DEFENSE REGISTRATION THIS SATURDAY

All Loyal Citizens Should Register and Indicate Their Willingness To Serve

The Charlevoix County Defense Council is developing their program for Charlevoix county's responsibility in National Defense on the assumption that every American loving citizen will register and indicate what he or she is willing to do in this national emergency. Certainly everyone is more than anxious to serve in any way possible in this fight for freedom. Only by this type of registration can the defense council select the folks having particular abilities and opportunities for specific activities.

Remember that the little activities are just as much appreciated as some of the larger efforts. You owe it to your country to take a few minutes of your time to register and take the stand "I am ready to serve" in whatever way possible and only await the "go sign".

For the convenience of citizens three locations were selected for the registration, they are as follows: Charlevoix City Building, East Jordan — Community Building, Boyne City — Fire Hall. Each place will be open from 9:00 to 5:00.

Following is the list of questions that are to be on the questionnaire. Perhaps, it would be advisable to read over the questions that are to be on the questionnaire carefully and in that way save yourself and those who are assisting in the registration a great deal of time at the various locations.

East Jordan 4-H Girls Stand High In State Awards

Recent announcements from our 4-H club department, Michigan State College, reveal the news of two high awards being given to outstanding clubs in this county. Margaret Strehl, East Jordan, has been selected as the "all round" county champion for the year 1941. She has a long list of accomplishments to her record and now is a student at Michigan State College. This award gives her a scholarship of $25.00 which will certainly be welcome.

In addition she has been named the county winner in the national 4-H girls record contest. She will receive a gold medal embossed with the 4-H club emblem. Miss Strehl is now eligible, with other county winners for the state award which is an all expense trip to the 20th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November.

Patricia Ann Sinclair, East Jordan, has been selected the county 4-H canning contest winner. She scored the highest in this county in the 13th national 4-H canning contest and will be awarded a handsome gold medal just received from the state club-leaders office.

This annual canning activity is especially important this year as it is a vital link in the nation's nutrition and defense program. This contest is supervised by the Extension Service. The state award in this contest will receive an all expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress.

Ice Skating Opens Soon

WITH NO FEDERAL AID, OUR CITIZENS URGED TO HELP

The City has been confronted with the problem of keeping children from sliding in the Streets. So, with the help of the business men, are attempting to reopen the ice skating rink for the rest of the winter.

Due to not being able to get any federal help, the work will have to be done mostly by school boys and interested persons. Plans have been made to organize the classes into groups and each boy do seven hours work or pay a small sum for the privilege of skating. In this way it is hoped to make the rink as self supporting as possible.

The City and School Board have each pledged $100 to carry on this work provided there is enough interest shown to warrant the expenditure.

There is a lot of work to be done immediately, so if each man could donate two hours work toward making this success it would be time well spent for our children. If it is possible for anyone to help in this way, or any other way, record your name with Chirp Swafford or Mr. Wade along with information, as to most convenient time for you and it will be deeply appreciated.

This project is to be under the direction of the school.

Lets see if we can do it!

A New Book By Dr. George Buttrick

The new book by Dr. George Buttrick that has been eagerly looked for in religious circles is now in print and will be in the hands of book sales agencies within a few days. The book is the January selection for the Religious Book Club.

The title of the book is "Prayer." It begins where bewildered humanity must begin — with an examination of our present world. It insists that we must re-examine our concept of natural law. It maintains that "the direct venture of private and corporate prayer, properly understood, is the door by which God may enter the world's dilemma."

The book deals with the flippant criticisms of prayer that are current in sophisticated circles, and with the doubts that have at times come to those who have not learned "the patience of unanswered prayer."

Those who have seen the pre-publication copies of the book believe that it will be the most talked of book in religious circles in 1942, and that it will be a standard book on the dynamic and creative subject of prayer for many years.

It is a book of three hundred and thirty-three pages and is published by the Abingdon-Cokesbury press. Aside from the inherent qualities of the book East Jordan people will have a keen interest in it because Dr. Buttrick has preached in East Jordan consecutively for the past sixteen summers.

Nine Boys Facing Charges

BREAKING AND ENTERING; STEALING TIRES, BATTERIES, GASOLINE

Nine boys and young men, ages 15 to 25 years of East Jordan have been rounded up by Deputy Sheriff Simmons charged with a series of offenses during the past six months. In all it is known of 23 or 24 jobs they committed, and their territory was quite large, even going to Gaylord.

Breaking and entering, stealing tires, batteries, gasoline — in fact most anything they could get their hands on.

All are either in the County jail or the juvenile detention home at Charlevoix.

Of these, Justice Murphy has already sentenced two to a jail term and three face charges in Circuit Court.

Red Cross First Aid

CLASSES ORGANIZING, OPENING DATE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Red Cross classes in First Aid have been organized and are to start next week. All persons who are interested in this phase of national defense should enroll with the instructors before the date of the opening class, January 14.

Two classes will be held each week, one meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Agriculture room of the high school, and the other at 3:30 Thursday afternoon in the City Building. Assignments in each class will be the same, so that members may attend either the evening or the afternoon class.

The course requires twenty hours of study or ten two-hour classes. Abe Cohen, Mr. Ayres, Mrs. Benson and Miss Notari, who hold Red Cross Instructor Certificates, will conduct the classes.

Farm Records Made Available

HERALD SUBSCRIBERS OFFERED ACCOUNTING PLAN FOR FARM INCOME REPORTS

A special offer helpful to its farm readers is made in this issue by the Charlevoix County Herald. As a result of arrangements completed through the state newspaper association this paper can offer a copy of "Agricultural Records," the easy accounting system for farmers, with each one year new or renewal subscription to this newspaper for a total combination price of $3.29.

This newspaper has arranged to make this offer possible because of the increased importance of farm records under the new federal revenue law which requires millions of farmers throughout the nation to file an income tax return this year for the first time.

Law Requires Records

The revenue law specifically requires the keeping of records as well as the filing of an income tax return by all farmers who have an annual gross income of $750, if single, or $1,500, if married. The law (Section 54 (A) reads: "Every person liable to any tax imposed by this title or for the collections thereof, shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such returns and comply with such rules and regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may from time to time prescribe."

Penalties Listed by Law

Another section of the act (Section 145 (A) further provides: "Any person required under this title to pay any tax, or required by law or regulations made under authority thereof to make a return, keep any records, or supply any information, for the purpose of the computation, assessment, or collection of any

Wood Cutters Asked To Leave Brush Piles For Small Game Shelter

Brush piles produced by winter wood cutting on farm woodlots will provide food and shelter for rabbits, quail, grouse and other small game, if only farmers will refrain from burning the heaps of budded twigs and small branches, according to conservation department game men.

Branches from trees cut at this time of year, if left in piles, provide palatable food for rabbits all winter and discourage the animals from feeding on bark of living orchard or shade trees. Rabbits have been found to remain in such brushpiles for several days during cold spells, for protection against the weather. Brushpiles also provide added protection for rabbits from foxes, coyotes, hawks and other predators.

Game men report that quail and grouse often use brushpiles as roosting places, if they are not too far removed from wooded areas.

Brush put in gullies on farms is helpful in halting soil erosion and in healing the scars, and at the same time furnishes homes for rabbits. Accumulation of brush in woodlots and in unused field corners will in no way interfere with farming and can prove beneficial to the farmer by increasing the farm's stock of small game, farm game investigators point out. There is little advantage in burning brush, other than removing it from the farmer's property.

Big brushpiles, up to five feet high and 15 feet in diameter, are recommended for maximum assistance to game.

Tire Rationing Administration

COUNTY CLERK AND AUTHORIZED CAR AND TIRE DEALERS IN CHARGE

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3, 1942 To: County Clerk Addressed —

Upon the advice of the Office of Price Administration and the Committee Distribution Committee of the Michigan Council of Defense, each County Clerk in Michigan has been designated Tire Rationing Administrator for his county. Two other citizens have been designated to serve with you as members of your County Tire Rationing Board from the nomination submitted by your County Defense Council. Official oath forms and appointment papers will be sent to you from the OEM Office in Cleveland.

This letter is your authority to distribute forms and to receive applications for the purchase of tires under OEA regulations starting January 5. Forms and regulations were sent to you by mail January 2nd. You will note that an applicant for the purchase of new tires & tubes must present a certificate of inspection for each tire. As County Tire Rationing Administrator, you should temporarily designate operators of regularly authorized car and tire dealer service stations (not gasoline stations) as inspectors. This will be a temporary measure. More complete inspection information and service will be provided later.

Certificates for purchase to be issued to successful applicants will be sent to you soon. Please note such certificates cannot be issued by you alone; each application must be passed upon by at least two members of the County Tire Rationing Board, and each certificate for purchase must be signed by two members.

tax imposed, by this title, who will fully fail to pay such tax, make such return, keep such records, or supply such information, at the time or times required by law or regulations, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be guilty of misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $10,000 — or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, together with the costs of prosecution."

Form 1040F which must be filled out with the income tax return requires a detailed record of all income from live stock, grain, hay, cotton, tobacco, potatoes, sugar beets, vegetables, fruit, nuts, dairy products, eggs, meat products, poultry dressed, wool, honey, sorghum, merchandise received for produce, machine work, hire of teams, breeding fees, rent received in crop shares, work off farm, and forest products.

