How to Make Lampshades

DEMONSTRATION THIS FRIDAY FORENOON AT O.E.S. DINING ROOM

"How to Make Lampshades" will be demonstrated to the leaders of Charlevoix County Home Economics Extension Groups on Friday, October 26th at 10:00 a.m. The meeting will be held in the Eastern Star dining room in East Jordan.

From pieces of wallpaper and from scrapes of curtain, drapery or dres materials the leaders will recove old lampshades or make new shades of the size, shape and color which will fit their lamps and rooms and which will also meet the require ments of good lighting.

It is often difficult to find a ready made lampshade to fit a certain lam at a price one can afford to pay ar this reason dark, dingy paper or Jahrie Jamp shades which rob room of good light and good looks, are not replaced.

At this meeting leaders of the Home Economics Extension groups will learn to make various types of tempshades.

The leaders are reminded to bring with them the equipment and ma terials needed for this lesson.

The arrangements for the meeting have been made by Emma J. Fero Home Demonstration Agent.

Bert Lorraine Laid To Rest

WAS IDENTIFIED WITH PRINT ING INDUSTRY HERE SINCE YOUTHFUL DAYS

East Jordan was stunned the even ng of October 17 by the sudden death Bert L. Lorraine who was taken with a heart attack while visiting at his home with a friend.

He was known as "Uncle Bert" to his friends who numbered in the hundreds, and he was loved by all who knew him.

He was born in Bird Island, Minn July 29, 1887, and came with his par-ents to East Jordan in 1891 when his father, Clarence Lorraine, purchased the "Enterprise." As a small boy Bert learned the printing trade in office, and after his father's death in 1918 continued the publication of the paper until 1920, when he disposed of the paper to the "Herald." Since that time Bert was engaged in commercial printing and has built up a fine business that covered several Bert took a keen interest in young people, and was ever ready to help them in counsel, in time, and with money. It was because of this interestt that they began affectionately to call him "Uncle Bert."

He was an enthusiastic Rotarian. He was a charter member of the East Jordan Rotary Club, and has been its only Sergeant-at-arms. He worked for the club with all the intensity of his personality. To talk Rotary, to live Rotary, to give for Rotary was a dominating passion of his life.

The funeral service at the Watson mortuary on Saturday afternoon was conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. Sidebotham. The interment at Sunset Hill was under Masonic auspices The unusually large number of friends who assembled for the services was an evidence of the high regard in which "Uncle Bert" was held.

Charlevoix Takes Game 24 to 0

FRANK MARTIN, ACE CHARLE-VOIX HALFBACK, DID THE TRICK

(By Cliff Hosler)

At Charlevoix last Friday, was played an important game in the Northern Michigan Class C Conference. The Rayders and East Jordan were tied for first place.

On the opening of the game it looked like a see-saw game was in the making. Each team was fighting hard. With the ball on the 15-yard stripe, Zeithr shot a short pass to Martin on the 10 and went over for a touchdown. The see-saw affair was over soon. Charlevoix did not score again in the first quarter.

Touchdown on the Punt Martin took a punt 65 yards, for the best run of the game, to a touch-down with the help of Emerald Howe, who took out Niles Hill, the only man who was close to Martin, with a very hard block. Although the score was 12 to 0 East Jordan still had fight in the last Statue of Liberty on a 15 yard gain. Following this Hitchcock threw a pass which was picked off by Bob Carey who crashed through 30 yards of territory to the 20-yard line. Gain was made by Martin on an end run. Hardy took the ball to the 15 yard line and also first down. Nemecek knocked Martin back 8 yards as he tried an end run. Martin again took the ball and made up for the loss by speeding around right end for his third touchdown of the game.

Bounder

East Jordan made little gain when they had the ball and when Charle-voix had it again, with laterals and then a pass. Martin took it and went 25 yards. Brown then took the ball to a boundry touchdown. He was hit on the 1 yard line. He did not fall, but bounded in the air into the end zone, the last touchdown of the game.

East Jordan started a fighting march, following this to the 2-yard line. Hitchcock by brought down by Bob Carey.

We must pay the bills for munitions that are still unpaid — We Mr. Bader has for eighteen years must pay the cost of guarding Gerriven a service truck day and night, ammer and winter, without a serveterans to be discharged by next July — we must maintain a substan-tial Army and Navy and Air Force until order is restored throughout the world — and we must keep the lid on price inflation. The treasury must meet the enormous obligations incurred in the achievement of victory. Government expenditures are being drastically reduced — and this will continue. Despite this, however, the aftermath of war carries grave responsibilities that must and cannot be shirked, and in facing this task every American's help is needed.

Our committee again will be head.

