Rallies to Put Over 5th War Loan

ALL UNITS IN EAST JORDAN ORGANIZED TO TOP THE GOAL

Wth the preliminary organizational work accomplished and all units now functioning, East Jordan is taking off its' coat and really going to work on our part of the Invasion - the 5th War Loan Drive. Special committees at strategical points include the following: At the Foundry, Merle Thompson, Henry Drenth; at the Canning Co., Alex Sinclair; at the Creamery, Gerrit Drenth, Bud Scott, at Co-ops, Bili Swoboda. ### WITH THE ANTRIM COUNTY AGR'L AGENT W. Kirkpatrick, Extension Agent

LARGE CHERRY CROP NEEDS MANY PICKERS

Many pickers will be needed to pick the large Antrim County cherry crop. Present prospects are that Antrim County's crop will be one of the best ever harvested. The Michigan Crop Reporting Service, reports that the Northern Michigan crop is the best in Michigan and other reports indicate that our Northern Michigan Crop is the best of any in the United States.

Everyone is being urged to make arrangements to help in the cherry harvest if at all possible and right here in Antrim County. All agencies are working together to do all they can to make possible gasoline and tires for transporting pickers, tents and cots for pickers so they can live at the orchards. The OPA has already approved the allotment of gas for the transportation of workers for the cherry harvest.

Although the price to be paid per ug for picking has not been set, because the price of Cherries has not yet been announced by the OPA, everyone can be certain that with a good crop, pickers can make excepionally good wages.

With the cherry blooms two weeks earlier than last year, it is thought that the 1944 cherry harvest will get underway shortly after July 4. All of July and perhaps the first week of August will be needed to get the large crop harvested.

Assistance Offered Returning Veterans Entering Farming

A recent memorandum from the War Food Administration requests that a County Advisory Committee be set up under the leadership of Extension to aid returning veterans who may be interested in purchasing or renting farms. A "Back to the Land" movement is anticipated, and in fact seems to be under way. A Committee of successful farmers should be able to provide constructive guidance to interested individuals. Leadership is needed to insure that war veterans and others interested in farming are guided toward opportunities for success and away from likely failures.

The National Selective Service office has been advised that all veterans interested in farming should be referred to the Extension Office. which, in turn, will work hand and hand with the County Advisory Committee. It has been recommended that the County Land Use Committee be asked to act as this County Advisory Committee as the members live on farms, know the land, and can offer constructive advice supported by years of actual farming experience. This Committee consists of Howard Stephens, Charleyoix; Arlo Wickersham, Charlevoix; Charles Shepard, Boyne City; William Shepard, East Jordan; and James Crego, Boyne Falls. Committee will be in a position to assist this program at all times and in any way possible.

Pickle News

By H. E. Brumm, Dist. Mgr. H. J. Heinz Company Charlevoix, Michigan

As soon as the pickle seedling is out of the ground cultivation should allow soil to be rolled over on top of the growing seedlings. The ground between the rows should be worked often enough to prevent it crusting over; to conserve soil moisture; as well as to destroy weeds. The first cultivation may be fairly deep if guards are used to protect the plants from being covered up. Subsequent cultivation should become shallower as the roots develop. To disturb or cut off roots by deep cultivation stunts the vine growth and tends to lower the yield.

The top soil should be stirred after a rain to prevent the formation of a crust on the surface of the soil. If this crust is allowed to form and remain during the hot sunshiny days of summer, moisture rapidly escapes from the soil. To conserve this soil moisture cultivate shallowly break up this crust. A shallow, loose soil mulch on the surface stops the escape of moisture and you will notice moist dirt immediately below this mulch. Deep cultivation at this time is destructive of much moisture from the soil as it dries out as far down as it is stirred.

Red Cross Workers Badly Needed

WITH WAR INTENSITY GROW-ING, THERE IS MORE NEED OF LOCAL RED CROSS ASSISTANCE

D-Day has come, bringing wounds and death to thousands of our men and the demand for surgical dressings is greater than ever.

One medical corps captain in the North Pacific writes: "We here, and on every other front, are fully and completely dependent upon the things you in the States send to us. It takes many things to fight wars and our weapons are dressings and plasma first. Were the supply of surgical dressings to stop coming, then we doctors would have to stop - and stay stopped."

Every wound, large or small, must be dressed, and dressed often.

