FIND SUBSTITUTES FOR SWEET TOOTH

No use for the cook to shed tears over curtailment of the sugar supply for there are means of using sugar more efficiently and finding substitutes for soothing the "sweet tooth" that many favor.

Members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College endorse the recent suggestions summarized by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Keep a weather eye out for sugar wastes; is one piece of advice. One of the most obvious wastes is the undissolved sugar in the bottom of a cup of coffee or tea. Others are over-sweetened foods, cake failure or failure of any product containing sugar.

Next, cut down on sugar in least noticeable ways first. Experiment to see if the amount you've been putting on your breakfast cereal or in coffee and tea is a matter of habit—whether you'd be just as happy with half a teaspoonful or so less. Naturally you'll need less sugar on a cereal that is topped with dried fruit.

Try eating fewer rich desserts—fewer pastries and very sweet cakes. Fresh fruits are among the most nutritious and desirable of desserts—and they carry their own sugar. Canned fruits come in the class of not-too-rich desserts. Dried fruits are one of the best sources of natural sugar.

Custards and simple puddings are other desserts that use smaller amounts of sugar.

When you sweeten sauces, such as applesauce, put the sugar in at the end of the cooking time. It will take less sugar to get the same sweetness if you don't cook the sugar so long.

Most persons can get along on less sugar and still have nutritious meals that taste good. Sugar supplies food energy in an exceedingly palatable form. Any reduction in sugar can easily be taken care of by increasing quantities of other energy-giving foods in the diet. Other inexpensive energy-giving foods also supply valuable vitamins and minerals. Whole-grain cereals are one such food group. Starchy vegetables and dried fruits are others.

AND DID YOU KNOW THAT

In cooking apples, water should be used very sparingly, if at all—none for pies, brown butties, etc. In baking apples, and for sauce, add only enough water to keep from scorching.

Farm Machinery Repair Meeting Attracts Farmers Interested

The second machinery repair school to be held in Charlevoix county is scheduled for Wednesday, March 4th beginning at 10:00 a. m. in the N.Y.A. Defense Machine Shop located in Boyne City. This meeting has special significance because through the N. Y. A. Defense Shop is cooperating in a program to repair farm machinery under the supervision of its training personnel. Under this arrangement any farmer in the county may make arrangements through the county A. A. A. office to bring in any item of farm machinery that needs repairs and the work will be without cost. The only expense is the necessary repair parts and materials for repairs which are to be furnished by the farmer.

Certainly it is to the farmers advantage to have all the machinery operating at full efficiency. The successful outcome of the present work depends fully as much on the ability of the American farmer to increase his food production as it does in the actual combat zones. Mr. Bell will discuss how to make adjustments on the mowing machine, how to make adjustments with the grain binder and many other type of farm machinery that are used most extensively.

All farmers are urged to attend this machinery repair school. Why not mark the date on your calendar right now so you will not forget to attend this school on Wednesday, March 4th at 10:00 A. M. in the Boyne City N.Y.A. Defense Machine Shop.

MARRIAGES

Nowland—Crosier

Hershall Nowland, of East Jordan, and Miss Stella Crosier, of Boyne City, were united in marriage Saturday evening at the Presbyterian Manse by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. George Stephenson of Boyne City.

Farm Machinery Repair Project Sponsored By USDA War Board

The plan of repairing farm machinery, sponsored by the county USDA War Board has taken shape rapidly. Already, some applications for machinery repair have been accepted and repairs are now being made at the N. Y. A. shop. This plan was explained to farmers during the past two weeks in the county wide "Food for Freedom" meetings held by the War Board and the A. A. A.

The N.Y.A. headquarters in Boyne City has a machine shop thoroughly equipped for such work and it is made available through the efforts of the War Board for the use of the farmers of the county. Applications for repair of farm machinery should be made to Walter H. Henley, chairman of the county War Board, in the A. A. A. office, Boyne City. When approved, the order for repairs is to be taken by the individual to Mr. Harold Lees, manager of the REA, who, as member of the War Board, is authorized to send the work to the N.Y.A. shop for repair, where the necessary work will be done under expert supervision.

The N.Y.A. cannot deal with the individual direct. All repair parts must be furnished by the farmer as no funds are available and the N.Y.A. can make no charges to cover them.

The farmer benefits to the extent that the labor will not be charged and the youth of Charlevoix county will get to be better machine repair men. This will be of great value to the farm boys who may later be farming on their own account.

War defense activities have prevented our local shops from doing such work promptly or not at all, so this plan will be a great boon for the farmers of Charlevoix county. Not only will our county be benefited but eventually the state may adopt the same procedure. At a recent regional meeting at Gaylord attended by War Board chairmen and members of all upper counties with the state committee our plan was explained. Great interest was indicated by all representatives and it is very probable the project will become state wide. A score for Charlevoix county.

Farmers, remember, it will first be necessary to make application before bringing in your machinery for repairs.

To The Voters of Eveline Township:

The Eveline Township Caucus will be held the first Monday in March (March 2), 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Ironton Grange Hall.

Charlevoix — East Jordan Game

Last Tuesday evening the Cohnmen were beaten by the Charlevoix team after a hard fought battle. The final score was 28-22 in favor of the opposing team.

The Crimston team took the lead after a few minutes of play but were unable to hold out against the romping boys from Charlevoix. The East Jordan team showed up much better against Charlevoix than they did earlier in the season when they received a 43 to 10 shellacking.

Kemp was high man for East Jordan with seven counters while Cary led Charlevoix with eleven points.

Mancelona — East Jordan Game

Last Friday the East Jordan team lost one to Mancelona by another close score of 25-24.

The Mancelona team had the advantage in height and used it well tipping several in from under the basket. At first the teams looked pretty evenly matched, but the Mancelona boys pulled ahead in the second period. The second half opened up with a bang with both teams making two baskets in the first few seconds of play. However, at the end of the third period Mancelona was decidedly in the lead. In the closing minutes of play the Cohnmen began a belated rally and tallied six points in quick succession.

The East Jordan boys were pretty weak on free throws completing only one out of eleven trips to the charity circle.

Sturgell was high scorer for East Jordan, and Bill Saxton showed up fine on the defense.

Report On Conservation Department

Last Friday the eleventh and eighth grades enjoyed a talk on the Conservation Department and its duties in Michigan.

Mr. Norton, the speaker, is the district conservation leader. He named all of the different divisions in the department and the duties of each.

This talk was especially useful to the Juniors who were required to write, theme on the Conservation Department of Michigan.

Mr. L. Karr New Senior Class Adviser

In a meeting the adviserless Senior class held an election last Tuesday, February 17. Because of Mrs. Zerbst's going away the class elected Mr. Karr, agriculture teacher, as its new adviser. Best of luck, Mr. Karr!

Senior First Aid

The Seniors are about one-third of the way through their course on First Aid. They are now prepared to treat injured hands, heads, or what have you. Their lesson this week pertained to wounds. If someone takes a shot at you, it isn't a Jap. It's a senior wanting practice!

Federal Income Tax INFORMATION

Furnished by the Treasury Department, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1941 may be paid in full at the time of the filing of the return on or before March 16, 1942. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1942. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which taxpayer's return is required to be filed, that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the Collector of Internal Revenue at Baltimore, Maryland.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue". In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the cancelled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

New Rates On Michigan Bell

TELEPHONE CO. GO INTO EFFECT APRIL FIRST

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company announces that uniform schedules of local service rates will go into effect, with billing dates beginning April 1, at exchanges of comparable size and with less than 10,000 main telephone stations.

C. Lester Johnson, manager for the company, said that local service charges of about 28,000 customers in 88 exchanges will be reduced a total of $120,000 to $130,000 a year as a result of the rate adjustment. The uniform schedule is contained in a recent order of the Michigan Public Service Commission growing out of negotiations with the company.

Red Cross Contacts Military and Civilians

The Red Cross thro its international organization is able to exchange purely personal messages between citizens of nations at war with each other. This is done with the approval of the governments concerned. Inquiries may be made regarding civilians, our own military and naval personnel and missing or captured members of the armed forces of other belligerent countries.

In order to put through these inquiries you must contact your Red Cross Chapter as these must be sent in triplicate through Red Cross channels. As soon as information is available the chapter will be notified but due to the many understandable difficulties inquirers must not expect early reports. Any further information regarding this service may be had by writing or calling Mrs. C. F. Kriehoff Home Service Chairman, Boyne City.

Dressings, Clothes To Hawaii

More than 1,000,000 surgical dressings made by American Red Cross volunteer workers have been shipped to Hawaii since war was declared. Also sent were 12,595 dresses, 10,630 sweaters, 3,030 overalls, 4,915 shirts and 5,000 blankets.

Notice to Candidates

Candidates for the Office of Mayor and Alderman of the City of East Jordan must have their petitions in the hands of the City Clerk not later than 4:00 p. m. Monday, March 9th, 1942.

WM. ALDRICH,
City Clerk.