Our committee again will be headed by Robert Campbell of the State Bank and all preliminary details for our local drive are now being arranged. Volunteer workers will be needed to handle the hundreds of things that always materialize and Bob is counting on each of us to do our share when called upon. Junior Red Cross Enrollment Nov. 1-15

As a reminder to all boys and girls of Charlevoix County, the Junior Red Cross enrollment campaign is approaching. The dates for this nation-wide enrollment campaign are November 1 through November

The Junior Red Cross is the American Red Cross in the schools- public, private, and parochial; elementary and secondary. As distinctive parts of local Red Cross chapters, Junior Red Cross groups comprise a total membership of 18,000,000 boys and girls. They participate in an aclive in-school program which is an effective bridge between the schools and the community.

In manual arts, home economics, art classes, and other classrooms members are turning out millions of items such as games, ash trays, lamps, afghans, lapboards, slippers, bathrobes, and holiday favors for servicemen in hospitals and in company dayrooms. These articles are made to fulfill definite requests channeled through Red Cross camp and hospital councils and Junior Red Cross area offices.

Children of Charlevoix County last year packed Gift Boxes with carefully selected small items for shipment overseas. School supplies were shipped to youngsters of foreign lands. Comfort articles were made by JRC's of this county and programs and entertainment were given during the summer, the proceeds of which were added to the Junior Red Cross Service Fund.

FARM WAGE DELIRIUM

WASHINGTON. - Live-wire Republican Sen. Ralph Brewster of Maine recently telephoned hard-working Assistant Secretary of Labor Carl Moran, also from Maine, but a Democrat.

"Portland is among the nine distress cities of the country," Senator Brewster reminded Moran. "As you know, Portland shipyard workers have been dismissed from their jobs wholesale. Meanwhile, farmers up in Aroostook county can't get anyone to bring in their potatoes. What can you do about it?"

"What are they paying for farm labor in Aroostook county," asked the assistant secretary of labor; "still four cents?"

"No," replied the senator from Maine, "There's a guaranteed wage of $12 a day."

Assistant Secretary Moran said he would do his best to switch some workers up to the potato farms. However, he might well have replied that the labor department was that in name only and that it actually had almost nothing to do with labor. with labor.

For the fact is that, under Miss Perkins, the labor depart-ment was stripped of most of its labor duties. The War Labor board is separate and independent ent, and, most important of all, the U.S. employment service is under the War Manpower com-mission. Thus, Assistant Secretary of Labor Moran had to turn to an outside agency, the U. S. employment service, to try to get discharged shipyard workers to help harvest the Aroostook potato crop.

This, in turn, has brought out another difficulty affecting not merely Maine but the entire nation. Most war workers, drawing $1 to $2 an hour plus overtime and bonuses, hour plus overtime and bonuses, don't want to go back to the farm and farm wages. The labor shortage on the farms, even after V-J Day, is as acute as ever. Farm wages are higher than ever, though still a long way from shipyard and aviation factory pay. So, somehow or other, either farm wages must go up, or war workers must go back to less money on the farm. In the former case, the farmers will have to get more for their ers will have to get more for their crops; which, of course, means a higher cost of living in the city.

Ambassadors' Wives.

Last week this column reported that Mrs. Ed Pauley, wife of the U. S. reparations ambassador to Moscow and former treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was listed to receive $25 a day expenses while accompanying her husband to Russia. Since then, I have received further information that Mrs. Pauley, although listed by the state department as an official member of the party, declined to accept the $25 per diem.

However, I still believe it a highly debatable point, when a million or so G.I.s are not permitted to have their wives come abroad, that American higherups should take their wives with them to overseas war areas. After all, the average American soldier now occupying Germany or Japan has not seen his wife for more than a year.

When the Pauley reparations mission arrived in western Europe, the party was split up, because of limparty was split up, because of limited accommodations in Moscow.

One group, including some of the best experts on reparations, were told to remain in Frankfurt, Germany, because there was no room to house them in Moscow, But Mrs. Pauley, despite limited accommodations, went on to Moscow.

Later, she also visited Potsdam for the Big Three session. She was the only American wife present.

Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Byrnes, wife of the secretary of state, re mained at home. And during the last session of the Big Three, Mrs. Pauley sat in the gallery, a privileged witness to the historic ceremony. Many U. S. and British experts who had spent weeks prepar-ing for this big climax and who had burned midnight oil whipping the agreement into shape, were barred from seeing the windup.

NOTE-On August 4, this column reported that the office of war information had given Mrs. R. A. Mc-Clure, wife of General McClure, a privileged job as receptionist in OWI's Paris office, thus permitting her to be near her husband in Germany. Immediately after publica-tion of this disclosure, the OWI received an order from the White House for Mrs. McClure to come back to the United States.

