East Jordan Over The Top Again

IN A ROUSING THREE-DAY FINALE EXCEEDS QUOTA BY $13,675

In a rousing three day finale East Jordan filled its Fifth War Loan quota of $140,000 and when the drive ended Saturday night the grand tally of $153,000 was the gratifying total. Of this amount sales to individuals accounted for $80,175 while the remaining $73,500 was subscribed by business houses and corporations. Early last week the returns indicated that we were apparently going to fall far short of our goal. However as soon as the facts were publicized a veritable tidal wave of buying swamped the issuing agencies, one of whom wrote up $20,000 of small denomination Es in a single day. A truly typical East Jordan performance!

Charlevoix County as a whole went over the quota of $422,000 by $52,925 and turned in the final figures of $474,925 for the drive total. Word has just been received that we are one of the few counties in the State to exceed the mark in the sale to individuals of E Bonds so importantly stressed by the Treasury Department. It is a record that Charlevoix County may well take pride in. The Drive committee extend their thanks to the countless helpers who gave freely of their time and energies, to the Boy Scouts who participated in the publicity campaign and to the hundreds of individuals whose cash and patriotism have made it possible for East Jordan to again go over the top and to keep faith with our sons and daughters on the battlefronts around the world.

William C. Howe Peninsula Resident Passed Away July Fifth

(From Peninsula Correspondence) It is with regret we tell of the death of Mr. William C. Howe at his farm home, Overlook, at the top of Holly Hill, north side, on July 5th, 1944, after an illness of seven weeks, five of which were spent at the Lockwood hospital in Petoskey, where he had a major operation six weeks before. He had been at his home just a week when he took a turn for the worse. Mr. Howe was born at North Amherst, Mass., June 28, 1881. He came to the Peninsula in 1911 and had made his home at Overlook farm ever since. He was married to Miss Marie Henry, Oct. 9, 1913, who survives, along with two brothers, Francis and Erle of Cleveland, Ohio, who were unable to attend the funeral because of transportation regulations. The funeral was at Charlevoix, Saturday, at 2 o'clock, interment also at Charlevoix. Shortage of gas prevented a great many friends from attending. Mr. Howe was always an obliging neighbor, always ready to lend a helping hand, always a gentleman, and very pleasant to meet. The beautiful floral offerings very eloquently expressed the admiration and respect his neighbors held for him. He will be greatly missed. There are no children. Mrs. Howe will remain on the farm for some time but will not winter there. Her sister, Mrs. Emma VanAllsburg of Detroit, will remain with her but another sister, Mrs. Minnie Meryfield came from Detroit, Friday, to be with Mrs. Howe for a few days. Rev. Geo. Weaver of Petoskey, who used to be Sunday School missionary at the Mountain School house on Peninsula as young man, officiated at services at the See Funeral home at Charlevoix.

Lower Water Levels for Michigan says Dept. of Conservation
With present water levels of Lakes Michigan and Huron approximately three-quarters of a foot lower than the August high of last year, the conservation department expects no repetition this season of the extensive beach damage caused in Muskegon, Ludington, Mears (Pentwater), and Bay City state parks last summer. Water levels are due to reach their '944 high next month but the expected level is likely to be a half foot lower than last August's peak. Lakes Michigan and Huron levels of June were approximately 1.4 feet below the high stage of June, 1929, and 2.84 feet above the low stage of June, 1934.

Friday and Saturday, July 14 and 15: Paul Lukas, Errol Flynn and Jean Sullivan in "Uncertain Glory." An adventure yarn with Flynn cast as a ne'er do well French criminal matching wits with a Surete detective, Paul Lukas. Sunday and Monday: Irene Dunn and Spencer Tracy starring in "A Guy Named Joe." Spencer Tracy is superb as a devil-may-care bomber pilot who is killed on a mission over the enemy lines but returns in spirit to the scenes of his former haunts. Tuesday and Wednesday: Ray Milland, Ruth Hussey, Cornelia Otis Skinner in "The Uninvited." A subtle, shivering, shuddering sensation of suspense with none of the generally standard horror gadgets in the picture. Thursday, Family Nite: Rosemary Lane and Johnny Downs in "Troadero." Men Behind The Chamber of Commerce
John Porter was born in East Jordan and raised to manhood here, graduated from our schools, and went to the University of Michigan, graduated from there, and entered on a business career with his father, and now is the president of the East Jordan Lumber Co., and the East Jordan Canning Co. John is a very loyal Jordanite, and our city comes first with him, always a booster for what's best for our community. He is a friend of everybody and has one of those million dollar smiles, and it's real too. John's family consists of his daughter Suzanne who is a senior at Albion, and an honor student. Eva, his wife, is very active in the community such as taking an interest in Red Cross work and Garden Club activities, and her greatest job is taking care of John's health, and is sure succeeding at this. John hasn't many hobbies, but the one that he has is music and would travel many miles to hear a good concert. John, do not work too hard — no health, no play.

Poultry Short Course at Michigan State College July 17 - 21

A special school for poultrymen has been arranged at MSC for the period July 17-21. The school will teach flock selection and pullorum testing in addition to other topics of vital interest. The number of persons knowing the art of selecting birds by physical characteristics is very small compared with the vast number that are untrained. Ah the number of persons increase that know this art, improvement will be made in our poultry. Improved poultry and poultry keeping increases the value of our industry and in addition, the income on our farms.

The cost of the course is very small—in fact $2.00 is the amount for registration fees. All poultrymen who find it possible will benefit greatly by spending this week at the Michigan State College. For further information relative to this poultry school, contact your County Agent. B. C. Mellencamp Co. Agr'l Agt.

WITH THE ANTRIM COUNTY AGR'L AGENT W. Kirkpatrick, Extension Agent

ANTRIM CHERRY HARVEST TO BE IN FULL SWING JULY 17

The harvesting of Antrim County's large cherry crop will get under way in all orchards on Monday, July 17, states Walter G. Kirkpatrick, Antrim County Agricultural Agent.

Scattering orchards throughout the County began to harvest their crops on July 10 with quite a number starting Wednesday, July 12. The exceedingly heavy crop along with dense foliage, have combined to hold back the ripening of the crop.

Temporary Placement Centers have been set up at the Elk Rapids Library with Mrs. Margaret Kaiser in charge and at Melvin Essenburg's gas station at Atwood, in addition to the County Agricultural Agent's office in the Court House, Bellaire.

At the Temporary Placement Centers, lists of orchards needing pickers will be maintained.

Through the cooperation of the OPA, pickers can be accommodated with the necessary gasoline needed to drive to and from the orchards.

Early indications are that a great number of Antrim County people are making arrangements to assist in the Cherry Harvest. Everyone is urged to do their bit, if only for a day.

BOWLING

East Jordan is on the warpath and are again invading the bailiwick of their traditional foes, Bellaire. The results will be too late for this issue... but we'll have them for you next week, although we are sure right now our boys will take 'em!

During a match last week a rebounding pin from the pit went into action among the standing timber and resulted in a spare. Some one declared it illegal and so the mark was not allowed. On checking up, however, we find a rebounding pin is legal, although a rebounding ball is not. Something to remember just in case!

A flash from Lt. (j. g.) Reuling, on the west coast, tells of witnessing a 12 game match between the doubles Ned Day and Hank Marino vs. Pagel and Emerino. Day and Marino had a 3-game series of 1383 and every series of the match was over 1200. Day was only under 200 for one game out of the 12. Just the same we'd like to see Ed and Greg take them on!

Visiting 'old timers' Monk Cihak, Al Kershner and Chris Taylor were on the drives this week after long absences. Monk is home getting Helen settled before leaving for the armed services this week... good luck, fellow, from all your old teammates.

Houseman Hollis is kinda cocky with a 219 (he doesn't mention the 113 next game) and Grace Irvin smiling over her neat 191. And Howard Darbee says no more spots!

