EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1941.

NUMBER 44

Referendum on Potato Marketing

FARMERS IN THIS AREA ASKED TO VOTE AT EAST JORDAN CO-OPERATIVE CO.

A referendum will be held among Charlevoix County potato growers and among potato growers in all other counties in the State during the first week of next month, November 3-8, to vote on a proposed marketing agreement program to regulate potato shipments out of the purchasing area and at the same time, a marketing agreement will be submitted to potato handlers for their signature.

The referendum will be conducted by the Surplus Marketing Administration of the Federal Department of Agriculture with the assistance of the State and County Triple-A Committee.

Producers in Charlevoix County may vote at two balloting places during the hours indicated on the following dates: November 3-8, Triple-A Office, Boyne City, from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. On November 6, 7, and 8, farmers may vote at the East Jordan Co-operative Co. from 1:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m.

Similar referendums will be held this fall in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota.

Tentatively approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, following public hearings in the four States, the marketing program would regulate grades and sizes of Irish Potatoes shipped in interstate commerce and provide for Federal or Federal-State inspection.

Potatoes grading lower than U. S. No. 2, the minimum U. S. grade, and smaller than one and one-half inches in diameter (culls) could not be shipped from these States under the proposed marketing program. A North Central Potato Committee of twelve growers and four handlers, representing the four States, would administer the program, and handlers would be assessed to defray authorized expenses of the committee.

This Committee would be able to recommend further limitation of shipments of low grades and small sizes. To meet varying local conditions, exemption privileges would enable growers to ship limited lower grades if the quality of their potatoes is below the average for the area. More flexible than the one operating during 1937-38, this potato marketing program would also provide for the suspension of the cull regulation under certain conditions.

Similar potato programs are now operating in Colorado, Idaho, and Malheur County, Oregon.

The potato marketing agreement program can be made effective by the Secretary of Agriculture if issuance of an order, to make the terms of the program applicable to all handlers, if favored by two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum, and if the agreement is signed by handlers in the four States during the last marketing season.

Any producer, who, during the period January 1, 1940, to July 31, 1941, has been engaged in the production of Irish potatoes for market in the four States will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

T. B. Clinic Next Tuesday

SECOND X-RAY CLINIC FOR CHARLEVOIX COUNTY TO BE HELD AT BOYNE CITY

This year's second X-ray clinic for Charlevoix county, sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, will be held on Tuesday morning, Nov. 4, at the Boyne City gymnasium, according to Dr. J. W. Chapman, director of Health District No. 3. The association's chief purpose in this fall clinic will be to find early cases of tuberculosis.

"Over the past ten years forty-two cases of tuberculosis have been found in Charlevoix county as a result of X-ray examinations," pointed out Dr. Chapman. "Of these, twenty were in the early, minimal stages of the disease."

Watchword of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association is "Early discovery, early recovery." The importance of finding early cases lies in the fact that they require much less treatment than do the advanced cases, Dr. Chapman declared.

"Because the early case of tuberculosis often can be treated in approximately one-third the time needed for an advanced one, the patient is returned to his home and work much sooner, and the county is saved a great deal of unnecessary expense. That is why Charlevoix residents who have had contact with an active case of the disease — those who have had a positive tuberculin test — and those who need to be re-checked — should take advantage of the opportunity for X-ray."

Arnold J. Linden, X-ray technician, will be in charge of the clinic sponsored jointly by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and the Health Department. Application for X-ray should be made through the health department or the family physician.

Lansing — Instead of plowing crops under, Michigan farmers are asked to grow bigger crops in 1942.

The reason is obvious. As Harry N. Scholler, director of the north central division of the AAA, said recently at a Lansing state meeting, "We've got to feed the army, the people, and the people of Europe."

Thus a complete reversal of the doctrine of scarcity has taken place in less than ten years, and the reason lies entirely out of the farmer's or consumer's control.

For the first time in many years, the farmers are urged to increase food production. They are assured, at the same time, of a "profit". This will be good news to families on rural routes and to business men on Main street, but prosperity has its price and all is not rosy and bright.

Soil Conservation

Whereas in the last world war every available acre of land was turned under for growing of grain and the usual economic marginal use of land was completely ignored, this crisis is finding agricultural leaders prepared to get production results without sacrifice of soil conservation.

The sub-marginal land of low fertility will be left alone, according to present plans. Increased output will be effected through application of better farming methods.

Mechanized agriculture is going to occupy the stage. Manufacturers of farm equipment are being exempt from priorities, and logically so, if the front line of democracy is to extend back to the plow.

War-Time Profits

AAA Leader Scholler, speaking at a state meeting of more than 1,000 county committeemen at Lansing, urged farmers to avoid a war-time profit surge of going into debt for purchase of more land, more machinery, and "expensive" automobiles.

"Save your money, buy defense bonds," he pleaded, "so you'll be able to buy more land."

The couple will make their home, for the present, in Detroit, where they are both employed. They have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous future.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Alice Somerville announces the engagement of her daughter, Josephine, to Leonard M. Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pratt of Greenville Junction, Maine. The wedding date has been set for November 19.

Game Refuge Renewed for 5 Years

CONSERVATION DEPARTMENT CONTINUES OUR SPORTSMAN'S CLUB GAME SANCTUARY

The State Conservation Department has notified the East Jordan Sportsmen's Club that they were renewing for the third five-year period the Game Sanctuary here.

This Sanctuary is an asset to our City. From the bridge at foot of Mill St. it extends South to the Rogers bridge — both spanning the Jordan River — and containing more than a section of land.

Later on to buy machinery and automobiles made by factories now working on defense orders. Thus we can keep the factories going and not have a post-war depression.

But the profits of 1942 production are not going to be easily realized.

Big problems are the shortages of labor and farm equipment, and the two go together. Canada has sought to overcome them by mobilizing young women into harvesting brigades during the summer months. Such was done in this country to a limited extent during World War I, and the result was beneficial to morale as well as to farm output.

Cooperative ownership of farm machinery is suggested by Leo V. Card, commissioner of agriculture.

Food Prices

Before a congressional committee at Washington, Commissioner Card strongly opposed price-fixing for farm commodities "at this time."

If there must be price-fixing, as some experts advocate, then the farmer insists on price ceilings for all commodities including labor. And immediately you run counter into a powerful pressure group at Washington, just as influential as the farmers themselves.

With the farmer opposing price-fixing, and labor telling the government to keep hands off, the housewife or consumer is being caught right in the middle. Here is where the peril of inflation sets in, a threat of scarcity which prompts many persons to overbuy and thus to create an artificial scarcity, kicking prices upward and upward.

A recent analysis of commodity markets, made by the Associated Press, shows that prices paid farmers for major commodities have soared three to 47 per cent since June, 1940, and 18 to 68 per cent since January of this year! Wholesale butter has gone up almost 40 per cent since June of last year; cheese, 71 per cent; eggs, 88 per cent; hogs, 117 per cent; cattle, 24 per cent; lambs, 10 per cent; grains, 35 to 81 per cent. Lard is 128 per cent higher, pork loins 100 per cent more, ham 82 per cent up, and so on.

Lease-Lend

Along with airplanes, tanks and other items needed for "shooting war", our government is committed under the lease-lend act of Congress to furnish many ship-loads of foods to Europe.

But the fact remains that there are record-breaking surpluses of some foods for this time of the year, and yet prices are going up persistently. Why?

Just as many manufacturers have contributed to a shortage of raw materials by hoarding them, so many housewives have helped to push up spiraling food prices by buying a dozen cans instead of one or two, or case-lots instead of a half dozen. Commodity men were quoted by the Associated Press as saying that buyers are their worst enemies.

Consumer groups, however, suspect that the middleman is profiteering at the expense of both the farmer and consumer. A state consumer committee was recently formed under auspices of the Michigan Council of Defense to investigate reports of excessive price raisers.

Inflation

If what the experts proclaim at Washington — economists such as Lubin and Henderson — an inevitable penalty which we must pay through inflation which is well under way, duplicating the World War inflation, will be a steady advance of food prices during the coming months.

Here you have the food picture in Michigan today — farmer, middleman and consumer.

Unemployment may exist in cities and towns, but there'll be no unemployment on Michigan farms in 1942. Home gardens will be larger; "root cellars" will be filled with more vegetables than usual; shelves of canned goods will bend under added weight.

While the farmer will continue to exercise his inherited prerogative of complaining about the weather, he is going to be a lot better off than many city folks — and he knows it.

Mich. Public Service Co. Cut Rates Second Time In As Many Months

With practically all necessities of life mounting upward most everyday, the Michigan Public Service Co. are giving the citizens of East Jordan, a welcome break.

The number of electricity users in East Jordan has reached the point where we are in the same classification as our much larger town of Boyne City. So in October they gave our citizens their first deduction.

Now, through careful financial management, it has been found possible to make lower residential and commercial rates. While this may seem a small reduction in the individual's monthly bill, just multiply this by thousands and it means real money.

And if you don't believe it yet that the Michigan Public Service Co. are giving their patrons a favor, just read "Michigan Mirror" in this issue and see what you are now paying for your groceries.

FALL 4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY NOVEMBER 3

4-H Club Members who have not exhibited crops or home economics projects at the Traverse City Fair, will have the opportunity of completing their projects by exhibiting at this achievement day. Conservation Project Exhibits for over 500 members will be on exhibit.

Gracies Pie Shop Has Basement Fire

A basement fire at Gracies Pie Shop called out our Fire Department Monday night about 6:00.

The fire was caused by a poorly installed hot air register. While the floor around the register was scorched, the lunch room escaped a bad-smoking and this despite the fact that the smoke seemed quite heavy.

The furnace fire was rebuilt and business was resumed as usual within an hour.