4-H CLUB NEWS

EMERGENCY 4-H CLUB MEETING ANNOUNCED FOR MARCH 4TH

Due to the National Emergency a special meeting of all of the winter and summer 4-H club leaders as well as other interested club friends has been announced for Wednesday, March 4th in the Gymnasium basement, Boyne City High School at 7:30 promptly.

Mr. Ralph May and Miss Lois Corbett, Assistant State Club Leaders, will be present to lead the discussion and give suggestions as to how our 4-H club and 4-H club members can help out in this national emergency.

Another important purpose of this meeting is to discuss ways and means of enriching the existing 4-H club program by providing and encouraging desirable activities from the business meeting and social standpoint. Numerous specific activities will be explained in detail and the leaders in attendance will be provided with copies of some of these activities.

A discussion of summer club projects will be conducted. The market outlook and timely project information will be given with special emphasis on the canning, garden, food preparation, certain livestock and crops projects that are of primary importance in our "food for freedom" program.

If the program is to be truly successful in its expansion and progress it is necessary that every club and community be represented. Special invitations have been sent out to the 4-H club leaders and representatives of various organizations interested in the successful operation of this program with the rural youth. The 4-H Club Council will meet at 4:30 to go over some of the details or organizing and then will join with the large group for further discussion. Kindly remember the date is Wednesday, March 4th in the basement of the Boyne City High School Gymnasium and will start promptly at 7:30. All 4-H club friends are invited to participate in this meeting.

Down, plant breeder at the college and the man who helped develop the new early blooming, mosaic and field blight resistant Michelite. It is a white pea bean, of the type more commonly called the "navy" bean.

Bean growers in the state planted a record acreage of 741,000 acres in 1941 and harvested an estimated 5,706,000 hundred pound bags. Half of this was Michelite. In Huron county, Emmet Raven, county agricultural agent, reports that 90 percent of the county's beans were Michelite.

Here is Down's explanation of the cash superiority over even such an excellent variety as Robust, an earlier introduction from college plant breeding work.

Michelite beans run so close to uniformity in size that in every 100 pounds run over screens, three pounds less drop into the culls. When the beans are picked over to take out discolored or split beans, another saving occurs, because another one and one-half pounds less are discarded.

Allowing 8 cents a pound for labor of picking out culls and valuing good beans at the rate of $4.75 a hundred pounds, the Michelite on half the acreage is worth a million dollars more than the varieties on the other half of the acreage.

That is the estimate made by E. E.

"Hot Lunch" Contributors

SCHOOLS AND P. T. A. APPRECIATE LIBERAL DONATIONS

The following is a list of those who contributed to the Hot Lunch program. We hope that no homes have been missed, certainly none have intentionally.

We feel that this is a very fine manifestation of community spirit and is a fine thing for our school children. Many thanks to those who solicited the contributions as well as to those who contributed.

Some people were not at home when the contributions were being picked up. We will appreciate if these people will deliver the materials promised at the school house when it is convenient to do so.

Some of those who agreed to donate cash have not been called upon as yet. We will appreciate it if you will send your check to Mr. Wade or Mr. Braman.

We will wait a short time yet for the rest of you to do what you wish to and then will publish the results of this project.

East Jordan Party Will Be Held At Flint, Saturday, Feb. 28

An East Jordan Party will be held at the V. F. W. Hall, 138 West Second St. Flint, on Saturday, Feb'y 28th, at 7:00 p. m.

Refreshments, Dancing and Entertainment. This is a get-together party and all former East Jordanites, as well as any from East Jordan, are invited to come and enjoy the evening.

Notice of the party was sent by Mrs. Laura (Pinney) Trim of 6030 Gilbert St. Flint.

Mich. Bell Telephone Co. Asks Authority To Issue Defense Bonds

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has applied for Federal authorization to act as state-wide issuing agent for the United States Defense Bonds being purchased by its employees under a voluntary payroll allotment plan, according to announcement by C. L. Johnson, manager for the Company.

He emphasized that the company does not seek authority to act as issuing agent for the bonds to the general public, but to employees only, although U.S. Savings Stamps are offered for sale to the public at most of the company's business offices throughout the state.

The effect of large employers, such as the Michigan Bell, acting as issuing agents for the bonds is to lighten the load on government agencies, which have been swamped with Defense Bond orders, particularly since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

In the past, when enough funds were accumulated to buy a bond, the Michigan Bell Company remitted the funds to the Post Office, which in turn sent the bond to the employee by registered mail. At present, those employees who wish to purchase bonds, either on small weekly or monthly installments or by payment in full, may so arrange with the company. That practice would be continued if the company should be authorized to act as an issuing agent, the telephone manager said.

New Bean Adds Million Dollars To Farmers' Income

When plant breeders at Michigan State College announced in 1937 that a new variety ought to add value to Michigan's bean crop they began a watch of commercial production that has borne out predictions.

The Michelite bean by supplanting half of other varieties formerly planted in the state already is worth an extra million dollars a year to the growers that use it.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Java Calls for Increased Aid From Australia as Japs Intensify Attack; First War Deaths on American Soil Caused by 'Dud' Torpedo at Aruba

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

JAVA:

Goal of Japs

The fall of Singapore represented the winning of a major victory for the Japanese, but tactically it was considered the moving of the western end of a Jap pincer movement directed not so much at India as at Java.

For the entire capture of the East Indies, and with it the enormous oil production vitally needed by Japan had, perforce, to be regarded as the major objective, with Java at its center.

This had been proved by the events that had followed the triumphal entry of the Malayan army into Singapore.

Intensified Japanese attacks had started on Bali and islands to the east of Java, as well as stronger movements to increase the Japanese hold on Sumatra, the invaders fanning out from Palembang, Sumatra's largest city.

Java's population of 40,000,000 had been told "the enemy is at our gates," and to prepare its defense "to the last ditch." At the same time Java called for increased aid from Australia, but it was not immediately apparent what Australia could or would do, embattled as it was in a belated effort to straighten out its own defenses.

Some commentators figured the Japanese occupation of Java, and with it control of all the Dutch East Indies as "a matter of days," while others thought it might be a long battle, and that substantial defense of the remainder of the East Indies was quite possible.

However that might be, Allied ranks would give a good deal to know which way the Nipponese cat was planning to jump if, as and when the East Indies had fallen to the enemy.

Was it going to be an all-out offensive against India or were the Japs, conscious that an eventually winning Allied naval, air and land attack could be launched against them from Australia, to turn their forces toward Cape York?

Movements of U. S. ships and troops seemed to indicate that this country viewed the latter possibility as a probability, and that as a base for our future operations, Australia and New Zealand seemed to offer the best chance for a supply life-line.

VIERECK:

Contemptuous Spy

As the Viereck trial had opened in Washington, the Nazi agent being tried for withholding information of his activities from the state department, he was painted as a "contemptuous spy" by William Power Maloney, prosecutor.

Maloney said Viereck had used the Congressional Record to propagandize the United States "according to orders from his Teutonic overlords" and stated that many long excerpts in the Record from the speeches of the late Senator Lundeen.

Testimony brought out that typical titles of books published by Flanders Hall in New Jersey (financed by Viereck) were "Lord Lothian Against Lord Lothian," "Seven Periods in Irish History" and "It Happened Again," all allegedly German propaganda.

"The 100 Families Who Rule the Empire," sensational book much used in propaganda, was published with funds from Munich, Maloney said the government would prove.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

London: Britain's revised war cabinet, reduced from nine to seven members, is a partial concession to popular demand. Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, was given a high place. He is lord privy seal and Churchill's deputy as leader of the house of commons.

Washington: Secretary Ickes said he was going to try a voluntary curtailment of the use of gasoline.

ARUBA:

History Made

The first war deaths on American soil occurred at the Dutch island of Aruba shortly after American troops had arrived there to take over its defenses.

Two days after the arrival of these troops had been announced, German submarines attacked the harbor, sank or damaged seven tankers with a loss of 59 seamen, and then shelled the big Standard Oil refinery on shore.

American planes took the air, spotted the subs and reported afterward that they had reason to believe at least one of them was sent to the bottom.

Two days later, after the damage had been checked up and gone over, a dud torpedo, 18 feet long, was found on the harbor sands.

Immediately identified as a German torpedo, four Dutch officers were assigned to the delicate task of taking it apart.

In the midst of their work it exploded, killing them all. They were the first casualties on land in the American hemisphere.

In the meantime the torpedoings in the Atlantic were continuing heavy, including the first sinking of a Brazilian ship in the present war.

This was the liner Buarque, a combination freight and passenger ship, sent to the bottom off the coast of Virginia. The sinking was not immediately announced in Brazil, as it was the annual carnival time, and the government was afraid that serious rioting against Axis nationals might occur. The ship carried 74 in the crew and 11 passengers. Two were lost; 83 saved.

RESULTS:

In Marshall Islands

When an assault force of U. S. cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers, commanded by Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, attacked

Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the U. S. naval force that carried out the brilliant raid on Japanese bases, as he looks over the charts on which he plotted the action against the Japs.

