Fire Prevention Campaign Now On

THROUGHOUT COUNTY SCHOOLS ARE CO-OPERATING 100%

The month of February was designated as special Fire Prevention Week throughout the nation, acting as an opening of the national campaign against unnecessary fire hazards. In Charlevoix county, William C. Palmer, Commissioner of Schools, is taking the leading role in this program. Through the schools it is hoped to have a report on every farm home and other farm building. These little reports are developed for the purpose of calling the peoples attention to the necessity of making a check on fire hazards with the hope that the loss from fires will be materially decreased.

Statistics clearly prove that agriculture is our most hazardous industry. In the year 1939 there were 4,200 accidental deaths in agriculture which is much higher than any other group of industry. By the same token fires connected with agriculture were very numerous. It is estimated that over $100,000,000.00 of property damage is done on American farms. Furthermore, over 95% of the fires are due to carelessness and negligence.

The Charlevoix county war board who supervises this farm fire prevention program recommends that every farmer cooperate by making a survey of their farm buildings. Certainly many safe guards can be taken to avoid losses from fire. Check over the places in and about the farm where fire hazards exist. Particularly check over the heating apparatus as we have twice as many fires in the winter time as we have in the summer months and it must be due to the heating plants.

WOOLEN GARMENTS NEED EXTRA CARE

With the armed forces of the United States needing warm clothing and wool blankets, the supply of wool for civilian uses must be curtailed. Woolen garments already purchased may be given extra long life if given proper care, say specialists in home economics at Michigan State College.

Day to day care will prolong the life of any wool garment, as well as improve its appearance. Whisking or brushing off lint and dust before it becomes imbedded in the material is good practice. So, too, is hanging garments on hangers as soon as removed. When possible it is well to let wool garments rest a day or two after one or two days of wear, to permit the wool to spring back into shape. Thus less pressing is required.

Hanging wool garments in the sun and air occasionally helps to kill moths, as well as their eggs and larvae. Since moths may infest heated homes the year around precautionary measures are necessary against them in winter as well as in summer.

Never iron wool. Steam press it, is another suggestion of the specialists. The effect of a steam iron may be obtained with two pressing clothes, instead of one. The cloth next to the wool garment should also be of wool, and on top of it is spread the cotton press cloth which has been wrung out in warm water. Press by setting the iron down squarely on the press cloth, lifting it, then setting it down again. The iron should never be hot enough to scorch the press cloth. The moisture should never be pressed entirely out of wool.

Garments with a strongly marked weave, or those that have a tendency to be shiny after pressing should be pressed on the wrong side. When doing so, the wool press cloth should be laid on the ironing board, then the garment, and finally, the cotton press cloth.

First-Aid Classes Being Organized For Farm Families

Realizing the need of first-aid instruction for farm families a program is being developed throughout the county to make the project available in rural communities. Thus far first-aid classes have been in operation in East Jordan, Charlevoix, and Boyne City but very few farm families have been represented. We know that farm families are just as interested in defense activity and want to participate but many find it inconvenient to attend a course consisting of ten lessons.

A program is being developed to organize two centers where first-aid instruction will be given under qualified first-aid instructors. The rural communities on the west end of the county have agreed that the most convenient location would be in the city of Charlevoix as all main roads lead to town and it is quite difficult to cross over from one to the other. All farm families are invited to attend a meeting to be held in the City Building, Charlevoix on Tuesday night, March 10th to organize the group for first-aid instruction. This meeting will start at 8:00 and should be ended by 8:45.

The other community is the Star community on the Peninsula. The organization for this community will be held Monday night, March 9th in the Star Community Hall at 8:00. The regular instruction will be given in five lessons and will be held in the afternoon rather than in the evening. It is felt that in the case of farm families the project should be completed by April 15th as after that date the farm work would prevent many from attending.

Please put these dates down on your calendar and plan to attend the organization meeting where full details of the project will be announced, officers elected, and plans for the instructions perfected.

4-H CLUB NEWS

OVER 3,000 BOYS AND GIRLS HEAR SECOND PROGRAM ON CONSERVATION

During the past several days, Mr. Roy Skog, assistant state extension forester, gave an illustrated talk on forestry to eighteen northern Michigan schools. These talks are sponsored by the 4-H conservation clubs in each of these schools. Mr. Skog states that for the past several years 4-H clubs and schools of northern Michigan have done an excellent job in forest conservation education through their school forest program, which includes tree-planting, forest fire fighting, forest seed bed planting, log scaling, timber estimating, leaf and wood study, etc. We need only review the world wide changes taking place today with respect to the use of wood to realize the importance of this youth program. The youth of today will be guardians of our forests tomorrow, forests that will become more than ever before an important part of our future economy.

Prior to the outbreak of the present war 50% of all the wood used in the manufacture of paper in the United States was imported, either as pulp or cordwood unpulped. About 25% of our imports came from the Scandinavian countries, a source now cut off because of the war. Canada still supplies us much pulp but that supply may decrease because Canadian labor is needed for the armed forces and war industry. The loss of pulpwood imports means that this country will have to depend more and more on our own forests to supply our pulpwood needs. Already we have seen a great increase in the cutting of spruce, balsam, and poplar for pulp in Michigan.

Before the war started some of the oldest and finest managed forests in the world were in Germany, Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Norway, and Finland. Germany would find it difficult to wage an effective war today were it not for the fact that she now controls these tremendous wood resources. They are being heavily over-cut to produce such important products as explosives, charcoal for gas masks, high-test aviation gasoline and lumber for knock-down bridges for fast movement of troops. In Sweden and it is believed that also in Germany, considerable quantities of wood are being treated with to produce form of sugar used for cattle feed. Sweden alone has 75,000 automobiles with wood or charcoal attachments that generate a combustible gas to run the motor.

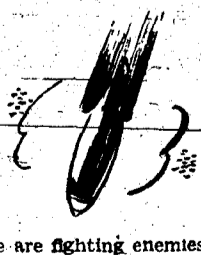

It should be kept in mind that plastics, charcoal, chemicals, fiberboard, paper, rayon and other wood products can be processed from trees of small size such as poplar, jack pine, balsam, and spruce which grow abundantly in northern Michigan. It does not take large trees of big diameter and great height to produce these products. They can be made from any tree that produces usable cellulose fiber and lignin. This means that forest areas that some of us regard as more or less worthless, such as the jack pine, and poplar, some day will become of considerable importance. In fact, some day, although, perhaps, not for several hundred years, when our non-renewable resources of oil, iron, coal, copper, etc, become scarce we may have to depend largely on forests to produce our motor fuels, building materials, and industrial and domestic articles of all kinds.

Notice to Candidates

Candidates for the Office of Mayor and Alderman of the City of East Jordan must have their petitions in the hands of the City Clerk not later than 4:00 p. m, Monday, March 9th, 1942.

Federal Income Tax INFORMATION

Furnished by the Treasury Department, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C.

Have you filed your Federal income tax return? If you come within the group from whom returns are required, you have only until midnight, March 16, in which to file a return. Single persons who earned as much as $14.43 a week for the 52 weeks of 1941; or married persons living together who had aggregate earnings of as much as $28.85 a week for the year, are required to file returns. The instructions attached to the forms describe the method of preparing returns, but if further information is necessary it may be obtained at the offices of the collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge. They make no charge for their services.

If income tax returns are placed in the mail, they should be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office on or before the due date — that is midnight on March 16 for calendar year returns. Taxpayers subject themselves to a penalty for failure to file returns on time.

Banquet For Cotton Mattress Community Leaders Completes Project

The cotton mattress and comforter project started here a year ago has now been completed and the results indicate very clearly the size of the program and its value to the many communities throughout the county. All community leaders were invited to attend a banquet at the Maple Grove Grange last Thursday night. After this delicious meal the final report showing the number of mattresses and comforters completed was given by the county agent.

A total of 966 mattresses and 909 comforters were made in the 15 different communities. A careful analysis reveals the fact that 591 different families made one or more mattresses which definitely indicates the number of different folks who benefited by this program. Two car loads of cotton were used in the project and not a single pound is left over. Three communities in the county made 100 or more mattresses. Boyne River Grange has the record for the most made — 167 in all, followed by Horton Bay with 102 and Beaver Island with 100. Great credit in this program goes to the local community leaders who supervised the activity in their community and who spent, in some cases, several weeks of effort. When one stops to consider that it usually took two people two days to make a mattress one can begin to realize the number of days effort devoted to this project through out the county.

A Series Of 4 Dairy Feeding Meetings Announced for March 5-6

Dairymen throughout the county will be pleased with the announcement that the services of Jim Hays, Dairy Specialist has been secured for four meetings on Thursday and Friday March 5-6. Jim Hays has a national reputation in his particular field. Local folks who have heard Jim Hays are always pleased to attend any of his meetings. He has the happy faculty of combining wit and humor with his subject matter in such a way that two hours time seems only minutes.

Following are the four timely discussions all starting on war time:
Thursday, afternoon, March 5th — 2:00, Barnard Grange Hall.
Thursday night, March 5th, East Jordan High School.
Friday forenoon, March 6th — 10:00, Boyne River Grange Hall.
Friday afternoon, March 6th — 2:00, Boyne City Public Library.

These meetings have been arranged to assist dairymen in meeting the new production goals for 1942. An increase in milk production is urged in the "food for freedom" program sponsored by the Charlevoix County War Board. Many suggestions and recommendations will be given by Jim Hays to help dairymen meet our Government's plea for production. For maximum profit each dairymen must know the short cuts to dairy profit. Nothing more need be said, those of you that have heard Jim Hays will want to hear him again and those of you who have not had this opportunity should take advantage of this chance. Attend your nearest meeting and bring in your friends and neighbors.

County Road Workers To Feel Brunt Of Car And Tire Rationing

At a meeting of the Michigan Association of Road Commissioners and Engineers on February 19th at Ann Arbor, stress was laid on the curtailment of operations of the 83 counties of Michigan due to the reduction of funds from the weight and gas taxes which are the sole producers of revenue for highway purposes which was brought on by the rationing of tires and automobiles.

