"A" Award to Ellsworth Company

ACHIEVEMENT 'A' TO REID MURDOCH COMPANY FACTORY. A-MONG FIRST IN STATE

The Achievement 'A' Award of the War Food Administration has been granted to the Reid-Murdoch Company plant at Ellsworth, Michigan, E. O. Pollock, Regional Director of Food Distribution, WFA, announced today. The Award is one of the first to food processors in the State of Michigan.

Officials and employees of the Reid-Murdoch plant have a record of exceptional and outstanding determination to produce needed canned foods for the war effort. They have earned this important honor because they were good soldiers in the army on the home front, backing up our fighters in the field. They solved problems affecting equipment and manpower shortages, and the plant workers assisted farmers in getting their crops of cherries, beans, beets and carrots to the cannery, Mr. Pollock said.

WFA's Achievement 'A' Award is granted only to food processors who have accomplished outstanding production records. Mr. Pollock explained, "To earn it, a plant must meet the same high requirements as those who the Army-Navy 'E' Award. There is no difference in the standards, but 'A' Awards can be won by seasonal as well as year around food processors even though they do not deliver most of their production to the armed forces, because of the importance of canned food in maintaining the home front that supports the battle lines Mr. Pollock stated.

The 'A' Award will be presented to the Reid-Murdoch management and workers in a ceremony to be held in the near future. At the same time, a flag will be presented, symbolizing the Award, to be flown over the plant during the coming year. In addition, WFA will present pins which may be worn by individual employees of the plant. These pins, bearing the words "Achievement Award — Food Fights for Freedom", will recognize individual cooperation of each employee in helping to win the Award.

In designating plants for the 'A' Award, the WFA considers first the quantity and quality of foods processed in the light of available facilities and materials. Regional Director Pollock explained. Other factors considered include the extent of the plant's ingenuity and cooperation with the government in developing and processing war food products, employee-management cooperation, and low absenteeism record. The efficiency of management in overcoming obstacles, cooperation in carrying out the purposes of the purchase programs, health and sanitation conditions in the plants, and methods of training new employees also are considered.

The 'A' Award was also recently made to the Reid-Murdoch Company plant at Rochester, Minnesota. E. H. Rood is manager of the Ellsworth plant.

Annual Meeting of E. J. Co-operative Company Postponed to April 25

At the annual meeting of the East Jordan Co-operative Company held in the High School auditorium last Monday evening only 56 members were present. Mr. M. W. Beattie, auditor, from Cadillac was present and read his report for the fiscal year of 1943.

Since the by-laws require that a majority of stock owned by members must be represented to provide a quorum for transacting business it has been necessary to call another meeting.

It was decided to have it the evening of April 25th. Food restrictions make it virtually impossible to have the usual noon dinner as in the past. In lieu of this there will be cash prizes, the capital prize being a $25. war bond. Only one number was drawn Monday evening, Charles Stanek being the lucky man. Every member is urged to make sure his stock is represented, either in person or by proxy, to assure a quorum. A safe bet is to mail back the self-addressed stamped proxy card to the Company office as soon as the new ones are received, then should a member be able to attend the meeting, the card will be returned to him there. This will assure a quorum and other business taken care of. Watch next week's paper for more definite announcement.

Pickle News

By H. E. Brumm, Dist. Mgr. H. J. Heinz Company Charlevoix, Michigan

That pickles have been accepted as an important food is now a well established fact and the essentiality of growing cucumbers for pickling is recognized by Government Food Authorities. Dr. F. W. Fabian, research professor of Bacteriology of Michigan State College, has conducted extensive research on the food value of pickles during the past three years. His findings show that not only do pickles contain the health giving and body building vitamin A but they also provide some B1 (Thamin) which prevents the deficiency disease beriberi, B2 (Riboflavin) which helps maintain health of digestive and nervous system, and a considerable amount of the important Vitamin C. Vitamin C is especially honored by the Medical World as being the anti-scurvy vitamin and pickles have long been recognized for their anti-scurvy properties.

More facts regarding newly discovered pickle properties will follow. Next week watch this space for information about growing pickles.

Will Assist in Speeding Payments of Delayed Benefit Checks

Assistance in speeding payment of delayed dependency benefit checks will be given families of soldiers in the the Cadillac Area by Lt. John A. Rongen, Area J. Commander of District No. 1, Sixth Service Command, who is stationed in Cadillac, it was announced recently.

Lt. Rongen will forward inquiries on delayed payments to the Personnel Affairs branch of District Headquarters in Detroit where they will be sent to the Office of Dependency Benefits for action.

Delays in receiving benefit payments in recent weeks were attributed in most cases, by Army officials, to the failure of soldiers to submit properly completed marriage and birth certificates, causing payments to be withheld temporarily, Lt. Rongen said.

The Cadillac Area office at 105 State Highway Building is available for consultation on all Army matters as they affect soldiers and their families, in addition to regular Area duties.

LOOKING BACKWARD

From the Herald Files of Forty, Thirty and Twenty Years Ago Compiled by Mrs. Mabel Secord

(The issue for April 16, 1904 is missing from the file.)

April 18, 1914

Many newcomers in East Jordan probably are not aware that there used to be a twelve-grade parochial school here in connection with St. Joseph's Catholic church. The cement steps among the shrubbery just south of Miss Agnes Porter's home are all that remain of the brick residence where the nuns who taught the various grades lived. It was one of the buildings destroyed by fire the afternoon the Red Mill burned, (August 4, 1935). This building was originally a frame structure and was built in 1884 for a Catholic church where the residence of Joseph Nemecek, Sr., now stands. Later it was moved to a site just west of the present church, then to its final location, after which it was veneered with brick.

The April 18th issue contains the program of a play, put on by students of the parochial school at the Temple Theatre. It was "Kathleen, or the cost of a promise," and was preceded by a miscellaneous program. Only a very few of those who took part are still East Jordan residents. They include Vera Supernaw; Harold and Emma Nachazel; Agatha, Agnes and Margaret Kenny; Agnes Lenosky, Catherine and Leo Phillips; Felix and Mary Green; Catherine, Edward, Archie and Lawrence LaLonde; Wallace and Elmer Merchant; Grace Weldy; Glenn Surprenant; Leslie Miles; Lawrence Laviolette; Francis Bishaw; and Oscar Weisler.

April 12th was the date and the corner on State Street, where one turns toward the Fair grounds was the scene of a tragedy. Oscar Swenor, Petoskey auto salesman had driven a car over to demonstrate for a prospective purchaser, Mrs. Newton, manager of the Russell House. He was accompanied by Miss Bessie Gardner, clerk in Fochtman's shoe department and they, together with Mrs. Newton, her daughter, Mrs. R. F. Steffes, and Harry Adams were in the car.

The driver failed to note that the road was center-banked, lost control of the car in making the turn and it rolled over with all occupants inside. However, Miss Gardner evidently had leaned out of the car and her head was caught between the running board and the ground. She died about half an our later.

The body was sent to her home at Boonville, Indiana.

Music at the Easter services at the Presbyterian church included a duet by Mrs. Dwight Fitch and Miss Verschel Lorraine, violin duet by Will Webster and Miss Mildred Sweet with organ accompaniment and an anthem at the morning service. The evening service numbers included a duet by the Mesdames Kirby and Waite, Mrs. A. Cameron sang "There is a Green Hill Far Away," and the large evening choir sang an anthem.

A presentation of the film, "Les Miserables," is advertised in this issue but no mention is made of a single person taking part in it.

Among 21 young women who were received into the Dominican sisterhood April 15th was Miss Marie Surprenant of East Jordan who has assumed the name of Sister Mary Denise.

City Engineer H. L. Winter is busy getting out a map of the city's sewer and water works systems.

Mrs. Hamilton of Standish is here caring for her grandchildren while their mother, Mrs. G. W. Kitsman, is a patient in a Detroit hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bowman left Wednesday for Edmonton, Alberta where they will make their future home.

April 18, 1924

Andrew Anderson, 73, died at his home here April 11th. Surviving are the wife, two sons, John and Gus, and a daughter, Mrs. Barney Bayliss.

Mrs. Herbert Colburn, 21, died of tuberculosis at her home on the West Side April 11th.

Miss Leila Harris and Julius W. Loveday were married in Lansing last New Year's Eve.

The 1944 Red Cross Fund Drive Over-subscribed in East Jordan

The 1944 Red Cross War Fund drive is over. East Jordan's quota was $2,400.00 and the amount raised was $2,682.14.

Men Behind The Chamber of Commerce

Meet Barney Milstein, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

It's well known that in many organizations the Secretary's job is one of the most important. This is especially true of any C. of C.

Barney's experience in business, politics and civic affairs well equips him for this important work.

Barney was born in Lithuania in 1898, his parents moving to Saginaw, Mich. when he was a young lad. After finishing High School he entered Saginaw Business College, from which institution he graduated in 1917.

Barney came to East Jordan in the early 20's to assist his uncle, Harry Kling, in the fur & hide business. After the death of Mr. Kling, Sr., Isaac Kling and Barney carried on the business until 1937, since which time he has operated the business alone.

He was married in 1927 to Miss Helen Ward who passed away in 1938. Their immediate family consists of three boys, Jimmie, Robert and Sammie.

The esteem and confidence placed in Barney by his friends in the City and County is shown by the number of past and present honors. He has been President of the Chamber of Commerce, Treasurer of the Fair Association, Mayor of the City from '33 to '35, Pres. of County Republican Party, Past Master Masonic Lodge, Past Chancellor Com. of K P's, and Supervisor of the Third Ward since 1935.

Since the passing of Mrs. Milstein, the family has been indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Milstein's mother, Mrs. Mae Ward, in charge of household affairs.