East Jordan Garden Club Meets Next Wednesday

The East Jordan Garden Club will meet with Mrs. C. A. Brabant, Wednesday, July 19th.

Dorothy K. Snyder-Kitsman Passed Away at Wyandotte, June 20

Dorothy K. Snyder was born Aug. 15, 1907 at Lewiston, Mich., and passed away suddenly at her home at Wyandotte, Mich., June 20, 1944, at the age of 36 years.

When but a small child she came to East Jordan with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kitsman, going through and graduating from the East Jordan High School in the class of 1925. She was a graduate of Western Teachers' College at Kalamazoo, after which she taught ten years at Shepard.

In November, 1930, she was united in marriage to Dr. Charles E. Snyder at Toledo, Ohio, the latter now a Major in the U. S. Army, is serving in England.

Funeral services were held Thursday, June 22, from a funeral home in Wyandotte, with burial in Michigan Memorial Park cemetery at Wyandotte.

Mrs. Snyder was a member of the Presbyterian church and of the OES. Surviving, besides the husband, is a son, Charles E., Jr.; her mother, Mrs. Clara Kitsman of Standish; a brother, Capt. Wm. Kitsman in India; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Wagner of Wyandotte and Ensign Kathryn Kitsman of Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Cherry Harvest Off To Good Start

DRY WEATHER DELAYING MATURITY. PEAK TO BE REACHED IN WEEK OR SO

The cherry picking season has now started. The response for pickers thus far has been very gratifying. Orchards having Early Richmond trees are now nearly picked, likewise the sweet cherry season is nearly ended. The main crop of Montmorencies is ready this week or will be by Monday, July 17th.

Over seventy-five Victory Farm Volunteers were transported to the Wilkenson orchards this last week. This week Monday over 100 pickers started at the Millsbaugh orchard. During the week more orchards will start, so that by the end of the week it is estimated there will be over 750 pickers working in the county.

All cherry growers are asked to inform the county agent's office in Boyne City by telephone if they are in need of further assistance. Kindly call before noon so that the labor staff will have the afternoon to make the necessary arrangements. Many folks from other counties are responding to the call. The splendid publicity in all of the local and outside papers has been largely responsible for this response. Right now, rain would make a big difference in both the size and maturity of this big cherry crop.

Smallpox Reported in Two Places in State. Vaccination is Urged

"Two smallpox cases have been reported in widely separated counties. Because of large percentage of unvaccinated persons, urge immediate, intensive campaign for vaccination." Dr. William DeKline, state commissioner of health, telegraphed this message to every health officer in Michigan following the recent discovery of a case of smallpox in Macomb county and another in Clare. Neither one of these persons had ever been successfully vaccinated.

The source of infection is not known for either case. Dr. DeKline stated that it was possible that the disease had been spread by someone who had a light, unrecognized case of smallpox. Such cases particularly in adults are often mistaken for chickenpox, he said.

Because it is probable that many other persons were exposed besides the two already ill, Dr. DeKline urged that every person who has not been successfully vaccinated in the past five years see his family doctor or health officer at once.

The Michigan Department of Health is rushing special orders of smallpox vaccine for use in these two counties and in adjoining counties. This vaccine, produced in the health department laboratories, is free for use by any physician. Health authorities advocate vaccination before the child reaches one year of age.

Early in June Dr. DeKline warned that a smallpox epidemic was likely to occur in Michigan because a large percentage of the population had never been vaccinated. In the department's monthly publication "Michigan Public Health," he stated: "The real danger inherent in the present low incidence of smallpox is the possibility that people may come to believe that smallpox is now a thing of the past and consequently, that vaccination is no longer necessary. If this state of mind is allowed to develop generally it may be confidently predicted that within a short time the growing number of unprotected persons will provide a fertile field for the recurrence of smallpox in epidemic form."

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

SOME stars, who ascended into the cinematic heavens years ago and whose ability is so solid they've remained at the top, are now taken for granted by most of us. We begin maligning them just because they've been around so long. We point up jokes at them, since their names are household institutions. We forget their achievements all too quickly and lie in wait for them to do a bad job so we can take pot shots.

Charles Laughton

I detect this symptom in many of Charles Laughton's admirers and enemies. Charles, Hollywood's paunchy genius of character portrayals, believes in "mixing his offerings." He won't take the easy way of establishing one great character and then playing it for the rest of his life in different settings and plots. He keeps searching for new stories, different characters, and putting all his energy into sincere portrayals of these.

Runs the Gamut

Remember "Sign of the Cross"? He played Nero—whose only whim was the death warrant of hundreds. Then there was "Henry the Eighth," the most dominating old roue who ever swept a camera off its feet, and "Ruggles of Red Gap," the gentleman's gentleman who did the most inspiring rendition of the Gettysburg address ever heard since the Emancipator himself uttered the immortal words.

Whether Laughton will be a big hit in the "Canterville Ghost" or not remains to be seen, but I do know he's put his all into it, and he's honest enough to say.

Can't Be Stopped

Orson Welles hasn't been with us as long as Charley Laughton, but for a young man of 29 summers he's made theatrical history. When he first arrived he was the butt of everybody's jokes but the critical part of the town stopped laughing after "Citizen Kane." He had something in that that received praise from all over except the minor portion of the press which might have been prejudiced against him.

Slow but Sure Climb

Walter Pidgeon's another who's been around a long time. He also went back to Broadway to find a second career, but there's no chance of shoving Walter around. He and Greer Garson have been teamed so often they've become our top male and female combination.

Like Old Man River

We've called Bing Crosby everything except actor. Now, after running him down, critics have come out unanimously in proclaiming Bing not only a fine actor, but many even went so far as to say Bing could have done "Going My Way" without a song. For the well-known groaner, he could ask for no greater praise.

Star Under Observation

Smart woman that Rose Franken! Martha Scott, who will play in "Soldier's Wife," has been a house guest of Rose, and a lot of Martha's characteristics, which Rose has learned since they've been together so much, will be incorporated in the play. One of them is her habits in dressing and undressing. The first thing Martha puts on is a hat, and it's the last thing she takes off. Even after she's in her nightgown she has her hat on.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Dewey Pledges Strong Postwar Market for American Producers; Batter Nazi Defenses in France

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Saipan—U. S. marines pay last respects to fallen buddies on Saipan in Marianas islands.

EUROPE:

Big Battle

In a great drive to encircle the Nazi defense pivot of Caen on the eastern end of the 125-mile Allied front in Normandy, British Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery compelled German Field Marshal Von Rundstedt to commit large forces to the raging tank battles on the three sides of the town.

As Montgomery forced Von Rundstedt's hand on the east flank, U. S. troops resumed the attack above the vital communications hub of St. Lo to the west, and U. S. engineers undertook to clear up the wreckage in the port of Cherbourg to permit its early use for funneling in supplies.

With Montgomery reportedly using 100,000 men in the Caen drive and pushing the offensive under a curtain of heavy artillery, tank and aerial fire, the Nazis were compelled to call in reserves to stem the British thrust, which threatened to remove the pivot on which the enemy had resisted Allied advances.

Within 250 miles of flaming front in north Russia, German troops slowly fell back before the powerful surge of Red forces chewing into the big bulge overhanging the southern end of the battle-line, and Hitler's last springboard to Moscow.

The Germans were compelled to retire from prepared strongholds when large Russian forces broke through their lines on all sides, threatening to encircle them from the rear.

In Finland, the Reds continued their offensive in the face of stiffening resistance both on the Karelian isthmus near the capital of Helsinki, and in the lake country farther to the east.

With the Germans moving in reinforcements and increasing their artillery and anti-tank gunfire, the Allied advance up the Italian peninsula was slowed by hard fighting.

Still operating in the mountainous terrain which lays before their last major defense line guarding the rich Po industrial and agricultural region to the north, the Nazis were taking every advantage of the rugged country to impede the Allies.