Since that time Cheboygan county has drastically cut its operating program cutting its snow removal entirely off the McNitt System which included 459 of its 909 miles. Later in the week Hillsdale county went on half time to forestall complete stoppage of operations later.

During the meeting at Ann Arbor on the 19th, the Secretary of State's office announced that gas tax collections were off 20% for the month of January with the rationing only beginning to take effect, the inference was left that more drastic curtailment would be necessary before June 1st.

The tone of the entire conference was that very drastic retrenching by the County Road Commissions of Michigan would be necessary to permit operation during the year with emphasis on the elimination of new construction entirely.

The only areas escaping the axe were the so-called access roads to vital defense industries.

Farm Bureau To Hold Discussion Meeting

Dear Friend:

All farmers and their wives interested in agricultural progress and the opportunity for organized efforts are cordially invited and urged to attend a series of two discussion meetings to be held in the Boyne City Library basement on Monday afternoon, March 9th beginning at 2:30 p. m. and in the Odd Fellows Hall, East Jordan, on Tuesday, afternoon, March 10th also at 2:00 promptly.

A representative of the Michigan State Farm Bureau in addition to officers of the Tri-County Farm Bureau will be in attendance and would be happy to meet you. Certainly in this period of national emergency and defense needs it is most desirable for farmers and farm groups to get together and discuss agricultural problems of common interest. We want to especially urge you to attend your nearest discussion meeting as the annual meeting will be held at Ellsworth on March 13th and in order to have a program that fits the needs of all farmers it is well to have certain conclusions from these discussion meetings that can be discussed at the annual meeting.

A light lunch will be served during the discussion meeting so you should get your money's worth in the program. Kindly remember we are very anxious to have you attend and help us function in any way that seems most desirable for the benefits of all rural people.

Yours very truly,

Total	35.25

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts had their sleigh-riding party last Friday night. They were taken out on the road to the Catholic Cemetery. After they returned, they went to Mrs. Malpass's home for supper.

SPORTS EVENT

The Crimson Wave received an 18-14 defeat from Boyne City last Friday night at Boyne City. The East Jordan team took the lead after a few minutes of play and was ahead at the end of the first period by a 4 to 3 score. The Boyne Ramblers got busy the second period and rang up a few counters to lead at the half. Boyne City led off the second half and held the lead until the end of the game.

The game was the last scheduled of the season. The Commhens have not won any games this season, but we are still proud of them. They have shown plenty of spirit in spite of their defeats and their lack of a place in which to practice. They did their best in all of their games and gave their opponents some tough opposition.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND

The high school band is very busy these days getting ready for the Festival at Charlevoix in May. They have selected the march and overture which they will play as their own numbers at the Festival. Mr. Ter Wee has also received several new marches and overtures that will be played in the Massed Band Concert.

JUNIOR RED CROSS NEWS

The "Victory Book Campaign" was observed by the seventh grade Junior Red Cross last week. Several books were collected and turned over to the Girl Scouts who delivered them to the library.

The Girls held a bake sale Saturday to raise money to buy defense stamps. The boys have been baling old papers to help buy defense stamps. When we have $18.75 worth of stamps, we will turn them in for a bond.

The seventh grade wish to thank the Quality Food Market for letting them have their bake sale there.

SEVENTH GRADE PARTY

The seventh grade will have a roller skating party, Friday March 6.

ders for shipment. Both corn and wheat will sell for about $1.80 per hundred pounds. Farmers who are in need of either corn or wheat for feed should place their orders at once with the county AAA office in Boyne City.

The annual report of the AAA Farm Program, released by the United States Department of Agriculture for 1941, shows that six million farmers throughout the Nation have been helped to adjust their farm programs to war needs during the past year. Through the cooperation of the farmers, vitamin rich foods will be produced in an all-time high total, not only for the war of our nation, but also in an abundant surplus for supplying like needs of all of our allies.

During the past eight years of the AAA Program, farmers have built up a surplus reservoir of fertility on their lands and thanks to that fertility, we are going to be successful in producing our quota without the senseless plowing up of millions of acres of grazing land as during the last war with the subsequent result of loss of soil fertility and wasteful dust storms. "It is no exaggeration to say that the record food production program planned by agriculture in 1942 would be impossible were it not for the reserve feed grain stored in the Ever-Normal Granary," R. M. Evans said. Mr. Evans was administrator of the AAA during the period covered by the report. Thus, it is evident that wholesale increases in wheat and corn acreages are unnecessary.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Java Defense Gains New Strength As Dutch Troops Get Reinforcements; Tanker Losses Indicate U-Boat Drive Against Eastern Petroleum Supplies

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

JAVA: Defense Impressive

Following the fall of Singapore, wailing women, many of them carrying babies, had arrived on rescue ships in Java, worried over the fate of their men who had been left behind. But all of them were highly impressed with the spirit and the defenses of Batavia.

There was every evidence that Java, whether it got sufficient reinforcements or not, would be adequately defended by the forces now on the island.

The Dutch not only were massing all their own man power, their ships and planes, but it was plain that they had some American reinforcements, largely believed in this country to be constituted of the very vital anti-aircraft guns and men to man them.

The fight that still had raged around Bali was a good curtain-raiser for what the Japs could expect when they moved in on Java itself, with its 40,000,000 population, and the concentrated strength of everything—the Dutch and the other United Nations had which had been salvaged from other fronts.

Churchill had said that the total Japanese land strength in the Far East was estimated at 26 divisions. There were many who believed that it would take half that number to conquer Java alone, provided it was properly defended, and many believed the Japs could not spare that many troops nor transport them to Java.

Some military authorities believed the Japs would not even try, but would content themselves with bombing military installations, and with surrounding the island with naval forces, thus rendering it incapable of taking part in East Indian defense, while concentrating most of the Jap forces on an invasion of Australia.

The news of the day had not so far borne out this contention, however, for the Japanese landings on Sumatra to the west and Bali to the east had been in considerable force.

WASHINGTON: Cleaning Up

The national capital, which was under fire ever since the Douglas-Chaney boondoggling fight started with the OGD as a central point, had started the job of self-cleaning with President Roosevelt "taking a leaf out of his own notebook" and finding that 16 agencies were engaged in housing activities alone.

The senate and house had not been idle in the self-cleaning matter, either, for they had repealed the pension bill, which already had been signed by the President.

The President had not signed it as such, but it had been a rider on another bill, and thus had become effective.

But the national outcry had been terrific, and the congressional repeal had followed with but few congressmen of either house willing to put themselves on the spot as voting pensions for themselves—after the outcry.

Representative Reed of New York was perhaps most frank, for while most congressmen had said they had voted for the previous measure without considering it much, if at all, said: "I was not called away by a telephone call, I was not out eating a sandwich—I was not talking with a constituent at the time—I was in favor of the bill."

He was not, however, recorded as voting against repeal.

The OGD still was the center of attack, Senator Byrd of Virginia having said that his investigation of jobs paying over $2,500 in the OGD included "actors, baseball players, football coaches, track men, tennis players, newspaper and magazine writers, social workers, army and navy officers, doctors, engineers, nurses, ex-public officials, lawyers, and others in every walk of life."

Many had quit after Mrs. Roosevelt's resignation, but it was evident that the rest of them were under fire, with the senate on the firing line.

BATAAN: Bomber Campaign

Perhaps a rather grisly humor had been shown in the dispatch from Bataan that the men of General MacArthur's command were planning to take up a collection from their own pay to have a bomber sent them.

It would have been a "one-day story" if the newsmen had not taken it up at President Roosevelt's conference. The President said: "If anybody will tell me how, I'll see that they are sent."

STORM: And Torpedoes

Not only the German torpedoes, but a terrific Atlantic storm had taken a toll of American shipping. The fact that in 30-odd vessels torpedoed in our coastwise shipping, more than half had been tankers showed that the U-boats had their orders to prey on our coastal petroleum supply.

This attack, however, it was conceded, could do no worse than accentuate the oil shortage on the eastern seaboard, as the installations of oil refineries and tank farms had suffered no attacks, nor had the big petroleum producing fields.

But the storm, which cast two American naval vessels up on the rocky coast of Newfoundland took 189 lives, and provided the worst naval disaster of the kind in history. The destroyer Truxton and the naval cargo auxiliary Pollux were lost, and by a quirk of fate they happened to go around where 450-foot cliffs jutted up straight from the ocean.

The vessels, pounded on rocks, almost immediately disintegrated, and their crews had to scramble ashore.

as best they might. They landed on a rocky coast where half their number were battered and drowned without a chance. Approximately 175 men were rescued from the two wrecked ships.

BURMA: All-India Command

The closing of Rangoon, though much better defended and bitterly contested than had been Singapore, had given the Japanese a long stride toward the demobilization of the Burma road.

Though the Chinese were believed already to have developed another line of communication, partially if not completely ruining this objective for the Japs, it was proof of the fact that something drastic would have to be done about the reinforcement of the British defense of India, or more territory would fall into the Nipponese hands.

The Chinese were holding the northern sector, but the British, having been driven back from the Bilin river fortifications, had to fall back on Rangoon, and the work of destroying all military goods in the city which could not be moved was the signal for the closing of the port.

It was a tough 48 hours for the American military mission there, for it was their duty to see that the final shipments of thousands of tons of American lease-lend goods started on its rail journey up the Burma road to the Chinese before the Japs got in.

Some of this, it had been reported, faced destruction, and among what could not be moved were hundreds of American-made trucks which had not been assembled after shipping.

The British had made their last stand at the Sittang river, and there, in good positions, they covered the final removal of lease-lend goods and destruction of British materiel.

MISCELLANY:

Washington: WPB said that textile mills which do not produce goods for the armed services will not be able to obtain machinery by the middle of 1942.

Cleveland: A labor-management dispute, according to reports, was crippling the output of a concern wholly engaged in making airplane and bomb parts.