E. J. Garden Club Hold Interesting October Session

President Mrs. John Porter, reporting the convention of the Midwest Section of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, held at Dearborn Inn, Dearborn, stated many activities of Garden Clubs which included the growth, testing and care of seeds. It was also suggested the Clubs throughout the State hire a guide for our tourist parks to acquaint out state visitors of our birds, forests, and other interesting attractions and land marks.

The Convention group visited Mrs. Henry Ford's Gardens which included 500 varieties of roses.

Mrs. Sidebotham read an article written by Richardson Wright, Editor of House and Garden, "The Gardener and Tomorrow", depicting the faith we exercise in the planting of the apparently dormant dried husks, will leap into life again. One of our members has remarked "Whenever I plant a bulb, I have a greater faith in Eternal Life."

The guest speaker, Harold Clark, gave a talk on Native Trees. Mr. Clark has spent much time in this study and used a very interesting method, that of giving each guest a box of leaves from our native trees and explaining each kind and their values and uses.

Mr. Clark said there are eight varieties of maples; four being native. Also there were nine varieties of oak in Michigan. Some were surprised to learn the box elder is really a maple, and the basswood flowers give us our best honey.

We trust, from this talk, that a greater appreciation of our friends "The Trees" will be developed — and welcome, Mr. Clark.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Shipping Losses and Kearny Incident Have Effect on Neutrality Act Debate; British View Invasion as 'Impossible'; French Assassinate Two Nazi Officers

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

KEARNY:

Starting Things

The fact that the Kearny, U. S. destroyer hit by a Nazi torpedo, had been more than slightly damaged, had suffered the loss of some 11 lives and had several persons badly wounded landed with a jolt in a Washington already jittery in the midst of a debate on the Neutrality act.

The navy refused any information except the broadest facts, pending a fuller report of the commander, and the incident left congress in a welter of excitement.

On top of this had come two further sinkings, those of the Bold Venture, former Danish ship carrying the flag of Panama, and the Lehigh which was flying the Stars and Stripes.

The Lehigh was sunk off the coast of Africa, far from the combat zones. The impact of these three incidents on a congress which was being asked to permit the arming of merchant ships was terrific. Immediately measures were placed before congress ranging all the way from a complete repeal of the Neutrality act to a resolution asking for a declaration of war.

This last was not actually introduced, but certain isolationist senators said that it would be as a counter measure to the "pressure" being exerted from the White House.

Out of it all emerged the second half of the Neutrality act legislation, the measure to send American ships into combat zones, and this had been reported to have received presidential favor as a matter of present business.

Again, as the administration was meeting severe opposition on one of its measures, fate and the news played into its hands.

RUSSIANS:

Tough Battle

Pressure shifted from one direction to another along the Moscow front with the Russians putting up a desperate fight.

There had been a sudden heavily reinforced attack, however, in the southern, or Orrel district, and the Nazis had claimed the capture of Stalino, a city of 450,000 people, and described as "a leading armament center of the Donets basin."

Still later the Nazis had announced gains on the Azov front and the defenders believed the Germans were shifting their attack to the south.

There had been reports of Stalin personally in command at the central front, his headquarters in an armored train. But the capital had been moved to a spot 550 miles southeast of Moscow.

Russian sources had declared the picture at Leningrad to be the brightest of that on any part of the long front, with the defenders of Russia's second city inflicting terrific losses on the attackers, and still holding their defense lines.

INVASION:

'Impossibility'

British sources, following a protracted demand on the part of labor and certain sections of the press for an immediate invasion of the continent, officially declared this plan "still an impossibility."

The R.A.F., it was stated, was still smashing the Reich territory on a 24-hour basis, however.

London authorities were testy over the hint, however, that Britain was not doing all she could to aid Russia, and it was revealed through high officials that shipments of tanks, airplanes and munitions had been sent, that many already had arrived. Others were en route.

The British declared that fully one-half of the German air force was being compelled to be held in the west because of the daily attacks by bombers, and that the British are doing everything that the Russians themselves have suggested in the way of aid.

50 FOR ONE:

Officers Shot

The killing of Colonel Holtz, the Nazi commander at Nantes, France, by assassination was promptly avenged by General Stuelpnagei, occupation commander, by the killing of 50 French hostages.

The commander said: "Cowardly criminals paid by England and Moscow killed the field commandant at Nantes with shots in the back on the morning of October 20. Until now the assassins have not been arrested."

"In expiation of this crime I have ordered, as preliminary measures, that 50 hostages be shot. Considering the gravity of the crime 50 other hostages will be shot if the assassins are not arrested."

The general offered a reward of 15,000,000 francs for the surrender of the guilty parties.

Four members of the gendarmerie at Nantes had been taken into custody, including the prefect of the district. He and the mayor of Nantes issued an appeal for aid in the arrest of the killers.

On that very day, however, in the neighborhood of Nantes, a freight train was derailed, a section of track having been removed.

For other offenses four Frenchmen had been executed, and the total of hostages executed during October was said to have reached 134.

Next day reports told of the killing of another Nazi officer in France. This time, a major.

G. O. P.:

Willkie Policy

At the height of the neutrality debate more than 100 Republicans took part in an appeal for the repeal of the Neutrality act, in the face of the recollection that this action in the last war was shortly followed by American entrance as a full participant.

These were led by Wendell L. Willkie, who said: "Millions upon millions of Republicans are resolved that the ugly smudge of isolationism shall be removed from the face of their party."

"At the same time he criticized the administration for the handling of labor relations, saying "the desire of many in the administration to rewrite our social and economic life under cover of the national effort must be ruled out during the emergency."

WICKARD:

On Prices

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, calling the parallel between the present war and the last one too close for comfort, urged on congress the necessity of immediate price fixing to "stave off" disastrous inflationary tendencies.

He declared himself in complete agreement with the provisions of the pending price-control bill, and said that the planned price-fixing authority might not be necessary.

The nation's agricultural production next year, he predicted, will be the highest in history, and the increase would be mostly in meats, milk and eggs. He recalled that of the 14,000 banks which failed most were country banks, and said he didn't believe the American economy could stand a second siege like that.

SIBERIA:

Or Thailand?

Watchers of the perilous situation in the Orient were still wondering whether Siberia or Thailand would be the first to feel the touch of Japan's expected military effort.

In spite of unconfirmed reports that the United States and Japan had reached some basis of agreement, the tension continued high. Japanese quarters were pressing on the government to do something first about Thailand.

Low-Down-on-Low-Bid

Appearing before the Senate defense investigating committee, Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director general, is pictured as he declared that low bid by a CIO contractor for a Michigan housing project was disregarded because its acceptance might result in strikes and open violence involving the entire construction industry in Detroit. The committee was probing charges that OPM shows favoritism to AFL.

LABOR:

Civil Strife

An internal war within the C.I.O. organization was revealed when a strike at a Detroit steel plant was suddenly halted.

The public was treated to the unusual spectacle of a union leader telling his members to go back to work because the army had been ordered to take over the plant "unless," and being roundly hissed.

There were yells of "bring on the soldiers."

The union leader, John Doherty, said:

"The United States army already has received orders to move in. The government has notified our union that this strike will not be tolerated."

"The men, who claimed that their own union leaders had "sold them out" in wage negotiations, hissed and catcalled, but they went back to work."

There were hints of sabotage in this strike, and the open charge by Federal Conciliator Dewey that he was looking for a "sinister purpose" in the walkout. Dewey had been in the conference which resulted in this particular steel company signing a contract with the SWOC.

MEXICO:

Releases Aliens

Latin-America and the United States had been puzzled by a report from Mexico stating that close to 600 Nazis and Fascists from the seized Axis ships had been released and returned to their former status of foreigners legally in the country.

American circles could not understand why President Camacho took this action, as it was believed certain to complicate Mexico's espionage problem, already quite complex.

It had been pointed out that, prior to their seizure, these Nazi and Fascist ships had been hotbeds of propaganda, and that one of them, the Orinoco, had maintained a printing plant aboard, and that in addition to flooding the country with material along the Nazi party line, had given many entertainments aboard for Mexicans and had shown many propaganda movies.

BRIGADE:

Of Heroes

The British official reports of the Dunquerque episode were filled with many stories of heroism, but none of them more poignant than the story of the lost brigade of Calais.

This was a group of 3,800 British soldiers who held the French port, vital to the use of Dunquerque as a debarkation point, for all the days while the evacuees were crouched on the beaches, vulnerable to attack, thus permitting their brothers-in-arms to escape.

Of this body, only 47 ever returned to England. The commander was Brigadier C. Nicholson, and after standing heavy bombardment and with the town he was defending in flames, he received this terse command:

"Every hour you continue to exist is of the greatest help to the B.E.F. The government therefore decided that you must continue to fight. We have the greatest possible admiration for your splendid stand."

One spearhead of the German attack was desperately anxious to take Calais and to sweep on to Dunquerque, to fall on the helpless and vulnerable men at that point.

But the riflemen of the Calais brigade held them, despite the bombings by wave after wave of Stukas. Nicholson himself was among the missing. His last radio appeal was:

"Please send us more guns—still holding out."

It was the evening of the fourth day. Calais had held out long enough. Their work was done.

Washington Digest

Mentally Healthy Soldier Needed for Modern War

High Selection Standard Required in Supplying Army With Men Equipped to Meet Hazards of 'Blitz' Tactics.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

At a recent White House news conference the President was asked whether he thought there ought to be a lowering of the physical, mental and educational standards for admission to the army.

The question came up at the close of a long dissertation by Mr. Roosevelt on a report from the army which seemed to reveal a shocking state of the national health. It was based on figures which showed that nearly 50 per cent of the selectees rejected for service were ineligible because of deficiencies in these three categories. It did look as though Americans, as a people, were pretty sick.

The President's answer to the question of lowering the standards of admission was an emphatic negative. Very little attention was paid to this response at the time and the stories which went out over the air and the wires that day were chiefly concerned with the program for healing the physical ills of selectees at government expense.

