Our Canning Co. Finishes Pack

CLOSES LARGEST PACK IN ITS HISTORY ON ARMISTICE DAY

The East Jordan Canning Company finished the largest pack in its history Saturday, Nov. 11. Starting in May with asparagus, continuing in July with cherries, which was the largest pack ever taken care of; then the bean pack, which was a little below expectations due to weather conditions, and ending with the beet and carrot pack.

The vast quantity and quality of the products packed portrays the interest and perseverance of all concerned from the time of planting until the final packing.

At the peak of the season some 300 men and women were employed. Saturday noon a delicious turkey dinner was enjoyed by about 125 employees. After the dinner, with Merle Crowell acting as master of ceremonies, a short program was rendered. A few remarks were given by Howard Porter. A clarinet trio — Donna Jean Holland, Maida Kemp, and Charles Colein, played "I've Heard that Song Before" and "Ma".

Mrs. Jess Robinson also favored the group with two readings. After which small gifts were presented Alex Sinclair and Gilbert Sturgell, who responded briefly. A plant was presented Mrs. Mike Gunderson for her mother, Mrs. Ingeborg Martinson who will celebrate her 99th birthday anniversary Dec. 10th.

After an enjoyable time, all departed for home, another season finished.

MARRIAGES

Smith — Inman

Mr. Joseph Smith, formerly of Boyne City announces the marriage of his daughter, Arlene to Staff Sgt. Chas. W. (Bill) Inman son of Mr. and Mrs. William Inman of Horton Bay. The wedding was solemnized in Detroit November 4 by the Rev. J. B. Harris, pastor of the Free Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride graduated from Boyne City High School in the class of '41. The groom graduated from the East Jordan high school in the class of '39 and has been in the Army for the past five years serving in the South Pacific for thirty-three months. Best wishes are extended to the young couple. They will be with Mr. and Mrs. Will Inman of Horton Bay until Bill is scheduled to report for duty at Santa Ana, California Nov. 29, and Arlene returns to her position in Detroit.

Smith — Saxton

Rea Rae Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of Midland, and Sgt. Gayle Bradley Saxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Saxton of East Jordan, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 21, in the presence of the immediate families.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Howard A. Webster before the living room windows which were banked with palms, giant mums and lighted candelabra on either side.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Webster, who played Handel's "Largo" and "Lohengrin".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in white wool made with tailored lines with black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Miss Smith wore soft gray wool jersey with brown accessories and a contrasting orchid of pink.

Margot Hooker, niece of the bride, who was dressed in blue linen and wore a tiny corsage of baby mums, carried the rings on a satin pillow.

Sgt. Robert Fles, a co-instructor at Chicago, served as best man.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Smith selected a gown of navy trimmed in shocking pink with black accessories, while Mrs. Saxton, mother of the groom, wore black, a lace top accenting its smartness. Each wore a corsage of gardenias.

Following the wedding, tea was served in the dining room with the bride cutting and serving the tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Saxton assisted in the serving. Baby mums and white tapers were used on the tea table.

Sgt. Saxton and bride left immediately for Chicago where the latter is a ROTC instructor at Austin High School.

Among those present for the wedding were Mrs. Harry Saxton of East Jordan and the bride's brother, Dr. William D. Smith and son Billy of Ann Arbor.

The groom is a graduate of the East Jordan High School and was one of its outstanding athletes.

Men succeed because they appreciate the fact that there is more to consider than the turning out of their daily bit.

BOWLING

Last Thursdays Petoskey - East Jordan match was highlighted by some of the finest competitive bowling of this or any season. Greg Boswell's inspired performance, 230 - 227 - 204, spark-plugged the local boys to a 317 pin lead over the visitors. Leo Mullhagen topped his Petoskey team-mates with his series of 193 - 181 - 197 but received little support with their ace players in a slump that they couldn't break. Sailor Leo Kowalski, partner in the Petoskey Recreation, home on a 7-day furlough after a year and a half in the Pacific, played the number 2 position on the visitors lineup. You'll find the match statistics below:

Petoskey	1st	2nd	3rd	Total
Dunham	138	155	133	426
Kowalski	163	165	150	478

For several weeks now the one and only MaGee Clark has been in a slump mainly consisting of splits — and more splits. And so he began experimenting with a new delivery, one that really seems to work because Sunday night he tumbled the timber for 255 pins! The game opened with a spare in the first frame followed by seven successive strikes and finished without a miss. All we can think of is WOW!

With all the regular pinboys attending the Halloween party last Tuesday night things looked kinda slow around the Recreation, until volunteers Ed Portz, Howard Porter, Clem Kenny and Howard Darbee took off their coats and pitched in — doing a genuinely professional job and finishing the League right on schedule.

Irene Isaman turned in a handsome 198 for last week's high in the Ladies division while Greg Boswell's 230 defied all competition from the men.

This week Don Clark's 255 and Polly Sinclairs 180 are the features on the board.

All Merchant League games for this week have been played early so that a goodly portion of the boys could get an early start for the hunting camps . . . and we'd like to remind them that handicaps don't count on the runways!

Things have been happening in the Merchant's League — but fast! The Standards have dropped five out of six and relinquished first place to St. Josephs. Squint's Barbarians climbed out of the cellar last week and looked around . . . apparently they couldn't stand the stratosphere because this week they're back in the hole. Just how the "Barbers" have acquired the new name "Barbarians" we wouldn't know but that's what the League sheet calls 'em!

Joe Wilkins and Al Kerchener are familiar sights long absent from the local lanes . . . both home-town visitors for short time vacations. Grand to see the boys haven't lost their touch . . . and we hope and pray that before too long all the rest of our boys and girls will be home for good.

Pioneer Resident Called Beyond

CLARA A. LISKUM BORN HERE AND LIVED HERE FOR SEVENTY-THREE YEARS

Clara Adella Liskum, a life-time resident of East Jordan and vicinity, passed away at her home on Bowen's addition, Tuesday, Nov. 7, after an illness of five weeks, cause of death being sclerosis of the liver.

Clara Isaman was born in South Arm Township, August 31, 1871. On December 23, 1887, she was united in marriage to Nathan Liskum, who preceded her in death August 16, 1927.

Her entire life was spent on a farm in South Arm Township until a few years ago when she purchased a home on Bowen's addition where she has since resided.

She was active in Red Cross work, a faithful member of Jassamine Rebekah Lodge, and a member of South Arm Grange.

Seven children survive her — Azlia Wenderling, Chicago, Ill.; Eunice Liskum, Pontiac; Nathalie Crawford, East Jordan; Hildred Gaubatz, Detroit; Sgt. Floyd Liskum, U. S. Army, now in France; Harold Rv. Liskum, East Jordan; Reuben Liskum, Imlay City.

