Fifth War Loan Starts Monday

EAST JORDAN'S QUOTA IS HIGH, BUT WE CAN AND WILL MEET IT

Fast on the heels of Invasion, East Jordan will launch its Bond campaign for the Fifth War Loan next Monday morning with the 100 per cent cooperation of every individual and organization in the community.

There will be no house-to-house canvass during the drive, and as home front soldiers it is our first duty to secure our Bonds at the Bank or Post Office without personal solicitation.

This war has not yet been won. We at home have only begun to feel the weight of our debt to our fighting men. . . to the living — to the wounded — yes, above all, to the dead.

Shoulder Arms East Jordan . . . We're Going Over The Top Again!

Important Meeting of Farm Bureau Members At Boyne City, Thursday

The attention of all Farm Bureau members of the East Jordan area is directed to an important meeting of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau officers and members to be held at 8 p. m. in the Boyne City High School, Thursday, June 15th.

Mr. Hawley of the State Farm Bureau will be in charge of the meeting. There will also be a representative of the State Junior Farm Bureau present. The purpose of this vitally important meeting is to organize the young men and women from age 15 to 28, remaining on the farms of Charlevoix county, into an active Junior Farm Bureau organization.

Every Farm Bureau member is urged to bring several boys and girls to the meeting who would be good prospective Junior Farm Bureau members. The success of the effort depends upon the willingness of each member to cooperate to the fullest extent.

ANTRIM SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT APPROVED

The Antrim Soil Conservation District was approved May 25, at a meeting of the State Soil Conservation Committee held on that date in Lansing.

At the same meeting similar Districts were approved for Otsego, Benzie and Menominee Counties. In all, twenty-three Districts have now been approved in Michigan.

Bert DeYoung of Ellsworth and Chester Zarembo of Elmira were appointed to serve as Directors on the Directorate of the District, by the State Committee.

Three more Directors, to make up the five man District Board, are to be elected at a County wide election to be held in July. Nominating petitions for Directors are to be filed by June 10.

Temple Highlights

Due to circumstances beyond our control we were unable to obtain our main feature "Lady in the Dark" for last Sunday and Monday, June 4 and 5, program. We are redating this picture for an early showing. Watch this column for announcement.

Friday, Saturday: Roy Rogers in the Yellow Rose of Texas. This is the first of a group of Roger's pictures to be shown from time to time in the next few months, as the demand for Roger's pictures has been heavy.

Sunday, Monday: Frank Sinatra in Higher and Higher. He is coming. You will see him and hear him in his first thrilling, tuneful picture. A radio favorite on the screen. Acting, dancing, and making love (disgusting ain't it).

Tuesday, Wednesday: Maria Montez and Jon Hall and Sabu in The Cobra Woman. All the mysticism of the far east wrapped around a fantastic tale. Drama, suspense, horror, cobra dances — a fantasy for the romantic urge — and all in Technicolor.

Thursday, Family nite: Jane Withers and Jimmy Lyden of Henry Aldrich fame, in My Best Gal. Jane has grown up now, with plenty of ideas about the affairs of the heart plus a career on the stage.

Coming attractions include In Old Oklahoma, Passage to Marselles, The Desert Song, and So This Is Washington. Watch for the dates.

Nearly all of us have sons, husbands or other relatives in the armed forces. Already five have made the supreme sacrifice. We must expect others to be wounded. Having a hospital bed or wheelchair available might make it possible for some of these boys to be at home instead of in a distant hospital.

Let's get behind this program that will be a benefit to our community. Committee.

Pickle News By H. E. Brumm, Dist. Mgr. H. J. Heinz Company Charlevoix, Michigan

The pickling cucumber planting season is now in full swing and many growers already have taken advantage of the good weather and have their pickle seed planted. To those who haven't planted it is time to work the ground another time or wait to get the seed planted yet this week. It is generally considered that pickles should be planted by June 10 but successful growers have planted even later.

In case extra seed is needed to finish planting or for replanting it is available from advertised local representatives or from field men or the district office located at Charlevoix.

No one needs to remind you that it is an American trait to go into a sprint with the goal in sight. We started this push June 12. Reports from every city and town in America tell us that the number of individual buyers of extra War Bonds today has reached an unprecedented total. We all know that in addition to numbers we need fire power. Your extra War Bond is absolutely essential. The greater the stockpile of War Bonds, the easier it will be for us to get this war over.

This very moment our boys are waging a life-and-death struggle. Every additional War Bond you buy will play its part in the outcome. Last month's War Bond, last week's War Bond, yesterday's War Bond are already in the embattled foxholes. Today is another day for the home front just as today is another day for the boys on the battlefronts.

No Limit To Farm Production

FSA SHOWS FROM RECORDS WHAT FARM FAMILIES ARE ACCOMPLISHING

There seems to be no limit to what the American Farm family can do when they are convinced that there is a need for the products of their farm. Many thought that with the record breaking production in 1942 it would be impossible to get any noticeable increase in production of the vital farm crops in 1943 but they "dood it again."

The following men have been called for Induction by the Charlevoix County Selective Service Board, for service in the Navy. They will leave Monday, June 12, for Detroit, Mich. Lawrence R. Neither the FSA committee nor any of the county supervisors assume any dictatorial attitude toward the operation and management of the farms operated by the borrowers. They advise and counsel with the families who can "take it or leave it." The committee feels that when they are able to help solve the problems of the small farm, the entire community is benefited.

Members of the FSA Committee in Charlevoix County are Earl Danforth of East Jordan, Donovan Fox of Boyne City, Fay Allen of East Jordan, and Rowley Williams of Charlevoix. Mr. Carl N. Cetas, Co. FSA Supervisor of Antrim, Charlevoix, Crawford and Otsego Counties, said that from July 1, 1943 through April 30, 1944, a total of $38,566.46 has been collected in these four counties. During the same period $29,529.00 has been loaned in the same counties. The above figures show that FSA borrowers are taking advantage of higher prices and are repaying their loans. $8,937.46 more has been repaid since July 1, 1943, than has been loaned in these counties.

Your hospital bed and wheel chair supper. To be held at the High School Auditorium, Thursday, June 15, from 5:30 till all are served. We have heard this termed the Oddfellow and Rebekah supper. That is a mistake. It is your supper. The Oddfellow and Rebekah's do not gain one cent from this supper. All of the profits go to buy beds, wheelchairs and crutches for the use of anyone living in this community, regardless of race, creed or station.

This Is D-Day; Tuesday, June 6th

RESOLUTIONS OFFERED BY OUR ROTARY CLUB ON MOMENTOUS OCCASION

This is D-Day. It may be that June 6, 1944, is the most eventful day in history of the world in over 1900 years.