Records Must Be Complete

The farmer must also report sale of livestock and other items purchased, depreciation of property and equipment, and farm operating expenses which are broken down into 17

Called To Federal Service

ALL "RESERVE" MEN AND MEMBERS OF THE NATIONAL GUARD TO REPORT

All enlisted men of the Regular Army Reserve, the Enlisted Reserve Corps; and of the National Guard of the United States not now in active Federal Service, will be called to active duty not later than February 1, 1942, according to word reaching Fort Custer from Headquarters of the Second Army.

Deferments will be made only to men necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest, key men in industries essential to national defense, and those who can prove dependency. Those claiming dependency will be deferred only where the dependency is established beyond a reasonable doubt and is critical in nature.

Exact method of notifying the men was not made clear, but they will go to the nearest reception center for assignment. Only men qualified for full military duty will be assigned to the field forces. Men who have had at least three months active Federal Service during the two-year period immediately prior to reporting for duty will be dispatched directly to units or installations. All others will be sent to Replacement Training Centers to fill quotas called from there.

Men will be assigned to their former units or installations wherever practicable. They will be returned in the same arm of service and in grade or specialist rating. As soon as vacancies occur, they will be absorbed. Assignment to prior units will be if the units are in United States.

To obviate unnecessary travel, enlisted men who have left their corps area of residence, either temporarily or permanently, may be called to active duty at the reception center nearest their present residence.

The first real influx of these reservists is expected next week. Each Wednesday every corps area commander will report to the Adjutant General the number of men, by arms and services, who were processed through the reception center the previous week.

Recruit Reception Center was scheduled in a previous order taking volunteers from this group to receive all Negro reservists and National Guardsmen from the States of Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan, and all Reservists from the lower peninsula of Michigan. Just what groups would come to Fort Custer under the new plan were not known today.

When ordered to Active Duty, the Reservists are expected to take with them to the Reception Center all clothing and personal equipment that had been given to him when released from active duty. Also taken are the identification tags and the copy of his physical examination report given when he was discharged. Men who pay their own transportation to the reception centers are paid at the rate of 5c per mile upon their arrival at the center. Privately owned automobiles should not be taken to the camps.

Youngest volunteer for service heard from here! Eight-year-old Frank Maher, 1406 Hillcrest, Kalamazoo, Michigan has written to the Commanding Officer here volunteering to carry messages from one officer to another.

When questioned by the public relations office, the boy said, "It was just my idea. I thought I could carry messages from one officer to another and save you time. But if you don't need messengers, maybe you could suggest something else I could do."

Officers haven't found a job for Frank yet, but as one said, "With that kind of spirit we're sure to win!"

classifications. Because it is obvious that no farmer can make the report required by this income tax form without a careful system of records, this newspaper is making its present offer to aid him in handling this task with the least trouble. "Agricultural Records," which is being offered to farm readers by hundreds of newspapers throughout the nation, is a simple system of records, requiring no knowledge of bookkeeping and little time. It will enable the farmer to keep the facts required for income tax filing with less trouble than any other system which has come to our attention.

A copy of "Agricultural Records" will be on display at the Charlevoix County Herald Office by next Wednesday, January 14th. A member of the paper's staff will be glad to explain the working of the record system to any farmer who calls at the office for that purpose. Complete details of the special combination offer will be found in an advertisement in this issue.

FDR Pledge to Philippine Islands; U. S., Britain, Dutch, China Resources Will Aid in Defeat of Jap War Lords; Manila Hard Hit by Bombing Attacks

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PHILIPPINES: Full Scale

While the United States anxiously scanned bulletins from Manila, and frowned at the increasing seriousness of the situation, there were reasons for a general belief that the army and navy high commands were not blind to the situation, but had agreed on counter measures of some sort.

Obviously these had not been made public, as to do so would be to "tip our hand" to Japan. But the meeting of Churchill and Roosevelt in Washington, and the presence in the United States of the now-famous party of 80, which included all the British military and naval, as well as economic leaders, was assurance enough that something was in the wind.

A message from President Roosevelt to the people of the Philippines pledged the aid of "the resources of the United States, of the British empire, of the Netherlands East Indies, and of the Chinese Republic have been dedicated to the utter and complete defeat of the Japanese war lords. . . We are engaged in a great common cause . . . I count on every Philippine man, woman and child to do his duty. We will do ours."

The navy at the same time announced that the fleet was already in action "following an intensive and well-planned campaign against the Japanese forces which will result in positive assistance to the defense of the Philippine islands."

Another reason for increased American confidence as to the outcome of the war with Japan was a message from Secretary of War Stimson to President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines in which he assured him that as soon as American forces were organized, the Japanese invader would be driven from the islands.

That sounded like reinforcements by sea, land and air, reinforcements much needed by the little army of Americans plus a fair-sized army of Filipinos who were giving a good account of themselves against considerable odds.

Further Plans

A further bit of news which contributed to the feeling in many quarters that some definite plan was in progress was the statement by the Australian premier that he was now intending to go to Washington. He said he had been assured by the United States of complete co-operation in the war effort.

There were signs, however, that the West coast feared that Churchill might have persuaded the United States to regard the Pacific war as a minor affair, and to concentrate on the battle of the Atlantic.

Churchill indeed did say the latter, but the former he did not say, nor did he hint at any but an all-out effort on the part of the British to save Singapore, keep the Burma road open, and do all in their power to defeat the Japs.

Those whose homes, families and properties rested on the Pacific slope were becoming nervous over the smashing attack on Pearl Harbor, the loss of Pacific island strongholds, the nearness of Jap submarines, and the unchecked landings of Japanese on the Philippines.

And the Churchill statements about the battle of the Atlantic being the most vital of the whole war, together with his prediction of reverses in prospect for 1942, and the turning of the tide in 1943, did not allay the Pacific coast nerves at all.

VICHY: And Washington

The Vichy-Washington talks concerning the St. Pierre-Miquelon episode showed that there was much confusion about the whole situation, and while the "man in the street" wanted De Gaulle's forces to have the islands with American co-operation, and while Canada seemed much in this frame of mind also, there was much in the situation which the same man in the street did not know anything about.

MANILA: Jap. Frightfulness

Close observers of the war in China had brought back horror stories concerning the brutality of the Japanese war machine, the bombings and machine-gunnings of helpless civilians; attacks on Chinese women, rapine and pilage of towns.

Any desire the Philippines population might have had to disbelieve the general tenor of these reports had been rudely dispelled by the bombing of Manila just as General MacArthur had officially declared it an undefended city, had moved the government and the military away.

Japan's answer was (first) to carry out their heaviest unscathed bombing of the metropolis (second) to inform the world that it was "unthinkable" that Manila should be considered undefended.

This was tantamount to calling the Americans liars, and then killing off a few helpless ones with well-directed bombs.

Newspaper men at the principal offices of the large services stood fearlessly and watched while scores of Japanese bombers rained death and destruction about them.

Fortunately they lived to write unforgettable reports of the raid, the damage it caused, the mint watchman slain and buried under huge heaps of silver coins, the priceless Catholic rosary destroyed in the direct hit on the Church of Santo Domingo, the flames, the crunch of the bombs, the thunder of the planes, the explosions, the death and disaster.

They also were able to describe the spirit of the people, digging out of the bomb-horror as though from one of the frequent earthquakes that have visited the city, and of the defiant mood which resolved them to die to the last man rather than surrender the islands to the little brown invaders.

NEW YEAR: Predictions

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were setting 1943 for the "turning of the tide" in favor of the Allies, New Year's greetings were being handed back and forth between Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

Von Ribbentrop said: "The tri-partite Powers approach the decisive battles of 1942 convinced that it will bring final victory over their adversaries. "Then they will work in common for a new order in Europe and East Asia."

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP He didn't recall Hitler's statement.

He did not recall that on January 1, 1941, Hitler had said, in an "order of the day":

"Soldiers, the year 1941 will bring consummation of the greatest victory of our history."

Ribbentrop blamed President Roosevelt for "aggression" which brought Japan into the war.

CHURCHILL: And Roosevelt

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his dramatic address, tinged with his famous humor and flashing with his matchless oratory, had completely captured the senate and house.

After a week of solid conferences, from early-morning until nightfall, the President climaxed the visiting prime minister's speech with a statement. He said:

"We have advanced far along the road toward achievement of the ultimate objective, the crushing defeat of those forces which have attacked and made war upon us."

It was his first full communique, and followed almost immediately after a conference which included representatives of the 33 nations and British dominions aligned in the fight on the Axis.

"Much has been accomplished," the President said, "through the medium of many conferences held in the meetings of supply and production officials, military and naval leaders, and in discussions. . . . I know the position of the United States and of all nations aligned with us has been strengthened immeasurably."

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year. It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared. When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

FDR Pledge to Philippine Islands: U. S., Britain, Dutch, China Resources Will Aid in Defeat of Jap War Lords; Manila Hard Hit by Bombing Attacks

PHILIPPINES: Full Scale

While the United States anxiously scanned bulletins from Manila, and frowned at the increasing seriousness of the situation, there were reasons for a general belief that the army and navy high commands were not blind to the situation, but had agreed on counter measures of some sort.

Obviously these had not been made public, as to do so would be to "tip our hand" to Japan. But the meeting of Churchill and Roosevelt in Washington, and the presence in the United States of the now-famous party of 80, which included all the British military and naval, as well as economic leaders, was assurance enough that something was in the wind.

A message from President Roosevelt to the people of the Philippines pledged the aid of "the resources of the United States, of the British empire, of the Netherlands East Indies, and of the Chinese Republic have been dedicated to the utter and complete defeat of the Japanese war lords. . . . We are engaged in a great common cause. . . . I count on every Philippine man, woman and child to do his duty. We will do ours."