But that part of the picture, as I learned when I talked with a prominent psychiatrist, is only half of it—or less.

Lowering the standards of mental requirements would, in case of war, mean a terrific psychopathic casualty list, the taxpayer would have a terrific bill to pay and the efficiency of the American fighting forces would be immeasurably impaired.

Record of Last War

Let's look at the record of the last war, when the mental hazards were only a fraction of what they are today with a thousand machines harnessed for destruction.

Briefly, the story is this: The government of the taxpayer has paid out nearly a billion dollars for the benefit and care of mental cases among veterans of the last war.

This sum represents 20 per cent of all benefits paid to veterans and their dependents. There are 92,231 such mental cases and a third of all veterans confined to hospitals are mental cases. It is true that some 21,000 of these men cannot prove that their plight is traceable to their military service, but they are on Uncle Sam's expense list just the same, and they would not be if they had been kept out of the army in the first place.

Of course, all of these 9,000 mental cases could not have been spotted by the draft boards in 1917 and 1918. Not all cases of mental weakness or potential weakness can be spotted now. But the army now has a wealth of experience on the subject and the Veterans Administration is co-operating with many local boards in this effort. Twenty years study has made these government doctors expert in discovering hidden weaknesses in the human mind. Some of the nation's greatest psychiatrists have offered their services to the army.

Today, of course, there are many reasons why mental qualifications count more than in the last war. In the first place, modern warfare requires greater self-discipline on the part of the individual.

Special Training Needed

In the old army the squad, composed of seven or eight men, was a unit. The squad has now been abolished. Modern ordnance—small and heavy arms—is much more complicated. Each man must be specially trained for a special task and frequently the responsibility formerly relegated to a group, falls on the individual.

Greater skill to operate modern arms and equipment is necessary. Also, the devastating effect of mechanization creates a greater mental strain. An example of this is the terrorizing effect of the noise of dive bombers. When the French troops first heard the stukas they threw down their arms and fell flat on the earth.

As Dr. Martin Cogley, consultant of the Veterans Bureau in Washington puts it:

"When one considers how the warfare of today has stepped up in intensity and tempo with the stuka divers, the panzer divisions, the elements of deadly surprise and audacity and the dropping of bombs of high explosives weighing as much as a ton, it becomes evident that combat troops will have an immense strain on their morale, and it must be expected that a man with unstable nervous system or a flaw of character will crack under the strain."

In the last war an effort was made to weed out the men, who, from their medical histories or as a result of examinations, were considered unable to stand up under the strain of service. Strangely enough, it was the medical officers rather than the line officers who were inclined to be lenient in accepting questionable cases, and the medical department of the army records that 8,640 cases of record were discovered and the men retained in the army against the advice of the neuro-psychiatric officers.

Many of these men broke down when they reached camp before they heard a gun fired. With this record staring them in the face, it is no wonder that responsible war department officials are anxious that there be no let-down in the standards for admission to military service.

Pan American Child Congress

War and politics are no respecters of children. Bombs and shells spare neither nursery nor school. And politics, frequently, like the bad Samaritan, goes by on the other side, even in peace-time.

The Pan-American Child Congress, whose purpose is to build sturdier, happier, wiser future citizens of the Americas, was established in 1919. Plans are now under way for its first meeting since 1935 which is to be held next spring in Washington.

Four times during the last six years, the meeting of the congress has had to be postponed. The first came in 1938 when Nicaragua found that it could not go ahead with plans for being host to the convolve. Then, when the delegates were all ready to take the boat the next year for Costa Rica, where the postponed congress was to meet, it was cancelled again, indirectly because of war. The real reason for this last postponement, perhaps, was indicated in a headline in a San Jose, Costa Rica, newspaper, which read: "Is this a Pan American-German Congress?" Germany had announced that it would send exhibits and take part in the meeting and presumably Nazi influence in Costa Rica was strong enough to make it unwise for the local government to protest. In any case, the meeting was again cancelled.

On Gray Days—Meditation, Repose

The other day I sat on a bale of straw in a stable with the measured crunch and stamp of horses around me, waiting for the rain to stop. I watched the slanting drops with mixed desires. The earth was so thirsty for these few drops that it seemed more than selfish to hope the watery benediction would cease. At last a rooster crowed and the rain thinned to a mist. The whole countryside seemed to look up in damp gratitude for its short cup of pleasure. There was life and movement everywhere. The dog dug in the softened dirt for no particular reason. When I passed he looked up at me with mud on his whiskers and a foolish, happy grin on his face. Chickens energetically pulled at worms that they hadn't seen for weeks and then, suddenly, there was a bright flash of color before me. Eight bluebirds appearing out of the air like a bright light suddenly turned and alighted on the top rail of the fence.

Back in the city, skies were still gray, but the same muted feeling of relief that I had felt in the country spread along the streets.

There is always to me a beauty in gray days. I feel as though I had stepped from a garish world into a quiet cloister—I hear sandalled feet on cool stone, the light, subdued, comes through stained glass windows. It is time for meditation and repose.

Rep. John W. Gwynne of Iowa has a plan whereby automobile license plates would be good for a five-year period in order to conserve steel for national defense. The congressman estimates that adoption of such a plan would save 550 tons of steel annually in Iowa alone and would also save the taxpayers of that state $44,060 each year.

NEW YORK. — William Cullen Bryant once engaged in a fist-fight in City Hall park with James Gordon Bennett, as the culmination of a violent Steps Down From political Ivory Tower to argument. Oth-Aid His Country ers of our poets have occasionally mixed in politics, held political jobs or died in battle, but the tradition has held that they are cloistered folk, not to be taken too seriously in matters of any great moment.

Archibald MacLeish, one of the best of contemporary American poets, and librarian of congress, has been asked to accept the administration of the new Washington agency called the Office of Facts and Figures. He and his agency will try to get reason, if not rhyme, into the daily outpouring of unrelated and sometimes contradictory statistics of national defense and foreign policies. In Juvenal's line, "That poet seems to be capable of walking a tight rope . . . all with the power of a magician."

There was quite a buzz of opposition throughout the country when Mr. MacLeish was made librarian of congress, three years ago. There was, however, some precedent for poets in government jobs and in politics, as well as on the firing line. There was Eugene Ware, topical versifier, who held down a good job in the pension department, about 30 years ago, and did it well. Then there was shaggy old Walt Whitman, in the same department at a time when the government seemed to need tight-rope walkers and magicians, to say nothing of poets, even more than it does now.

Gen. William Haines Lytle was a poet and politician—the author of "I Am Dying, Egypt, Dying," of school-boy recitation fame. He became a colonel of the Tenth Ohio Volunteers and died leading a charge at Chickamauga. As to poets in general coming to the aid of their country, there may be cited John McRae, who wrote "Flanders Field"; Joyce Kilmer and Rupert Brooke. Each gave his life.

Mr. MacLeish is, like his predecessor, Eugene Ware, somewhat of a topical versifier, but a much better poet. He frankly teams up poetry and propaganda—always for democracy as a faith and not as an institution.

On his graduation from Yale in 1915, he was grooved into a business career by his parents, and was surprisingly good at that too. Disregarding his parents' warnings that there were "no gold mines on Parthassus," he knocked off and made his career as a poet—on up to and beyond his winning of the $1,000 Pulitzer prize for his poem "Conquistador" in 1933. During the current war years, he has drawn a sharp lance against our pre-war artificers of literary lace-work and their companionate wanderers in foggy introspection. He was born in Glen-coe, Ill.

THOSE houses built like silos in the back yard of the Museum of Modern Art in New York are the development of a quite similar blend of art and utility devised by their creator, R. Buckminster Fuller, back in 1929. He first made them to live in, and they were to be standardized, and sell for about $3,000 apiece. His Dymaxion unit of today is not only a domicile, but it is adapted to use for defense housing—air raid shelters or troop barracks, or may be used as a beach or guest house.

Mr. Fuller is acutely aware of social change, which awareness has been one of the main inspirations of his scheming and dreaming about a world in which creativity will outrun disaster. He pioneered airplanes as symbolic of human liberation and aspiration and took sea-plane vacations, embellishing his adventure narratives with poetic apostrophes of flight.

In 1938, he published a four-dollar book, called "Nine Chains to the Moon." A lot of it was pretty deep. Mr. Fuller explained it at the end in this manner:

"Therefore be it resolved: To resolve every considerate, wish-evoking central concept into a reasonably efficacious resistance, eliminating inanimate device of time and contiguous service to time synchronization, that may be factorable from possibility to probability, this intent to streamline man's competitive volition unbeknown to him into a scientifically designed direction of least resistance, upon the occasion of his each-and-every dislodgment from habit inertia."

MINERAL AND VITAMIN RICHES FOR HEALTH
(See Recipes Below)

YOUR DEFENSE: HEALTH

Help yourself to your share of health by giving your meals plenty of health-giving foods and ward off the lack of resistance to disease that comes from not getting enough of properly balanced foods.

Economy and health will be the key words this season and throughout the country you homemakers will have to take your part and build the backbone of the country by feeding your families food that builds strong bodies, steady nerves and high morale. Fortunately, good, health-building food is not just achieved through more buying power, but through wise buying. You can use canned vegetables or low-priced fresh vegetables, cheaper cuts of meat, milk and canned fruits.

You've been hearing lots about vitamins, so check yourself on them:

Vitamin A is for resistance to infection, for growth and general well-being. You'll need it for your eyes, too, for poor vision and night blindness are common symptoms of the body's lack of this vitamin. You'll find it aplenty in milk, butter, vegetables green and yellow, fruits and eggs. It's also the one vitamin which you can store in the body.

Vitamin B1, sometimes called thiamin, is for appetite and good digestion. This vitamin's for good morale. If you're lazy, grouchy or nervous look into the matter. The chances are that you've been neglecting pork, liver, meat, enriched cereals and enriched bread and bread flour, nuts, and peas.