Washington: Skyrocketing military demands for wool, caused by the imminent job of clothing several million more soldiers were said to be calling for sweeping reductions in the amount of wool available for civilian clothing.

Baltimore: The OPA said it would soon fix rent ceilings in this defense area, probably heralding similar action throughout large sections of the country.

Buenos Aires: Argentina, in a significant action, has informed Italy that she no longer can represent her in the Western hemisphere.

After Axis Subs Attacked Isle of Aruba

Above you see a torpedo fired by an Axis sub off the island of Aruba. It missed its target and ran aground. Later the 18-foot missile exploded, killing four Dutchmen who were attempting to dismantle it. Inset: Lieut. Col. William Ratten, of the U. S. Army, climbs a ladder to inspect a 4 by 6-inch dent in an oil tank on the island of Aruba following the torpedo and shelling attack of Axis subs.

Cavalry Still Potent Military Factor

It was thought for awhile the horse in war was a back number. The U. S. army never acknowledged that theory, and events in Russia, where Cossack cavalry continued to counter-attack when snow and intense cold immobilized tanks, seem to indicate that cavalry is still to be reckoned with. Above you see part of a cavalryman's training at Fort Riley, Kan., "West Point" of the cavalry area. Lieut. Col. George Caldwell is instructing student officers in the external regions of the horse.

Recent Defeats Prepare U. S. for New Sacrifices

Armaments Production Continues to Increase As United Nations Equip World's Greatest Military Expeditions.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Now is the winter of our discontent and a still more-discontented spring may not be far behind. Washington at Valley Forge, Lincoln holding with knotted hands a nation split asunder may well look down on us with deep concern.

Not that this great nation is even near the danger which hovered so close to the battered armies of Washington's Colonials, or threatened the century-young Republic. We have just passed a $28,000,000,000 appropriation, the largest in history. We are preparing to arm 7,000,000 men, training an air force of 2,000,000. When the planes which our factories can turn out are ready to spread their wings they can darken the skies over Berlin and Tokyo.

But as the mists of spring spread out over the oceans, they touch the brows of new masters, rulers who never dared lay claim to rule the seven seas.

Gradually the American people realize that the world they looked upon from their comfortable windows is a different world from the one which their peaceful mind's eyes saw before Pearl Harbor and Singapore. It is a world that all but a very few would have scoffed at if it had been described to them before the crushing defeats which the English speaking peoples have suffered in the scant weeks since December 7, 1941.

It was a soft February day when we strolled up to the White House gate, showed our photographic passes to the policemen, filed into the Executive Wing and finally found ourselves in the President's office as the newsmen do twice each week.

President Rebukes Rumor Mongers

There were no quips as we waited until the last man was in. And the President's easy smile was absent. Some of the answers were sharp. There was rebuke for repeating a rumor, condemnation of Washington's Clivenden set, as the President called them—defeatists.

Then when a reporter asked if the President would comment on the visit of the British ambassador, there was an effort to lighten the gloom and the President who had no intention of revealing the ambassador's mission answered that they had had a good lunch. Then one of the reporters who had buttonholed the ambassador on his way out and gotten no comment, remarked: "The ambassador didn't look like a man who had had a good lunch when he came out."

And that remark expressed the mood of the city.

Why? Not because officials did not recognize what might be ahead after the first reverses. But because they knew that all they could do, all that the United Nations could do, was to mark time while a tiny nation, Japan, with a population of 70,000,000, putting out $3,000,000,000 worth of arms annually, was holding at bay a coalition of 200,000,000 people with a monthly, not yearly, output of arms worth 3 1/2 billion dollars.

But we are marking time from a military standpoint only. Our production is mounting. Already we have supplies enough for the demand in Russia if we had the ships to carry them. Soon we will be turning out two ships a day.

And we are preparing an army. And that is the point. At first we thought that America had one task, to be the arsenal of the democracies. Simply the job of production. Then we saw that we must help get those supplies to their destination. And to protect the supply lines we needed to man bases. All this was before we actually were at war.

Supply Lines Threatened

Then war came and now, suddenly, we realize that the supply lines are threatened. Threatened at Rangoon, gateway of the Burma road. Threatened in the Red sea and the Persian gulf if Hitler breaks through the Middle East. Threatened with Japan's far-flung, base-studded archipelagoes which have now spread eastward from the Marshall Islands to Borneo and the Celebes and perhaps, before this is written, within bombing distance of Australia itself.

And so we learned that we might not be able to arm our allies but that we would have to arm ourself and carry those arms in the hands and on the ships and planes of our own fighting men.

And so, for the first time in its history America looks out upon hostile nations in three continents which it must hunt out in their own lairs. The greatest military expeditions in the history of the world are now in the making. Soon the snows of the winter of our discontent will melt unnoticed. America will go forth without thought of wind or rain or snow or sun.

Meanwhile we have a long, hard lesson of restraint and sacrifice.

Buy Defense Bonds—Uncle Sam Again in Life Insurance Business

Uncle Sam is in the life insurance business again.

In World War I the government issued insurance of more than 4,000,000 policies to members of the armed services with a total face value of nearly $40,000,000,000. The idea when these policies were issued, the government paying the extra premium demanded of a person stepping up in the direction of machine guns, was that this was all that could be expected of a grateful republic. After struggling with the burden of Civil War pensions it was believed that the insurance would take their place.

The men themselves, as ex-soldiers, and as citizens, would probably have been entirely satisfied. But the politicians couldn't let a good thing like that get away.

The first sweetener was the bonus. Then came the other bonuses one after the other and the various benefits which needn't be related here. The insurance policies were not a heavy burden. They cost the government only $1,714,000 which was the difference between what the government paid out and the premiums paid in. For you see it was a business proposition. The premiums were taken out of the soldier's pay while he was in the army. When he was discharged he either kept up the premiums or dropped the policy.

Now Uncle Sam is ready to do the same thing for the present army.

As of February 14, 1942, 1,308,500 applications for insurance policies have been received by the veterans administration with a total face value of $4,955,000,000.

The policies are in multiples of $500 and $10,000 is the limit. The premiums amount to only 67 cents a month per thousand dollars for a man 25 years of age. No man who has any sense at all will miss the 67 cents when he scoops his money into his hat, signs the pay-roll and salutes once a month.

There is no red-tape, no physical examination. Any man who can stand up and get shot at is healthy enough to be insured.

Buy Defense Bonds—Other Raw Materials In South America

The thing the German and Japanese respect most and fear most, is the American factory. The Board of Economic Warfare is the board of strategy which directs this powerful weapon of offense.

Some countries on the borderline of Axis influence have things we want and want things we have. Let us say "Belgravia" has ordered certain foodstuffs she requires for her starving people. The deal is arranged. At the same time, we have been trying to get a certain chemical that "Belgravia" is shipping to the Axis. So the order to release the foodstuff finds its way to a certain desk in the BEW. The food is not delivered. The minister of Belgravia calls at the state department to ask the cause of the delay. He is referred to a little office in the shabby apartment building. The talk soon turns to the chemical that we want. An understanding is reached.

"As I sat in this building listening to the almost all-encircling enterprises the BEW is undertaking, the President's phrases came back to me—"an all-encircling war"—"an overwhelming superiority." I realized that this encirclement, which the enemy is attempting to achieve with a line of flesh and blood and steel, America is gradually accomplishing with a wall that will keep out the vital supplies that make the sinews of war of the Axis. And I realized, too, that "overwhelming superiority," when it is established, will be established by the power of America's economic machinery.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

The attack on the Office of Civilian Defense was probably an excellent thing because it would have shaken the faith of a lot of people in the government if they thought we were trying to dance our way out of our troubles. As a matter of fact, the entertainment features were based on similar activities which had been tried out and found practical in England.

Federal Security Administrator McNutt asked all state governors, in view of mounting manpower requirements for defense production goals, to give every consideration to the vocational rehabilitation and employment of physically handicapped persons, including all discharged, wounded or injured members of the armed forces.

A REAL VETERAN LOOKS WESTWARD

AN OLD GENTLEMAN large of frame, with bristling eyebrows, heavy, flowing mustache, tousled hair and a kindly smile and cheering word for all he meets has been spending the winter at San Diego, looking westward to those islands and countries to which American soldiers, sailors and marines are moving against our enemies.

Maj. George Fitzgerald Lee is a veteran of that heroic old army that fought the Indians through the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas and the Southwest, and made those states safe for the pioneers who built them into great commonwealths. He and his comrades of that army of the late seventies and early eighties made possible the peaceful cultivation of the farms of those states and the building of towns and cities. It was a little army that pushed our frontier through to the western ocean.

George Lee knew the hardships of long, weary marches as an infantry soldier over the then almost trailless West. The army in which he served did not travel on rubber tires, but on the leather shod feet of each individual soldier.

George Lee fought with General Shafter in Cuba. He went with Funston to the Philippines. He was in the expedition that broke the Boxer revolution in China. He closed his military career in the World War of 1917-18.

Today he looks westward toward the Philippines and his memories travel with the American forces that go to meet a new foe on fields he knows and fought over more than 40 years ago.

That valiant army of Indian war days was limited in members and but few of them are left to us. George Lee is typical of all that army represented. I envy him his memories.

LABOR 'GENERALS' AND INDUSTRY CONTROL

AN EFFECTIVE ARMY cannot be composed entirely of generals. An effective industrial organization cannot be composed entirely of superintendents or general managers. In any organization, whether it be an army, a factory or a farm, there must be a boss, someone whose word represents authority.

Labor organizations today are demanding labor control of industry. Labor leaders would have the workers control the factories. That as a final analysis is the so-called Reuther plan for the automobile industry.

Ford, is employing something more than 100,000 men. Under the Reuther plan, they would all be generals. They would all be in a position to give orders and there would be no one to follow orders. Each would quite rightly expect to sit at the general manager's desk. The general manager would be selected by the workers and would be chosen as a matter of popularity, rather than as a matter of ability. It would be exceptional to find the worker who felt his place was on the assembly line.