As U. S., British and French forces fought steadily ahead, the Nazis were converting little villages into small fortresses.

MEAT:

Beef Scarcer

Because of a 12 per cent decrease in supply of rationed beef as a result of larger allocations to the army, navy and lend-lease, point values on steaks and roasts for the month of July were raised to their highest levels.

Nearly all cuts of lamb were returned to rationing, with only breast, flank, neck, shank and lamb patties point free. Despite shortages of better grades of pork loins, all pork will continue unrationed.

Point-free for over a week, all so-called soft cheeses, including most varieties except cheddar, were put back on the rationed list at four points per pound. Canned milk was raised to two-third point per can from one-half.

PACIFIC:

Serious, Says Tokyo

Facing compression on the northern end of Saipan island by advancing U. S. troops, the Jap defenders offered vigorous resistance to attacking Doughboys in the mountainous interior after having been driven from the southern extremity.

Sheer cliffs, blind ravines, and rough, wooded ridges bulked before the Doughboys as they fought their way forward over the rugged terrain, broken in many spots only by goat paths.

As U. S. troops tightened their foothold on Saipan, the enemy reported that naval aircraft continued attacks against American shipping supplying the ground forces, and added: "We, the 100,000,000 people of Japan, must realize now, if ever, that the outcome of the battle of the Marianas will exert a very serious influence upon the future war situation."

GOP:

Shape Fight

Under the leadership of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York as its candidate for President and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio as vice president, the Republican party will make the 1944 campaign on a platform designed to assure a strong American market for U. S. producers.

In the field of foreign relations, the party's 1,057 sweltering delegates to the Chicago convention approved a platform based upon U. S. cooperation with other nations to preserve world peace without impairment of sovereignty or self-rule and with the consent of the senate in accordance with constitutional provisions.

In addition to guaranteeing the producer a protective tariff to exclude cheap foreign competition, the party agreed to the principle of establishing an "American market price" for agriculture, and approved crop adjustment during periods of abnormal surpluses.

Quick restoration of private business in the postwar world was promised through speedy settlement of cancelled war contracts and orderly disposal of surplus goods. The party also pledged lower individual and corporate taxation consistent with government expenditures when conditions permit.

Knows Answers

Surrounded by a battery of newspaper men in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel, "Tom" Dewey gave his first press interview as the GOP's presidential candidate, showing a tactical skill in answering the barrage of questions.

In reply to queries, Dewey said future developments might make compulsory military training necessary; that congressional power to declare war to resist aggression would not hamper operation of a world cooperative program to preserve future peace, and U. S. acquisition of Pacific bases would be left to future events.

Declaring that the party's program did not refer to "high" but rather to "adequate" tariffs, Dewey said the heart of the foreign trade plank was centered in the sentence calling for U. S. cooperation in promotion of world commerce. At first, federal help may be required to assist in providing full employment, Dewey said.

"Are you satisfied with gas rationing?" someone asked.
"Do you know anybody who is?" Dewey retorted.

DIPLOMACY:

Troubled Relations

Finland's refusal to lend its ear to U. S. approaches that it negotiate a peace with Russia, and the tiny Baltic state's determination to remain in the war beside Germany following promises of military aid, led to an open rupture of relations with this country.

At the same time, U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour was recalled from Argentina for consultation with state department officials, following reported increasing Axis sentiment in that South American country, particularly since the invasion.

Meanwhile, Gen. Charles de Gaulle was scheduled to confer with President Roosevelt over alterations in the U. S. attitude toward the French National Committee for Liberation as the provisional government of re-occupied territory.

CASUALTIES:

Total 250,000

As a result of losses of 24,162 men during the first two weeks of the invasion, total U. S. casualties up to June 22 approximated 250,000 killed, missing and wounded.

Total Allied losses in France were 40,549 for the two week period, with the U. S. dead averaging 12.7 per cent of American casualties; the British 13.5 per cent and the Canadian 12.9 per cent.

A large percentage of U. S. losses in the invasion came in the first two days, when elements of two divisions ran into a German division practicing maneuvers on the beaches. Enemy casualties were estimated at 70,000.

For the first four years of the war, Prime Minister Churchill placed British losses at over 667,000 men.

CHINA:

Japs Gain

Pressing their drive in southern China, the Japs threatened to seize the country's entire eastern seacoast and secure an unbroken rail route of over 1,000 miles.

The Japs pushed their offensive as U. S., British and Chinese efforts to open up a back-door into southeastern China from India slowed in the mountainous Burmese jungle country.

U. S. warplanes joined in the valiant Chinese defense against the Japs, who continued their favorite tactic of driving forward on either side of by-passed strongholds. Allied thrusts to open a back-door to China continued even as the Chinese asked for greater assistance to resist the enemy.

LEND-LEASE:

In Reverse

With the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand pitching in, Britain's reverse lend-lease to the U. S. for the two years ending last March totaled 2 1/2 billion dollars, and if continued at the same rate as the first three months of 1944, was expected to approximate 2 billion dollars for the whole year.

Out of the United Kingdom's contribution of almost 2 billion dollars, the U. S. received rail transportation to invasion ports; British planes; airfields and other construction; fresh vegetables and other foodstuffs; lightweight gas tanks; 25,000 miles of steel landing mats; thousands of parachutes, and 2 million pair of woolen socks.

Meats and dairy products constituted a major portion of Australia's reverse lend-lease of almost 1/2 billion dollars, while foodstuffs made up one-third of New Zealand's contribution of over 100 million dollars.

CIVILIAN GOODS:

Feeling Pinch

With large stockpiles dwindling and scarcities of material and manpower prevailing, the public will start feeling the shortage of civilian goods more and more from now on, an official of the War Production board declared.

Although some demand for such merchandise as electric irons, alarm clocks and aluminum kitchen-ware will be partially met this year, WPB disclosed, manufacture of stoves and other steel products and availability of lumber are expected to be affected by shortages of materials.

In remarking on the continued restriction of textile production because of the tight labor supply, a WPB official declared: "Our manpower is not always applied to the right things—there probably is plenty if it were properly distributed."

JEEPS

The famed army jeep is not so well suited for a general utility farm vehicle as is popularly supposed, according to the U. S. department of commerce. It was found that the jeep is less powerful than a small tractor, has small carrying capacity when used as a truck, and is uncomfortable and ugly looking.

"On the farm" concludes the article, "the role of the jeep seems to be that of a handy, amusing, plucky, but expensive to operate jack of all trades."

Small Business to Feel Benefit of Reconversion

WPB Release of Aluminum for Civilian Purposes Turns Tide in Favor of Little Plants.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

The press gave notice a few weeks ago of the installation of a swarm of bees in the office of a government agency. It was in the Smaller War Plants corporation, and it was placed there by that ball-of-fire, up-and-doer, wounded and decorated in the last war, defeated for reelection to congress, and ex-mayor of San Antonio, Texas, Maury Maverick. He said he got the bees to provide a living example of how to keep busy.

I thought the gesture amusing, typical of the dramatically inclined Maury. So I went down to look the scene over, noted certain subsequent events and I decided that the gesture, although amusing enough, was by no means an empty one. For within one week, something happened, the significance of which has been all too little appreciated. Reconversion began and the long stagnant tide turned in favor of little business.

It is only a trickle so far, but the flow has started, which, it is hoped, will eventually get the wheels of small business, which had been slowed down past the danger point, moving again in the manufacture of civilian goods.

Less than a month before, Maury Maverick, armed with a series of charts, had appeared before a congressional committee and said:

"Concentration of production in the hands of big business has grown by leaps and bounds since 1939."

Using the metal trades as an example, he said:

"Since the war started, the proportionate share of little business in metal products industries has roughly been cut in half."