The War Department has requested the Red Cross for monthly shipments of one hundred million surgical dressings. This means more than a billion (and that's more than a thousand million) dressings must be folded this year. Chapters in the Midwestern Area must provide thirty million of these. Charlevoix County's quota is 27,000 four by four's, and 7,200 four by eight's, of which East Jordan is to fold 9,000 four by four's, and 2,400 four by eight's.

East Jordan Chapter members have given royally of their time and strength to this work, despite weariness and discomfort. Perhaps it has sometimes seemed a very small and unimportant contribution to the war effort, then some mother would read a bit from a letter, such as the following from one of Fred Bechtold's, written last April: "Boy! that Red Cross keeps you pretty busy, but I've seen a lot of the bandages you make put on wounds, and I might add, they have saved many a life, so I'm mighty proud of all you women." Which makes it all seem, once more, worthwhile.

Mrs. Wade urgently requests all who can do so, to come to the Red Cross room at the schoolhouse next Tuesday, June 20th when work will once more be resumed at 1:00 p. m. High school girls are urged to help as much as possible before the canning factory opens. In other towns, High School boys are scrubbing their hands and doing their bit in this work. Those who have not previously worked can get information regarding the rules under which the work is done from former workers. Mrs. Wade says that when no coats are worn, members can wear a clean dress from home and not have to change at the schoolhouse.

She states that since this work was started September 20, 1942, East Jordan workers have folded, and shipped to military medical depots, 81,400 dressings and Charlevoix

County made 245,400. The dressings are now being packed in water-tight cases, as many times a large part of light-weight supplies, including surgical dressings, are thrown overboard from the ship be started care is necessary not to and floated in to shore. The War Department is issuing a special carton for use in packing dressings in a standard size of approximately three cubic feet. The carton is strengthened with a corrugated lining, inside of which is a bag of special waterproof paper of three cubic foot capacity. Our bags of dressings are placed inside of it and the cartons are sealed with a special type of adhesive tape.

As soon as the new cartons are received it is planned to display one in some show window down town. Remember the date, one o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, June 20th and also remember it may be one of the more than 400 East Jordan boys who will need the dressing your hands prepared. More than a thousand dressings are sometimes needed for treating one seriously wounded man.

'Allied Progress

Allied troops cracked the last German defense line on the western end of the front below Rome as enemy forces completed their withdrawal to the east, and the glittering dome of St. Peter's came first into view of fighting U. S. doughboys, wading through hails of Nazi fire.

As Allied forces closed on the Eternal City and the enemy fell back, U.S. and British bombers continued their invasion bombardment

By pulling back the bulk of his 10th army which opposed the Allied onslaught in the Cassino area, Nazi Marshal Kesselring managed to save them from complete annihilation, but U. S. and British forces exacted a heavy toll in the desperate, rearguard fighting, and their battle-planes ranged along the whole line of enemy retreat, shooting up marching columns and vehicles.

As the battle-clouds rumbled over Rome, Pope Pius XII appealed against the principle of total victory, declaring: total victory or complete annihilation "... works as a stimulant for prolongation of the war, even with those who . . . would be inclined to a reasonable peace."

Over There

With 3,657,000 U.S. army men overseas, Secretary of War Henry Stimson declared that they are ". . . poised to strike victory winning blows against Germany and Japan by land, sea and air.'

At the same time, the navy revealed that it had 1,566,000 men eat or on foreign duty, with 900,-000 more in transit or in training for combat service.

The army's 3.657,000 men overseas represented 47 per cent of total strength, and this would be boosted to 5,000,000 men, or two-thirds of total strength, by the end of 1944, Secretary Stimson said.

Declaring that disposition of troops overseas was in conformance with plans of the high command, Secretary Stimson said early transport of forces was to plug holes in the Allies' tottering lines, and later shipments were to crack the Axis' outer defenses for the grand assault, for which preparations long have been under way.

President Roosevelt's declaration came during the course of a press conference, in which he envisaged an international organization of nations cooperating freely and closely in the preservation of peace to prevent future aggression.

New Procedure

President Roosevelt made his statement shortly after Secretary of State Cordell Hull had issued invitations to Great Britain, Russia and China to participate in discussions of forming a postwar peace organization following consultations with members of the senate's foreign relations committee.

By conferring with the senators, the administration sought to eliminate partisanship from the formulation of postwar foreign policy, and, also, avoid Pres. Woodrow Wilson's mistake of seeking senatorial sanction for the World War I Peace Treaty without previously consulting the chamber on its provisions during its composition. In Secretary Hull's talks with the senators, it was revealed that some of them objected to formal commitment to any organization of enforcing postwar peace until the U. S. was apprized of the nature of the final settlement.

