 8-10). Zacchaeus was a rich man, but he was a sinner. It is not easy for a rich man to be saved, but it can be done (see Matt. 19:23-28). Read the preceding verses of that chapter (vv. 16-22) and you learn of another rich man who was not saved, the rich young ruler. He was a far better man than Zacchaeus—honest, upright, honored in his community. How was it that the wicked and despised rich man was saved and the good and respected rich man was lost?

The answer is that the former admitted that he was a sinner and thus made it possible for Christ to save him, while the latter loved himself and his gold more than Christ and shut the door against His redeeming love.

Fashion Feathers Your Hat And Braids Your Fall Suit

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FEATHERS on your hat and braiding on your suit, coat, dress or costume ensemble! These are two of the most outstanding trends for fall and winter.

If you would make a dramatic and high-styled approach to fall, take your cue from the two ladies of fashion pictured in the foreground of the accompanying illustration. Note how smartly fashion feathers their hats and braids their handsome wool costumes.

You can indulge in as little or as much as you please in this matter of braiding, but whether it is just a wee dab of braiding here or there, or an all over blanketing of braided design, when it comes to topnotch style, prestige braiding's the thing this season!

See the ensemble pictured to the left. It is a masterpiece of artistry in both color and costume design. It is the sort of coat-ensemble that takes you places in "style," is ideal for travel or town wear. You will wear it to dinner at fashionable restaurants, or to the matinee. It has a red gabardine reefer with a black velvet collar and cuffs embroidered with red soutache braiding. The sheer wool dress carries out the same color scheme. The hat is a crushed Homburg with two streamlined quills.

To the right is a youthful suit of beige wool with forest green soutache braid on lapels and upper sleeve.

The new greens this fall are fascinating. Milliners are enthusiastic about soft, subtle greens in felts, velvets and feathers. The jaunty feather hat has sprightly bird's wings to give it height and its melon green color is a perfect complement to the beige and green suit.

So far as the new hats are concerned, they are staging a veritable riot of feathers. Casual wide-brimmed felts, this season, mostly of the picturesque vagabond type, are in ravishing colors and abetted with spectacular vividly colored pheasant quills. Referring to the three hats shown above in the picture note in the upper right corner a gray felt vagabond gaily sporting a bright pheasant quill. This stunning headpiece tops a yellow sweater worn over a gray dress.

Centered in the trio is a black beret that glories in a snow white novelty quill. Berets have certainly come into their own this season. And you are supposed to wear 'em any way that is most becoming. Some like 'em posed in daring profile effect, others position 'em back of their pompadours, others dash 'em down over their eyebrows, but pose 'em as you will berets are making conversation that is punctuated with thrills every step of the way. And keep an eye on the dramatic manner in which they are feathered, if it's exciting moments you crave.

Wear White Jersey Under Your Fur Coat

College girls who seek something other than the usual black or colored date dresses will hail with delight the advent of the new white jersey frocks that are designed to wear under brown or black fur coats. This dress is proving to be one of the highspots in a co-ed's life. As a rule the white jersey dress is styled with classic simplicity but with exquisite detailing in the way of drapes, tucks and sometimes trapunto quilting. For those who have a yen for color there are white jerseys that are gaily embroidered in bright yarns. Others flaunt glittering gold buttons and gilded kid trimmings.

Now You Can Wear Your Vitamins on Your Head

A new process has been discovered whereby the casein in skimmed milk can be used to make a fiber which blends with rabbit fur to make a felting material for hats. One pound of this fiber is produced from about 29 pounds of skimmed milk.

Since imports of hatter's rabbit fur are now limited because of war conditions, there is a large market for this domestic product. Bossy's in the hat business now—classy hats from contented cows.

Embroidery on Suits

There is no end to the embroidery story this season. The newswy part of the tale is that embroideries appear on sedate suits and wool daytime dresses, as well as on dressier modes. Long evening capes have embroidered yokes. Daytime jackets and blouses are also ornately embroidered.

Taffeta Dirndl

Smart young sophisticates do not like to give up the picturesque dirndl skirt that has been such an outstanding favorite during the past summer. That is why many of the most voguish taffeta and wool costumes on the fall and winter style program continue to exploit the dirndl after the manner here shown. Sheer wool and taffeta are combined most attractively in this stunning afternoon dress. The fitted bodice of sheer wool has a brown taffeta facing at the V-neck, and the sleeves show the new drop shoulder treatment. Crisp brown taffeta is shirred on at the natural waist. The hat is a veil-trimmed rolled-brim dark brown felt. The whole effect is soft and feminine and true to the tradition of elegance.

One such buck, found recently at Medicine lake, California, had to be shot because it could not lift its head into a position to be fed and its great antlers could not be sawed off because they were in the velvet or growing stage and still filled with live blood vessels.