After the most colossal military preparations ever contrived by human brain and fashioned by human hands, the crucial campaign has been launched. There has been the assembling of ships, and planes, and tanks, and all other conceivable instruments of war, in numbers that make the imagination reel. Now the Allied command has invaded the western coast of Europe with the solemn purpose, under God, to liberate the untold millions of starving men, women and children who have been enslaved by a government that has denied the authority of God's word, and that has flaunted the Divine truth that "God hath made of one blood all nations for to dwell together upon the face of all the earth."

In D-Day the allied nations are keeping a trust with Destiny. In the plan of Almighty God they are sacrificing material wealth and labor, and human lives, in unstinted measure, that God may be worshipped without the restraint of evil government, throughout all the earth. Because all men are created equal in the sight of God, we dare not falter in our responsibility.

We acknowledge our unworthiness of this high trust. We all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. When we compare our conduct with God's holy will for us we blush with confusion, and we bow our heads in contrition. We humbly implore Divine mercy. With the forgiveness of our sins, we pray, that as a nation we may be fellow-workers together with God in the task of liberating and restoring the peoples who have been downtrodden by inhuman aggression.

Many who are dear to us, yes many of our own flesh and blood, are hazarding their lives in the issue of D-Day invasion. Our hearts are with them, and with the millions whom we do not know, but who are precious in God's sight. We believe that their sacrifices are a needful part in the redemption of humanity from the curse of slavery which has been imposed by the dictates of a ruthless tyrant. We pray that what our boys do and endure shall not be in vain. We know it will not be if we all humbly trust in God, and dedicate ourselves to do His will.

We pray for those in peril on the land, in the air, on the sea, and in the waters under the sea. We commit them to the care of Him who watches the sparrow in its fall. Our trust is in Him, and we know that in His own good way He will do all things well.

We also pray for the people of the nations with whom we are at war. They, too, have been created in God's image. We pray that for their own good they shall be restrained in aggression, and that they may be lead to recognize God's image in the people of all the nations of the world. We desire the time to come when all mankind shall live together as children of a heavenly Father.

On D-Day, with contrite hearts, and imploring Divine forgiveness, we pray for the victory of the allied armies in the invasion. We believe that this is a part of the plan of the all-wise God in the working out of His righteous will. Human life was created in the image of God; this is its supreme glory. He wills that this dignity shall be recognized by each nation in its dealings with all the others.

May there be malice toward none; I will repay." And may God grant to all firmness to do our utmost so that the sacrifices of the present shall not be in vain. In God is our trust; we shall not fear, for the issue is in His hand. Our God, our Help in ages past, Our Hope for years to come, Our Shelter from the stormy blast, And our eternal Home.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allies Continue Advance in Italy; U. S. Airmen Rain Blows on Japs; Political Break Looms in South

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Walkout—Strikers mill outside of Parke, Davis & Company plant at Detroit, Mich. (See: Labor.)

PACIFIC: Buck Air Power

Nibbling further at Jap air power based in the eastern New Guinea area as a defensive bulwark of the Indies and the Philippines, U. S. aviators continued their strikes against enemy airdromes in the region and U. S. ground forces fought over rough country to set up airfields for them.

As General MacArthur's air and ground forces struck out at eastern New Guinea, navy bombers from a strong task force of aircraft carriers hit at enemy island holdings farther to the north, dotting the roadway to the enemy homeland.

POSTWAR: Churchill Speaks

Organization of the great powers emerging victorious from the war into a single force to preserve future world peace was outlined by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in a discussion of foreign policy in Britain's house of commons.

To prevent either the planning or conduct of future wars by "restless and ambitious nations," Churchill said the Allied powers intend to set up a world organization equipped with all necessary means for maintaining order.

Touching on the delicate Russian-Polish situation, Churchill declared that Poland's surrender of territory in the east might be countered by acquisition of German land.

SOLID SOUTH: Threaten Break

Long rumored, southern rebellion against the New Deal's social reform, especially in regard to the advocacy of Negro equality, took tangible shape in Texas, where the regular Democratic organization instructed its presidential electors to cast their vote for the party's nominee in the electoral college only if the national convention:

- 1. Votes disapproval of efforts to nullify state laws for segregation of white and colored school children;
2. Backs up Texas' opposition to the Supreme court ruling opening Democratic primaries to Negroes;
3. Seats the delegates selected by the regular Texas Democratic party instead of delegates chosen by a rival rump organization, composed of members who broke with the regular party over its instructions to the electors.

Electoral Vote

While calmer minds sweated over working out a compromise between the two factions in Texas, speculation arose as to what might happen if the 23 Texas electors should join eight similarly dissatisfied North Carolina electors in voting against the Democratic candidate in the electoral college, whose vote determines the presidential winner.

Since the 31 Texas and North Carolina representatives in the electoral college, made up of electors chosen by the states, could form a majority for either side, they could swing the election to either a Republican or Democrat, being free to vote as they wished. Or then, again, they might vote for an independent person, in which case neither of the two regular candidates would receive a majority and the presidential election then would be referred to the house of representatives. In the house, the party in the majority would decide the election.

MISCELLANY

CITRUS RECORD: The Texas crop of grapefruit and oranges this year was the largest in history, and sold for the highest price, the general manager of the Rio Grande Valley citrus exchange said. Grapefruit yield was estimated at 17,539,081 boxes and oranges at 3,354,350 boxes. Total value of both crops was set at $53,469,000 by the exchange official.

AGRICULTURE: Farm Machinery

With manufacture of harvesting and haying equipment farthest behind schedule, the War Production board's $671,000,000 farm machinery and spare parts program for the year ending June 30 was 13 per cent off on May 1.

Because of accelerated production in the final few months, however, the WPB expects the program to finish up only 10 per cent behind schedule, although manufacturers of combines will have up to September to meet their quotas.

As of May 1, production of harvesting machinery was 33.4 per cent off schedule; tractor attachments off 28.2 per cent; barn and barnyard equipment off 25.3 per cent; farm pumps and windmills off 16.4 per cent; farm wagons, gears and trucks off 16.5 per cent; harrows and rollers off 14.5 per cent; cultivators and weeders off 13.9 per cent; dairy farm machinery off 13 per cent; planting, seeding and fertilizing equipment off 11.8 per cent, and farm poultry equipment off 11.3 per cent.

Land Values

With farm land values showing a 15 per cent increase for the year ending March 15, they stood at 114 per cent of the 1912-14 level, according to statistics of the U. S. department of agriculture.

One-third of the sales financed by credit last year involved mortgages of 75 per cent of the sales price, the USDA reported.