A sister, Mrs. Florence Winegardner, East Jordan. Two brothers: Lewis Isaman, Muskegon; Lorence Isaman, Bellaire. Eleven grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held from the Watson Funeral Home with the Rev. C. W. Sidebotham officiating. Burial in Sunset Hill. The bearers were Basil Crawford, Russell Crawford, Versal Crawford, Harold Liskum, Gardelle Nice and Percy Bennett. Services were held at the cemetery by Jassamine Rebekah Lodge which attended in a body.

Those from away to attend funeral services were: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Isaman, Muskegon; Mr. and Mrs. Lorence Isaman, Bellaire; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Isaman, Sr., Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Liskum, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Julius Albus, Mrs. Marshall Shepard, Mrs. Emma Shepard, Russell Gaubatz and son, Detroit; Gerald Nice, Climax, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Basil Crawford and family, Hazel Park; Harold Liskum, Pontiac; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Nowland and Sam Nowland, Boyne City.

Another Old-Time Business Place Changes Owners

John B. LaLonde has sold his tavern and tobacco store to Irvin Turnipseed of Mancelona. The deal has been under way for some time — being delayed by transfer of the liquor license.

Mr. Turnipseed took over the store and building last Sunday. At present the new owner and family are staying at his brother-in-law's — Raymond Swafford — home until the living room suite on the second floor of the building can be placed in readiness.

Throughout the forty-odd years of serving the public, Mr. LaLonde, assisted by Mrs. LaLonde, have seldom been missed from their place of business. And, if they were missed, it has been a safe bet they were sitting in on a Tiger baseball game.

A lot of us old timers who visited the store regularly will miss their friendly greeting, but, after the many years of labor, it is a well-earned rest.

Victory Farm Volunteer Program Completed With Potato Harvest

Approximately 25 percent of the county potato crop has been harvested by the Victory Farm Volunteers after school started this fall. The final report shows that 168 students from the Boyne City High School were responsible for 22,536 bushels, 79 from Charlevoix picked up 14,456 bushels, 47 from Boyne Falls harvested nearly 7,000 bushels while 37 from East Jordan assisted with 4,753 bushels.

Farmers greatly appreciate the lift when they are so badly handicapped by lack of labor. The V. F. V. program has cooperated mainly in the harvest of cherries, string beans, cucumbers and potatoes. Without their help, this program could not have been accomplished, and a large quantity of important food supplies would have been lost. All of the schools throughout the county gave their utmost in time and attention. Over 1,000 awards and insignia have been sent out to the Victory Farm Volunteers.

The Biggest Battles Are Ahead

EAST JORDAN IS GIRDING ITSELF FOR SIXTH WAR LOAN

This coming Monday, November 20th, East Jordan and Charlevoix County will take their places side by side with all the Nation's Home Front Fighters in an all-out attack on the common enemy. It is being called the Sixth War Loan Drive. It is the most important of all the home front "attacks" to date. It will require more effort and more sacrifice from each of us than ever before. East Jordan, pledged in the blood of eleven of her sons, will again lead the assault and plant the colors of Freedom on the hill of Victory!

The opening gun of our local campaign will be a grand Bond Drive Program next Tuesday evening at the High School Auditorium. The boys and girls are set for some real entertainment and with the Band out in force are promising a bang-up affair. The time is 8 p. m., the admission is free . . . and Bonds and Stamps will be on sale before, during intermission, and after the program. Last year these kids set up a hard-to-beat precedent but they are determined to surpass it this year. Your attendance will be their encouragement so let's all show them what East Jordan thinks of their efforts!

There are those scattered individuals who have not felt the full impact of this war and are inclined to "let-up" a little because of the recent successes of our fighting men. . . . thank God they are but a few! Between now and Victory there will be a thousand times the action, many times the casualties for our battles are just now reaching the crucial stages. The tremendous job that lies ahead in the Pacific is just starting. Our battles in Europe have not yet reached their dramatic climax. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower cabled the following message to us last Monday:

"Your assistance is needed and the most important job now for the people at home is to make the Sixth War Loan a success. To make sure of final victory we must redouble and sustain our efforts, both here and everywhere. The money must be raised and our men on all the fronts depend on you. Contact your local war finance committee and join the home front army as a volunteer war bond worker. On behalf of your sons, brothers, husbands and friends in this great war theatre I request that you do your part to see that the sixth war loan is vastly oversubscribed.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme commander of allied expeditionary forces."

Our answer to Gen. Eisenhower is that East Jordan is ready and waiting. Our organization will be completed and functioning early next week. Again, pulling together, we will "go over the top." The resolute purpose of every man, woman and child in our community will attest to that!

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to express my appreciation to the Ladies of the East Jordan Canning Factory for the beautiful plant sent me.

EUROPE:

Budapest Imperilled

Once, like Paris, a center of European gaiety with colorful sidewalk cafes enlivened by gypsy music, Budapest became a fevered and somber city as Russian armies hammered toward the Hungarian capital.

Having broken across the Tisza river, some 50 miles to the east, the Reds bore down on Budapest as German and Hungarian armies were hard pressed to hold broad lines across the country's rolling plains, gateway to Austria.

Even as the Russians rolled forward, thousands of Budapest's civilians were put to work in the erection of entrenchments and fortifications, and the Germans vowed that they would make this city, once one of Europe's prettiest, into another Warsaw, a battleground.

'Sacred Soil'

As the Germans and Hungarians dug in for a stand about Budapest, the Nazis fought fiercely on the East Prussian front to slow up the Russians' advance across the "sacred soil" of this historic home of the Junkers.

As the Germans braced in East Prussia along prepared lines some 20 miles inside the border, the Russians, following their traditional military policy, shifted the weight

To prevent enemy agents from obtaining vital military information through contact with U. S. troops, the army is rigidly enforcing stiff regulations against doughboys mixing with German citizens.

Troops may not make any social calls at German homes. They may not contact German girls. Because of service by German bartenders, they may not even buy beer outside of mess bars.

Talking with German people is an "unnecessary contact," the army has ruled, bringing fines of from $25 to $65.

of their attacks northward toward a narrow belt of Baltic seacoast at Latvia, where some 100,000 Nazis were reported cut off from the remainder of the enemy line in the east.

Slicing into German positions in this sector with overwhelming numbers of troops, the Russians threatened to chew the entrapped Nazi armies to shreds before they could be successfully evacuated by sea.

Gain Port

Formerly forced to truck supplies overland 400 miles from Cherbourg, or from temporary beach harbors along the channel coast, the Allies materially improved their communication lines by gaining full control of the great Belgian port of Antwerp.