Japanese bases in the Gilbert and Marshall islands they caused substantial losses to the enemy: 38 airplanes, one converted aircraft carrier, one light cruiser, one destroyer, two submarines, two naval auxiliaries and three fleet oil tankers. Damaged "and perhaps destroyed" by U. S. attackers were three submarines, four auxiliary vessels and an old cruiser.

OIL:

Both Sides Lose

The destruction of oil installations in the East Indies, which had been carried out well by the Dutch as each more or less important spot fell to the Japs, had been terrific at Palembang, where the entire countryside was covered with a pall of smoke when the refineries were blown up and wells blasted.

Yet it was a two-edged sword, the Dutch admitting that in about six months, with good fortune, the Japs could manage to repair much of the damage and begin to resupply themselves with oil.

And in the meantime the oil was lost to the Allied fleets, which had been fueling from the Dutch supplies.

And as oil was the principal vital necessity for which the Japs originally had started the war, and as a supply of it would conceivably permit them to continue fighting indefinitely, or at least until a major defeat by the Allied forces, the extent of the disaster in the Indies might be seen.

Honolulu: The U. S. destroyer Shaw, reported destroyed by the Japs at Pearl Harbor, was sufficiently repaired in two months to make the journey to a West Coast shipyard under her own power, and was being reconditioned there.

Washington: Sale of light airplanes had been restricted by WPB only to the army, navy and a few other specified purchasers.

Resigns From OCD

Mayris Chaney, professional dancer, whose appointment to the physical fitness program of the Office of Civilian Defense provoked congressional wrath, as she dictated her resignation to OCD Director James M. Landis. "Because I wish no further altercation which might cause disunity and delay," she wrote, "I wish to step aside if it is your will."

MAC ARTHUR:

Increased Bombardment

Despite a number of strong appeals that General MacArthur be taken out of Luzon for a more important command, Washington had let it be known that no such move was afoot.

While new heroes were being made daily, the Congressional Medal of Honor having been voted to a Filipino mess sergeant, Washington asserted that it was the general's own wish to remain with his faithful troops as long as it was possible to carry on the good fight.

The mess sergeant was Jose Calugas, who received the highest award within the giving power of the government. The citation told how, when an American gun was put out of action, Calugas, not even in that outfit, ran 1,000 yards without orders, entirely beyond his duty, and under heavy enemy fire, to the gun. Arrived there he called for volunteers, and himself organized a gun crew, put the gun back into action again, and continued at his new post as long as the battle continued.

The fall of Singapore had evidently released many Japanese planes for the battle of Luzon.

Washington, quizzed as to why air reinforcements were not being sent to Bataan, stated that "plenty of bombers" would have been sent "if we had any way of getting them there."

SUGAR:

Big Printing Job

The government printing office had been presented its biggest job in history, the making of 700,000,000 sugar rationing cards, which should be in the public's hands on March 7. Word was that the printing department was "well abreast of the task" and Price Administrator Henderson had been photographed looking over the first sheet actually to come from the presses.

While the GPO (another bit of the Washington alphabet) was in charge of the printing, it was farming out a lot of the presswork.

The job takes into consideration the fact that there are 131,000,000 people in the nation, and a book and application form is being printed for each.

The first big job was to get paper that would not make the job easy for counterfeiters.

It took six paper mills to do this part of the job. Three hundred and fifty printing firms bid on the presswork for the sugar cards. Twenty-three firms were finally selected.

RUMORS:

Condemned by FDR

Praising to the skies a front-page cartoon in the Washington Star which excoriated the peddling of rumors which tended toward disunity, President Roosevelt had told his press conference that this was a dastardly practice and one in which the city of Washington itself was the worst offender.

Type of thing he meant, he said, included "wisecracks" like "Britain will fight to the last American" and arm-chair generalship like "We ought to get out of the South Pacific, we can't win there," and "Why help the Russians, they'll turn on us later."

The fall of Singapore and the escape of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prince Eugen from Brest to Heligoland Bight, two major disasters that had befallen the British, had caused a storm of this.

It had been Churchill, very much of the spot, and facing the most severe press criticism of his career, who had coined the phrase "better a millstone around his neck and that he be cast into the sea" than to create disunity.

BILLIONS:

The biggest appropriation bill in history, 32 billions of dollars for the war, equivalent to all the money the United States put out during the First World War, lumped into a single bill for immediate use in this one, went through congress without a dissenting vote.

It was interesting that the plans of Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, to resign, and the fact that congress was willing to repeal its own pension legislation were sort of "by-products" of the vote.

It's Not Such a Long Way to Tipperary Now

An historical occasion—the vanguard of the great American Expeditionary force promised to Britain by President Roosevelt, lands at a North Ireland port. At left is a general view as first troops land. Right: Men of the first A.E.F. of World War II march through the streets of the unidentified Ulster city at which they landed, after safe voyage across the Atlantic. Inset: The duke of Abercorn, governor of Northern Ireland, raises his hand in salute as A.E.F. soldiers disembark.

It Blows Hot and Cold for Hitler's Hordes

South African troops of the British imperial forces make a close examination (left) of a huge German Mark 4 tank captured in the desert. Of especial interest is the huge short-barreled cannon mounted in the side of the tank. By way of contrast, picture at right gives some idea of the intense cold of the Russian-German battlefield. Red-army machine gunners were photographed in the firing-line as they slowly pressed the German hordes back.

Scanning Western Sky for Hostile Wings

For the first time since the days of the Civil War, the Pacific coast, the only part of the continental United States so designated, has become a theater of war. Throughout this district the armed forces are on a constant alert. Above photo, showing 155-mm. gun, illustrates the activity.

Forced Landing

Two marine fliers escaped injury when this low-wing monoplane buried its nose in the recreational area of Fairlawn park, Anacostia, Washington, D. C. The aviators were Maj. R. D. Salmon and Staff Sgt. Andrew Marshall.

Preparing for Second Attack on Hawaii

This approved picture shows U. S. army tanks maneuvering over the rough terrain of the Hawaiian islands, as troops in occupation prepare for future eventualities. A hot reception is assured for all comers—if and when.

Masking the Bushman

This photo, made in Australian territory, shows a native being introduced to that blessing of modern civilization, the gas mask. The warrior seemed quite pleased with it.

EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION OF NATION'S WEALTH

WITHIN THE PAST 40 years men employed in factories making wagons and carriages have seen their jobs disappear. The invention and development of the automobile was responsible for that. Within the past 25 years men who laboriously produced automobiles one at a time have seen their jobs disappear. Mass production did that.

Today several times the number of men who were employed at making wagons and carriages, or many times the number employed at making automobiles one at a time, were employed at the mass production of automobiles until the government stopped the manufacture of cars. Invention of the automobile, or the machines that made its mass production possible, increased employment, made more jobs.

But it did more than that. In the days of wagons and carriages not more than one out of each 20 people owned a wagon or a carriage. Today there is an automobile for one out of each four people in this country.

The invention of the automobile and cheaper methods of producing it created more national wealth and made a more equitable distribution of that increased wealth possible. To do that there had to be great factories, financed by the combined investments of many thousands of people, and managed by men who know how.

SELF-CENTERED LOT

WE HUMANS are a self-centered lot of individuals. Each thinks of himself as being of importance to the other fellow, but not of the other fellow as being of importance to him. We do not accept responsibility for any failure, but acclaim what success we may achieve. We are prone to monopolize any conversation with details of our own small affairs. We resent the other fellow talking about himself. It might be a more interesting world if we could each put ourselves in our own proper niche, but we cannot, or will not, do that.

MILLION DOLLAR INCOMES TODAY

IN AMERICA there are less than 50 individuals with incomes of as much as one million dollars a year. This year each of these people with a million-dollar income will pay to the United States government as income taxes five-sixths of a million dollars, or a total of $833,333 each. Out of what is left they must pay local and state taxes, including in many states, the state income tax. Such people feel they are numbered among the "forgotten men."

DAIRY FARMERS AND MINE WORKERS

MICHIGAN dairy farmers are being organized into a union to be affiliated with the United Mine Workers. The organizer is said to be drawing $10,000 a year as a salary, and a woman assistant is receiving $7,500. That is said to be but a start at unionizing agriculture, and it will not be long before every "hired man" must show a paid-up union card, or get off the job. I wonder if the government will attempt to collect the dues for the union by withholding from farm relief or parity payments. Who would have thought five years ago that farmers would be accepting John L. Lewis as an overlord boss? It just does not seem possible, but it is happening.

—Buy Defense Bonds—
GENERAL MacARTHUR'S heroic men were fighting an "all out" war for us. They were on the job 24 hours a day, seven days a week. They were not demanding the maintenance of "social gains" of eight hours a day and five days a week. They were not, fortunately for us, subject to the orders of a union boss. They were willing to, and did, sacrifice that America might win.

TWENTY-TWO MILLION Americans are this year paying directly to run the United States government and to help finance the war. Ninety per cent of these have incomes of less than $15,000 a year. It is no longer the rich who are paying the taxes. Practically all the adult males, and a goodly proportion of the adult females are seeing the tax collector.