With the average debt per acre on newly acquired farms about one-fourth higher than two years ago, large turnover was reported in 1943, with some operators selling holdings after a few months. Many city buyers reputedly were purchasing farm property as an inflation hedge.

CONGRESS: Investigate Ward's

Investigating the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward and company's Chicago mail order plants, a congressional subcommittee heard Attorney Gen. Francis Biddle declare that inasmuch as the concern was indirectly involved in the war program through sale of productive equipment to farmers, the President could use his judgment in taking it over during a labor dispute to restore operation.

Thus, the Attorney General concluded, if the seizure was not warranted under congressional statutes, it was legal under the President's wartime emergency powers.

Because his interpretation of the law is his own opinion, the Attorney General said, he stands correction by a court, or congress itself can intervene to make any changes in legislation which might eliminate abuses.

Strange Tail

There's no end to the versatility of the American Seabee, as shown in this picture from distant Midway island, where navy construction experts secured a length of 3/4-inch manila rope to Bossy's severed tail to provide the milk cow with a switch. Carpenter's Mate J. A. Pierson, Sheffield, Pa., is the milker.

RAILROADS: Government Rates

In exchange for the grant of land for right-of-ways to the railroads during the expansion period of 1850-1870, the government received reductions of 50 per cent on passenger and freight rates.

Amended in 1940 to apply only to military goods and personnel following railroads' complaints against the heavy burden of relief shipments especially during the depression period, total abolition of the reduced rates came before congress, with the house approving by a 236 to 16 vote.

Although termination of the reduced rates would increase railroad revenues by more than 250 million dollars annually in wartime and 20 million dollars yearly in peacetime, the house bill calls for scaling down private shipping rates to reflect the higher income from government.

PAUL PLEADS FOR A RUN-AWAY SLAVE

LESSON TEXT—Philemon 4-21. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you.—Ephesians 4:32.

Brotherhood is one of those fine qualities or impulses of the soul of which men like to speak when all is fair and prosperous, and promptly forget in times of distress and struggle. That is just where Christianity shows forth at its best, for it is in the hour of need, sorrow, or affliction that real Christian brotherhood shows its depth and durability.

Paul was in prison when he wrote to Philemon. The one of whom he wrote, Onesimus, was a slave who had deserted his master and probably defrauded him (v.18). He had been converted, and now was being sent back to his master. So we have three Christian men dealing with a very delicate matter, and providing us a picture of brotherhood in action. We learn that it is—

I. Courteous (vv. 4-9). After a fine spiritual salutation, Paul enters upon an appeal to Philemon which is a model of tact and courtesy. One could wish that those who think that being faithful to the Lord and true to His Word means being blunt and unkind, would learn of Paul.

First he lets Philemon know of his prayerful interest in him. Paul had been praying for him, that's why he could say such a helpful word. Praying for our fellow man prepares us for genuine brotherly love.

Then he recognizes Philemon's goodness, and his effective testimony for Christ. This is an excellent approach to the making of a request, but be sure that it was not empty or hypocritical flattery. We do well to recognize the fine qualities of our Christian brother, and we could profitably speak of them more than we do.

Then Paul was ready to make his request. See how nicely he does it. He skillfully reminds Philemon that he might make some demands, and especially in view of his age and his imprisonment. But he will not do so, rather he says, "I beseech thee." There is fine Christian courtesy.

II. Considerate (vv. 10-16). Paul, the aged prisoner, had found in his new convert, Onesimus, a real helper. He would have liked to keep him. In fact, says he to Philemon, Onesimus could do for me the things you would want to do if you were here (v. 13).

Undoubtedly Paul could have been sure of the willingness of Philemon. He could have assumed that the request would be granted. And in any case, Philemon did not even know where Onesimus was, so why not keep him?

True Christian consideration respects the personal rights and the property rights of another. We must not assume, or demand, or put pressure on anyone (v. 14) to get what they have or to draw out their service.

Another expression of consideration is found in verses 15 and 16. Philemon had lost a heathen slave, now he is receiving back a Christian brother. No worker will give less in service, and no master will demand more, because the two are both Christians. We need to recognize that fact, for all too often men presume on their relationship as brethren. But the fact that they are Christians should make a great difference in their attitude toward one another.

III. Cooperative (vv. 17-21).

Partners share the benefits and the burdens of their joint enterprise. Partners in the gospel, like Paul and Philemon, shared not only spiritual blessings, but also the responsibilities. Paul was presenting such an item to Philemon in the return of Onesimus. Something had to be done about the debt of Onesimus, his failure as a servant. Paul says, "Charge it to me, your partner."

It has been pointed out that there is here a blessed example of the important doctrine of imputation, which is the "act of God whereby He accounts righteousness to the believer in Christ," because He "has borne the believer's sins in vindication of the law." So we note that verses 17 and 18 perfectly illustrate imputation.

Paul's promise "I will repay it" (v. 19) was the legal phraseology of a promissory note in his day. It was a bonafide partnership transaction, yet it was coupled with a reminder of indebtedness. Everything Philemon had and was he owed to Paul; but, says the latter, "I will not speak of that now." Consideration again, but opening the door wide for Philemon's cooperation.

No right thinking person is content always to be on the receiving hand. The humblest recipient of favor or the smallest child who feels the love of another wants to respond. The considerate friend will, therefore, not always insist on giving, but will graciously (like Paul) open the way for cooperation, for partnership.

ON THE HOME FRONT with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THERE is a shortage of metal curtain rods, yet for two generations we have not seen such elaborate window treatments. The formal swags, cascades and jabots so dear to our grandmothers seem to be exactly right with the Victorian furniture that is gaining in popularity all the time. Each piece of the draped valance shown here is cut separately. The diagram at the left gives the dimensions of the end jabots. The side swags cross in the middle and a center swag overlaps them. The measurements of this center swag are given here, but these will vary accord-

Household Hints

Since dishes must be done three times a day, why not do it the most efficient way? Stacking the dishes on the right, so the work goes from right to left, means greater efficiency for the right-handed housewife. Of course a left-handed worker would reverse this procedure for quicker work.

A small pillow or pad between the knees of a sick patient as he lies on his side can give great relief.

The best way to wash walls or woodwork is to begin at the bottom and work to the top. This avoids streaking where the dirty water would run down and prevents a difficult job of removing such streaks.

Clean children's teddy bears and like toys by rubbing them with corn starch.

Those who wear glasses or goggles know how distressing it is to have the lenses become cloudy and blurred. If they are cleaned every morning with soap and hot water they will seldom need cleaning during the day. Rinse them well and dry with tissue paper or a soft clean absorbent cloth.