The efficiency of the assembly line would disappear. Mass production, which has made America the greatest producing nation in the world, would be only a thing to think about. Production would drop to practically a vanishing point. There would not be a car for every family. With the passing of the automobile industry would pass a million or more jobs, and labor—the man who works—would not have profited.

Government, not labor, controls the factories of Russia, Italy and Germany. In each of these countries the government is boss. It is government that tells each worker what he will do, how long he will work, where he will work, and what he will receive. That is what labor is investing in America when it demands worker-control of factories and farms.

The pressure of labor leaders, the complacency of the American public, the willingness of our representatives in congress to listen to and be influenced by minority pressure groups, may lead to industrial and national disaster. Our American system is threatened by a Japanese Pearl Harbor blitz if we are not on the alert.

THE ORDINARY, EVERY-DAY citizen discovers just how unimportant he is in time of war when the "streamliner," on which he pays a premium for the privilege of traveling, is shunted onto a siding to give the freight train the right of way.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FOUR BILLION dollars! We cannot visualize such a sum. We can have no idea of what it means. It is more than it has cost to operate our national government from the time it was organized down to the time we began preparations to enter the present war. It represents nearly one-half of the total value of everything in America. It is the amount of our expenditures and authorized expenditures of our participation in this World War.

Difference in Days
How much longer and shorter, respectively, are the longest and shortest days of the year than the days next to them, is asked.

According to the U. S. Naval observatory, the difference in the length of day varies less than a minute from day to day in the weeks December 17-24, and June 17-24, in which the shortest and the longest day of the year occurs. Therefore, the difference in the length of day is less than a minute between, for example, December 21 and December 22.

Supersonic "sound" waves, or those which vibrate more than 20,000 times a second and are, therefore, inaudible to the human ear, can do such odd tricks as vaporize heavy oil, set fire to chips of wood, cook eggs without heating them and crumble glass into fine powder.

(Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

March came in like a lamb.

The 240 telephone line is on strike again.

A good many farmers have already got their bean contracts for canning beans.

There were 24 at the Star Sunday School March 1; even though some of the stand-bys were elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bricker of Mountain Dist. spent last Monday with Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bricker at Bricker's Mill.

A group of 20 young people of the Ridge enjoyed coasting on Bunker Hill Friday evening and had a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Bennett and younger children of Star Dist. visited Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Jessie Papineau in Boyne City Saturday.

The Home Extension Club held their meeting at the Star Community Building Thursday afternoon. February 20 with eleven members present. They had a very instructive lesson.

Word from Mrs. Vale Gee is that she returned from the Charlevoix Hospital to the home of her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gee in East Jordan, Thursday but the baby will be kept in an incubator at the hospital for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Peters and son Howard of Phelps were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt in Three Bells Dist. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers and little daughter of Mountain Dist. also spent the afternoon with them and Mrs. Anna Johnston of East Jordan is spending a few days with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loomis and son Clare of Gravel Hill, north side, joined with other daughters and sons at a birthday party for Mr. Hartley Sweet, Advance. Sunday. Mr. Sweet's birthday is March 2, but the party was Sunday, to enable those who are working to come. They had quite a home-coming and a time long to be remembered.

There was a surprise party of the A. Reich home, Lone Ash farm, Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kitson and family of Deer Lake, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reich and two children of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kitson of Advance Dist. and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leshner and four children of Petoskey dropped in to spend the evening. The surprise was none of the groups knew the others would be there.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gaunt and son Jr. planned to go to Jackson for a short visit Saturday morning but just as they drove out the driveway the car broke down. Not to be outdone they hitched on to it with the tractor and towed it to Boyne City and got it repaired and brought it back home and got started on their visit to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cromwell and family in Jackson. Mr. Jess Atkinson of Mountain Ash farm is doing the chores while they are away.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reich and family of Detroit arrived at the home of Mrs. Kitson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kitson near Deer Lake Saturday after having a series of mishaps. They had hardly gotten started when their car went on a standstill strike and they called back and had another car come and tow them back to get another car. Then they started out again and when pretty well up that car joined the strike. After being pushed into Gaylord they left the car and got a taxi to East Jordan. Then contacted the Kitsons by telephone and had them come and get them. They spent all day Saturday, with the assistance of A. and A. G. Reich of Lone Ash farm, and got another engine and took one out and put another in, and were able to go again Sunday evening. They surely hope to get back with less trouble.

SHORT STORY

Faith—Always Faith

By GERTRUDE MAY MORRISON

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

"THEY arrested a man as I came in," said Marge, addressing a rather oldish-looking woman, who was munching on a homemade sandwich.

Marge had just come into the employees' lounging room of the big department store where they both worked in lamps on the sixth floor.

"Good looking guy, too. I'll say," she went on. "Ben, they called him."

The older woman went suddenly white. "Ben"—what memories stirred at the name. The hand holding the sandwich trembled visibly.

"What did the man look like?" she asked, trying to steady herself. "Big brown eyes and red hair, with a curl over his forehead like a little boy's."

Then it was true—her Ben arrested.

"My God, Stell, what's the matter? I thought you were going to pass out on me," said Marge slipping an arm around her. "You pick good places to faint."

"I'm all right," said Stell, bracing herself. "Guess I must have been eating too fast, and then something it upsets me to hear of men going to jail."

"That man you're spending your life-grieving over isn't in jail, is he? Gosh, you're a simp, Stell."

"I don't know where he is definitely," added the other. "But I know he'd play an honest game."

"If that's what you call it to walk off and leave a woman," returned Marge loftily. "Better take my advice, forget him and step out with Big Jim. He likes you and would marry you, if you played your cards right. The boy's got a future," she added. "He'll be head of the lamp department some day."

The older woman did not reply. Instead she took another bite from her sandwich before inquiring, "What was the man arrested for?"

"Don't know exactly," said Marge. "Just saw him being loaded into the patrol wagon as I came in. You should have seen the dick! It's the first guy he's nabbed in I don't know when, and he was tickled pink."

Later that day Stell heard the girl in the credit cage say, "He told the cops his name was Good, and that he was looking for his wife who worked here. One of the cops laughed and said, 'Good, nothing! You're bad clean through!' The dick said he had followed him from one department to another on every floor of the store. And he was making the rounds the second time before they caught him with the goods—not anything much, just one silk stocking."

"What's a guy going to do with one stocking, I ask you? Unless he's got a one-legged girl?"

But Stell had heard enough. Ben had come back. Her Ben. He had been here in the store, wandering from department to department looking for her—too timid to ask—and then they'd picked him up. Surely, there was some mistake. What ever else Ben was, he was not a thief.

But they had arrested him. Now at least she knew where he was.

Four years before he had left her. Left her sitting on their packed trunk, hatted and gloved, while he went to look for a drayman.

They were going to Iowa together—their first trip home since their marriage twelve years before.

"I'll chase down the street," he told her, "and get Connelly to come for the trunk. I'll only be gone a minute."

But he had never come back. Not until the wee hours of the morning, not until she had waited, and waited, and waited, did she remove her hat and coat and unpack.

The next day she went to work at the department store. And she had never heard of or from Ben until today. But she had kept on waiting, never going out anywhere, never looking at another man, just waiting for Ben, and working, often dreaming of her happiness with Ben. And now he was back.

At 6:30 she was at the police station, and the guard was leading her down the grim cement passageway.

"What if he had grown tired of her, sick of the devotion she gave him? Perhaps he had been too kind to tell—he had always been afraid to hurt her. Had he taken this easy way out?"

It was all so unlike the youth she had married. Such a queer snarl. The guard looked at the woman with curious, friendly eyes.

"So you've come—just as he said you would," he commented.

Then he called cheerily into the semi-darkness. "She's here—just like you said." And she was conscious of standing before an old young man in a coarse prison jacket, ill-looking, with great suffering in his hungry eyes.

"Ben, oh, Ben!" she cried as she thrust both hands through the bars at once.

All her love for him coursed through her and with it a mystic sense of happiness, an exalted, perfect moment such as she had not known in four bitter years.

Nothing mattered except getting him back, holding him close, feeding him, bringing him to life again.

"He's had a rotten break," the keeper was saying, "getting caught with that stocking, after all the rest he'd gone through."

"All the rest?" Her words were very faint. She found herself weeping and she had promised not to cry—not there—in jail.

Ben had raised her hands to his lips but beyond the anguished "Oh, Stell," he had not spoken. His mouth worked strangely.

"If he died, Miss, before he found you, then I was to tell you."

"Tell me what, Ben?" she said softly.

"It is only that I was looking for you, Stell, and, as God is my Judge, I didn't take the stocking. It got hung on my coat somehow. I was peering close at every woman behind the counters, not knowing how much you might be changed. God, Stell, how I've wanted you," he burst out, between choking tears.

For Stell, standing there, with his big hand helplessly clutching hers, was transformed by the age-old love for the child.

"Ben," she said eagerly, "then you weren't tired of me?"

"Tired?—God, Stell, you know it was heaven, at home, with you—tired? God!" and covering his face he sobbed.

"Tell her, man," interrupted the keeper. "Visiting hours are over at seven."

Then, without waiting further, he plunged on, "You never knew why Ben went to get the express man and left you there with the trunk? You never knew all these years what happened there at the dock?"

"There at the dock?" The woman found herself repeating strangely.

"Yes—never knowin' how he was knocked down—taken aboard that rotten ship—"

Her hands tightened on the iron bars—no longer grim, but mystic pathways to stars. Behind them, Ben—and he belonged.

The guard turned away. "All these years," he muttered, "trustin' him . . . and never knew what happened. Gee! Takes a woman, don't it, to have faith."

Cold-Storage Locker Plants Now Taking Hold

Near Centralia, Wash., in the fall of 1917, while the rest of the U. S. was busy with World War I, a hunter bagged some pheasants which he wanted to keep for his Christmas dinner. As an accommodation, an ice-plant operator named J. A. Winchell plunked the birds into a water-filled milk can, froze them in a solid ice cake. On Christmas day the frozen fowl came out of the ice cake fresh.