Defense Lines, Bases Desired by Army in Pacific

Proposals by Air Gen. Henry H. Arnold for maintenance of a series of defense lines in the Pacific for future national security is receiving growing support in congress. The latest proposal would provide major fleet bases at Pearl Harbor, Guam, Saipan, Manus and Noumea, with a main naval air base at Mactan island in the Philippines. The whole would provide chains of security far from the United States shores. The house committee said the bases are needed to maintain peace.

Heating Safety
One of the most notable innovations in safe heating is the wet base boiler in which water circulates un-der the ash pit. The fact that the boiler can be placed on a combusti-ble floor is of interest in connection with the trend toward the basementless house. In such houses it is often desirable to install the boiler on a wooden floor in a utility room or kitchen. Other safety features of modern boilers are foot-treadle door openers, ball-shaped, air-cooled handles and side shakers, making it easier to open and close doors.

Bath Banishes Blues

According to etymologists, the English word "bath" comes indirectly from a Greek word meaning "to drive sadness from the mind." Which goes to prove again that the classic Greeks were a modern people and that they knew the full value of bodily cleansing. Bathe frequently and thoroughly, and thus "drive sadness from the mind."

If the man of the house has been accustomed to taking his daily shower in the morning, reserve this time for him. The children might bathe in the evening, alloting the time according to their ages and when they go to bed. The younger children might be bathed before dinner, older children later. Plan your own bath for whichever hour will give you the most relaxation.

New Products, Processes Mean Jobs, Better Living

Jobs, incomes and more, better and cheaper goods and services for the new era which America is now entering will depend to a large exentering will depend to a large ex-tent upon scientific research. The radio, television, chemical, plastic, automobile and many other indus-ries are direct tangible benefits of industrial research. The television industry, for example, has spent more than 20 million dollars on re-search and it is expected to pro-vide for more than 350,000 new jobs which never existed before. which never existed before.

Other new products and services which may be expected now include:

Aviation type gasoline for automobiles at no extra cost.

Factory made houses with stand ardized parts but put together ac-cording to the owner's design. Moth-resistant and non-shrinkable wool fabrics treated at the factory with special chemicals. Transparent window screens that will roll up like a shade. Windows of polarized glass through which the flow of light can be regulated by turning a button.

Sulfa drugs, penicillin and other new healing aids, plentiful and at costs than can be met by all. Thousands of familiar prewar achievements will be obsolete. Auto-mobiles, radios, washing machines, refrigerators and similar products will be so greatly improved that customers will want the new products even though their old ones are not worn out. This will provide thousands of new jobs in existing industries in addition to those cre-ated by new industries.

Cetten Damage

Most of the ginning damage to cotton occurs during the first three to four weeks of the ginning season. The cotton is "green" and damp because of the high moisture content of the seed.

The leaves of the cotton must be removed by chemicals in order for pleking machines to do the best jobs. Cotton is easily stained by green leaves and this makes dyeing of the cotton difficult.

This is the plan that we began in 1940

• By 1940, Michigan Bell's rural expansion and improvement program had been under way for a number of years. That year we incorporated into it a plan worked out in cooperation with the Michigan Rural Communications Committee, a group of agricultural leaders. This plan called for a liberal amount of free line-construction, and small monthly payments in cases where any construction charges were involved. Its purpose was to bring telephones to more farm families, and a good start was made in that direction.

This is the war that delayed the plan that we began in 1940

· For nearly four years, our fighting forces took almost all of the nation's telephone manufacturing output. Nevertheless, we installed all war-essential rural telephones. Today theree more farm telephones in Mi ever before. But line construction and switchboard expansion have not been able to keep pace with the increased demand for service. Now that the war is over, there is an enormous amount of work to be done.

This is when we expect to resume the plan that we began in 1940

 Just as soon as trained manpower, materials and manufacturing facilities are available in sufficient quantities, we will push forward our $13,500,000 5-year, rural expansion and improvement program. We have important new devices and construction methods which will make selephone service available to more rural folks. We intend to construct more lines so there will be fewer parties per line. We plan to bring dial service to more farm families. We are studying special features to make telephone service more valuable. These are but a few of many ways Michigan Bell expects to give better service to more rural people.

GOSH, ONLY A PENNY!

Once a penny was a fortune to a six-year-old. It could buy yards of licorice shoestrings, an all-day sucker, or a syrupsmothered scoop of shaved ice. A penny would pay for marbles, a tin whistle, or even a little lead soldier. It was the ceiling price for a new top-string.

Nowadays, a penny won't buy much for a little boy. Bus is purchases a lot of labor-saving electricity.

