

County Fire Control Survey

INVENTORY OF FIRE APPARATUS HAS BEEN COMPLETED

Strictly as a war time project a rural fire protection program has been developed throughout the county. It will be recalled that some little time ago an educational program was conducted through all of the schools which really contacted every rural family. Since that time the County Rural Fire Committee consisting of Edward Starbuck, Chairman, Representative of the Conservation Department, Edwin K. Reuling, Representative of the County Defense Council & B. C. Mellenkamp, Representative of the County War Board has been busy engaged in taking an inventory of equipment owned by farmers that can be used in time of need and in making recommendations.

This county has been divided into twelve communities and the local war club leaders in each community have submitted inventories of fire fighting equipment and machinery on the various farms included in the local war club. We find that farmers fortunately have quite a large number of power sprayers which are most desirable in case of fire emergency. In fact, our survey indicates that there are ninety-two power sprayers. Demonstrations, staged in many counties using a power sprayer to put out a fire show clearly that they are most desirable and will put out a fire in two minutes time.

The committee urges each owner of a power sprayer to purchase additional hose and a proper gun which will make the outfit useful in time of need. Plans are being developed to have a demonstration in Charlevoix county on November 5th. We expect to select a small building which the owner does not want. We will set the building on fire and then will put it out by means of a power sprayer.

Also the committee is recommending that townships within the county who do not have any working agreements with the nearest city fire department to immediately make plans to work out some arrangement whereby they may be afforded protection in time of fire. We find that in the Charlevoix area that the townships of Marlon, Eveline and Hayes have agreements with the Charlevoix Fire Department; whereby farm calls will be made at a certain guaranteed cost. In the East Jordan area the townships of South Arm, Wilson and Eveline have helped purchase the East Jordan Fire Department equipment and thus have protection. In all of the other townships the farmers are handicapped. It would only seem logical and proper for all townships in the county to make a closer study of fire protection needs and work out some type of program that will adequately safeguard the farms. Today it's not only the loss from fire but the inability to replace buildings that have been burned.

The committee further recommends that a larger number of extension ladders be purchased. Very few farmers have ladders tall enough to reach the roof of their house or barn. More fire extinguishers should be purchased. In other words every precaution that can be made is greatly desirable to the county committee. Just think for a few minutes what would be available if your barn catches on fire. Do you have any water in a barrel or water tank close by? Do you have a ladder that you can immediately find? Do you have enough pails?

Mrs. O. F. Root Passes At Midland

Mrs. O. F. Root, who for a number of years has been a resident of Boyne City, passed away at Midland, Mich., at the home of her son Fayne Morrison at 3 p.m. Wednesday, October 28th.

Mrs. Root was 82 years of age at the time of her death. The final services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday, October 31, from the Stacks Funeral Home, with Rev. J. M. DeVinney conducting the service.

Rural Scrap Harvest

Three big days, October 29, 30 and 31. It is hoped that the recent heavy snow will not interfere with the three big days of getting the Victory Scrap piles moved to the Government Scrap Depots where it can be put in circulation to make the tanks, guns, and ships to whip the Axis powers.

All local war club leaders are to contact their community chairman to make arrangements to get trucks to move their local scrap piles. The County Salvage Committee has been informed that a Flint scrap company has purchased the first government scrap pile which weighed about 50 tons.

Everyone having scrap ready to sell is urged to move it to one of the scrap outlets yet in October to help Charlevoix County meet its quota in the National Scrap Harvest. Let's keep our county on the map.

Commercial Motor Vehicles Must Be Registered By Nov. 15th

The Office of Defense Transportation, in an urgent message to operators of commercial motor vehicles in this area, asked them to fill out and return without delay their applications for a Certificate of War Necessity.

Applications for operators in this county already have been distributed, according to ODT. Any carrier who has not received an application blank should apply to his ODT Motor Transport-Division Field Office for Form CWN-4.

In its urgent appeal, ODT stated: "After Nov. 15, all trucks, buses, taxicabs and other commercial motor vehicles must carry Certificates of War Necessity. Without a certificate it will be impossible to obtain gasoline, tires or parts for any such vehicles."

"Carriers should fill out their applications accurately and return them at once in self-addressed envelopes provided for the purpose. Avoid mistakes. Fill out all pertinent questions fully.

Mistakes in the applications, or incomplete answers, will mean delay in obtaining certificates."

The ODT field office for this county is located at 602 North Mitchell Street, Cadillac, Michigan.

AAA PROGRAM IN CHARLEVOIX CO.

New provisions regarding the application of commercial fertilizers have been approved for the 1943 AAA Program. The need for increased feed production has made it necessary to revise the rulings regarding the uses of commercial fertilizer to assist in obtaining sufficient feed supplies for the coming year.

Under the new provisions, commercial fertilizer, either purchased from a dealer or obtained under the AAA conservation materials program, may be applied to small grain crops providing that the grain crop is sowed with a legume or grass in the same operation or later in the growing season. Payment will be earned at the rate of 85 percent of the cost of the fertilizer when applied in this manner. We wish to make special mention of the fact that this practice applies to all grain crops with the exception of wheat for the reason that an increase in the production of wheat is not needed at this time.

New shipments of AAA fertilizer are being received in the county this month and we are urging every farmer who has not placed his order for fertilizer for the coming year to do so at once. Either write or call at the AAA office in Boyne City for further details regarding the amount you are eligible to receive and the analysis available.

Farm Contours Save Fuel, Time

Soil conservation proves a wartime boon to thousands of Michigan farmers who find that the streamline method of operation boosts crop yields and reduces labor, declares Hunter Hering of Grand Haven, president of the state association of officials of soil conservation districts.

"Every acre of land has to do its part in the war," Hering stated. "The United States now is mobilizing its manpower for war, and no less will we have to mobilize our land for the war and for the years after the United Nations have scored a total victory."

"Only through conservation can we maintain the productivity of our land and insure our national security of the future."

Hering called attention to the fact that many farmers who have adopted the erosion control programs of the soil conservation districts find that the system increases yields of corn and small grain from 5 to 10 bushels per acre. Some vegetables and fruits growers, likewise, have reported marked increases in production.

One of the points in the programs of districts is contour or "on the level" cultivation. Hering said this practice requires less fuel and labor than up and up hill cultivation.

Slight Changes In Premium List For Fair November 3rd

A few slight changes are being made in the premium list of the Open Class Women's Canning and Baked Goods department of the East Jordan Victory Harvest School Fair, at East Jordan, Tuesday, November 3rd.

Those women who cannot conveniently exhibit 6 quarts of fruit or vegetables are invited to exhibit 3 quarts. In other words the minimum number is 3. The maximum number is 6.

A prize will be offered for the best sugar saving recipe entered with the product baked from the recipe.

Red-Cross Quota Must Be Finished By December 15th

East Jordan's present quota of 9,000 4 by 4 inch sponges must be finished by Dec. 15th, when another quota will be ready for making.

To do this it is necessary to fold 1125 each week. Our first week's work, when we were learning, was 7124. Tuesday of this week 607 were folded but it is necessary to make up the shortage so a meeting will be held this week on Friday, beginning at 1:00 p. m. and all who can possibly do so are urged to come and help with the work which is done in Room 10 of the new school building.

Do not wait for a special invitation. This is everybody's war and your help is vital to the care of our boys in the service. They are giving their lives; won't you give your time?

Farm Security Adm. Starts New Program

A six-point wartime food production and marketing program, ordered by the National Food Requirements Committee, is being put into work immediately by the Farm Security Administration in Charlevoix County. Robert W. Ries, FSA Supervisor, announced today.