Bloody as any of the fighting in the South Pacific was the U. S. thrust against the enemy airfield on Biak island off Dutch New Guinea, with reinforcements called in to aid in the suppression of the stubborn

With access to the airfield along a roadway below a commanding ridge doughboys found themselves under sight of entrenched enemy snipers in the brush above, and when they climbed to the level of the airdrome. they encountered formations of Japanese tanks.

Under cover of the big guns of the 7th naval fleet, however, reinforcements were landed, and doughboys again pressed on the airfield, capture of which would assure the U.S. of another link in the chain of air bases being established in the northwestern New Guinea area for cover for the grand assault on the Philippines or Indies.

Parity Problem

Extension of the OPA for 18 months appeared certain only after a bitter fight over Sen. John Bankead's amendment, calling for readjustment of textile prices to reflect parity returns on cotton to farmers.

ing the general price level, giving rise to pressure for higher wages, and, in all, destroying the economic stabilization of the last few years. In advocating approval of the amendment, its supporters pointed out that the original stabilization act directed that ceilings were to reflect parity prices for farm commodities. Supporters also contended that readjustment of prices of cheap textiles would lead to the greater production of such goods, thus directly benefitting low income groups now compelled to purchase higher quality material.

War-Planes

American aircraft factories are now turning out far more war planes than both Germany and Japan combined, latest reports show. The United States is now producing at the rate of 100,000 planes a year, as compared with 21,600 for Germany and 14,000 for Japan.

The British empire and the United States together have made about 300,000 planes since Great Britain entered the war, while the Axis reportedly produced 151,000 in the same period.

A GOOD SOLDIER OF CHRIST JESUS

LESSON TEXT-II Timothy 2:1-4, 8-12; i:5-8. GOLDEN TEXT—Suffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus.—II Timo-thy 2:3.

"A good soldier"—what a wealth of meaning there is in that simple phrase. We think of our own hometown boys who have distinguished themselves in the service of their country, who have proved again that there is that in American life which can meet a crisis and do it well.

"A good soldier of Jesus Christ" is an even more significant phrase, speaking of that fine loyalty and devotion which Christians of all ages, yes, and of our day, are giving to the Captain of our salvation, our Commander-in-Chief in the great spiritual warfare going on in all the earth.

In our lesson we note that the soldier is—

I. Obedient (2:1, 2).

There is something to be done, and the soldier is enlisted for the purpose of doing it. In the case of the Christian soldier, it is to see that the gospel message which he has received is passed on to others.

Personal work is God's method, one man telling another, and another, and another. This is to be a continuous matter, not just now and then, and each one is in turn to become a soul-winner.

As each one wins others and the witness is multiplied by the law of arithmetical progression, the total result is tremendous.

Why, then, has the entire world not been long since completely evan-gelized? Because we who are Christians are not all obedient soldiers of Christ.

II. Loyal (2:3, 4).

No soldier can serve well with a divided loyalty. He cannot be running a business back home, or taking on outside interests to divert his attention. Being an efficient and useful soldier is his first and only business. Have not the military authorities in this war asked those who are at home to keep the problems of the home and business out of the letters to men in the army? Do they not require a man to leave home and family and give his all to the service? The soldier for Christ must please the Lord, even though it involve bearing "hardness." It is no soft and easy business to be a soldier. "Blood, sweat and tears" are the order of the day. Shall we not do as much for our Lord?

III. Prenared (2:8-12)

Training is of highest importance for a soldier. He must know what to do, and why he is doing it. He must understand the reason for obedience and the purpose of the warfare. In other words, he must be a disciplined man, prepared to serve effectively.

The soldier for the Lord is to "remember Jesus Christ," his resurrected Lord and victorious Commander. He knows for whom and under whom he fights.

He also knows (vv. 10, 11) that the message he bears is God's Word, and will succeed even though the bearer of it suffer and die. He is prepared to die, if need be, before he will deny his Leader (v. 12). IV. Faithful (4:5-7).

Watch, endure, work, be faithful to the very end. Such is the obligation, yes, and privilege of the soldier for Christ. Paul was able to admonish young Timothy to such com-plete faithfulness because he had himself exemplified these virtues in his own life.

Those who are called upon to command men must themselves be good soldiers. There is an encouraging note from the battlefields of this great war. One learns that the commanding officers are at the front, not hidden away in dugouts far behind the lines. The men take courage as they see the bravery of their officers.