Sonny may sniff at a penny for running an errand-yet that same penny will (at average household rates) do any of these jobs -

- Run a sewing machine all afternoon
- Keep a refrigerator cold for 4 hours
- • Light a 50-watt bulb for 6 hours
- Run the washer for 6 tubs of clothes
- · Give you the correct time for 7 days
- Keep a radio playing for 3 hours

Yes, a penny is still big money-electrically. Actually, the average family gets just about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago. Keeping electric service cheap, friendly and dependable - even all through the war is a tribute to the careful business management of your electric company, and to the hard work and experience of all the men and women in it.

Thunderhead

THE STORY THUS FAR: Thunderhead is the only white horse ever foaled on Goose Bar ranch in Wyoming. He resembles his great grandsire, a wild stallion called the Abino. Ken McLauph, lin, Thunderhead's 13-year-old owner, hopes his horse will become a racer, as he is very fast. Plans are made to enter him in a fall race meeting. There is considerable worry, however, because he is difficult to handle. Rob McLaughlin, Ken's father, sells off most of his horses to raise cash. Financial worries create to raise cash. Financial worries create a rift between Rob and his wife, Nell. He tells her that they are going into sheep raising. Ken's school report is unusually good, indicating that he wants a favor.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Thunder-

CHAPTER XX

Rob's big white teeth gleamed in his dark face. He looked very pleased. But continuing to study the boy's expression he suddenly had a recurrence of his first convicnad a recurrence of his first conviction. There was something fishy.

"Tell me, Ken," he said, "is this absolutely on the level? You really did it? It's bona fide?"
"Super I did it ded." said Kon. 'Sure I did it, dad," said Ken, his jubilance fading at the realization that a bad reputation is hard to live down.

"When did you start working for this phenomenal report card?" "Last fall. When school started.'

"And you kept it up all year?" Ken nodded.

"Just so you might get permission from me to stay out of school next fall when Thunderhead goes to the post?"
"Yes, sir."

"Put it there, son! I'm proud of Ken was dazed. His small boneless hand was lost in his father's clasp and shaken hard. He was still trying to explain.

"The thing is, dad, of course I'll make up all the lessons I lose while I'm out of school. But if I had just asked you, and told you that I'd do that, you wouldn't have believed I could do it."

"And you can say that again, boy!"
"So I had to prove it to you-before I asked you."

"You've proved it."
"Dad! Do you mean I can?"
"I mean just that. This brilliant mind of yours seems to work in reverse. Give you horses so that you have no time for lessons and even have to stay out of school and you bust yourself wide open and carry the rag off the bush!" "Dad—there's something more!"

"Ah! Now it's coming!" Rob's face took on its sardonic expression.

'Two things, dad.' "Well-shoot!"

"You said last year, when Thun derhead didn't get gelded with the other two-year-olds, that he could go till this year. Does—does he have to be gelded? Wouldn't you just—skip it—dad? Because he may win, you see—And there's a chance that the gelding might hurt him or that the gelding might hurt him or kill him and anyway if he should be a winner on the race track we'd want to sell his services as a stal lion, wouldn't we? And anyway—"

"We won't geld him," said Rob suddenly.

This quick victory was another shock to Ken. Rob raised the report card. "You'll find all your life long, son, that fine performance will get things for you that nothing else

Thunderhead hasn't Besides. really made any trouble, has he?" It was hard for Ken to get his mind off his horse. "He hasn't tried to fight Banner or get any mares, or—well, not anything like

"Thunderhead hasn't had chance to raise hell yet. It's been a godsend that we could leave Touch And Go with him until early this spring when she came in heat for the first time. That kept him happy. Kept him away from the other mares and delayed the beginning of what you might call his sex life. Besides, he's been trained and worked pretty consistently. You can train an animal, you know, for the kind of life he is to live. We've kept him away from the real life of a stallion. But that won't last forever. time will come. One day his ears will pop, and he'll suddenly thump himself on the chest and exclaim, I'm a man!"

Ken laughed. "I hope it won't be on the race track." "Sex doesn't enter much into the life of race horses. Stallions and mares race together without any disturbances of that sort." know."

"Well now -- what's the other thing? Might as well get it over with."

Ken's face flushed a little. member what you said once, dad? That I cost you money every time I turn around?"

"I remember!" "Well-what about the money the race is going to cost? The entrance fee and all that?"
"I see." Rob leaned back quietly and became very thoughtful, rub-bing his hand through his hair.

You're a lot richer now than you used to be, aren't you, dad?"
"Where'd you get that idea?"

"Well—the sheep—" "The sheep have got me so deep in debt Thunderhead will have to win races to pull me out!"

"Oh, dad! Are you kind of counting on him?" Ken's face glowed with pride.