You can't keep some people from thinking. The job is to get some of them started.

Initiative is the ability to go the right thing—first. And the world pays well for it.

Favor Soil Conservation District

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY FARMERS TO VOTE ON PROPOSITION MONDAY, MAY 8TH

Hopes that a Soils District Program in Charlevoix County might enable farmers to save their good farm lands before the land reaches the restoration stage was expressed by a representative group of land owners at hearing held at the Charlevoix County Courthouse recently.

The hearing was conducted under the personal direction of the State Soils Conservation Committee. Charles Figy, Commissioner, State Department of Agriculture, E. L. Anthony, Dean of Agriculture of MSC and Wayland Osgood, Michigan Department of Conservation, heard the testimony from Charlevoix county farmers that showed the group interest was unanimously in favor of establishing a Soil Conservation District. During the discussion, many of our better farmers testified as to the desirability and necessity of establishing a district to prevent further losses of fertility and topsoil.

The Stae Committee set the referendum date for Monday, May 8th, during the hours of 7 to 10 in the evening and in each township hall, excepting Beaver Island where the election will be in the St. James town hall. The referendum will be in charge of appointed farmers who will conduct the election.

Former E. Jordan Girl Wins Prize In General Mills Baking Contest

Annabelle Gaunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gaunt of Bridgeport, Saginaw County was a proud winner of a cake baking set, given by General Mills, for the best cake baked in the county in 4-H Club. She also got third place in the state. She has one year of baking, three years of food preparation, two years of canning.

She had five years of clothing, out of the five years she has three county honors. This year she won honors on the childrens garments, in her club and in the county.

She is planning to take canning, garden and outdoor meals for her projects this summer.

So come on all boys and girls join your 4-H Clubs and help with food for Victory.

RATIONING AT A GLANCE

Extra Sugar for Canning

Consumers may now get extra sugar for home-canning purposes by correspondence. All that is necessary is to request application form R-323 from the war price and rationing board. Only one application is necessary for all the persons living at the same address. When it is filled out, it should be mailed to the board with spare stamp 37 (from War Book IV) attached for purpose of identification. Each book-holder is entitled up to 20 pounds additional sugar for canning.

This procedure is in addition to buying sugar at the stores — obtainable on stamps 30, 31 and 40 (currently valid) which are good indefinitely for five pounds each. When the application for additional sugar is mailed with stamp 37 for each person applying, a ration certificate for the additional sugar will be made out by the board.

This ruling went into effect in March. So far, the Charlevoix ration office has failed to receive application forms. Our grocers will have these as soon as received.

Meats, Cheese, Butter, Fat, Canned Fish, Canned Milk

Book 4 — Red stamps A8 to M8 valid indefinitely. N8, P8, Q8 become valid April 23. All stamps ten points each.

Processed Fruits and Vegetables Book 4 — Blue stamps A8 to K8 valid indefinitely. All stamps ten points each.

Sugar Book 4 — Stamps 30 and 31 good indefinitely for 5 pounds. Stamp 40 five pounds, for home canning valid through February 28, 1945.

Gasoline No. 11 stamp of A books valid for three gallons through June 21. B2, B3, C2, and C3 good for five gallons, new serially numbered coupons good for five gallons.

Fuel Oil Period No. 4-5 coupons valid through Sept. 30. All coupons worth ten gallons a unit with most coupons worth several units each.

Stoves Purchase certificates obtainable from local boards.

Rationed Shoes Ration book No. 1 — Stamp 18 expires April 30. Book No. 3 — No. 1 "airplane" stamp good indefinitely. New stamp valid May 1 to be announced.

RATIONING:

Announce Changes

More gas, freer use of fuel oil and food coupons and ration changes in vegetables, fruits, meats and oils were announced by OPA.

To maintain the distribution business, it was announced drivers holding "B" cards will be allowed an additional 100 miles a month, while expiration dates for fuel oil coupons will be eliminated before the fall season of heavy consumption gets underway.

Because many shoppers cashed in their red and blue food coupons for tokens at expiration dates, OPA took off all time limits on the stamps.

While all frozen fruits and vegetables were taken off rationing, beef flank meat, pork liver, lamb and mutton hearts, liver, sweetbreads and tongue, beef tongue, cooked and barbecued pork spareribs and pork tongue were cut 1 point. Shortening, salad and cooking oil were slashed 1 point. Points on canned carrots and tomato juice also were reduced.

DRAFT:

Eye 4-Fs

To fill up the industrial and agricultural ranks left vacant by the drafting of all men except key workers under 26, the government called for the induction of all 4-Fs not engaged in essential occupations and a congressional committee moved to shape special legislation for such a program.

At the same time, it was revealed Selective Service was scrapping its unit system of deferring agricultural workers, only giving consideration to a man's regular employment on a farm and the problem of replacing him.

Under the government's proposal, 4-Fs doing nonessential work would be enlisted as reserves and directed to essential occupations at regular civilian pay, or they would be employed in labor battalions for employment at army pay if they refused to accept the assignments.

Of the nation's 3,500,000 4-Fs it was estimated that about 1,000,000 were engaged in non-essential work.

PACIFIC:

Threaten India

As bold Japanese forces thrust toward the highway hub of Imphal in India, Adm. Louis Mountbatten rallied Allied forces to a stand to hold this key to land communications all along the 600-mile Burmese front.

In the Southwest Pacific area, strong U. S. naval forces again challenged the Japanese fleet to come out and fight by attacking the enemy's sea base of Palau, 460 miles from the Philippines, but the Nips once more withdrew. On New Guinea, New Britain and Bougainville, Allied ground forces continued to press the Japs, as U. S. airmen impeded reinforcement of their battered troops by shooting up shipping and bases.

Seeking to capitalize on their surprise of the Allies in India when they burst from the Burmese jungle from three points to converge on Imphal, the Japs maintained heavy pressure in the face of stiffening British resistance. Beyond Imphal lay the Bengal-Assam railroad, supplying Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's U. S. and Chinese troops pushing the Japs down the Mogaung valley in far northern Burma.

SURPLUS GOODS:

Consult Business

To prevent a disruption of ordinary business channels, U. S. agencies entrusted with the disposal of surplus war goods for civilian use have been instructed to confer with the War Production board's 750 industry advisory committees on distribution of material through established outlets.

Although most members of the industry advisory committees are manufacturers, some wholesalers and retailers have been included in the groups, and it will be their task to help determine normal outlets for certain goods, the amount of material to be released, and whether distributors should bid for the merchandise, negotiate for its purchase or buy it at auction.

While the new procedure was announced, Rep. Wright Patman (Texas) pressed for enactment of a bill under which retailers would be given equal voice in the disposal of surplus war goods along with the bigger manufacturers and wholesalers.

GERMANY:

Production Efficiency

Striving to stretch their human and material resources to maximum, Germany's production czars have reached into industrial and domestic activity alike.

In industry, the Nazis have spared men and metal by reducing locomotive models from 119 to 13, and they have economized on shipping space by extensive dehydration of foods. More efficient methods reportedly increased steel, copper and aluminum output while decreasing man hours.

To keep working women from performing house tasks at home, the Nazis have organized groups to mend their stockings and attend to other domestic functions. Persons from 65 to 70 have been enlisted to assist service men at railway depots.

Finds Long Way Back

Taken to St. Petersburg, Fla., by his master and then given to a resident there, an Irish setter, Duke, so longed for his old home that he traveled 1,200 miles back to it at Roann, Ind., where an old friend, Rev. Robert Collins, found him bloody-footed and exhausted.

Informed of Duke's plight, his master wired Rev. Collins funds to care for the dog until he should return.

ARMY AND NAVY:

Furloughs

Because of shipping difficulties and preparations for campaigns, the army will continue to grant furloughs on an individual basis rather than to whole units, Sen. Guy Gillette (Iowa) was advised by the war department.

With other midwestern senators, Gillette had queried the war department about the possibilities of furloughing the 34th division, which has been overseas for more than two years and is made up of men from Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa.

While the war department admitted many empty cargo ships were returning to the U. S., it added that there was a problem of shore handling once the vessels reached here.

New Construction

Heralding an intensification of the war against the Japanese, the U. S. navy asked for 1 1/2 billion dollars for the construction of shore facilities, principally on the West coast.

Plans call for the building of fleet and cargo piers, supply depots, aviation training bases, harbor improvements and repair depots.

Expansion of present hospital facilities from 60,000 to 80,000 beds and provision for malaria recuperation centers also were included in the plans.

WITHOUT COUNTRY

A bill has been passed by the house which would make men who fled the United States to avoid the draft "men without a country." These expatriates would be forever barred from reentering the United States. The bill was sent to the senate for action.

The house immigration committee reported that many men have gone into Mexico to avoid induction. In the vicinity of El Paso, Texas, alone, more than 800 evaders are known to have crossed the border.

SAUL'S EARLY PREACHING

LESSON TEXT: Acts 9:19-30; 11:25, 26. GOLDEN TEXT: I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.—Romans 1:16.

"A changed man"—that oft-used expression assumes real meaning as it is applied to one who has experienced the redeeming grace of God in Christ. In a special way this was true of Paul, whose transformed life amazed those who knew him before he had met Christ on the Damascus road.

In our lesson we find him in three different cities, serving his newfound Master and Lord.

I. At Damascus—Confounding the Jews (9:19-25).

"Straightway." What a good word to apply to the servant of the Lord. Paul did not hesitate to declare his faith in Christ, to proclaim that the One who had redeemed him was able also to save others.

It is the normal and proper expression of Christian faith to give testimony to others. That should be true of every believer. With Paul there was the added element of his call to preach, for God had ordained that he should be His chosen vessel for that purpose (Acts 9:15).