Still later, just before the bees (or whatever it was) stung the government to action, Mr. Maverick became more pessimistic. He told congress:

"The mobilization of small business has reached the critical stage . . . the civilian economy is short of civilian goods and getting shorter . . . dangerous inflationary pressures . . . cutbacks in war contracts . . . are causing unemployment."

It was a gloomy picture Mr. Maverick painted. His office had worked hard, the congressional committees on small business had worked hard, but the War Production board turned a deaf ear to all demands on the basis that any resumption of civilian production might interfere with the war effort.

Maverick's Work Rewarded

Then at last the heaven began to work—the whole argument of the defenders of little business, based on the assertion that certain industries could be resumed without interfering with the war effort, touched the iron heart of Donald Nelson, head of the WPB (of which Maury is a vice chairman). Nelson arose and announced "the first of a series of moves" and suddenly the whole tide turned and an entirely different attitude was evident on the part of the other members of the War Production board.

This "first of a series of moves" takes away some of the restrictions on the use of aluminum and magnesium.

But do not visualize a fountain of pots and pans, skillets and coffee pots springing into being overnight. Something is cooking but it is on a slow fire.

More important is the not-yet-proclaimed raising of restrictions which have been keeping "idle and excess inventories of surpluses of steel" lying dormant, impotent and useless, while small plants have the yearning facilities and willing manpower equally idle and capable of converting these "surpluses" into thousands of gadgets the consumer badly needs. Perhaps by the time this appears in print, the WPB will have issued an order raising some of the restrictions on this vital product. But all this takes time. Meetings have been taking place for the past weeks and the WPB is gradually coming around to the Smaller War Plants corporation's views and the insistent hammer on their doors by conscientious congressmen.

As to the aluminum situation, as this is written, the present order is yet to be clarified. Steps are being taken to provide field engineers with information necessary for plants which have never worked with aluminum to learn how. Not many plants are familiar with this work and that is why we can't expect many pots and pans right away. And, of course, any and every plant which does start civilian production of any kind must first run a "gauntlet" as the saying goes at headquarters. The "gauntlet" is a series of tests to establish unequivocally that such a use of a plant's facilities and manpower will in no way interfere with the war production.

Let us look at the question of these "idle and excess inventories" of steel surpluses and see what the argument for their availability for civilian manufacture is. I am told that there are some 2 1/2 million tons of such inventories. That means that there is that much iron and steel being held over and above the possessors' needs for 60 days ahead.

The holders, generally speaking, are the large manufacturers.

Willing to Release Surpluses

And they are willing to let the surpluses go. First, because they know they can get all the prime steel they need from the mills. Second, because most of these inventories are made up of odd lots. Big industries use large lots. They cannot very well start an operation on one small lot and then when it runs out adjust their machinery to another lot of different specifications. The smaller plants are perfectly adapted to do just this. They normally buy in small lots. They are more elastic.

The difficulty in utilizing this material is not only in the acquisition of the steel but in the restrictions against making what you want out of it. This requires a relaxation of rules, too, for the manufacture of many articles is still forbidden, and that is another thing that the Smaller Plants corporation is working on.

Process Will Take Time

It is not a short and easy process but the big thing is that it has started, for small business has reached the stage where its very existence as an institution is threatened.

This is due, first, to a nationwide tendency on the part of the big plants to cancel their subcontracts which covered most of the work of the smaller plants. This was done for two natural reasons and one unnatural and evil one. The first two were: because of termination of some of their own contracts by the government and because of greatly increased efficiency which made it possible to take care of additional work without having to subcontract to smaller concerns.

But the third and evil practice which had grown up was the use of government-paid-for facilities to duplicate work of a type which in peacetime only small plants do. With these new facilities and without the small plant's know-how, the larger factories wasted precious labor and took the little man's bread out of his mouth.

Another reason why the small business man's position has been growing critical is the delay in collecting pay at the termination of the contract. He was left without income and without the funds to carry on. And restrictions made it impossible to earn money, meanwhile, by making civilian goods.

Reasons for Reconversion

On the other hand, as Mr. Maverick's associates and the senators and congressmen who have worked so hard (and, until now, with comparatively little success) point out, there is a whole list of reasons for reconversion to begin here (in the little plant) and now.

They list them in various orders but this seems to be as good as any:

- (1) To preserve small business as an institution;
- (2) To form a pattern by trial and error for reconversion on a grand scale;
- (3) To prevent inflation;
- (4) To provide replacement of vital wornout products;
- (5) To prevent unemployment which is springing up in many localities.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

NAVAL HOSPITALS: Beds in the U. S. naval hospitals are 85 per cent filled, Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, naval surgeon general, stated. Hospitals are capable of caring for 70,000 men, he said. On the West coast, where Pacific area casualties are taken, the hospitals are 95 per cent filled. Some men are being moved to convalescent hospitals near their homes.

HAVEN FOR JEWS: Great Britain has agreed to set up a refuge for Jewish refugees from Nazi-controlled Europe, Undersecretary of State Stettinius revealed. This is the former Italian colonial possession in North Africa. Stettinius continued that large numbers of refugees are arriving in southern Italy daily from Yugoslavia and other Balkan areas.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

More than 6,000 bicycles are going to China by air. They are to be used by the Chinese army in areas where roads or lack of them present barriers to larger vehicles.

Youths between the ages of 16 and 17 1/2 years may enlist, with their parents' consent, for training for service in the U. S. merchant marine.

In every farming business, there is a hazard year somewhere in the future. It might be drought, floods, livestock disease or just low prices. A farmer's financial success is measured by his ability to ride through these hazard years. The wise farmer will insure his next hazard year by investing a substantial portion of his wartime income in war bonds.

Serial story of the boy next door

It's Don's story. But the name could just as well be Walt or Jim or Bob or any other.

• And, of course, the fifth entry in the little address book really hasn't been written yet. But it will be — and we hope to have a hand in making it come true.

• When Don and millions like him went to war, they were given the best weapons and equipment in the world. Equipment turned out fast by machines that were turned by plentiful, low-priced electric power.

• When these boys come home again, electric power will be ready in even greater abundance — to serve new industries and create new opportunities. For power makes production — and production makes jobs.

• The electric light and power companies are prepared for peace as they were for war — thanks to foresight, planning and sound business management.

• They're keeping rates low as costs rise. And they're supplying well over 80% of America's electric service — the best, as well as the most, that any nation enjoys.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, I've had a lot of calls for that book you took out last week... 'Tell the Boys Back Home'. How did you like it?"

"Fine, Sarah, fine... it's just the kind of book I like to get hold of... I enjoyed every word of it. Wish I could have been along with the author myself... actually living with the men right on the fighting fronts. He got mighty close to them and they certainly opened up their minds and their hearts to him."

"There were lots of new things in the book I hadn't seen in any other reports from front-line writers. But there was one question the men asked the author that I have seen time and time again in these stories. That was 'Are you going to put prohibition over on us soldiers again... and without getting our vote?'"

"I noticed that, too, Judge, and I think the least we can do for those fighting men who are doing so much for us is to respect their wishes on that subject."

Manager Loveday was negotiating with a Metropolitan Opera Company, which was singing in Traverse City, for two performances here, "The Mikado" on Monday evening and "The Bohemian Girl" on Tuesday evening, but the company was too large and too expensive to warrant his bringing them here. Mrs. Stockman's subject was "The Kitchen, a Power Plant." Fireless cookers were new at that time and she stressed it as a time and labor saver for the farm woman. She described the process of baking beans in one. After she finished telling how to heat the soapstone discs, bring the beans to the boiling point, then pack in the cooker and lock the lid, Mr. Michael Murphy told her of a better way and described the old-fashioned "bean-hole." Mrs. Stockman listened to the old gentleman with a smile and when he finished she said, "And you had one of the best fireless cookers."