THERE IS something radically wrong with our system of government when in exchange for the privilege of naming a postmaster, a representative in congress will vote to impose an unnecessary burden of debt on those who employed him—the voters of his state or district.

WHEN GOVERNMENT takes over industry, it will also take over labor, and that may happen in the not-too-distant future. When it does, labor will work "where," "when," "at what" and "for what" government dictates. That is what happened in Russia, Germany, Japan and Italy.

MANY AN EXECUTIVE fails because he is more interested in how the accountant folds his pen than in the accomplishment of getting the entries into the ledger.

From Defense to Offense Is a Tough Job for U. S.

Enemy Must Be Kept From 'Breaking Through' While United Nations Build Up Overwhelming Superiority.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

"Mr. President, there has been a good deal of comment lately to the effect that the American people are complacent about the way the war is going. Have you any comment, sir?"

There was quiet in the oval office. The hundred or so men and the three or four women representing newspapers, press associations, radio networks and radio stations were quiet. The President leaned back, put his cigarette with its long holder in his mouth and let his eyes wander upward toward the great seal of the United States on the ceiling of his office in the White House.

It was the day when the startling news that Singapore, the Gibraltar of the East, for the first time had felt the boot of the invader within its bastioned confines. We all realized that any comment the President might make would indirectly reflect the seriousness of the whole Far Eastern situation.

At last he answered, speaking slowly—choosing his words—clearly, so that the rapidly moving pencils could get each word.

I cannot quote him directly because that is forbidden. He answered that the complacency charge was partly just—but that every day the people were becoming more realistic in their thinking. He said that they had begun to realize that this is a world-encircling war.

Machinery of Defense Must Be Built Up

And so we were told from the highest source that we had learned already from the military who do not mince words, who do not indulge in wishful thinking—that America must be content to accept reverses, must humbly accept the role of defense on all fronts until we have built the machinery of offense.

It so happened that on the very day on which I heard the President speak these words I visited a tiny room in a cheap apartment house made over into offices. A busy beehive, the lobby was crowded with men with brief cases. I was reminded of the hectic days of 1933 when the Blue Eagle was spreading its wings, when American business was getting its first taste of regulation at the hands of the NRA. Then the emergency had forced even the most individualistic to toss aside the demands of rugged individualism.

Today in the face of another emergency, business was once more facing strict regulation. The men I saw in the lobby of this shabby building were exporters seeking licenses from the Board of Economic Warfare—for not a dollar's worth of goods can leave this country now if the BEW doesn't want it to.

But this is only one small function of the board. It has a hundred facets. And unlike our armies and our navy today it is waging offensive warfare.

It has launched a great offensive on the economic front. To look over the board's activities in a single day you might see listed projects to build a railroad in a foreign country, to weigh to the last ounce some strategic material that a foreign country produces, to survey in accurate figures just how much of a certain product may be spared from America's own supply to turn over to another country in return for some valuable commodity or service that we need to further our war effort. Or, again, there might be a project to block the sources from which one of the enemy powers is replenishing its own supply.

Argentina—An Example

For example: The United States needs the co-operation of Argentina, a country upon which the Nazis have lavished every favor possible, upon which they have used to the limit the persuasive power and dire threats of Herr Goebbels. The purpose is to keep a close relationship between the man who pulls the strings in Buenos Aires and the men who direct the destinies of the Reich.

Before war made an omelet of the world's trade, Argentina bought from America 8 per cent of all the steel she imported. Much of the other 94 per cent came from the Axis. Now virtually all of the supply of this essential material is cut off except what the United States can spare from the terrific demands our shipyards and arsenals are making.

But without steel, Argentina's wheels would cease to run, public utilities would disintegrate, the country would be an easy prey to any subversive influence. And so, with a finely sharpened pencil, the experts in the BEW find some steel, recommend to the War Production board that it be spared for the Argentine.

Another example: We need rubber. There are plenty of rubber trees in South America. We can make some synthetic rubber in our laboratories, but we need natural rubber to mix with it. It takes more than money to get rubber out of those trees deep in the jungles of the Amazon.

And imagination has been used. Imagination to realize that in order to get the labor to harvest the rubber, the half-starved, sickly Indians who provide this labor must be given better food, healthier surroundings, conditions which will make them and others want to work to earn the money. The things which they can buy with the wages they earn must be made available.

And so, hundreds of mosquito chasers are already working to remove the material mosquito that makes life hazardous in the rubber jungles.

Experts to help start dairy farms to provide vitamin-giving milk to build up the weakened bodies, are being dispatched to South America.

'Social' Conditions in Washington

The war has created many serious social conditions in Washington.

But one situation which few have noticed and which threatened for a time a minor revolution, I think I can predict, will shortly be greatly ameliorated. This is the tale (and it's a bushy one).

War required certain building operations on the White House grounds. Among other things—the only one which I can discuss freely because of the censorship—was the construction of a little building which looked like a soft-drink stand where the shivering detectives who help the extra police who guard the great iron gate to the presidential grounds, can warm themselves. But there were other more expensive undertakings. This construction considerably hampered the activities of White House visitors. Also White House residents.

One of the oldest retainers on this ancient estate is a trusted friend of mine, head of a rather flighty clan, but himself a very responsible patriarch who has given me many an important story.

He is the Old Gray Squirrel who lives in the Elm.

He, with most of his clan was virtually dispossessed while the construction work I mentioned (or rather I am not allowed to mention) went on. Another old resident who lives or rather pursues his business just outside the White House fence and with whom the Old Gray Squirrel has a very close working arrangement, had to move too. He is Steve. Steve runs a peanut stand. You may see the connection.

Steve moved across Pennsylvania avenue to Lafayette park. The Old Gray Squirrel and his family followed. Then trouble began. For the Old Gray Squirrel is a snob. He doesn't mix with common squirrels and Lafayette park is full of them. They don't understand White House protocol. They would push up to the head of the line and try to steal peanuts from the donor's hand right out of the Old Gray Squirrel's mouth. This made trouble.

For some days I thought murder would be committed. Mayhem was. In fact, one of the Lafayette crowds has lost his brush, a clean but undignified operation although too close for comfort or beauty.

But fortunately the workmen on the White House lawn have gone now. Soon Steve will take up his ancient post. Already the Old Gray Squirrel is scurrying back and forth across Pennsylvania avenue removing the nuts he had carefully interred in the park to a safer and more exclusive burial place. Revolution has been averted.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

¶ In 1940 there were 950,000 women describing themselves as experienced workers who, according to the 1940 census, were seeking work. These women will be the nucleus which the labor division of the War Production board expects to call upon to fill the labor shortage expected when we are all tooling up for all-out war production.

¶ There is a new basis of values for the old jalopy that has puffed its last—it cannot be sold at a price higher than it would be worth as scrap at the mill.

¶ There is no shortage of black ink at present. After this year's income taxes are paid I wonder how the red ink supply will be.

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sanderson of Northwood and Mrs. John Soller of East Jordan who had attended the funeral of Mr. Al Warda in East Jordan Tuesday afternoon went to call on Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kistman, very intimate friends and getting no response from their call, opened the door and walked in to find Mr. Kistman, who had been in poor health, dead beside the couch. There was no sign of any struggle. He had just slipped away. Mrs. Kistman had stepped on her way home from the funeral and had not arrived yet. Mrs. Kistman has been a great help in the Star Sunday School and the sympathy of the whole community goes out to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loomis of Gravel Hill, north side, called on Evert "Hob" Jarvina who is recovering from a siege of illness at the Co. Infirmary, Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Hayden of Pleasant View farm called on him Sunday. He is coming along fine and will be ready to come to his own home as soon as the weather gets warmer.

The Extension Club leaders — Mrs. Christina Loomis of Gravel Hill, north side and Mrs. Myrtle Bricker of Mountain Dist., took the lesson in Boyne City Friday and will have the meeting at the Star Community Building Thursday beginning promptly at 1:00 o'clock P. M. February 26. All members are urged to be present and on time.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McDonald of Three Bells Dist. received announcement of the birth of a son February 19, to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy McChure at Durand, Michigan, who will answer to the name of James Tracy. Mrs. McChure was formerly Opal McDonald of Three Bells Dist.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Hayden and younger children of Pleasant View farm joined a dinner party at Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boyer's in Chaddock Dist. Sunday. Besides them, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Boyer of Boyne City and the Misses Lorraine and Jonna Kulas of Big Rapids were there. They had a very pleasant time.

The Misses Beryl Bennett and Arlene Hayden of Star Sunday School went to East Jordan with Mr. and Mrs. John Soller right after Sunday School, February 22 to take part in the Washington's birthday program at the Presbyterian Church. They planned to spend the night with Mrs. Mary Hitebeck.

There was a cake walk at The Star Community Building Saturday evening February 21, which was very much enjoyed and netted $10. They plan to start fortnightly parties of some kind in about four weeks, beginning with a bingo party March 21.