One is impressed by the prompt and unquestioning obedience of so many of Christ's followers of whom we read in the New Testament. No doubt that explains their power and wide usefulness. We could learn of them.

Paul's message was Christ. He proved to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ (v. 22), the One of whom their Old Testament Scriptures spoke and for whom they professed to be looking. He declared Him to be the Son of God (v. 20).

They were unwilling to accept the message. They were "amazed" at Paul and "confounded" by the truth he proclaimed, but they rejected both it and him, and he had to escape for his life. But another city must hear his witness, so we find him—

II. At Jerusalem—Disputing With the Grecians (9:26-30).

Knowing his violent persecution of the church, the disciples in Jerusalem were suspicious. Perhaps there was a measure of justification for such an attitude, but one is glad that there was present the generous, open-hearted Barnabas, ready to believe in his new brother in Christ and to sponsor him in the church.

A word of admonition to the church of our day is necessary, regarding the making of a new convert or a stranger at home in the fellowship of the saints. There is no need of putting such a one quickly into office or a place of honor, but let him know that he is accepted and believed in, and thus give him an opportunity to grow.

Paul remained in Jerusalem this time for two weeks (Gal. 1:18), going in and out, that is, in friendly fellowship. That is just what the young Christian needs, and should seek.

He also had something to make right. He had joined the Grecian Jews when they disputed with Stephen (8:9) and stoned him. Paul had agreed with and joined them on that occasion. Now by the miracle of regeneration he is a new creature and is on the exactly opposite side. Now he disputes with the Grecians, declaring that Jesus is the Christ. What a blessed change!

They refused to tolerate that word, and prepared to kill him. But the servant of the Lord was kept by Him, and delivered through the good offices of Christian brethren. How often it is true that the minister must look to the brethren for that kindness which delivers him from distress and danger.

Paul returned for a time to his home city of Tarsus, but when a need of his services arose he was called out, and we find him—

III. At Antioch—Teaching the Christians (11:25, 26).

Persecution spread the believers abroad (Acts 11:19), and like the scattered brands of a beaten fire they carried the flame of Christianity far and wide. Thus the gospel came to Antioch, the third greatest city in the world of that day. A revival broke out, and Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to be of help.

Good and spiritual man that he was (Acts 19:23, 24), Barnabas did nothing to hinder this work of God, but admonished the people to "cleave unto the Lord," that is, to follow Him closely. Would that all spiritual advisers had such a spirit and such sound judgment.

He was also wise in sensing his need of help. So he went after Paul, the very man to teach these young Christians, and to lead them out into a radiant and abundant life for the Lord.

Here it was that the beautiful name of "Christian" was first applied to believers. It is believed to have originally been a term of ridicule, but even then it was a testimony, for it declared that these believers were devoted to Christ and concerned only with pleasing and serving Him.

Difficult Job Confronts New Democratic Leaders

Chairman Hannegan, Publicist Porter, Must Rebuild Party Machine; Answer GOP Attacks on Bureaucracy.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Bombs one day will cease bursting, ships will sail the seas undisturbed by torpedoes, and cities will no longer be leveled, but politics knows no armistice.

The political forces are already laying down their preliminary bargains.

Two weeks ago, I reported a visit to Republican headquarters up on Connecticut avenue and I attempted to outline the job that Chairman of the Republican National committee, Harrison Spangler, has laid out for himself.

Since then, I have been admitted into the front lines in the Democratic sector and now that I am back safe in limb and, I hope, sound in mind, I shall attempt to report the strategy that Field Marshal Hannegan's cohorts seem to be employing. Democratic Chairman Hannegan is a young man, who has served in the ranks and worked his way up from ward politics to City Chairman for St. Louis whence he leapt to the national chairmanship.

Just to give you a little of the atmosphere in which the Democratic GHQ operates, let me say a word about a gathering held recently in the Mayflower Hotel (which also houses the Democratic headquarters) just a few blocks down Connecticut avenue from the old residence that the GOP has taken over.

This gathering was the occasion of the retirement of Charley Michelson and the assumption of his duties as Number One publicity man for the Democratic committee by tall and personable Paul Porter, who said he felt as if somebody had put him down in Carnegie Hall, handed him Kriesler's violin, and said: "Now play."

That was a pat remark. We all know Charley Michelson. We all know Porter, who has been around Washington in one important job or another ever since the New Deal began dealing. And we know the typewriter of Charley Michelson is as hard for anyone but its possessor to play upon as Kreisler's fiddle would be. However, when I was up at Democratic headquarters a few days later, there was Charley apparently giving such aid and comfort and encouragement as might be needed from the wings.

One thing that makes it hard for the Democrats is that the Republicans are in a position to lift their copyright.

As one Democrat explained it to me, it is like this:

"Nobody will have a chance to do the job that Charley Michelson did for us from 1922 on until the election of FDR. The trouble is the Republicans are in a position to use his theme song adapted, of course, to suit their needs.

"They have already started to do to the administration just what Michelson did to Hoover. They have started to attack the war agencies and all of the administration departments and activities, exposing every blunder, playing up failures and trying to show that everything the people think are burdens and annoyances can be traced directly to the administration.

"And you know," this wise old veteran added, "what you write and say about how bad the other guy is makes a lot better reading than what you say about how good you think YOU are."

That is one obstacle Chairman Hannegan is up against although the real responsibility falls on the shoulders of Michelson's successor, Paul Porter, and they are broad shoulders with a very good newspaper head between them.

But Hannegan has another, bigger problem. It is a job for a master mechanic. It is a repair job on the Democratic machine which is euphemistically designated in the language of party politics as the "organization."

Broken Machine

Hannegan is a young, energetic, open-faced Irishman, and it is a good thing he is young and energetic and optimistic because he has had to start his job of organization at scratch. Anyone at Democratic headquarters will admit that.

The reason is revealed in this simple chronology:

Jim Farley took over a pretty well running machine built up by Raskob. Farley did a splendid job of keeping it spinning until 1936. It was a hundred-per-cent-Roosevelt-for-President machine that far. Then Farley got other ideas—one, that two terms was enough for Roosevelt, and the other was that the next term, it would be Farley. The machine changed to a one-man dog which, for four years, would only come when its master spoke and its master was Farley. After the historic split, it fell apart except as the states kept their segments intact.

So all Mr. Hannegan has to do is to put it together again if he can find all the parts.

That is the first job as far as the Democratic offensive goes. As to the defense, they feel they already have a pretty clear picture of the Republican war plans as revealed in activities to date.

They point to the campaign that won the Republicans another seat in the House of Representatives from the first Congressional district of Colorado. The Democratic candidate was a young war hero. His Republican opponent was a business man. He had a very simple line of attack. He hammered bureaucracy, he placed the present ills of the community squarely on the head of the administration—gas rationing, for instance.

The OPA Fight

The Democrats say this pattern—damning the administration's administering—has been revealed in congress too. The fight over the OPA is a current example. Minority Leader Joe Martin announced at the beginning that nobody wanted to do away with price regulation but that present regulation must be improved. What the Democrats expect is that the Republicans will drag out the hearings as long as possible, parade what they call "a chamber of horrors" before the people, attempting to associate all the irritations, limitations and restrictions which are annoying the public, on the administration.

There are other obstacles which are a product of the time which the Democrats have to meet. They are realistic about them.

One is the fourth term, of course. That may partially be offset by the "don't change horses in the middle of a stream" argument which is counted upon to influence a great number of people who think it might be disastrous to shift leadership, whether you like it or not, while the war is going on.

Another situation which the Democrats face and about which there is little or nothing to do is the great migration of voters who have failed to establish residence in their new homes or who are in the armed forces and will not be able to vote. As one Democrat put it to me: "We know we are going to suffer more than the Republicans from this change of residence business. It isn't the man and woman who lives in a Park Avenue penthouse who moves to San Diego to work in an airplane plant; it is the hill billy who has voted Democratic all his life who moves to a war boom town and forgets to register."

Campaign Weapons

"And," he added, "it is the soldier son of families which have been reelecting Roosevelt who isn't going to get his ballot in from Kwajalein atoll or Middlesex-on-sticks, Wangle-shire, Hereford, England."

Here are two main dishes the Democrats probably will offer the voter!

The first, I have already mentioned. Don't change horses . . .

The second can be encompassed in one word—work! You can call it security, or any other name that smells as sweet. But the Democrats count on the fact that the average American fears another depression, or at least temporary unemployment when the boys come home. The argument is, "They (the Democrats) did it before, they can do it again . . . the Republicans brought you panic, the New Deal got you through it."

Circumstances alter the best laid plans of mice, men and national committees, but that seems to be what they are shouting at along Connecticut avenue today.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

DAIRY SUBSIDIES: Charles Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers federation, told a senate committee that subsidies on dairy products would have to be increased by $200,000,000 a year to give farmers a fair return. This would raise the total paid to milk producers from $550,000,000 to $750,000,000. Holman is opposed to the whole dairy subsidy program.

SAVINGS: In the first two years of war, savings of the American people have increased by more than 50 per cent, represented by war bonds, bank deposits and life insurance. The total of these three items on January 1 of this year was 91 billion dollars. About 12 per cent of individual income goes into these forms of savings, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Ohio's six State universities, through their Inter-University Council, have asked the director of education of Ohio, Kenneth S. Ray, to call a state conference on problems relating to the rehabilitation of returning servicemen.

U. S. civilian supplies of sugar will be 6 per cent less than 1943 consumption, according to WFA.

Under existing legislation all veterans of World War II who were citizens of Illinois when they entered military service are eligible for University of Illinois scholarships.