What that meant in Paul's case may be learned from the story of his life, which is condensed in a brief statement in II Corinthians 12: 23-33. He really endured affliction for Christ's sake.

V. Victorious (v. 8).

A nation at war can stand the strain and bear the agony if it can be sure of ultimate victory. The grave disappointment of losing a battle, or the deep sorrow of heavy casualties, can and will be borne for the sake of the final triumph of the righteous cause.

In the battle for Christ, we know that the result will be victory. The faithful soldier shares the fruits of victory. The Christian soldier shall one day receive from his Lord and Leader a crown of righteousness.

When will that great day come When Jesus Christ returns (Matt. 16:27). He is coming again; first for His own, and then in glorious revelation of Himself as the judge of all the world. His victory over all His enemies will then be complete, and He shall reign forever and ever.

Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

The one thing uppermost in everyvanion of Nazi-held Europe, or more ture of which came only shortly be- to restore peace to the world. fore that of the Western invasion. For many weeks, we at home had awaited D-Day and H-Hour but not without a certain dread as we thought of the sacrifice and costly price which must of necessity be made in the undertaking. For some time past, the ever increasing number of men being sent to England, the news of continuous bombing of vital sections of censorship rules, until of recent date very little mail seemed to be coming through, and the higher percentage of those completing boot training being placed in the amphibious forces of our navy, all pointed to nothing less than invasion, and yet we could not help but be shocked when the real thing happened. How could it be otherwise for with the increased number being sent to the jumping off zone, hardly a person does not have someone there to whom he feels very close.

From the very earliest hours of Tuesday morning every bit of news that radios were kept tuned at all our Governor, had issued the proclamation that D-Day should be observed in solemn observance and prayer, and in accord with this plea, many of our churches held special services Tuesday evening besides the special broadcast in which our President himself led the nation in prayer. Now as the news of the initial success comes to us, we at home are proud of you who are doing everything in your power not only to maintain our own freedom but also to restore this same cherished freedom to the subjected countries of Europe.

And yet although the invasion of Europe is foremost in our minds, we have not forgotten you who are serving elsewhere on other fronts or even in the homeland. Everyone has a part to do and it must be done as a link in the long chain, no link being

HOME FRONT NEWS

A few servicemen's faces have town but we have not been able to interview any of those seen during the past week. We are told that brothers BILL and GERALD SIM-MONS came in town together Monday morning. Gerald was accompanied from Pratt, Kansas, where they have ing home together was rather coincidental as we learn that Bill, who is is spending his time entirely had stopped off in Detroit for a few hours visit with his sister Jean and on a seven day leave from the Pratt to a good advantage. Bill, who is with ping orders to Alabama and from RUSSELL COUNTRYMAN, who is ing a leave at home but we have not days at home last week, coming from Great Bend, Kansas.

However, because the ways of army are as mysterious as those of women, they now find their outfit is to be used as replacements and are being sent all over, consequently he too expects both a new outfit and a new location before very long. . . . . In the paper sent home by LOUIS BUNKER from Camp Livingston, we saw PETE HAMMOND'S name mentioned. Yes, you guessed it, all the boys down that way would like to know what Pete has that captivates the girls; and here we always pictured Pete as strictly a fisherman. . . . . Again this week we are adding new names to our mailing list. They include MARY KOTO-WICH and EDWARD WILSON. Mary is a sister of TEDDY, JOHN and STEVE KOTOWICH, and has just recently joined the army nurses corps and is now located at a station hospital in Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. Ed is with the marines and is at present taking his boot training at San Diego, Calfornia..... Maneuvers are over for WALLACE KEMP and he is now stationed at Camp McCain, Mississippi, after enjoying a furlough at home. We are sorry we did not get to see him while he was here but he postcards us that his time was very limited and therefore could not make all the calls he had hoped to. . . . . After serving in the Southwest Pacific for over two years and after enjoying a furlough at home, CLE-MENT STANEK is now located at Camp Crowder, Missouri. Another soldier who has completed a furlough after serving in the Pacific area is LEONARD THOMPSON. We have removed his name from the mailing list for the time being as we only had his overseas address. We believe that he probably has been assigned to some camp in the states so if anyone has his new addres kindly send it to us so we can again resume sending him the paper, . . . . The friends of BRUCE BARTLETT will be glad to know that Bruce is now a proud papa of a son born June 2nd. The anxious father came all the way home last week from Midland, Texas, to view his heir. We haven't talked with Bruce as yet but hope to see him before he goes back to camp. . . . . ARNOLD MOORE and his wife have left for San Francisco, California, after having spent his recent furlough at home. .... We extend our congratulations to CHARLES LUNDY, who is stationed at Indianola, Nebraska, on his recent marriage to Miss Margaret Finch of that city. Charles is stationed at the prisoner of war camp there and we learn that his wife is employed as a telephone operator at the camp. We hope that his married life will not hinder him from writing in to keep us posted on his army Again wishing you the best of everything, we leave you and the column for another week.