When washing baby's bonnet, dry it over an inverted mixing bowl of the proper size. The lacy skull caps of the teen-agers can be reshaped the same way. A plate is good for reshaping the beret style.

American Storks Observe Etiquette When Feasting

American storks (wood ibis) are efficient and polite. When a flock descends on a shallow pond, these birds do a sort of dance to rile the water and force tadpoles and small fish to the surface. As these rise to the top, they are killed by the nearest birds. But only when enough food is floating on the water for the entire flock do the birds begin to feast.

Men Behind The Chamber of Commerce

William (Bill) Hawkins was born in Chillicothe, Ohio. His mother passed away when he was ten years old, and his aunt brought the family to Reed City, Mich. He went to school there and graduated from the Reed City business college.

Bill came to East Jordan in 1912, became manager of the men's department in the East Jordan Lbr. Co. store, and continued in that capacity until he went in business for himself in 1931. His men's furnishings store is located in the Temple building and is nice and neat, and Bill is always on the job to give his customers service. He has been a loyal booster of our city, and has oceans of friends. His old cronies usually come in to his place on Saturday night for an hours chat, and the conversation is usually about the good old days, and a good time is had by all.

Bill's hobbies are fishing and baseball, and it hasn't been so long ago when he and the gang left this town at midnight, and arrived in Detroit to see the Tigers play. Octavia, his wife, is a very pleasant woman, and is very proud of the beautiful home Bill built for her on Main St.

A mirror makes two out of one . . . but it's just an illusion, of course. You can't collect on it.

There is a 2-for-1 that the average American family can and does collect on. And that's the double amount of electric service such a family gets today . . . for the same money it paid 15 years ago.

Yes, your bill may be as much as — or more than — it was in 1929. But you're using more electric conveniences now — and getting about twice as much for what you pay. Remember, too, that unlike other prices, the price of electricity has stayed down.

What's the secret of low-priced electricity? Efficient business operation. Experienced men, women and management who know their business from long years of serving you!

MR. WINKLE GOES TO WAR
By THEODORE PRATT
W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Forty-four-year-old Wilbert Winkle, who operates a general repair shop back of his home, is notified by his draft board that he is in 1-A. He breaks the bad news to his domineering wife, Amy, and tramps off to work without even kissing her goodby. Neighbors call the next night and shake their heads solemnly, and the local paper publishes his picture on the front page. Winkle tacks a CLOSED sign over his shop. Mrs. Winkle confides her worries. She fears he might get interested in other women, but Wilbert says she has nothing to worry about. Winkle leads the draft parade and they march off behind the band. The martial music sends a chill up his spine.

CHAPTER V

Mr. Winkle wasn't sure if this was said in the right spirit. He was glad Amy didn't appear in time to hear it. He had been watching for her, and during the last of the six blocks, he saw her, hurrying along to keep up. Her face was flushed. She waved to him, and Mr. Winkle, wondering if it was the correct thing to do, waved back.

After they arrived at the open-air bus station, there was a quarter of an hour of confusion whose details Mr. Winkle never remembered very well. The selectees left their formation and searched out their respective families. Mr. Winkle found his wife and dog. Penelope was enlivened by the excitement to yap several times. Mrs. Winkle said, "You looked very military."

"I'm the leader," he told her. The horn of the bus honked. Tears welled in Mrs. Winkle's eyes. "I'm not going to cry," she announced. And the tears didn't spill over but remained in her eyes when she blinked them back, fast. He and Amy looked at each other solemnly. They embraced. They held each other very close. They kissed, and kissed again, while the band played, women wept, and handkerchiefs and flags waved.

The next thing Mr. Winkle knew was that he found himself seated in the bus and the vehicle was getting under way. Looking back, he saw Mrs. Winkle holding up Penelope so that she could see him go to war. Penelope wasn't interested, but looked the other way.

Not all of the bus was occupied by the draft contingent. There hadn't been enough of them to charter a vehicle for their sole use.

He sat alone, not because he thought himself, as the leader, any better than the others. Nor did he care to be aloof; he would have welcomed somebody to talk with, but none of his charges joined him. Jack Pettigrew sat up beside the driver. The bus stopped and several more people got on. One of them was a young, blowy blonde. Mr. Winkle watched, fascinated, as Freddie maneuvered the selectee beside him out of his seat and grinned winningly at the blonde. She sat beside Freddie at once, and they began an animated conversation.

This broke the tension the draftees brought with them from their send-off. They laughed, and began to talk and joke, and discuss their voyage in voices just a little too loud to be natural.

At noon the bus stopped at a scheduled station for lunch. Mr. Winkle herded his charges to the counter inside the glass-front roadside restaurant, where he produced the proper paper to obtain meals for them as guests of the Government. Freddie Tindall remained outside, talking to the blonde. She was catching another bus here.

He let Freddie alone until he had ordered his own meal. Then he went out and told Freddie, "If you want to get something to eat, you'd better come in."

"Be right with you, Pop." Mr. Winkle went back to the counter. Freddie took his time. He waited until the blonde's new bus pulled in. He put her on it and then joined the others. Some of the men looked at him in admiration and envy.

"What would you have done," Freddie inquired of Mr. Winkle, "if I'd gotten on the bus with her and gone away?"

Mr. Winkle regarded him severely. "I wouldn't have done a thing. That would be for others. You wouldn't get very far."

"You mean with the blonde?" Freddie inquired, and received his laugh.

He kept up a horseplay of saying that this was as far as he wanted to go, that he'd had a nice ride, but would now go back home. When this wore thin, he introduced a new subject. "Still proud to fight, Pop?" he inquired.

Mr. Winkle kept his temper. "We all ought to be."

"Well, I'm not," Freddie declared. "I'm not going because I want to, and I don't care who knows it. I don't want to be any darned soldier. Lugs, that's all they are. They're going to make me into a lug."

Mr. Winkle looked around. No one except the contingent from Springville seemed to have heard these remarks. The men listened with interest. Some of them looked startled.

"I don't think you ought to say such things," Mr. Winkle advised.

"Who says that, Pop? Who says I can't say what I want?"

"Well . . ." began Mr. Winkle. "Isn't this a free country, Pop? Can't a man say what he wants? Tell me that, Pop."

When Mr. Winkle didn't reply, Freddie was infuriated, taking out his resentment on him as if holding Mr. Winkle personally responsible for his being drafted. "Tell me that, you old coot, and don't act like we're in the Army already."

Before Mr. Winkle could gather his outraged senses, Jack Pettigrew pushed through the group of men and came up to Freddie. His thin face was white with anger. "Don't talk like that to Mr. Winkle," he ordered.