Vitamin B2 is sometimes called vitamin G also and also goes under the name riboflavin. If your nails have been brittle and grow slowly and break off easily or your hair and skin are generally in poor condition, add some of these good sources of vitamin B2 to your diet: milk, liver, eggs, cheese, lean meats and leafy vegetables.

Gums bleeding? Teeth decay easily? Perhaps you're missing out on vitamin C, for this is the vitamin that goes right into your system and helps you have good teeth and bones. If your diet contains plenty of citrus fruits (lemons, oranges, grapefruit), tomatoes, fresh fruits and vegetables, you won't have trouble with teeth, bones, or wounds not healing.

Vitamin D boosts vitamin C and calcium into action, makes them utilize the other vitamins and minerals. Vitamin D isn't easy to find in foods, although eggs, salmon, sardines and herring contain some of it. Milk can be fortified with this vitamin and then it is called "irradiated." Most common way of getting the vitamin is either through milk of this type or by taking cod liver oil in winter, sunbaths in the summer, for it is formed in the skin by the ultraviolet rays of the sun. That's the round-up of vitamins. Now, how about minerals?

You've probably heard that you need calcium to build good bones and teeth, but did you know that you need it to help your blood to clot when you have a wound and that you need it also to regulate your muscle contraction? No food keeps people from getting old indefinitely but if you've good calcium deposits, you'll at least postpone old age for awhile. Milk and green vegetables burst with calcium so use them every day. Don't forget the salads: carrots, cabbage, and celery aren't too expensive in winter and they're calcium-rich.

Phosphorus works together with calcium in building bones and nerves. Milk, cereals, meat, cheese, eggs, nuts—all these have a good phosphorus content.

Iron's a marvelous pep-you-upper. Not only does it guard against lagging energy but also digestive disturbances and general irritability.

Iron goes to work and makes red, red blood cells that are just about the hardest working cells you'll ever find. The red blood cell shuttles between your lungs and your 7,000-mile-long circulatory system dropping off the oxygen and carrying out the carbon dioxide.

You need lots of iron so don't miss a day on iron foods. That means you'll be eating plenty of liver, molasses, oatmeal, dried apricots, eggs, whole wheat, lean beef, cabbage, oysters and raisins from now on.

Iron by itself is apt to be a bit lazy. It needs copper to make it get to work, so be sure to have prunes often, whole-grain cereals, oatmeal, dried fruits, liver and oysters at some one of your three meals.

Iodine spells power. It is released to your system by the thyroid gland which is near the Adam's apple. Sluggishness, mental and physical, are the result of lack of iodine or thyroid deficiency.

Seafood contains iodine as well as garden vegetables. Salt has been iodized to help out general deficiency, and cranberries if raised in low-lying lands near the sea are a popular source of iodine.

Magnesium balances calcium, and as you're getting your milk you'll be getting magnesium, too. Other sources are green leafy vegetables.

That's the line-up. You'll notice that many foods contain both or several kinds of essential minerals and vitamins. Of course that should make the job you have to do easier.

*Liver and Vegetable Pie.
(Serves 6 to 8)

1/4 pound salt pork
1 1/4 cups cooked pork liver, cut in pieces

1 1/2 cups sliced onions
1 cup diced carrots
2 1/2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca
Black pepper and salt
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Fry salt pork, add liver and brown slightly. Cook onions and carrots until tender in boiling salted water. Drain, measure liquid and add water to make 2 cups. Add vegetables and meat to liquid, then remaining ingredients and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Turn into greased casserole.

Cover casserole with the following: Mix 1 cup sifted flour with 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons shortening, add milk (about 6 tablespoons) and mix until soft dough is formed. Pat to 1/2 inch thickness, cut several slits on top. Fit over casserole. Bake in a hot (450 degrees) oven, 20 minutes.

SOME REMINDERS OF OLD, WAR, NO. 1 SPEECHES

DIGGING THROUGH some old rubbish a few days ago, I discovered a number of clippings from English papers, containing accounts of the visit of a party of American journalists, of which I was one. During the days spent in England that party of Americans listened to many speeches and, in view of intervening and present-day events, these clippings made interesting reading.

Arthur Balfour, in a speech made at a luncheon, forecast the difficult problems to be faced at the peace table and what would happen in the future should hatred have a place in peace negotiations. The kind of peace he warned against was made and his prophecy for the future has been realized in a second World War.

Lord Northcliffe, in a speech at a luncheon in the London Times building, forecast a League of Nations that, with America as a participant, would solve all future international problems. America did not join the League and the League did not prevent a second World War.

Admiral Sims, commanding the American navy in Europe, explained the work of the British navy. He said there were never more than 13 German subs at sea at any one time and that England had some 5,000 vessels of various classes searching for these subs and protecting merchant ships. Admiral Sims said it was the English navy that would make victory for the Allied cause possible by maintaining control of the seas. It was true at that time, and is true again now with just about the same conditions.

World War I, and the peace that grew out of it, did not prevent war but, rather, encouraged more wars, including the present conflict. What will follow the peace of this war only the future can tell. The sentiment now in the democracies is for generous terms with Roosevelt's Churchill pronouncement as a basis, but the bombs are still falling. With victory, the hatreds of Europe may again, as in 1919, dominate the peace terms.

FARMERS DEFINITELY AFFECTED BY RAILROAD WAGES

THE FARMER is the one producer in America who does not, and cannot, determine the price at which his commodity will be sold. He sows in the spring, with a hope that Nature will enable him to produce a crop, and consumer demand will assure him a fair price. When, with the assistance of Nature, his acres have produced a crop, he must reap in the fall, regardless of what the price may be.

The price is made at Chicago, at Tidewater or at Liverpool, and the farmer pays the transportation. From the price paid is deducted the delivery costs.

The manufacturer can, and does, fix the price at which he will sell his product. If there is not a consumer demand at the price he names, he can lay off his help, close his factory and await better conditions. To the price the manufacturer names, the local merchant adds the cost of transportation of the product in fixing his price to the consumer. The farmer pays the freight on what he sells and also on what he buys.

The farmer has a definite financial interest in the proposed wage increase asked by the railroad employees of the nation. That increase represents more than the railroads are earning. They cannot absorb it and continue to operate. It means increased cost of transportation on what the farmer sells and on what he buys. He will get less for what his factory—his acres—produce, and pay more for the commodities of other factories—the things he and his family need and use, and the equipment needed to operate his farm. The increased freight both ways will amount to a considerable number of dollars a year for every one of the more than six million farms in America. Without that proposed increase, the average railroad employee is far better off financially than is the average farmer, who, collectively, will pay a considerable portion of the increase.

WHERE'S THE CEILING?

WHAT DOES a surplus of food and continuously increasing prices mean if not inflation? Where is the ceiling they talk about, and over what is it to be placed? The farmer cannot be the only one who is to be limited in the price he receives.

STATES PILE IT UP ALSO

FOR 1930 the per capita state tax collections averaged $14.52 and by 1940 had jumped to $23.03. With the exception of but a few states, the increase was reasonably even. In Missouri the jump, as reported by the Tax Foundation, was from $10.61 in 1930 to $21.92 in 1940, and in Alabama from $8.29 to $23.31. Aside from these states, the range of 1940 state tax collections was from $33.88 in Nevada down to $14.38 in South Carolina and $14.80 in Nebraska. Some increases are not Uncle Sam's.

One evening a number of Victor Hugo devotees, dining at the poet's home, were trying to outdo each other in praising their host's genius. One of them thought the street in which Hugo lived should be named after him. Other streets were being suggested as more appropriate when an enthusiastic fellow declared that no one street was worthy of such distinction. The whole city should be named after the poet! Hugo merely nodded approval and said: "That will come, my friend, that will come!"

Soldiers Choose "Correspondence Queen"

Dorothy Mae Condon, 19, Janesville, Wis., voted by thousands of men at Camp Lee, Va., as the "prettiest girl writing to a soldier," took her laurels graciously last week as she visited the scene of her conquest to be feted and entertained by the doughboys stationed at the Camp. Miss Condon is an employee of the Chevrolet plant at Janesville, and her employer made it possible for her to fly to her soldier sweetheart, Corporal Robert Carr, whose submission of her photograph in the Camp contest resulted in her selection as the prettiest correspondent.

Increasing Farm Accidents Attributed to Machine Age

Above—When the horses start, the knife-sharp blades of the discs begin to turn. Agricultural implements are the leading farm accident hazard. Right—Cigarettes and gasoline are noted for their teamwork in causing serious injury and costly fires.

Farmer Is Urged By Red Cross to Check Accident Hazards

Washington, D. C.—Mechanization of the American farm is accounting for a mounting accident fatality toll, the Red Cross pointed out in an appeal for farm owners to participate in its year-round Home and Farm Accident Prevention drive, beginning the last week of October. Of the 4,500 farm workers killed by accidents last year, approximately 28 per cent were due to carelessness and the use of faulty implements, the Red Cross said. Ill-tempered animals, vehicles, excessive heat and falls led other farm accident causes in that order. To the farmer, the Red Cross urges a close check-up for the removal of accident hazards. Machinery, tools and other equipment should be examined periodically and kept in good repair. Tools and implements should be kept in regular places, out of the farm yard or where they may cause a serious fall. Bulls, hogs and other dangerous animals should be kept in secure pens. Approximately 50 injuries of varying degrees occur for every farm accident fatality, a nation-wide total of some 225,000 for last year, the Red Cross appeal for greater safety pointed out. To launch this year's Accident Prevention program the Red Cross again will distribute 10,000,000 home and farm "check lists." By following the suggestions urban householders can systematically check the home for accident hazards. A similar check-up is outlined for the removal of hazards on the farm.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

The city's newest subway is the final link in the independent system, first planned 19 years ago, and the total cost of which has been $800,000,000. The Sixth avenue line is short, running only from Fourth street to Fifty-ninth street, yet its cost was $60,000,000, which figures out $4,377 a foot. Construction costs were increased by the fact that it runs under or over six other underground railways that cross its path. Added expense was that while the subway was being dug, the elevated railroad was still running and precautions that cost real money had to be taken to prevent its collapse. Then, too, for nearly a mile at its northern end, it is only 150 feet above the Catskill aqueduct. New York's underground maze of conduits, wires, etc., didn't make the job less expensive.