Orval Bennett has lost several pigs from an early litter apparently from an accident. Those having or expecting early broods will do well to see the bulletin on pig feeding from the County Agent and study up. It might be the means of saving them.

A letter received last week from James H. Gresham, an old resident of Peninsula stated that he is wintering in Blenheim, Ont. Although he had a severe illness before Christmas he was able to drive his car again. He is along in the eighties.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Healey of the Willo Brook farm received a letter last week from their father, Chas. Healey who is wintering in Florida, stating six of them are clubbing together and taking a 600 mile trip through Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Westerman and family of the F. H. Wagonman place spent Sunday afternoon with the David and Will Gault families in Three Bells Dist. Mrs. Robert Myers, Mountain Dist. was there also.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Hayden, Pleasant View farm, and Mrs. J. W. Hayden of Orchard Hill called on Mr. and Mrs. Wm. in Boyne City Saturday a. m. and found them nicely settled in their new home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Vale Gee of East Jordan at the Charlevoix Hospital, February 16, a son, Mrs. Gee was formerly Vera Staley of Sorey Ridge farm. Congratulations from the Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nicoy of Sunbloss farm had a letter from their son, Curtis, who is in the Ordinance Service from Savannah, Ga. He was transferred from the Pacific Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Boyer and little son of Boyne City visited Mrs. Boyer's mother, Mrs. Elmer Faust in Three Bells Dist. Sunday and called at Pleasant View farm later.

The Evelyn Twp. Caucus will be held at the Ironton Grange Hall on Monday, March 2 at 2:00 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of nominating Twp. officers.

M. C. Bricker of Bricker's Mill called on his brother, Earl Bricker in Mountain Dist. Wednesday.

There were 24 in attendance at the Star Sunday School February 21 in spite of the very cold wind.

A car-load of government corn came to Boyne City Tuesday and several farmers got varying amounts.

Texas Longhorn Not to Die Out

Herd of 145 of Picturesque Cattle Cared For in Wildlife Refuge.

WASHINGTON. — At one time nearly the whole plains country from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border "belonged" to the longhorn. Today, according to the bureau of biological survey, fewer than 250 real Texas longhorn cattle are in existence.

The largest herd now is at the Wichita Mountains wildlife refuge near Cache, Okla., where about 145 of these picturesque animals roam the ranges under the biological survey's protection. Eighteen longhorns are on the Fort Niobara game preserve near Valentine, Neb., and others are in private ownership.

The cattle at the Wichita refuge descend from 30 longhorns brought to the area in 1927, when it was administered by the forest service. One member of that original herd from the coastal plains of Texas still lives—"Old Red," a gaunt cow more than 20 years old.

Longhorns may be described as leggy, hardy, active animals with long keen horns and an aggressive disposition. In color they range from black, brindle, dun, spotted, buckskin, red, roan, and white to various combinations of these colors. Special characteristics are coarse hairs about the forehead and in the ears, and a fish-shaped prominence of the bone along the top of the rump just back of a line across the hipbones.

Breed Slower to Develop.

Slow to grow, a longhorn requires two or three more years to attain maturity than do other breeds of cattle. As long as the animal grows, the horns continue growing. On record are horns with spreads of six, seven and even eight feet, from tip to tip.

Saga of the longhorn goes back to 1521, when the first cattle were brought to American shores by Gregorio Villalobos, a governor-general sent to "New Spain." John Hatton, of the forest service and probably the outstanding living authority on longhorns, states that "these Spanish calves were the progenitors of the millions of leghorns that spread from Vera Cruz northerly over the coastal plains of Texas and the plains region of the Far West.

They became the pioneers of our western cattle industry."

After the Civil war these cattle were still numerous. Then live stock breeders, however, began raising heavier, beefier cattle, and by 1923 it became apparent that only prompt action could save the Texas longhorn from extinction.

Attention was forcefully called to this fact by the late Will C. Barnes, public official, author and one-time cowman, who made it evident that the longhorn was "dying out" and should be preserved.

Wide Survey Made.

Barnes and John Hufton began a long trek back in July, 1927, in search of longhorns when they were working with the forest service. Not until the quest got under way did live stock breeders realize how close to extinction the longhorn was. In their efforts, the two foresters traveled more than 5,000 miles and examined more than 30,000 head of Texas cattle before they collected a herd of suitable specimens of the longhorn type.

Little by little, a herd of 20 cows, three bulls, three steers, and four calves was collected and shipped to the Wichita refuge, in August, 1927. From this nucleus of 30 the herd has increased to 145.

Longhorns are not a scrub breed, as many people think. Under favorable conditions, these cattle will develop into large, often fat animals.

Confusion of War Aids

Struggling Young Doctor

LONDON.—A young London doctor, who only a few months ago was barely able to pay his office rent, now holds a high government position—and all because of a mistake.

Shortly after the outbreak of war, he received a letter from the ministry of health appointing him to take charge of a children's department outside of London.

Almost overcome with surprise and joy at being recognized by the government, the young man left London to take up his new post.

Later, it was discovered that it was a well-known Harley street specialist of the same name for whom the letter was intended, but by this time the young doctor was making such a good job of his new work that his appointment was regularized.

Dry Raiders Are Busy

On Prince Edward Isle

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.—Prince Edward Island—only province in Canada still under prohibition—plans to stay dry, even though thousands of troops are in training here. Military officers approve of the dry laws.

Artillery officers and Royal Canadian Mounted police have been conducting a series of raids through the capital, but as yet no bootleg liquor has been found. In one blind pig, however, what was described as a "considerable quantity" of military equipment, evidently traded in to liquor, was recovered.

E. J. Canning Company's Warehouse Destroyed by Fire

Fourteen Tons of Sugar Carried to Safety. Charlevoix Dept. Aids. Detective Sargent VanConant Declares Cause of Fire Was Spontaneous Combustion.

Fire, early Wednesday evening, destroyed the East Jordan Canning Company's storage warehouse, causing damage estimated somewhere between $70,000 and $80,000, with a possibility that some of the foodstuffs may be salvaged.

Detective Sargent VanConant of the Michigan State Police arrived on the scene at midnight. After an investigation he determined that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion in the stock of fibre packing cases, which were piled flat in the rear of the building. He stated that there was no evidence of sabotage, which was the prevailing rumor at the time of the fire.

The fire, East Jordan's worst since the High School burned last March 13th, was first noticed at 5:45 p. m. It had already gained enough headway and spread over considerable space that the attempt to bring it under control was futile. The fact that the building was insulated also hampered firemen in their efforts to get to the fire quickly. Members of the Charlevoix Fire Dept. responded immediately to a call and altogether eight lines of hose were played on the flames, thus saving all adjoining buildings.

Firemen cut a hole thru the front of the warehouse, on the second floor and, with the aid of townspeople, fourteen and one-half tons of sugar were passed down and carried to safety. Also saved were a quantity of flour, dextrose and seed beans, shipping labels, etc. It is hoped that some of the canned stock may be salvaged.

A rumor that two refrigerator cars were loaded for shipment and in the building proved false.

Small children were having a picnic at the rear of the building where most of the canned goods were exploding. Grabbing the cans as soon as they landed, the children would roll them into Brown's creek to cool, then eat the beets, beans, cherries, etc.

A certain amount of insurance was carried and it will be several days before the true extent of the loss will be known.

Weather Summary for 1941

Nineteen forty one gave us the wettest October since 1887, when Michigan records began. East Jordan had a rainfall of 6.29 inches.

The warmest day last year was July 24, at 99°. The coldest was just 6 months earlier, Jan. 24, at 17 below.

Total rainfall for the year was 33.62", which was .05 inch over a 16 year average. The driest month was March with 6.9". There was a total of 64 inches of snow.

You needed your sun-glasses for 142 days, it was partly cloudy 66 days, and you needed vitamin tablets in lieu of the sun for 157 days. The wind blew more from the South West than any other quarter.

The last killing frost in the spring was May 24 and the first frost in the fall came on Oct. 11.

Except the surplus of rain in October there were no records for high or low temperature, high winds, etc.

George Washington's fixed agreement with his tenant farmers called for certain number of acres to be "planted in apple trees, and kept fenced and in good-tillth."

They stood on the gravel beach and Blaise pointed across the lake to the western hills where a dull glow streaked the violet sky.

"Why, it's a forest fire!" exclaimed Finlay.

"You suppose Wabistan's behind this?"

"That's just what I suppose, Red!"

On the second day the yellow smudge of sun glowed dully through a shroud of smoke. Leaving Lise in camp, the three men, with Patamish, started in the Peterboro for Isadore's.

They landed below the post and put Patamish ashore to find Lise's hidden clothes bag, learn what he could and return at once.

"What's that, Garry?"

"It's that overdue plane! Come on! He's caught and can't see where to set her down!"

"Give him three shots, Red! He could circle and set her down south of us if this breeze would only stiffen!"

The Lee-Enfield crashed three times.