Berlin radio told Latin America that the German tourist movement in 1943 was only 8 per cent lower than in years before the war.

Penicillin, Latest Triumph of Medical Research, Marks Another Long Step Toward Distant Goal

'Magic' Germ Killer Was Discovered by Fortunate Accident

By AL JEDLIKA
Released by Western Newspaper Union.
It is back in 1929.

Prof. Alexander Fleming of London discovers that a mold growing in a container which he is using in research has killed certain germs. Although Professor Fleming does not enter into a thorough investigation of the phenomenon, he takes the time to make a note of it, suggesting that maybe the mold could destroy germs in human infections.

Other English scientists go to work on the mold and in 1940 find it effective in human treatment. Penicillin, the magic drug, has been discovered, and like so many great other discoveries, by chance.

Penicillin is not the greatest nor the final discovery in medicine, but it is the latest and among the most effective, momentarily climaxing medicine's long, steady march forward on the path of alleviating man's pain.

Sought by king and commoner alike, penicillin has proven its usefulness in the treatment of streptococcus pyogenes, a germ that causes pus and promotes diseases like septic sore throat, childbed fever and erysipelas; of staphylococcus aureus, another pus-forming germ found in boils and in infections of the bone; of the pneumonia and diphtheria germs; of the organisms that cause gonorrhea, gas gangrene, meningitis and syphilis.

In Chicago's modern Museum of Science and Industry at the foot of Lake Michigan in Jackson Park, Dr. Milan Novak, head of the department of bacteriology and public health of University of Illinois college of medicine, has established a public exhibit demonstrating the processes in the present production of penicillin.

The penicillin exhibit is just one of many in the museum's medical section, which is under direction of Dr. E. J. Carey, dean of the Marquette university medical school, Milwaukee, Wis. In this section, we are given a graphic picture of man's gradual development of curative remedies from the early uses of vegetable and mineral substances.

Seven Benefactors.
One exhibit pictures seven great men and their works which have given mankind boundless relief from its physical illnesses:

Karl Wilhelm Scheele (1742-'86), who discovered chlorine, the constituent of common compounds like salt; tartaric acids, which make fruits taste sour; manganese, the metallic element necessary for plant development, and oxygen, the most universal of all elements.

Pelletier and Caventou, who in 1820 extracted quinine, the active medicinal constituent of cinchona, the wrinkled brown bark found by the Spaniards in Peru in 1630, and most effective in treating malaria.

Louis Jacques Thenard (1777-1857) who found boric acid and hydrogen peroxide.

Frederick Belding Powder (1853-1927), who worked on development of oil of peppermint and wintergreen, and also oil of chaulmoogra, a ment of hormones for treatment of glandular deficiencies in 1901, with the introduction of coal-tar synthetic drugs in 1884 and thyroxin in 1893 grouped between.

The 'Magic' Drug.
The climatic and currently most interesting exhibit, of course, is the one dealing with the growth of penicillin, from a mold to a refined liquid containing the drug which al-

Prof. Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, is shown with a bottle holding cultures of penicillium notatum, as he converses with two visiting Turkish doctors in his London laboratory, where he made the remarkable experiments.

source of certain chemical compounds for use in treating leprosy.

Bernard Courtois (1777-1838), who isolated iodine in 1811, when he observed that washings from seaweed ashes gave off purple vapors when treated with sulphuric acid, and then turned into crystals which contained the element, now so useful in medicine.

Antoine Bilard (1802-'76), who discovered bromine in 1828.

Moderns as well as oldsters find the museum's replica of the 19th century American apothecary shop an interesting contrast to the present, streamlined drug store.

To say the least, the old apothecary shop ranked as a colorful spectacle as well as a popular medicinal center, what with its big, square jars of black zingiber, white zinc sulphide, reddish tincture of serpent and gold spirits odoratum. Drawers contained emery, talcum, manna, creta and iris.

Of interest is the 19th century doctor's bulky, varnished medicine case which he carried in his saddlebag as he made his rounds through the country. In the case, one can find quinine, turkey rhubarb, essence of peppermint, fire of magnesia, essence of ginger and tincture of orange peel.

On the counter of the apothecary shop stands a box of herbal smoking mixture for cure of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, lung disease, coughs, hoarseness, ulcerated throat and all pulmonary complaints, the customer merely being asked to smoke and inhale it.

Hard by the replica of the old apothecary shop, we find a drug exhibit depicting 19th century medicinal advances, from the discovery of alkaloids in 1816 to the development of hormones for treatment of glandular deficiencies in 1901, with the introduction of coal-tar synthetic drugs in 1884 and thyroxin in 1893 grouped between.

Step by step, the exhibit demonstrates the processes of producing penicillin:

First, there's the stock culture, with a mold similar to but not identical with green molds found on fruits or cheese, shown growing on jell-like base containing sugar.

Second, the spores (seeds) from the stock culture are transferred to a nutrient solution containing sugar, and they germinate into white woolly plants. In three days, the mold covers the surface of the liquid. This mold creates penicillin, which collects in the nutrient but not in the mold plants.

Third, as the mold plants mature, their color changes from white to gray-green because of the development of numerous spores (seeds). At this stage, the solution contains a maximum amount of penicillin and the culture is ready for collection. If allowed to become too old, the penicillin in the liquid loses some of its strength.

Fourth, the first step in collecting the penicillin is to remove the mold growth from the liquid by filtration, since the plant itself contains none of the drug. The liquid thus filtered possesses small amounts of penicillin. An elaborate process of extraction and absorption is used to concentrate and remove the penicillin from the liquid.

Fifth, the purification process removes objectionable substances. If left in its yellow-brown solution form, penicillin loses some of its strength, but is relatively stable as a powder, into which it is converted by commercial production.

When penicillin is to be injected into a patient, it is dissolved. A hypodermic syringe is used for intramuscular injection, and if intravenous injection is desired, a blood transfusion apparatus is used.

Penicillin must be tested regularly for strength. In the cup method, melted agar is uniformly inoculated with test bacteria, which cannot grow in the presence of penicillin, and is placed in a round dish to solidify. Small glass cylinders are put in the solidified agar and filled with a penicillin solution, which then seeps outward into the infected mold. The test bacteria grow and cloud the agar, except where their growth is stopped by the penicillin. The size of the clear zone is proportional to the strength of the penicillin.

If penicillin is hard to get, it's because its production is limited by its growth. From a large batch of the nutrient solution only a relatively small amount of penicillin is obtainable. As yet no synthetic method to produce the drug on a mass-scale has been developed, and until some such process is installed, the civilians' share will be strictly determined by the military and naval services' needs.

The first time the rare drug was ever released for civilian use was in the case of Patricia Malone, two-year-old New York city girl, who was suffering from the staphylococci type of septicemia. The army gave enough penicillin to halt the disease, when appealed to by a New York newspaper.

Until Synthetic Method Is Devised, Production Of Penicillin Will Remain Slow and Costly

Brought doubly into the limelight by frequent dramatic uses of the drug, penicillin has been made available in cases where the patient would respond to it, Dr. Austin E. Smith, secretary of the council on pharmacy and chemistry of the American Medical Association, said. Because of its comparative scarcity, Dr. Smith stated, unlimited use of penicillin has not been permitted, and in cases where other drugs, like the sulfonamides for instance, are effective, authorities have insisted on employing them instead.

Until synthetic production of penicillin is developed, its manufacture will continue a costly and cumbersome process. At the start of the year, about eight firms were producing quantities of penicillin, and the total was expected to be expanded to 20.

This tiny sealed vial contains 10,000 Florey units of penicillin.

Blast Tore Up Street; Workman Did Likewise

The talkative workman was holding forth to an admiring audience in the village store. He was explaining that even in his job, which people might think dull enough, there was sometimes quite a lot of excitement.

"Why I can remember once when a gas explosion tore up a main street where I was working. Huge stones were hurled into the air, buildings trembled and debris rained all about me."

"And what did you do," expectantly asked one of the store's customers.

"Me?" replied the workman, "I quickly regained my composure and tore up a side street."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Planes fly in supplies and bring out crude rubber from Central American plantations. Weeks are saved by this method of transportation.

In building a battleship it takes 150,000 pounds of rubber. This is equivalent to the rubber used in the manufacture of more than 12,000 small passenger-car tires.

The first city-omnibus lines, the forerunner of modern motor bus transportation, started operations over the streets of Paris in 1662.

Seventy-three per cent of the employees in 94 war plants depend upon their cars for transportation. Rubber is essential to their work.

Pickles have gone to war

Uncle Sam is counting on you to plant more in '44!

"Out on the rough Atlantic . . . or away on the vast Pacific . . . or down on the blue waters of the Gulf . . . the Navy ships run into some pretty rough weather. And it's not an unusual thing for both officers and men to stop by a large tin can that's brought out of the galley at the sign of very bad weather. What's in it? It's full of . . . yes . . . pickles . . . pickles for the sailors to keep them from getting sea-sick. Ask any seasoned sailor and he'll tell you it's a true story."

Excerpt from United States Navy's Radio Salute to H. J. Heinz Company and Heinz men and women.

UNCLE SAM needs more pickles for the fighting men of the "seven seas," and the men who fight on land and in the air. In addition to their zestful role as appetizers, pickles have a definite nutritional value because they are important sources of vitamins A and B and of minerals, salts and acids.

There are plenty of profit-making opportunities in pickles, too. Here's why:

1 The highest prices in history will be paid for pickles, giving growers an opportunity for record profits.

2 Pickles are an "in-between" crop and are paid for before the farmer receives cash from other crops.

3 Because pickles are an essential food, the government allows fertilizer containing nitrogen which permits maximum production per acre.