Control was gained when Canadian and British troops cleared the Germans from both sides of the Schelde river leading inland to the port. As the Allied attack developed, the Nazis pulled out the major bulk of their 40,000 troops to prevent being encircled from the rear.

As the Allies moved to improve communications, the U. S. First Army resumed its offensive about Aachen, driving through the once picturesque, now splintered, fir, pine and silver birch Hurtgen forest on the road to the vital industrial Rhineland.

Shoes Will Be Brighter Next Spring

Although civilian shoe production will not return to normal till after the war, retailers will feature brighter lines next spring, surveys of the national shoe fair in Chicago revealed.

There will be an airier style, too, with women's shoes open at the toes and heels, and "casuals" for comfort wear, coming in line with prewar trends.

PACIFIC:

Enemy Girds

Still determined to hold on to the Philippines despite the concentration of U. S. strength behind the forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the Japanese poured in air reinforcements for the showdown battle that will develop when the Americans move onto the larger islands.

Even as the Japs sought to bolster their defenses, first severely shaken by the U. S. navy's major triumph in the second sea battle of the Philippines, General MacArthur's ground forces on Leyte pushed the enemy back to the mountainous western portion of the island.

Because of the terrain, difficulty was encountered in the speedy erection of air fields on Leyte, but, as construction progressed, increasing numbers of fighter planes took off from the new bases to join carrier-borne aircraft in attacking shipping seeking to reinforce the entrapped enemy troops on the island.

With her back being pressed closer and closer to the wall, Japan's Premier Koiso called for greater war production, declaring that many troops had died for lack of munitions. Almost as Koiso spoke, the enemy reported B-29s reconnoitering over Tokyo.

CATTLE:

Record Marketing

With more than 40 per cent of federally inspected beef, veal, pork and lamb going to the government, supplies of better grades of meat remained in scarcity last month despite record-breaking marketing of cattle.

Shipments of cattle were 37 per cent greater than for the 10-year average for October, and receipts of calves were 71 per cent greater. Although showing substantial increases over September, marketings of hogs and sheep were lower than in October of 1943.

Due to the heavy slaughter of cattle and calves, production of beef, veal, lamb and pork amounted to about 1 1/2 billion pounds for October, 29 per cent greater than the 10-year average for October.

Hog Prices

After an unsettled market had lopped 75 million dollars off of the value of the nation's hog crop, higher bids by packers stemmed the downward spiral of prices.

The packers' action followed War Food administration hints that the government would cut subsidy payments, amounting to $1.30 per hundredweight, if average prices for good and choice hogs and barrows were allowed to drop below a $13.50 per hundredweight average. Lower grade hogs, however, would not be included.

As marketings increased during the first week of November, packers became more choosy in the purchase of hogs, declaring that during the periods of lower receipts they were compelled to pay ceiling prices for many shipments just to keep their plants busy.

Robot Gives World Taste Of the War of Tomorrow

Destructive Power of New Weapon May Be Turned Against Both Armies and Civilians in Future Conflicts.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

By the time this reaches print, the true story of the robot and the whole story, including the last chapter, may be revealed. Perhaps it will be withheld until Germany is on her knees and the heavy censorship which has descended over the last, desperate blows of the cornered animal can be lifted.

The part of the story which is now being revealed is that of a menace which dropped to a low in August of this year, when only 4 out of 101 bombs aimed at London reached their destination, began to rise again after that until, at this writing, V-1s are falling on the British capital and vicinity three times a week.

What is more, only the V-1s are being mentioned. Although the V-2, a rocket much larger than the V-1, was described for a while, and a more mysterious V-3 was mentioned some time ago, today no word is spoken of either. What is mentioned is that war damages are being repaired in London by some 132,000 laborers. This total is 40 per cent of Britain's total building personnel. Only 40,000 men were employed for this work in 1941 during the battle of Britain.

The attacks now going on, like all of those since the Allies took over the invasion coasts and captured the launching sites, are made by robots launched from the backs of planes piloted by live pilots. It is generally admitted that they will keep right on coming as long as Germany is in the war. The robot war isn't over. Londoners are still moving nightly in the shadow of death.

The British Information Service has released a film which tells the story of what happened when the V-1s were coming over from the launching platforms. It is a terrible human document. As one woman correspondent who has just come back from the front remarked: "That is worse than anything in France."

Broke Full Force Of Attacks

A man who knows robots pretty well from first-hand contact told me "If the flying bombs (V-1s) had been launched as the Germans planned to launch them, in the quantities in which they were then able to produce them, and from the launching platforms already installed, they would have been sent against London at the rate of a thousand a night, every night."

That, of course, would have meant the annihilation of any city.

Briefly, the developments which broke the German plan were these: In April of 1943, British secret agents sent in vague reports of German plans for some type of long-range bombardment.

Intelligence service discovered a new weapon being developed on the Baltic coast; the RAF made photographs.

Many pictures were taken and finally a large factory was discovered at Peenemuende, an island in the Baltic, with a miniature airplane-shaped thing on the ramp. Scientists deduced that the weapon was a pilotless, jet-propelled plane.

Peenemuende and other manufacturing sites were destroyed. By winter, 100 ramps were discovered similar to the one at Peenemuende all along the French coast. They were bombed, repaired, re-bombed. By the following summer new ones had been completed.

Secret service pieced together a description of the bomb. Defenses (barrage balloons, etc.) were prepared.

The first robot attack began at the time of our invasion of Normandy. In the first month only 40 per cent of the bombs were brought down by defense.

The defenses were changed; the defense belt was moved to the coast so the gunners could get an uninterrupted view of the oncoming robots. By July, 74 per cent of the robots were being brought down. The RAF with speedier fighters helped to get many.

The situation improved until August.

All this is highly condensed and only suggests the tremendous work involved as well as the loss of 450 British and American aircraft including many heavy and medium bombers, involving approximately 2,900 pilots and aircrews.

That is past history. The future, as I say, is shrouded in mystery. As for the present, the method of carrying the robots on the backs of live-piloted planes makes it possible for the enemy to approach their targets from any direction. So the attempt is made to stop the thing at its source and so-called "intruder" planes try to linger over the German airdromes where it is known the pick-a-backs take off and destroy them as they rise. Some are destroyed there. For the rest, it is an endless patrol of the North sea and the Heligoland Bight, searching the whole heavens for the planes themselves or trying to spot the robots after they are launched and dive-bomb them down or pick them off with ack-ack, or hope they will entangle themselves with the wires from the captive balloons.

The robot has not yet said its last word.

Hits 'Inconsistent' Diplomacy of U. S.

Before we can get any sort of international organization working, we, the United States of America, must have the confidence of the other nations of the world.