The program, contained in a directive from Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard, who is also chairman of the National Food Requirements Committee, charges the FSA with the responsibility of bringing in to full production the land, labor and resources of the small farm operators who, with the aid of Farm Security, will be able to achieve their maximum output of food and fiber.

The job ahead, as outlined in Secretary Wickard's directive, is to make the best use of man power, land and equipment to produce and market the food that is vital to victory. Farm Security will encourage small farmers who can get credit through normal channels to do so, in order that the financing job we and other federal agencies do will make the greatest possible contribution to the production of food," Mr. Ries said.

Secretary Wickard, in his directive to the FSA, said, "There is no question that those who can produce more will produce more. There is a serious question, however, whether a great part of our farmers, a third or more of them, can bring their labor into full use and their land into full production through their own unaided efforts."

"This Nation cannot produce too much of the food needed to win this war. The needs of the United Nations today are in many cases already greater than the available supply. With adequate organization and effort we can meet this vast demand!"

It's no use puttin on airs that ain't natural to you — another man's coat is bound to wrinkle up on you somewheres.

EAST JORDAN VS ONAWAY

Last Friday morning a squad of twenty-six fellows made the eighty-mile trip to Onaway expecting to win their first ball game having tied both Mancelona and Charlevoix.

The game scheduled for 2 p. m. didn't get under way until 3 p. m. It was a clear day with a strong wind blowing from the west. Everything was set for the Crimson's Wave's first victory.

East Jordan kicked off to Onaway and held them for four downs on their forty. The East Jordan team then began a drive which ended with the score coming from Onaway's fifteen on a pass from quarterback Bill Saxton to the left half. Kemp's kick from placement failed. East Jordan then kicked to Onaway and after trying their ground attack for a couple of downs which failed, started throwing everything but the referee into the secondary of the Wave. A pass to the left end netted them thirty yards down to East Jordan's twenty at the quarter ended. Immediately after a pass in the end zone was completed, the extra point failed and once again the score was tied.

At the half, the Waves came out fighting still confident of victory, but their confidence was thwarted. Midway in the third quarter, Onaway scored again on a delayed off-tackle spinner play from their own thirty which caught the complete defense of East Jordan flat-footed. The extra point was good. The score read Onaway 13, East Jordan 6. From here East Jordan started a drive which was halted when Bill Saxton was injured. Parker Seiler replaced him while Capt. Stallard called signals from his tackle spot. With about five minutes to go East Jordan started another drive which reached the opponents' fifteen yard line which again was stopped when a flat pass was intercepted and the interceptor, racing eighty-five yards, accounted for the third Onaway touchdown. The extra point failed, and at the gun the score read 19 to 6.

The starting lineup:
L E — T. Kemp
L T — E. Stallard
L G — H. Young
C — L. Hickox
R G — E. Murphy
R T — W. Gilkerson
R E — B. Woodcock
Q — B. Saxton
R H — W. Walden
F — L. Nemecek

Saturday East Jordan takes on a favored Harbor Springs team. If you think the fight was all taken out of fellows, you're badly mistaken, mister. With the return of Charles Saxton to the lineup it's going to be a better game than most people think.

P. T. A. DISCUSSES ATTENDANCE

At the October meeting of the P. T. A. the discussion of the evening centered around school attendance. Because of the labor shortage we hear how important it is for students to help on farms in order to harvest crops and supply our nation with food. Though very important it should not be used as an excuse to keep pupils out of school more than is absolutely necessary.

"When a student misses class he can never entirely make up what he missed" explained Mr. Walcutt. The student misses out on the class discussions which cannot be repeated for the one who was absent.

There are two kinds of students according to the members present: (1) Those who think of school as a business and attend regularly and (2) those who think of school as a place to go when they feel like attending. Parents were held responsible for giving students permission to

WAR

ON ALL FRONT

A SERIES OF SPECIAL ARTICLES BY THE LEADING WAR CORRESPONDENTS

In Jap Hands for 60 Days

By M. C. Ford

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

I am one of the Americans who survived two months of a Japanese prison. I was one of those forgotten men, charged with nothing, but reduced to the level of the lowest and vilest criminals in China. Two months in Bridgehouse, torture theater of Japanese terrorism in Shanghai, end of the road of missing men.

Strangely enough, for the first time in my life I was not afraid to die, to expect the worst.

Not far away and not so long ago, humble Chinese soldiers had died. I could see, through the small, rain-spattered window, the ruins of a five-story building which had been their front line. Braided for the worst, I sat quietly on a vermin-infested blanket.

In one corner a Bagdad millionaire lay sick and unattended. A Russian hotel manager knelt against the side wall and prayed. A British professor cajoled the guards for the medicine he needed. Twenty-four Chinese—chattered softly among themselves, against the rules. Seven of them were sick with malaria.

A leper kept at a safe distance, except at mealtimes when he scrambled with the rest for his bowl of rice and later, in the same bowl, hot water flavored with tea.

Herded Together Like Animals.

All of us inhabited one wooden cage 14 feet wide and 17 feet long, giving on a wooden stage three feet above the cement floor, with a trough three feet wide separating the stage from the line of wooden pickets that made up the east wall and joined with pickets of the north wall. The other walls were solid boarding.

Murderers, pickpockets, dope fiends and opium smokers rubbed elbows with high and low. One Chinese, dying of consumption, slept next to me.

Followed Gestapo Methods.

Following Gestapo methods, five armed gendarmes had rung my doorbell in the middle of the night, searched my apartment and hauled me off to the "torture circus" with bundles of papers and files.

I settled down in Cage Number One in the old block, where I spent days sitting on the floor on a lice-infested Japanese military blanket, without reading matter or time-piece, and risking a beating every time I whispered to foreigners or Chinese.

When nine o'clock arrived we were permitted to lie down. The light in the center of the ceiling was on all night. I employed my mind picking out the Chinese character for "prisoner" and noting how many times it was used in the placard giving 13 regulations.

At the place where the pickets joined at the northeast sat the corporal in charge of this cage block, in an alcove where he was able to reinforce our cage's regular guard in keeping the prisoners from relaxing—an art in which our soft-shoed guards excelled.

A Long, Hard Day Ahead.

On rising at 6 a. m., four or five men from each cage were allowed to put on shoes, which had to be left outside the cages, and hurry to the hydrant for a few minutes of cleaning faces, after which the next relay came out.

Breakfast was hot rice gruel, and was the best meal of the day. It was handed in via a small hole in the picketed door at 7 a. m., usually with one chopstick for each, but sometimes with none, therefore fingers were used. At eleven and four the food was rice and fishheads and a chunk of bread with a spoonful of brown sugar.

Frequent Change of Guards.

Guards were changed every two hours. We were alert in watching our steps when the worst ones were on duty. Punishment was a series of blows on the head, face or back with a rubber hose.

After two weeks I contracted fever and three days later was permitted to go upstairs to see a doctor. I had malaria. He prescribed powders which the guards gave me two days later when I was delirious.

While lying in a corner one day, the guard ordered me to sit up along side the sick Chinese, whereupon I sat up. Each night I thought I would die, but the morning trip to the hydrant refreshed me and renewed my courage.

When I was recovering from malaria, the questioning began. I was taken to the fifth floor, with an escort who was careful to make me walk away from the railings lest I should be tempted to jump.

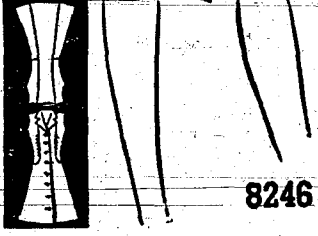

I was seated at a bench while the interrogator and the interpreter sat opposite and aside.