"I'm hoping," said Rob grimly. Ing you traveling around with your race horse myself, remember, and I know he's got it in Aim. But he's an ugly beggar. This summer will tell

"Of course you know, dad," said Ken magnanimously, "anything Thunderhead wins will be yours and "Will it? No. I don't think so. We'd want it to be yours. Then you can pay for all your expenses and your schooling and we'll come out ahead anyway! "But some of it would have to be

"All right. We'll incorporate. Mc-Laughlin and Son. And I'll take what I need for the present and we can get squared later on." There was a moment's pause. Rob adn't yet said anything about that entrance fee. "You're going to have a wonderful big hay crop, aren't you, dad? Don't you think you may sell your hay-the part you won't need for

"We'll incorporate. McLaughlin

the sheep or the horses or the cows quite early—say, in September?"
"Got it all figured out, haven' you?"

"I don't know when I'll sell my surplus hay. It may pay better to hold it till later in the season when hay gets scarce.' Ken looked crestfallen.

Rob leaned back in his chair. 'We'd beter count this up now and know what we're up against."

Ken called on his fortitude and stood waiting.

"You're going with Mr. Sargent so the trip won't cost you anything, but you'll be in Saginaw Falls for three weeks—"
"I'll sleep in the stall with Thunderhead," put in Ken quickly. "Lots of owners do that if they haven't got much dough."

"But I suppose you'll have to eat!
Sargent will send the colt with his horses by rail and keep him in his stables in charge of his trainer, so there'll be no shipping or stable expenses. You're in luck there but Thunderhead's got to eat too. So there'll be his feed bill and the jockey fee—"

"That's ten dollars if he just rides, and twenty-five if he wins," interpolated Ken, "and dad, please don't say jockey. People that know, call them riders."

Rob ignored this. "And the entrance fee," he finished. "Altogether quite a bit of money

He looked out the window again, and in spite of fortitude, Ken began to feel wet in his armpits and around his waist.
"But I'll stake you to the en trance fee for the one big race and all the expenses for yourself and Thunderhead."

'You will, dad? Gee! Oh, Gosh!' "How'll I be repaid if he doesn't win anything?" Win anything the Ken's lips sobered in a line of determination and courage. "I'll work very hard all summer."

"You'll do that anyway," said Rob grimly. "I've never given you the idea you could spend the summer sitting on your fanny, have I? Or just monkeying around your horse either. ner. "And besides," said Ken, "there's enough to pay you back everything and more too." another way I could make money This brilliant mind of yours is getting me dizzy, Ken. How can you make several hundred dollars?" 'Well-you told me once it costs you three hundred dollars to put me through a year of school. See?! He smiled brilliantly at his father. "I don't see. I haven't got a brilliant with the trained."

liant mind," inant minu,
"I — just simply — won't go to school. I could study outside and take the exams—maybe— Anyway,

I'd learn just as much and my schooling wouldn't cost you anything." "And I'd spend the money financ-race horse, I suppose?"

Ken hadn't quite the courage to say yes, but he made a graceful gesture of assent and dashed away.

Thunderhead's career was taken seriously by everyone on the ranch that summer, and no one rode him but his trainer, young Ken Mc-Laughlin, who tipped the scale at

During the winter just past when the stallion had been kept in, given a liberal daily ration of oats and and exercise and training by Rob McLaughlin, he had achieved superb development. He was as tall as the Percheron—sixteen hands and would be even taller when he had his full growth. No longer could it be said of him that he was ungainly or badly proportioned. All his parts had grown together. His legs were long and powerfully muscled, his neck massive and arched, his coat a pure dazzling while shining with the glossiness of a stal-lion's skin. Strength, power and wilfulness were still his outstanding characteristics.

He was now shod, and Ken was out with him every day before breakfast, running him on the track. He still fought Ken, he still bucked, but when Ken complained of the horse's dislike of him, his father said, "You've got that wrong, son. If that horse really hated you he'd never let you get near him. He doesn't hate you. He fights you because he likes to. He enjoys it. You're his trainer. You've got to make him do what he doesn't want to do and he's a fighting devil so he fights you back. But I'll bet, when he's waiting up there in the mornings for you to come and give him his work-out, he'd feel pretty bad if you didn't show up."

Touch And Go was still the pace-maker for her big brother, and Rob-McLaughlin said, "When I see that filly run, damned if I don't think she's the one that's going to be the racer.

Touch And Go was a regular eauty. Tall and daintily made, beauty. with a long reaching neck, straight slim legs, little feet that would fit in a cup, and a playful high spirit that kept her always acting up, al-ways dancing and going sideways. Her ruddy hide was glorious in the sun, and the blond tail and mane gave her a de luxe, made-to-order look.

To Rob McLaughlin her perfect conformation was a justification of his theories of line breeding, and he sometimes studied the racing sheet, making a note of what events were scheduled for two-year-olds. "We might run her too," he said, "put her in the baby class.