Vigorous opposition to home rule for Wayne county, likely to be a constitutional amendment for the November general election, is indicated from upstate rural areas.

Next Tuesday (June 20) the Michigan Institute for Local Government headed by State Treasurer D. Hale Brake and made up of state leaders of county officials, will be asked to take a definite stand on the issue. Other propositions before the institute, which was founded only a few months ago, will be three proposed constitutional amendments designed to divert one-third of state sales tax revenues to local governcounties and schools.

At a meeting of the institute's executive committee last week, to which the press was admitted, Melvin McPherson, acting as spokesman for the township supervisors, advocated that the institute go on record by committee action, condemning the Wayne county home rule plan. Action was deferred until June 20 in order to give the entire membership an opportunity to weigh the arguments. However, sympathy with the antihome rule viewpoint was generally expressed by county officials last

State Treasurer Brake, who is chairman of the state tax study advisory committee, reported that the committee would complete its study within 60 days but that no recommendation was possible by Monday, June 19, date for the special sesion of the state legislature.

He warned county officials flatly ments would automatically invoke a crisis in state finances, resulting in alternatives of reducing vital public services of state government or obviously to the state sales tax itself. It is Brake's belief that the institute should take a stand on this and any issue that involves the welfare of local governments, regardless of whether it is of may become controversial among public officials and the public. This attitude is shared by many others, including Mr. McPherson who sought to have the Institute official resolution with respect to opposition to Wayne county home

Fearful that Institute might become another "pressure group" or "super lobby" at Lansing, the institute's public relations committee has recommended that the Institute should not become involved in legislative or political issues and should confine its functions to that of a 'clearing house for the exchange of ideas and information between its members to the end that through open discussion a better understanding of the problems of local government may be acquired by its members.'

The committee submitted recommendations, both of which were approved, whereby the Institute would sponsor training coursese to be held late in the year at Michigan State College and would emphasize educational study through loan of technical books and literature by the Michigan State Library, Lansing.

This informational and educational function, however, is not enough in the minds of many county officials who look upon the institute as a defender of their interests and hence an agency to be utilized to favor or oppose legislation or political issues that are, in their sincere judgment, inimical to the welfare of local governments.

Signing the report were four of the five committee members who participated in policy discussions: Albert Blashfield, secretary, Michigan State Bar, as chairman; William Nestle, Ithaca, president of the Michigan Sheriffs' association; Allen M. Williams, Ionia county road commission, and Gene Alleman, secretary, Michigan Press association.

MR. WINKLE THEODORE GOES TO WAR PRATT

"H-here," Mr. Winkle quavered. "Tindall!"

swered. "I'm not sure."
"Answer 'here' only," the Alphabet ordered. "We'll try again. Tin-

"I guess I'm here," Freddie an-

"Here," Freddie replied. In a low mutter he added, "What's left of

The Alphabet strode over to stand in front of Freddie. He took out a little black notebook from his pocket, wrote in it, and said:

"Private Tindall, because it's you, and you ain't had the Articles of War read to you yet, especially Article Sixty-five providing punishment for insubordination to a noncommissioned officer-which is me-we'll just set a record for the camp. You're getting K P duty on your second day. You will become famous for this."

Mr. Winkle was almost glad to see how wrong Freddie was in his attitude, and how painful this was going to make it for him. Then he felt guilty at having such an unworthy sentiment.
"Pettigrew!"

Teeth chattered. Between clicks.

Jack called that he was present. Mr. Winkle had a sense of floating through the rest of that day. He remained in a daze from the shock of entering the Army. He supposed it was the same with the other men, but he didn't notice them very much.