STRIPED BEETLES may appear in a cucumber field as soon as the seedlings break through the soil, and may seriously damage or completely destroy the small plants in a very short time. Therefore, every grower should have a supply of insecticide dust on hand at planting time and make the first application just as soon as the seedlings come up whether the beetles are present or not, and repeat as often as may be necessary. The following mixture is recommended when shaker cans or loose woven bags are used in applying dust, and when plants are dry: 1 lb. Calcium Arsenate, 19lbs. Finely ground Gypsum.

When a dust gun is available, Rotenone dust (1/4 to 1 percent Rotenone) is quite satisfactory for killing beetles provided the dust comes in contact with them. Rotenone is slow acting, requiring 12 to 24 hours to kill insects, and is harmless to all warm-blooded animals.

Weir on Oqueoc River north of Rogers City in Presque Isle county is used to remove sea lampreys moving upstream to spawn. About 200 of these eel-like creatures, 18 to 30 inches long, are destroyed nightly. These saltwater predators moved into the Great Lakes in the early 1920's through the Welland canal, by-passing Niagara Falls. They often destroy fish to which they attach themselves, sucking the blood. Twenty per cent of the lake trout taken at Rogers City have showed scars of lamprey attacks.

Make Your Own Chairs for Lawn

WHY not make a week-end project of putting together a couple of comfortable chairs with the special features shown here? You don't have to have a fancy workshop. The whole job may be done out in the yard or on the porch. Just three stock widths of lumber are needed; all the cuts are straight and the pieces may be nailed or screwed together. But the really important thing about this chair is that it is comfortable to sit in and good to look at. The removable back makes it easy to move around and to store for the winter.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a large sheet with working diagrams, complete list of materials, dimensions and step-by-step directions for cutting and assembling this chair. Ask for Design 269 and enclose 15 cents. Address:

MR. WINKLE GOES TO WAR

By THEODORE PRATT

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Forty-four-year-old Wilbert Winkle, who operates a repair shop in the alley back of his home, is notified by his draft board that he is in I-A. He breaks the bad news to his domineering wife, Amy, who now hates to part with him. Mr. Winkle is sent to Camp Squibb, a thousand miles from home, where he meets Mr. Tinker, a man of his own age who wants to avenge a brother killed at Midway. After graduating from Motor Mechanics school, Mr. Winkle goes home on a furlough. Amy hardly knows him, and his dog, Penelope, barks at him furiously. A short time after returning to camp both Mr. Winkle and Mr. Tinker are en route for a point of embarkation.

CHAPTER X

Between Mr. Tinker and the irreducible fact that they were actually off to one of the various wars going on, Mr. Winkle didn't sleep much that first night. He lay there precariously on the edge of the berth trying to adjust himself to the situation and regretting a little that he had not taken the chance of getting out of the Army when he had the opportunity.

This was, as the saying went, it. This was what he had trained for. He was going to where battles were being fought. He was going to help fight them. The realization struck him so forcibly that he nearly fell out of the berth, especially when Mr. Tinker gave him an extra hard push.

Then, again, he endeavored to look on the bright side of it. He was a hardened soldier, wasn't he?

Well, maybe not hard, but with plenty of preparation.

The additional months as a member of a service company had brought the confidence of experience.

They had brought a Corporal's stripes, and finally those of a full-fledged Sergeant. He and Mr. Tinker er were a team, it having been found that Mr. Tinker was good at the heavier work, while he supplied a little more skill at figuring it out.

The day they didn't stop, but kept right on marching up the gangplank and on to the ship, he felt betrayed, cheated and fooled.

He couldn't overlook the drama of it, either. Here they were, several hundred men in a special train, rushing to an unknown destination to save the nation. He knew that crack streamliners were sidetracked for them. Everything made way for them. Even if you were hurrying to risk your life, that gave you a sense of importance.

He fell asleep on this thought, dreaming that he was sinking in wide waters and that he grasped at a tiny straw to save himself.

Mr. Winkle expected to be marched right on a ship as soon as they reached their embarkation port two days later. But there seemed to be no such hurry as that which had brought them here.

They were given physical examinations, their equipment was inspected, and orders were issued to keep their canteens filled to the mouth.

Thus readied, they were assembled one morning and marched out through an entrance in the brick wall. They made their way along a road at the side of the harbor, in which many ships, all painted in indifferent gray, were moored. Mr. Winkle had never seen a real ship before, and was impressed with their size. He wondered which would be theirs.

They were called to a halt beside the high wall of one of the larger vessels.

Orders were shouted. To his amazement and relief, they started marching back again to the staging area. This had been merely practice.

The man next to him said, "That was a close one." Each day after that they went through the same process. The third time it was repeated there were complaints.

Even Mr. Winkle asked these questions and came not to believe in any of the marches to the ship. He took it for granted that each time he arrayed himself in his full equipment and sweated to the pier that he would turn right around again and come back.

The day they didn't stop, but kept right on marching, up the gangplank and on to the ship, he felt betrayed, cheated and fooled.

To Mr. Tinker at his side he observed, "Well, I guess we've burned our gangplanks behind us."

Mr. Tinker stared at him, scowling to get his meaning. Though he didn't know the true quotation, he appeared to find something wrong with Mr. Winkle's version, or at least with the way he spoke.

"What's the matter, Pop?" he asked. "You seasick already?"

More men poured on to the ship, and still more marched along the pier toward her. Mr. Winkle, Mr. Tinker and ten others were shown below to their private stateroom. Instead of bunks, a large cabin had been stripped of its beds and other luxurious furnishings and canvas hammocks slung in tiers of three from a wooden framework.

Mr. Winkle drew one of the top hammocks, so close to the ceiling that it made him feel like a fly sticking there. They stowed their gear and investigated the quarters. One of the men opened a door and stood, frozen in his tracks.

"Come here," he said in an awed voice, "and see if you see what I'm looking at."

They crowded around him, peering over his shoulders, and saw a gleaming bathroom.

"Holy cow!" another man cried.

"Ain't our suite sweet?" The ship would be totally blacked out at night, which meant no smoking on deck.

No cigarette butt or scrap of paper was to be thrown overboard lest it leave a trail which could be followed.

In case the ship was hit and had to be abandoned, they were to slide down landing nets which would be lowered, and not jump overboard.

If a man fell overboard, the ship could not risk stopping to pick him up.

These instructions caused no evident alarm. Normally, Mr. Winkle should have had an acute attack of imagination, right then and there. But it didn't come, as it hadn't lately in the learning that a great and solicitous mother, the Army, looked after his every interest. All he had to do was to trust it, obey orders, and, most important of all, keep his mouth shut.

The ship sailed that night while some of them were asleep and some of them were still adjusting their bodies to the hammocks. Mr. Winkle, listening, heard the deep throb of the engines. He put his hand against the ceiling and felt a thrumming there. The smell of oil became stronger. A low, sleepy murmuring came from other men. A forward movement became perceptible.

That was all.

No one spoke. If the others had Amys of their own to think about—and he knew a few of them had—they kept their thoughts, as he did, to themselves.

In the morning they were at sea. Their own and dozens of other ships scratched a glassy mirror with continual, untired zigzags. The convoy stretched into the distance as far as the eye could see. At its outer edges they could make out destroyers and other warcraft, which kept up a worried pacing back and forth, in and out, and sometimes around in wide sweeps and circles.

It was heartening to see them and their fellow troopships. Though they knew that death was possible any instant from the sky or from beneath the water, it seemed just as impossible that anything could touch them.

Soldiers were everywhere on the ship, the last inch of space being crowded with them. If they had little privacy before, they had none now. It was barely possible to step anywhere without walking on somebody, or putting your foot into the middle of a crap game.

Somehow they managed to move around, for the most part good-naturedly. Mr. Winkle marveled at what he and other men had been conditioned to stand. He began to have a respect for the extent that man would let himself be abused for the opportunity of traveling a long way to get killed. Despite its inconvenience and tragedy, there was a decided element of joy in war.