To Engineer Roger Sprague of Omaha's Baker Ice Machine company, who serviced the Winchell account, the frozen pheasant episode gave an idea. Mindful that most U. S. farmers lack easy means of preserving for their own use food which they raise, he saw the possibility of a new market for ice machinery: plants to freeze and store food for the public. The idea took years to catch on. But today thousands of farmers go to cold-storage locker plants, rent lockers big enough to hold 250 pounds of meat (or 6½ cubic feet of any food) for $10 a year. The plants quick-freeze their meat. They also slaughter animals (at $2 a head for cattle, $1.50 for hogs, 75 cents for sheep) and prepare and freeze vegetables or fruits for 2½ to 3 cents a pound.

Iowa, which had nary a plant in 1933, now has 500 of them. Last year 2,000 U. S. locker plants did a gross business of $20,000,000. By 1940's end the completion of 750 new plants was expected to up the industry's investment to $45,000,000.

Succor for Suckers

If the original tires have been replaced with new ones, don't accept this as proof of good mechanical condition. It probably means that a lot of mileage has been put into that car, else the original tires wouldn't have worn out.

If all the fenders are new and shiny, don't be too elated. It may mean the car has been in a serious wreck.

If the car is "guaranteed," get the exact terms in writing and make sure that this guarantee has protective teeth in it.

Don't be too eager to buy a used car because of its looks. Or because of its age—or rather, lack of age. One of the flagrant abuses by a few in the used car game is the repainting of late model ex-taxicabs, which are offered as nearly new automobiles. It is common knowledge that cabs are usually subjected to five times the normal amount of wear.

Do you know that, for a little while, white lead will take the grind out of a transmission, and that ground cork will smooth out a differential?

Do you know that putty temporarily seals leaks from an exhaust pipe or manifold? (Of course it may fall off when it becomes hot and endanger the safety of the driver and his passengers by pouring carbon monoxide into the car.)

If you know these things, you have a fair chance of buying a car from an unknown dealer and experiencing no trouble. But unfortunately, too many of us do not know them.

CHAPTER I

Fifth Avenue. In that quiet hour before dawn. In the middle of its polished surface, like a dark isle in a glistening ribbon of river, rested a slipper. Black, satin, buckled with brilliants.

Bruce Harcourt stopped short. He turned the bit of satin over and over in his hand. It was warm. The feel of it sent a curious glow through his veins. It must quite recently have covered a slender foot. Dropped from the now distant automobile?

He thrust the disturbing bit of foot-gear into his top-coat pocket, gravely regarded the glittering avenue before he entered the Club door. Twenty-four hours more of this and he would be on his way to the wilderness. Soon he would be seeing only forests, glaciers, fields of snow, rails, steam-shovels and the paraphernalia of engineering.

He was not sorry to go back. His college classmates who had given the dinner for him tonight wouldn't believe it, though. What was she like? Dark? Fair? Hard? Tender?

Morning and his last day in New York. He stretched his long, lean body. His last day in New York and a full one. Before he left on the midnight train he had to keep innumerable business appointments, confirm orders for materials, and hire a secretary. Why couldn't Tubby Grant have found one for himself on the coast?

Returned from his shower he regarded the slipper on the dresser. Would the owner advertise? He'd take a look at the evening paper. The following eight hours proved more crowded and the search for a secretary more futile than he had imagined. The mere mention of the word Alaska set the prospects he interviewed into shivering refusal.

"Tubby'll have to get one for himself on the coast," he concluded as he opened the door of his room at the Club.

He shook out the evening paper, located the Lost and Found column and ran his finger down the list. "Here it is!" He read the advertisement through twice.

LOST. Monday evening on Fifth Avenue, black satin slipper with rhinestone buckle. Reward, if returned at once to J. Trent, 0001 Madison Avenue.

J. Trent, J. Trent. He heard that combination before. He turned the name over and over in his mind. Click! It slipped into place. Janice Trent! Billy Trent's sister "Jan." He remembered her as a leggy child of twelve when he had spent his last college vacation before the war at the Trents' country place. She had exasperated her brother and himself by tagging after them on fishing expeditions. Darn shame that he and Billy, who had meant so much to one another, had drifted apart. He had gone to Trent's office at once upon his arrival in New York, only to learn that he was out of town.

He stared unseeing at the advertisement. Last night at the dinner when he had regretted Billy's absence, Silsbee, the class gossip, had confided:

"Trent's a little gob of gloom these days. Can't blame him. His father played the market, lost practically everything he had and passed out. His sister Janice is to be married in a week. Marrying a multi-millionaire."

"An hour later, in answer to his ring, a trim maid admitted him to the Madison Avenue house, a slice of old-time aristocracy sandwiched between new-time shops. He gave his errand, not his name. As he waited in the cheerless reception room, where pictures leaned dejectedly against the walls, where chairs were shrouded in ghostly covers, and furniture was crated, he heard the murmur of voices in a room beyond, the imperative ring of a telephone. Someone answered. Harcourt looked at his watch impatiently. Would J. Trent keep him waiting while she gossiped? He couldn't help hearing the frost-tinged voice.

"No. It was unpardonable. I shall not see you. Don't come. I have said my last word. You would have thought of that before. Good-by."

The receiver clicked on the hook. Could that have been a prospective bride speaking, Harcourt wondered. Her voice had given him the creeps. Of course there could be two J. Trents in the City of New York, but—

"You have my slipper?"

He curiously regarded the girl on the threshold. Little Janice Trent grown up. The same boyish croak in her voice that he remembered. Who would have thought that the angular child would develop into beauty? Her glinting brown hair waved softly close to her boyish head. The ardent curves of her lips showed vividly red against her palor.

"If this is yours." The long, gold-tipped lashes flew up. Her eyes were the color of bronze pansies, slightly-beaten by the rain of recent tears, he surmised. Incredulity, amazement, certainty followed one another in her voice.

"Why? Why, you are Bruce Harcourt!"

Impulsively she extended her hands. The satin slipper dropped to the floor as he caught them.

"Then you haven't forgotten me?"

"Forgotten you! How could I? Remember how I tagged you and Billy and how furious you boys were when you drove off to the Country Club? I was ready to scratch out the eyes of any girl you looked at. However, no matter how odorous my brother remained, you always relented, and said, 'What's the difference? Let her come along, Billy!'"

She was eager, radiant. Her fingers seemed to cling to his. His hold tightened.

"Where did you find the slipper?"

"Winking and blinking in the middle of Fifth Avenue before dawn this morning. I have been consumed with curiosity to know how it came there."

Her fingers seemed to cling to his. His hold tightened.

A flame of color tinged her face. She freed her hands.

"I started to get out of a roadster. I had opened the door, put one foot out to jump when—"

"Reckless child! Go on, when?"

"When I— I changed my mind."

He had the sense as of a door closing between them. "It's wonderful to see you. I had been told that you were in Alaska."

"Have been for years. I'm starting back tonight."

"Thought— What a shame that Billy is away. You will stay and dine with me, won't you? This house is a mess. We've sold it and are clearing it, but we still have a cook."

"I have a better suggestion. Dine with me—unless I was told last night that you were about to be married. Perhaps you are not free."

"I am free to do as I like." The color which the surprise at his identity had brought to her face faded.

"I'd love to go, only let it be some quiet place where we can talk."

"Anywhere you say. You know your New York better than I."

She had selected an hotel up town. They talked of her family, the loss of her mother and father, of Billy, of the enormous growth of the city, of the changes in it, in the fashion of plays, of books, of clothes since he was last in New York.

As the gray-haired waiter set the coffee on the table and withdrew to a discreet distance, Harcourt suggested:

"We still have time for part of a show. I don't leave until midnight."

"I would rather sit here and talk."

"Suits me. Will you smoke?"

She shook her head. Elbow on the table, dimpled chin in one hand, she drew hieroglyphics on the cloth with a rosy-nailed finger.

"No. My fiance so admires the accomplishment in his friends that I wonder he chose a girl so pre-war in her tastes and habits as I."

"And you have promised to marry a man of whom you can speak so contemptuously?"

In the room beyond a violin swept into the music of Scharwenka's Polish Dance, with a swing and fire which set Bruce Harcourt's pulses thrumming to its tempo. She folded her hands—ringless, he noted in surprise—lightly on the table, as she answered his question with another.

"Ever met Ned Paxton?"

"No."

"Then you wouldn't understand. He has attracted me unbelievably, while something deep within me protested, 'You know that you don't trust him.' Moth and candle stuff, I suppose. He has hurt my heart and my pride, yet when he smiled and explained, I would dope my intelligence—instinct, rather—forgive him and remember his good qualities. He has them. Old people adore him, children like him—but he doesn't get on with dogs. Why am I telling you all this, I wonder?"

He answered the troubled sweetness of her eyes, her mouth, so proud, so unhappy, more than her words.

"Because you've reached the point where you've got to talk. You used to tell me everything when we went fishing together—Remember?"

"I remember what a pest I was. But let's not talk any more about Jan Trent, I'm fed up with her and her problems. How did you happen to go to Alaska? Tell me about it. It sounds so bracing and crisp and clean."

Harcourt lighted another cigarette. "I wish that it always conveyed that impression. I've fought and died trying to get a secretary for our outfit. I'll bet I've interviewed fifty of them, short and tall, lean and fat. The mere name of the country sets an applicant's teeth chattering."

"I should think there'd be dozens of girls crazy to go."

"Girls! What would we do with a girl in our outfit? We go hundreds of miles into the interior. Ours is no coast cinch. I'm after a man."

"Are there no women there?"

"Of course, wonderful women in the cities, cultured, chic, keenly conversant with world conditions; others on remote farms, nuggets of gold, if rough ones; but not in our business. That is not quite true. There are three: Millicent Hale, wife of the chief engineer of the department to which I'm attached, and the Samp sisters."

"Samp! What a curious name. What do they do?"