4 Pickles take less from the soil than most other crops.

Our field men are now prepared to contract for pickle acreage in this district.

Indian BEEF

by HAROLD CHANNING WIRE

W.N.U. RELEASE

LEW BURNET is trail boss of the Cross T herd which is being driven from Texas to the Indian agent at Ogallala. The year is 1875. TOM ARNOLD, owner, has been killed in a stampede. His will names Lew boss and owner until the cattle are sold, when STEVE and JOY are to receive their shares. After over-coming difficulties and hardships, they enter Indian territory and are attacked by a raiding party of Cheyennes. Their leader, Crazy Bear, kidnaps Joy, but Lew and WILLY NICKLE rescue her. Lew then forces the drive onward at a faster pace. CLAY MANNING, Joy's fiancé, is strangely changed. He has lost his self-assurance and appears moody and surly.

CHAPTER XVI

On the far side of the quieted cattle, Lew saw Clay ride out with Joe Wheat and Neal Good on their first guard and passed him in the dark still later at the change of watches when he began his own second guard from eleven until two; so that his first sense, when Owl-Head Jackson's rough hand awakened him in the morning, was one of refusing what he heard.

Bent above him in the half-light, the cook was saying, "Lew! Hey there! Something's missin'. We're short a man."

He sat up in his blankets. Clay, his bedroll and his war bag were gone. He still refused it. Drugged with a heavy sleep, he said irritably, "All right, all right. I see. Never mind." But afterward, dressed, he walked out through the picketed night-guard horses and found that Clay had taken the one he had ridden last. Following fresh tracks on the dewy grass, he traced them to the creek and across it and saw they were aimed for town.

All the camp was aroused and knew of it by the time he got back. Owl-Head's busy tongue was letting them know. He saw Joy crouched at the parted wagon flaps, her long dark hair sleep-tossed, a quilted blanket around her. She called to him, and going over, he spoke first, "It's all right now. Nothing's happened."

"But where has he gone?" Her voice was quick. Fear haunted the soft sleepiness of her eyes.

"Into town," he said. "I don't know why or anything about it. It's his own business."

Her hand came out to him and gripped his arm hard. "Lew, you can't let him! You've got to get him back. Send someone in," she begged. "You must!"

He spoke gently. "Joy, when a man's got something on his mind he has to work it out himself. Clay must know what he's doing. I'm going to leave him alone."

"And if anything happens—" She stared at him. "And I knew you might have helped—"

"I'll take the blame," he said. "I know." Here was what he had understood that night in the Wichita hills. Above everything else there would be this loyalty to Clay. He saw her eyes go beyond him. He turned his head.

Steve was coming toward them, walking fast, two high spots of color staining his flat cheeks. Quick and blunt, he said, "Lew, I'm going in to town," and wheeled on to saddle up.

He called out, "Wait a minute, kid!" following. "There's plenty of time. We're all going in tonight." He sharpened his stare into the nervous eyes. "You knew about this?"

"Not till just now, no." "Then you can wait." He started off and turned back. He felt no gentleness with Steve. "Don't you try to skin out either! I'll be on watch for that."

With the arrowhead shaped and grazing forward he rode back to Joe Wheat in the next driving position. "Joe," he said, "I want you to work this out for me. You go in and see what Clay's up to. Get a line on the Open A and its men—you know the joints in there better than any of us."

"Guess I do." The old man grinned and rubbed his corded neck. "We'll cross the river," Lew finished, "and go into camp about five miles west of town. Get your news and come back there. That will be some time late this afternoon."

If he could have his own way he'd pass Dodge without a stop. Time was crowding him, a threat always over his head. They still had six weeks until September first, the delivery date in Ogallala, but also four hundred long miles. He'd like to pass Dodge secretly and keep on. Yet even if Clay had not spoiled that he knew it couldn't be done. No trail crew would stand for it. Dodge was a mecca, a safety valve.

The afternoon was almost spent, when he swung the point off again to bring the herd into a milling stop on an open flat and saw the cook's wagon and Joe Wheat arriving from town. Wheat came on waving a signal. He rode out to meet the man alone.

"Find him, Joe?" "He's there." Wheat nodded. "Been there all day. But I don't figure it. Splann's there and a fellow called Stoddard, said to be the Open A boss. First it was only them three and Clay was putting up some kind of talk. They kept north of the tracks, drinking. Dodge still has that dead line. They don't carry guns in that part. But along this afternoon five more Open A riders joined in. Clay's drunk and they've got him south of the dead line now. Lew, I don't know." Joe Wheat's usually sour face showed a deep concern. "Looks like they're crowding Clay into something. They've got him cornered and Clay's still a Cross T man. What do you think?"

He guessed old Joe was right. Clay was a Cross T man till he proved something else. He hadn't done that yet. "We'll ride," he said. "Better not waste any time."

In camp he told the men who had started to wash up for supper, "Don't stop to eat." Dripping heads came up as they stared at him. He didn't explain.

He wanted the best of this crew around him in town; some would have to stay here on guard. Owl-Head had already been in and showed it. There wasn't much of a meal cooking on the pit tonight. For the others to be left he picked out Moonlight Bailey, young Jim Hope and Steve. Getting Moonlight off alone, he said, "If Steve tries to skin out rope him. I don't want him in town at all."

He turned across to Joy's wagon, found the canvas closed tight and called inside, "We're going off for a little while. I'm leaving Steve here with you."

Her voice came out to him with an even quietness. "I'm riding into town when you do. Will you saddle a horse for me?"

"Later, maybe," he said. "Not now."

The flaps parted. She held them together around her head. She was dressing. Her hair was brushed back smoothly and knotted at the nape of her neck. "I'll go to a hotel," she said, "and not be any trouble. But I'm going."

"Heard your Cross T was getting in."

He knew that quietness in her voice; there was a will behind it. And he understood. Clay was in trouble, and all of a woman's urge, and perhaps her intuition, was driving her to the man. He gave in to that knowledge, saddled a horse and brought it back for her to ride. As he moved the horse for her to mount she handed him a carpetbag heavy with her things.

He looked at it, shaping a question which then he did not ask. He lifted her up to ride sidesaddle. She hooked her right knee over the horn.

Half an hour's loping travel brought the gray sod houses at the outskirts of the town. Even before that the voice of Dodge had been around them in a mingling of sounds that rose and fell and sometimes died away to a breathless hush.

Most of the way there had been little talk. Joe Wheat, Quarternight and Ash Brownstone made their older men's group, riding together. Charley and Neal Good had paired off. He rode next to Joy's stirrup himself, at no time trying to break the silence she had seemed to want.

Beyond the soddies, with clusters of board houses beginning to outline irregular streets, he aimed toward a row of lights where Second Avenue, running north from the river, split the town in the middle. He leaned over to say, "I'll take you to the Wright House. That's the best." She nodded. They rode on into louder waves of sound.

Then they had entered Second Avenue, coming at once out of darkness into the glow of square oil lamps on posts at the four corners of each intersection. Down at the avenue's farther end he could see the plaza filled with dust and the moving swarms of horses and men. But the Wright House was two blocks back from that jammed center. He turned in front of it and stopped against the long hitching rail.

He said to the others, "Wait here," and handed Joy down from her saddle. Whatever she planned he didn't know and still held back his question while they entered the high, square lobby and found she could get a ground-floor room.

But he took her arm as a Negro porter picked up her bag and started off. "What are you going to do?" She turned to face him. Her lips were pale. "Nothing. Find Clay. Tell him I'm here."

He looked at her, filled with a wretched pity for that belief, that all he had to do was tell Clay she was here. "All right," he said. "I'll let him know."

Outside and mounted, there was one other thing he wanted to do first. He turned into a cross street and rode two blocks to Railroad Avenue, turned down that toward the river and reached a section of warehouses, the depot, a huge barn with corrals sprawled behind it—Rachal Brothers' livery.

He said once more, "Wait here," and entered the livery office.

Pete Rachal was inside, sunk deep in a bridle cowhide chair, a man grown fat and wealthy now, and yet an outlaw once whose rustled herds had pioneered the trail to Dodge. He was a Texan who could never go back. But any Texas cowboy, cleaned of his money, needn't go hungry here nor sell his horse and saddle. Pete Rachal was their hock shop and bank.

He lifted a stubby hand with its thumb missing and let it fall. "Burnet, how are you? Heard your Cross T was getting in?"

"How'd you hear that?" "Horseback information. Someone dropped it off."

"Anything else?" "Some trouble I heard with the Indian Supply Company's Open A. Bad?"

"Bad enough," he said. "That's why I've come to you. How many of the boys have you got in soak here?"

"Say!" Rachal put out his hand and moved an oil lamp on a table until it lighted a storeroom behind it. "Take a look."

Lew crossed to the doorway. Forty or fifty saddles were hung in there on pegs along the wall. He turned back, grinning a little. "They'll never learn, I guess. Well, you know the men. You round up ten of the best and have them back here inside of an hour. I'll pay their bills and give them jobs."

Pete Rachal's blue eyes studied him over their heavy pouches. "Cow work?"

"I've got enough men," he said, "to handle the cows. We're headed through to Ogallala. I don't figure to be stopped."

"That bad, is it?" "That bad."

"You come back," Rachal said. "I know the right ones for that."

"In an hour," he promised and went out in time to hear Charley Storms' rising complaint, "What's he holding us back for?" And then, "Hey, Lew, how about some fun?"

"Charley," he said, "too bad, but you'll have to wait." Only Joe Wheat knew fully what they had come in for. He got into his saddle. "We're looking for Clay. Joe, where was it you saw him last?"

"They'd worked the Lady Gay and Mrs. Gore's," Wheat said, "and were drinking at Dutch Jake's when I left."