The favorite pastime, while standing or sitting on deck, or leaning against the rail, was speculating on where they were going.

"Australia," was proposed, "and I aim to see one of them kangaroos jumping around with her kid in her pocket."

"No, sir," another differed. "If it was Australia, they'd told us. My cousin went out there last year and he knew from the time he left. He ain't seen any kangaroos yet, but he says the people there are hep-cats who cook with gas."

"The Solomons," a third man said. "We took them over, didn't we? We're being sent out to hold them. I had it straight from the top kick—"

"Something tells me," another man interrupted, "we're going to be dropped off in Hawaii. I always wanted to go there, and now is it."

He was hooted down on the basis that no such luck could be theirs.

It was Sergeant Winkle's considered opinion that they were going to New Guinea.

"What they got there, Pop?" he was asked. "What's your book say?" "Cannibals," he told them. He thought his guidebook had said that. "Me," said Mr. Tinker, "I don't care where it is just so there's Japs."

On the fourth day, while sitting on the deck with his back against the rail, Mr. Winkle nearly jumped out of his life belt when there was a loud explosion forward.

He was lurching to his feet and had reached a crouching position before he realized that the gun crews were holding firing practice.

He sank back down again, seeing other men following suit.

The guns kept on chattering, sending up shells to burst high in the air at different levels. From the other ships they could see the same practice going on. It was fascinating to watch, and the noise and smell of burning gunpowder added to their sense of security.

In the midst of the racket Mr. Winkle was startled to hear his name being called.

"Hi, Pop!"

Looking up, he saw Freddie Tindall. In back of him were Jack and several more of the original Springville contingent.

"Hello, Mr. Winkle," Jack greeted him. The boy's eyes twinkled, and he spoke as if they were meeting casually on Maple Avenue.

"This," said Mr. Winkle, struggling to his feet, "is quite a place to have a reunion."

They held it, nevertheless, in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, pumping one another's hands and yelling above the noise of the guns. Freddie cried, "We've got more than this! Hey, Alphabet! Alphabet!"

In a moment the wizened little Sergeant pushed his way down the deck. The first thing he saw was Mr. Winkle's stripes with the "T" below them. Without raising his voice, but still making himself heard, he lectured:

"I been in the Army eighteen years. You been in eight months, and you rate with me. We ain't going to win no war that way. And look what I got in my machine-gun crew. Him," he pointed at Jack, "and him," he indicated Freddie. "All they can do is outshoot any of them guys working them pump-guns up there. Where do you think we're headed for, Pop?"

The convoy stretched into the distance far as you could see.

Mr. Winkle's reply was lost in the blast of the anti-aircraft guns.

"Australia!" Jack yelled.

"New Zealand!" Freddie shouted.

"I told you it was India," the Alphabet said. "I had it straight from an officer as the One-A lowdown..."

Mr. Winkle saw that Sergeant Czeideskrowski had become one of them and, what was more, they had become one with him.

He was warmed by this, and that the others were on the ship with him. It seemed to make it still safer, and the sea smoother and even more peaceful.

Yet still it wasn't quite the thing about war he sensed and for which he continued to search.

There was a stir among the ships of the convoy.

Messages were exchanged by blinker and flags.

Mr. Winkle's ship and five supply vessels began to take erratic courses.

It seemed as if something was going to happen after all, that a submarine had been detected. The men lining the rails, watched and held their breaths.

Maneuvering smoothly, the six ships detached themselves from the main body of the convoy, setting off at an angle to it. At the same time three destroyers rode in the same direction, herding them. Deep-throated whistles said goodbye.

It was clear now that they were going on a mission of their own. Rumor ran like fire through the ship.

They were a special task force.

An urgent call had come for them from some harassed point.

Land was soon to be sighted.

They would see action at any moment.

Raindrop Has Its Ups and Downs Becoming Hailstone

A hailstone is a drop of rain that is carried up and down between currents of warm and cold air which alternately coat it with moisture and then freeze the coat, says Collier's.

Consequently, as these coats, or concentric layers, are visible when the stone is cut in two, the number of times it was carried up and down before falling can be determined.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers. Send your order to:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Back in January, American troops recaptured from the Japs the first invaded rubber-producing land. They took possession of Sador in New Guinea with its 300 acres of rubber trees. All Sador rubber normally goes to Australia.

Informed rubber officials insist that when peace comes, our synthetic rubber plants will be just as vital to the security of the American people as they are during the war period. They say that the amount of post-war synthetic which will be made in this country after the war will depend upon the total world demand for rubber and upon the crude prices established by plantation operators.

SUCCESSES AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 2:6-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal.

God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, His own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule—and none is exempt from its operation.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9).

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua.

They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or "down payment."

God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a full-orbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13).

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting away from God.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But wait—what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

Forgetting God is bad enough in its immediate results, but just ahead there is great and certain disaster.

III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-16).

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it, should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 101:1). He sent judges to deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed 'perhaps the God who delivered Israel' would send deliverance to suffering people still" (Arnold's Commentary).

Well—why not call on Him now, in earnest repentance and faith. Will you do it?

Fruit Preparation and Processing Guide

(See Directions Below)

Canned Fruit

If you want to assure your family of its basic seven fruit requirement, then busy yourself with putting up fruit at home.

Fruits, commercially canned, have carried a high point value and this has made their serving in many families prohibitive. But lucky indeed are those homes in which there are ample stocks of home-canned fruits.

Fruit canning is infinitely more simple than vegetable canning. The reason for that is that fruits are acid and, therefore, can be sterilized more readily.

A hot water bath is ideal for processing the fruit once it is in the jar. If you cannot obtain one, use a regular wash boiler, fitted with a rack to keep the jars a half inch from the bottom. A cover that fits tightly over the canner helps keep the steam in and does not waste fuel.

Steps in Canning.

1. Select fruit in the peak of condition. Your can will yield only what you put into it.
2. Wash fruit or berries carefully, pare and pit according to directions for fruit in the fruit canning chart given in this column.
3. Fruit is pre-cooked for several minutes in certain cases to shrink it, and to give you a better looking pack with a little floating as possible.
4. Use a light or medium type of syrup in which to pre-cook the fruit or cook in its own juice.
5. Pack fruit into hot, sterilized jars and add boiling syrup or fruit juice with which to cover the fruit. Most juice or syrup is added to within one-half inch of the top of the jar.
6. Adjust the cap according to the instructions furnished by the manufacturer. He knows the type of sealing it will need.
7. Process fruit either in the water bath or the pressure cooker according to the time indicated on the canning chart. For a boiling water bath, see that the water boils during the entire processing period.
8. As soon as the jars finish processing, remove them from the can-ner, set on several thicknesses of paper or cloth and allow to cool. All jars should not be inverted, so watch the manufacturers' instructions on this point.

Oven Canning.

This year, I'm not recommending oven canning of fruits because wartime restrictions in equipment have caused many changes to be made in jars and caps, and this method is not safe. Many women had accidents last year and much fruit was spoiled. Play safe, and use the water bath.

Sugar Syrups.

As long as sugar is still rationed, you'll want to use it sparingly so there's enough for peaches as well as for plums and grape jelly in the fall. Wise homemakers are using the thin or medium syrups, as these will mellow and ripen the fruit but still not consume too much of the precious sugar supply.

Thin Sugar Syrup.
 1 cup sugar
 3 1/2 cups water

Bring to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Keep hot but not boiling.

Medium Sugar Syrup.
 2 cups sugar
 4 cups water.

Follow directions above.

Open Kettle Canning.