"He heard our shots!" He's circling! With the rush of a great bird the plane shot past the canoe, caught the water with a splash and bobbed on ahead to disappear into the smoke haze.

Finlay shook his lifted paddle. "We've got him! Come on! They may start hunting him from Isadore's."

As the boat moved up to a pontoon a voice called from the open door of the cabin fuselage: "That you, Isadore? I've been lost two hours hunting—"

"Don't move a hand!" Red rasped. "Come out on the pontoon, one hand in the air!"

"What the—what's wrong here!" objected the astonished pilot. "This is Waswanipi, ain't it? Where's Isadore?"

"Come out on—that—pontoon—or—"

"Say, what's this, a case of high-jack? Who are you birds? Where's Isadore?"

Finlay flung back from the door of the fuselage: "We're Mounted Police and you're under arrest!"

"Good Gawd!" The pilot's face dropped into his hands.

Finlay peered into the freight compartment of the plane. "Look, Red! She's loaded with cases."

"Now what in the devil's this stuff?"

"Red," announced Garry, opening the tinny wrapper of the package in his hand, "these are nothing else than bricks of opium, worth one hundred and fifty dollars apiece in Amsterdam. What Isadore gets for them, God only knows! We've struck Isadore's gold, Red! And what a strike!"

Red's blue eyes bulged as he stared at the opium brick in Finlay's hand. "Well, I'll be hamstrung! Faking a gold strike on the river to cover his smuggling dope from a ship on the Bay! That clears up a heap!"

"It does more. We've solved by accident the most baffling case of narcotic smuggling in the history of the Dominion police. They've been watching the seaports for years for this stuff. It was sent from Europe by a schooner to Hudson's Bay, flown here and then south. Don't you realize that this means a citation and promotion for us both?"

Garry's face sobered with mock gravity. "You will remember, Constable Malone, that we have suspected this from the day we reached Waswanipi and have hung on by our teeth for the sole purpose of capturing this shipment and breaking up this ring of smugglers."

"In a bear's left eye I will! We've been after Isadore for murder and still are. But chief, Mrs. Thistle Malone will never know that her red-headed husband isn't as clever as he looks."

Towing the plane, they groped their way into a cove and anchored it to makeshift buoys. At the camp on the mainland Wabistan was waiting.

"If the wind holds, the fire will reach Isadore's," said Finlay.

Wabistan's face wore the innocent look of a child. "Yes, Isadore will burn."

"You set that fire, chief!"

A pained expression spread over the gnarled features of the old man. He shook his head in dissent.

Finlay's eyes twinkled. "Whoever did it, chief, was a personal friend of mine. The fire will take most of Isadore's men into the bush, today, and give us our chance. Now, let's move."

Finlay and Red, wearing service blouses, belts and Stetson hats, hurried with Blaise to the living quarters. They stood in the doorway of the large living room. At a table on which stood bottles and glasses, two men sat arguing with voices hoarse from prolonged drinking.

"We've got to get out of here, right away!" A large man with a soft face, white from indoor living, pounded his fist on the table, unconscious of the two watching in the doorway. "Jules, this place is doomed! Look at the smoke outside!"

Isadore, who sat with back to the doorway, sneered: "That's from the back-fire Tete-Blanche started! Felix, you're yellow! It won't reach us! We'll stop it on the ridge."

"I'm going to get out, I tell you!" whined Blondell.

"You're drunk!" snarled Isadore. Then, catching the raw terror in Blondell's stare, he wheeled in his chair to meet Finlay's stone-hard face.

"Good afternoon, gentlemen!"

Isadore sat frozen. "Mounted Police! So this is what you were? Damn me for a fool!"

"Okay!" snapped Malone.

The police approached the two waiting men.

"Keep your hands still, Isadore!" snarled Red.

"We've got your plane from the Bay!" Finlay bit off. "That gives us our motive. Didn't want it known in Montreal—that plane from the north! Don't blame you! They've been wondering where that dope came from! Well, you're going to hang for those six men!"

Isadore shook his head as he met the stab of Finlay's pitiless eyes. "No, Jules Isadore will never hang!"

The sound of voices in the rear of the house put the police on their guard. "Watch this door!" warned Malone as he flattened against the wall beside the closed door.

The door was swung wide and, covered with char and soot, the panting Tete-Blanche stared into the room.

His smudged face flamed as his bloodshot eyes marked Finlay standing over the two men. Ignoring the 45, with a lightning movement the half-breed reached behind his back and flung his hand forward with a grunt. The knife sang like an arrow past the chest of the dodging Finlay, who held his fire, and stuck quivering in the wall beyond.

"The white-haired boy, at last!" With a roar Red dove from the side at the surprised breed, hurling him headlong into the room. Like a cat Tete-Blanche gained his feet and closed with the trooper.

"Don't move!" bit off Finlay, covering Isadore with his 45 as the two fought across the room.

The killer was powerful and slippery as a snake. Winding his legs around Malone's, they went to the floor with a crash. Fighting with the strength of despair again and again Tete-Blanche wriggled out of the jiu-jitsu grips Red started to put on him. Then the enraged Malone wrenched his right hand free and hunched his fist into Tete-Blanche's jaw. But the panting killer only snarled and redoubled his efforts to break the trooper's hold.

By sheer strength the infuriated Mountie pinned his man to the floor, forced back his chin and jammed his thumbs deep into the vital pneumo-gastric nerves under the jaw. A shudder ran through the half-breed and he lay helpless from the shock. Malone lifted him, rose, and hurled him—headlong into the stone fireplace.

"There's your killer, Isadore! He'll shoot no more boys from ambush! Take him! He's yours!" Isadore's face was drained of color as his dulled eyes stared at the sprawled heap on the hearth. Then he slowly nodded as he muttered: "Yes, there he is! There he is! A'voir, good and faithful servant!"

With a quick movement his hand shot to the desk drawer, tumbled, then found his mouth before the surprised Finlay seized him. He swallowed twice, then sneered into Finlay's face: "No rope for Jules Isadore! I prefer prussic to hemp! Good-night, gentlemen!"

"Tie the hands of that lump of flesh in the chair by the name of Blondell, and we'll find Blaise. We must work fast or we'll be caught."

Finlay hurried to the shore where he found Wabistan at the boats, with the prisoners and coughing women, their heads swathed in wet cloths. Corinne rushed to him.

"Lise!" she cried. "Is she safe?"

"Yes, she swam to the island! I'll take you to her!" Garry turned to Red. "Quick! Hop into that ship and see that the pilot taxis her to the island!"

In the morning the hum of an engine drew Garry and Blaise to the shore.

"Who can it be, Red? Isadore wasn't expecting another plane."

"Red grinned. "Not that I know of!"

Finlay scratched his head, then turned to Blaise: "I forgot to ask you. What became of Batoche? I asked Wabistan but none of his men had seen him."

Blaise slowly traced the white scar across his temple with a thick finger. "Batoche, he come and crawl around to look in front window. Den I reach him!"

"Where are your glasses, Red?" His eyes snapping with amusement Malone handed his glasses to his chief.

"Blue body! Yellow wings! Why, it's one of ours, Red! It's a police plane! The Mounties are here!"

The plane was set down and taxied up to the waiting canoe.

The cabin door opened and a red-jacketed man with a grizzled moustache leaned out and waved. "Hi, Sergeant Finlay! Are you all right?"

Garry Finlay thrilled with pride as he replied: "Everything okay, Inspector Haldane!"

Shortly Finlay was telling his story to the inspector and the four men of the rescue party. When he finished, Haldane enthusiastically reached and clapped him on the back.

"Do you realize what you've done against what looked like hopeless odds? You two men have broken the biggest ring of opium smugglers the Canadian police have ever had to deal with!"

Later, when good-bys had been said, Wabistan sat in the Peterboro loaded with supplies which Finlay had given him. With Mikis and Patamish, he waded to the climbing-plane carrying Garry, Lise and Corinne.

Followed by the two planes carrying Red, Blaise and the prisoners, bound for Matagami to take the depositions of McNab and his head man, the police plane circled into the west. For a space in silence Finlay gazed back into the northeast where dim, blue hills marked the Waswanipi valley. Lise watched him curiously as he stiffened, lifted his hand in salute and said:

"Good-by, Bob! The Chibougamau Trail is clear!"

Once more he was covered with confusion, and once more he stopped, and mopped his face.

Then he gathered his courage in both hands, and with a mighty effort he finished triumphantly:

"And for three days and three nights Jonah was in the society of the whale!"

Who Wouldn't Come to a Dinner Like This?
(See Recipes Below)

Accent on Dinner

Dinner is the master meal of the day and as such requires the most masterful stroke the homemaker can apply. With time unlimited, this master stroke is not so hard to bring into play, but with days like these which are filled to the utmost with activity of all kinds, time-saving hints and ideas for dinner are important.

Planning a meal which can all be baked is both time and money saving. If you're pinched for silver and aluminum for cooking and serving, you can use glasswares for both the cooking and serving.