At Thirty-fourth street is the largest station. It is 360 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 10 feet high, and has three different levels. There are 17 entrances and 16 escalators. Also there is a tunnel above the tracks, much like the enclosed deck of a ship, through which pedestrians may travel from Thirty-fourth street to Forty-second street without coming out into sunshine or bad weather. It's a free tunnel and so, during the Christmas rush with attendant rain, it did a heavy business. Speaking of business, it is estimated that the new line will carry 40,000,000 passengers during the coming year.

It was the custom of an attractive young business woman, who lives alone high up in a big apartment house, not to complete dressing until after breakfast. But she always did reach outside her door to gather in her mail and the newspaper so that she might have something to read while waiting for the coffee to perk. The other morning the newspaper was just out of her reach. Noting there was no one in the hall, she stepped outside. Before she could bend over the door, equipped with a spring lock, banged shut. And there she stood as if posing for a lingerie ad! The only way to get a pass key was to call the elevator operator and wait while he made a round trip. She was about to do that when something moved her to try the door. It opened readily enough. She hadn't figured out yet when she threw the catch but the newspaper and mail now wait until she is fully clad.

Max Marcin, ex-police reporter who now makes a comfortable living with his "Perfect Crime" and "Crime Doctor" stories, dropping into the press-room-at-headquarters to exchange anecdotes with the boys still on the beat. In the window of one of those pet shops, a tiny turtle named "Throckmorton" Kay Kyser recognized by kids as he crosses Lexington avenue. They yell, "Hi-ya, professor!" Don Voorhees getting himself a chair in the orchestra pit when he visits musicals. He's had a conductor's eye-view of the stage for so long he doesn't feel comfortable anywhere else in the house. Jimmy Dorsey, swing maestro, who recently sent 12 of his hottest recordings to the Ramsgate Hot Jazz club in London. They'll be used for entertainment in air-raid shelters.

Al K. Hall is a veteran vaudeville and burlesque comedian who has been on and off Broadway for 25 years. He's never been ashamed of his job although in his career he's entertained in some pretty rough theaters. But Al's kid, a girl, has been growing up. Before he died, he wanted to do something that would make his daughter proud of her daddy. So he sat down and composed a patriotic song called "We Are All Americans." Harry Salter heard it and thought it so good he put Hall on his "Song of Your Life" program, so the comedian could tell of his lifelong dream and how it had come true. Even if the song is never published, it won't make any difference to the composer. He feels he has done one thing in his life of which his daughter may be proud.

If you have seen W. C. Fields' latest picture, "The Bank Dick," you may have noticed that the story credit was given to one—Mahatma Kane Jeeves. One of this department's Hollywood scouts reports that many folks know that the story was actually written by Fields himself, and a few know how the comic came to choose his pseudonym. If you say the name slowly, you will discover that it is really one of Fields' favorite off-screen expressions, "My hat, my cane, Jeeves." (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Colleges Find Demand

Big for Latin Training

KENT, OHIO.—Latin, often considered a "dead" language, nevertheless is so popular in colleges that the demand for teachers far exceeds the supply, according to Dr. Lester H. Munzenmayer.

"Surveys show that if a student can succeed in Latin or in science he probably will make a success of his entire college program and will do a thorough job of educating himself," said Dr. Munzenmayer.

New Technique Aids in Teaching of Chemistry

AMES, IOWA.—Chemistry now is fun at Iowa State college—ever since it tangled with streamlining and came out second best. For Iowa State has adopted "semimicro" chemistry.

Test tubes no bigger than the little finger—liquids measured in a medicine dropper—that is "semimicro" or "midget" chemistry. And this science on a small scale has injected a new fascination into the college curriculum.

In semimicro chemistry students need use only one-tenth the chemical material as under the old, or macro-chemistry system, but that isn't the only advantage.

Perhaps the most important thing about this streamlined version of chemistry is that it makes the laboratory a healthier and a safer place. Since chemicals used are cut to fractions, so are laboratory odors. Existing ventilating equipment can whisk away in a jiffy the fumes on a scrap of metal.

System Ready to Keep Check on the Ohio River

CINCINNATI.—A radio-telegraph system to keep communications open in time of flood and other emergencies in the Ohio river drainage area has been placed in operation.

Col. E. H. Marks, army district engineer here, said that the system will be manned at all times, ready for 24-hour emergency duty. It will be used for regular messages in normal periods.

While essentially a telegraph system, radio telephone is provided for patrol boats in flood emergencies. There are 24 stations, six of 250-watt power and 18 of 100 watts. Six are land stations and the rest on boats. The chief stations are located at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Huntington, Louisville and Nashville.

Work is progressing on a chain of 14 stations of 15-watt power at dams in the Muskingum conservancy district, to be used normally to send news of rainfall and water stages.

King Zog's Law Restored in Greek-Held Albania

ATHENS.—Gen. Alexander Papagos, chief of the Greek general staff, issued a decree recently providing for restoration in Greek-occupied areas of Albania of the law of King Zog, who fled when Italy seized Albania early in 1939.

The decree set forth that normal Albanian civil tribunals would administer justice henceforth and that Albanian law would be applied except in cases where it might obstruct the Greek forces of occupation. Validity was restored to the deeds and laws of King Zog's reign. (Ex-King Zog was last reported in London, where he has passed most of his exile. The opinion there was that he would not return to Albania soon.)

Some people just never learn that it's a lot easier to push something that's rollin' than something standin' still.

NAVY INTELLIGENCE

Is it necessary to be a high school graduate in order to enlist in the Navy?

No. Navy enlistees need not be high school graduates. All applicants will be given an examination containing approximately 100 questions. A grade of 50 per cent or better on this examination is sufficiently high to pass the Navy educational standards. However, a high school education will be valuable to the seaman during his Navy enlistment.

If I enlist in the Navy or Naval Reserve, will I be sent to a Navy Trade School?

All new recruits are sent to one of four Naval Training Stations and after a training period they may take examinations for entrance into Navy Trade Schools. Those recruits who pass their examinations with sufficiently high grades are sent to Navy Trade Schools before assignment to the fleet. While attending these schools, they will receive regular Navy pay and free schooling valued at $1500.

What is the greatest possible pay I can expect to earn during my first term of enlistment?

It is possible to earn as much as $128 a month by the end of your first term of enlistment, and remember that your clothing, lodging, medical and dental care are all supplied free.

After I have served my term of enlistment, what benefits do I get for re-enlistment?

Depending on your rate and length of service, you can get a cash bonus up to $300 plus 30 days leave with pay.

What does the term "ash can" mean in the Navy?

An "ash can" is a slang term applied to the depth charge used to combat submarines. The average "ash can" is a container filled with approximately 300 pounds of T.N.T. and can be dropped overboard from a ship and so controlled as to explode at depths ranging from 36 to 390 feet. These are generally carried by the fast ships in the fleet, as a boat dropping a charge regulated to explode at 70 feet depth must move away from the explosion area at a speed of 25 knots or more. These "ash cans" are either rolled off the stern or shot from "y-guns" which hurl one right and one left simultaneously.

Australia Adds To War Efforts

Production of Planes, Naval Vessels and Munitions Progresses Rapidly.

MEEBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Australia already is committed to a war expenditure of more than $200,000,000 in the year ending next June 30. This compares with $270,000,000 spent in the whole of the last war. The new program has propelled Australia into an industrial revolution. At a cost of $50,000,000 she has established an armament industry surpassing India's in magnitude of output and second only to Canada's.

More than 120,000 men enlisted in the Australian imperial force, the vanguard of which made a brilliant beginning in the capture of Bardia, Libya. Reinforcements are being enlisted at the rate of 6,000 a month. An additional home-defense army of 200,000 men is being raised, chiefly by compulsory enlistment of single men from 18 to 33 years old.

The program for building three Tribal-class destroyers and 60 mine sweepers, half of which are for the United Kingdom government, is proceeding and a number of vessels already have been launched.

Air Force Stronger

The air force is 11 times stronger than it was before the war, having a personnel exceeding 40,000. A total of $37,000,000 will be spent this year in development of the empire air scheme and in strengthening Australia's air defenses. Nearly 22,000 men have been enlisted under the empire scheme.

In addition to the men training in Australia, many air contingents have gone to Canada and some to Rhodesia for training. Others have reached the United Kingdom for the final stages of training and will soon be in action.

The air force was strengthened in 1940 by the delivery of the one-hundredth Lockheed-Hudson bomber from the United States, as well as hundreds of other aircraft from Britain for the empire scheme.

Hundreds of thousands more Australians have been employed in production of aircraft and munitions and in growing food for Britain. A total of $15,000,000 will be spent this year on new munitions establishments. Australia maintains a steady supply of munitions to Britain and also exports to New Zealand, India, the Straits Settlements and Hong Kong. Training aircraft such as the Australian-designed Wirraway and Tiger Moth are being produced at the rate of four a day and designs are being perfected for a high-speed bomber. Delays are being overcome in completion of a plant for the manufacture of Bristol Beaufort bombers.

Speed Production Rate

Since Essing Lewis, managing director of the Broken Hill Proprietary company, Ltd., and director general of munitions, assumed control of munitions production, assisted by eight other leading industrialists, a new pace has been set in rate of output. Airplane engines were in production within six months after receipt of blueprints from overseas and a huge factory now is being equipped for the manufacture of optical-glass aircraft instruments.