We, "US," have a pretty good reputation, a "reservoir of goodwill," as Wendell Willkie called it. But we have also a few blots on our escutcheon. And it might be well for all of us to read a book which, although I cannot agree with all its conclusions, fascinates me.

It is called "Our Jungle Diplomacy," and was written by a former member of the American foreign service, William Franklin Sands, in collaboration with Joseph M. Lallely. It made me think.

Mr. Sands' thesis is that our diplomacy has been operating "in a jungle of our own creation" and he cites in detail certain specific examples to show where he believes our diplomacy has led. His findings are startling: Japan's annexation of Korea, he says, follows the pattern laid down by the United States in regard to Hawaii. Pearl Harbor, he boldly traces back to Panama!

Mr. Sands has some rather jolting ideas on power politics. He says that although the United States has no consistent foreign policy, we have, nevertheless, indulged in power politics. But, he hastens to add, power politics is not per se, unwise or immoral. (It depends on the power.)

But whatever has been the long-range effect of our diplomatic conduct in South America, Sands believes that "the chief fruit of our jungle diplomacy is the disastrous war in which we are now engaged."

I would not go so far as to say that a less jocular diplomacy on our part alone could, under existing world conditions, have preserved the peace in the face of a confirmed aggressor, but I must admit that our statesmanship has not acted as much of a pacifier so far.

Sands quotes the famous saying of the great military authority, von Clausewitz, to the effect that "war is the continuation of a nation's policy by forcible means," and then he says that since we had no policy to extend, the war in the Pacific is an extension of Japanese policy. Sands says (and makes a very convincing argument) that that point was clear when the Japs took Korea 40 years ago.

And then he comes to this striking conclusion: "Two courses were open to us . . . we might have prepared to challenge the rising power of Japan . . ." or we might have adopted a policy "of gradual retreat in the Pacific and of genuine conciliation in the Americas, which might have enabled us to avoid the clash of power politics in the Far East, might have made our intentions plain, and might have made our moral position less equivocal in Latin and Asiatic eyes."

Read "Our Jungle Diplomacy" as an astringent to inflated national egotism, if for no other reason. It is a refreshing mental menthol.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

CHRISTIANITY AND DEMOCRACY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-17; Romans 13:8-10; I Peter 2:13-17. GOLDEN TEXT—Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.—Galatians 6:2.

No form of government can claim divine authority, for God's Word does not prescribe any special form of government. But (and this is most important) the principles upon which government should be established are clearly given in God's Word, and the form of rule which best fits into the teaching of the Word necessarily calls for our interest and support.

We find in the Bible the declaration that men are equal in the sight of God, that government is to be a ministry for God (see last week's lesson), receiving its authority from Him and serving Him in exercising that power. Men are to be loyal to the government because they are loyal to God.

Our lesson carries forward the teaching of last Sunday. It tells us that:

The Christian Citizen Is—

I. Subject to Both God and Country (Mark 12:13-17).

His devotion to God and the things of God is to be expected of the Christian. We almost said that it is taken for granted, and sometimes that is so true there is no reality in his life. But surely if he is a follower of Christ he must be devoted to Him and to His cause.

But what about his country? That relation appears anew in the striking story of Christ and those who came to test Him, yes, to trap Him with a skillfully worded question.

The Pharisees, who hated Rome for its domination of Palestine, and the Herodians, who supported Rome in its control of the land, were enemies, but they joined forces to tempt Christ. They knew that if He said "Yes" to their question, the Jews would be angry, and if He said "No," He could be condemned as a traitor to Rome.

The trap was set, but it caught only the crafty hunters. Taking their own pocket money He declared that if they used Caesar's money they ought to pay taxes to Caesar. The coin stood for an orderly government, benefits of which they enjoyed and which they ought to support.

No real Christian will evade his duty to his country whether it be to pay taxes, to take part intelligently in its government, to defend it, to pray for it, or otherwise to show his love. One of the blots on the Christian church is the lack of civic righteousness on the part of many of its members.

II. Devoted to Both Brother and Neighbor (Rom. 13:8-10).

The Christian loves his brethren; indeed that love is one of the tests by which we may know that a man is truly born again (I John 3:14).

But that love reaches out beyond the circle of the brethren and touches every man who has need of it. The teachers of the Jewish law had sought to circumscribe that word "neighbor," but the Lord effectively dealt with that viewpoint in the story of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10).

All the commandments concerning the vital matter of personal relationship are summed up in the one admonition, "Love thy neighbor as thyself" (v. 9). When love controls, there will be no social dishonesty, strife or ill-will. There will be no violence to the person or property of another, for "love worketh no ill to his neighbor."

This is the real "good neighbor policy." Even between nations, we need more real love and less effort to impress one another by diplomacy and good will expeditions. Let there be less political manipulation and more loving, and we shall find our neighbor, both personal and national, responding in kind. Love draws out love from another.

III. Submissive to Both the Law of God and Man (I Pet. 2:13-17).

"Fear God" (v. 17); that is, be eager that there is no failure on your part to please Him by obeying His law. But we expect more; he is to be a law-abiding citizen, obeying the laws of his country "for the Lord's sake" (v. 13).

The believer may, by his godly faithfulness to his government, effectively witness against the ignorant criticism of foolish men who would have us think that being a Christian makes a man a weakling, or so other-worldly that he is useless in this world.

Our freedom in Christ is not an excuse for careless or wicked living. Not at all—just the opposite in fact. We "honor all men." How can that be done? Only by the grace of God; but by His blessing we can do it. That makes for the real appreciation of man, which is the very foundation of our democracy. If it means anything, it must have as its foundation principle the supreme value of human life and the dignity of the soul of man.

Barnacles on Ships

In war or peace, the tiny barnacles always are enemies to ships. Layers of them, weighing as much as 30 tons, may attach themselves to a 10,000-ton vessel and reduce its speed by 25 per cent. They also cause such vibration that certain instruments become useless. A new product keeps the antifouling paints loose from the body of ships so the animals cannot fasten themselves to the metal.

SNAPPY FACTS

ABOUT RUBBER

Many rubber items in common use are shaped at the factories in giant extruding machines, which in general appearance and action are much like the ordinary kitchen meat grinder. Rubber, mixed with chemicals, is extruded in any shape desired—round, square, rectangular or tubular.

The critical operating temperature in a tire is about 240 degrees at its hottest point, and is reached quicker in a synthetic rubber tire than in one made of natural rubber. Speed, load and inflation are chief factors in developing tire heat, which accounts for tire users being cautioned about respecting them.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Reveille on the Jordan

Just a little message to the boys in the service from the folks back home. Sponsored by the East Jordan Community Service Club.