"Two years ago Mary and Martha Samp appeared at our headquarters on the coast at the mouth of an inlet, and established a Waffle Shop."

"Can they cook?"

"Cook! I'll say they can. The men crowd the shop every night. They would do anything for those two women, who look as though they might have stepped out of the comics of a colored supplement. Martha, the elder, is lean and gaunt, with a tight little top-knot of rusty hair, speaks her mind no matter how welcome or unwelcome her conclusions may be. Mary is round and plump, with big, innocent blue eyes which seem to be eternally interrogating life and being eternally surprised at the answer. They brought an enormous black cat, Blot—he does look like spilled-ink when lying on the rug. The Eskimos and Indians who work for us regarded him with the amazement they might have bestowed upon an elephant, don't quite like him."

"And the chief's wife—Millicent, you called her?"

"She has a double interest in headquarters. Her brother, Jimmy Chester, is third engineer. He is devoted to her. She is a pretty but pathetic little woman. She has—"

"You needn't describe her. Calling her 'little woman' was as enlightening as sticking up a danger sign on thin ice. I recognize the type. Your description sounds delightfully homey. Not at all like what I thought life in Alaska would be."

"Life—human life in Alaska—is no different from life in other places. People are born, die, marry and divorce, love and hate; the last two a little harder perhaps than when nearer civilization. There are as many people there to the hundred with ideas and ideals as anywhere else."

"Tell me more. Tell me about the country, your work, everything." She was like an eager child begging for another story. "It will keep my mind off my problems."

"Her problems! Paxton, of course. Impulsively he spoke to the little girl he had known.

"Be a sport. Acknowledge that you've made a mistake. Don't go on with this marriage, Jan."

Her eyes were intent on a slim finger tracing the pattern in the damask cloth. "Are you suggesting that I back out at the eleventh hour? Think of the stacks of presents! Think of the publicity! Forget me. Tell me about Alaska."

With the sensation as of knuckles smartly rapped, conscious of deepening color, Harcourt acknowledged, "My mistake! Alaska is a big subject."

"Begin anywhere. Can you get into the northern country at this time of year? Will you go by boat or dog-sleds?"

"By plane. You people in the States don't realize that the development of airways in Alaska is one of the romances of aviation."

"Then you are an aviator as well as an engineer?"

"Rather more engineer than aviator at present. I combined the two professions overseas. Tonight I go to confer with the Crowned Heads of our department. I'm due back at camp before the spring break-up."

"What is that?" You see, my curiosity is insatiable. It isn't all curiosity, she admitted, in a voice half eager, half mysterious.

Interior Decoration.

A CORRESPONDENT who is planning to redecorate her dining room and living room asks for suggestions on colors that would go with her Swedish modern furniture. She asks also whether the trend is towards paint or wallpaper for the walls. She adds that the trim is now finished with light varnish, and is uncertain as to whether or not paint would be better. Interior decoration is so dependent on personal likes and dislikes that it is difficult for an outsider to give an opinion, especially if he is not acquainted with the rooms; the exposure, the number of windows, and the proportions. The furnishings of the rooms must also be considered; the colors of the rugs, upholstery and draperies. Home owners should make up their own minds as to what they want; for after all, the decorations of their rooms express their own personalities. A middle-aged and gracious couple would feel more at home in a Colonial background of handsome mahogany than in a bleached and streamlined environment appropriate to the younger generation. The larger department stores specialize in interior decoration, and exhibit a variety of rooms furnished and decorated in different styles. My best advice to my correspondent is to visit the exhibits, and to discuss her problem with the expert-decorators in charge. She will probably find them willing to visit her house and to study the conditions.

Construction Details

Question: I am planning to build a summer home in the northern lake country. Where can I get information on the building of a chimney and fireplace and on installing plumbing and a sewerage system?

Answer: Pamphlets on those subjects can be had from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. Ask for Farmers' Bulletin 1849: "Chimneys and Fireplaces," and Farmers' Bulletin 1426: "Farm Plumbing." Each costs five cents, which should be sent in coin. Ask also for Price List 72: "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Builders," which will be sent without charge. It covers many subjects that should be of interest to you.

Hot Water Supply

Question: I have a hot air furnace with a coal stoker, an automatic gas water heater and a small water heater that burns rubbish. The water in winter is so cold that extra gas must be burned to heat it. To save gas, could I put a water heating coil in the furnace connected to the rubbish burner, or could I use a tempering tank?

Answer: A water heating coil in the firebox is not satisfactory, because the temperature cannot be controlled. There is likely to be trouble from steaming, and explosion is possible. It would be safer to use a tempering tank connected with the small stove, in which a low but continuous coal fire will provide enough heat to take off the chill.

Iodine Stain

Question: The bottom of our enameled bathtub has brown stains, possibly from iodine, which will not come off with bleaching. How can they be removed?

Answer: An iodine stain can be taken out with household ammonia or with a solution of photographic hypo in water, strength not being important. Neither of these will injure the enamel.

Cleaning Stainless Steel

Question: Copper clad stainless steel kettles have been badly blackened or burned in a fire. How can they be cleaned?

Answer: Rub with fine steel wool and cleaning powder. If you want to renew the original polish, your best move will be to have them cleaned at a plating shop. A garage can give you the address of one nearby.

Roots in Sewer

Question: What will destroy willow roots that have grown into the sewer pipes?

Answer: Dissolve one-half pound or more of copper sulphate (blue vitriol) in a plumbing fixture and let it drain into the sewer. This will kill the roots and the effect will last for several weeks.

Solled Tile

Question: Parts of the tile floor in the bathroom of a house we have just bought are dirty looking in places. Kerosene does not clean it. What can we use?

Answer: Floor tile can be cleaned with scouring powder rubbed on with steel wool. For some stains bleaching liquid can be used.

Solled Golf Bag

Question: How can I clean a canvas golf bag?

Answer: Get after it with soap and water and a stiff scrubbing brush.

Household Hints

To bring out the full flavor of raisins, dates, currants or figs, soak them in a little boiling water for five minutes. Two tablespoons of boiling water for each half cup of fruit will be satisfactory.

Always keep perfume in a dark place. Daylight will affect every odor differently, according to its formula. In extreme cases perfume turns bright red as soon as it has been exposed to the sun.

Salt meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

When using a double boiler, the food will cook more quickly if the water in the outer vessel is salted in the proportion of a fourth of a cup of salt to one quart of water.

A siphon of charged water is an excellent fire extinguisher as the carbonic acid gas in the water helps to stifle the flames. The siphon can be tilted, and the fluid will carry to a considerable height such as the top of a blazing curtain.

Sailor Discovers That Appearances Deceive

The naval recruit was getting on very well with the blue-eyed and sweetly fragile damsel at the dance. Naturally he suggested having a bite to eat. She readily accepted, and they strolled into the dining room.

Presently, the sailor noticed that one waiter was staring at his partner rather too intently. At last he tackled the man.

"Don't you know it's very rude to stare at ladies?" he snapped.

"Sorry, sir," was the meek reply, "but it ain't rudeness—it's admiration, sir. This is the sixth time she's been down to supper tonight!"

Lenten Meals

Eggs, cheese, fish and vegetables—these are the foods that will be popular with the market basket during the next few weeks. If you are going to form the bases for your menu from these dishes cook them just as carefully as you do the meat that you use year 'round, for you can't take chances and let mealtime become dull or unattractive.

Point up fish and vegetables with lemon or other attractive sauces and flavorings. Serve your egg and macaroni dishes in attractive settings, with some carefully thought out garnish. Play up fruit and dessert numbers to lend interest to meals. If you heed these simple rules, I'm sure they'll make Lent especially attractive for you and your family.

Now, for some concrete help, I've chosen foods to fit the season. They're vitamin, mineral and interest-laden.

Macaroni Cheese Custard.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 1 package macaroni, cooked
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 cups grated cheese
- 2 tablespoons onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
- 1 pimiento, chopped
- Salt and pepper
- 2 cups evaporated milk

Combine ingredients and pour into a buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 45 minutes.

An appetite-satisfying omelet? You can't believe it? Well, this one is, because it's made with a cream cheese and chive mixture that makes the omelet heartier, and also keeps it from shrinking discouragingly the moment it comes from the oven. A slow oven is essential to a fluffy, orange-gold omelet:

*Cream Cheese Omelet.

- (Serves 6)
  - ¼ pound cream cheese with chives
  - 2 eggs
  - 2 tablespoons milk
  - Salt and pepper
- Soften the chive cream cheese, blend in egg yolks one at a time. Add milk and seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well-buttered, heavy frying pan and cook over low heat until bottom begins to brown. Then place in a moderate (325-degree) oven until the top is dry and the mixture firm. Fold and serve.

The name is goldenrod because the dish bears a close resemblance to a flower of that name. Just combine the goldenrod eggs with a tempting green spinach ring and you have a real Lenten treat:

Spinach Ring With Goldenrod Eggs.

- (Serves 8)
- 4 pounds spinach
- ½ cup salad oil

Lynn Says:

Sauces that accent the best flavor in foods include these:

Lemon Butter: 2 parts butter to 1 part lemon juice. This is good on the leafy vegetables, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and artichokes.

Vinegar Butter: Melt ½ cup butter, add 2 tablespoons vinegar and heat thoroughly. This is good on green beans.

Mustard Butter: Add just a bit of dry mustard to melted butter before pouring on vegetables. With this, onions, greens or broccoli are indicated.

Parsley Butter: Chop 3 to 4 tablespoons parsley fine, add to ½ cup melted butter.

Tart Sauce: (also good on fish) Put in double boiler 2 egg-yolks, ¼ cup cream, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, flick of nutmeg. Cook until thick and creamy, stirring constantly about 2 minutes. Be careful not to overcook. Stir in slowly, 2 tablespoons butter and serve at once.

This Week's Menu:

- Cream of Asparagus Soup
- *Cream Cheese Omelet
- Green Peas
- Baked Potatoes
- *Carrot, Pineapple and Raisin Salad
- Popovers
- Fruit Cup
- Coffee
- Butter
- Cookies
- Milk
- *Recipes Given.