Today I'm discussing a dinner that is equally adaptable for either a family or company dinner. It's one of those meals that you won't forget because it's always bound to be successful from the point of view of appetite appeal, ease in serving and ease in cooking. Tuck these ideas where they won't gather dust, for they'll gather fame more easily.

*Lamb Roast.

(Serves 8 to 10)
5 to 6-pound leg of lamb
Garlic clove or slice of onion
Salt and pepper

Have a leg of lamb boned and tied. Wipe with a damp cloth but do not remove fell, the parchment-like covering over the meat. Rub garlic or onion (or onion salt, if you have neither of those) over the meat, then rub salt and pepper. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven, allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. If a heat resistant glass platter is used, the lamb may be served from that.

*Franconia Potatoes.

(Serves 8 to 10)
8 to 10 medium-sized potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Cook potatoes in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and place in the oven around the meat to finish roasting, about 40 minutes. Pour melted butter and chopped parsley over potatoes when done. Arrange with whole, cooked carrots on platter and serve.

A hot bread on a cool evening adds plenty of staccato to the menu, and I would advise serving it often. This one is especially appropriate for the menu today because your oven will be hot and you can bake it before you put in the meat.

Lynn Says:

Trying to tackle the winter vegetable problem? Here's a parade of suggestions that will prop up your meals:

Baked squash with small white onions baked in the hollow. A bit of cream sauce added just before serving to the onions will also perk up this dish. Sprinkle with paprika for color.

Carrots: glaze these with brown sugar and butter when baking. For cooked carrots add a bit of tartness with lemon juice. Serve canned or cooked lima beans with this smart mustard sauce: 4 tablespoons butter mixed with 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon ground mustard and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Beets like to be teamed up with a Harvard sauce. Thicken the beet liquid with cornstarch and add a bit of grated orange rind and juice for delightful variation.

Sprinkle cooked asparagus with grated Swiss cheese and brown under the broiler.

Parsnips: parboil these, then dip in egg and bread crumbs. Fry until a golden brown.

Turnips: cook and mash. Season with butter, salt and pepper and a dash of nutmeg.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE PARABLES BY THE SEA

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:26-32; Matthew 13:44-50.
GOLDEN TEXT—Never man spake like this man.—John 7:46.

Parables as a means of conveying truth reached perfection in the hands of the Master Teacher, Jesus. Taking short stories of well-known events or facts from daily life, He presented profound truth in the most simple and attractive form.

Except for the parable of the four kinds of seed which He interpreted (Matt. 13:18-23). He left it to His listeners to make their own application. This has led to some difference of opinion, but in general the parables are received as excellent and helpful portions of God's Word.

In the two passages of Scripture assigned for our lesson, we have five parables, each with a distinctive message, yet together pointing out that there is a time of growth leading to harvest and judgment, and that our gracious God has at great cost provided a way of redemption.

I. Normal Growth Is Blessed (Mark 4:26-29).

God is patient. He awaits the normal, healthy, steady growth of the seed. Man is so impatient he must have forced growth, artificial stimulation, and even artificial ripening of the fruit.

The same attitude enters into his care of his children. They must get ahead in school beyond their years. They must get out and make a living long years before they have learned to make a life. Why not let them mature in the orderly, God-given way?

The same is true in the work of the church. There must be immediate "tangible" results or he will not give his support. Anyone with judgment knows that spiritual life takes time to develop, and that spiritual results cannot be judged by physical or tangible standards. Seedtime, growing time, normal ripening, then harvest—that is God's order and it is a good one.

II. Abnormal Growth Is Dangerous (Mark 4:30-32).

Normally the mustard tree is a small plant, and when it grew into a great tree something abnormal had taken place. Birds (which always denote something unclean in Scripture) came to lodge in its branches.

Just so, Christianity was never intended to be made up of a nominally Christian world empire in which ungodly men (the dark birds of the evil one, Matt. 13:19) should find comfortable lodgment. Unfortunately, that is just what happened to Christianity in the so-called conquest of the Roman empire at the time of Constantine. The results were disastrous. The same principle is evident today in the control of much of the church by worldly men.

III. Redemption Is Costly (Matt. 13:44-46).

While it is true that our redemption is worth more than anything else in all the world and that the Christian would gladly set aside (or would he?) everything for Christ's sake, yet that does not fulfill the thought of this parable. After all, what has a sinner (whose own righteousness is described in Scripture as "filthy rags") to sell in order to obtain redemption? And is it for sale? (See Eph. 2:8.)

Obviously we here have the Saviour with His all-seeing eye and loving heart noting in fallen humanity the pearl of great price, His own Church. He then gives up all the glory He had with the Father; comes to the earth, and even becomes sin for us that He may bring us to God.

Salvation in Christ is no little thing, not something which was purchased with gold or silver, but with the precious blood of Christ. We ought to value it highly, and because we are bought with a price we ought always to glorify God (I Cor. 6:20).

IV. Judgment Is Certain (Matt. 13:47-50).

All kinds of fish were in the net, and until the cord was drawn and the net emptied they looked much alike and enjoyed much the same standing as "citizens" of the sea. But when they faced the fisherman there was a quick division, and a final judgment upon the bad ones. It is true that in God's kingdom (as it is now manifested in "mystery" in the Church) there are many who have come in by false profession, through carelessness of pastors or church officials, etc. They go through the motions, they look and act much like Christians (although even here they create questions in the minds of true followers of Christ). The day is coming, however, when they shall stand in judgment before the Christ whom they profess to love and follow. How terrible shall be their doom!

They need not wait in fear for that day. They may now, today, make right their relationship with God.

Suit Designs Feature Bright Color and Dressmaker Lines

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BRIGHT colors, daring colors, clear colors will help the American woman express her confidence and courage. No matter how simple a suit may be, it's going to glorify color for all it's worth. The colors for suits are really quite breath-taking. Especially daring are the bright reds, the Kelly greens, light beige and golden-yellow. Navy is highlighted with brass buttons, with snowy lingerie touches and with red-and-white accents.

And watch for violet shades! So many will be in evidence you will probably feel as if you are looking through violet colored glasses. There will be violet hats, violet boutonnieres, violet gloves, suits of violet gabardine, wool mixtures and spun rayons. Just wait and see!

The use of soft styling, as well as the emphasis on daring use of color, was brought out forcefully at the style preview recently presented to capacity audiences at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Designers have apparently taken great care to stay away from anything "mannish," for women will be more eager than ever, this spring, to look their feminine best. Dressmaker styles feature softly draped lines without sacrificing any of their tailored simplicity.

Shown to the right in the above illustration is a costume suit that is practical, functional and distinctly feminine. This is one of the new tie-belt fashions of the soft dressmaker type for which a decided preference is shown. Made of a stunning plaid, it has large patch pockets for convenience—as well as "looks." The back is belted in smart fashion. These lovely plaids come in blue and red, beige and brown, and also in beige, brown and green.

Soldier blue is a far flung color this season. You will see it in hats, gloves, and, of course, in suits. The fitted reefer shown to the left in the above picture is of soldier blue. Smooth shoulders, comfortably cut armholes, loose sleeves and a high notched collar are smart style points. The novelty buttons are made of plastic overlaid with a gold design.

A chic dressmaker suit of all wool in a delectable pastel shade is shown in the center of the group pictured above. This suit has the set-in belt which distinguishes the majority of smart suits this spring. Note the detachable bengaline collar. Youthful collars of this type are predominant in casual neckwear fashions. A suit of this type invites all sorts of pretty accessories. It can be worn all day long, its "dressiness" depending on the accessories you wear. The blouse may be simple and casual, of the costume type, or of one of the lingerie types. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Tuxedo Front

Fashion decrees that women must maintain the charm of femininity, whether they wear uniforms, just plain workaday clothes, or more luxurious "off duty" apparel. Special emphasis is placed on coats to wear over new spring print frocks and the little one-piece classic dresses. The attractive model pictured above has the tuxedo revers destined for spring fashion triumphs. A fleecy, handsome wool in a beige shade, known as "King" is used for this coat. Beige is to be a leading color this spring.

Wood and Plastics Make Novel Jewelry

Casual jewelry to wear with daytime clothes is apt to be made of most anything these days.

The most fascinating necklaces, bracelets and lapel ornaments are being made of shells. These are often delicately flower-like and tinted in realistic colors.

Ceramics and plastics are handled with deft workmanship. Medallions of plastic bear clusters of flowers in relief.

Wooden jewelry is shown in profusion, some delicately wrought of wood as thin and pliable as papyrus. Others, especially the long necklace worn with slacks, are created of chunky nuggets of wood painted in blazing colors.

One studio is turning out exquisite pieces made of fish scales, each tiny scale wired (not pasted) to form wide boutonnières.

Favorite of the Young—Bright Printed Jerkins

Two-piece dresses stressing the long-torso line are favorites with the younger set. The jerkin idea is also popular for it is, after all, in the long-torso class. One of the most popular ideas is the pleated skirt of black or navy crepe which is topped with a long-torso blouse made of a bright print. The newest versions have the surplice fastening.