Orders totaling $2,000,000 have been placed for construction of Australian machine tools for new defense workshops. Motor-body and automobile-assembly workshops are delivering scores of vehicles to the army daily. There is a steady supply of stores and equipment for technical units.

Factors that assisted in this impressive record are the steel industry, capable of producing more than 1,500,000 tons of high grade steel yearly, and the manufacture of hundreds of components for munitions, machine tools and aircraft in hundreds of private factories.

GOOD NEWS!

We have fortunately been able, by recently completed financing, to substantially reduce the amount of annual interest charges on our borrowed money, represented by mortgage bonds and debentures. These savings are now being passed on to our customers through lower rates and to our employees in higher wages.

It has required much courage to do this in the face of continually increasing costs of every kind of material, equipment and supplies we have to buy—the certainty of enormously higher taxes and the many fearsome uncertainties which surround the present national emergency. However it was finally decided to go ahead and we take both pride and pleasure in announcing:

Home Accident Deaths Highest In Five Years

Infections arising from cuts and scratches play major role on the home accident front. Above—The kitchen butcher knife is a poor whittling blade, especially when it is drawn toward the body. Right—Falls last year killed 16,000 Americans in their homes. Never use a chair or other furniture as an improvised ladder.

Washington, D. C.—Carelessness is writing a new stanza to "Home Sweet Home." According to the American Red Cross, home accidents last year accounted for their greatest fatality toll in five years. Some 33,000 persons lost their lives through falls, burns, poisoning and other hazards of everyday home life. Although less dramatic—consequently less apt to attract public interest—home accident fatalities ran a close second to death on the street and highway, trailing by 1,500 deaths. With carelessness playing the leading role, more than half of home accident deaths were attributed to falls—occurring on stairs, slippery floors, insecure rugs and use of chairs and other articles of furniture as improvised ladders. Burns and accidental poisoning followed in that order.

INSTALLMENT TWO

THE STORY SO FAR: Bound for the Chibougamau gold country, six men lost their lives on the Nottaway river. Red Malone, Garrett Finlay, brother of one of the six, and Blaise, half-breed guide, arrive at Nottaway posing as surveyors.

Blaise quieted Flame as a figure appeared in the path leading down from the railroad fill.

"Bo-jo!" returned Blaise. The half-breed's eyes roved over the heaped bags; then he turned to Brassard. "You on survey?"

The thick muscles under Blaise's shirt tightened at the insolence of the other's manner. But his seamed face might have been carved from wood. "Ah-hah!" he said, easing a cloud of smoke from his mouth.

"My name is Joe Flambeau. I work for Jules Isadore!" announced the caller. "What your name?"

"I am Big Windigo from Devil Valley! I eat Nottaway Riviere man for supper!" The twinkle faded to a cold stare.

At the calculated affront the other sucked in his breath. "By gar! You ensult Joe Flambeau!" he choked. Then Flambeau's groping fingers found and closed on the bone handle of the knife under his coat.

"Don't pull dat knife!" Brassard's voice was as brittle as shell ice. "Look behin' you!" he said.

Flambeau turned his head. Feet bunched under him; the big air-dale crouched like a panther.

"You pull dat knife and dat dog land on your back and rip your t'roat!"

Flambeau's hand moved away from his knife handle. "I don't come here for troubl!" he said weakly. "I talk business wid you."

"Forget w'at I say!" appeared Blaise. "I don't mean not'ing. W'at you want, Flambeau?"

"W'y you take Nottaway Trail to de Bay?"

"We survey lower riviere." Flambeau surprised Blaise with. "Dese engineer pay you small wages. I get you job wid big money."

"Who wid?"

"Isadore! You are stout man. Isadore pay big money for strong man on de riviere."

It was growing interesting. Blaise took the bait. "Ah-hah! W'at you pay?"

"Double w'at you get! Leave dese men and dey will not make survey alone."

Blaise threw back his head and laughed. "You notice dat redhead?"

"Ah-hah!"

"He is Injun in white water! Finlay will run any'ing. Dey go to de bay widout me."

Flambeau frowned. "Batoche will talk wid you at daylight, here."

"Ah-hah!"

"Isadore give you big pay. Shake hand!"

Blaise rose and extended a thick paw. Then he deliberately tossed his bombshell. "W'y do Isadore watch de Nottaway like a fox watch a rabbit run? He strike gold on Waswanipi?"

Flambeau's jaw sagged as he stared at the cryptic face of the speaker. "Mebbe he got gold! Mebbe! You come wid us and fin' out! I see you at daylight."

Shortly Finlay and Malone joined Blaise at the camp on the shore.

"This dump is sure stampered!" snorted the giant, filling and lighting his pipe. "Can't get a soul to talk! From the way they shut up you'd think the bush north of here was full of cockeyed, man-eating Windigo!"

"Who'd you talk with?" asked Finlay.

"Cotter the storekeeper's as scared as a fox in deep snow with a lynx on his trail. The rest are the same way. You see McLeod?"

"Yes. I showed him the last line of the letter sent to the family and asked if he recognized the writing. By the look in his wife's face I believe he wrote it himself."

"Let's see that letter, again, Garry! When Cotter asked me to register, I saw in his book some writing on a loose sheet signed by McLeod."

Finlay handed Malone the letter he carried in his wallet and the latter read aloud:

"To the family of Robert Finlay, North Bay, Ontario.

"Last spring Robert Finlay and his partner, Andrew Troup, left Nottaway bound for the Chibougamau gold country by way of the Waswanipi River. In the fall it was reported; here, that Montagnais Indians had found their smashed canoe. This is the third party that has disappeared on the Chibougamau Trail in two years. There are people who have reasons why they don't want prospectors traveling Waswanipi water.

"I don't believe these six men were drowned.

"A Friend."

For some time Malone studied the letter. "Yes, it looks mighty like that writing of McLeod's I saw in Cotter's book," he said.

"McLeod wrote that letter, Red?" Finlay repeated his conversation with the station agent and his wife. "But McLeod's tied up here and doesn't want trouble," he concluded. "Now whom does he suspect and why?"

"Do you suppose someone's made a placer strike on the river and is trying to hog it?"

Finlay receives an anonymous letter suggesting that the six men were not drowned as reported. Finlay and Malone find the people of the Nottaway settlement strangely averse to discussing the tragedy. Among themselves they suggest...

"I sure do. It looks to me as if we had run into the coldest attempt to control wild country I've ever heard of." Garry turned to Brassard. "What do you think of it, Blaise?"

"I t'ink-nodding. I got new job."

"Cut the funny stuff, Blaise!" grunted Red. "What's your dope on the situation?"

"I work for Isadore, now!" announced Blaise, his eyes snapping like an otter's. "I leave dis outfit in de mornin'! Then he described his meeting with Flambeau.

"Good!" laughed Garry. "They're certainly worried about us. What are you going to tell Batoche?"

"Wal, you see, I was hit on de head, once. It leave me wid bad memory. I tell Batoche dere is some meestake. I navare talk wid Flambeau."

"And will that bird be wild?" chuckled Red. "Watch his right hand! Don't let him wing you."

Blaise inhaled until his chest resembled a barrel. He flexed his thick biceps and yawned. "I take good care dat faller!" he said. Then he rose and his face sobered. "I like to have look at dis Isadore outfit on Waswanipi."

"Don't you realize that we've got to map the lower river?" demanded Garry. "What's the idea?"

"Tomorrow, I t'ink we get telegraph order from Ottawa to map Waswanipi Lake."

"You old fox! You've hit it!" cried Garry. "We'll give that telegram the air whether McLeod denies it or not. In the morning this city hears that we've been wired from headquarters to map Waswanipi. Will that be news?"

Finlay rose. "I'm dropping in on those prospectors above here," he said, and left his friends.

"Hello, Mac!" greeted a voice as Finlay reached the tent above the bridge. "Sit down and light up!"

"Thanks, I will. Where you people heading?"

"Rouyn way! Plenty gold in them quartz veins if you can locate 'em!" said a grizzled veteran. "You're on the survey, they tell me."

"Yes, we pull out in the morning for Matagamii."

"Well, you're on government business. That makes you safe. But, friend, if you was prospectin', I'd advise you to wet them paddles of yourn south of the steel."

"How's that?"

"Too many men who left here for Chibougamau ain't never been heard from."

Finlay finished his pipe and bade the prospectors good night. On his way back to Cotter's store he passed a lighted shack. From the shadows in the rear came a woman's voice: "Mr. Finlay!"

Finlay stopped. "Did somebody call me?" he asked.

"I'm Mrs. MacDonald," said the invisible speaker in a low tone. "You'll think it's strange for me to speak to you this way. But my husband, the section foreman, is down the line and I've got to talk."

"What is it, Mrs. MacDonald?" said the interested Finlay.

"You're going down river—on the survey?"

"Yes."

"Mr. Finlay, they don't believe you're on the survey. If you're headed for the Chibougamau Trail, I beg you to give it up!"

"This is interesting. Who doesn't believe we're a survey party?"

"I can't tell you! I'm afraid to talk. It's too dangerous."

"Just what are they afraid of? Why don't they talk to the police?"

"The police were here last year, the Provincials. They only laughed at us."

Finlay was both annoyed and interested. Annoyed that a government survey party should be suspected of being something else.

tion the reports from the north that the bodies of the men were found by Indians. The name of Isadore, rich fur man, when brought by Finlay, causes an immediate cessation of further conversation along that line.

"It's mighty good of you, Mrs. MacDonald, to warn us," Finlay said, "but we happen to be government surveyors under orders—not prospectors. No one's going to be crazy enough to monkey with a survey party."

"I know, but Mrs. McLeod said tonight that one of those boys lost last year was your brother—that you were making inquiries."

So it was all over the place? He had talked too much to the McLeods. And yet it had been necessary to learn who wrote that letter.