1 tablespoon salt

¾ cup lemon juice

Wash and pick over spinach carefully. Place in kettle without adding water. Pour oil over spinach and mix thoroughly. Add salt and cook 8 to 10 minutes. Stir occasionally. Drain and chop. Add lemon juice and pack into an oiled 9-inch ring mold. Unmold on serving platter and fill with:

Goldenrod Eggs.

¼ cup melted butter

¼ cup flour

½ teaspoon salt

Pepper to taste

2 cups milk

4 hard-cooked eggs

Blend butter and flour, salt and pepper. Heat mixture and add milk gradually. Stir after each addition of milk to make a smooth sauce. Separate egg yolks and whites. Slice whites and add to prepared sauce. Pour sauce into unmolded spinach ring. Press yolks through a sieve to top sauce. Garnish with paprika, parsley and lemon quarters.

*Carrot, Pineapple, Raisin Salad.

Wash, scrape, and grate carrots finely, allow 2 carrots per person. Add cut pineapple, and either white or muscatel raisins and enough mayonnaise to hold mixture together.

A soufflé is a properly dramatic Lenten dish, but one which must be baked carefully if it is to come to the dining room at the peak of goodness. Select a cheese that will cook readily and smoothly, a dish that is in good proportion to the soufflé, and cook the mixture at a very low temperature so it can rise to its height slowly.

Cheese Soufflé.

(Serves 6)

4 tablespoons butter

4 tablespoons flour

1½ cups milk

1 teaspoon salt

Dash of cayenne

¾ pound processed cheddar cheese

6 eggs

Make a sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thick and smooth, remove from fire and add sliced cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Cool mixture, fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a 2-quart casserole; bake 1½ hours in a slow (300-degree) oven. Serve at once.

Cookies spell cheer to menus, especially if there's fruit to go with them. Made in two layers, these are a delightful variation of drop and "cut-in-squares" cookies:

Cornflake Dream Bars.

(Makes 40 bars)

First part:

¼ cup butter

½ cup brown sugar

1 cup flour

Second part:

1 cup brown sugar

2 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla

¼ teaspoon salt

1 cup shredded coconut

1 cup cornflakes

1 cup chopped nuts

Blend butter and sugar thoroughly. Add flour and blend with fork or dough blender. Press mixture evenly and firmly into bottom of a shallow pan (9 by 13-inch pan). Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about 15 minutes or until delicately browned.

Beat eggs well, add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on top of previously baked crust and spread evenly. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about 25 minutes. Cut into squares while still warm. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 8

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

DISCOVERING WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 43:34; Psalm 104:14, 15; Proverbs 31:4-7; Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Isaiah 56:12; I Corinthians 10:6, 7.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

The alcohol problem receives attention in four lessons of each year. This is the first one for 1942 and brings before us a number of scriptures not often used, in order to suggest the drinker's reasons for drinking. Other matters appear, but we shall limit ourselves to presenting these reasons, together with the Christian answer to each one.

Why do men drink?

I. To Be Sociable (Gen. 43:34). At the banquet prepared by Joseph the allowance for Benjamin was greatly increased, and they "drank and were merry." How often that has been the plea which has led into drinking and into drunkenness. The "social glass" has often led to the drunkard's grave.

Well, surely God wants us to be sociable. Yes, He does, and the perfect provision for man's social nature is found in Christian fellowship.

II. To Be Happy (Ps. 104:14, 15).

Wine is supposed to bring happiness, and we may admit that it does bring a temporary lift which some call happiness. But who is satisfied with happiness? It depends entirely on what "happens." If the wrong thing happens we are unhappy. We need a deep abiding joy, and only a right relationship to God can give that.

III. To Evade Responsibility (Prov. 31:4, 5).

When life's burdens become too much for him the weakling seeks relief and evades his responsibilities in the deadening power of alcohol. But that doesn't solve the problem. It is still there when sobriety returns, and usually more serious than ever. What can a man do? The answer is, turn to God. He gives wisdom, grace and strength.

IV. To Forget Sorrow (Prov. 31:6).

"Down your sorrows" is the deceptive promise of liquor; but they stand right there beside man, and when his poor befuddled head begins to clear they present themselves more persistently than ever. What's the answer? The God of all comfort is ready to bear man's sorrows or to give him grace to bear them and to lead him out into a place of peace and victory.

V. To Forget Poverty (Prov. 31:7).

Heavy is the affliction of poverty in a world of plenty. Sometimes it is the result of carelessness or of sin, but often it is the lot of those who are innocently caught in its grip. Men have tried to forget, "drown" even this problem in drink, and have only made their poverty worse and more unbearable.

VI. To Find Satisfaction (Eccl. 2:1-3, 10, 11).

The book of Ecclesiastes gives the account of a man "under the sun," that is, apart from God's guidance and blessing, seeking to satisfy the cravings of his heart in many ways. All of them prove vain, including the effort to find it in wine and in pleasure.

Frustrated souls often seek release through intoxicants. They gain a measure of liberty and a sense of masterful power, but it is all as delusive as the dreams of grandeur of the insane. It is even worse, for it is a false condition, deliberately created and soon lost, together with lost character and decency of life. The morning after brings only the deepened despair of greater dissatisfaction.

VII. To Stimulate Hope (Isa. 56:12).

A certain fearful looking forward to the time of judgment tends to dampen the drinker's enthusiasm. So he drinks more to reawaken in his heart the "hope" that tomorrow will not bring reckoning, but will be another "good" day. The world has no real hope, in fact, the word itself has lost its true meaning and indicates only a sort of wishful thinking. Is there any real hope? Oh, yes, and the Christian has it, hope that is a confident expectation of the fulfillment of God's every promise. That kind of hope takes care of tomorrow—and all the tomorrows.

VIII. To Encourage Play (I Cor. 10:6, 7).

Paul warns against the folly of the "eat, drink, and be merry" philosophy. That road ends in disaster.

Does not God want us to play? Indeed He does. He gave us the instinct for recreation. We need pleasant relaxation, and He has provided for us all the beauties of nature, all the pleasures of wholesome play, and all in the finest of fellowship with His people and with Himself. Thus we find real recreation—not just fun that leaves us empty and dissatisfied.

Latest Silhouette Combines Box Pleats With Long Torso

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN DISCUSSING and planning for a program of timely dress for women during the war period, it has been definitely conceded by everyone concerned in fashion industries and design that in order to render the highest service women must see to it that they are an inspiration in appearance as well as in deed.

This sentiment is reflected in the charming costumes illustrated above. These models, selected from a galaxy designed and displayed by the style creators of Chicago in their spring showings, are just the sort that women will love to wear and soldiers will take delight in seeing.

Gay in color and young in feeling is the ensemble shown to the left in the foreground of the above illustration. Here a navy coat in spun rayon and wool mixture is worn over a red and white printed crepe frock. The self-fabric ties, tipped with little plastic dice; repeat the print motif of the dress; thus making a new-looking closing for the coat. White saddle stitching trims pockets, sleeves and the red leather applique on the coat front.

To the right in the foreground a novelty striped print in white and red on green ground is paired with a bright red spun rayon and wool jacket. Self fabric ruching trims the dress collar which is worn outside the cardigan jacket. The skirt has all-around box pleats below a deep hip yoke.

The costume shown to the right in the above illustration conveys the most welcome and highly important style news, that the bolero costume has returned in all its glory to the fashion picture. You will see boleros played up throughout the style program this season. In this case self-color eyelet embroidery elaborates the bolero jacket of a two-piece navy sheer costume. The bodice, softly draped at the top, is pink.

To the left above in the picture is shown a two-piece dress that uses a shantung weave, combining white, orange and brown in daring contrast. The separate skirt features box pleats from a hip yoke. Box pleats are really newer than side pleating. Eminent correct for a wartime "suit wedding" is the creamy beige sheer ensemble at the top right in the above illustration. The full-length coat looks like a dress but is really a wide pleated skirt seamed to a jacket top, with self-covered buttons down the front from neck to hemline. Finely pleated bowknots trim the four slit pockets that adorn jacket and skirt. The dress worn under this coat repeats the pleated skirt of the coat, while gathered bodice fullness develops from a deep yoke.

Generally speaking, the favorite silhouette is the long torso effect with some sort of pleated skirt. Also, there is much interest in slim wrap-around skirts and those which have slenderizing harem drapes. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

New Flounce

This dress has two very important style messages to convey. The one is the coming-again for all-over embroidery on wool, or rayons and cottons that look like wool. The other is the news that simple wool frocks will be finished off at the hemline with a flounce. Flounces are among the ways designers are contriving to add a prettily feminine note to simple daytime frocks. In the smartest dress collections you will see flounces conspicuously featured. The gown pictured in the above illustration is of soft beige wool with bright green embroidered diamond dots. It has a softly molded waistline, set-in belt and, of course, the flounce!

Style Show Reflects

Lowly Fabrics' Use

A preview of spring and summer styles held in Chicago recently showed the 18,000 buyers from 17 states that they were going to carry home an array of chambrays, calicos and denims in women's and children's fashions. For these lowly fabrics have come into their own because of the influence of war.

Style and practicability are still the theme in these fashions, for the designers have kept their eye on both national defense needs, and the desires of millions of women purchasers in stores throughout the nation. Dresses, garden costumes, play clothes and work uniforms—all have been styled by the designers to reflect the signs of the times.

Until manufacturers run out of twills and such fabrics which are fashioned into foundation garments, girdles are here to stay, despite the rubber shortage.

Priorities on tin and other defense needs have caused tie fastenings instead of hooks and eyes, zippers, buttons and clasps to be substituted. Everything in garments has taken on the practical atmosphere. Everything except the hostess coat which still remains silken and luxurious.

Now They Trim Your Hat

To Match Your Blouse!