The navy at the same time announced that the fleet was already in action "following an intensive and well-planned campaign against the Japanese forces which will result in positive assistance to the defense of the Philippine islands."

Another reason for increased American confidence as to the outcome of the war with Japan was a message from Secretary of War Stimson to President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines in which he assured him that as soon as American forces were organized, the Japanese invader would be driven from the islands.

That sounded like reinforcements by sea, land and air, reinforcements much needed by the little army of Americans plus a fair-sized army of Filipinos who were giving a good account of themselves against considerable odds.

Further Plans

A further bit of news which contributed to the feeling in many quarters that some definite plan was in progress was the statement by the Australian premier that he was now intending to go to Washington. He said he had been assured by the United States of complete co-operation in the war effort.

There were signs, however, that the West coast feared that Churchill might have persuaded the United States to regard the Pacific war as a minor affair and to concentrate on the battle of the Atlantic.

Churchill indeed did say the latter, but the former he did not say, nor did he hint at any but an all-out effort on the part of the British to save Singapore, keep the Burma road open, and do all in their power to defeat the Japs.

Those whose homes, families and properties rested on the Pacific slope were becoming nervous over the smashing attack on Pearl Harbor, the loss of Pacific island strongholds, the nearness of Jap submarines, and the unchecked landings of Japanese on the Philippines.

And the Churchill statements about the battle of the Atlantic being the most vital of the whole war, together with his prediction of reverses in prospect for 1942, and the turning of the tide in 1943, did not allay the Pacific coast nerves at all.

VICHY: And Washington

The Vichy-Washington talks concerning the St. Pierre-Miquelon episode showed that there was much confusion about the whole situation, and while the "man in the street" wanted De Gaulle's forces to have the islands with American co-operation, and while Canada seemed much in this frame of mind also, there was much in the situation which the same man in the street did not know anything about.

MANILA: Jap-Frightfulness

Close observers of the war in China had brought back horror stories concerning the brutality of the Japanese war machine, the bombings and machine-gunnings of helpless civilians; attacks on Chinese women, rapine and pilage of towns.

Any desire the Philippines population might have had to disbelieve the general tenor of these reports had been rudely dispelled by the bombing of Manila just as General MacArthur had officially declared it an undefended city, had moved the government and the military away.

Japan's answer was (first) to carry out their heaviest unscathed bombing of the metropolis (second) to inform the world that it was "unthinkable" that Manila should be considered undefended.

This was tantamount to calling the Americans liars, and then killing off a few helpless ones with well-directed bombs.

Newspaper men at the principal offices of the large services stood fearlessly and watched while scores of Japanese bombers rained death and destruction about them.

Fortunately they lived to write unforgettable reports of the raid, the damage it caused, the mint watchman slain and buried under huge heaps of silver coins, the priceless Catholic rosary destroyed in the direct hit on the Church of Santo Domingo, the flames, the crunch of the bombs, the thunder of the planes, the explosions, the death and disaster.

They also were able to describe the spirit of the people, digging out of the bomb horror as though from one of the frequent earthquakes that have visited the city, and of the defiant mood which resolved them to die to the last man rather than surrender the islands to the little brown invaders.

NEW YEAR: Predictions

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were setting 1943 for the "turning of the tide" in favor of the Allies, New Year's greetings were being handed back and forth between Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

Von Ribbentrop said: "The tri-partite Powers approach the decisive battles of 1942 convinced that it will bring final victory over their adversaries.

"Then they will work in common for a new order in Europe and East Asia."

He did not recall that on January 1, 1941, Hitler had said, in an "order of the day":

"Soldiers, the year 1941 will bring consummation of the greatest victory of our history."

Ribbentrop blamed President Roosevelt for "aggression" which brought Japan into the war.

CHURCHILL: And Roosevelt

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his dramatic address, tinged with his famous humor and flashing with his matchless oratory, had completely captured the senate and house.

"After a week of solid conferences, from early morning until nightfall, the President climaxed the visiting prime minister's speech with a statement." He said:

"We have advanced far along the road toward achievement of the ultimate objective, the crushing defeat of those forces which have attacked and made war upon us."

It was his first full communique, and followed almost immediately after a conference which included representatives of the 33 nations and British dominions aligned in the fight on the Axis.

"Much has been accomplished," the President said, "through the medium of many conferences held in the meetings of supply and production officials, military and naval leaders, and in discussions. . . . 'I know the position of the United States and of all nations aligned with us has been strengthened immeasurably.'"

Victims of Jap Subs on California Coast

'Pause in the Day's Occupation'

Smiling cheerfully as they push German forces back the way they came, members of this Russian tank crew (left) halt for brief pause in their march westward, for lunch. Rigors of the Russian winter seem to have no terrors for these hardy soldiers. Right: These Italian prisoners in the Libyan desert seem too miserable to attempt to escape, and yet they are guarded carefully before being shipped to a concentration camp.

Fierce Moro Tribesmen Fight Japs

A deadly warm welcome was extended Japs who tried to open a second front in the Philippines by invading Mindanao island. On hand to greet them were some of the fiercest fighters known, the Moro tribesmen, to whom fighting is a profession. They are shown being inspected by Col. Ralph McCoy in Zamboanga, P. I.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

- In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.
- It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.
- When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In his new novel, "Storm," nominated by some reviewers for the Pulitzer prize, George Stewart notes that man is an air animal and not a land animal, as we have commonly supposed. We live at the bottom of an ocean of air but that doesn't make us a land animal, any more than a crab is a land animal because it lives at the bottom of a body of water.

Dramatizing a storm which gathered up north of Japan, and clocking it down this way, and recording the resulting inter-play of human nature and meteorology, Mr. Stewart's book is an incidental, perhaps not intended, reminder that the politicians have been far behind the meteorologists in grasping the full implications of man adding wings to his breathing apparatus.

Francis W. Reichelderfer, the lean, baldish, chief of the U. S. weather bureau, seems to have had something like that in mind for many years, and that's all to the good just now, as our fighters, on, under and above the sea have the best weather service in the world. It was in the aerological service of the navy that Commander Reichelderfer carried through his "air mass" analysis which revolutionized weather forecasting. Bringing meteorology into focus with modern communications, aviation and revised military science was a little headed but supremely important assignment, and Commander Reichelderfer made good.

He isn't dealing bulletins the way he used to. The most authentic weather news now is low-down, deep from Sibley's Cave of the Winds, slipped out quietly to the armed forces and a touchy job it is, with the seven seas to cover. The commander is putting on forced draught the full 24 hours in the old red brick weather building in Washington.

In 1918, the youth from Harlan, Ind., two years out of Northwestern university, newly commissioned ensign in the navy, was sent to Lisbon to dig weather reports for the wobbly crew-hop of the NC-4 across the ocean. Thereafter, joining the aerological service, he was the weather consultant of polar fliers, gave Lindbergh the gun for his historic flight to Paris, cleared or held Dr. Eckener's blimps, served from 1922 to 1928 as head of the aerological service, and became head of the weather bureau on January 16, 1939.

IN ANOTHER, and possibly more enjoyable, century, Cadet Charles M. Wesson, known as "The Bull," was a famous line-bucker at West Point. For 34 years in the ordnance department of the army, he has been bucking congress, trying to break through the line for an appropriation touchdown, and almost always thrown for a loss. But now, as Major General Wesson, chief of ordnance since 1938, he finds his appropriation upped about 1,600 per cent to around $5,000,000,000.

General Wesson, bulky, muscular and appropriately beetle-browed at 63, has been a glutton for punishment, trying to get goods and gear for the armed forces. But he stands up well under it, with no come-back other than an occasional wry wise-crack. Away back in 1920, he made an earnest plea for anti-aircraft guns, insisting that the bombing effectiveness of planes was increasing rapidly and we would be in a bad way if we didn't keep ahead of it. The general might just as well have asked for caviar and champagne for the daily army ration. It was pretty much that way for the next 20 years. And now, all at once the man who blew in Brewster's Millions is a skin-flint, compared to the general.

He was born in St. Louis, Mo., and was graduated from West Point in 1900.

In 1907, he joined the ordnance department, made good on his job as a hard-working and competent technician and passed quite a few miracles in keeping the U. S. arsenal at Watertown, Mass., kicking out fighting equipment during the World war, with or without congressional appropriations. As commandant of the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland, he spent much time explaining to congress why the army found it difficult to patch up old Springfield rifles, or get its shoes half-soled. In some manner, or other he gets along with congress!

Washington Digest Farm Labor Situation Is Given Careful Study

Government Devises Plan for 'Complete Utilization' of Local Workers to Aid in Nation's Food-for-Victory Campaign.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

As the New Year starts, reports are beginning to come in to the Federal Security administration here from supervisors of farm placement, in the 48 states. These reports state just what the farmers in each state are going to need in the way of labor this spring, and how these state supervisors who are on the ground studying the question, feel the problem ought to be met.

Meanwhile, Washington has been working on a general program whose goal is the "complete utilization" of all local labor. This means that every conceivable reservoir of man-and-woman-power is to be tapped to make this good earth of ours yield its utmost for the food-for-victory campaign. Students, members of the CCC and the NYA and every other group, organized or unorganized, is to be called upon to keep the chow line going for democracy at arms.

Nobody knows better than the folks who are out recruiting for the farm battalions that you can't just push a man through the barn-door or into a pasture and call him a farmer. It takes training and that is part of the master-plan which is now being worked out.

But meanwhile there are a lot of people who have had farming experience who are available, skilled or semi-skilled. And then there are some jobs which don't need skills, but do require mass employment for short periods.