"Mrs. MacDonald," Finlay suddenly asked, "who is it you're afraid of—Isadore?"

Finlay heard the sudden intake of her breath. "Oh, no! You're wrong there! We don't even know him! He's a fur man and generally flies to Waswanipi from down below."

"Well, anyway, I'm grateful for your kindness. But as our job's to re-map the lower Nottaway, I don't expect to have the pleasure of meeting Mr. Isadore. Good night!"

In the small bedroom at Cotter's Finlay found Malone and told him the story.

"Don't think we're surveyors, eh? Want to warn us off the Chibougamau Trail! Looks more and more, chief, as if that letter was right!"

"Yes, Red, that letter was right!"

They've been through our bags, whispered Malone.

Shortly Red Malone was filling the room with gargantuan snores but Garry Finlay could not sleep. Later he heard the cautious tread of moccasined feet on the creaking stairway and someone entered the room adjoining. There was whispered conversation, that was inaudible, then, head against the partition of matched boards, he heard:

"Oua! Dey sleep soun! Leesten!"

"Ah-hah! Dey sleep hard!" one whispered.

There was the creak of bed springs and a grunt of disgust.

"Dat faller who look like hawk wid his eye say he make map of de Nottaway. He lie. Dey take de Chibougamau Trail."

"Dey carry tool and map of engineer."

"Mebbe so. But I t'ink dey lie."

"Chibougamau! You t'ink dey hunt for gold, eh? We offair dis Brassard big pay in de mornin' and get him drunk. Den we find out who dey are." There was a muffled chuckle. "If dey go to Waswanipi, Tete-Blanche show dem w'ere to find gold and bury dem in de hole."

Shortly the men in the next room slept, but Garry Finlay's brain was busy. Tete-Blanche! He's white-haired! And Tetu! What a pair of names! He'd not forget them. So these were the men who were blocking the Chibougamau Trail?

CHAPTER II

Before daylight Finlay heard the two men in the next room creep down the stairs. He waked Malone, told him what he had overheard and, later, found Cotter in the store.

"Much travel through here?" he threw out, casually.

"There's a couple of free traders south of here and all the Hudson's Bay and Isadore supplies go this way."

"Many hit for Chibougamau from here?"

"A few tried it but were drowned."

"What?"

"Yes, drowned in the Waswanipi! It's nasty water. Even the Indians are shy of it."

The muscles in Finlay's face suddenly tightened. Cotter slowly colored before the thrust of the agate eyes. "How do you know they were drowned?"

"Isadore says so."

"Oh, Isadore says so? Say, Cotter, where did this Isadore come from? How long has he been trading on Waswanipi Lake?"

The storekeeper was visibly uneasy. "He was here before the steel went through—before the Chibougamau-gold-strike."

"Don't know where he came from?"

Cotter's hand was noticeably unsteady as he filled his pipe. "Say, ain't you pretty curious? I thought you was a government surveyor but you talk like the police."

Garry smiled at the other's evident nervousness. Then he suddenly shot the bald question: "How long has Tete-Blanche been working for him?"

Cotter's face was etched with fear. "I'm making it my business, Mr. Cotter! Finlay said! You're scared silly! What are you afraid of?"

Cotter swallowed hard. "You're right! I am scared! I bin threatened. I'm trying to make a livin' here-tryin' to mind my own business. You can't blame me for keepin' my mouth shut!"

"Good!" thought Garry. "Now I'm getting somewhere! This fellow's going to talk!" Then he asked the uneasy man behind the counter: "Just what are you scared of?"

"Scared of being burned out at night in midwinter—scared of what might happen to my fur!"

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Starting Up the Heater.
ANY kind of a heater should be thoroughly cleaned inside before starting it up in the fall. The inside flue passages should be scraped and gone over with a steel brush, of a kind made for the job. The smoke-pipe should be cleaned out, for it is only too likely to catch ashes and soot. All of this work can best be done with a vacuum cleaner, of a kind intended for the purpose; coal dealers can do the job, or can supply the names of concerns specializing in it. The chimney flue should also be cleaned as often as is necessary.

Doors of the heater should fit tightly; if rust has collected on them, this should be scraped off. Doors that are too greatly warped to make a tight fit should be replaced; for leakage of air around them will interfere with the draft. The smokepipe should make a tight fit in its hole in the chimney, which usually calls for a packing with asbestos or other fireproof cement. The same kind of cement can be used to close an open joint between the bottom of the heater and the floor.

If the water gauge of a steam boiler shows that the water is dirty, the boiler should be emptied and refilled to the proper level. If the water is clean, there is no need to replace it. This applies also to boilers of hot water heating systems.

Cold Extension
Question: A two-story brick extension is exposed and very cold in winter. The upper part is a kitchen. The dish closet is as cold as the refrigerator. We have hot air heat, but heated air does not come into the kitchen until the kitchen air is heated by the stove. What can you advise?

Answer: In the first place, you should have an outlet by which the cold air can escape from the room and get back to the heater. This would set up a circulation that would bring the hot air into the kitchen. For insulation, the kitchen walls can be lined with stiff insulating boards, which are one-half inch thick and would occupy but little space; the boards could be nailed directly to the plaster. Cork-board might also be used.

Construction in Winter
Question: I am interested in a corner house, one of a row of houses to be built during the winter and completed about May. I am told that houses built in winter are not as strong and do not stand up as well as those built in warm weather. Is this true?

Answer: The durability and quality of construction are entirely dependent on the reliability of the contractor and the care he uses in his building operations during freezing weather. Of course, construction during warm weather eliminates some of the hazards.

Kitchen-Table Top
Question: I wish to finish a new wooden top on a kitchen table in a color, with a serviceable surface. If this cannot be done in color, what other method should I use?

Answer: A linseed-oil treatment will be more satisfactory. Give the table a soaking coat of raw linseed oil. Wipe off the excess oil on the surface after an hour or so. After three applications the table top will be resistant to stains and will not be liable to warp.

Covering Insulation
Question: I have an unfinished attic which is about four feet high in the middle. There is no flooring in it, but I have four inches of insulation between the beams. Would it be advisable to cover this insulation with some sort of material such as a rigid insulating board, making a floor of some?

Answer: Insulating board is not hard enough for flooring; use plywood.

Clinkers.
Question: I am told that burning garbage in my furnace helps to form clinkers. Is this so?

Answer: Yes. Burning garbage and other rubbish in the furnace is one of the commonest causes for clinking. Ash from the garbage prevents the even flow of air through all parts of the fire-bed; this concentrates the air in a few parts, which overheats the fuel to the melting point.

Burning Garbage
Question: Is it wise to burn waste paper and garbage in a furnace during the winter season?

Answer: No; for it will interfere with an even draft and is one of the common causes for the formation of clinkers.

Water Heating
Question: Is it possible to heat water in an oil-fired hot air furnace?

Answer: It is not very satisfactory. Use a separate unit for heating water.

New Fall Clothes Are Pretty But They Are Also Practical

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU are enrolled at college, if you are a debutante, if you are a full-fledged socialite, or if you are a career girl, you will be going places this fall and winter, and that means pretty clothes and many of 'em.

The "trick" is to assemble a wardrobe of costumes that have the style-correctness and indefinable charm that will make you the reigning glamour girl in the smartly alert stadium group, at the college "prom," at afternoon tea or bridge. The illustration herewith is designed to offer suggestions for costumes that will do just that.

Wherever smart crowds parade into the stadium this fall you will find fragrant fresh flowers posed romantically on muffs and cuffs as well as on coat collars and revers, and on canes, if you please. Here's hoping your far-away soldier, or a doting parent at home will be wiring you one of the newest style corsages to wear to that football game. If you are seeking ways to allot your clothes allowance wisely, we would suggest the purchase of a youthful-looking kidskin jacket such as that worn by the cheer-enthusiast seated to the left in the group. A flattering gray or beige fur like this will "go with everything," your sports frocks, your dresses for town wear and travel, or your new "date" dress.

It's simply perfect to wear to football games. As a background for a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums such as the girl pictured is wearing gray kidskin is the ideal answer. For air apropos ensemble, the streamers must carry out the college colors. Coach your florist beforehand to attach your college letter right in the heart of the flower as though it had grown there. The stunning hat that completes this costume is black with the new curtain drape that conceals the hair at the back in a soft line. The hunter's green frock of sheer wool, with tailored lines and nipped-in waist, as shown above to the right, is a smart choice to wear to the game and the tea-dance afterward. A corsage of roses is matched to the rose petaled crown of the saucy pillbox hat. It is the very latest fashion to wear your flowers at the belt line, after the manner pictured.

One of the necessary luxuries of a debutante or fair college girl is a simple classic gown-fashioned of a delectable pastel woolen. The styling of the pastel frock above to the left in the group is particularly attractive. There is restrained fullness at the front of the skirt. The bodice is beautifully detailed, with the new and popular "slenderizing" midriff effect. Pompadour hat and long suede gloves complete this charming "date" dress. Evidently, according to this picture, "he" wired "her" one of the extremely popular patriotic corsages of red roses, blue cornflowers and white carnation petals.

The fall and winter social whirl makes it almost imperative that every girl who goes places own a black velvet "date" dress. Black velvet is equal to any occasion. Below, to the right, you see a glamour dress on a glamour girl. The square-cut neck is extremely flattering. A stunning bracelet, a jeweled brooch, the new long gloves, a towering turban draped of cerise velvet done in the milliner's happiest manner, and an exotic corsage of rubrum lilies dramatize this "portrait of a lady" to the nth degree. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

New Fall Bags

Long and narrow, beautifully appointed with the "last word" in contrivances to make life easier by safeguarding your valuables, and taking care of your "hanky," your lipstick and other make-up essentials, the new bags are everything you want them to be in convenience as well as esthetic appearance. An oriental influence is reflected in the initials which take a distinctly Chinese slant on the bag shown at the top. Bracelet, earclips, and twin lapel bowknot pins matching metal add a cosmopolitan touch. The new black suede bag shown below has a pocket and smart tucked detail.