PREPAREDNESS

by the AMERICAN RED CROSS

SO THAT America will be well prepared on the home front, the American Red Cross has set a goal of one person in every home to be trained in home nursing.

Red Cross home nursing courses teach simple methods of keeping the family well, and how to care for its members in sickness. The students—mostly women, many men and large numbers of young people—are also taught to recognize symptoms in the early stages.

So far in this war, more than 90 per cent of the civilian casualties have not been hospitalized. Instead they have been given first aid and whatever emergency treatment was necessary and then sent home.

A large portion of such civilian war casualties have required home nursing care which, due to the shortage of nurses, had to be provided by members of the family.

To enable every family to provide home care for the sick, whether due to enemy action or natural causes, immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Red Cross started a plan to teach home nursing to every family.

Since our entry into the war, more than 500,000 men and women in nearly every county in the United States have completed their home nursing course. Another quarter of a million are now taking the course in more than 3,000 Red Cross chapters.

Any group of 20 or more can form a home nursing class by agreeing on a time and place of meeting. After being notified, the county Red Cross chapter will then appoint a graduate nurse instructor.

Smile Awhile

Needed Treatment
At a boarding house a guest was sawing away at the sinewy knee-joint of a roast chicken leg. At last, waving an arm towards a bottle of sauce on the table, near the landlady's elbow, he said:

"Pass the liniment, please, Mrs. McPherson. This seagull has rheumatism."

Come to That
"According to the law of supply and demand," began her husband, who liked to explain things.

"No one demands anything at a store now, dear," she interrupted; "it's the law of supply and demand."

Have a Care
"I owe my figure to swimming exercises."

"Say, did you ever take a look at a duck?"

A woman's face is her fortune— as long as it goes on drawing interest.

Earlier Start

Two small boys at the charity dinner put their grimy hands side by side on the tablecloth. "Mine's dirtier 'n yours!" exclaimed one, triumphantly. "Huh!" said the other, disdainfully, "you're two years older 'n me."

It Would!
"What lovely salmon!"
"That's not salmon; that's cod blushing at the price they're asking for it."

The class had had a lesson on Eskimos, and were asked to write an account of it. One bright youngster began: "The Eskimos are God's frozen people."

He Should Know
"Does the foreman know that the trench has fallen in?" asked the contractor.

"Well, sir," replied the workman, "we're digging him out to tell him."

As Molded
"Figures don't lie."
"They're not supposed to. They are simply raw material in the hands of the expert."

Carry a Tune
The top sergeant sang out just before the company was dismissed: "All those fond of music step two paces forward!"

With visions of a soft job in the regimental band, half a dozen men stepped out.

The sergeant growled: "Now then, you six mugs get busy and carry that piano up to the top floor of the officers' quarters."

AROUND THE HOUSE

A receiving shelf in a niche at the top and bottom approach to a stairway for articles to be carried up or down will save steps and prevent accidents.

A use for onion skins: Wipe gilt frames with a soft, dry cloth. Then, rub with the skin of an onion. See how it brightens the frame.

Buy sheets and blankets extra-wide, then use them part of the time with the length across the bed.

By starting with a moderate flame and gradually increasing its intensity, the temperature of an oven can be controlled more easily.

Hose hint: To save time and hose just rub paraffin on the inside of the toes of your hose and you will have no more darning to do for a long time. One application lasts through many launderings.

Mildew stains should be removed while fresh— by laundering.

Pins and needles are made of vital wartime metal so have pin-cushions or special receptacles for keeping them.

The best way to get even distribution of heat in a room is to run a small fan.

Soiled playing cards can be cleaned by rubbing them with a soft cloth slightly moistened with camphor solution.

Remember that it is the contact of heat with the dampened garment that removes wrinkles in ironing. Don't wear yourself out bearing down on the iron.

Surely Neighbor Would Be Happy to Contribute

Answering a determined tap at the door, Mrs. Jones opened it to face her neighbor, who was obviously very wrought up about something.

"It's that boy of yours," she snorted. "He's just thrown this brick through my window. It came within an inch of hitting me!"

A pleased look came into Mrs. Jones' face.

"Really! How interesting!" she exclaimed. "I wonder if you will let me have the brick? We're trying to keep all the little mementoes of his youthful pranks; they'll be so interesting when he grows up."

Grass and Hay

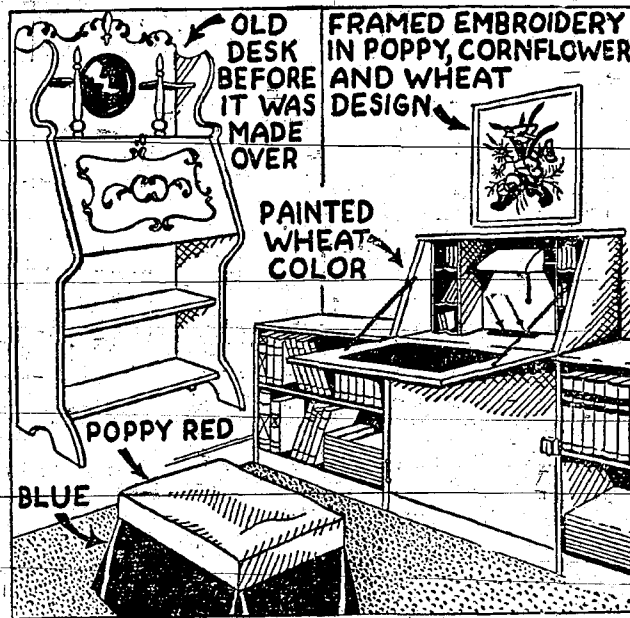

Grass and hay produce such beef and brawn as horses and bullocks possess and yet are unsuitable for humans because the digestive apparatus of the herbivorous animals has become specially adjusted to deal with the coarse fibers of grass, and specially enlarged to cope with the great bulk that must be taken daily in order to secure adequate nourishment. Humans can eat young, tender shoots of some kinds of grass without ill effects, but the hard stalks that cause no inconvenience to a horse would be as damaging to us as the grit, a chicken swallows.

Many grass-eating animals like cows and camels have multiple stomachs to help them.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is a sketch of a corner in a smart living room. Over the desk hangs a piece of applique work that any woman who can sew a seam can make with a piece of natural colored linen, a few scraps of gingham and odds and ends of embroidery thread. The design is of poppies, cornflowers and wheat.

with graceful green leaves. The poppy petals and leaves are of gingham applied on the linen. The bright blue cornflowers, the yellow wheat and stems are embroidered in simple stitches.

This quickly made piece of hand work was framed by stretching it over cardboard, and it set the color scheme for the entire room. No one would ever guess that the desk is a transformation of the fancy oak one shown at the left. The top was sawed off and a plain board added. The bookcases were then added at the sides and the plywood door was hinged to them.

NOTE: A hot iron transfer has been made of this applique design with extra patterns of cornflowers and poppies for a luncheon set or guest towels. You will love working with these fascinating colors and the quick results are just the thing for Christmas gifts. Send your order to:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Rubber is not the sap of a tree, but is the latex found in tubes that run lengthwise throughout the inner part of the bark.

Individual car owners can conserve rubber. Never drive over 35 miles an hour, check inflation pressure once a week, check wheel alignment every six months, rotate tires (including spares) to different wheels every 3,000 miles. It is not a difficult habit to acquire and it will keep you rolling longer.