Freddie turned on the revolving stool to Mr. Winkle, ignoring Jack. "How about that, Pop? Should I talk like that to you?"

Jack made a lunge at Freddie, who whirled, placed his hand on the boy's chest, and shoved him back. Jack, crying imprecations, returned to the fray with clenched fists.

Freddie jumped up to meet him. Mr. Winkle was gripped with dismay. Things were fast getting out of hand. In fact, they were already well out of hand. The proprietor of the place was yelling, a waitress shrieked, and customers called out.

Mr. Winkle heard his own voice crying, "Now look here! Look here! Save that for the Germans! Or the Japs!"

The men laughed. Jack subsided, glaring. Freddie made ironic grimaces.

An armistice had been declared in the premature war. Mr. Winkle breathed with relief. He wasn't certain that he liked the responsibilities of leadership.

He counted the men carefully as they got back on the bus, making sure Freddie was among them. His glance caught that of Jack, whose eyes were hot and who said, "I'm going to get him! I'm going to get him plenty!"

"That's all right," Mr. Winkle calmed him. "I appreciate your standing up for me, but you've done enough."

Another hour's ride got them to their destination, and they descended at a busy station where they were transferred to another bus. This was already half filled with soldiers-elect like themselves.

"Hello, fresh meat," one of these greeted them.

From the highway, three miles out of town, the entrance to the camp was no more than a dirt side road where two armed guards stood and a sign declared this to be a military reservation and that no admittance was allowed.

Having been invited, they were admitted.

After passing through a quarter of a mile of thick woods, they came to a great cleared space in which stood a hidden city. There were many wooden buildings, some of them one story, others of two stories. Dust rose from the passing of their own and other vehicles, and from marching feet.

The bus stopped before a building which had a sign on it saying, "Induction Checking Station." Standing up or sitting on the ground before this were perhaps fifty more selectees. They stared at the newcomers who descended from the bus. No one spoke in the atmosphere of patient waiting and weary anxiety.

Mr. Winkle looked about, somewhat at a loss. He didn't know what to do next.

this, and because of the mouse-look he had been given, he felt deflated and not in the least like a lion.

The Sergeant went inside. Mr. Winkle waited with the others. Their eyes went frequently to the door. What smiles there were on any faces were nervous ones.

The Sergeant came out again. In a foghorn voice he began calling names. It was nearly an hour, during which other busses arrived, before the Springville men were reached.

Mr. Winkle found himself in a small room passing down a line of soldier clerks sitting at desks. In place of his own papers, an information card was given to him, which he was instructed to hang around his neck by the cord attached. Thus ticketed, he took his place in line down the hall, and finally into an enormous room where many men were in the process of being examined.

Here, Mr. Winkle saw, was where his fate would be decided. He was told to drop his bag by the wall under a clothing hook, and strip.

Shivering, he stood in line clad only in his socks and shoes and information card. It was humiliating when he compared his skinny physique with the more robust bodies about him. Several men glanced at him as if to say he didn't amount to much.

He began to run a gantlet of doctors and medical assistants. Each doctor had one part of the body to examine. Mr. Winkle was accustomed to having his family physician make something of a fuss over him, cajoling him, and treating him like a living, breathing, human being instead of a skeleton within and around which was gathered a certain amount of flesh and certain organs. Now he felt like an automobile being put together on an assembly line in a factory.

His card was taken away from him and in its place there was daubed in iodine a number on his chest. That, he was sure, was the final ignominy. He was questioned, weighed, measured, poked, tapped, and the inner workings of his structure listened to.

He was asked to read a chart without his glasses and with them. He regretted each letter he made out, but he couldn't, as he had half planned, bring himself to cheat. His eyes were good enough to fight a war. Even his pulse was found sufficiently calm after he had been set running in one place for a minute without going anywhere.

Well, he reflected, he hadn't really counted on any of these things to save him. It was his dyspepsia he was banking on.

He was laid on a paper-covered table. His stomach was kneaded

Mr. Winkle went forward; the sergeant gazed down at him.

and he was asked, "What's this on your record about dyspepsia?"

Mr. Winkle detailed and even boasted about his acute intestinal difficulties and the need he had for his pills. He was kneaded some more, as if he were an automobile no longer, but a piece of dough.

The doctor gave a skeptical grunt, a deprecating snort, and wrote something on Mr. Winkle's record sheet.

Mr. Winkle, to his horror, gathered that his dyspepsia had made little impression, that it had let him down completely.

At this, as he was passed on to the next doctor, his heart beat so fast that the doctor, who applied a stethoscope to it, took it away and actually looked at him, saying patiently, "I expect it from the kids, but not from you."

Mr. Winkle was abashed. He accused himself of behaving like a child, like Jack Pettigrew whom he saw standing tensely, on guard, with a strained, taut expression on his boy's face.

And then Mr. Winkle went through an experience he never expected to have.

All during the days leading up to this, and during the first of the examining process, he hoped fervently that he would be rejected. He had even prayed for it. But now he found himself hoping he would be accepted.

JUST SOUND
Outdoors Man
Employer—Are you a clock watcher?
Prospective Employee—No, I don't like indoor work. I'm a whistle listener.

Beautiful Friendship
Jasper—You're my friend, aren't you?
Joan—Yes, Jasper, I'm your friend to the end.
Jasper—Then lend me a quarter.
Joan—This is the end!

Just Sound
Attorney—Well, your honor, what do you think of my argument?
Judge—It's sound . . . most certainly sound, sir.
Attorney—Yes, and what else, your honor?
Judge—Nothing else.

In accord with the eternal fitness of things, a girl with teeth like pearls often will be as dumb as an oyster.

And Then—
Leaning out of his cabin, the burly lorry-driver abused the young man in the stalled car. The fair passenger in the car stood it as long as she could. Then she asked:
"I say, Jack, surely you're going to say something to that lout?"
"You bet I am!" replied the boy friend. "Just wait till I get this blinking car started!"

Marvelous
As the fond young mother was exhibiting her first born the visitor asked gushingly:
"So this is the new baby?"
"Yes," said the mother proudly; "isn't he lovely?"
"Indeed he is!" agreed the visitor. "And so bright, too," the mother gushed on. "Look how intelligently he breathes!"

In the Game
Sonny—Mother, we're going to play elephants at the zoo and we want you to help us.
Mother—What on earth can I do?
Sonny—You can be the lady who gives them peanuts and candy.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Maintenance of our synthetic rubber plants after the war as "a rubber insurance policy" is advocated by leading rubber authorities. They hold that the U. S. cannot be adequately prepared at all times to defend its national interest unless it is free from the threat of a rubber shortage, a feeling subscribed to by most thinking Americans.