An Oregon Plan

Take what happened out in Oregon this last fall for instance. Oregonians have already taken hold of this "farm placement" idea and made it work. Along came the snap-bean crop and a drastic shortage of hands. They were found in every walk of life. It meant temporary closing up of a lot of shops and businesses and other enterprises but they got the crop in and they didn't paralyze the communities. It couldn't have been done, though, with the best of will, if there hadn't been a sound plan behind it.

The farmers now have two competitors for labor, the factory and military service. Industry has always offered higher wages. But present farm wages are up higher than they have been in 11 years. So the farm hand can't complain on that score. And the real patriot is the one who does what he can do best for Uncle Sam.

Then there are still a lot of farm-trained workers who have drifted to the cities where they have not secured employment or they have found themselves misfits. The United States employment agencies are going after these people and are going to lure them out of their flats back into the fields.

As a Nation Went to War

As the new year begins and I look back at the notes I wrote down after that climactic Sunday when we received word that the Japanese had made their surprise attack on Hawaii, they seem very dull and drab. But some of the memories are very keen. This in spite of the fact that ever since then life has been running at such a rapid rate each day, each hour and frequently each minute, that it has been difficult to see anything but the very vivid present.

I have a memory of Sunday, of a bleak, sunny winter day. Then leisurely breakfast, the morning papers, the radio, the preparation to lose myself in the outdoors for a few hours—a walk which might have made me miss those first dramatic moments at the White House. But I stopped to chat with my father who lives near me. The phone rang while I paused, hat and coat already on. In the span of a few moments, I was standing with a half a dozen other reporters, hurriedly haled from their Sunday rest, in the office of Stephen Early in the Executive Wing of the White House.

"First," said Early very seriously, "are there any correspondents of German or Japanese newspapers here?" There were not. He read us a few details of the Hawaiian attack which he had just received from the President hastily pencilled on a memo. The first announcements, which he had received at his home, he had phoned to the press associations and radio networks; and then he had hurried to the White House.

As soon as Early's brief announcement was over, we rushed out of his office, across the lobby and into the press room where the press associations and the radio companies have private telephone lines to their local offices. A little later an NBC engineer had a microphone attached to one of our lines and I was able to make the first news broadcast ever sent from the White House.

From then on I hardly left my chair, except for moments to relieve my assistant and, one of the NBC newsmen, who were keeping in touch with the state department across the street and later interviewing members of the cabinet and congressional leaders at the front entrance of the White House.

The White House press room is arranged to accommodate about a dozen men who are regularly stationed there. Within a few hours after the first announcement of the Japanese attack it was jammed with 50 or more people—reporters, radio men, messenger boys. The noise was so great that the microphone had to be stepped down to avoid catching the roar and confusion, and I was forced to speak in a low voice—this gave the effect of suppressed excitement which was greater than I really felt, although the events were exciting enough.

Outside the crowds were solemn, quiet. The sidewalk immediately in front of the White House was roped off and the side streets were closed. The crowd edged as near as it could, peering at the lighted windows across the wide lawns. They could see nothing, but they were satisfied to watch. Only very late, as they began to break up, did they begin to sing. Their emotions needed an outlet then.

I watched America go to war seriously, but not as I had seen France and Germany go—sadly, resentfully and with a sullen and deadening apathy.

Washington's Bridges And a Hobby

Every time I cross one of Washington's "beautiful bridges" these days my thoughts go back to a slim young man who was a sophomore in college when I graduated. He distinguished himself by winning the Julius Rosenwald Medal for oratory—no mean achievement for a foreigner. And this young man was a foreigner.

About a year ago he visited me. It was the first time I had seen him since college, and I never would have recognized the fat little man in glasses as the slim Juuji Kasai, member of the Japanese diet. He put his arms about me and called me "dear college-mate." It was quite touching. And he produced a real "Pooh-bah" bow as he presented a delicate little fan to my wife.

Then he disappeared for a long time and I didn't hear of him again until he turned up in Washington with a shower of good-will interviews in the local papers. Just before his wily colleague, Mr. Kuruu, appeared on the scene to operate his famous shoe-string play, Kasai hurried back to Japan.

Kasai was a great student of America, of Theodore Roosevelt. He was supposed to love America deeply. I have no doubt he admired us. He certainly went to great lengths to interpret this country to his own. I have no means of knowing what he really thought, but the point of this story is an incident which seems so utterly incredible that it is an excuse for all misunderstanding of the Japanese. It is simply too good to be true and yet it is.

Kasai, on his last visit, was calling at the house of a mutual friend in Washington who asked if he could do anything to make Mr. Kasai's visit more valuable.

"Oh, yes," Kasai replied, with his little eyes sparkling behind his glasses, "some time I should like to have you take me about in your car and point out some of your beautiful bridges in the capital. You see, my hobby is photography and I should like to take pictures of them."

So far the beautiful bridges are still here.

CIVILIAN EXPENDITURES SHOULD BE CAREFUL

WHILE WE must spend many billions for war, Senator Byrd is insistent that civilian operations of the government be reduced to effect a saving of two billion dollars a year. Secretary Morgenthau, whose job it is to find the money to pay for ships, planes, tanks, guns and all the equipment needed to defeat the Axis powers, is also insisting on less expense for the civilian activities of the government. He would be fairly well satisfied with a saving of one billion dollars.

It was not so many years ago when America experienced its first billion-dollar congress. As I remember it, it was shortly after the turn of the present century. It created a roar, especially from the rural sections. People believed we were headed straight for the rocks of national bankruptcy. Even before we were spending as much as a billion dollars any peace-time year, we seemed to have all the governmental activities we needed. While we must, and will approve of every needed war expenditure, we might try a bit of the simple life of yesteryear as it pertains to civilian activities of government. Aside from some of the minority groups, people undoubtedly would approve.

RUSSIA'S 'COMMUNISM'

THE WORLD thinks of Russia as "communist," but it is not. Communism in Russia died with Lenin and the "liquidation" by Stalin of thousands of Lenin followers, big and little. Today Russia is more totalitarian fascist than Italy. The Soviets do not rule Russia. Stalin, alone, is the ruler. He is more dictator than Hitler or Mussolini. Hitler did not attack Russia because of a fear of communism, but because he did fear Stalin as a powerful European rival who was not providing sufficient support for the Hitler cause. It was a case of the falling out of two of a kind and the allied nations can well accept the result as an aid to democracy in time of need. We can do that without approving totalitarianism in Russia, any more than we approve of it in Germany, Italy or Japan. We are but the beneficiaries of a fight between rivals.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

IN TIME OF WAR there is no place, or no excuse for the carping fault finder. Then, of all times, there is need for sane, constructive criticism. In the spring of 1918, George Creel told me that President Wilson had instructed him to encourage constructive criticism, as out of it much good could come to the American cause. President Wilson then had, as President Roosevelt has now, the unified support of the American people.

TOURISTS WARY

THE WAR interfered with America's winter vacation plans. Vacation spots are largely on the East, West and South coasts, and tourists visualize any of these points open to a possible German or Jap blitz. Early tourists jammed transportation facilities in their efforts to get back home, but neither the Germans nor the Japs have as yet arrived, and our army and navy are on guard.

JOBS AND INVESTMENT

TO PROVIDE for the average job in America, an investment of more than $8,000 in factories and tools is necessary. The job is not possible without the investment, and the investment is worthless without the worker. On an average, the investment receives less than $400 a year, and the average worker receives some three times that amount.

MONTHS AT A TIME ALONE WITH BIRDS

WHEN AT HOME, Duke Trempe lives at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., but he is seldom at home. Usually he is off somewhere following his hobby, and that hobby is birds.

I first met Duke in Honolulu. He had just returned there after a three-month stay on a small, uninhabited coral reef several hundred miles north of Hawaii. For those three months his only companions were the birds, of which there were millions. Duke wished to know where they come from and where they go. To get that information he catches birds when young, places bands on their legs, and in time some of them may be picked up in some far corner of the Pacific, and Duke may hear of it.

Duke wanted to go with Admiral Byrd to Little America to study penguins, but the admiral did not think penguins of sufficient importance to warrant such a study.

LABOR 'RACKETEER' WANTED

PROFESSIONAL WRITERS of America should form an A. F. of L. or C. I. O. union and force those connected with the government to pay dues for the privilege of competing in the writing field. From the President and his family and cabinet, on down, employees of the government are filling the pages of magazines and periodicals and causing professional writers' children to go without shoes. The professionals need a labor racketeer to properly organize the profession.

Household Hints

A little honey in fruit cake helps to keep the cake moist.

Save your scraps of soap, melt them together and use for washing clothes.

Toast water is simple to make and appeals to those, especially invalids, who like toast. Toast stale bread and cut into squares. Powder into crumbs and add a pinch of salt and a cup of boiling water. Let it stand an hour. Rub through a sieve and serve hot or cold with a little cream and powdered sugar.

Don't sprinkle mustard loosely into water when preparing a foot bath for a patient. It will not dissolve quickly and may adhere to the skin and blister it. First mix mustard to a paste. One tablespoon of mustard to a gallon of water is the proportion used.

To clean a washable window shade, spread it on a table or the floor and rub it gently with a soft sponge frequently dipped in lukewarm, mild soap suds. Clean off the suds with a damp cloth, then wipe the shade dry with a soft, clean cloth. See that shade is perfectly dry before hanging it again.