"Likely moved on from there by this time. We'll comb the plaza first."

He led out between the livery and the depot, entering at once into the open plaza two blocks wide and four long.

Here in this dusty compound all the visible life of Dodge was centered, hemmed in by the high-fronted buildings with their plank walls and wooden awnings running from end to end.

He knew the horse Clay had ridden and watched for it among the three hundred or more saddle animals lined solidly along the gnawed hitching rails. In the brighter fans of light from the windows of Delmonico's Restaurant, a dozen barbershops, The Alamo and The Alhambra saloons he watched the brown faces of men. They jammed the plank walk shoulder to shoulder in their moving stream.

Clay's big shape was not in this crowd, and past the Long Branch Corner, boasting the longest bar in the world and fifty gambling tables, he said, "We might as well go across."

But the hitching rails were mostly vacant, and Joe Wheat said, "I guess he's gone, Lew. This is where I saw his horse."

He nodded. "I'll take a look." Men drifted through these places, tried others and came back again. He got down from his saddle and walked along, peering over the batting doors. Dutch Jake's place was empty now. In those farther on only a few drunks were propped against the bars. He had almost reached the corner, with open ground and the river crossing at right angles beyond, when he passed a man standing as motionless as a post against an unlighted wall of the saloon front; passed him and halted and turned back to look at him again.

Instantly the dark figure sprang out and ran the width of the street to a saddled horse. He hadn't seen the man's face, but it was plainly someone stationed on lookout duty.

Better Fighting Planes Coming

Senate Committee Discloses Facts About New Two-Engined Craft.

WASHINGTON.—Two new navy fighting planes of unparalleled designs and a new army light bomber were disclosed by the senate committee investigating war production.

The new planes listed were: The F-7-F, described as a two-engined fighter being built by Grumman Aircraft and Engineering corporation and scheduled for early production. This is the first mention of a two-engined carrier-based fighter. Presumably it would be a single-seat plane with folding wings.

The BTD, described as "a radically improved model" of SBD Dauntless dive bomber, obviously intended for a wider range of uses than the plane it will replace. The letters BTD mean "bomber torpedo," built by Douglas. The SBD is a "scout bomber" of Douglas manufacture. There is at present no combined dive bomber and torpedo plane designed as such in service on carriers.

The third new plane, the report said, is "a new Douglas light bomber, which is considered to be greatly superior to the A-20 . . . and in the future will be the principal light bomber produced." The Douglas A-20 Havoc is a highly-rated two-engined plane used for numerous purposes, including that of a night fighter.

Others Being Improved. The report disclosed that "the North American P-51 Mustang and the Republic P-47 Thunderbolt, already rated as tops among single engine fighters, are being improved, and that a 'greatly improved' version of the Bell Airacobra is coming into production.

Production of the Lockheed P-38 Lightning, described as "the finest plane of its type in the world," is being increased by a contract with Consolidated Vultee. Thus far the versatile twin boom, long range fighter has been built only by its designer, Lockheed.

The contract with the Kaiser-Hughes Aircraft corporation for three 400,000-pound, eight-engined wooden flying boats has been canceled, the Truman committee said, adding that the way was left open for negotiation on a metal version of the plane.

'Too Heavy, Unreliable.' The contract was made between the company and the Defense Plant corporation, a government agency, upon the recommendation of the War Production board. Cancellation of the contract was at the request of Chairman Donald Nelson of the WPB, following an investigation by an engineering board.

The WPB concluded, the Truman report said, that the Kaiser-Hughes plane would be "considerably less efficient" than proved cargo planes and that its wooden construction was "excessively heavy and unreliable," but that the design was "fundamentally sound" and might be of value to the war effort if carried out in metal.

The wooden plane, known as the HK-1, was conceived with a 320-foot wingspread, a length of 218 feet. It was planned to carry 60 tons of cargo at 174 miles an hour.

Plane Motors Protected By Sowing Grass in Italy

WASHINGTON.—The army air forces has entered the field of soil conservation in Italy to protect airplane motors from volcanic dust, the war department announced.

The AAF air service command, the department said, will seed "extensive areas" in Italy during the current rainy season to provide a protective cover of grass, thus keeping the volcanic dust out of the air.

The first of 50 tons of seed was delivered to Italy by transport after consultation with agricultural experts in this country. Subsequent shipments of seed and four grain sowers have been sent by cargo vessels.

New War Stoves Show No Smoke Nor Flames

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—The modern soldier has sacrificed the companionship of a campfire for the safety of the new war stove which operates without inviting enemy fire or bombs.

The quartermaster corps revealed that several types of gasoline stoves which give off neither smoke nor visible flame are now in use in all areas of combat.

A one-burner is designed to be carried on ski pack over snowfields, the quartermaster corps said, while another is small enough to be balanced on the head of a native carrier inching his way through a jungle.

New Blood Treatment For Wounds Is Found

MOSCOW.—A new method of treating wounds by adding blood to them has been discovered by a 73-year-old Russian scientist—Prof. Olga Lepeshinskaya—through study of the role of live substance in the process of healing. Tass news agency reported. Professor Lepeshinskaya is head of the histology department of Moscow state university. She is the author of 88 scientific works.

A DELIGHT to any dainty lass is this befrilled pinafore embroidered with swimming ducks or darling cubs. You may use these exciting motifs on other garments, too. All simple stitchery.

Pans in which milk has been heated are cleaned easier, if they are rinsed before and after using, in cold water.

The oven should be hot for baking vegetables and the baking time should be just long enough for them to become tender but remain firm.

Old horseshoes, filed to wedge shaped points on one end and drilled and bolted to your ladder, make sturdy hooks for use on the roof ridge.

Keeping shoes polished keeps the leather pliable and preserves it.

If the radiator fins on your car or tractor get bent, try straightening them with a common table fork, the prongs of which have been cut down to about one-fourth inch length.

Children's bean bags for play may be made from scraps of closely woven material such as denim, cut and stitched to a 4 by 6-inch size and then filled with one cup of beans.

Don't throw out old, stiff paint brushes; instead, place them in a can with enough vinegar to cover, and boil for 15 minutes.

ENDS 5-YEAR SIEGE OF CONSTIPATION!

"Now as Regular as Anyone!" Says H. C. Durand

Here's a sincere, unsolicited letter every disappointed "dosers" will want to read.

"I'm 52 years old, and have been constipated over 5 years, going as much as 5 days without a movement. Pills and laxatives would relieve me only for the day I took them. Next day I'd be as bad as ever. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Am now on my second box, and as regular as anyone could want, thanks to regular use of your wonderful product!"

Mr. H. C. Durand, 221 N. Columbus Ave., Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.

Sounds like "magic," doesn't it? Yet, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really can, and does, get at a common cause of constipation—lack of certain dietary "cellulosic" elements! That's because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements—which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It is simply a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins daily. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

LINES ON READING ABOUT SOME FLYING ACES

"A hick-town guy" was the old time crack,
"He's fresh from the sticks, the boob;
You know what them small-town fellers lack—
Remember, a rube's a rube!"
But now the war it has changed all that—
Look up where the hot flak flies
Up there, with the aces who treat 'em rough
Behold all the small-town guys!

Lieutenant Ickard from Granite Falls . . .
Meroney from Pine Bluff Ark . . .
They're with the boys in the payoff brawls
With Murphy of Eastlake Park . . .
Captain Don Gentile of "Piqua O."
And Newman from Goose Creek, Tex.—
They're with the scrappers who blast the foe
And add to the Axis wrecks.

"Snowflake" — there's one that is new to you —
It's only a whistle-stop,
But from it Grant Turley is with a crew
That's making those Berlin hops
Nicky Megura, Ansonia,
Joe Turner from Bartlettsville . . .
There's Stuffy O'Hare of Sidonia
And Williams from Rickett's Mill.

Ridgewood, old Newton and West-bury,
Verona and Stony Creek . . .
From Milford and Bethel and Big Oak Tree,
Corona and Owlhead Peak . . .
From old Williamantic and Beaver Dam,
North Canton and Lebanon,
Missoula and Bingville and Cedar-ham,
Deep River and Rising Sun.

Afoot, on the seas, in the flaming skies,
Fight lads from some little town,
And tall are feats of the hick-town guys
Whenever the chips are down;
The villages there by an old mill-stream—
The towns by the forest deep—
The hamlets so far from a spot-light's gleam—
They're THERE when the task is steep.

In foxholes, in crashboats, in bomb-ers great,
Wherever the fighting's hot
Are guys who have swung on a farm-yard gate
And fished in a wooded spot;
The Hicktowns, the Goosevilles and Spotted Cow,
East Birdville and Painted Sky—
They're up in the front with the big towns now
And writing their names up high.

THE BOOK OF WAR ETIQUETTE
"Marvin Jones, war food administrator, urges Americans to sop up the gravy, squeeze the grapefruit dry and pick bones up in the fingers to get the last morsel from them. He says 26 per cent of our food is wasted."—News Item.

Dear Mr. Jones:
I am a little girl anxious to do the right thing at the table. I read your appeal to sop up the gravy, and I think it is a fine idea. Is it all right for me to lick the platter? Some of my friends say it is not.
Kathie.

Dear Kathie:
Platter-licking in a crisis like this is a definite contribution to the war effort and a proof of patriotism. Your friends are Axis agents. Be a good girl and lick every platter you can, remembering the slogan: "Lick a platter and help lick the Axis!"

Dear Jonesy:
I have been wellbred, but am by nature a rebel. All my life I have picked up most bones with my fingers, and fought it out on that line if it took all summer. Lately I have been grabbing up the main bone in the steak, gnawing the edges to a fare-thee-well. I have been widely criticized. Is there any way you could back me up more substantially than by a mere statement of policy?
J.B.J.