Wear a Collection Of Pins and Clips

If you wear your fancy jewelry clips and pins as fashion dictates you will look like a military heroine displaying a collection of honor medals. The latest is to wear, not merely a single clip or pin but a whole bevy of them. It works somewhat like the charm bracelet idea. You collect versatile clips and display them on your blouse or lapel. You can get twin clips, triplet, quadruplet and even quintuplet groups. This is especially so in regard to butterfly motifs. A flock of jeweled wings is often seen fluttering on the new costumes. Some of the clip sets have, say, three units which are held in leash with delicate link chains. Makes a stunning effect.

Enormous glittering flower sprays will be worn on fur coats this winter, or will be worn with the simple basic dark dress to take the place of trimming or other ornamentation. The return of long necklaces is also important jewelry news.

Luxurious Fabrics May Soon Be Harder to Buy

Fabrics used in the fall collections almost overawe one with their elegance. Some merchants say this is the grand climax before we settle down to utilitarian weaves, and that lavish silks will be less and less available. However, the present handsome silks are setting the pace for rayon weaves produced in our own country that will reproduce handsome failles, satins, brocades, and so on. Stiff silk weaves such as failles, taffetas, tie silks, lustrous, firm satins, and rich velvets are linked this season to the new slim silhouettes and are also being made up in stunning costume and evening blouses.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 6:7, 8; 1 John 1:5-2:8.
GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—1 John 1:9.

Sin is an appalling reality, hideous and horrible in itself, and bearing with it the gravest consequences both in this life and in the life to come. Man does not find it pleasant to face that fact, and so he makes light of sin and even may go so far as to deny its existence. Obviously such an expedient does nothing to solve the difficulty or to meet the gnawing distress of a heart facing and fearing the judgment of God.

Far better to meet the reality of it, admit its awfulness, and seek God's way of full deliverance. Sin, which came into the world when man listened to Satan and disobeyed God in the Garden of Eden, has gone on to mar and to mark all mankind. We note that

I. Sin Brings Corruption (Gal. 6:7, 8).

Seedtime is followed by harvest. This is the law of nature, the law of God. The farmer who sowed wheat in the spring looked for wheat when the harvest time came. The same principle holds in the spiritual realm. Just as the one who sows to the Spirit reaps eternal life, the one who sows to the flesh reaps corruption, and death.

A life of self-indulgence (which is sowing to the flesh) brings moral decay. The weakened will yields to desire, and it "bringeth forth sin, and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death" (James 1:14, 15). This death is spiritual, bringing separation from God, a loss of fellowship and communion with Him. Spiritual death as well as physical death came upon mankind through Adam's sin.

II. Sin Loves Darkness (1 John 1:5-7).

There is not a bit of darkness in God. He is light. When Jesus came into the world, He came as the Light of the World. But "men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved" (John 3:17-21).

The corollary of that truth is that a man who says he has fellowship with God, but continues to walk in darkness, brands himself a liar (v. 8). Compare Revelation 21:27-28 for what God thinks of liars.

The light still shines, and the one who is walking in darkness has only to step over into the light (v. 7) where he will find fellowship with all God's people and know the cleansing of the blood of the Son of God.

III. Sin Is an Undeniable Fact (1 John 1:8-10).

It seems impossible that a man who knows himself and knows the life he lives would ever deny sin, for it is one of the most evident of all facts. Yet men have denied it, of sought to explain it away, calling it error, or a "fall upward," or a step in man's development, or the evidence of man's self-consciousness and desire to learn.

There is no hope for a man as long as he assumes such an attitude, for he not only lies himself, but he makes God a liar. He denies the truth of God's Word about sin, makes meaningless or wicked God's dealings with sin, and reveals that God's Word is not in him. Those who make such statements declare that they do not belong to God and do not accept His Word. It is evident that they ought never to be permitted to teach such things in the church, or in the name of Christianity.

IV. Sin Calls for a Saviour (1 John 2:1-6).

Christ the propitiation, the mercy-seat covering for our sins, is the only Saviour. He paid the price, and made it possible for God to be just and at the same time a justifier of the ungodly. The sinner needs such a Saviour.

Sin in the life of the believer also calls for a Saviour, one who will cleanse us (1:9) and who will in His own blessed name plead our cause "if we sin." He is our Advocate (2:1) pleading His righteousness in our behalf when we do fall.

This does not mean that we may then become indifferent or careless about sin. If we say we know Him and do not keep His commandments, we lie about our professed relationship to Him. The mark of a true child is a spirit of obedience.

God's children prove their love to Him by keeping His commandments. Talking about our devotion to Him, giving our service for Him, or sacrificing for His cause mean nothing if we do not obey Him. We only pile evidence upon evidence of our untruthfulness by making claims and doing things which are negated by our disobedience.

Beloved Singer Pleaded For Mercy, Not Justice

The beloved Madame Schumann-Heink was a woman of rare charm and gentility. She was the first to make fun of her own shortcomings, and was often heard to comment good-humoredly on her decidedly matronly figure.

On one occasion, a fashionable portrait painter asked her to sit for her portrait. The plump opera star hesitated for a long while before making her decision.

"Don't be afraid, Madame," said the artist teasingly. "I'll do you justice."

"Ah," replied the prima donna, "it isn't justice I ask at your hands; it is mercy!"

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

The Red Cross provides recreational service for patients in all Army and Navy hospitals. Sixty-five new hospitals are under construction by the Army, and their recreation buildings are being equipped and staffed by the Red Cross as each one opens.

As part of the Army and Navy safety programs, members of the national Red Cross staff are qualifying instructors in First Aid and Water Safety among the ranks of the enlisted men. Instructors taught by the Red Cross in turn conduct classes on the reservations.

The number of Army and Navy cases assisted by Red Cross field directors has increased in volume 140 per cent since Selective Service has been in operation. During the past year 126,515 cases involving active service men have been handled in the camps.

The Red Cross recently made available $1,000,000 to meet an emergency need for athletic equipment for the Army and Navy. This need arose when Government appropriations for the purpose became exhausted.

In addition to providing the Army and Navy with an official reservoir of nurses, the Red Cross is cataloging the nation's medical technologists. Through this program, in which approximately 3,000 technicians have registered, the Army and Navy will select such professional personnel as laboratory workers, dietitians, dental technicians, pharmacists and other categories of trained technologists.

Red Cross, OCD Look to Volunteers For Civil Defense

Washington, D. C.—To the question, "What can I do for America?" the Red Cross is providing an answer for hundreds of thousands of men and women who want to do their part on the civilian defense front.

For women, the Red Cross is providing an 80-hour training course to recruit a corps of 100,000 Nurse's Aides. It is the Red Cross' newest project, undertaken at the request of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense to relieve the current pressure on nursing facilities.

With thousands of nurses being taken into military service with our armed forces, civilian nursing has suffered a direct blow, the Red Cross points out. Moreover, the defense program has created additional health problems which has heightened the need for civilian nursing.

Red Cross Nurse's Aides will serve as assistants to registered nurses, performing scores of important duties which will enable nurses to care for more cases. The Red Cross stresses that Nurse's Aides will not take the place of the registered nurse, but will serve in an auxiliary capacity.

On the more dramatic side of civilian defense, the Red Cross is gearing its far-flung disaster fighting machine to handle mass feeding, housing and clothing of exacuees under wartime conditions. In cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense, chapters are strengthening disaster relief committees to cope with man-made disasters such on the same scale as relief operations following natural catastrophe.

Organization along these lines include preparedness measures for fires, explosions and epidemics which may be expected to result from accelerated industrial activity incident to national defense or sabotage.

Strictly as a precautionary measure, the Red Cross is devising means of confronting emergency relief in the event of sporadic air or sea attacks, considered conceivable hazards in some coastal and boundary areas.

The need for First Aid in civilian defense has not been neglected by the Red Cross. Last year nearly 600,000 were trained in emergency treatment of the injured. This year the figure is expected to go much higher with special emphasis being placed on the formation of detachments which would serve as units in factories, office buildings, schools and other places where persons are concentrated.

Red Cross courses in Home Nursing and in Nutrition also are being expanded as a feature of the civilian defense program. It was pointed out that mounting health hazards and the shortage of civilian nurses may at any time obligate the housewife—or even the man-of-the-house—to assist in caring for the sick. Likewise, the Red Cross is placing greater emphasis on Nutrition courses designed to teach householders the art of purchasing and preparing well-balanced meals within the range of the family pocketbook.

The more that people try to get even with one another the more they get at odds.

"Imagine me, steering a Destroyer!"

"And I've had two pay raises in only eight months! I'll say you can't beat Uncle Sam's Navy!"

YOU couldn't ask for a greater thrill than that which a fellow gets when he comes back home wearing a trim Navy uniform. The folks crowd around. They all want to know where you've been, what you've done. And man, do you have stories to tell!

GREATEST LIFE IN THE WORLD

You're proud. And you should be. For you've been leading the greatest life in the world. And it's a thrill to tell about it, too. A thrill to see the admiration in the eyes of the One and Only Girl as you tell about the first time you steered a Destroyer. Or handled a P.T. Boat at more than 45 miles per hour. Or stepped out in front of your shipmates to receive your first promotion.

And with that promotion came an increase in pay. And there were more to come. Second Class. First Class. And then Chief Petty Officer. Many might even go to Annapolis. Or to Pensacola with the flying cadets!

Exciting? You bet, and fun too. Something doing all the time. Real he-man's stuff. Boxing. Baseball. Football. Swimming. AND MOVIES... previews, too!

spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment." Remember — the regular Navy and Naval Reserve offer you the same travel, training, promotions, pay increases. Physical requirements in the Naval Reserve are more liberal.