Federal Income Tax INFORMATION

Furnished by the Treasury Department, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

Forms for filing returns of income for 1941 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time — on or before March 16 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors and from deputy collectors of internal revenue in the larger cities and towns. A person should file his claim on

Form 1040, unless his gross income for 1941 does not exceed $3,000 and consists wholly of salary, wages, or other compensation for personal services, dividends, interest, rent, annuities, or royalties, in which event he may elect to file it on Form 1040A, a simplified form on which the tax may be readily ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 16, 1942. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments due on or before March 16, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

In making out your income tax return read carefully the instructions that accompany the form. If you need more information, it may be obtained at the office of the collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge.

Remember that single persons or married persons not living with husband or wife, who earn as much as $14.43 a week for the 52 weeks of the year, and married persons living together who have aggregate earnings of as much as $28.85 a week for the year, are required to file returns.

not made the ridge road since Wednesday. We got our mail from the lake shore Saturday, the first since Wednesday. Thursday being New Year's Day when the rural mail is not delivered. The storm which began the day after Christmas became a blizzard New Year's Day and has been laid ever since.

The East Jordan cream truck, driven by Chester Baldwin, failed to make its regular trip Friday, the first time in several years.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hericks of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Scott and two daughters of Boyne City called on the A. B. Nicoy family at Sunny Slopes farm New Year's day. In spite of the bad roads and storm Sunday, January 4, there were twenty at the Star Sunday School.

The mattress project which was begun last spring at the Advance school house, was finished at the Star Community Building the 21st of December. 29 mattresses and 64 comforters were put on in short order, the electric lights making it possible to work evenings. It is said one group worked until three A. M. one night and a good many have worked late several evenings.

Eveline Tapp, Treasurer, Christina Lounis of Gravel Hill, north side, goes to Ironton, Monday, January 5, to collect taxes and to Advance Wednesday, January 7.

Mayon Jenney of Willow Brook farm had a bunch of neighbors helping him haul hay at the August Leu farm Monday and Tuesday.

The regular fortnightly Pedro parties which have been rather neglected with so much activities at the Star School house will begin next Saturday evening, Jan. 10. Everybody is welcome. There are no charges. You are sure to have a pleasant evening and a potluck supper.

Richard Hayden who has spent the Christmas vacation with his parents and brothers at Bob White farm, returned to Orchard Hill Saturday afternoon to be ready for school on Monday.

members. In the two years since it was fairly organized there has been a new roof and the building has been painted. This last year electric lights were put in, the basement wall was repaired and there is a strong desire to add a kitchen this year and there is a little money in the treasury. The most of the improvements are due to a few energetic ones who have given their time, thought and money to make them. It was also voted to give $10 to the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crowell of Dave Staley Hill returned home Tuesday after spending a week in Jackson with their children. Mr. and Mrs. "Tiny" Warden and family, Miss Eva Crowell and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Crowell and family. They also called on Bob Jarmen at University Hospital, Ann Arbor. They found him in fine spirits but confined to his bed.

He said he might be sent to Boyne City soon to a private home for convalescence.

The 240 telephone line is working again after being off for two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Will Gaunt of Three Bays Dist. called on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McClure at the Henry Sudman home at Deer Lake Sunday afternoon.

Since our entry into the war. The American Red Cross has asked each district for added funds. The quota for Eveline township is $50.00 by January 20th. As road conditions will prevent house to house canvass the committee is asking each resident to cooperate by sending your money to your former solicitor or leaving it at the Advance Store or Ironton Post Office. It is the hope of the committee that Eveline Township will again exceed its quota.

America's War Victims Appeal for Your Help

First war poster of the new World War, painted by the distinguished artist James Montgomery Flagg, carries an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund to aid the victims of aggression upon the United States and its island possessions.

To aid the victims of warfare being waged upon America and her island possessions, the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund. Chairman Norman H. Davis announced from the national headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Davis urged men, women and children to give to this mercy fund through their local Red Cross Chapters. These funds will support the Chapter's war work with the families of men in the military services, as well as the broad relief program of the national Red Cross.

President Roosevelt, who is president of the American Red Cross, issued a proclamation urging all citizens to give to the Red Cross war fund.

In launching the appeal, Chairman Davis said: "There are millions of our citizens who desire today to demonstrate their will to victory over the enemy. Not all can be in the armed forces, and not all can volunteer their services for humanitarian work, but all can volunteer their dollars to arm the Red Cross to be their representative at the scene of battle and distress.

"Today is the day to demonstrate our high morale, our unity, our determination not alone to support our President and our fighting men at the front, but also to insure to our wounded, homeless and suffering fellow citizens in our Pacific Islands that we stand one hundred per cent ready to aid them through the Red Cross."

Part of a $28,000,000 Program

Growing service demands due to Michigan's activities in the National Emergency have required increased telephone central office capacity, more equipment and more employees. Above are shown some of the new buildings and additions, started or completed during 1941, to help meet that demand. They are part of this company's $28,000,000 plant expansion program of the past year. That entire program is helping us to face the increasingly difficult problem of providing service when and where wanted.

Vanished Men

By GEORGE MARSH Penn. Publishing Co. W.N.U. Service

INSTALLMENT TWELVE

THE STORY SO FAR: Bound for the Chibougamau gold country, six men lost their lives on the Nottaway. Finlay, Malone, Garrett Finlay, brother of one of the six, and Blaise, half-breed guide, arrive at Nottaway posing as surveyors.

"I'll bet his liquor comes in by air," said Red.
"Exactly. So he tried to wipe you out—tried to stop a government survey party? Now I wonder just why? What's back of it all?"

"Of course, they must have decided that we were only prospectors posing as surveyors."

"Shooting prospectors is not so dangerous as firing on government men but it's still murder, ain't it?" snorted McNab.

"True!" laughed Finlay trading winks with Red behind the back of the outraged McNab. The trader's hatred of Isadore would be useful. He knew much about Waswanipi which they would learn, for the evening would be long. "If you've heard he lies stuff in from somewhere south in the Province, possibly you've heard about the August plane from the Bay," suggested Garry.

"From the Bay?" demurred McNab. "Now what in thunder would he be—wait a minute!" The trader scratched his jaw as his half-shut eyes squinted at a gun-rack in a seeming effort to recapture a vague memory. "I've got it!" he exploded.

"North, at Rupert House, two summers back, they were talking about a strange schooner some traveling Crees had told of seeing off the mouth of the Hurricanaw. The Indians said a sea-plane was lying in the lee of an anchored ship. Later the plane headed south and disappeared over the muskeg of the mainland. They've been trying to figure that out, at Rupert, ever since."

Finlay glanced triumphantly at Malone. Lise's story was corroborated. "Was it spring, summer or fall they saw it?"

McNab nursed his chin. "Why, let's see! I was at Rupert in early September. It must have been in the summer."

Finlay's face brightened with satisfaction. "McNab, that plane was bound for Waswanipi. Every August a plane from the North stops there, then heads south."

"Waswanipi?" blurted the puzzled trader. "What's the reason for it? What could it carry?"

Finlay leaned toward the Scotchman chewing nervously on his pipe stem. "McNab, that's just what Constable Malone and I would like to know."

After a clean-up and shave, Finlay and Red joined the trader at his house for supper. A shy woman whose face wore lines etched by a life of isolation and worry, and an excited girl with an unruly red-gold bob, and the height and vitality of her father, welcomed them.

"Mary, this is Mr. Finlay, and Mr. Malone," said the trader. "Gentlemen, my daughter, Thistle!"

The quick violet eyes of the girl swept Finlay's erect figure and clean-cut features, with a passing glance of approval. But it was to Red's freckled face with its infectious grin which bared his regular teeth that the girl's dancing eyes clung. As she laughed at Malone's saucy, dimpled-dented her brown cheeks.

"What a pair!" thought Garry. "If I know the signs, she's fallen for the devil already."

Far into the night three men sat in a cloud of smoke in the trade-room.

"Sergeant," demurred McNab. "It's flat suicide for you to go back there now. I tell you you haven't a chance. But if you do hang on until that plane shows up from the Bay, how are you going to learn if she carries gold south, with that Indian mob of Isadore's watching her? Man, it's ridiculous!"

Malone laughed. "You've never seen Sergeant Finlay operate."

"McNab," said Finlay, quietly, "if we're there when that plane arrives, we're going to learn what all this mystery's about."

McNab's blue eyes snapped. "Yes, I think that's just what you two would start to do in the face of them all. You've got the nerve all right. But have you ever seen what whiskey will do to bush Indians? Tete-Blanche and that crew'll wipe you out, then hide up in the Bitter Water swamps."

"Between muskeg and water and swamp there's fifty miles of it. It's absolutely impassable except for an Indian trail or two. They'd never be found there, Sergeant. I don't want you to go back until you have help."

The gray irises of Finlay's eyes were rings of steel circling the pupils. "That's our hard luck, then. It's our job to get this crook. We'll start; someone else may have to finish it!"

McNab stubbornly regarded his sandy head. "I know, Sergeant, I know! But think of the odds, man! It's fifty to one up here, now, with the Indians against you!"

Red grinned at the grave face of his chief. "At Fort McLeod it was a hundred miners to one Mountie, eh, Sergeant?"

"What happened?" asked McNab. "Sergeant Finlay elbowed his way into that mob of drunks and took his man—Mr. McNab!"

Suspicion prevails that Isadore, rich fur man, has made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out of the country at any cost. En route to the Hudson's Bay post they visit Isadore in his palatial home, meet his wife and Lise, McNab's face lit with admiration.

"What do you know about this Tete-Blanche—ever seen him?"