World capacities for producing natural and synthetic rubber after the war will aggregate nearly 2,800,000 tons yearly, predicts John L. Collier, president of B. F. Goodrich. This is more than twice as much as the world has ever used in any one year.

Wallace Visit Improves Sino-American Relations

Chinese Officials Build Hopes on Vice President's Trip; True Economic Plight of Country Known Only Recently.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Ever since the day when America as a nation was just a little over eight years old, and the first Yankee merchantman, flying the brand new stars and stripes, was welcomed in Canton harbor, the story of Chinese-American relations has been the story of a long and beautiful friendship.

Recently, however, there has been considerable concern among the friends of China in Washington over the growing strain in those relations which seemed gradually to be reaching a dangerous tension after seven years of war in which China has looked vainly to America for the aid that was not forthcoming.

Now, two things have happened which have considerably eased the strain, and these two nations who need each other so much and between whom such a reservoir of good will, as Willkie called it, has been built up, are both breathing easier.

One thing is the turn of the tide of battle in Burma for which much credit may be given to "Uncle Joe." Stillwell as leader of the Chinese-American forces. The other is the visit of Vice President Wallace to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Today, Chinese officials are building high hopes on that visit. They believe that when the vice president returns, he will be able to stimulate an understanding in America of what they consider China's greatest affliction—economic chaos.

Nobody claims that China's troubles are limited to her economic situation. Some observers would put even the war, which is bad enough, second to political dissension which has only been prevented from outbreak by an iron hand. But the thing that the Chinese government thinks would do the most good right now is consumer goods: medical supplies and essential chemicals first; then probably clothing next and on down the line, including all the things one needs to carry on civilized existence in its simplest way.

The Chinese don't quite agree with the way we use inflation to describe their internal situation although printing press money has been put into circulation to the tune of millions of dollars and that Chinese financial resources have been scraped to the bone.

The True Story
One Chinese official said to me: "If only we could get a bare 3,000 tons of goods a month from the outside, to be sold at prices controlled by the government, it would make all the difference in the world. Twenty big cargo planes making regular trips would be enough to carry it."

"You can buy a bottle of aspirin for 50 cents in this country," he went on. "When we can get any aspirin in China, a single tablet costs that much. But the price is not so important. If we could get aspirin, (that is just an example) even if we had to set a price of, say five cents a tablet, it would serve our purpose. We are willing to stabilize prices, even if they must be at a high level, but we cannot stop inflation unless we have the consumer goods to sell."

For a long time, the seriousness of China's financial situation has been known; the hardships the white collar class, the professional people's suffering; the lack of food and shoes and cartridges (to say nothing of artillery) for the army; but it is only recently that detailed stories have been widely printed and open discussion has taken place here.

There were two reasons for the brake on revealing to America internal conditions in China. In the first place, the Chinese did not wish their situation to be any more widely known than necessary, and for that reason, Chungking clamped down a wall of censorship on all news originating there.

In the second place, Americans familiar with the facts—and this applies to many writers as well as America's government officials friendly in China—did not wish to be in the position of perhaps damaging the morale of a loyal ally and certainly offending her government by circulating stories no matter how true they might be. Finally, however, the truth came to be more and more widely disseminated, and the papers and magazines were filled with stories from writers returning to America and freed from the bond of censorship. To some degree, the Chinese now realize that too much censorship has hurt them.

Threatened With Collapse
Personally I think this publicity has served to help rather than hurt. In any case, the time came when something had to be done. China was threatened with collapse right at the moment when bases within her territory were becoming vital in the final assault on Japan.

A courtesy visit from a high official became not only a wise move but a necessity, and there are reasons, not immediately evident on the surface, why Vice President Wallace's trip may do much to alleviate China's difficulties.

In the first place, whatever you may think of the views expressed by Vice President Wallace or how well you think you understand them, the Chinese believe first, that he symbolizes the traditional friendship of America for China; and second, that he understands their problems.

Then there is another vital factor, important from the standpoint of the morale of the Chinese people and their support of the present government. Mr. Wallace is the second highest officer of our government. Face counts high in the Far East. This official visit will give face to the Chungking government.

It is clear that these factors are psychological and the intelligent Chinese, who are exceedingly wise in such matters, realize that fact, and count upon it highly. They feel, too, (from a more practical standpoint) that the Wallace visit will tend to increase American public interest in China and her troubles and will facilitate the efforts on the part of their diplomats to receive the goods they want.

Hopeful Tinge
That is the reason that almost overnight, the atmosphere surrounding Sino-American contacts in Washington has taken on a more hopeful tinge. And the optimism of the Chinese has been greatly helped by the success of the Chinese troops fighting under General Stilwell and the Chinese offensive moving out of China toward a contact with Stilwell's army.

This military operation too, will be more than a mere military victory, if it is successful. Again, the psychological element is important. Success in Burma means the juncture of the Ledo and Burma roads. There are many miles of road construction to be completed before the two highways are actually carrying heavy traffic over them but, nevertheless, when they are joined, a severed artery will be mended, a wound will be healed. The moment the first allied work trucks begin to thread their way along this highway over an unobstructed route from and to the outside world, it will be as if fresh air were once more reaching lungs strangling for breath.

When the two highways are actually joined, they will soon be in operation, for much American technical engineering skill has been spent on the Burma road within China and its carrying capacity will be greatly increased.

The arrival of the first truck-borne piece of freight and the handclasp of the Generalissimo and Vice President Wallace will be more than a political gesture, it will be a renewal of the friendship which has meant so much to China for more than a century and a half.

A large number of Dutchmen are living and training with American marines in camps throughout the United States. These men are undergoing the same training given the American marines and wear the American uniform but with the Royal Netherlands insignia on collar and cap.

India has the largest volunteer army in the world—2,000,000 men.

There has been considerable rivalry between the Burmese and the immigrant Indians. The Burmese have found themselves at a disadvantage in competition with the more experienced Indian professional and business men and with Indian labor, with its habitual thrift and its customary lower standard of living.

Viscount Nagakage Okabe, Japanese education minister, has announced government plans to extend its thought control program by stepping up the activities of local Thought Measure Research Societies and by giving thought training to the heads of industrial organizations as well as to the many students of the societies.

2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon almond extract
9 egg whites

Thoroughly cream sugar and shortening. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt 3 times. Add alternately with milk, vanilla and almond extract, beating after each addition. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry and fold in. Place batter in 3 round, paper-lined tins, 10 1/2, 8 1/2 and 6 inches in diameter. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and put together with frosting. Frost cake at once.