There is going to be a riot of frilly, frothy neckwear, and milliners are giving us something new in the way of hats that repeat the snowy lingerie accents. For instance, a wide brimmed straw or felt hat may be outlined with an organdy frill that repeats the frill used in the showy jabot. The jabot is one of the most important neckwear items featured this season.

Serve and Adorn

Besides serving industry, women will also adorn it. Trousered uniforms, made from denim and chambray, without trim or buttons, and with tight cuffs as accident preventives were noticed in a recent spring and summer style show.

Married to a Tree

The Hindu believes it is unlucky to marry a third time. Therefore a man who has had two wives, and wants to marry again, first goes through the ceremony of being married to a tree, which becomes his third wife. Then he marries his chosen bride.

The tree is draped in yellow cotton and a sari (the principal robe of a Hindu woman) is placed beside it. Water is then poured round it three times. The customary screen is erected between the "bride" and "bridegroom," and the usual bridal necklace is placed round a branch of the tree.

Immediately after the ceremony the tree is cut down and burned, and the bridegroom marries the woman of his choice.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Ordinance No. 58

An Ordinance relative to the disease of Rabies among dogs, the establishment of a quarantine therefor, and to provide penalties for the violation of this Ordinance.

The City of East Jordan Ordains:

Section 1. Rabid Dog, Quarantine; Complaint by Health Officer.

It is hereby made the duty of the Health Officer of the city of East Jordan to whom cases of rabies among dogs and other animals are reported, to immediately investigate the same and should such investigation show a reasonable probability that a dog or other animal is affected with the disease known as rabies, the health officer shall immediately establish such temporary quarantine as may be necessary to prevent the spread of the disease and to make immediate complaint thereof in the manner provided in Section four (4) hereof.

Section 2. Muzzling or Confinement of Dogs; Order.

The said health officer, when in his judgement such action is necessary to prevent the spread of the disease of rabies, shall have the power to order all dogs in the city of East Jordan or any part thereof, restrained, confined or muzzled.

Section 3. Same; Notice of Order.

The order of the health officer to restrain, confine or muzzle dogs shall be operative when a copy of such order shall have been left at the usual place of residence of the owner or owners of dogs that are believed to have been exposed to the said disease, or when a copy of said order has been posted in three (3) of the most public places in the city of East Jordan or part thereof to which said order applies.

Section 4. Complaint to Justice; Hearing; Notice; Order.

The health officer or any resident of the city of East Jordan may make a complaint to the Justice of the Peace of said city, when any dog within said city is rabid or has been bitten by or been fighting with any other dog or other animal that is rabid, or has been running at large in violation of the order of said health officer. Upon such complaint it shall be the duty of the said justice to give notice to the owner of such dog or dogs to appear forthwith for the hearing of such complaint. Either party, the complainant or the owner of the dog complained of may require a trial by jury, and the proceedings on said hearing shall follow the same rules and procedure as those provided for criminal actions before a justice of the peace, and with the right of appeal to the Circuit Court.

If upon said hearing the justice shall be satisfied, in cases heard without a jury, and in cases determined by jury, the jury shall find, that the said dog is rabid, has been bitten by or been fighting with any other dog or other animal that is rabid or has been running at large in violation of the said order of the said health officer, the justice shall be authorized to make an order that such dog or dogs be killed. Provided, That the justice, at his discretion, wherein it does not appear at the hearing that the dog or dogs in question are rabid, may order the said dog or dogs restrained for a period of ninety days or such time as the said justice may deem necessary.

Provided Further, that in all cases in which the owner of the dog or dogs complained of cannot be ascertained, after a period of five days during which the said dog or dogs shall be restrained or confined or both, the said justice may immediately thereafter order the said dog or dogs to be killed.

Section 5. Order to Kill.

In all cases in which the dog is ordered to be killed, and the time for appeal has expired, the justice shall issue an order to the police of the city of East Jordan directing him or them to forthwith kill and bury said dog or dogs.

Section 6. Penalty; Officers.

Any officer refusing or neglecting to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to the penalties prescribed by law in such cases.

Section 7. Same; Other Persons.

Any person violating any of the provisions of this act, or of the quarantine or regulation or order to restrain, confine or muzzle dogs, duly established or issued by the health officer as provided in this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or to imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Section 8. This ordinance is hereby declared to be necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and is given immediate effect. Adopted this 2nd day of March A. D. 1942.

C. HEALEY, Mayor
 Countersigned:
 WM. ALDRICH, City Clerk.

CAN SCIENCE TRIUMPH OVER HOODOOR; SAVE THE "NORMANDIE"?

Can the ill-fated ship be raised, and break a nautical jinx? The American Weekly with this Sunday's (March 8) issue of the Detroit Sunday Times points out that, in 10 years, six sister ships have met their doom, under circumstances strangely like those that sent the rechristened "Lafayette" to the bottom of the Hudson River. Be sure to get Sunday's Detroit Times.

Enemy air raids on Michigan cities or the Soo locks could occur during April or May when weather would be more suitable for long distance flying, according to military advice. Inconsistency exists in the fact that the army has not taken steps yet to designate Michigan as a possible target for air attacks although President Roosevelt said in a recent press conference that Detroit could be bombed under certain conditions.

Protective defense services — such as air raid wardens and fire and police volunteers — are in charge of Capt. Don Leonard, Michigan State police, who was designated months ago by the governor as coordinator for these agencies in Michigan. Official instructions courses have been prepared by the Office of Civilian Defense at Washington for which Leonard was a special field man for many months.

Ludington is all excited over prospects of the huge chemical defense plant to be constructed there by the Defense Plant Corp. and operated by the Dow Magnesium Corp. In Benton Harbor a new mine-sweeper was launched. A new lock is believed assured for the St. Mary's River canal at Sault Ste. Marie.

Brighter news from the industrial front in contrast to the flow of reverses from the war front, was reflected in an announcement by the state unemployment compensation commission that 111,533 claims had been paid to jobless as of February 21, as compared to previous official forecast of 250,000 to 300,000.

Reason, as given by Wendell L. Lund, commission director: "Unexpected industrial activity and greater speed in defense absorption of the idle."

It seems that everybody won in the recent legislative skirmish over unemployment compensation benefits. The Republican legislature and the Democratic governor are both claiming credit for liberalizing maximum payments from $16 to $20 for 20 weeks, minimum payments $7 to $10 for 12 weeks.

Director Wendell Lund said that manufacturers and employers were happy. And the best acclaim of all came from Ewan Clague, associate director of the Federal employment security division of the Social Security Board: "Michigan is to be congratulated that it has the best unemployment insurance law in the United States."

Clague said the trend was toward a "straight state system" in contrast to federal benefits granted by Congress to pressure groups for political purposes.

Local draft boards are to be cautioned by Brig. General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, against exhausting farm labor rolls in their counties. General Hershey said in Washington: "One of the hardest men you have to convince that he is a specialist is the farmer. Farmers are patriotic. They don't try to get exemptions."

Recommendations of the civil service commission for saving $171,000 annually are to be put into effect by the state liquor control commission, following the recent reorganization effected by Governor Van Wagener.

The newest reform followed appointment of Ralph Thomas of Detroit as chairman and Felix H. H. Flynn, formerly on the unemployment compensation commission, as a member.

Recognizing a war-time demand for industrial efficiency, the commission took steps to discourage "any conditions in the industry, which interfere with all-out production." In other words, war orders will get the right of way over liquor licenses, when the two clash.

Recent public opinion polls by Dr. George Gallup have shown a rise in sentiment for prohibition.

Herbert J. Rushton, attorney general, has upheld the right of the civil service commission to reorganize state governmental agencies in order to eliminate unnecessary employees and to effect operating economies. The constitutional amendment on civil service, however, does not remove control of state departments from state officials except for the assignment and placing of personnel subject to civil service. It was held.

G. Donald Kennedy, state commissioner of highways, reported a reduction of department payroll by 13.0 per cent for January. Gasoline revenues are expected to decline due to tire rationing and Kennedy is taking steps to keep operating costs in line with 1942 revenues. Highway construction will be limited virtually to war needs.

The pension repeal was whooped through the house of representatives at Washington by unanimous vote of Michigan's 17 representatives.

Editorial comment on defense: (by Stanley Banyon in the Benton Harbor News-Palladium).

"How many hours a week do the boys on Bataan work? If the Japs attack on Sunday, do you think the American troops demand double time for overtime?"

"The work week is between 55 and 60 hours in Great Britain. It is between 60 and 70 hours in Germany."

"This is war. Every American must work as many hours as compatible with maximum efficiency. He should be paid for every hour at his regular pay rate. The 40-hour work week overtime penalties — like excessive profits — are holding back the war effort. For the duration, they must go!"

Chase S. Osborn writing in the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News: "This is no time to get too cocky or to think of ourselves as bullies or anything of that sort. But it is wholesome to remember that Americans have never shirked a fight when they were in the right. They really appear to have enjoyed dying for their country. It is as good a way to be assured of future happiness as can be found. Sooner or later the Americans are going to wipe the Japanese off the face of the earth."

If the boys with MacArthur can take it so can we!

So said a World War veteran on the midnight-to-dawn shift at Colt's patent-fire arms plant in Connecticut when he explained why the men called it the "MacArthur shift".

M. A. Gorman, editor of the Flint Journal, observed editorially: "What a boon it would be if this spirit should take root throughout American life! And it must."

THERE'S A K IN VICTORY!

This war is being fought with resources as well as with men. Every pound of vital materials that can be conserved for weapons and munitions is another step on the road to victory.

About the time the war began in Europe, Bell System engineers were starting to use the "K" carrier system — a new telephone development which now is saving large quantities of copper for use in implements of war.

In operation, the "K" carrier system enables two pairs of wires in parallel cables to carry as many as twelve separate conversations at the same time!

"K" carrier is helping Michigan Bell handle more Long Distance calls with fewer wires — making an important saving in copper.

Even with the help of research and invention, increasing shortages of materials make it difficult to satisfy service demands as promptly as in the past. But we are confidently determined that every war need will be met.