The summer passed very slowly for Ken, because it was all a tense waiting for the racing season, and a tense watching of Thunderhead. Besides, it was full of excitement just one thing after the other. The first excitement was when he got home and found out what was going to happen to his mother. It was hard for Ken to keep his mind from confusion when he thought about that. She had wanted it. Hadn't she said at dinner that night, "I want a monkey tree. I want a sleigh all covered with bells, and I want a little girl," and of course it was right for his mother to have what she wanted. But it was hard to take. He had argued with her about

"But mother, you've got us! Howard and me. Aren't we enough?"
"No. I want a little girl."
"Want her much, mother?"

"Want her Intell, inother,"
"Want her lots, dear. Remember how hard you wanted Flicka?"
"It might be a boy," said Ken gloomily, and he added, "Besides, doesn't it hurt awfully?" Nell was busy putting the laundry away. She counted the piles of sheets she was stacking in the linen closet.

"Doesn't it, mother?" insisted Ken. "Doc Hicks might have to—"
"Ken! This is going to be a baby!
And Doc Hicks won't have any-And Doc Hicks won't have anything to do with it!"

"Oh, sure-I know that-"

"And as for its hurting-who cares about that?" She had finished stacking and her voice was very gay.
"You don't get anything for nothing, dear."

"No." His father had told him plenty about that.

"And didn't you-" her hand was lightly on his read, arranging his soft brown hair so that it did not fall over his forehead, "didn't you sit all night in the cold water holding Flicka-just because you loved her and wanted her so much?

She was through with the linen and went quickly back to the kitchen. Ken watched her, not answering her out loud but thinking to himself that it was different. How could you love something you hadn't ever seen and be willing, in advance, to suffer for it? With Flicka he had known and loved her and cared for her for months.

He had to struggle against a feeling of dread when he saw his father watching his mother all the time with such anxiety. It was a won-der he would even let her stack the linen. He wouldn't let her do anything this summer. He himself got up and cooked breakfast every morning, and Tim had to come in and clean the house. Gus churned and attended to butter and cream. MRS. ALLEN'S HUSBAND GIVES HER A SURPRISE

WEST MONROE, LA.-Mrs. Carl C. Allen of West Monroe, Louisi-una, has an interesting story to tell about how she discovered Faultless Starch. Here is what she

"Last week my husband brought home a box of Fault-less Starch. I decided to use it, thinking that all starches were about the same. You can imagine my surprise when I began ironing. My iron fairly flew and I was finished in no time. My clothes were so bright, with no rough starch blotches to mar their sleek-ness. I felt I just had to tell you how wonderful your starch is. My husband was just as proud as I when he saw his shirts. I wish all women could just try your product."

Now there is a thoughtful hus That box/of Faultless Starch really meant more to Mrs. Allen than a box of candy-and here is why:

SAVE 468 MINUTES A YEAR

Let's say it takes ten minutes to make hot starch when you have to cook it and stir it over a hot stove. But you can make hot Faultless Starch in a minute. That means you save nine minutes each time you make it. If you wash only once a week, in one year you would save 468 minutes, or seven hours and forty minutes. Would you rather have a box of candy or a box of starch that saved you better than seven hours a year?

SAVE 26 HOURS A YEAR

And that isn't all! Many people tell us that Faultless Starch makes it possible to save half their ironing time. Let's be conservative and say that Faultless Starch might save you half an hour each ironing day. In a year you would save twenty-six hours of hard iron-ing time! Which is best—a box of candy or a box of Faultless Starch?

Why go on starcting and ironing the hard way when you can do it the easy way with Faultless Starch. Or, better still, ask your grocer for a box today. You deserve Faultless Starch, too.—Adv.

TEMPERANCE BEGINS AT HOME

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-6; 3:14-15; Titus 2:1-4, 11, 12. GOLDEN TEXT—As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.—Joshua 24: 15.

The influence of the home on the character of a child is the strongest factor in the development of high and holy standards in the life of the man and woman. "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Prov. 22:6).

Emphasis is placed on temperance in our lesson, and it is clear that in the home real temperance principles may be built into the thinking of boys and girls. It is not easy for a young person who has been brought up right on this matter to go astray, no matter how severe the temptation.

I. Our Family Is God's Gift (II

Paul, the apostle of Christ, addressed his son in the faith, Timothy, with affection and appreciation. He knew the good which was in this fine young man and saw the possi-nne young man and saw the possibilities for service for God.

He knew that as the background of that faith, there was a godly line of ancestors, those with an "unfeigned faith." This young man, so precious to Paul and so successful in the ministry ward deep and shid. the ministry, owed a deep and abid-ing debt of gratitude to these godly women who had directed his step aright, who had instructed and en-couraged him in the right way.