At the dispensary Mr. Winkle was inoculated for so many things that he couldn't keep track of them all. The faintness induced by being pricked on one arm was counteracted by being pricked on the other arm immediately afterward. He enjoyed only one of the examinations. That was the Mechanical Aptitude Test. He was happy to wade right through this, answering nearly every question with ease and certainty, while others scratched their

In the afternoon, when they were given individual interviews, he hoped to learn what might be done with him. The interviewer drew him out about the work he had done in civil life. He showed a mild interest in Mr. Winkle's history as an accountant, but mostly he asked Mr. Winkle to talk about himself as a repairer of anything and the fact that he had his own

"I think we'll have a place for you," he said, quite as if Mr. Winkle only now had been accepted for the position, and hired.

The late afternoon was given to them to do as they pleased—within the confines of their barracks. That is, all except Freddie. An emissary of Sergeant Czeideskrowski, in the form of a Corporal, arrived to instruct Freddie to get into his fatigue denim and follow him. "We're going bubble dancing," the Corporal

Freddie, snorting and grumbling, decided to agree.

Jack was with two of the younger men, boys like himself. Solemnly they thumbed through their copies of The Soldier's Handbook, reading the instructions about what was. for most of them of their age, their first

Mr. Winkle looked about for companionship of his own. A few men looked as if they might be old enough for him, but he couldn't be sure. One of them passed by his cot, and Mr. Winkle, catching his glance, and for lack of anything else to say on the spur of the moment observed: 'Well, here we are.'

"Hah?" the man asked, staring blankly.

Mr. Winkle didn't pursue it, and

He realized just what an outsider he was going to be. He wrote a letter to Amy. He informed her that his bag would arrive home by express collect; it contained his rubbers, which she had better give to the scrap rubber drive. He instructed her to tell the Pettigrews that Jack was getting along fine-right now he was having a roughhouse with another boy. He assured Amy that he was all right. He just felt a little funny in his new life.

Sitting there alone on his cot, Mr. Winkle reflected that he felt more than a little funny.

There was an additional thing connected with what was going on, which he couldn't exactly analyze or express. It was connected in some way with the broad, general structure of the state of human affairs. It went beyond the possibility that man was a warring animal in spite of all his civilized refinements. Neither was it to be found in the concurrent theory that at certain intervals man needed to make war in order to pull himself down to his natural level, which he had made the mistake of exceeding.

Perhaps, thought Mr. Winkle, what he felt was contained in the fact that man had a will to die as well as a will to live, and that the present war was merely a grand expression of this. The world was bent on a mass suicide-pact, whose impulses would be spent only when millions had done away with themselves by the oblique methods employed.

Yet not even in that did he discover an explanation of the thing he felt. It was to be found in something much more simple than any such objective ideas, which were perhaps a little crazy, anyway, or at least too dangerous to entertain.

But he was sure there was something to express the situation in which he found himself, and that he would ultimately run across it. He

Private Tindall came in shortly after five, looking hot and not cutting a very attractive figure in his soiled dungarees. His thin line of mustache did not seem to fit this garment at all. Several of the men wanted to know what he had had decided to be on the lookout for it.

Freddie glared at them disgustedly. "I washed floors," he snarled. "Me!"

Jack led the laugh that followed. Freddie strode over to him and without a word, drew back his fist and hit him.

Jack sat down on a cot, not hurt but angry.

Mr. Winkle had time to think that it was a good thing he had finished his letter mentioning Jack before the boy rose, again to battle Fred-

From the doorway the voice of Alphabet was heard: "For fighting you'd be surprised what there is, Private Tindall. But this time we'll make it just the garbage detail for tomorrow." After the Alphabet had written in his notebook and gone away, Freddie promised, "I'm going to kill him. From A to Z." "If I don't get you first," Jack muttered.

"You," Freddie demanded, "and what other part of the Army? You and Pop, maybe?" Mr. Winkle reflected that this was not the right outlook at all. It was hardly the true spirit of the reason they were here. Mr. Winkle did not find a friend of his own age until he was shipped on a train to his Replacement Training Center. Camp Squibb was a thousand miles away from home. Mr. Winkle understood that this great distance was for the purpose of getting him away from family ties.

He was no happier at this than was Freddie Tindall when it was learned that Sergeant Czeideskrowski was to accompany and stay with them. It seemed that the Alphabet had been champing at the bit for having been put in what he re-ferred to as the "desk job" of receiving draftees. He wanted active duty; and now he looked at it as a step toward this when he was assigned to new training troops.

Camp Souibb was a great deal like their first camp, except that it was much larger, stretching for miles across the flat bare land. It was the general belief that no one knew how large it was, nor where it began and ended. It had simply continued to be built until there were no boundaries at all. Men, it was said, had become lost in it and not yet found. Another rumor had it that in case of invasion the enemy was to be lured to Camp Squibb and string, metal or bone. A where, once caught in this trap, it would never find its way out.