Jersey Dirndl

The teen-age youngsters are enamored of the new full, flounced dirndls that are made of bizarre printed jersey. Suspender bodices are new and popular. The straps are embroidered in gay peasant fashion. You will love the new fichu shawls that are crocheted in lacy, open mesh and self-fringed by hand.

Army Brides

Thousands of weddings now taking place must necessarily be informal owing to the stress of time and circumstance. Suits are already being displayed for the war bride who must do without the traditional wedding.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging headaches, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

DOAN'S PILLS

Lansing — More efficiency in our war effort may be the 1942 battle cry of Michigan Republicans.

When a war is going well, citizens are usually satisfied with the men who are running the war. But when military reverses come — Singapore, for example — the same citizens awaken from general complacency to demand better and more vigorous leadership.

It is ironical, in a way, that frequently this is the case. Too often it was the same leadership which encountered indifference, if not outright resistance, to suggestions that the enemy might reach our own shores. Then when the enemy approaches nearer, the same public turns in part panic upon their own leaders for "failure to act."

Such may be the case in Michigan. When you get alarmed, you get mad. And angry voters are apt to vote for a change.

If military defeats continue to accumulate, and the likelihood is that they will, as we prepare men and equipment for battle, Republicans may find themselves armed with a psychological weapon made for order for victory in November.

This is mere observation, not prediction.

Governor Murray D. Van Wagener has been accused of political favoritism in the appointment of county councils of defense, the rationing officials and even Red Cross chairmen! He countered with a statement that only 48 percent of his appointees were Democrats, that the state council of defense was "overwhelmingly Republican."

Republican congressmen, such as Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott, charge the national administration with failure to tell the truth about our losses at Pearl Harbor. Wolcott declared recently in Harper that eight out of nine American capital ships, light and heavy cruisers and battleships, as well as 473 bomber planes, were "destroyed."

President Roosevelt said in a press conference last week that this sort of rumor was "rot." And he spelled it out—"r-o-t."

"Under certain condition," the President added, the enemy could drop bombs on Detroit — a statement that is said to have startled the reporters at his press conference.

German submarines have sunk numerous American oil tankers off the Atlantic coast. Dutch oil refineries were damaged by shells fired from an enemy submarine cruising only a few hundred miles from the Panama canal.

Loss of Singapore and the prospect that the Japanese will make a clean sweep of Sumatra, Java and other Pacific strongholds have sent a wave of alarm over Allied Nations.

Senator David L. Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, chairman of the Naval Affairs committee, declared on the Senate floor the coast of the United States were "almost defenseless" and "might be necessary to bring back our Navy from the four corners of the earth simply to protect our shores."

Other straws in the wind as to the 1942 Republican strategy: Rep. Dewey Short, Missouri congressman, "Lack of leadership in Washington has contributed to a feeling of complacency. Until that smugness has disappeared we are in danger of losing this war."

Rep. William W. Blackney of Flint: "This is no time for petty politics. America is on fire. It is our duty to get out the fire."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg: "The 'New Normal' was not sunk by an enemy at sea. It was sunk by an enemy at home — which is definitely more ominous — and that enemy was either sabotage or negligence."

Foremost in the Republican line is the Secretary of State, Harry P. Kelly. Kelly was not caught in the draft in the World War, but he may be in this one. "The Draft Kelly for Governor" campaign launched months ago, is gathering momentum.

Kelly is from Detroit where much of the Van Wagener political strength has centered. He was wounded while fighting in France. As secretary of state he has talked comparatively little; like Coolidge he has built a reputation of being a man of strength as well as a man of action.

Many Republican strategists in the winter hot-stove league believe Kelly is a logical choice to head the 1942 ticket.

Kelly's pronouncements, made in a recent series of public addresses, include these remarks:

"We stand behind the administration 100 percent in the prosecution of the war but we also support the party whose principles we hold sacred."

"This is a time of trial and sacrifice for America, and as in every such crisis, we turn to Lincoln, the man of the common people, for help and guidance."

"Americans have always been opposed to dictatorship and oppression of any kind by government. We stand for liberty, knowing that when man has been made free, the world has gone ahead, and when men have been enslaved, the world has gone backward."

"In the next election we shall continue to maintain the two-party system and the Republicans are going to fight to WIN."

Mentioned for lieutenant governor, as a running mate for Kelly (if Kelly chooses to run and wins the nomination), are Howard Nugent of Bad Axe, speaker of the house; Elton B. Eaton of Plymouth, successful editor-crusader against "boss-control" and a former state legislator; Don Vander-Werp, of Fremont who is credited by many with starting the Kelly bandwagon months ago and who is serving his third term in the state senate over which the lieutenant-governor presides; and Dr. Eugene B. Keyes of Dearborn, the dentist-physician darkhorse who outran a field of prominent veterans two years ago.

Because Keyes surprised politicians two years ago by soaring out of the blue like a blazing comet, hot-stove leaguers have already coined a 1942 slogan: "Kelly and Keyes." But the public is notorious for its short memory. 1942 is a brand new year.

Muri DeFoe, former state liquor commissioner, recently attended the state convention of supervisors in Lansing. Returning to Charlevoix, he wrote of political gossip at the state capitol, offering these pungent observations in the Charlevoix Republican-Tribune:

"Governor Van Wagener's friends are trying to switch Secretary Harry Kelly (R) to become a candidate for senator with their back-catch support, and if successful in this way, they don't care who is named against Van Wagener; many folks think this was the technique that gave Michigan to Willkie."

"That Frank McKay, now in Florida, really wants to see Van Wagener defeated; that the Republican party will be just a memory if it loses; that Elton Eaton (Plymouth) is almost certain to be in the primary for a top post, probably governor on an all-out anti-loss platform, which if true would certainly disturb politicians who have been trying to avoid any major primary battle, and particularly the knock-down drag-out campaign that Eaton would put on; that Vera Brown disappointed many friends when he eliminated himself from the governorship contest."

All this speculation leads to a few conclusions:

1. That American people are united in a grim determination to win the war, whatever the cost. But they do demand efficiency. If this requires scrapping a few public officials the latter will be retired overnight. Mud voters are apt to favor a change.

2. If this trend of public opinion continues, Governor Van Wagener may take another lesson from F.D.R.'s notebook and sacrifice a few favorites to appease the multitude. Departments may be "reorganized"; new "reforms" proclaimed with great flourish; more Republicans given positions in the war program.

3. The two-party system of government, providing a ballot box accounting of what is being done and is not being done, should contribute to greater war efficiency regardless of the November election outcome.

Loans For Seed, Feed, Gas and Oil and Machinery Repairs Now Available

Mr. Sabin Hopper, at Boyne City, Michigan, field supervisor for the Emergency Crop Loan Office of the Farm Credit Administration, Department of Agriculture, has just received word from Mr. L. C. Streater, Regional Manager at St. Paul, Minnesota that funds are now available to all eligible farmers for crop production purposes including the purchase of seed, gas and oil, feed for work-stock and all necessary repairs to farm machinery.

In issuing his release announcing the 1942 loan for crop production purposes which includes the necessary funds required for the purchase of repairs for farm machinery, Mr. Streater in his eagerness to fully cooperate with the Food For Defense Program, urges all farmers to check over their farm machinery at this time so that they may be able to order their repairs at the earliest moment possible.

Arrangements are being made to accept applications for crop production loans and loans for the production and/or purchase of feed for livestock in all counties of Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin, and as in former years, such loans will bear interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum from the date of disbursement. For the convenience of farmers in Antrim County, applications for loans are being taken at the office of Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

Machinery Repair and Check-up Meeting Wednesday Afternoon: Atwood

A special machinery repair and check-up meeting is to be held Wednesday afternoon March 4, at Conrad Kloosters, Machinery Store at Atwood, beginning at 2 p. m. according to Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

An Extension Specialist in Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State College, will be present. Adjustments and repairs on the mower, both horse and tractor, will be illustrated and discussed. Correct hitches and adjustments for the plow, both horse and tractor drivers, as well as common binder troubles and any other machine that may be bothering anyone, including sprayers, drills, planters, manure spreaders, etc., will be discussed.

With machinery production being curtailed and labor becoming more expensive, it is important that we make our present machinery last and operate efficiently at all times and for a long time.

Machinery repairs is being stressed by all agencies of the U.S.D.A. In Antrim County the Antrim County War Board has been giving considerable attention to machinery repair. Several weeks ago a similar meeting was held for the convenience of farmers at Alba.

Stockpiles of Food for Peace

Here is what the U. S. Department of Agriculture means when it urges farmers to help produce "stockpiles of food for use after the war." The upper picture shows barrels of dried milk, just as good a year from now as today. The lower picture shows a warehouse filled with huge drums of cheese, even better with aging. These farm products, plus condensed milk, dried milk, cured pork, and canned meat and vegetables, constitute the stockpiles of defense food which, says Secretary Claude R. Wickard, will be needed by hungry Europe and "will exert the maximum influence at the peace conference table."