Friends:

As we promised in last week's column we will try to give you some additional information regarding the plans underway for the establishment of a County Council of Veterans Affairs, a sub-division of the state office of Veterans Affairs.

Having just returned from the meeting which was held at the local American Legion hall, we will go on and try to give you the plans as outlined tonight (November 10th). Due to the fact that there was a slight misunderstanding in the tri-city set-up, the meeting was not carried on quite as scheduled as Charlevoix had not elected their representative committee of five as had East Jordan and Boyne City. In spite of this fact, the representative group did elect a temporary chairman and secretary to take charge until the permanent executive committee could be elected from the full representative tri-city committee.

At the meeting tonight the temporary chairman, Al Sarasin, of Boyne City, explained more regarding the duties and responsibilities of this council as they were outlined in the by-laws of the City of Ann Arbor's council. In order to get a similar plan under motion in this county, a temporary by-laws committee was appointed to establish a similar constitution which would best fit the needs of this county. This constitution is to be introduced to the fifteen representatives at the next meeting which will be held on November 30th at the Charlevoix Legion Hall. In the meantime, Charlevoix is to select their representative group of five. At this meeting, too, the representatives will appoint out of this group a permanent executive committee and also select a full time county councilor.

As soon as we can get some further information on this we will be sure and pass it on to you.

SERVICE NOTES

Today is Armistice Day. This date, November 11th, has been an important one in our history; it is a date we remembered as a day when peace was restored after many months of war with the axis. Today we see clearly that we did not gain a lasting peace with this aggressor but rather offered only a lull in battle. Many of you have fathers who fought in World War I, they sacrificed as you are doing now to gain this peace, which you are now fighting so bravely to restore and preserve. Now they are giving you, their sons and daughters to win another Armistice, an armistice which we hope and pray is not far away. Until that time the most we can do for you is to let you know that we at home are remembering everyone of you, wherever you may be, and so by this column we in our small way are also helping to win your confidence and spur you on to win the Armistice.

This week brought us letters from many of you from your scattered locations, the letter coming from the farthest location being from BUD HITE, now stationed at an air base in China. Eight miles does not seem very far but it can be a long way when transportation is not obtainable, this is a handicap that Bud faces as he tries to reach the field where ROSS NICHOLS is stationed and which is located just eight miles from Bud's base. This transportation problem is so great because of the fact that all gas must be flown in to China and therefore is used only when necessary, however, Bud has hopes that somehow he may be able to contact Ross, in that he may be able to make a landing there if an opportunity arises. As for his new location, Bud likes it much better than India because the climate is so much more agreeable but tells us that he may be leaving that spot around the first of the year and head this way for home as he will have his missions completed at that time. We will be looking for you, Bud. . . . The first of our servicemen to arrive home after completing the required number of flying missions is JACK BOWMAN. Jack called his parents from Newport last night to inform them he was back in the states and that he soon would be seeing them. Jack has been awarded several oak leaf clusters for participation in aerial action against the enemy in the vicinity of the Ploesti Oil Refineries and Romania. We are looking forward to an interesting chat with this serviceman. . . . A short note also came from that "old faithful", CLIFF GREEN, who is somewhere in France and still on the lookout for some hometowners. So far Cliff has not been able to meet anyone from home but does have a fellow in his company who has spent much time around East Jordan enjoying the many sports this region offers and Cliff finds him to be a helpful buddy when the conversation drifts to the subject of who came from the best place. We agree with you, Cliff, Northern Michigan is the best. . . . Another fellow who is always on the lookout for someone from home is BOB PRAY as Bob V-mails in from England this week that although so far his efforts have not been very successful, yet he did run across the signature of DELBERT DENNIS at a Red Cross post in England recently which would indicate that he had been there some time before him. Bob says though that faces about him there are not entirely new as he is with several of the fellows that he was with at school back in the states. At present his outfit is in a replacement pool taking the same old basic training that they went through back in the states, and expects to be sent to France at some future date. . . . Another V-mail from the European Theatre of Operations comes from JOHN SMITH, who as mentioned before, is now with the Hq. Co. of the 15th Inf. John tells us that this change came while he was in Naples. As far as meeting with friends from the home town, though, John seems to be about as fortunate as the rest of you, although the week end before leaving Naples, he did meet DeNise from Boyne Falls, this being the only fellow from Northern Michigan since landing overseas. John indicates in his letter that his present surroundings are somewhat better than they have been as he is now enjoying at least four hours of sleep a day together with three hot meals even if they are C rations. For once we hope John is wrong in that he says that we probably have only two more years of writing Reveille before all of you will be home again. Yes, we hope this event will come long before that, and we know John does too. And so as we think again of today being Armistice Day of World War I, we are looking forward very eagerly for the Armistice Day of World War II which will make this possible. . . . As we think of the territory of which John has recently gone though, we are reminded that one of our local servicemen who was wounded in Italy is now home on a much needed furlough and rest. A pleasant surprise was in store for Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lewis recently when a telegram came from CARL LEWIS that he was back in the states which was followed by a letter a short time later stating that he was convalescing in Billings General Hospital at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. For the benefit of his correspondents, mail will reach him if addressed to Ward T-1113. In spite of the fact that Carl still has his leg in a cast, he is now enjoying a furlough here at home; we know that this is the best treatment anyone could receive. . . . Along with the many other of our local servicemen who have recently been transferred to Ft. Meade, we learn this week that JOHN KRAEMER and LARVERNE ARCHER are also there, in fact were able to spend the week end of the 4th and 5th of November in Washington, D. C., together. . . . The letter from Marine MASON CLARK indicates that he was about to leave the states on the Pacific side, in fact, Mason tells us to stop the paper until further notice. Several months ago we asked for any stories which you might have in connection with your mascots but don't believe that we ever had any response. Now from Mason we learn that the group of fellows in his outfit located in the Radio-Radar shack had just picked themselves a young pup as a mascot, in fact is now a full fledged Marine with record book and GI dog tags, and so we're going to expect more stories on this canine. . . . Having completed LST training, VALE GEP is now back in Chicago at the Navy Pier. From here Pee Wee expects to go where he can put this training to use. . . . Apparently marines are getting scarce as WALTER BOLSEF writes in that he is now located at Treasure Island and awaiting a boat ride but has been issued practically a complete Marine outfit. Besides this he states that his training back at Bruno, Calif., was much more in line for a marine or even a soldier than for a sailor. His present address is Unit E-6-14, Navy 3245, c-o FPO, San Francisco, Calif. . . . Already over 450 addresses are on the mailing list and this week again, we have added the names of KENNETH GAGNON, MALCOLM McDONALD, STANLEY SUTTON. This reminds us too that once more the honor board is about filled up so that additional space will have to be arranged. Who ever thought that the number would be so large? . . . A news release turned over to us this week states that BOB SCHROEDER is now serving as Crew Chief with a 15th AAF B-17 Flying Fortress unit somewhere in Italy. The release also states that this unit, to which he belongs, recently received the Distinguished Unit Citation given by the President of the U.S. "for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy." . . . From another news release we learn that GALE BRIN'NALL has now completed four and one-half months as an Aviation Cadet and has received the silver bombardier wings. . . . Although we thought that with the list of casualties as mentioned last week we had had our share, yet we know that in war there is no mercy. This week we are informed that WARREN EGGERSDORF has been wounded in action and is now in an American Hospital in Italy. We know he would appreciate any and all correspondents for whose benefit we list his present address as follows: T-3 Warren B. Eggersdorf, 2628 C.P.D. Hospital Sect., APO 698 c-o Pmr., New York, N. Y. We also learn that Warren's brother-in-law, CASIMER MACHOWSKI, who is in New Caledonia, has been promoted to Sgt. and head cook of his company. . . . By flying from Florida to Chicago, TICH SAXTON managed to spend a very short time at home before leaving again for Ft. Meade. We know "Tich" had looked forward to that football game of last Saturday, but! . . . Besides the address changes already mentioned, two other transfers are noted, that of LYLE DONALDSON to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and of HENRY HEINZELMAN back to sea on the USS Montour. Apparently Henry didn't get that much longed for furlough at home. . . . We hear that BILL KITSMAN is back in the states on a short mission from India. Bill arrived in Washington, D. C. on military business and since his time was so short was not able to make it home. . . . Another happy meeting took place recently on foreign soil, it was especially a happy occasion because it brought together two brothers who had not seen each other for nearly two years. The meeting of GLEN and MARLIN INGALLS took place at Pearl Harbor, where Glen stationed with the army medical corps. We understand that Marlin was sitting on Glen's bunk when he returned from chow. Certainly must have been a real surprise for Glen and know they must have made good use of the time they had together. . . . Probably one of the oldest servicemen that East Jordan can be proud of is BILL INMAN, who has just arrived home after thirty-two months in the South Pacific. Bill enlisted on Dec. 7, 1939, and was sent overseas soon after war was declared. Bill says he is glad to be back home again and he hopes he enjoys every minute of his furlough. We think he will, as he tells us he was married a week ago, and so for you and us both, we extend congratulations to both Bill and Mrs. Inman.