On the first afternoon in their new barracks, Mr. Winkle discovered Mr. Tinker. He was among those making up the platoon quartered on the ground floor. Mr. Winkle eyed the thickset man with a scowl on his broad face sitting on the next cot, and saw that here was a man of his own age.

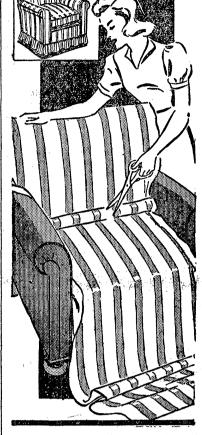

They eyed each other. Mr. Winkle smiled briefly, and was given a frown. That wasn't encouraging. Nevertheless, Mr. Winkle spoke. in-Nevertheless, Mr. white of troducing himself. He gave his age, and observed. "I glanced around, and observed, "I guess we're sort of two of a kind here. "Yeah," the other man said in a deep voice.

Mr. Winkle offered the information that he was a married man. His look inquired if the same situation held true with his acquaintance. "Naw," the man said.

There the matter rested for a moment, until the man suddenly announced his own name, which was Tinker, and his age, forty-two. He said he was a plumber.

Mr. Winkle asked him how he felt about being in the Army

U. S. School System Faces Greatest Crisis in History

Selective Service Auxiliary Branches Make Heavy Draft on Teaching Personnel; Higher Wages Necessary.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

Washington, D. C.

Recently, the fate of the Churchill government hung on school teachers' salaries. The opposition threatened to defeat a government-sponsored measure because it didn't provide for making women teachers' salaries equal to men's. The opposition finally yielded for the sake of harmony but the issue is not dead.

Today a report outlining what are described as "revolutionary changes to raise the social status of teachers in Great Britain and make their profession attractive" is before Par-

Any informed Englishman admits that the American public school system offers far more to the general public than the British system. At the same time, our own school system faces one of the greatest crises in its history and, likewise, some of the greatest changes. One simple reason for the crisis can be stated in a sentence: American schools have lost 200,000 competent, well-prepared teachers since Pearl Harbor.

Selective service and voluntary enlistment have made a heavy draft on the men, and you have no idea how many WACs and WAVES, Marines and SPARS stepped out of the schoolroom into their natty uniforms.

Of course, high wages in industry lured many a teacher from the three Rs, too. And why not? The average teacher's salary is only about $1,550 a year.

This year 44,000 teachers were paid less than $260 a year. That wouldn't buy slacks and "old fashioneds" for a new-fashioned lady war-worker.

Two hundred fifty-four thousand teachers received under a hundred dollars a month. My figures are from the Journal of the National Education association.

"Already many classrooms have been closed," says this periodical, 'and thousands of others are so overcrowded that effective teaching is impossible." If these trends continue much longer, the magazine predicts, education will be cut off at its source right at a time when it has a tremendous job ahead reeducating a generation which has been subjected to highly abnormal surroundings and educating another which will have to help recreate a normal, if a somewhat altered,

Higher Salaries Needed

In this country, as in England, the first step in the solution of the problem is higher salaries, the next is better working conditions, the third is an active campaign to attract young people to the profession.

But before these steps are accomplished, an interim effort is necessary, and it has already begunan organized effort urging capable high school seniors to prepare for the teaching profession.

Many state groups have begun campaigns of various kinds. and the National Education association, itself, has appropriated $8,500 for this purpose. Hundreds of thousands of pamphlets and leaflets have been prepared and distributed. Realizing that those attractive posters of girls in uniforms had a lot to do with recruiting women for the armed services, one of the artists who helped lure private, sergeant or lieutenant Smith out of the school house, has been hired to try to lure her back when the war is over, or attract her young civilian sister. I haven't seen one of these posters yet, but I hope they do the job, for the task ahead for the teacher and the opportunities that the profession will offer are both bound to expand tremendously due to the situation which will follow the war. This will spring from two causes. The first is a part of a universal demand which is already being heard abroad as well as at home, when any group, formal or informal, gets together to talk over postwar conditions. Plenty of ridicule is hurled by the so-called hard-headed citizens at the postwar planners whose name is legion. But congress has already learned that there is one brass-tacks phase of war-planning that can't be labelled as amiable day-dreaming and ignored.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building ["GI bill of rights" - which includes the "billion dollar program" for education for returning veterans.