"I saw him once at the steel. He looked uglier than a starved wolf. Never saw such a face! They say Isadore brought him here from the West, up God's Lake way. He was probably wanted there and had to leave. Two years ago, after those four men were reported drowned, he went up river to Nottaway and hung around making a lot of veiled threats. He had everybody uneasy. The Nottaway people know Isadore is rich and think he has government pull of some kind. They're afraid of him."

"Nobody but the station agent has dared open his mouth and he's been threatened."

Finlay handed the letter he carried in his wallet to the trader. "McLeod did more than talk. He wrote."

McNab returned the letter. "That's what they all think, up there."

"Pretty state of affairs in a free country!" snorted Red.

"About Tete-Blanche!" Finlay's dark face was bitter. "Is he half crazy? The night they trussed me up I had a good look at his eyes. The pupils dilated like those of an Eskimo gone 'piblokto.'"

McNab squinted hard at the speaker. "You know, I believe he is, in his heart. "It's the way you Mounties carry yourselves—something so cool and masterful about you. You can't fool me, Mr. Man. I know you're police." Tears suddenly blurred her eyes as she drew a quick breath. "And I know from the way father acted this morning that he never expects to see you again! Oh, Red," she flung out desperately, "I want to see you again! I want you to come back, Neil!"

Red had the girl's trembling hands in his. "I'm coming back, Thistle!" he said, and his voice was hoarse with feeling. "I'm coming back straight to Matagam—no, you, kid." Then with a shrug of his heavy shoulders he swallowed hard and the dancing lights returned to his eyes. "Now flash those white dazzlers of yours in one of those smiles that makes my heart go pitty-pat or I'll fumble that gold stuff you call hair right before your mother who's watching us through the window."

A smile broke through the girl's clouded face at the sally of the irresistible Red.

Over at the trade-house Finlay and McNab were saying good-by.

"My men should reach the steel with your report in thirteen days, but I wish you'd change your mind, Sergeant. Ask for immediate help and wait here for it!"

Finlay's thoughts were with the girl who waited for his message at Waswanipi. His mouth curled at a corner. In his eyes was the glint of sun on young ice. "McNab, the Mounted Police never send for immediate help!"

"I know! I know!" McNab wagged his head resignedly as he gripped Finlay's hand. "But I like you two boys! It's a shame—a rotten—"

The trade-room door swung wide and Blaise rushed in.

"Can't comin' from de eas'! David look in glass and say it come from Isadore! I bid canoe and shut up Flame!"

"Tell Red I want him, quick!" Malone burst into the room. "Put your glasses on that canoe, Garry!" Red cried. "Mine are packed! Something's up!"

"Are they near enough to see us?"

"No, they're miles away. What are the orders?"

Finlay took his binoculars from his duffle bag. "If they stop here, Red," he said, "we'll hole up in the fur-loft and listen while McNab draws them out. It may prove valuable. They've decided we passed them that night and are out to overtake us on the river."

Red shrugged his wide shoulders. "Overtake you and Blaise and me, in strong water? Swell chance! But we don't happen to be running!"

"No, we don't happen to be running!"

"Do you recognize any of them?" he asked McNab.

"Not yet. But it's from Isadore's. He's got the only outboard motor in this country."

The two returned to the trade-room while Finlay made his plans. "Whoever it is, McNab, get them in here and pump them, dry. We'll lie up there in the fur-loft and hear it all. Tell them we stopped for grub yesterday, on our way to Rupert. That may send them hunting us down river. And we'll surprise Isadore when we show up at Waswanipi."

"Correct. I'll handle those Indians."

"Make them talk even if you have to feed them some of that scotch of yours. It will be legal for it's an order from the police."

The two men grinned. "Leave it to me, Sergeant."

Red and Blaise appeared with their Lee-Enfields.

"Don't think you'll need them, Red," said Finlay. "Now we'll hit that ladder for the loft."

"I'll have another look and let you know what I see," said McNab, as the three men disappeared through the trap-door of the fur-loft.

As they lay on the floor of hand-hewn, spruce planks near the opening, Finlay outlined his conversation with McNab.

"Suppose Tete-Blanche is in that canoe?" queried Red.

"Our job is Isadore!" cautioned Finlay. "What we want today is information. A fight, here, will spoil it all."

Red chuckled. "I wasn't serious, chief. I was only worrying about Blaise. We'll have to lie on him to keep him from jumping through that hatch."

Brassard's slit eyes glittered in the half-light as he grunted: "I can wait. But dis big tailer wid red head, we have tough time to keep his mou' shut!"

Red shook Blaise's calloused paw. "Now we're square, you old wok verine!"

"Shut - up!" snapped Finlay. "Someone's coming!"

Oil Burner Success

MANY of my correspondents are planning to equip their house heaters with oil burners, and ask my opinion of the various makes that are offered to them. As a matter of fact, all oil burners can give good service. The choice is not among the different makes, but among the local oil burner installers. The best oil burner made will not work well if it is not properly installed, nor will a burner continue to give satisfaction unless it is under the supervision of a competent service man. The first step in buying an oil burner should be to inquire among oil burning friends for their opinions of the local installers, with the idea of selecting an installer who is competent, skillful, likely to stay in business, and will give quick and good service in times of need. A man of that type will have the agency for a reliable burner and can be depended on to recommend the type and size of burner best adapted to the heating plant. I have often spoken of the false economy of buying cut-price, for it is likely to lead to poor service and dissatisfaction. This is especially true of oil burners; for if one is offered at a suspiciously low price, there is reason to believe that the manufacturer may be going out of business, in which case there will be no source for spare parts. A good burner is worth paying for.

Linoleum on Rough Floor

Linoleum that is laid on a rough, worn and uneven floor will not last, for the roughness will quickly wear it through. When linoleum is to be laid on a floor in that condition the wood should be smoothed, by scraping, or better yet, by sanding with a heavy floor machine. Another method is to cover the floor with plywood. This can be one-half inch thick, and for convenience in laying, should be in pieces not more than four feet square, with the edges making tight joints. This forms a smooth and excellent surface, and linoleum cemented down over it should last almost indefinitely. The newly laid plywood will look so well that the home owner may well wonder about covering it with linoleum. He should do so, however, for if not protected by a floor covering, the surface will quickly chafe and splinter.

Squeaky Bedspring

Question: Several months ago the coil spring of a bed was soaked with rain coming through an open window. Ever since, there has been a terrible squeak. Oiling does not help. What can we do?

Answer: You probably did not get the oil where it would do the most good. Using an oil can, put a drop of oil at every point where one piece of metal touches another. Then jounce the spring several times, so that the oil will work into the joint.

Streaked Lampshade

Question: I washed a silk lampshade with soapy water and a sponge, but when it dried the result was streaky. How can I clean it?

Answer: Fill your bathtub with tepid water, with a few handfuls of soap flakes dissolved in it. Draw the lampshade through this slowly several times, and then rinse with clear water. Pat with a bath towel and hang-up to dry. Braid and ornaments that may come off can be stuck-back with glue.

Kitchen Wall Finish

Question: Walls of an old kitchen are uneven, being partly plastered and partly wallboard. Would plastic paint hide the roughness?

Answer: Plastic paint made of gypsum will adhere to both plaster and wallboard, but you should give it a smooth finish. You can then enamel it, or use washable wallpaper or wallcloth.

Rusted Tools

Question: What is the best way to remove rust from household tools? Could I use some kind of acid?

Answer: Rub with emery cloth, wet with kerosene. You can also get rust-removing liquids at an automobile supply store. I do not recommend an acid.

Crumbling Mortar

Question: Brick mortar in house walls has been crumbling and washing away until part of the brickwork is bare. Why? What is the remedy?

Answer: The mortar is porous, possibly because too much black coloring was used in proportion to the cement. Have it replaced by a competent mason.

Finish for Stucco

Question: Cement stucco over brick and stone must be repainted. What paint should we use?

Answer: You can get a cement paint intended for that work. Any good paint store has it.

Serve One-Dish Meals as Smart Budget-Stretchers (See Recipes Below)

Appetite Appeal Plus

Dents in the budget? Appetites wilted after the rich foods as a result of the double holidays? Well, you can smooth out those dents and at the same time perk up the jaded appetites by smart, simple, easy-to-manage one-dish meals. Here's a parade of palate-thrilling recipes with which you can sprout right along even with the slimmest of budgets.

To stretch that food dollar, you can use leftover meats and vegetables that are called for in these casseroles. Yes, and what's especially nice about them is that they're tops in vitamins and minerals because they're fortified with those perfect foods, milk and butter. As you're pouring out the milk from the bottle, remember it's just grimming and bursting with health-giving qualities.

Here's a meal-in-a-dish which has a luscious butter and bread crumb topping to recommend it:

One-Dish Meal (Serves 6)

- 2 cups diced carrots (6 medium carrots)
 - 1 1/2 cups diced celery
 - 6 medium potatoes, pared and sliced
 - 3 tablespoons butter
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 cup meat stock or 1 bouillon cube in 1 cup hot water
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 3 to 6 tablespoons grated onion
 - 1 cup peas (canned or fresh)
 - 2 cups diced leftover meat
 - 1/2 cup sifted bread crumbs
 - 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Cook carrots, celery and potatoes separately in boiling salted water until tender. Melt butter, blend in flour, add milk and meat stock. Cook over direct heat, stirring constantly until sauce boils and thickens. Add salt. Combine sauce with remaining ingredients, except crumbs and melted butter, and turn into a buttered casserole or baking dish. Combine crumbs and melted butter, sprinkle over surface. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 35 to 40 minutes.