1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Place egg whites into large bowl, sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over them and mix together with several strokes of flat wire whisk. Sift sugar. Sift flour once, measure, add 1/2 of sugar and sift together 4 more times. Beat egg whites with whisk, using slow, gentle motion that keeps whisk beneath surface. Continue beating until whisk leaves faint line when drawn across surface of egg whites. Add remaining sugar gradually, beating as before, until texture is fine and even and mixture begins to form slightly rounded surfaces when whisk is released. Do not overbeat. Add the flavoring. Remove whisk. Sift flour gradually over surface and fold in slowly and gently with a spoon, folding towards center of bowl and rotating both bowl and spoon. Keep spoon beneath surface of batter and fold until mixture is smooth (2 minutes). Turn into large (4 quart) ungreased tube pan. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven 30 minutes; then increase heat slightly (325 degrees) and continue baking 40 minutes longer. Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

Friends:

Another week has come and gone since we wrote our usual letter and during that time several things have happened most of which were written in last week's paper, not in Reveille column. Another class has found its way through the halls of the local school and are now out on their own. Many of you will remember like graduation experiences, which are looked forward to for several years and then after they're over almost wish they were still in the future, as memories of those events and high school life often speak quite loud in the happiest and most carefree times in ones life.

Seldom does it happen that one cannot participate in graduation exercises because of being inducted in the service before graduation, in fact we cannot remember of its ever happening before, and yet such was the case this year of our sailor ED PERRY. Although Ed, who was a senior this year, spent his time during the graduation week at Chicago, we were glad to learn that he too received his diploma. We understand that at the same time Ed's high school career was ended, he was going to another school (The Hugh Manley School of Chicago) so as to be better fitted for the school of hard knocks in Uncle Sam's navy. His present schooling must agree with him better than the former as we understand he has added about twenty pounds since his induction. How about it Ed, we didn't even know you were up on leave a short time ago.

Before long, though, Ed won't be the only one from his class that is in training as you might have already noticed Harold Donner's name among the list in last week's paper who were scheduled for induction on June 5th. We also noticed Russell Weaver the other day with a large box of moth balls which he said were to be used in packing his clothes as he expected soon to have some of a different kind issued to him. The rest of the fellows in the class expect the same kind of a future and so their careers will no doubt be mapped out for them by Uncle Sam, at least for a time.

week and of these have seen only your former editor, ED REULING, ELMER POOLE, and GLEN TROJANEK. Other reported to be spending a few days at home are ARNOLD MOORE and LEONARD KRAEMER. We had hoped to have Ed give his explanation of the radishes as found in the lawn at Harvard University but have talked with him only long enough to say hello. Ed has been plenty busy getting things in order at home before he sets sail, in fact, even had an auction sale up at his house last Thursday. Elmer Poole has now completed training at Las Vegas, Nevada, and upon his transfer to Lincoln, Nebraska, immediately was given a fifteen day furlough. Part of this furlough, that he has waited nine months for, was spent painting his house. We had a real nice chat with Glenn the other day and found out that he too expects to move to other territory before very long. Glen says that he doesn't mind it too much except that he remembers only too well his siege of sea sickness a few years ago when crossing the Straits of Mackinac. Final instructions of map making have been received at Oklahoma City where he also spent the past winter and saw snow only twice but even at that appreciates Northern Michigan all the more. From Glen we learn too that his brother BOB is now teaching X-ray at Camp Ellis. You will remember our mentioning last week that Carl Kamradt was home on furlough, however, very little was seen of him, but now the truth comes out. It seems Carl has an attraction down at Grand Rapids of even more importance than East Jordan which necessitated his spending considerable time down there, in fact, is having more than one delay enroute on this trip home. Well, Carl, we don't blame you very much, only be careful if you should ever get into Denver or Atlantic City as Glen says those are the towns and he ought to know, as he spent considerable time at both places. He also says that Denver and its surrounding country is very pretty though, even without the feminine element. Here's a little news from home that doesn't pertain to you fellows especially, but we know you would like to hear about it. Last week Saturday our friend Paul blossomed out with the prettiest shiner in the right eye we have seen for some time. Paul's explanation goes something like this: Some tool he was using while in the process of repairing a lawnmower, slipped and caught him square above the eye; of course some explanation must be given, and this does make a good story.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