Why balk at 35 miles an hour restriction in Jerusalem 8 miles an hour is the limit for automobiles, with the speed warnings printed in Arabic, Hebrew and English.

The Army is supplied by hundreds of thousands of repaired trucks, just one of which for a 2 1/2 ton vehicle, takes more than 7 times as much rubber as your passenger car.

Pancon bridges are built of rubber floats that take more than a ton and a half of rubber.

Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

ED REULING — EDITOR

Dear Fellows:

As I start to write I have an idea that I'm going to find it tough to fill the space reserved for this column. It isn't because I lack a thing, but it just seems like there isn't a whole lot to write about. I haven't kept an accurate check received from you fellows to determine whether you wrote in reply to requests to write contained in the mimeographed letter, or in this column. It does seem, however, that the number of letters received has been falling off lately. Actually the main information which this column should contain is news from and about each of you. If you don't write how am I to get the news? Come on boys — let's have some letters.

A few people have seen fit to criticize because I have failed to mention something that they thought I should have, or have said something that they thought was not in accord with the true facts. Now fellows — my only source of information is just what I happen to pick up in the ordinary course of events during the week, and what I write are my own ideas. I don't go out of my way particularly to get news for you because I haven't time. If I happen to make a mistake I'm sorry. Any mistakes I do make are unintentional, and anything important that I have overlooked writing about is because it hadn't been called to my attention. The only thing I hope to accomplish is to give you boys a little reading that you might not otherwise get. The fact that you get the paper kind of limits the things that I can write about in this column since it wouldn't be news to you, if a similar separate item appeared elsewhere in the same paper.

You might be interested in knowing how I keep track of all of you. I have a card-index file with a separate card for each of you with name, rank and address. As each letter is received or change of address is reported I note it on the back of the card. The letters are numbered and the number also noted on the card. Thus, by checking your cards I can tell just where you have been, when you have written, and by referring to the number can easily locate your letter. If I keep the file up to date from day to day it's not much of a job to check at the end of the week and pick up any information that I might want to include in this column.

I know that all of you are busy and sometimes are not located where it is convenient to write. If, however, you all will make just a little extra special effort to keep in touch with us we can do just a little better job of passing the news along by means of this column.

Your faithful correspondent and friend,
Ed Reuling.

HOME-TOWN CHATTER

This is the first week in a long time that, as far as I know, there hasn't been a single serviceman home on furlough or leave. We have become kind of used to seeing a few men in uniform on the streets and now, when we don't see any for a time, it doesn't seem quite natural. Remember fellows, when you do get home be sure and stop in any say hello. We are always glad to see you.

What's doing in football. The bad news is that Onaway took our local lads over the jumps to the tune of 19 to 6 last Friday. I took a load of boys over there in my car so can give you a first hand report on the game. Our boys scored easily the first time they got the ball. From then on in fumbles, bad breaks and some rather one-sided officiating all ganged up on the boys to prevent further scoring. Onaway on the other hand played heads up ball and took advantage of every opportunity. With about 1 minute to go and the score 13 to 6 against us we were on the 6 yard line as the result of some steady plugging by Tyson Kemp and Leo Nemeček. At that stage Onaway intercepted a pass and went all the way for their final score — so — you see the game was closer than the score indicated. Our boys actually outplayed them in every department including the over confidence department which, in my estimation, was the real reason for the loss. The outstanding players were Bill Saxton and Ty Kemp who both played real bang up games and between them, on defense, accounted for a majority of the tackles. Tomorrow we take on Harbor Springs here and a win is looked for. If determination on the part of our lads means anything it will be a sure win.

The snow and cold weather that we have been having lately hasn't been any help to the hunters. At the start of the bird season there seemed to be quite a few large coveys but now the report is that the birds are pretty much alone and hard to find because of that. Quite a few have had pretty good luck but on the whole it seems like the average bag is less than usual. Maybe it's because so many of you who used to go out after birds are now out after bigger and more important game. One good thing about your kind of hunting is that you don't have to worry about any game warden checking up to see if you have exceeded your limit.

Harold Bader left last Tuesday for Lansing where he has work in the Nash-Kelvinator plant. His gas station is still open and is being looked after by his Dad. Interest in bowling seems to be picking up some but it still nothing like it was last year. We have a 12 team merchants league on Monday nights, a 6 team ladies league on Wednesday night and a 4 team Rotary league on Thursday night. The alleys are open only at night except for Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Quite a few of the boys are carrying pretty good averages this year including Joe Wilkins, Monk Chak, Jim Lilac and Greg Boswell. The facts are, however, that with a lot of you lads away we don't have the interest and pep that we had before you left.

The airplane spotters tower on top of the Temple Theatre has been in operation almost three weeks now. So far we haven't spotted many planes but anyhow we are doing our best to do the job the army asked us to — and besides — as you fellows realize better than we do — it would only take one plane missed to do a tremendous lot of damage at the Soo. We are doing what we can to make sure that one plane is not missed if and when it comes over.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

Sgt. Bill Swoboda with the marines is at sea someplace. We don't know just where he is or what he is doing but are expecting to hear from him before too long. If you read this, Bill, drop us a line. Your Mother phoned the other day to report for you and we sure were glad to hear through her that you are doing so well, and that you are still hale and hearty. . . . Albert Jackson hasn't reported in direct but we hear from his girl friend that he is somewhere in the Pacific area and complains because he hasn't been getting much mail lately. As a matter of fact Albert has been on our mailing list right from the beginning and we can't understand why he hasn't been getting his mail. Perhaps it's because he is a long ways away and we haven't had time to hear, however, it seems strange at that because his Louise's letter was dated the forepart of September and she got it about ten days ago which means that it takes about month one way for letters. We were glad to hear, Albert, that you were well. If you read this drop me a line. . . . Geo. Rebec wrote under date of Sept. 21 reporting his APO number has been changed to 512. Geo. says that over there where he is they are starting a new phase of their training and he likes it. He suggested the name "Globe Trotter" for this column which isn't bad at that considering you fellows are scattered pretty much over the whole globe. It was good to hear from you, Geo., try it again. . . . Had another letter from Sgt. Guy Russell. He reports having had a number of interesting experiences on week end leaves in Glasgow and says "the people, even the girls, are swell." Guy is in a medium maintenance co. whose motto is "Keep 'em Rolling." It was a good letter, Guy. . . . Radioman, Sailor Desmond Johnson broadcasts from Seattle that he is now sporting a third class petty officer's badge. Congratulations Desmond. The extra pay that you get ($78 per month plus $82.50 subsistence) ought to keep you pretty well supplied with folding money. As for the extra responsibility that your new rating gives you, we know that you can take it and do a good job. . . . Marine Chris Bulow postcards from San Diego that he has found his camp the neatest and cleanest in the world. He didn't say but I would guess that while Chris is getting his boot training he will be doing his share picking up cigarette butts, etc., helping to keep it that way. Lets have a letter when you get time, Chris. . . . Pee Boyer sounds off from Texas to express his regrets that he can't be here to help close up the Stockade come Nov. 1st. Pete says he likes his new camp much better but still doesn't like Texas mud. . . . I was sorry to hear from Geo. Whaling that his plans to come home on furlough have changed. Seems like Geo's better half couldn't take time off from her work in a bomber plant and Geo. wouldn't want to come without her. I don't blame you at that, Geo. although it would have been nice seeing you. . . . Chet Carney reports by post-card that he has been transferred to the same Texas camp his brother, Gerald, is at. You had better tell those brothers of yours to write, Chet. You are the only one of the four of you I have heard from. . . . Abe Cohn reports the good news that he was found worthy by the examining board and is on his way to Georgia for further officers training. I've heard a lot about these 90 day wonders they have been turning out for officers, Abe. Knowing you as I do I know you may be a ninety dayer, but that you won't figure you are any wonder. You'll just get in there and do your usual good job and your men will like and respect you for it. Lets hear from you, Abe, when you get settled and tell Alex Stevenson, if you see him, to write. . . . Jim Sherman reports that he expects his next stop will be an embarkation port. He will go across as a laboratory technician. When you get wherever you are headed for, Jim, be sure and write, and, until you get there, just remember we will be thinking of and praying for you and all of your buddies. . . . Sgt. Francis Touchstone writes from Florida of his experiences with the Amphiban Boat Regiment. Francis says "Some people may like Texas and others Florida but me, — just give me good old Michigan, especially the Jordan River Valley, and they can give the rest back to the Indians, if they will have it." A lot of the rest of you have written practically the same thing but Francis put it so well I thought he ought to be quoted. . . . Clifford Green reports from Cal. that what he likes best in the army is the 3 day hikes. You wouldn't kid me would you, Cliff? If your guess is right, you ought to be just about ready to be on the move when you read this. Be sure and report your change of address. . . . Art Rude finally came through with a very interesting letter. He is with the Ordnance Dept. in Maryland and just graduated from Cadre School and rather looks to be one of a chosen few from his outfit to take over the Santa Anita race track and make a proving ground out of it. Just now Art is an instructor and we can tell just by the modest way he writes about it that he is a good one too. If space permitted I would like to quote Art's letter in full. There isn't room this week however, except for the following "I have seen the infantry program and this is as good a place as any to hand it to the boys in that fighting arm. They deserve more support than we can possibly muster for them and when their job is done we shall all come marching home with them leading the parade." Those are potent and true words, Art.