Let those who are young recognize parents and grandparents who ad-monish and instruct them as God's gift. Let them not regard them as those who would restrict or restrain them unduly, but who for their own good and the glory of the Lord teach them the way to God.

II. Our Faith in God's Guidance (II Tim. 1:6; 3:14, 15).

The gift of God for preaching which Timothy had was recognized by the church, and he was sent forth to proclaim the gospel. But alas! the burdens of life and the pressure of service cause a man to forget or neglect his calling so there comes often the need of stirring up the gift of the Lord.

God gave it. He will bless us as we use it to its fullest possible extent. He wants us too, to stir it up this blessed, divine gift and call-

The admonition (v. 14) is to "continue" in that which was learned, to remain true to the Word of God. We show our faith in His guiding hand, as we resist by His grace, the ever-present temptation to get away from the only true founda-tion of a life of usefulness and joy. What we have learned as children we should hold fast in spite of all the devices of Satan and every weakness of the flesh. Stand fast in the

III. Our Fellowship in God's Gos

Old and young are to be united in a great communion of believers pro-claiming the gospel of God's grace claiming the gospel of God's grace by a living testimony, by a life de-voted to the things of God. Sound doctrine is the only source of sound living. To be "sound" means to be healthy, vigorous, free from defects, suited to a purpose. That means that everyday Christian living must express the vigorous soundness of the gospel. soundness of the gospel.

Men and women are to be "tem-perate," not given to excess, and particularly in mind here is the use of intoxicants. To be temperate in such a day and land as ours can. mean only one thing, and that is to abstain altogether. Christians ought to keep entirely away from intoxicants, and that includes beer and wine.

There is a positive side to the admonition, for soundness of life and faith shows itself in holy living, love patience, the teaching of God's Word, and in fine fellowship among the people of God. We need to stress that side of the teaching of this passage.

IV. Our Faithfulness by God's Grace (vv. 11, 12).
God's grace has brought salvation to man through Jesus Christ and His atoning death on the cross. That grace calls for and calls forth from the believer a renouncing of that which is ungodly and lustful (and you can put intoxicants right in there!) and a determination to live right in faithful devotion to God.

That brings about right relationships to self, to others, and to God. The Christian is sober and self-controlled as to anything which could "intoxicate" him, whether it be liquor, or lust, or pride, or any other such thing. He also shows that grace of God before men in a life of righteousness. Then he finds his true place in a reverent devotion to God which makes him a worshiper 'in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him' (John 4:23).

Faithfulness to our Lord will count more than our words in the great battle against intemperance. Let us stand true to Him and keep our witness clear and strong!

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Wonder-Women of Long Island

"Certainly there are baby toys about, but the place is neat and clean, and I myself always dressed in a clean, cheerful costume."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

OME months ago I wrote an article filled with sympathy for today's young mothers. I dwelt upon the difficulties they encounter in marketing, washing, cleaning, cooking, baby-tending, with so little help. I recalled the fact that we, who are mothers, in our young days could always secure the assistance of some competent woman, who managed kitchen and nursery, stood by us in all domestic crises, and left us plenty of time for occasional evening amusements, for theater, dancing, dinner parties.

The drudgery of today's mothers, their struggles in the markets, the steady care of restless, exacting children, the monotonous round of preparing meals and clearing them away, washing and ironing clothes, only to have them thrown into the tubs to repeat the process, — well, altogether it summed up what seemed to me pretty strenuous liv-

But a certain young wife of Seaford, L. I., vigorously disagrees with me. She writes me a scathing let-ter about it.

"I am 22," she says. "Before my marriage I was a show girl, and I am more supple and better looking now than I was then. I have two babies, 22 and 7 months old. I do all the housework, cooking, washing, cleaning, mending, ironing, baking cutting the lawn and shopping ing, cutting the lawn and shopping, ing, cutting the lawn and snopping, with stores five miles away. I help in the garden, do all my own preserving and canning, and make all mine and the children's clothes, from hats to winter coats and bathing suits. I keep up my acrobatics, reading and organ playing.

Time to Go Out With Husband.

"Certainly there are baby toys about, but the place is neat and clean, and I myself am always dressed in a clean, cheerful costume, with costume jewelry and hair bows and so on. I am always willing to dance, at home, with my husband in the evenings, go for long walks with him and the children on his days off, and dance the night away when we can get someone to mind the babies.

also," the letter continues, "make all our rag rugs, curtains, afghans, quilts, blankets and pillows, and still have plenty of time left over. I am not bragging, for my neighbor on the left does all this with eight children, from 6 months to 16 years, and all my neighbors have from four to six children, and are still beautiful women, wearing sizes 12 and 14.

"The women you quote," the letter ends, "must be slatterns and idiots."