Remember friends, the program which we tried to outline in the first part of the last two weeks Reveille is meant entirely for you, so if any of you should have any questions in connection with it, we will try to answer them through this column or refer them to one of the council board members. So its so long until next week.

Your friends of the Community Service Club, By Henry Drenth.

Here's a curious critter

If you met this longhorn out on the plains, you'd yell for Mr. Ripley! When one horn curves up, you just naturally expect the other to turn up, too.

Same way, when war sent prices sweeping up, people expected all prices to follow suit. But at least one price didn't — the price of electricity.

In fact, like this longhorn, the price of electricity actually curved down the other way. The same government statistics which measure the increased cost-of-living also show that the average price of electricity has declined 3.2% since war began!

That's news — even more than a steer with two-way horns! . . . You can be sure that the far-sighted planning and sound business management which kept electricity dependable and cheap in wartime, will supply even better service to your electric post-war home.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war."

"That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that."

"But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to Another meeting was held last Friday of the new Home Ec. Club. Our new president, Iris Petrie, presided.

Several matters were settled and it was decided that we would make scrap books to be sent to various hospitals. These are to be completed by Dec. 15, so they may be sent for Xmas. We are also having a home-made candy sale, the latter part of this week.

The banquet was prepared and served by the senior class of Charlevoix high school. Following the banquet, Mr. Wagner, Charlevoix Superintendent, and Leo Close, County School Commissioner, made brief remarks concerning the hot lunch school program for this winter. 4H program shows a decided increase over last year. The biggest factor in this increase is the program carried on in the Charlevoix high school. 148 boys and girls are enrolled in clothing and handicraft Club work. As far as we can determine, this is the largest Club in the state of Michigan.

Several clubs are yet to be organized within the county. Of the approximately twenty rural schools, indications point to 17 or 18 carrying 4-H Club projects. Recently the Beaver Island clothing Club was organized with over 20 Club members. Everything points to a most successful 4-H Club program this winter. B. C. Mellencamp, Co. Agr'l Agt.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

GIRL OVERBOARD
by GEORGE F. WORTS
W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Zorie Corey is railroaded into taking a job she does not want, helping old Admiral Duncan write his memoirs. She is in love with Paul Duncan, the admiral's grandson. While aboard the Samoa en route to Hawaii she is thrown overboard, and before arriving at Oahu, Pearl Harbor is bombed. After landing, Paul and Zorie overhear Paul's handsome brother, Steve, with whom Zorie is infatuated, plotting with Winthrop Lanning to deliver some radar equipment to the Axis. Believing Steve in danger Zorie rushes into the night to save him and discovers the body of beautiful Amber Lanning. Winthrop Lanning blinds Zorie and drives her to a cabin in the mountains.

CHAPTER XV

"Is there anything you can say to me," he asked gently, "that might be useful—on your behalf? Mr. Stromberg is a realist and a man of quick decisions. I do not know what he will decide to do, but I assure you I will do everything to save your life. You are so innocent and so beautiful."

"Will you tell me who Ah-nah is?" Zorie asked.

"But of course, Miss Corey! I will gladly answer all of your questions. Ah-nah is Pierre's way of pronouncing Anna. He is referring to one of the bravest, cleverest, most brilliant, most dangerous secret agents who ever lived—Anna Boland. She was an English girl, of about your age—an amazing person. She was shot by a firing squad in Berlin six months ago."

"Do I resemble her?"

Mr. Lanning laughed, sharply. "My dear girl, you are Anna Boland! It is the most amazing resemblance I have ever known."

"Is that why Pierre threw me overboard?"

"Yes—and for other strangely coincidental reasons. Do you recall the night in the rain in Elleryton when you met Steve Duncan?"

"Yes."

"What you may not recall was that, while you were talking to Steve beside that telephone pole, a sedan—a pale green sedan—came along. Do you recall that?"

"Yes."

"I was in that sedan. So was Pierre. We saw you talking together. As we passed, Steve Duncan pulled you behind the pole."

"Why?" said Zorie.

"Steve explained that to us very lucidly. He said some very quick thinking. He had seen your amazing resemblance to Anna Boland. Then he recognized me in the sedan. He reasoned that, in spite of our belief that Anna Boland was dead, your resemblance to her placed you in danger. He pulled you behind the pole to protect you."