LATE FLASH — The old town was buzzing with excitement last Monday when an American Flying Fortress swooped real low over town. They tell me that the observers in the spotting tower nearly had heart failure. Tuesday Morning we got the news from Lt. Harvey Harrington's Mother that it was her boy, Harvey, in the ship. She had just received a letter from Harv in which he told her he was going to buzz the old home town. You surely gave us a thrill, Lt. When you make that big hop across the pond to join Lt. Keith Bartlett our hopes and our prayers will go a wingin' along with you and your buddies.

And now for this week, and until next week I'll say, as always, Good Luck and So Long.

Read this unusual war story in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

Harry F. Kelly has made his position clear on three more important issues:

ON EFFICIENCY:

"If I am elected Governor, I shall see that no unnecessary manpower is wasted in government while Michigan pleads for manpower in industry and on farms during these critical days."

ON SMALL BUSINESS:

"I shall seek to remove the yoke gradually crushing small business, by eliminating the needless State governmental interferences now imposed upon it. I shall enlist the good judgment of small business representatives in the administration of State affairs."

ON GOVERNMENT:

"I contend that the Governor owes a very definite duty to every political subdivision of his State; that every one of Michigan's 83 counties deserves from its Governor an awareness of its individual problems and a willingness to help in their successful solution."

Teachers stated that the most troublesome absence were those caused by students who stayed out of school to go visiting with their parents and those who go out of town shopping on days when they were supposed to be in school.

Parents were urged to realize the importance of regular attendance as the only way to success in school, and to see that their children were in school except when ill health makes this impossible.

Team-work is needed today . . . Team-work between government, labor and industry. Team-work between the war leaders . . . the Senate . . . and Congress. Your present Congressman is NOT A TEAM-MATE of your Senator. They both represent the people in the same state . . . the same people in the same district. Your present Congressman voted AGAINST measures to prepare the country and make it strong. Your Senator voted FOR those same proposals. That is not team-work. That is not unity. VOTE FOR PAUL LINCOLN ADAMS who will be a worthy team-mate of your Senator and an honest representative of his people.

Attacks on Our Congressman:

We need fighters, Not Only On The Front, But In Congress.

The people of the 11th Congressional District should know by this time that Fred Bradley has been fighting for them, from the very time he was first elected to Congress, through four difficult years. He has taken his job seriously and worked harder than he ever worked in his life. That is why we want you, as a voter, to fight for him in this "Smear-Purge" campaign now being waged against him.

His record, either before or after Pearl Harbor, is an open book. What happened before Pearl Harbor you are well aware of. His enemies, within and without his party, have dragged a fine-tooth comb through the record for many months. It has been discussed and cussed, by first-class debaters, and others. There is nothing new about it.

He was anti-war before Pearl Harbor. He was isolationist in so far as he desired to keep his country out of the furnace of the world conflagration as long as possible. And so were you, if you were a good American.

The district knows that he is Anti-New Deal; that he is opposed to racketeering labor practices and that he does not believe that the government of the United States should force any man who wants a job to join a union against his will.

He has fought your battle at Washington.

He has fought the battle of the man who desires to earn a livelihood without paying tribute.

He has fought the battle of the Union man who claims the right to bargain collectively, to join or not to join the union of his choice.

He has the written endorsement of unions which are affiliated with the CIO, the AFL and independent unions.

He has the opposition of racketeers, of profiteers, of men who would charge for the exercise of the right to work on defense projects.

He has the opposition of the New Dealers who would change this government of ours, who would scrap the Constitution as a relic of "horse and buggy days."

We strongly believe that this district prefers Bradley to somebody who has nothing more to offer than a promise to "go along with the President." Go along where? In a losing war effort? "We are losing this war" — Asst. Secy. of Navy Bard. "We are losing this war" — Gen. Brehon Somervell, Chief of Supply, A. V. S. "We can lose this war" — Elmer Davis, Director, Office of War Information

"Let Us Start To Win The War", is Bradley Slogan

Congress is full of similar "go alongs." We need fewer "yes" men in Washington and more forthright helpers and leaders who have something more to contribute to the war effort than spineless compliance with every suggestion that emanates from the administration high command. Fighters, not yessers, will win this war.

This district, as a rebuke to these outsiders, these smear-and-purge artists who would destroy our representative government by denying you the right to select your Congressman, and would do it for you, should for these very reasons give Bradley an overwhelming vote on November 3rd.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W-N-U Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Janet. Although two women, Catherine Grant and Ann McGarrath, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget Lila. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt had not gone over to Herendeen's side. Now Hack is dead, shot by Herendeen's foreman, Charley Hillhouse. Gurd Grant, Catherine's brother, joined Herendeen when he discovered that Catherine had been to Morgan's ranch, but the cold bloodedness of Hack's murder has made him break with Herendeen. Warned by Fox Willing, a "nester" he once befriended, Clay discovers that Herendeen is stealing his cattle. He goes to Herendeen's ranch for a showdown, but Herendeen beats him to the draw. He is surrounded by Herendeen's men, and here seems no way out, when Lige White, one of Herendeen's friends, rides up. Like Gurd Grant, he is fed up with Herendeen's high handed methods. Risking his own life to save Clay, he persuades him to take a chance on riding out of Herendeen's ranch. He doesn't think Herendeen will dare to shoot.

Now continue with the story.

He made out the crowd in the yard and watched the parley.

CHAPTER XVI

It was still close and risky, as they both knew. Morgan swapped a short glance with the smiling White, seeing a thorough understanding in the latter's eyes. Morgan made the decision for both of them at this moment, turning his horse squarely on Herendeen. The movement pulled White around and thus the two of them, holding their horses to a walk, passed down the yard in a silence that had no bottom.