Women who have canned for years on end, still prefer the old-fashioned, open-kettle method for canning fruits. It gives a luscious product, and if the canner is careful, no spoilage will develop. Care must be taken to wash and sterilize all utensils carefully so that no bacteria will be introduced into the jars to work spoilage later. Unless you are experienced at canning, I do not suggest you try this method, but if you do, here are the directions to observe:

1. Wash and sterilize all equipment. This means jars, rubbers, spoons, spatulas, funnels, in fact, anything that comes in contact with the food.
2. Make sure the food has reached the boiling temperature before filling jars. Fill each jar to the brim as rapidly as possible.
3. Run a spatula down the sides of each jar after filling. Refill with more juice to the rim of the jar.
4. Seal completely, at once.

If you wish additional instruction for canning fruit or berries, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago 6, Illinois. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

For Summer Days

COMFORTABLE play clothes make life just that much pleasanter for the very young! This three-piece set of overalls, sun-suit and matching bolero constitute a whole play wardrobe. Use lightweight blue denim, seersucker, chambray or pique in cheerful colors.

MAKE a pretty and cool-looking afternoon frock for the hottest days in one of the new sheer rayon prints in ice-blues, frosty pinks and lavenders, in lime greens and soft dull yellows. The simplicity of the lines of this frock are a "natural" for soft fabrics.

Pattern No. 8608 is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38, short sleeves, requires 3 1/4 yards of 39-inch material.

Household Hints

Squirt kerosene on nuts and bolts that are to be loosened, once each day for several days, before the machine is to be worked on. They'll come off much easier.

A bit of flour sifted into hot fat will put a stop to spattering in a jiffy.

To help in remodeling dated garments, try grandmother's custom of having a "piece bag." In it put all saved zippers, bits of ribbon and lace, and scraps of fabric.

When your old broom is worn to the hilt, cut the straws evenly across, cover them with an old felt hat or old woolen sock and use it to polish the floors.

To make tassels, cut a cardboard gage length you wish the tassel to be. Wrap floss or yarn over and over the cardboard and tie a thread through the upper end. Cut through lower end and wrap thread around upper end several times to hold tassel together.

Sew a small ring or loop of tape on the wrong side of the hem at the inside corner of the curtain. On the outer edge of the window frame, about half-way up or higher, place a small hook or three-quarter-inch brad. Hook the loop over the brad to tie back curtains when window is open.

To remove face powder from a satin or velvet dress, brush lightly with a woolen cloth.

To tell at a glance which are your good handkerchiefs, iron them into triangles and plain ones into squares.

For cleaning a coffee-stained percolator, put in a cup of salt, fill with water, and let the mixture percolate as for coffee.

Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

Dear Friends:

Some time ago you will recall our writing this statement "Russians fight for their lives while Americans fight for souvenirs." This saying was passed on to us by GEORGE SECORD who in turn had heard it from a woman sailor on a Russian merchant ship. Although we don't hold this statement as the whole truth, yet it might apply in part; however, we certainly do know that the principles, rights, and freedoms, for which you are fighting to preserve are far more important to you than the collecting of souvenirs. Let this statement be as it may, nevertheless East Jordan is proud of its collection of souvenirs and keepsakes which you as representatives of East Jordan servicemen and women have sent and brought home and which now comprise a very nice display in the show window of the Quality Food Market. In East Jordan as well as other towns, window displays composed of servicemen's items of interest are most attractive to the public and so too this display of your contributions has attracted much attention by the local people as well as outsiders. From time to time various items have been sent in by many of you so that now the display window is almost full. Although we would like to associate the contributors name with the article we hesitate to do so for reasons probably best known to the contributor himself. Many different lands are represented by this display, however, indirectly the Japanese have been the largest contributor. Among the Japanese items that are shown are the remnants of the battle flag of the rising sun, rice bag, sniper's suit, ear-muffs which are made of rabbit fur, practically new pair of split-toe athletic shoes, thermometer, identification tags, invasion money, and also a collection of fire arms such as a 25 caliber rifle and cartridges together with the cartridge case and a fuse from a 500 pound bomb. The other battle areas are represented by a native war club from Guadalcanal, an Indian fighting knife and spear-head, two Italian caps and a German belt. The display would not be complete without articles representing our own forces of which some of these are: various types of ammunitions from different millimeter anti-aircraft guns and different caliber rifle shells, K rations, United States hand grenade and a US aviator's lamp. Of course we have not given a complete list of articles, as various items such as coins from the many battle fronts, pictures, jewelry, etc. all help to make up the complete display. Much credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clark in their collection and arrangement of this display. Mr. Clark also informs us that he is sending to each of East Jordan's servicemen and women a personal letter on the reverse side of which is shown several views of the place you all call home. We are sure that part of this letter will give you a better idea of what this display is like.