Cabbage, one of winter's best vegetables, is featured in this casserole of tuna or salmon:

Scalloped Tuna and Cabbage (Serves 8)

- 2 cups boiling water
 - 2 quarts chopped cabbage
 - 2 cups rich milk
 - 1/4 pound American cheese
 - 1/4 cup flour
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 can tuna or salmon, flaked
 - 2 cups buttered bread crumbs
- Four boiling water over cabbage, heat to boiling, add 1 cup milk and cheese, cut in pieces. Cook over hot water until cheese is melted. Blend flour, salt and remaining milk and add to cabbage. Add tuna or

LYNN SAYS:

Can you name the one food that does most for your body's health, most cheaply? Milk, of course! Why? Because milk does all of the following:

1. Promotes growth and maintains the body's resistance to infection through vitamin A.
2. Stimulates appetites and keeps the nerves in top-notch condition through vitamin B1; promotes growth and keeps the skin healthy through vitamin B2 (G).
3. Helps calcium and vitamin C to develop teeth and bones properly if fortified with vitamin D.
4. As an excellent source of phosphorus, it also works to keep the teeth and bones in class A.
5. Milk's proteins come to the fore in repairing worn-down tissues and muscles and boosting growth.

salmon and put in buttered casserole. Top with crumbs and bake in moderate (350-degree) oven 20 minutes.

Beef Pie (Serves 6)

- 1 pound ground beef
 - 1 onion, chopped
 - Salt and pepper
 - 2 1/2 cups green beans, cooked or canned
 - 1 can tomato soup
 - 4 large potatoes, cooked
 - 1/2 cup warmed milk
 - 1 beaten egg
 - Salt and pepper
- Brown onion in hot fat, add meat and seasonings. Brown and add green beans and soup. Pour in greased casserole. Mash potatoes, add egg, milk and seasonings. Scoop over meat and bake in a moderate oven.

Baked potatoes and salmon are a favorite cold weather combination, but have you ever thought of blending the two together as one dish? No? Then you have a real treat coming if you try:

Salmon Stuffed Potatoes (Serves 6)

- 6 potatoes, baked
 - 1/2 cup hot milk
 - 1 beaten egg
 - Salt and pepper
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 2 cups flaked salmon
 - 1/2 cup minced onion, sauteed
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - Buttered crumbs
- Split baked potatoes and scoop out. Mash the potatoes, add milk, egg, salt. Fold in salmon, lemon juice and onions. Refill shells and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes.

Whisk away your problems with leftover chicken or turkey by serving the meat creamed with vegetables in the center of a rice ring, adding mushrooms, sauteed, if desired. Serve it also cut up in croquettes, in chicken tamale pie, curried with rice, scalloped with noodles, in chop suey, or as a pie like this one here:

Chicken Pie (Serves 6 to 8)

- 3 cups diced, cooked chicken
 - 1 cup diced, cooked carrots
 - 6 cooked, small white onions
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 cup chicken stock
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - Salt and pepper
- Arrange chicken and vegetables in layers in casserole. Combine milk and chicken stock, add flour, blending in slowly. Cook until thick, stirring constantly, then season. Pour over chicken and vegetables. Cover with a sweet potato crust and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes.

Sweet Potato Crust

This crust is the distinctive part of the chicken pie and a wonderful way to use up those few potatoes that are left over from the holiday dinner along with the chicken. It's a crust de luxe, a crisp, golden brown topping well worthy of chicken pie:

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup cold mashed sweet potato
- 1/4 cup fat, melted
- 1 beaten egg

Sift dry ingredients. Work in mashed potato, milk and egg. Roll 1/4 inch thick, cover pie and flute edges.

THE INFANCY AND BOYHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:25-35, 39, 40.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2:52.

"Nobody knows what a boy is worth. And the world must wait to see: For every man in an honored place Is a boy that used to be."

Jesus was "only a boy" as He grew through infancy and childhood, but in that baby and that boy rested all the hopes of mankind. While He was not just like any other boy, yet His growth and development were normal, and we may learn much that will enable us to help the boy in our home, in our block, or in our church.

The mother of Jesus, by fulfillment of the law of her people, on the eighth day identified Him with the nation (Luke 2:21), and then at the end of 40 days brought Him; with her humble sacrifice, to present Him to the Lord. There a beautiful and prophetic scene took place as the Holy Spirit revealed to godly old Simeon His

I. Complete Salvation—in a Baby (vv. 25-35)

The Holy Spirit (not yet come as the indwelling presence in believers' hearts) had come upon Simeon, a man right with God and with a deep longing in his heart for the coming of the Messiah—"the consolation of Israel." He was assured of living until that day, and now as he waited in the temple the babe who fulfilled that promise was laid in his arms.

He blessed God as he broke forth in praise and prophetic utterance. Note the full conception of the work of the Redeemer—deliverance from bondage and fear of death, light to the Gentiles and glory to Israel, a stone of stumbling but also of rising again. A revealer of the hearts of men—yes, and One whose sacrificial death would pierce the heart of His mother.

One is glad that Simeon and Anna (v. 36) and "them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem" saw in Mary's infant son the Son of God incarnate, for round about was unbeliever (John 1:11), hatred (Matt. 2:16), and indifference (Matt. 2:4, 5).

Is it not so today? Christmas has just been celebrated. How many saw the babe in the manger as Jesus the Saviour?

The scene changes—the little family is back in Nazareth in the humble home—and there we see

II. Perfect Development in a Boy (vv. 39, 40)

The period from infancy to accountability (12 years) is summed up in the full-orbed growth of the boy Jesus described in verse 40. The one business of every child from birth to 12, or somewhere around there, until the period of adolescence, is to grow without any sense of responsibility except obedience to authority; and obedience in the case of a child is always in order to give the child perfect freedom from everything else, without any sense of responsibility. That is the story of Jesus: "He grew!" (G. Campbell Morgan).

Growth is, first of all, physical. Jesus stands by the side of every boy and girl as the body grows from babyhood to maturity, for He too knew that experience. We may talk to Him as an understanding friend about the physical needs and problems of our children. Let us remember that here, as elsewhere in Scripture, the physical body is recognized as important.

Mentally, He experienced growth. The strange, apocryphal tales about the child Jesus, representing Him as a man of mature wisdom in a child's body, do not compare even remotely with the beautiful naturalness of a keen-minded boy asking questions, observing, always learning. Boys and girls, you may talk with confidence to Him about your lessons, your growing interest in this exciting world of ours, of your need for guidance in learning. Be sure that He will understand.

The crowning touch upon the growing personality of the child is the spiritual. We read of Jesus that "the grace of God was upon him." "Grace," says Dr. Morgan, "is first, that which delights and charms. Grace, secondly, is desire to impart to others the things that make them happy. Grace, finally, is the activity that does this at all costs." A gracious child is an altogether delightful being; and when that graciousness is the result of the "grace of God" upon him, it is surpassingly lovely, for it makes him Christlike, even in the days of childhood.

Great and grave has been the neglect of the spiritual life of children for whom much has been done physically and mentally. Christian parents must not make that mistake—and they need not, for the Lord Jesus here too stands ready to counsel, guide, encourage, and strengthen them in every good purpose and deed.

Defense Uniforms Can Be as Smart as They Are Practical

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NOW that thousands of women are engaged in defense service that takes them into factories and plants, or that keeps them busy on the farm, designers are confronted with a new challenge to create practical clothes that are primarily functional but are also chic and becoming.

In this program of clothes that are able to resist wear and tear, the first problem to be considered is necessarily that of finding materials that will give satisfaction from the standpoint of wearability plus laundability. Since sturdy cottons can "take it," they naturally are first in fabric choice. Denim holds forth at the top of the list in either solid colors or stripes (often combined for contrast). Then come coverts, manish tweed cotton suitings and that favorite of favorites—corduroy.

White duck, which holds an enviable record for perfect laundering, is particularly smart for young girls who like snappy fashions and who are stationed in surroundings that demand they look immaculate. This fabric is suitable not only for overalls, but also for overseas caps, to keep straying locks from the eyes. To the left in the illustration above is a costume especially designed for American women at work in defense industries, on farms, or in the air. This "civilian defense suit" is cut on a pattern of simplicity that any woman can make for herself, even if she is a novice at sewing. Note that this suit of washable white duck is one-piece. This garment has convertible trousers which may be worn full or snuggled in to insure protection from possible entanglement in machinery.

Uniforms for women must have certain basic protective details such as those mentioned above, and they must also be designed for freedom of movement. They must be easy to take off and on, with straps caught at the back so that overalls will not slip off at the shoulders, with snap fasteners at the ankles for comfort and protection.

Corduroy mix-mates give opportunity for bright color, style and service and all in one. They meet the farm girl's needs to perfection, and they are equally as useful and smart in the factory. Not only is the never-wear-out quality of corduroy a convincing argument in its favor, but corduroy has that something attractive about it that measures up to any wear required of it from work to play. It goes about town or trudges along country roads with equal adaptability.

The attractiveness of corduroy is shown in the illustration above by the culotte-ensemble centered in the group. In this instance, a bright plaid cotton shirt is teamed with a corduroy culotte and vest. Corduroy shoes and cotton stockings complete a perfect outfit for all sorts of active wear. In this smart, good-looking ensemble one can confidently go about town on a shopping tour, feeling suitably dressed for the occasion.