Dear Mr. J.B.J.:
The government is considering the adoption of a small tag for distinguished bone-picking. Any person picking bones in a resolute manner without regard for criticism or opposition will be eligible. In the meantime, keep picking away.

Salads Make Menus Sparkle!

(See Recipes Below)

Salad Ensembles

The warmer the weather, the more popular the salad becomes as a luncheon mainstay. Salads can be made from fruit or fish, fowl or vegetables—or from combinations of any of these classes as long as the foods go together.

If you want to give your salads a more than average nutritional boost plus distinction serve them with a cream cheese dressing. Then, if company drops in, you will not have to make apologies for what you're serving. For vegetables, use chive cream cheese blended with mayonnaise—a 6-ounce wedge with 4 tablespoons of mayonnaise is a good proportion.

Fruit salads are good with the pimiento cream cheese dressing blended with mayonnaise. Fish salads are best with the relish cream cheese. Use 6 ounces blended with 4 tablespoons of mayonnaise.

Salads can be light or hearty, depending on their ingredients.
Savory Salad.
(Serves 6 to 8)
1½ cups macaroni
¾ cup leftover ham or sausage
¾ cup chopped sweet pickle
¾ cup finely diced celery
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 cups chopped apple
3 tablespoons minced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons grated onion
¾ cup thinly sliced carrots
1 cup salted peanuts
¾ cup mayonnaise

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Cool. Combine with remaining ingredients. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Chill. Serve in lettuce cups garnished with radish slices.

As fresh as spring and just as enchanting is this lighter salad:
*Garden Salad.
(Serves 6)
1 head lettuce or Chinese cabbage
1 onion, grated
1 bunch chicory
1 bunch radishes
3 tomatoes, sliced
3 carrots, grated
1 cucumber, chopped
2 hard-cooked eggs
Combine ingredients. When ready to serve, toss with French dressing.

Jellied Chicken Salad.
(Serves 6)
3 cups cooked, diced chicken
1½ cups chicken broth
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon onion salt
½ cup peas
Mayonnaise
Heat well-seasoned chicken broth. Add gelatin, soaked in water, chicken, lemon juice, onion salt and peas.

Pretty, Pretty: All foods no matter how simple can be made more appetizing by attractive garnishes. And remember to eat the garnishes, for in most cases they're as nutritious as they are beautiful. This is especially true in the case of eggs.

Sieve hard-cooked yolks over top of creamed soups. Cut hard-cooked egg whites into attractive shapes for bouillon or consommé.

Baked custard can be cut into attractive shapes for clear soups. Make the custard using meat stock or bouillon cubes.

Daisy garnishes for vegetables are very effective. Cut whites of eggs lengthwise into five or more petals using a sharp knife, cutting from larger end to within ½ inch of the smaller end. Open petals, remove yolks and fill center of petals with sieved egg yolk.

Salmon Cutlets Egg Sauce

Peas with Onions
Caramel Rolls Spread
Citrus Chiffon Pie
*Recipe Given

Mold in cups rubbed slightly with olive oil and allow to chill until firm. Serve with mayonnaise on crisp lettuce leaves. Clusters of grapes make an attractive garnish.

Contrast in color becomes important when putting together salads. Since we are said "to eat with our eyes first" it's important to keep the salad appetizing. Carrots, green pepper and celery are a good combination. Cooked beets, green beans and cauliflower look well together.

Leave the skin on apples so they can add the bright touch of red to the salad. Nuts offer contrast in color as well as texture to fruit, vegetable or chicken salad.

Egg Salad Mold.
(Serves 6)
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
4 hard-cooked eggs, shredded
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
2 tablespoons pickle relish
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat over boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. When thickened, add remaining ingredients. Pour into individual molds or one large mold and chill. Serve with additional mayonnaise and garnish with endive and carrot curls.

Save Used Fats!
Rhubarb Salad Ring.
(Serves 6)
1 package raspberry or lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot rhubarb sauce
1 cup cold water
1 cup chopped apples
1 cup chopped nuts

Dissolve gelatin in hot sauce. Add water, cool and pour into a ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce. Serve Waldorf salad in center of ring. Or, make salad ring with strained cranberry sauce and serve chicken salad in center of ring.

If the salad is as good as its dressing, you will be able to use these suggestions:
Salad Bowl Dressing: Combine 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, a dash of pepper, 1 to 2 drops liquid garlic and a dash of sugar. Mix until blended and then pour in 1 cup salad oil and ½ teaspoon gum arabic or gum tragacanth (obtainable at a druggist's, usually). Shake or beat well and chill before using.

Peanut Butter French Dressing: Combine the following: ¼ cup peanut oil, ½ cup salad oil, ½ cup pure cider vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, and ½ teaspoon paprika. Beat thoroughly until blended. This is good for simple green salads.

Sour Cream Dressing: Mix together 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 teaspoons sugar and a dash of cayenne. Blend together 1 egg yolk beaten, 1 tablespoon oil and ½ cup vinegar and stir gradually into dry ingredients. Cook in top of double boiler until thick, remove from heat, then cool. Before serving, fold in ½ cup sour cream.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

HARD WATER SCALE

Question: I have some water pans that are used with radiator covers for humidifying the air of the room. After a season's use these pans have a heavy coating of white sediment, due to our hard water. I have previously scraped and painted the pans, although scraping does not remove all the accumulation. What kind of paint should I use to preserve them?

Answer: Fill each pan with water mixed with cider vinegar in the proportion of a cupful to the quart. Bring to a boil and allow to stand overnight. The scale should then be loose enough to be scraped out easily. A good paint would be an aluminum paint with a spar varnish base, or a heat resisting black asphaltum paint. You may have a substitute that will serve until after the war.

Finish for Wire Screens
Question: What will remove rust from almost new wire screens? They are natural wire color, unpainted. What can I use to preserve the wire which will not change the color and appearance?

Answer: Clean off the rust with steel wool, and then wipe the screens with turpentine. Paint them with a very thin varnish, the kind that can be applied with a lintless cloth. If you cannot get this, use a mixture of two parts spar varnish and one part each of linseed oil and turpentine. If this blobs in the mesh, brush it out with a dry brush.

EFFLORESCENCE ON BRICK

Question: How can I stop the salt-peter from coming out on the bricks of my home?

Answer: The "efflorescence" can be removed by scrubbing with a mixture of one pint muriatic acid in 4½ quarts of water. Pour the acid slowly into the water to prevent spattering. Mix in an enamel pail in good condition or a wooden pail. Use a fiber brush and do not allow this acid to remain on the brick for more than two or three minutes; longer action might damage the cement in the mortar joints. Rinse well with plenty of clear water to remove every trace of the acid. As this acid is highly corrosive, use rubber gloves and wear old clothes and goggles. Do not get any of it on your skin, for it would make a burn. A colorless waterproofing on the wall may retard the re-appearance of this efflorescence.

Noisy Heating System
Question: I have a newly-built house heated by oil. When the unit goes on the radiators knock, although I open the gadget at the side to release air. What will stop this knocking?

Answer: Try raising the radiators a quarter or even a half-inch by placing a block of wood under each leg. See that each radiator stands perfectly level.

Stains on Gas Range
Question: What will remove the brown coating which forms around the door of my gas range?

Answer: Try cleaning it off with a scratchless scouring powder moistened with a little water and a few drops of household ammonia. There also are commercial preparations for cleaning enamel on gas ranges, etc.

Joint Cement
Question: The cement filler at the joint where the gutter pipe enters the drain tile in the ground level always cracks away. What to do?

Answer: You can use a roofing cement, or, if you object to the black color of the roofing cement, you can fill the joint with a caulking compound of a light color.

'Dustless' Dust Cloth
Question: Some time ago you had a paragraph in your column about making a dustless dustcloth. I have misplaced the paper. Will you repeat?

Answer: Soak flannel or thick flannel in a mixture of two parts paraffin oil and one part turpentine; wring out and hang out to dry.

THESE graceful corner shelves are ten inches wide and seven inches deep at the bottom. Just the right size to hold the quaint match holder, the old-fashioned china doll head and other interesting trinkets that you have been treasuring. In Victorian times such shelves were strung together with cord and the spools saved from the voluminous amount of sewing done each season. Today, with spools piling up from

Red Cross sewing, we make similar shelves that have all the old charm but are much more rigid and substantial.

The spools and shelves now may be practically welded together with new easy-to-use types of glue. The wire or cord is then run through, as shown here.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has designed an actual-size pattern for these three gracefully curved corner shelves which are graduated in size. This pattern also contains complete directions for cutting and joining these shelves as well as a pattern for another larger set of spool shelves. Ask for pattern No. 255 and enclose 15 cents. Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

This week we're going to filibuster a little and try to give you, who are in the service, some kind of a picture of our honor board, which, as you undoubtedly all know, is located next to the City Building; and we hope the picture won't be too distorted. Some time ago you will remember this as having been the subject of this column too, and perhaps you are wondering just why it should be written about again. Well the reason is this: When the honor board was originally constructed, there were spaces provided for 429 names in thirteen column with thirty-three name plates to the column, and with the last group of men from this locality being inducted, the board was found to be too small to accommodate the additional names. We just wonder how many of those who were instrumental in having the board built, or any of the rest of us including you in the service, would have imagined that this many name plates would not be sufficient. Certainly it seems sound reasoning to think that had there been many to think thus, the board would have been constructed differently. Rather we think that instead of the board being constructed too small, the number of men and women now in the services has far surpassed our first imagination.