One can only respectfully agree with this fiery little housewife, and warmly congratulate her husband and the husbands of her clean, capable, cheerful — yet undersized — neighbors. They must have some secret that many other women have mastered dancing, long walks and the making of pillows take time, and eight chil-

IDEAL HOME-MAKERS

Many young mothers have been complaining bitterly about the difficulties of caring for one or two children during the last four years. Scarcities of almost every necessity, slow laundry service, and a hundred other vexations made the always trying tasks doubly hard. Besides that, it has been almost impossible to hire any household help. To add to all this, many servicemen's wives have had to work when they could, to add to their small income from the government.

Even with peace again over the land, these war-born problems are still here for the most part, and will be for many months. Some women, however have such courage, energy and pride that they refuse to be downcast by hardships. Today's article contains a letter from a group of New York mothers who take everything in stride, and seem to have a good time doing it.

These young women have from two to eight children. They do practically all their own work, including a lot of sewing and gardening. Yet they somehow have time for dances and parties occasionally. Except for such mechanical helps as vacuum cleaners and washing machines they have no assistance in their daily chores. Miss Norris calls them "wonder-women."

dren mean 30 meals a day, and 30 meals mean at least 60 cups, 180 60 spoons to wash every plates, 60 spoons to wash every day, 50 little garments to wash and iron every week — to say nothing of the bables' pin-ups and the bath towels, the boys' jeans and some 70 pairs of socks. No, the imagination staggers at it, and one can only bow respectfully to such efficiency.

Modern Devices Help.

Our own nursery was well filled, half a century ago, and the older members did help, and were expected to help. We peeled potatoes, and the older members did help. set tables, tended the younger chil-dren, ran errands, made ourselves useful in dozens of ways But the woman who wrote this let-ter has no such help. Her children are babies; her daily baby wash runs to 50 articles. Her children spatter mush on their high chairs, demand daily baths, wake her at unearthly hours, need complete changes of crib bedding and their play aprons every day or twice a day, and still she has "plenty of time left over."

Certainly she has a thousand helps earlier generations of women didn't have. She can get codfish cakes and biscuits all ready to cook, ready-made bread and cakes; she doesn't have to fill lamps or stoke coal stoves; hot water runs in her bathroom; vacuum cleaner works miracles; she doesn't have to walk that five miles to the store as her grandmother would have done.

But just the same — those must be wonder-women down in that little Long Island town.

Ready-Made Dresses

Shop with an eye on possible alterations when buying ready-made garments. Some ready-made dresses are difficult to alter, and clothing is still too scarce to warrant gambling on a misfit.

Whether a garment is to be altered at the store or at home, you are advised against buying one that requires complicated changes. If a dress that fits throughout cannot be found, buy one that fits the upper part of the body, as the skirt is less difficult to alter.

Una O'Connor, one of Hollywood's most versatile character actresses, makes a good bit of extra money each year by doing the crying for screen babies who refuse to wail when the director wants them to. If you've ever wondered what the studio audience was laughing at, when listening to a broadcast, and felt annoyed because you couldn't share the fun, you'll agree with Kate Smith's manager, Ted Collins, who feels that too many radio stars play up to the studio audience, to the detriment of their radie performances. That's why Kate has eliminated studio audiences on her new Friday night series.

Simple Methods Check Ravages of Tiny Moth

Of all household pests, the most devastating is the delicate little moth. Each year it is responsible for millions of dollars worth of damage to fabrics and furs. Last summer was a record season for such losses. Yet homemakers can bring this damage down to almost zero by simple methods: cleanli-ness, the use of preventive chemi-cals, and the proper packing and storage of woolen garments while not in use.

The need for preventive treatment is greater now than ever be-fore. Ruin of a single garment may not seem a disaster to the person who has money to replace it, but multiplied by many garments it be-comes a serious matter when every additional yard of fabric requires vital raw materials and more

Whenever possible, garments subject to moth damage should be washed before storing to rid them of the soil, spots, and grease which are so attractive to the moth. Overcoats and other articles that cannot go into the washtub should be drycleaned or should at least be cleaned or should at least be brushed thoroughly to remove dirt from pockets, seams, folds and hems, and should be hung in the sun for several hours. They should then be treated with a moth preventive and placed in a clean, absolutely airtight container or wrapped tightly in clean news-

Soy Flour

Either of two types of soy flour on the market, the full-fat and the low-fat flour, can be used in most recipes. Soy flour, like grits, helps to make ground heats go further in loaves or patties. It may be used in soups and sauces, desserts, and many baked goods. Plain soy flour helps to thicken sandwic'. fillings. In most of your favorite recipes, you may replace two tablespoonfuls of wheat flour with two tablespoonfuls of soy flour in each cup of white flour called for. To save time, put two tablespoonfuls of the soy flour in the bottom of the measuring cup, then fill the cup with white flour.