"Might you or Pierre have shot me—something like that?"

"I would call that a very remote possibility," Mr. Lanning answered.

"In spite of his lazy way, Steve Duncan thinks with great rapidity. He was simply taking no chances."

"And, of course," Zorie said, "that made you suspicious."

"At least it made us very curious. But we did not see you well enough that night to notice your remarkable resemblance to Anna Boland. It was later, when we saw you on the ship, that we pieced things together. In Elleryton, we merely thought that you and Steve were being extremely furtive."

"But there were other suspicious circumstances. One was your possession of a certain engineering paper on the retooling of the Waffenfabrik Krupp plant for increased war production. It was the sort of document Anna Boland might have had. Another item was your stenographic notebook."

She wondered why he was going to all this bother. He didn't have to explain anything to her. Certainly he expected to learn nothing of importance from her. Back of his air of solicitude was a quality that puzzled her. Why, she asked herself, was Mr. Lanning being so outspoken?

Mr. Lanning paused. He took another drink.

"You realize, of course, that Pierre killed Amber by mistake. When your fiancé made that unfortunate disclosure on the lanai, I knew that Pierre would go berserk. It has taken all my persuasiveness, all my ingenuity, to keep him in hand so far. All along, he has been very suspicious of Steve—and certain that you were Anna Boland. If he kills Steve, he should be here at any moment. When he finds that you are still alive, he is apt to be quite upset."

"You see, Anna Boland was something of a legend. Every time she was killed, she popped up somewhere a little later—more alive than ever. Pierre has already killed you twice—once by drowning, once by strangling. He is a very superstitious man. His face, if he comes into this room, will be very interesting to watch."

"With you," Zorie said, "insisting that I am not Anna Boland, and with Pierre insisting that I am—why didn't you check up? Couldn't you somehow have radioed Berlin and confirmed Anna Boland's death? I've lived in Elleryton all my life. It would have been so easy..."

Mr. Lanning jumped up. "But, my dear girl, that is the most amazing part of all. The day before Pierre tried to drown you, we sent two radiograms, one which reached Berlin, in round-about ways, the other to a man I happen to know in Chicago—a faithful man—but not too intelligent. I instructed him to proceed at once to Elleryton and send us a brief report on you, to be followed later by a more detailed report.

"My message to Berlin must have fallen into the hands of an over-cautious clerk. I said, in substance, 'Is Anna Boland dead? Her duplicate is aboard this ship under very suspicious circumstances...' The answer said: 'Perhaps it was Anna Boland's double we shot.' Of course, that bolstered Pierre's suspicions tremendously, but not nearly so much as the answer we received from the man I sent to Elleryton. This will amuse you very much, Miss Corey."

Mr. Lanning paused for another drink and Zorie wondered if anything could ever amuse her again.

"His reply, decoded, said literally this: 'Zorie Corey left for Hawaii on fourth. Was employed by Professor Bowdoin J. Folsome past four months. He says she is too smart. His wife claims she is a very suspicious character. Full report later."

Mr. Lanning paused for another drink.

"That," said Zorie grimly, "is very, very funny, Mr. Lanning."

He started to smile, but when he saw her expression he checked himself.

"It is so curious, isn't it? Steve told us about Mrs. Folsome's tea invitations. It should have convinced Pierre, but he is so stubborn! And Amber was almost equally stubborn. Incidentally, that 'full report' had not come when we left Honolulu."

Zorie wondered why he was so eager to explain, to answer all her questions. His solicitude for her plight did not wholly explain him. It was, perhaps, a natural instinct; but it went deeper than that. He was a little drunk, therefore garrulous. But it was not just that. Perhaps, she reflected, it was his vanity. He was bored. He wanted to talk. And he was an exhibitionist.

Recalling the night she had slapped Amber's face, Zorie said, "Amber hated me."

"On the contrary, Miss Corey, she admired you very much!"

"On the assumption that I was Anna Boland?"

"She was never quite sure about that. You see, Amber was not a secret agent, Miss Corey. She was merely a girl of strong enthusiasms who sincerely believed in our cause. She asked repeatedly to be given a chance to help. She lived on Martinique and when the island went Vichy, she was one of our most loyal supporters. She was capable."

Mr. Lanning said thoughtfully, "but a trifle too enthusiastic—too inclined to take matters into her own hands. She had the ardor of the amateur. She hated to take orders."

"Wasn't Pierre under your orders, too?" Zorie interrupted.

"In a lesser sense. Pierre has lived mostly in the United States, although the past two years he has been in and out of Europe frequently. In certain kinds of work, he is indispensable. His vanity makes him hard to work with."

"He is a brute," Zorie said with feeling. "He is a beast."

"Yes. And he is sometimes difficult to handle. His two attempts at killing you were typical of Pierre. He tried to drown you because, if you actually were Anna Boland, you were an extremely dangerous enemy agent—to be liquidated. His mistaken attempt at killing you tonight was similarly motivated. As he saw it, our work was done—the jig was up. We'd all clear out immediately. And you are still, to him, Anna Boland—a dangerous enemy to be eliminated."

"How do you plan to clear out—in a Japanese submarine?"

He smiled and shrugged. "Perhaps. There are so many ways."

"With this island so well guarded, Mr. Lanning seemed amused. "My dear girl, this little island hasn't yet cut its war teeth. You saw how easily I got past those guards. Quite as easily I can clear out. As a war goes on, you learn many tricks, many ropes... I was about to say that Amber was an individualist, too, but easy to reach through her emotions. She very much enjoyed playing the part I gave her, which was that of the lovely siren. In an assignment of this nature, we always have a girl of her type along."

"The first time Amber saw me," Zorie interrupted, "she stared at me as if I were a ghost. I know now she thought I was Anna Boland."

Mr. Lanning chuckled. "Yes, you gave her a dreadful shock."

"If she spent her life in Martinique, how did she know Anna Boland?"

"She did not know Anna, Miss Corey. Amber was a resident of Martinique, but she spent a large part of her life in the States. At least, she went to finishing school and college there. Miss Boland was pointed out to her twice—once in a New York night club, and once in Martinique. A large part of the treasury of France—something like four hundred million, in gold bullion—is stored there, you know. Anna Boland was in Martinique, doing a little snooping."

"In spite of being a British agent, Anna Boland was Amber's ideal. Anna was beautiful, clever—and a witch. She was quite in the tradition. She had no conscience. There was no trick in the bag she hesitated to use. To her, love was a weapon or a tool. Men lost their heads over her. Amber, in this assignment, tore a page from Anna Boland's book. She used love as a tool. At least, she tried."