Receiving news direct is always more interesting than getting it second hand. That's why we know the news from the front is most interesting as this material is taken as much as possible direct from letters which we receive from you; that is also why your letters are appreciated so much. Sailor AUGUST LAPEER reports in from the U.S.S. Washington, now sailing somewhere in Pacific waters, to inform us that all is well with him. The same day as we received his welcome letter we also received a copy of his ship's paper called the "Cougar Scream." This was the first paper of this nature that we have seen and want August to know we enjoyed reading it as it gives us somewhat of an introduction to the men he is sailing with and also acquaints us better with navy terminology. One of the boners we have been pulling, according to this sailor, is that we have been calling ships boats. We learn now that this kind of language is certainly taboo among our sailors so accept our apologies sailors, and from now on a boat is a ship. Thanks for setting us straight on that one, August. . . . Receiving the paper every Monday morning starts the week off right for STU ATKINSON, who is now at a replacement depot in Greensboro, North Carolina. We also note that Stu now has the rating of Pfc. . . . The hottest and wettest place in the states with mosquitoes as big as horse flies and not a day without rain is the description of the state of Louisiana send in by WILLARD HOWE. Willard is now taking his final training with a full combat crew on a B-26 medium bomber at the Lake Charles Air Field before he takes off for the fighting zone. Since entering the service in 1942, he has been stationed at twenty different stations so he certainly has had enough changes of scenery. Your friend, BUD SHEPARD is now at Tuscon, Arizona, where he is continuing his cadet training. . . . In the Number 44 issue of Reveille on the Jordan we mentioned that IRVING ANTOINE has been in the service over two years and had been stationed at Chanute Field all of his army career. We now hear direct from Irving that he has been in the service since August 8th of 1939 so we were slightly off our guess. He tells us he enlisted at Chanute Field at that time and has been there ever since, where his duties include technical and administrative clerical work. On June 1st he began his thirteenth furlough since being in the service, however, we have not seen him in the home town yet. . . . Another soldier that can enjoy a bit of home life aside from army duties is RALPH LARSON, who lives with his wife in Panta Gorda, Florida. He is working in the personnel division of the officer's pay section and enjoys his work real well partly because of the good working hours. At the time he wrote his letter he expected their group would remain at that location for some time or at least until they were transferred back from their base unit to a fighter squadron. Sorry to hear you aren't enjoying Florida's heat but even at home we've felt it already. . . . TEDDY KOTOWICH has just moved to Camp Atterbury, Indiana, from Camp Hood, Texas, where he has spent most of his army career so far. CHARLIE DENNIS also trained at Camp Atterbury before being sent overseas last winter. Teddy is with the 423rd Infantry Regiment and we can imagine that he is glad that the shift from Texas, to a northern state, came at the right time. . . . We note that HAROLD MOORE has been given a medical discharge from the Seabees and is expected home soon. He has been stationed at Port Huene, California. . . . Looking forward to the gold wings of a navy pilot in eight weeks is GALEN SEILER, who is taking final training at Corpus Christi, Texas. If the navy doesn't change their minds he may be able to make it home on a leave after graduation. The experience you encountered the other day while flying sounded real thrilling to us, Galen, however, we're glad you didn't have to take the first or second choice in the matter as you mentioned. . . . Two letters written on the same day coming from the same place, arrived the same day, from two fellows who had just met. These letters come from two sailors REX GIBBARD, who had just returned to his ship the U.S.S. Crouter, which at that time was in for repair at San Francisco, and BARTON VANCE, who is attending gyro school at Treasure Island. Both fellows report of having had a swell time and both wished that they could have spent more time together. Barton did tell us though that he contacted Rex by telephone the morning he was to leave Frisco. Now that Rex is on the high seas again, we wonder if the papers will be reaching him any better than they have in the past as Rex mentioned that on the day his letter to us was written he received two editions of the paper, one dated May 19 and the other dated December 10. Perhaps if Rex would hit the coast more often he would get some of the other copies between these two dates which he has missed. Anyway this sets a record as far as we know for fast and slow service. Rex says that to him "turnabout is fair play" and because he remembers only too well the shelling he got when he crossed the equator when he was initiated as a "shell-back," formerly being only a "poly-wog," he says what they will do to the new fellows on their ship, when the time comes to them, isn't printable. As far as that idea is concerned of going in with Henry Ford, we wouldn't be surprised as far as ideas go it isn't bad. Anyway Rex, we're sure glad you had this chance to make it home and hope that you'll be able to see your brother, RODNEY since he is now in New Guinea. Barton says school is coming along fair and the work is coming fast which is the reason for the limited liberty which he can enjoy. We're glad these two fellows were able to meet and Barton says although he knows what happens to most of the fellows who come out to the west coast, he sure hopes that he can meet some of them and would appreciate their looking him up if at all possible. . . . HARRY FYAN, who is located at Camp Bowie, Texas, writes that as far as the army goes, he has been told that if her couldn't find anything good about it to write, not to write anything, so guess what Harry wrote? However Harry is one of the few fellows who has found something good about the state of Texas, as he is situated in the agricultural region. . . . RICHARD "TICH" SAXTON has been moved from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is now attached to an infantry unit. Tich received his Lt. commission recently for Field Artillery but because of the shortage of men for the infantry units was transferred out. We hope that he will like this new phase of army training just as well. . . . After completing boot training at Great Lakes Training Station and LST training at Norfolk, Virginia, ARCHIE DERENZY is now a member of the Amphibious Forces of the US navy and has been assigned to a crew of a LST for active duty. . . . GLEN TROJANEK, now home on furlough, will be glad to know that when he returns to Will Rogers Field in Oklahoma, that another East Jordan soldier will have moved in to that location. A new address from JOHN HODGE tells us he has left New Haven, Connecticut, and has been transferred to Oklahoma, which incidentally was John's former home state before he came here to Michigan to live with his grand-parents. His three sisters still reside there so we hope that he may be able to obtain sufficient time from army duties to visit them there. . . . It was only a few weeks ago that we mentioned that we had no word from CLYDE GREEN but this week a card came giving his new address as that of A.G.F.R. Replacement Depot No. 1 at Ft. Geo. Meade, Maryland. Sgt. Green moved from Camp Pickett, Virginia. . . . Although the address of FRANK JANK has been changing rapidly during the past weeks he writes from Colorado Springs, Colorado, to tell us that every issue of the Herald has reached him thus far. Training as a radio operator on a B-24 Liberator is just about finished for him and then it will mean off for the fighting front. His work is very thrilling to him especially when the navigator gets lost in his navigation when his duty then is to bring the plane in. He tells us that their crew will really give the enemy something to worry about whether it be on the Atlantic or Pacific fighting front. It was nice hearing from you Frank and we would like to hear from you again before you shove off for over there. . . . We don't know whether the new address received from GEORGE WHALING means that he is united once again with our local sailor, DESMOND JOHNSON, but he does tell us that he is now stationed near Anchorage, Alaska. Although George is one that can claim being nearest to Tokyo, he finds the weather to be very much like that at home. . . . Again this week new names have been added to our mailing list which include MAX KAMRADT, now stationed at Camp Blanding, Florida, PAUL GREENMAN, with the navy and training at Great Lakes, and CARL HUNT, who finds himself with the MP's at Fort Custer, Michigan. . . . ARTHUR BOLSER is again on the mailing list as his new address has him once more settled with the navy at the air station located in Livermore, California. . . . The name of LEO BEYER was also removed from the mailing list for a time while he was transferring from Camp Roberts, California, to Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri. Leo, at the time he wrote the letter, was spending a pass with his wife who lives at Rolla, Missouri, which is about thirty miles from his camp. After the completion of this pass he was to spend two weeks in the field with the driver's section of the field artillery and then two additional weeks in garrison. The weather was plenty warm at that time and the hills seemed plenty steep so hiking may have been a bit uncomfortable for him. Thanks for sending the shoulder patch of the 97th Infantry Division. . . . Word has just been received of the safe arrival of JOHN TER AVEST and WILLIAM CAIN in New Guinea. Both are on the lookout for home town fellows. . . . ARVID TIPTON now has a new address and the APO number indicates that he may be in the vicinity of Anzio in Italy. Anyway his APO number is the same as others who are located there. As usual we wish all of you the best of everything and await your letters for next week's paper. Your friends of the Community Club. 4 GOOD REASONS

FOR THE TELEPHONE SHORTAGE

This is the inside of a Navy Patrol Bomber. All four men are using telephone equipment. Consider that this country is building over 100,000 planes of all types every year, and you get some idea of wartime telephone needs in the air alone. Land and sea forces use far greater quantities of communications equipment . . . must have more and more as time goes on. Naturally, it has become increasingly difficult to fill telephone service requests here at home. In supplying a quarter of a million more telephones since the beginning of the Defense program, our reserve facilities have been about used up. Orders for telephones essential to the war effort are filled promptly. Other requests for new service are handled under a definite procedure as present users give up service. But there is a long and growing waiting list. We are confident you want war needs to be met ahead of all else. If you are inconvenienced, we trust you will understand.