SERVICE NOTES

We regret that this week we again have a bit of sad news to tell you. As we began writing the news this week we were told of two other servicemen who were wounded in the battle of Normandy. Word has been received by FRANK STREHL's parents that he has been wounded by shrapnel (in the arms and face) in the invasion and was now recovering from his wounds in a hospital in England. Also reported wounded seriously in that sector is ARCHIE GRIFFIN who was serving with the infantry. The other home-town soldier also wounded in France is HARRY PEARSALL who we learn is also recuperating in England. We have had no further word as to the condition of Harry but a new address was reported for him this week. His address now is Pfc. Harry Pearsall, ASN 36,192,648, US Army Plant 4189, APO 526, in care of Postmaster, New York, N. Y. We are sure that letters from fellow servicemen would mean much to Harry while he is recovering from his wounds so suggest that as many as possible write him. Frank, Archie, and Harry have our best wishes for a speedy recovery. . . . One of our servicemen who has recently crossed the great Atlantic is HAROLD GOEBEL who writes in to tell us that he is now in Merry England and likes it fine although since the beginning of the war things haven't been exactly "merry" but the people are quite cheerful in spite of it all. We quote a brief portion of Harold's letter: "The English countryside is very quaint and picturesque far more beautiful than I have anticipated. The architecture is far from modern and all the homes are very much alike, most of which are stucco or stone. We have a wonderful location here staying at a hotel, with beautiful scenery at our disposal which of course I cannot tell you about until after the war. We are more or less isolated in the country but being a country boy at heart I rather enjoy it. The closest town of any size is ten miles away and with transportation critical as it is I haven't been there yet. We do have two small villages nearby however, also a WAAF (Women's Auxiliary Air Force) camp practically next door. All the farmers in the vicinity have WLA (women's land army) girls working for them and they too help to keep us company. The food is excellent and plentiful even though the majority of same comes in powdered or synthetic form." From this excerpt of Harold's letter we gather that he must be faring quite well. He also mentioned that even though he was not in on the big show of June 6th he anticipates that before too long he may take an active part. . . . EUGENE CRANDALL was another that missed crossing the channel for the big event on D-day but was doing his part at a base in England. Eugene writes in that since then he has been very busy caused mainly by the invasion and finds that his duties with the eighth air force are much in demand at present. He also reports a change of APO number from 634 to 558. . . . We are informed by the postal department that the issues of the paper are not reaching DONALD TURNIPSEED because of an insufficient address. If anyone has his correct address would you please submit it to us or the Herald office. . . . Driving truck for the army isn't too bad a job according to CLIFFORD DENNIS but he finds it is a very easy way to work up a sweat especially in his location. Cliff is in the same vicinity as ABE COHN, MAURACE KRAEMER, and MURRAY NELSON but so far has been unable to meet up with them which is probably because it is necessary to cross a short stretch of water to reach them. Even if he doesn't contact them in person he takes this means of saying hello and asks that they keep on the lookout for him. . . We also hear from another of our servicemen who was in the same vicinity as Cliff but who now has moved to a more active part of the Pacific. ROBERT "HARRY" RICHARDS writes in to report a new APO number of 706 and also a change of rank to that of Sgt. He was more fortunate than Cliff in the fact that before he left his old location he was able to visit with Abe Cohn, Maurice Kraemer, and Murray Nelson and enjoyed hashing over the good times they once had at EJHS. He did miss seeing FRED BECHTOLD by a few days but hopes that some day he may be able to contact him also. It wasn't until after his meeting with Abe and the other fellows that he learned that at one time they had all been on the same corridor with him. We were glad to hear that Harry is one who is looking forward to a return to the states within a few months. . . . The only other letter we received this past week from an overseas location came from RONALD HOLLAND who is now in New Guinea. He writes in to tell us that his papers are now beginning to catch up with him little by little, however, the folks at home keep him so well informed as to what is going on that sometimes the news is somewhat old when it reaches him. At the time he wrote the letter he had just received his Easter edition and it made him recall where he had spent Easter Sunday. He tells us that the day was spent aboard ship as he was still enroute to his present location, but did have the privilege of attending chapel services on boat. So far no East Jordan fellows have happened to meet up with Ronald but he no doubt knows by this time that there are several in his vicinity or at least several who have the same APO number as he. . . . A while ago we reported to you that JACK BOWMAN had received the Aid Medal and this week we can tell you that he has been awarded the first bronze oak leaf cluster to the air medal. Some of the aerial assaults that he has participated in as a nose turret gunner are the Ploesti Oil Refineries, Rumania; Bud-Voslau Aircraft Plant, Austria; and the Bucharest Railroad Yards, Rumania. . . . Jack's brother, CLARENCE "STUB", has been spending a furlough at the home of his parents. Stub has been stationed at Camp Cooke, California, with a tank Battalion, his wife and daughter, who have been living in California, near his base, returned with him. . . . Again this week we have added new names to the mailing list. Two new servicemen, JACK CRAIG and WILLIAM GAUNT, JR., are beginning training with Co. F of the 190th Bn. at Camp Blanding, Florida. Another serviceman who is receiving the paper for the first time this week is JOHN KRAEMER who was sent to Camp Wheeler, Georgia, to begin army training. As soon as John arrived at his location he wrote in to tell us his whereabouts and to inquire whether or not others from home might be stationed there. We are sorry that at the present time there is no one else at this camp but if someone should move there we will inform John as to this. Thanks for writing to us so promptly and we are looking forward to more letters from you. . . . There's never a week goes by that some of you do not shift locations and this week we have reports that HELEN NOTARI has moved to the Romulus Air Field in Michigan; BUD SHEPARD to Pecos, Texas, for more flying training; NOLIN DOUGHERTY, who is with the Cavalry, to Fort Riley, Kansas; ALSTON PENFOLD to Anniston, Alabama; WILLIAM J. CLARK to Camp Barkely, Texas; and ORRIN PARKS has transferred from the Muroc Air Base in California, to Camp Haan. GALE BRINTNALL has left Laredo, Texas, and is now at Roswell, New Mexico, where HELEN STREHL is also stationed with the nurses corps. Gale was able to spend a few days at home recently before beginning his advanced bombardier training at his present location. We are told that while at Laredo he met RALPH STALLARD, a former classmate and who he had not seen since graduation from high school. . . . At the present time we are waiting to send the paper to LEON PETERSON who informs us by postal card that he has been moved to Camp Pendleton in Oceanside, California. Leon was expecting to be assigned to a new company and therefore was not sure whether or not we could get the paper to him by using his old address. . . . After fifteen days in the hospital following an operation, LEO BEYER is now back on regular duty. Leo is with a field artillery company and was stationed at Fort Fisher, North Carolina, for a week's training on a 50 caliber machine gun. It was while here that he enjoyed a swell swim in the Atlantic ocean. Leo has returned to his division at Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri, and is now expecting to move to California for advanced training at which time he hopes he will be able to enjoy a swim in the Pacific. . . . A serviceman privileged to spend the fourth of July at home was ROLLAND WOODCOCK who has just been commissioned an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve. We can truthfully say that Rolland was looking tops in his new uniform and seemed happy to be in the home town once again. Rolland was graduated from the USNR Midshipman's School in Columbia University, New York. Graduation exercises were held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, which is the largest gothic cathedral in the world. After the completion of Rolland's leave he was to go to California, but did not know what his exact location would be. . . . A few weeks ago we told you that TOM BREakey and BILL SIMMONS had both been home on furlough at the same time and had spent much of their time at home together. In a letter we received from Tom this week we learn that he had been to Pratt, Kansas, for a week end where he visited with Bill's brother, GERALD, who is stationed there. In order to meet Gerald, Tom had to travel about fifty miles from his location in Great Bend, Kansas, but reports that it was time and effort well spent as they had an enjoyable time. He also mentioned that at the present time he is working on a B-29 but claims the job is too big for a small town boy but we know that with Tom's past experiences overseas that he is well suited for this job. We hear that Gerald had a thirty hour leave in Detroit last week and that his wife went down to see him while he was there. . . . BUD THOMAS is now driving a light truck at the army air field in Harvard, Nebraska. . . . After serving as ROTC instructor at a school in Chicago since his entrance into the service, GAYLE SEXTON has now moved to Fort Sheridan, where he will be stationed with the Jr. ROTC Training School. Gayle writes that for new inductees that will pass through Ft. Sheridan, and who will find time to look him up, he can be found at this training school which is near the post headquarters. . . . Guarding German prisoners at Ft. Devens, Massachusetts, is the job of PHILLIP FISHER. Phillip reports that his duty is to help guard the prisoners while they are away at work and finds them to be good workers and their knowledge of the English language to be good. The German prisoners do all the cooking at this camp and also help entertain the American soldiers with their orchestra. Much of Phillip's spare time is spent with CHARLES CHADDOCK who happens to be in the same barracks with him. . . . Last week WILLIAM VRONDRAN was home on a fifteen day furlough from Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky, where he has been stationed for some time. . . . At one time we reported that ARTHUR SEYMOUR had gone across but we now stand corrected as an address has reached us that indicates he is still at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, with an Infantry battalion. We recall that we took this overseas address from a postal card from the postoffice department. We are correcting this address now and hope that Art may not get the impression that we stopped sending him the paper intentionally. . . . ROBERT TROJANEK has now received his overseas address. He remains with the same hospital unit that he trained with at camps in Illinois. His brother GLENN has also left the states but no word as to his destination has been received by us so far. . . . STANLEY HALE dropped around rather unexpectedly this past week and also spent the Fourth here. Stan says that he is now a Tank Lighter Engineer and finds his work quite interesting especially the work with diesel engines. A few weeks ago Stan was pleasantly surprised when he bumped into BASIL MORGAN at the servicemen's canteen, you can imagine the time together was well spent. Something must have certainly gone wrong with our address which we had recorded for Stan as he says that only two papers have found him since his induction. Should any of the rest of you have the same difficulties, don't fail to let us know. He expects to report back to Albany to await further assignments. . . . Besides those already mentioned, the other servicemen who enjoyed the Fourth at home were MARLIN INGALLS and WILBUR CRAFT. From a brief talk with Marlin we learned a little more about his experiences while singing with the bluejacket choir at Great Lakes and how he enjoyed it. We hope his future assignment will permit him to continue with this enjoyable pastime.

Again this week we have tried to give you an account of your fellow servicemen and women as taken from your letters and cards along with reports received from home folk concerning you. May you continue to keep us as well informed as you have in the past.

Your friends of the East Jordan Community Service Club,
by Henry Drenth.

PIPE PUSHER AVOIDS TRENCHING

Sometimes it is difficult to get water pipes from basements to well pits when pipes must be placed under unexcavated porches, tree roots, or roadways. An auto jack, a block to grip the pipe, a plug with 3/16 inch hole drilled attached with coupling and a water source under pressure will enable the operator to save time, trouble, and much hard work. If the distance is more than 25 feet, it is desirable to dig an inspection hole at about the half way mark. This one-inch pipe was pushed a distance of 58 feet from a basement to a pit for connection to another pipe. — W. H. SHELDON, Assistant Professor in Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State College.