The river road bent around a point. Reaching this point, ready to turn it and shut the Three Pines ranch house from sight, Morgan had his backward glance. Herendeen and his men were in the saddle, heading for the Haycreek Hills. They were going after the beef, Morgan knew. Lige White came abreast. "Clay, I'm ashamed to say it, but I've strung along with Ben, not liking what's been going on around me. I still do not like it, but I cannot tolerate this kind of a war. Keep away from him. The man's gone crazy."

"A little late now," said Morgan. "There's a fight coming. Ben's made up his mind, and so have I. Stay out of it, Lige. And see if you can get Gurd to do the same."

Lige White said with the greatest reluctance: "I have hated to see this day come."

"A long time coming," said Morgan, and put his horse to the slope. Lige White watched him climb, excitement mirroring brightly in his eyes; afterwards he continued along the road, bound for Gurd Grant's.

Pete Borders, who had driven the Long Seven beef across the Haycreek Hills to Herendeen's range, lay on a peak of the ridge throughout the middle of the day. He saw Morgan arrive at the meadow and grinned to himself at what was no doubt in Morgan's mind. It looked like an open steal on Herendeen's part, which was the way Borders wanted it to look.

Later when he saw Morgan headed for Herendeen's alone, Pete Borders grew serious and a little restless. It was, he concluded, bad tactics on Morgan's part; and so, taking to his horse, he went along the Haycreek Hills until he was able to sight the Three Pines ranch from the heights.

He made out the crowd in the yard and watched the parley. Later he saw a new rider come along—which was Lige White—and saw two of them ride away. Morgan had got out of it with a whole skin, which relieved Borders immeasurably.

As soon as Morgan left Lige White, he turned his horse to the slope of the Haycreek Hills and presently, from a high point, he saw Herendeen leave the valley with his crew. Morgan calculated his margin of advantage to be about twenty minutes and entered the timber at a fast clip.

He caught up with his outfit a mile or two beyond the swamp. The cattle were single file, going very slowly on the crooked trail and stretched out for three or four hundred yards. Cap Vermilye was in front of them, beyond sight. Fox Willing held the rear, with Harry Jump still farther back to cover whatever might come up. Harry Jump was a little edgy with the strain of this thing; he showed relief at Morgan's presence. "I been on the verge of ridin' back after you."

"They're half an hour behind me. We're apt to have a scrap."

"Hell with 'em," said Harry Jump at once. "Let's stop and have it out."

"Keep right on going. Fox, cut ahead and ride with Cap. If you hear any ruckus back here, join us. If you meet anything in front, let out a yell and we'll be right with you."

Fox, unable to crowd by the beef on so narrow a way, cut through the timber and rough slab rock with considerable difficulty. Harry Jump began to grumble at the lagging cattle, crowding them with his pony. Morgan dropped back a distance to watch the trail.

They came at last to the stage road and turned into it. From the swamp meadow to this point had been more than an hour's drive and Herendeen was long overdue, leading Morgan to believe that Herendeen had circled them. The trouble, then, would come when they reached the open country. He joined Harry Jump, both of them hazing the stragglers forward until the beef was in a compact bunch. Vermilye and Willing were fifty yards forward; now and then a cow wandered toward the jack-pine forest surrounding them and had to be cut back. At five o'clock they reached the bottom of the stage road, left the pines and swung north toward Government Valley, three miles distant.

Herendeen was nowhere to be seen, whereupon Harry Jump came to his suspecting conclusions. "He didn't want to try it in timber. He's waitin' for us to get in the middle of the flats. My idea is that he's watchin' us from the Potholes right now."

A similar thought had occurred to Vermilye. He trotted back to Morgan. "Now in case he comes a-bustin' out of the brush, Clay, we better just let this beef go and hit for them aency buildings."

"No," said Jump at once. "It's our beef, by God."

"That's right," said Morgan.

Vermilye joined Harry Jump, both of them urging the cattle along at a quicker gait. Morgan closely watched the back trail, not quite able to understand Herendeen's continued delay. The suspense worked on his nerves. Once, thinking he saw movement at the edge of the Potholes, he turned and made a stand, searching the black margin of that country quite carefully. He had been mistaken, however, and presently turned to catch up with the beef. Near six o'clock, with the sun down beyond the Cache Mountains, they threw the beef on their own grass near the shattered dobe buildings of the old agency.

Morgan said: "Hold this jag in a bunch. We're not through yet. I want Herendeen to see what we took. Fox, if I were you—I think I'd pull freight. Thanks for comin' along."

Willing said, idly: "Might as well stick around."

Cap Vermilye, always a forehanded man, got a few sage stems and a piece of old board from the nearest building to make up a fire. He had a frying pan and coffee pot in his saddle roll; and some bacon and a can of beans. He boiled up the coffee, fried the bacon and heated the beans in the frying pan's grease. Having no other utensils, they took turns at the frying pan, using their pocket knives, and drank the coffee straight from the pot. At seven o'clock, with shadows sweeping across Mogul's plateau, a single horseman appeared on the high edge of Mogul Mountain and quartered down. This was in the west, from which Morgan expected no trouble. Harry Jump walked deliberately to his horse and pulled out his Winchester. Morgan said, "Hold on, Harry." Rider and horse plodded unhurriedly through the blue swirl of dusk—a long stooped shape on a rawboned animal; at a distance he waved his arm overhead and a little later Morgan recognized the nester Gale.

Gale came up but did not dismount until Morgan gave him the proper invitation. When the invitation came he dropped to the ground, with an old man's stiffness; he poised both his hands over the muzzle of his ancient gun and looked out from beneath his twisted awning-shaped eyebrows.

"There's some coffee left in the pot," said Morgan.

"Just what I need," Gale answered. He slouched over the fire and tipped the pot against his mouth, drinking with an acute thirst. Coffee ran down the seams of his jaws. He said, "Ah, in great relish and sponged the liquid from the tips of his mustache with sidewise motions of his tongue."

Morgan said: "Don't mean to be unfriendly, but maybe you ought to move on."

Gale didn't smile. He was past the point of finding amusement in the world, but in his eyes was a light like the last glow of coals of a dying fire. "Don't you worry about me, Mr. Morgan. If I didn't know what I wanted to do, I wouldn't be here."

Morgan shrugged his shoulders. "Your funeral."

"It may be," agreed Gale composedly. "But if so, it will be a double one. At my age I'm too old to worry about dyin', for it is pretty close to me at any event, and I guess I'm poor enough not to fret about losin', a'nything."

He rummaged his pockets, producing pipe and tobacco. Morgan watched him fill the pipe and light it and settle on his heels.

This was late September and suddenly, slightly beyond seven o'clock, the blue-running shadows turned to gunmetal gray and afterwards to full night. The haze of autumn lay over the land. Through this filtered a strong moonlight creating the effect of woolly clouds banked against the earth. "Morgan led his horse to the remnant wall of the nearest dobe building and walked on until he stood alone, facing the open south. Fox Willing was in the saddle, circling the held bunch of beeves. The job was done and, as far as the cattle were concerned, there wasn't any need of staying here. Yet Morgan knew that this waiting was necessary. Herendeen was somewhere in the yonder night. The big man had avoided a meeting in the timber, he had delayed this pursuit; but he was out there and he would come. Nothing changed much, Morgan realized. Herendeen had faced him for ten years, never giving ground, never able to forget. It was something that would not dim or die, it was a force that drove Herendeen. Thinking about that, Morgan admitted the same force drove him. Whatever the outward reasons, whatever the open quarrels and excuses, there was a deeper reason still—the native, chemical animosities of two men born to be opposite in all things, born to collide and to destroy. It was past explanation.