Mixmate this vest of corduroy with slacks, shown to the right in the picture above, and you have a suit that gives the answer to a gay young farmerette as to "what to wear" about home during busy hours. Wear a corduroy beret with this suit if you must go into town on an errand, or whatever the call of duty may happen to be.

Bright Wool

What with all the glitter of sequin and spangle, it is a relief to turn to the lovely color-bright soft wool classics that fashion elects for style supremacy this winter. Undoubtedly these flattering little woens, fashioned as they are with studied simplicity, will be "stealing the show" during the weeks to come. These lovely classic woens make color their theme, and worn under winter furs, they lead the first-in-fashion group. Pictured is a charming model of Forstmann wool in a subtle green that goes beautifully with any fur. There is a restrained accent of sparkling gilt on the belt and front closing. Wear a flaring hat and carry a beaver muff.

Dutch Bonnets and Hoods

Have Peasant Embroidery

A charming new fashion that is going the rounds this winter, to the delight of high school and college girls, is that of cunning little hoods or bonnets cut in the manner of Dutch bonnets or baby caps and made of bright felt. Or, if you prefer, they can be gaily crocheted. These are adorned with appliques of felt flowers in peasant colorings or trimmed in crocheted flowers. They tie under the chin, and they lend a most attractive dash of color to a wintry landscape. They're perfect with skating outfits, or to wear to and from dances, or to school.

Here's the Latest Style:

Dresses With Apron Front

Here's the latest bit of fashion gossip. It's all about the dresses with cleverly designed apron fronts. This new fashion calls for a pencil-slim skirt, at the front of which there is a tie-on apron effect. Sometimes it is achieved with a cascade drape of material. Again it is a pleated tie-on that makes the apron. However, the cleverest of all, because it introduces the right print accent, is the applique of cut-out floral prints. The effect is just about as charming as fancy can picture, especially if a corresponding touch of the print appears on the sleeves.

Evening Capes Sparkle

With Beads and Sequins

Just as new as the coming New Year are the new evening capes, some long and some short, that are made of bright colored woens handsewily and elaborately embroidered with sparkling stones or sequins or vivid yarns. A favorite color for these gay little capes is magenta. Jet beading on black or white wool also ranks high in chic.

Surest Key

The best and surest of all keys is the friendship of the people.—Antigonus.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, amply more than justifies the claim that they are the best medicine for kidney ailments. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who have tested the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the object of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, pain under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Lansing — Life in Michigan will be different in 1942.

Looking upon an "all-out" tug-of-war with the Axis as ever a "temporary interruption in the normal course of business," Michigan may expect changes during the coming year to include the following:

Added to the selective service list of 600,000 men will be 500,000 men between the ages of 36 and 65 — or a total of more than one million Michigan men subject to war duty. This physically qualified and, if needed by the nation. Of this group the men between the ages of 20 and 45 will be liable to call for combat service.

The registration call, issued last Monday (January 5), affects 25,000,000 men between the ages of 20 and 45 will be liable to call for combat service.

The registration call, issued last Monday (Jan. 5) affects 25,000,000 men between the ages of 18 and 65 years. Michigan's total thus will be about one-twentieth of Uncle Sam's potential manpower for prosecution of the war. Even a half million men, taken from normal economic use, would result in drastic changes throughout the state.

Yes, life is going to be different.

Old, Old Story

The blunt plain talk of Winston Churchill at Washington and Ottawa made a profound impression on Americans.

Just as our pre-Christmas prosperity claim was shattered by the treacherous Japanese raids on Pearly Harbor later duplicated by bombing of Manila during the holidays, so our attitude on the war underwent a major readjustment during the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences.

Despite the encouraging headlines of Nazi defeats in Russia, the fact remains that Washington now plans for a three-year war. Production of arms, growing as it has been is totally inadequate to meet new needs. Unless the German nation collapses from weak morale or a lack of needed supplies, we must wait until 1943 and possibly 1944 before there are sufficient arms and trained men to justify a full-fledged military offensive. Unless we strip for action quickly, we may be "too late".

It's the same old, old story of American unpreparedness which you find again and again in American history. Only this time we have few Allies, less time in which to overcome the appalling handicaps.

Start of Sacrifices

And so when the news breaks that the United States, fighting a two-ocean war, must make greater sacrifices than ever dreamed of during the

EVEN THE BEAN BUILDS MORALE

Michigan's beans, produced by the millions of bags, are useful as food for more than army and navy menus.

They are packed with food value, according to home economists on the staff of Michigan State College. With Michigan holding the national crown for top production of the white pea or navy beans, the residents of the state could use more of them in home diets.

Beans rate high as an inexpensive source of energy food. What's more the bean contains protein of fair nutritive value. The bean also rates high as a source of the important mineral iron, the "morale building" vitamin B1.

In explaining plans for low-cost but adequate diets, the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture suggests increased use of beans. Along with dry peas or peanuts the beans can appear in the diet several times a week.

As far as cooking is concerned — dry beans may be treated pretty much alike. Although a recipe may call for one type of bean, usually almost any other variety may be substituted.

Rules for successful bean cookery are simple, say the home economists. They are: Soak beans before you cook them — overnight or at least 5 or 6 hours. To get the most food value from beans, use the water in which they are soaked to cook them. Use soft water if you can, because hard water toughens the bean skins. Never use soda to cook beans. This destroys the valuable vitamin B1. Cook beans slowly. On top of the stove, simmer instead of boiling. For baked beans, use a slow oven around 250 degrees F. Watch them carefully as they cook and keep adding more liquid.

Season beans with something salty, sour, fresh, crisp, or bright and spicy. Beans are bland and they combine well with crisp bacon, ham knuckle, salt pork, chili, a dash of lemon juice, onion, tomatoes.

World War I, somehow or other it fits into the usual pattern which democracies can expect. Our sacrifices in Michigan are just beginning.

Michigan automobile factories are to be converted nearly 100-percent into war arsenals. What had been expected to be a gradual transition may become an arbitrary overnight halt to production of cars. Net result will be temporary unemployment of several hundred thousand workers, plus the readjustments imposed upon the thousands of automobile dealers.

Automobile advertising will cease to emphasize new models, but will center on servicing present cars.

Because of metal priorities, the manufacture of refrigerators, radios, washing machines, stoves, and many other household appliances may be temporarily suspended.

How world-wide the war has become was illustrated recently when the government revealed the extent of restrictions on sale of automobile tires. Only persons who have urgent and vital need for the rubber product will be permitted to buy in 1942. Thousands of automobiles may be forced off the highways. In England tire blowouts have caused thousands of deaths.

Tourist Business

The 1942 tourist business in Michigan should not be drastically affected by the tire restriction, but some curtailment may be anticipated. The 1943 season will be uncertain.

Retreaded tires will replace new tires to a certain degree, just as automobile repair work is expected to replace sale of new models.

A 35 percent reduction in demand of gasoline is also forecast. In turn, curtailment of gasoline will reduce the state's income from gasoline taxes for highway use. Fewer car licenses will be needed. The 1941 income of nearly $60,000,000 may shrink to $45,000,000 or $40,000,000. In turn this would force retrenchment in highway building, and so on. The cycle is long.

Experience of the Michigan tourist business during the last war was favorable. When pressure mounts, need for relaxation rises. Paradoxically, night clubs in England and Canada have been doing a thriving business.

Defense Needs

Last week the state deficit was wiped out, just one year earlier than Budget Director Leo Nowicki thought was possible.

A year-end check of $4,355,000 from the state liquor control commission, representing payment to the general fund from Michigan's liquor sale monopoly, was responsible. On top of this the commission was paid $1,260,000 to the federal government in liquor taxes.

Thus the state ended 1941 with a balance of around $60,000 in the bank.

Augmented state income from sale and liquor taxes will be needed to meet new demands due to the war. If the legislature is called into special session—and such may be the case—around $5,000,000 may be asked for use of the state troops, state police, and other war-time functions.

Belts will be tightened in 1942 when Congress enacts higher taxes and other war-time levies. When the Michigan wage-earner turns over his payroll deductions a fifth to a third of his annual wages to Uncle Sam, then we know he is in the war.

Yes, life will be different. The price of victory is just starting.

Mr. Farmer: Start the New Year RIGHT!

Avoid Income Tax Trouble in 1942

Keeping adequate financial records is the surest way to avoid tax difficulties. Not only does the federal law require the farmer to keep ample records but experience and common sense point the wisdom of such practice.

With the importance of farm financial records in mind, the Charlevoix County Herald has been able to complete arrangements to furnish, in combination with a year's subscription to the paper, a copy of "Agricultural Records," the easy accounting system for farmers, at a special price of $1.79.

The regular price is $5.50 and only by offering the record system to you with a year's subscription to your newspaper can we supply it at this remarkable special price.

Here is how the offer works. If you are a subscriber to this paper, you merely extend your subscription for one year at the usual price and are thereby entitled to buy one copy of "Agricultural Records" at the special price of $1.79. If you are not a subscriber now, you may subscribe to the paper for one year at the regular price and become entitled to buy one copy of "Agricultural Records" for the special $1.79 price.

If you think of trouble when you think of making income tax returns, you need a copy of "Agricultural Records" because it:

1. Requires no bookkeeping knowledge.
2. Takes only a few minutes a week.
3. Makes a permanent record of your income and expense.
4. Shows how to figure farm income and deductible expense for tax reporting.

We'll be glad to show you a copy of "Agricultural Records" and explain just how to use it. The whole thing is so simple that the explanation will take almost no time.

Stop in at the office next time you're in town and talk it over.

G. A. LISK, Publisher.