"I instructed her to worm her way into Steve's confidence, and, of course, the surest way to worm your way into a man's confidence is to make him believe that you've fallen in love with him."

"She did it very well," Zorie murmured.

"She was always jealous of you. She knew that Steve had fallen in love with you."

"That's absurd," Zorie said.

Mr. Lanning shrugged. "Perhaps! I do not know. Love is a luxury that I cannot afford. I only know that Amber would not have qualified as a secret agent. She was too human."

"Or too wise," Zorie murmured.

Winthrop Lanning's eyes were partly lidded. He looked more cynical than usual. "I think you would do marvelously in such work because your innocence is such an excellent cloak for your cleverness."

"I'm afraid I'm too human, too," Zorie said. "Besides I could never work with you. You're too suspicious, too obstinate—"

"In this work, my dear girl, suspicion is—"

"Ah, yes, I know! The one firm foundation! But I've listened to you argue. I've heard your opinions. You're what we call, back in Elleryton, a conclusion-jumper. I've suspected this for some time, Mr. Lanning. Now I'm sure. Suspicion is no longer your slave—it's your master!"

Winthrop Lanning started from his chair. He was suddenly wary. "Just what are you saying, Miss Corey?"

"I'll give you a perfect example," Zorie quickly answered. "You honestly believed that what Paul Duncan said on the lanai tonight was the truth!"

"It was the truth!"

"It was a malicious lie! But you leaped at it because you were so willing to be suspicious! If you hadn't become the slave of suspicion, you would not have believed it!"

"My dear Miss Corey," he answered with his most urbane smile. "I am not a fool. Perhaps I am always suspicious, but I am always clever, too. Sometimes I am almost psychic. Steve has been clever—altogether too clever. He has had me fooled a great deal of the time. He almost had me fooled tonight."

"Do you realize," Zorie stopped him, "that Paul did not know what he was talking about?"

"Why did he say it?"

"He and I happened to overhear your conversation behind the hedge with Steve and Pierre—your plans for tonight. Paul said what he did merely to upset Steve's plan—by destroying your trust in him."

Mr. Lanning was staring at her curiously. "This is most interesting, Miss Corey, but I think you are being a little too clever yourself. Your fiancé was very convincing. He accomplished his purpose nicely. But my psychic sense tells me that your fiancé was telling substantially the truth."

"Why?" Zorie demanded. "Because it was a very dangerous moment for you! It was safer to be suspicious! You weren't being clever or psychic! You were playing safe! My candid opinion is that you picked that moment to lose your nerve!"

Winthrop Lanning sank back in his chair. He was smiling mysteriously.

Turkey Talk

This time every year we set aside a day of thanks—thanks for the bounty of the year, our good fortune, our harvest. We may have worried about ration points, about balancing the budget, but hasn't it been a good year in spite of it all? Yes, so good!

Our day of thanks is appropriately celebrated with as good a feast as can be set upon the table. The turkey is frequently the queenly bird that sets the tone for the whole dinner, so let it be proud and beautiful.

To Roast Turkey.

Rub inside cavity with salt, 1/2 teaspoon or less to each pound of bird. Place enough dressing in the neck to fill the cavity nicely. Fasten skin to the back. Stuff cavity well but do not pack too tightly. Truss, then grease skin with unsalted fat which has been melted. Lay in pan on a rack, preferably on one side, back up. Or, place in V-shaped rack breast down, and keep in this position throughout the roasting period.

Cover with fat moistened cloth, then roast at constant temperature until tender, turning bird to the opposite side, still back up. Turn bird breast up when about half done. Do not sear, cover or add water to the pan. Sprinkle melted fat on cloth as it dried out.

Cut trussing string between drumsticks after about an hour of roasting. This releases the drumsticks slightly for better cooking of the thigh, improves the appearance of the bird on the platter and facilitates carving.

Variations

Celery: Add 2 cups finely chopped celery which has been sauteed partially.

Egg: Add 4 well beaten eggs.

Oysters: Add 1 pint or more of drained oysters, chopped or left whole if small. Add raw or preheated in 2 table-spoons of the butter.

Sausage: Add 1/2-1 pound sausage meat or tiny sausages cooked until brown and thoroughly done. Break meat into small chunks before cooking. Omit or reduce butter.

Testing for Doneness.

Move the leg by grasping end bone. If the drumstick thigh joints break or move easily, the turkey is done. If a thermometer is used, it should register an internal temperature of 190° F. when placed inside in center of inside thigh muscle. If placed in the center of the stuffing, it should register 180 degrees F.

Roasting Time Table

Weight	Oven Temperature	Total Roasting Time
8-10 lbs.	325 deg. F.	3-3 1/2 hrs.
10-14 lbs.	325 deg. F.	3 1/2-4 hrs.
14-18 lbs.	300 deg. F.	4-5 hrs.

Speaking of Stuffing

There are several different types of stuffing which may be used for the bird. There is the basic bread stuffing which may be varied in at least five different ways:

Bread Stuffing
(For 12-16 lbs. of turkey)
1 1/2 pounds loaf bread, stale

Spiced Cranberries.

(Makes 1 quart)

- 2 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 2-inch sticks cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 4 cups fresh cranberries

Combine sugar, water, spices, lemon juice and rind and boil together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and cook slowly, without stirring until all the skins pop open. Chill to serve.

Pumpkin Pie.

- 3/4 cup brown or white sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 2 whole eggs or 4 yolks, beaten
- 1 1/2 cups sieved pumpkin
- 1 1/2 cups scalded cream or milk

Mix sugar, salt and spices thoroughly. Add eggs. Blend and then beat in pumpkin pulp. Add scalded cream. Have previously prepared pastry lined pan that has been allowed to dry in a refrigerator for several hours. Pour in about 1/2 of the pumpkin mixture. Place on bottom of preheated oven, 400 degrees F. from which rack has been removed. Quickly pour in remaining mixture. Bake 10-12 minutes. Place pie on a rack quickly replaced in oven. Bake until custard is set. Cool on a rack.

Lynn Says:

Trussing Turkey: Insert needle through breast through rib at the base of the thighs. Draw cord through and pull string across by pulling cord through openings formed by folding wings triangular shaped onto the back. The needle does not go through the flesh here. Tie cord at the side (where needle was first inserted) making body of bird compact.

Put in part of dressing through vent opening. Then insert needle between two bones at each drumstick joint and bring cord around to the tail, through the backbone. Tie securely.

The neck opening offers a place to insert part or all of the stuffing which should be filled to make breast and neck well rounded.

Fold neck skin under wing tips and string to keep in stuffing and make a nice appearance. After roasting remove cord before serving.