Stationed like this, apart from the group and facing southward, he heard Herendeen at last approach, hidden by the pulsing fog. Off there a steady rhythm rose, of horses moving at a slow run and presently slowing to a walk. Shadows appeared in the fog, and shapeless outlines. Fox Willing came in from the herd, dismounting and putting his horse near the dobe wall. He walked over to Morgan, Vermilye and Jump had risen and had taken position not far from the wall. Gale was out of sight.

Herendeen's party showed as a wide scatter of shadows on the desert. They were halted, two hundred feet away. Herendeen said: "Morgan, I'm coming in to cut that bunch of stock and look it over for my brand."

Morgan said: "None of your cows in it, Ben."

"I'll see for myself."

Those shadows were too vague to be counted but Morgan knew Herendeen had at least eight men around him and he also knew Herendeen's intention—which was to build up a fight on any grounds. He said: "Charley Hillhouse there?"

"No. I'm coming in."

Morgan said: "Nothing here for you, Ben. Stay back."

Herendeen's voice boomed out. "You know the rules of the country. It's my privilege to cut any man's range for my stock. I claim there's Three Pines cows in that bunch."

"If there are," said Morgan coolly. "I'll send them back tomorrow."

"I want 'em now."

"You're in a hurry all of a sudden," pointed out Morgan ironically. "I sent word to you some time ago to clean your stuff out of this valley and you didn't seem to figure it worth your time. So you can wait another day. You won't cut this bunch tonight, or any time. Get off my grass."

"You goin' against the rules?"

"You been making the rules a long time, Ben. Now I'll make 'em."

Herendeen said: "I've listened to you long enough. We'll settle this now."

Morgan's reply was soft and flat in the night. "Let 'er flicker, Ben. When you move in we start shootin'."

He heard Herendeen say: "Come on, boys."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 1

THE CHRISTIAN VIEW OF MARRIAGE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 2:18-24; Matthew 19:3-6; John 2:1-5. GOLDEN TEXT—Marriage is honorable in all.—Hebrews 13:4.

The home is not just one of the institutions of our social order, it is a part of God's plan for man. It thus holds a position of greater importance than institutions of society, and should take first place in our thinking.

Home and the life which centers in it has lost much of its meaning and value in recent decades. It is appropriate and timely to study for four weeks in our Sunday schools the foundation principles of the home and to learn how we may hinder or help it in its influence. Teachers will wish to make much of this vital series.

We begin right when we inquire what the Bible teaches about marriage, and we find the instruction plentiful and to the point. Concerning marriage we learn of

I. Its Origin—Ordained by God (Gen. 2:18-24).

Nations and states have marriage laws, and certain civil requirements must be met. But true marriage from the Christian viewpoint is far more than a civil contract. It is an ordinance which God Himself ordained from the beginning for the welfare of man.

As Adam gave names to the animals (which, incidentally, tells of his intelligence and ability) they passed before him. It became evident to him that there was no true fellowship between man and beast, that there must be a "help meet" for man; one of his own kind, with the capacities of personal being.

God quickly and adequately meets every real need of man, so He created out of Adam's own flesh one who was to be his true companion. "If man is the head; she is the crown," said Matthew Henry. "The man was dust refined, but the woman was dust refined, one move further from the earth. She was not taken out of his head to top him, not out of his feet to be trampled upon by him, but out of his side to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected, and near his heart to be beloved."

II. Its Control—Not Subject to Man (Matt. 19:3-6).

Because of the hardness of man's heart Moses permitted divorce (Mark 10:4, 5), but God did not intend it from the beginning. The Jewish rabbi had so stretched the interpretation of that act of Moses that a wife could be divorced for almost any reason. The same was true among heathen nations.

Our Lord makes it very clear that man has no authority to determine such matters at all, that the union of life in true marriage is by the act of God, and that no man has power to surrender such a relationship.

The whole trend of thought on marriage has been away from its sacredness as a divine institution, and we need to return to a proper appreciation of it as such. All too often, marriages are mere civil agreements, hastily made before a justice of peace. We need to encourage our young people to recognize

III. Its Dignity—Sanctioned by Christ (John 2:1-5).

The wedding ceremony tells us that marriage is an honorable estate, instituted by God in the time of man's innocence, confirmed by the teaching and hallowed by the presence of our blessed Lord, and likened by St. Paul to the holy union that exists between Christ and the Church; and therefore is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly, but reverently, discreetly and in the fear of God."

At the very beginning of His public ministry Jesus performed His first miracle as His share of a wedding feast. It is true that He does share every occasion of joy and sorrow of His people, but it seems to be significant that this first occasion for His miraculous power was a wedding.

He was there to rejoice with and to bless those who had exchanged their vows in marriage. Should He not be the unseen guest at every wedding? Whether in the home or in the church; whether the occasion be a simple or an elaborate one; whether a host of friends attend or only the witnesses—always and everywhere Jesus Christ should be recognized as the One who stands by to bless, and to unite the two lives for His own glory.

This means that the ceremony should be a Christian one, with prayer a vital part of it, and the will of God paramount. Then indeed, God may and will join together that which no man can put asunder.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Solomons Battle Cost Mounts Steadily; WPB Slashes 1943 Farm Machine Output But Provides Adequate Parts Supply; Winter Helps Russ Defenders of Volga

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

With a picturesque South Sea island landscape as a backdrop, U. S. marines are shown taking bombs from a "bomb garden" concealed in the palm trees of Guadalcanal island. As operational flights against Jap ships, land forces and air bases in the Solomon Islands have been stepped up, U. S. air forces have been increasingly employed.

FARM IMPLEMENTS: 20 Per-Cent Slash

Farmers would not have new tractors or new plows to hitch them to in 1943, but they would have plenty of repair parts to keep their present machinery operating.

That was clear when the War Production board issued its drastic order slashing the production of 1943 farm equipment to 20 per cent of the 1940 total, but permitting repair parts production to be 130 per cent of 1940 operations.

Forecasting industrial readjustments in other fields, the WPB order concentrated the new farm equipment output in the hands of small manufacturers in labor-shortage areas.

Repair parts manufacture was left to the big producers. This decision represented a victory for these companies which had held out for retention in their own plants of all the repair parts production, thus preserving the identity of their specialized, trade-name implements. It likewise represented a concession to the department of agriculture which had strenuously urged a heavy program for repair parts manufacture, while it opposed any new machinery cut below 50 per cent of the 1940 output.

RUSSIAN FRONT: Ally Winter Comes

Winter was one ally that could give the hard-pressed Russians immediate help. For days-past the engagements surging around Stalingrad in the northeast and Moxdok further south in the Caucasus had been a race against time. Thus when snow swept across the Don-Volga steppes the Russians knew their reinforcements had arrived.

Significant was the German high command's communique that the Nazi drive in the Caucasus had been impaired by continued bad weather, and that the Russians had undertaken strong, tank-led diversion attacks against the north flank of the Nazi thrust into Stalingrad.

The strength of Marshal Timoshenko's relief assault from the north was indicated in the communique which said the Russian onslaughts had been undertaken with "fresh, strong infantry and tank forces."

SUBMARINE MENACE: Will Get Worse

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the U. S. Maritime commission, warned the nation that "the submarine menace is going to be progressively worse this winter."

Speaking before the Investment Bankers association, he said the menace would grow, because of winter's bad weather and longer nights, giving U-boats better opportunity for concealment.