Educational Demands

The bill will pass congress and will be signed. The soldier, far more vocal than he has ever been before, and representing the greatest group of voters with a singleness of purpose on the subject of "GI rights" that congress has ever faced, is going to get what he wants. And the demand for greater educational opportunities will not be limited to the veteran.

Careful estimates indicate that. to carry out the postwar education program for veterans, non-veterans and their children, the present personnel will have to be increased 50 per cent. This, of course, includes besides teachers, administrators, librarians, clerks, nurses, janitors and bus drivers, nearly a million and a half persons. These figures give you an indication of the number of persons who will be drawn into the profession and its allied activities if the plans go through.

The second reason why we can expect a stimulation in the whole ries and cherries. field of education is because there is a very strong feeling that the opportunities for learning must be greatly broadened. As a result of the social changes preceding and during the war, the strong voice of the common man has been raised, demanding that cultural as well as economic benefits be more widely distributed. The thoughtful educators realize that a wider background of knowledge must be furnished to everyone, that technical and professional courses must be grounded on a firmer base of general knowledge.

Already there is a feeling of reaction against the emphasis which the war has placed on purely material subjects, on a purely technical or scientific education. This is bound to call for a greater share of what might be called spiritual culture. And at the other end of the spectrum, also a demand for training in health and physical development.

Educators themselves have their troubles from within as well as from without. Of late, there has been pressure by certain groups, like the National Association of Manufacturers, anxious to see that nothing is taught that might endanger what able facsimile of the original prodthey define as the "free enterprise" system, although not all business- long enough, and the result will be men agree on what free enterprise | well worth the effort. is or that they like it too free.

There have also been many conflicts within and among institutions of higher learning, like the one in my own alma mater, the University Chicago, where President Hutchins and his followers want to get back to "first principles" with an emphasis on the philosophers; and others lean toward a more utilitarian training. The so-called "experimental" colleges like Antioch, stressing individual development and social responsibility, do not agree with Hutchins nor even among themselves. But it would seem that the trend of the times agrees with the recent edict of a wellknown educator who said that concern with the development of the

must be the twin goals of education. In any case, it is clear that never before in our history have the school teacher and the professor been offered such a challenge. Never before has the proverb which says "wisdom is the principle thing, therefore, get wisdom" been more widely heeded: never has the rest of the abjuration of King Solomon been more important: "and with all thy getting, get understanding."

It never rains but it pours. With the sheep in the meadow. the cows in the corn, and even the scarecrow alone and forlorn for want of manpower to help out, the department of agriculture now sends out the warning that after the war there won't be enough farms in the country to hold all the people who will be crying for 40 acres and

Germans suffering from pre-invasion jitters have been advised to take cold foot baths or cold showers to calm their raging nerves. (There may be no hot water.)

More than 60,000 men are needed for lumbering and pulpwood jobs before next fall if 1944 requirements are to be met, according to the War Manpower commission.

According to WFA, an estimated 4,000,000 extra farm workers will be needed this year; about 1,200,000 will be boys and girls under 18 years of age and about 800,000 will be women. . . .

Early spring vegetables are coming out in the markets and in the gardens. They should be canned as soon as they are best, so that you will have the best possible results. Synthetic inner tubes need lubrication before being inserted in a casing. Partially inflate the tube and use ordinary pure scapsuds as a ant in the absence of a special tube lubrication preparation. Dry synthetic Tubes do not "slide" in the tire and unless lubricated may not adjust themselves properly.

Proponents of the continuance of our synthetic rubber insurance policy after the war hold that jungle growth on the rubber plantations and the probability of the Japs wrecking the plantation equipment may mean a loss of two years before normal levels of rubber production can be realized.

"... Ask the Joes in the front lines!"

"... Ask that kid on the stretcher!"

"... Ask those who bury our dead."

"THEY KNOW. Every G. I. Joe knows.

"This is the big show. This is the pay-off. This is the one that counts.

"Sure, we're going to take 'em. But it's going to cost us plenty . . . thousands and thousands of lives . . . billions and billions of dollars.

"That's the price we must pay for a decent world—a world in which we and our children can live in peace. We G.I.'s will furnish the bodies. Will you furnish the dough?"

.and its going to cost us plenty!

NOBODY needs to tell you that the fighting in this war is reaching a crisis. But we've got to realize also that we face a similar crisis in financing the war.

Make no mistake! The 5th War Loan is beyond question the biggest, most vitally important financial effort of this whole war!