For those of you who have never had the opportunity of seeing the honor board, we will try and review for you the perspective. As we have already mentioned, the names are printed on small boards arranged in thirteen columns of thirty-three names to the column. The framework is colorfully painted of course with the colors of our much cherished flag, in fact has the stars and stripes painted on it. In order to make it possible to distinguish between the branches of the service, the names are painted in colors as follows: army, khaki; navy, blue; marines, blue with red; coast guard, red with blue; wac, khaki with red; spar, navy blue with red; nurses, red; merchant marine, blue with green.

At night the board is illuminated by means of a spotlight located across the street. Much credit is due our painter, Mr. Jim Williams, for spending so much time on this, and so we feel a word of thanks is in order.

The question now comes, how will the board be made to accommodate the additional names of those just inducted and the names of those expecting induction soon. Several ideas have been offered but up until now no definite plan has been adopted as far as we know, so will inform you of that at a later date. Already this filibustering has gotten longer than we wanted.

NEWS FROM THE HOME FRONT

We were glad to see that some of our servicemen were able to spend the Easter holidays with their parents at home. Those whom we saw or heard to have been home were RODERICK CARNEY, GALEN SEILER, ROBERT McCARTHY, and JOHN UMLOR.

GAYLE SAXTON was also expected home for the Easter weekend but as this leaves us for printing he has not yet arrived. A short time ago we mentioned that BILL SAXTON planned a short stop-over in Chicago to visit his brother, Gayle on his return trip after spending his furlough at home. We now hear that Bill was able to spend both Friday and Saturday with Gayle making use of part of their time having their pictures taken together. In this connection we would also like to mention to you that have not had your pictures taken while in uniform, to do this and send them to those at home as you know even though you are not there personally your picture will help to fill the empty space, especially in this true should you be anticipating a boat ride. And now on with the Saxton brothers. Bill is spending a few days at Lincoln, Nebraska, after being sent out of Keesler Field. RICHARD, or "Tich" to us, is expected home around the 6th of May and if everything pans out according to plans he should be wearing the uniform of a second lieutenant.

GALEN SEILER pulled in town on Good Friday from Corpus Christi, Texas, where he is taking the naval air cadet training. The trip home was made rather speedily until air priorities were no longer available which necessitated his finishing the trip by train. As this is the first furlough Galen has enjoyed for sixteen months he naturally wanted to make the trip home as quickly as possible. Galen promises to tell us more about his experiences during the next week so we should have more news about him for next week's Reveille. As we have not talked with the other servicemen mentioned we have nothing to report on them.

ATTENTION! All servicemen and women in the vicinity of Arlington, Virginia.

A few months ago you were told through this column how the RALPH CLARK'S were planning a get-together for all servicemen and women in the vicinity of Arlington, Virginia. Before final arrangements could be made, however, sickness set in at the Clark household, which made it impossible for them to follow through with their plans at that time. Once again the Clark's are attempting to carry out their former plans and the get-together time has been set for Sunday, April 30th, at 3 o'clock at their home located at 1502 North Utah Street, Arlington, Virginia. The Clark's again extend this hospitality to any and all of you who are located near them to spend this time with them. Any of you feeling as though you could make it are asked to get in touch with them at the above address or telephone them, their number being Chestnut 2161. As was mentioned before, Ralph is a son of Mr. and Mrs.

Earl Clark of this city and with this introduction we know you in their vicinity will want to take advantage of this opportunity.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

A bit of good news was received this past week on the condition of JOE LILAK who, as you will remember, was wounded in both hands while on active duty in the Italian war theatre. Joe has written home to his mother and sister that both of his hands are now free from bandages and that his condition is much improved. This, by the way, was the first letter Joe was able to write since his being wounded this past January. Besides being given the purple heart award some time ago, Joe now has been awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster.

From the other corner of the globe a friendly and welcome letter was received from our faithful correspondent ABE COHN, who always lets us know that his interest in East Jordan has not wavered. The tournament news, as you can all imagine, was very interesting to Abe and so too the fact that East Jordan beat Boyne City, as Abe says he's always glad to hear that. Abe also felt inclined to give a word of praise to the "Seabees", and wanted us to mention that there isn't a better organization for getting results, as they work hand in hand with all outfits both on the front lines and rear. Again Abe had had the pleasure of meeting with some of his old acquaintances and spent a week end with FRED BECHTOLD and BOB WINSTONE. Since receiving Abe's letter a new address has been received for CLIFFORD DENNIS which gave Cliff the same APO number as Abe's so by this time it's possible Abe has also contacted him. A letter from FRED BECHTOLD confirms Abe's letter as Fred says that he and Bob Winstone are able to see Abe nearly every Sunday and that these meetings sure are appreciated. Fred has been given a slight change of address but he's still with those fighting marines and has seen plenty of action but expects to see more before too long a time, however, he says they have the Japs on the run. Fred wanted us to use this means of expressing his best wishes to all of his buddies and friends as they are scattered all over the face of the globe. From Camp Elliott, Calif., RAY SLOOP sends us his change of address as he is now at the training center there but still with the good old infantry as he puts it. Last week we mentioned of BARTON VANCE having contacted the mumps while enroute from Great Lakes to Treasure Island, California. Barton says he was taken off the train at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and as there was no naval hospital there it was necessary that he be placed in an army hospital, however, he says even though being in the navy, the army is treating him pretty good, in fact Barton expected to be released before this goes to press. He anticipates completing his trip on west and expects to attend the Gyro Compass School at his destination. News from Patterson Field, Fairfield, Ohio, informs us that army nurse FRANCES LENOSKY has completed her four weeks basic training course there in preparation for overseas service. We are wondering if the completion of the course will mean a quick change of location for Frances. Soldier friend KEITH RUSSELL writes from somewhere in England to let us know his APO number has been changed. We appreciate your letting us know directly about this change, Keith, and we find this way of getting address changes is by far the most correct way. So far since Keith has been absent from the United States he has not seen any of his old acquaintances but in this letter did tell us he was looking forward to meeting a cousin over there. Keep writing Keith and we'll keep the paper coming and hope the time of getting it to you may be speeded up as we know a month is a long time to wait for the news. This week the new ones on our mailing list are two BOLSER'S, namely ARTHUR and RUSSELL. The address for Arthur tells us he is with the navy and is beginning his naval career at Great Lakes Training Station. Russell is with the army and is initiating himself to this new life at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. So as we added two names this week to the list two others were removed. We were informed that CARLTON SMITH at the present time has no permanent address so just how to get the paper to him is questionable. We hope Carlton soon finds himself settled more permanently so mail can reach him. We also found it necessary to remove the name of EDWAY HITE as papers were not reaching him because his address was incomplete. Would someone who has his correct address kindly submit it so Edway will not have to miss too many issues of the paper. A change of address handed us for ORRIN PARKS reveals that Orrin has left Camp Haan, California, and is now at the Muroc Army Air Base in California, with the 352nd Maintenance company. A soldier for JOHN BEEBE to look up. If ever we should see a picture of WAC's in parade within the near future we better take special notice to see whether or not ELVERA SKROCKI may be among them. Elvera writes that on March 25th her company took part in a parade at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, and it so happened she was in the front row and therefore faced many a camera. Basic training will be over within a week or two for this East Jordan WAC and then she expects an assignment telling her what her specific job will be. A letter came this week from LT. COL. A. J. WANGEMAN who is also now somewhere in England. Alfred as yet hasn't seen anyone from home but his new APO number indicates to him that he may be near DOROTHY CLARK. We are wondering if it takes the will power of a Lt. Colonel to save a can of chicken for three months and we quote: "I want to thank the East Jordan Community Club for the nice Christmas package. The chicken was delicious. I had saved it for over three months before breaking down and opening the can. My tent mate, a major from Detroit, and I enjoyed every bite." Alfred also says he is looking forward to visiting East Jordan when he returns and renewing acquaintances with all the folks in the home town. In the past two weeks we have made mention of some unexpected yet pleasant meetings between different members of our local service group. This week also we were told of a get-together by two local men in Tuscon, Arizona. As many of you will remember, DUANE PENFOLD has spent the past couple of years in Arizona to better his health. Although Duane is not listed as a serviceman, nevertheless you can imagine his feelings when he and JOHN TerAVEST, who has been stationed with the 866th Engineers in Tuscon, had the opportunity of seeing each other and spending part of an evening together. Both fellows report each being in the pink of condition. John has been issued overseas equipment and expects to be moved soon. JOHN LENOSKY has left Camp Ellis, Illinois, and is now at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, where he will attend a medical school. We are told that ALSTON PENFOLD is at the same camp as John so perhaps these fellows have met also.

This seems to be the extent of our news for this week so long for now. Your friends of the East Jordan Community Club, by Henry Drenth.

Simplicity, truth and persistency are three factors that build success in advertising.

The year's queerest ish story. It's an honest-to-goodness yarn about a salty Gloucester skipper who came back to port with a prize haul worth $8,200 and not a single finned inhabitant of the sea. Read this strange true story in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

"The GOOD-NEIGHBOR policy" applies to party line service, too!

LOTS OF US have found out lately that it's no hardship to share with others. Pulling together in friendly co-operation is one of the valuable lessons of the times.

Today, as a war necessity, more and more people are being asked to share party line telephone service. By treating others on the line as they themselves would like to be treated, good party line neighbors help to improve everybody's service.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

A GOOD-NEIGHBOR CREED

A good party line neighbor thinks of it this way: "Somebody else on my line may be waiting to make a call, so I won't talk any longer than I have to. When the line is in use and I'm waiting my turn, I won't interrupt. When I finish a call, I'll make sure I've hung up properly, because if one instrument is left 'off the hook' it puts all the telephones on the line out of service."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'.

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices', 'Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck'. Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."