FIRST-AID TO THE AILING HOUSE
by Roger B. Whitman

EXCESS DAMPNESS OF HOUSE AIR CAUSES STEAMING ON WINDOWS

THIS is the time of year when I receive many questions on why windows steam and freeze, and how this can be prevented. Steaming starts with dampness in the house air. House air is always damp in the fall, for plaster, wood, and other parts have been absorbing moisture all summer, and in drying out with the starting of the house heater, the moisture goes into the house air. This is only temporary, however, and passes as the house dries out. If steaming continues, it is because of some condition that makes the house air damp. This will come from the burning of gas, and especially of natural gas, in open burners; from cooking and laundry work, from overuse of a humidifier, and for similar causes. In eliminating steaming, the first step should be to go all over the house with this in mind, to locate the cause of the excess dampness, and to eliminate it. When the steam sash itself becomes steamed, it may be from leakage of house air around the inside sash, so that the air between becomes dampened. Opening the storm sash for a half-hour or so will get rid of the damp air. In many cases a quarter-inch hole drilled through the storm sash frame at the top and another at the bottom will provide enough ventilation to get rid of the damp air without any great effect on the value of the storm sash. Ventilation in the house is also advisable. I know of cases of the overcoming of the steaming of windows by no more than the opening of fireplace dampers to provide a continuous but small escape of dampened house air. Steaming of kitchen windows can usually be prevented by putting in a kitchen ventilator.

Concrete Floor for Cellar
A dirt floor in a cellar may be a source of trouble. It is likely to be damp and to cause dampness throughout the house. There may also be odors from it. Another possibility is that insects and even rats, mice and other small animals may break through and gain entrance to the house. All this can be overcome by laying a concrete floor. In doing this, it is a simple matter to make the new floor damp proof. The first step in this is to smooth and level the floor, and the next is to put down a layer of heavy tar paper. The concrete is poured on top, and should be at least three inches thick. If a cellar game room is in prospect, the floor can be colored by the addition of coloring powders to the surface coat. These, however, should be lime-proof, for otherwise the effect will not be permanent. Coloring powders can be had from dealers in mason materials and at many paint stores.

Silver Plate
Question: The silver plating has worn from a large vase, and bare copper is exposed. How can all of the silver be removed? How can I finish the copper?
Answer: The silver can be taken off with acid, but this is hardly a job to do at home, because of the risk of corrosion. Take the vase to a plating shop and ask their advice on whether to take off the remaining silver, or to give the entire vase a plating of copper.

Dirty Paint
Question: My house has been painted only two months, but is now so dirty and dusty that it looks worse than before. Something was used to give the paint a gloss, and it looked lovely until the paint stuck to the surface. Can it be washed?
Answer: The paint was evidently of a variety that dried slowly. It may be that the dust is only on the surface and can be cleaned off by washing with mild soap and water. This would be well worth trying.

Spotted Carpet
Question: How should I touch up spots on our rust colored carpet?
Answer: If the spots are darker than the original color, your only hope is in dyeing the whole carpet. If they are lighter, touch them up with successive thin coats of dye of the same shade, to be had at a drug store. Continue until the color is dark enough to match. If the spots are grease or ink, professional cleaning may take them out.

Sealing Paint
Question: I have painted my woodwork, but find that the paint scales on the window seats and on the top part of the windows. How can this be remedied?
Answer: You may have put the paint on glossy varnish or glossy enamel; the glossy surface would prevent the new paint from adhering. The gloss should first be dulled by rubbing with sandpaper.

These Fashions Meet Demands Of an Alert 'Teen-Age Group

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR novelty, variety, color intrigue, general wearableness and utilitarian service attuned to the demands of youth; for that young look that fashion-alert juniors and 'teen-agers want in the clothes they wear, this season's entrants into the fall-winter fashion contest score about 100 per cent perfect.

First and foremost, color is the magic word that turns even the most simple fashion into a thing of beauty, and it's color that is stampeding its way right through the entire fashion picture this season. The "big idea" centers brightly around daring color contrast as interpreted by the use of a jacket in one color topping a skirt of another, or by the use of materials of contrasting hues seamed and patched together with amazing adroitness.

A fashion that has completely captured the fancy of modern youth is the two-piece that tops a plaid or checked wool skirt with a vivid velvet jacket which is cunningly detailed with buttons and which relates itself to the skirt it companions by taking on a binding of its material. It's just as effective and style-correct to contrast monotonous. A fuchsia-purple skirt may be worn with a fuchsia-red jacket, a bright red jacket with an autumn leaf green skirt and so on.

Every girl nowadays is building her wardrobe around two basic items, namely the softly styled dressmaker suit and the little wool dress that doesn't miss a "trick" in taking on fetching trimming detail. Even the simplest little jersey frock is audaciously taking on glitter touches in way of nailheads and jewelry-embroidered necklines, and the latest gesture of the demure jersey dress is to go so far as to steal the glory of a sequin-embroidered motif now and then. The intriguing modes pictured in the above illustration were given prominence at a recent fashion revue presented by the style creators of Chicago as types which have won the unanimous vote of young girls.

It is evident that the suits shown have succeeded in capturing the spirit of youth which young moderns demand. The suit to the right interprets the contrast idea in that it teams a vivid Kelly green wool jacket with a shalloon pleated (complying with priority rulings as to hemline measurement) skirt of black. The black binding around the jacket effects a tie-up between skirt and jacket-top that achieves a unified costume. Self-fabric surface decoration is placed high on the jacket front in a manner to suggest pockets.

The other suit is done in pale beige wool with a slightly ribbed surface. The prominence of beige is notable in both dress and coat collections. The slender gored skirt and slit breast pockets and the general bid for simplicity which it makes is in keeping with the fabric conservation program. Note especially the girlish round neckline which is important fashion-news. The new square shoulder look is stressed via deft seaming.

Every youthful wardrobe is supposed to have its quota of flattering little one-piece frocks to wear under the winter coat. The significant thing about the two frocks pictured is that they owe much of their charm to bright yarn trimming touches. It's a jersey-dress season and no mistake! Both models pictured are fashioned of natural wool and rabbit's hair jersey.

Style features of interest in the dress to the right are the wool embroidered pockets and the use of wool yarn stitching about the neck and shoulders. The tie-belt is also an interesting detail. The two-piece to the left features contrast sleeves knitted of bright red yarn. The edges, too, are finished off with matched red yarn.

Have you noticed the military tang the Ladies League team names have taken on? The Army, Navy and Air Corps are all represented by these militant fighters. Standings as of last week are below:

	Won	Lost
Darbee Destroyers	3	0
Evans Engineers	3	0
Trojanek Torpedos	2	1
Johnston Jeeps	1	2
Bader Bombers	0	3

After leading the field for most of the week Betty Boswell lost the week's high score to Mildred Campbell's 184 run up Saturday evening. In the mens' division Monk Cihak copped the money with a handsome 231. And keep your eye on Monk this season, his anchor work on the Temple team is improving each week — and each week his handicap is dropping!

In the Rotary fracas the Americans continue to sweep the field and to date have suffered only a single set back. The rest of the League is contemplating sabotage... and looking for a few rabbit feet. Any hunter with this commodity to spare please turn them in to Rotary Secretary Jim Gidley who will properly distribute them. Rotary League standings as of last week are:

	Won	Lost
Americans	14	1
English	6	9
Australians	6	9
Canadians	4	11

The battle of the Merchants League continues unabated with but a gradual shifting of team positions. The Bank and Eds are now in a tie for first place with the Iron Works only one game behind and tied with the Pros for second. The several new teams are improving steadily and will soon be an important factor with their large handicaps and higher scores. Monday night's session leaves the teams in the following spots:
