EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, FRI DAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1945.

NUMBER 44

Crimson Wave vs. The Green Wave

EAST JORDAN WINS FROM GRAYLING 6 - 0 AT HOME-COMING

During the first half of the ball game East Jordan was in the groove with plenty of speed. Plenty of passes were tipped and not many were complete, all of which were short.

Each team hit hard. When a man was hit he really buckled. There was no slouching in this game.

Kolien (center) hit the line, stayed on his feet and pinned the Green Wave half-back for a 7-yard loss. This being Grayling's first play looked bad for them.

However Grayling came to within 15 yards of a touchdown. On the last play there was a pass into the end zone. Sinclair tipped it for an incomplete.

Nemecek and Hitchcock

There were many passes thrown in the final half of the game. Nemecek received a pass from Hitchcock about helmet high and went about 30 yards to within 2 yards of the end zone. Hitchcock then charged through the line for the touchdown.

The Green Wave tried hard for a touchdown with passes. Most of them were good passes, but the receiver would turn before he really had the ball or keeps, thus, on the turn, he would lose it. Grayling threw five in a row the last five minutes of the game. Only one was good for 12 yards.

High scores and constant changes in the standings highlight a week of bowling in the Merchant's League and the Dog House League which got underway last Friday. Rare is the score of 653 for three games but last week Greg Boswell did the trick, and Friday Joe Wilkins shot the identical score. Greg's average for the season is 191 and he leads all other bowlers by a big margin, Ed. Nemecek being in second place with 176 average. However, since Joe Wilkins score was on the first night of the Dog House, he has a 217 average. Two other bowlers have also set new records for the season. Fr. J. J. Malinowski had 2nd high three games on '614, while left-handed Dick Adair piled up strikes and spares to net a big 243, which is high single game of the year.

"Selling Michigan to Michigan people" should be a major activity of the Michigan tourist, according to Governor Harry F. Kelly.

Kelly aired his views before members of the Michigan Tourist Council which met recently at Higgins Lake. The council, a state agency, comprises the secretaries of the four regional tourist associations and a number of other interested citizens.

The governor's statement was made as a comment on the need for greater advertising promotion in Michigan and nearby states of the Middle-West and less promotion on a national basis by which the travel attractions of Michigan would be presented to residents of California, Maine, Texas and other states of the Union.

It is this writer's conviction that the Michigan tourist industry is missing a good bet in preservation and promotion of some of Michigan's unique historical landmarks.

Mackinac Island has been acclaimed by the Daughters of the American Revolution as being "Michigan's most historical spot." These words are found on a tablet in the memorial park just below the fort. The maintenance of Fort Mackinac, a truly national historical shrine, is a responsibility of the State of Michigan which provides funds to the Mackinac Island Park commission, a state agency, as the operating authority.

To the northeast of Mackinac Island is another historical landmark, old Fort Drummond, which enjoys the distinction of being the last British fort in the United States.

This military outpost was established by British troops following their evacuation of Mackinac Island in 1814. Whitney bay at the southwestern promontory of Drummond Island was selected by Lt. Col. McDonall, British commandant at Fort Mackinac, and Captain Payne of the British Royal Engineers and Captain Collins of the British Royal Navy because of its accessibility to Indians and the resultant value to the British in retaining the valuable fur trade.

That old Fort Drummond is being shamefully neglected by the State of Michigan even to the extent of being properly marked with a tablet is a fact that cannot be contradicted and which we have previously deplored. Remaining yet for visitors to see are two great chimneys used for officers' quarters; another fort chimney now part of a private cabin; some walls of old buildings; evidence of the fort artillery road and the parade grounds, and the British military cemetery, 100 by 150 feet.

At this for the former Mackinac island troops - 350 to 400 in number - were on duty until the fall of 1828, just 14 years after the Treaty of Ghent which formally closed the War of 1812.

"Here is a genuine historical landmark, now neglected and overlooked as a tourist appeal. It could attract thousands of visitors every summer. It is a genuine relic of early American history."

During the 1945 summer season we had the privilege of visiting another island in Michigan that is rich in historical lore and which is being overlooked also by the tourist industry and the State of Michigan.

We refer to Beaver Island at the north end of Lake Michigan, accessible by boat from Charlevoix and hence three hours' off the tourist travel lane along the west coast.

St. James, the only town on Beaver Island, enjoys the distinction of once being a rival Mormon kingdom to Brigham Young's Salt Lake City.

The story of the Mormons in Michigan is fairly well known to Michigan residents. When Brigham Young was chosen to be the successor of the murdered Joseph Smith, James J. Strang led a group of dissenting Mormons to Michigan's Beaver Island. They founded St. James because of its fine harbor at the north end of the island.

The King's Highway, the main thoroughfare from St. James, is a reminder of the Mormon era as are Lake Galilee and the River Jordan, the island's sole trout stream.

But the most interesting relic of the Mormon period nearly 100 years ago is the Mormon printing house, a frame building with low ceiling and roof. Here the Daily Northern Islander, a daily newspaper, made its debut in 1856. A front page containing an announcement of the "murderous assault" on King Strang is on display in the lobby of the King Strang Hotel now operated by Fred Spalding, formerly of Pontiac.

Like the old British fort on Drummond Island the old Mormon landmarks at Beaver Island have been ignored and neglected by the State of Michigan, despite their obvious historical value to future generations and their potential commercial benefit to the tourist industry.

We cite these, two landmarks as affording examples of what might be utilized in "selling Michigan to Michigan people."

In Wisconsin the state government has acquired four historical landmarks. These are maintained by the state conservation department as a part of Wisconsin's recreational-tourist attractions.

We believe Michigan should consider the example of Wisconsin and acquire old Fort Drummond, the remaining Mormon landmarks on Beaver Island and other similar historical spots while there is still time to save them from extinction.

We believe, as does Governor Kelly, that there is a real job to be done in "selling Michigan to Michigan people."

Yank Pol'ce at Leipzig

Pack Terrific Wallop

LEIPZIG, GERMANY. - The Allied military government in Leipzig is supported by a police force that packs a terrific punch. The force is equipped with half-tracks with revolving turrets, machine guns and self-propelled guns.

Trouble has occurred at food stores and at liquor and tobacco shops. Liberated foreign workers stoned them and the Germans got the same idea. The American half-tracks fired shots into the air and the mobs were charged with other vehicles. This scattered the rioters.

Curfew violators were numerous the first night. They were herded into a large vacant lot and forced to spend the night there.

U. S. Glider Pilot Proves

He Can Land 'On a Dime'

MUSKOGON. MICH. - Uncle Sam's pilots can literally land gliders "on a dime"—one of them proved it here.

Lt. John S. Bryant of Lexington, Ky., a pilot in the Troop Carrier Command, accepted a challenge to free his glider from a transport plane at 2,000 feet and bring it to a halt with the nose resting on a dime.

The coin was placed on a white sheet to increase its visibility.

When Bryant made good, officers of the Troop Carrier Command, here with a group of invasion veterans to stir interest in glider production, said they believed it the first time such a feat had been accomplished.

HOW TO USE YOUR GREEN TOMATOES

Frosts in many parts of the state has made it necessary for gardeners to gather their green tomatoes. Now they're wondering what to do with these vitamin-packed garden leftovers.

Mrs. Vivian MacFawn, extension nutrition specialist of Michigan State college, offers a solution in the form of green tomato recipes that require very little or no white sugar. Here they are:

Half-inch slices of green or partially ripened tomato may be salted, dipped in fine bread crumbs and pan fried in bacon fat, oven fried or even broiled. Strips of bacon add to the flavor. A good combination is a slice of pared, salted eggplant, dipped in cornmeal, browned on both sides and topped with a slice of tomato which has been rolled in flour and cereal flakes and fried brown.

Dill green tomato pickles may be made without sugar. Pack small, firm fruit into jars and add to each quart, if desired, a bud of garlic, stalk of celery and a cut-up green pepper. Boil 2 quarts of water, 1 quart vinegar and 1 cup salt with dill for 5 minutes. The jars may be sealed as soon as the hot brine has been poured over the tomatoes.

Green tomato mince meat may be made without suet and with little sugar (substitute syrup or honey for 1-3 to 1-2 the sugar.) Sprinkle 1 gallon chopped green tomatoes with one tablespoon salt. Let stand 1 hour; drain. Cover tomatoes with boiling water; let stand 5 minutes; drain. Add grated rind and pulp of 1 orange. Mix with 1 cup suet, 3 cups brown sugar, 2 cups seeded raisins, 1 cup grape juice or cider, 2 cups chopped apple or pear, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, and 1-2 teaspoon ginger. Cook until thick. Process 1 hour in hot water bath.

Green tomatoes also can be slow ripened and will furnish the Thanksgiving table with fresh, red fruit. To ripen green tomatoes, place them in paper bags; but don't wrap each fruit separately. Then place the bags of tomatoes in a room or in the basement where the temperature will not drop below 55 degrees F. For slow ripening keep the temperature close to the 55 mark. No sunlight is necessary.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
ATOMIC BOMB CREATES SUPER-SPY SYSTEM NEED

WASHINGTON—Major General Wild Bill Donovan bowed out of the first real American intelligence service (OSS) with a somewhat cool-sounding response from President Truman to his idea of developing his line of effort further for peace. Mr. Truman cut up OSS, sending part to the War Department, but most to State. The Donovan notion of hiring someone like Summer Welles, the ex-diplomat, to keep intimate and independent watch on the inner international world, was left hanging in air—somewhat foggy air.

General Donovan has never been a glamour boy. He is a rather crusty soldier-lawyer. Those who know what he did in the confidential special agent part of the war say his work in the Balkans particularly was excellent and could have been done by no one else as well. Into his organization, however, crept a number of persons who did not fit the best nature of the endeavor and gave it distaste with Congress. I think this fairly sums up OSS. It did great work, but was not popular. (I can never learn what accomplishments popularity in this era when a bank robber can possibly attain it by merely being for the 30-hour week or some such social innovation.)

In the wake of this peculiar condition, congressmen are arising to shout "There will be no American Gestapo," and I assume also they mean no OGPU or NKVD. Indeed there will not. But there is a grave danger that the first vital necessity for a secure postwar world will be ignored and slanted aside by muddleheaded political thinking about it.

If you thought Pearl Harbor a surprise and the atomic bomb as lightning, you are already old-fashioned and obsolete in your thinking. The next war will start like a flash—the brilliant blinding flash of the atomic bomb. If our defenses were archaic last time, they will be pitiful next time unless our officials know everything going on in this world. Advance knowledge is more essential to defense in a future world than a superior air force, an army or fleet.

Not the Fascists or the Communist nations, but the British, a democratic nation, have the best world intelligence. It was built up through generations. Their survival depended upon it, because their little islands had absolutely nothing to justify their superior position in the world, except an awareness of the facts of national existences and a superior shrewdness in using them. That is what we need—only a better one.

It cannot be an army enterprise because the army covers only one phase of world facts influencing peace and security. It cannot be navy, marine corps, or merely all three together, because diplomacy must be founded upon such information. (The British even move commercially from such realistic ground news.) It cannot be split, or you will have each department performing again the coordination they showed about Pearl Harbor—namely none.

INDEPENDENT BUREAU NEEDED

Consequently it must be an independent bureau covering at least these government elements and probably more (Justice Department and FBI.) Furthermore, the head must be a man whose character and personality guarantee full pursuit of the business to be done, and a complete disavowal of any political implications in the work. He must not be a leftist or right or even a professional Democrat or Republican. That service must lean over backwards to keep itself politically inviolable, and beyond even the faintest suspicion of political use. (The British know how to do it.)

The only limit on its appropriations should be our need of information. If we need the information—get it. If the spenders want to let Treasury money loose, here is one place where they could get something out of it. Some interested parties wish to limit the scope of activity to foreign information. It should be limited only by need. If it is found counterproductive in this country it requires action, no political softpeddling considerations should be allowed to stand in the way of getting it.

Softly Draped Handbags Tuned to Stunning Fall and Winter Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DESIGNERS are on the qui vive this season to create handsome handbags that will measure up to the fashion glory and the new elegance of the stunning costumes which go to make up the fall and winter style picture.

In assembling your fall-winter wardrobe, keep in mind that this year your costume will be only as smart as the handbag you carry with it. That's how important handbags really are. You will have no trouble in finding as handsome handbags and as versatile as ever fancy might picture. Be sure to make your selection with meticulous care, for this year's handbags make a decided departure from the stereotyped styles of yore.

The three voguish Jenny handbags shown in the illustration are typical of the new movement toward the feminine look, achieved through soft draping. These bags are styled as American women prefer them, with elegance and stark clean lines, and in fabrics that mean fashion and wearability.

With your perfect dawn-to-dusk trotter, the bag to the left will be ideal. It is spiced with the new soft look via uniquely quilted and gathered supple goatskin. You'll take real pleasure in this bag because it is so roomily built to take care of your feminine possessions, and it sure is a winner in "looks."

Simple enough for tailored casuals, feminine enough for all your frills is the handbag centered above. It tells you that the under-arm bag has lost its strictly tailored look, has been lifted out of it this season with soft pleats and soft draping, as you see. The supple goatskin that fashions this bag is most attractive not only to the eye but to the touch. The mock tortoise that makes such a good-looking trim is outstanding in the news when it comes to adding the touch that tells to this season's smartest handbags.

Sleek, smooth, quality-kind broadcloth, the fabric that fraternizes with most every costume, makes the good-looking bag to the right. In this instance, the designer takes the ever-popular underarm hand bag and artfully drapes a pleated flange through a graceful span of mock tortoise.

Speaking in general of what's what in new handbag fashions, the most exciting innovation in many a season is the advent of little bulbous pouch bags done in eye-catching silhouettes. These pouch bags certainly have cunning ways and they are staging a display of breathtaking novelty. Made of practical broadcloth, faille and various wearable media, they carry on in a modest way by day. When it comes to the dressy cocktail party and gala after-five occasion, however, the little pouch bag puts on a spectacular display that fairly bubbles over with all the glitter and intriguing fustiness imagination can devise.

Just now it's the whimsical pouch bag of black satin that holds forth in the fashion spotlight. Women are buying these bags to go with the satin hat and with the all-satin gown that is so style-important this fall. These black satin bags are perfect with afternoon and evening clothes. The party bags fairly scintillate with the glitter of sequins or tiny steel or jet beads. Most of the box bags have straps to sling over the arm. The newest news of all is the little shoulder strap bags that become a decorative part of the frock when dancing.

Blouse Favorites

Sheer lingerie blouses of loveliest texture, and exquisitely detailed with lace register as topflight fashion with the young set this fall to wear with the dress-up suit. Shown at the top is a charming "come hither" blouse in batiste by Judy Bond, a young college girl and stylist who is combining a career and schooling with high success. The other blouse in judiana rayon crepe is the wanted kind for college wear. Its highspot style details are the triple-stitched convertible V-neck, closely set pearl buttons and french cuffs. Comes in white and voguish colors.

Furred Cloth Coats Make Fashion News

The short cloth coat with intriguing fur trim is taking over in a tremendous way for fall. The top news is luxurious wool coats with gorgeous borders that either trim the flare hemline or are applied in a tuxedo manner down the front. Important is the style message of fur sleeves in cloth coats, such as the belted wool shorties in neutral shades that are fashioned with waist deep sleeves of black Persian. Interesting also is the cloth coat with a fur yoke. Contrasting the voluptuous fur trims is the use of fur in discreet ways, as for instance, the cloth coat that is bound all around the edges with Persian or beaver or other smooth peltry. There is also indication that one type fur will trim another. Designers are doing wonderful things with fur, not only in trimming but in accessories, and fur hats are being turned out in endless versions.

Color Contrast Extended To New Evening Dresses

The idea of color contrast is associated in our minds for the most part in connection with sports clothes and daytime dresses. It's interesting to note that this color technique is carrying on in the realm of formal evening gowns. In one instance a noted designer introduces a panel that extends from the right shoulder to the floor hemline of the dress. The panel is made up of lime and red, flashed against a black background.

Sequin Ornaments on Combs
 Sequin flower motifs on combs are among the hair ornaments that are best sellers. Some are designed especially for top hairdress and others for top-knot hair-do.

THE CHURCH AS A FELLOWSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Romans 12:3-18.
 GOLDEN TEXT—Be kindly affectioned one to another . . . in honor preferring one another.—Romans 12:10.

The greatest and most important institution in the world is the Church. The home, which we have been studying in recent weeks, is the primary unit of society, but its relationships are primarily of a personal nature. In the church there is an organized fellowship within a God-made institution, the living organism through which the Lord brings such blessing to the world—the Church.

Here, in God's house, among God's people, the believer finds strength and joy. The Lord's people are:

I. Different Yet United (vv. 3-8).
 God is not interested in uniformity, but He does want unity. In the Church are all types of gifts and personalities, each one useful to God. He does not want them all reduced to that drab uniformity which characterizes so many man-made products.

Prophecy, ministry, teaching, giving, ruling—yes, all the various works to which God calls men should be done diligently for His glory. No man is to think of himself as more or less useful to God. His work is different, but it is God's work, and when all serve as they should there is unity and efficiency in the accomplishing of His blessed purpose.

The unity of believers in Christ (v. 5) is something which needs emphasis in our day. The forces of Protestantism are so divided as to be largely ineffective in many important fields.

Not only are they divided but there are almost endless divisions within denominations—yes, and even in local churches. Sometimes there are issues which cannot be met except by separation, but there are also many unnecessary divisions, dishonoring to God and weakening to the Church.

Let's remember we can be different (God wants us to be!) but we will be united! God wants that, doesn't He?

II. Active Yet Kind (vv. 9-11).

God puts no premium on laziness or indifference. We are not to be "sloughful," but "fervent" in spirit. Sometimes one feels that the Church has gone sound asleep. It is alive but inactive. It professes to have a zeal for God, but if there is any fervency of spirit, in most places it must be well hidden. But that is not possible, is it?
 How much we need a stirring revival in the Church to bring the people of God into active service for Him. If your church as a whole does not respond to the Lord's Word, why do you not as an individual ask God to rekindle His fire in your heart?

There is to be a humility (v. 10), a fine cleanness of thought and life (v. 9), an unfeigned love for the brethren (v. 9), along with all the fervency of spirit and zeal for service.

There is much talk of uniting Christendom and no little danger of compromise for the sake of an outward unity. Such schemes are destined to failure, but unity in Christ, which recognizes Him as the divine Head of the Church, that we do desperately need and should seek for His glory, for the good of the Church and for the blessing of a world lost in sin and strife.

III. Troubled Yet Peaceful (vv. 12-18).

The Church of Christ is in the world to witness for and to serve Him. Hence, it must face all the persecutions and trials which an unbelieving world will bring upon it. Christians are not exempt from the troubles and sorrows common to all mankind.

Therein we find one of the great opportunities for effective witness, for as the Christian and the Church rightly meet such difficulties, they testify to the grace of God which can give peace in one's heart in the midst of turmoil and distress.

Read the verses. Persecuted, but not embittered thereby; weeping but also rejoicing; meeting evil with good and crookedness with honesty; meeting pride with humility and division with unity; yes, living at peace (as far as it is possible) in a belligerent world.

There is something essentially fine and noble and inspiring about the Christian Church wherever and whenever it lives up to the Lord's purpose for it and its members. There is something dismal and discouraging about the Church when it fails the Lord and His mighty cause.

Some feel that the Church is in just such a state of failure and impotence in our day. If it is true of your church, why not pray and work for a revival which will sweep all the deadness out and bring in a new refreshing breath of power from the very throne of God? Do it now!

Tarragon Vinegar
 Tarragon vinegar is a favorite in dressing summer salads. The dark green leaves of tarragon are used for seasoning the vinegar. They are used both fresh and dried. This herb needs a little covering of litter and leaves for winter protection.

Cage Crickets
 In the Orient the chirping noise of the house cricket is highly appreciated and many households keep them in cages, the cages often elaborately wrought and decorated.

Two-Headed Stream
 The Rhine river rises as a two-headed stream in Southern Switzerland, enters the Boden See (Lake Constance), and emerges to continue its winding 850-mile course to its multi-mouthed outlet in the North sea. In its oceanward journey it picks up several important tributaries, such as the Lahn, the Neckar, the Main, and the Ruhr from the east, and the Mosel from the west. In some stretches the river is an international boundary. It is a frontier between Switzerland and tiny Liechtenstein, between Switzerland and the old Austria, between Switzerland and Germany, and between France and Germany. Through Germany the river flows in a general northwesterly direction, turning sharply west at the Netherlands line to enter the North sea.

Freshen Grass With Fertilizer in Fall

Late August or September is the best season to give lawn grass a "lift." After the hard summer season, some refreshments in the way of fertilizer, and possibly lime, is called for. Thin stands of grass are particularly in need of help. If your lawn has not been limed in the last few years, it is suggested that you apply 50 to 75 pounds of ground limestone per 1,000 square feet. This will sweeten the soil and make it possible for the grasses to respond better to fertilizer treatment.

The addition of 10 to 20 pounds of fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of lawn will do wonders. Fertilizers such as 5-10-5, 4-12-8 or those of similar ratios are well adapted for thickening lawn grasses. Uniform distribution can be obtained by spreading the material in two directions. Measure out half of the fertilizer needed for the lawn and spread it in a north-south direction. Then spread the other half in an east-west direction, and there should be little difficulty in getting even coverage.

Lawns given a tonic in the manner described soon will assume a good healthy color and develop a dense stand of grass. Lawns composed of dense turf will resist invasion by undesirable weeds such as crabgrass, buckhorn and dandelion.

Combustible Hay
 Experienced farmers know that hay, if incompletely cured at time of storage—meaning that it has a moisture content of 25 to 30 per cent—is subject to spontaneous combustion.

Ferk Up Potato Salad
 Potato salad will taste better if placed in the refrigerator to chill several hours before serving time. This gives the onions and seasonings a chance to permeate the salad, making it uniformly delicious.

Trail-Makers
 The first trail-makers in America were buffaloes.

Yes sir! Now its Private First Class IRENE BUGAL.

From Weisbaden, Germany, S-Sgt. DOROTHY H. CLARK reports in a new address of: Wac. Det. Hq. & Hq. Sq., USAF, APO 633, c-o pmr, N. Y., and says that part of Germany is very much like Michigan, and just about as warm.

Pfc. STANLEY SUTTON, now in Korea, sends in a new address of Co. K, 32nd Inf, APO 7, c-o pmr, S. F., and says: "I was at Okinawa, which wasn't so very much to look at. We sure have it nice here in Korea. The people sure treat us just fine. You see the Japanese used to occupy this place and ruled over the Koreans. But since we got here we have treated them and then have shipped them all back to Japan. When we first landed we expected opposition, but we didn't have any trouble with them much except for a few machine guns they had which we took from them in a hurry. * * * I don't think it will be too long before our whole 7th Division will be heading back."

Michigan merry-go-round continues to whirl at an ever increasingly dizzy pace.

Its promised post-war world that has become suddenly a period of emotional letdown after years of war excitement and an income letdown after years of push, inflated paychecks financed chiefly by piling blindly more and more billions upon the public's debt.

From the atomic bomb down to matters of lesser import, public confusion reigns supreme. Washington leadership is anything but positive; in fact, woefully wobbly. Labor and management have their respective viewpoints. Class hatreds are being revived now that the war is over and the pressure for victory has come abruptly to an end.

Headlines of metropolitan journals vary between a revolting ax murder and new labor strikes. Its the great day of peace!

Employees of Consumers Power company go on a strike, rejecting a compromise offer of a mediator; all because the proposed pay increase fell short two cents of the union's demand.

A mediator proposed settlement of 13 cents an hour; the company agreed; the union held out for 15 cents. Hence, the threat of an industrial tie-up and widespread hardships, like a pistol at your head, just to get two cents more an hour.

Are nerves on edge? Something is obviously wrong somewhere. We'll be charitable and blame it on the jitters.

Michigan, has been banking heavily on the automobile industry to lead the way back to prosperity.

Our banks are loaded with money. Deposit boxes are jammed with war bonds. Everyone is anxious to buy this and that as soon as possible. The stage is set for a genuine period of good times for everyone who really wants to work.

Then comes the UAW demand for 52 hours pay for 40 hours work, or the equivalent of a 30 per cent increase in the worker's income computed at overtime rates for 48 hours war work. Now the UAW doesn't expect to get 30 per cent, but that's their bargaining bid.

"If you don't give us 30 per cent, we'll call a strike vote", is the ultimatum.

And so strikes are coming.

Well, where does the Michigan farmer enter this picture?

That's what a lot of growers would like to know. They are being advised on reliable authority to expect a decline in the price of their farm products in the post-war world, although temporary new highs may be attained during an interim.

History reminds us that farm commodity prices, following the November 11 armistice in 1918, sagged slightly and then went up to a peak in the early summer of 1920. Then prices crashed.

Post-war inflation then was of short duration. Many farmers paid dearly for speculation in land. The same logic applies today, regardless of hopes for perpetual Washington price controls and whatnot. The government is now committed to maintain farm commodity prices at 85-90 per cent of parity until December 31, 1947.

Farm experts advise that low cost, efficient producers will continue to make money in the post-war world. But they can expect LESS income, not more.

If such is the case, it is not reasonable to predict that farm unrest will be aggravated by a FURTHER unbalancing of the national economy?

We use the word "further" on good authority. At least, we assume that when it comes to facts, three of Michigan's top educators — Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven of the University of Michigan, Dr. John A. Hanna of Michigan State College and Dr. Eugene B. Elliott of the state department of public instruction — know what they're talking about.

Consider then the significance of the following words which appeared in a joint statement signed by these educators for "Rural Michigan", a work book available to Michigan citizens through the generosity of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek.

Ponder them well:

"For the past decade or two, farmers and small town residents have comprised a fifth of the nation's population. They have received only about one-tenth of the national income. Such 'shortchanging' should not be brushed off by statements regarding the values of farmer's home ownership, his household partnership, his life in the out-of-doors, or his relatively independent mode of life.

"In the rural areas of Michigan live one and three quarter millions of people. It must be the primary concern of all to make life in these sections richer, more attractive, more satisfying, more secure. That some of these essentials are lacking is manifested by the large number of people — young people especially — who migrate to the city for comforts and privileges denied them on the farm."

And so we come to an interesting question, as labor strike clouds grow black on the Michigan horizon. Here it is:

If Michigan farmers were already getting less than their share of the national income and if they can expect less income in the post-war world, instead of more, how much less would they have if work wages of organized industrial workers are pushed upward? Wages are prices. You can't boost one without boosting the other. Farmers are not going to stand by idly and let the city worker, because of the power of a union and the threat of a strike, get a larger share of the national income.

That much we confidently predict.

GOOD RURAL LINE NEIGHBORS share the wires

There are more telephones today on most rural lines than before the war.

This is because there were so many "war-essential" rural folks who had telephones installed. And because of shortages of materials and manpower, we weren't able to expand the system sufficiently.

Now that the war is over, we are resuming our rural expansion and improvement program. As sufficient trained manpower and materials become available, we shall be able to add enough new lines so there again will be fewer telephones per line.

Meanwhile, the best way for everybody to have good service is to treat his telephone neighbors as he himself would like to be treated: keep all calls short... avoid listening in or interrupting when the line is in use... hang up the receiver carefully. One receiver off the hook can tie up a whole line.

- 3 For all veterans—the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (G. I. Bill) with such amendments as may prove necessary in the practical application of this act when the Armed Forces are demobilized.
- 4 For all veterans and widows of veterans—civil service preference in employment; the assurance
- 5 of jobs and opportunities under the traditional American system of free enterprise unhampered by taxes which eliminate the profit incentive, monopolies which destroy competition, restrictions or trade barriers that discourage capital investments and industrial expansion.
- 6 For a durable peace—participation in a world alliance among freedom-loving nations to suppress future wars; national defense policies which will include universal military training; maintenance of our military strength on a basis which will enable the United States to protect its far-flung interests against future attacks.
- 7 For a better America by fighting for every principle which gives added strength to the Bill of Rights.

THESE six points compose our reply to the questions "What are the purposes of the V. F. W.? How do you propose to help the veteran? What are your plans for a better and stronger America? What is the V. F. W. doing to prevent a new war 25 years hence?"

Swear and toil, the sacrifice of human lives, deeply rooted emotions and common sense have all been molded into this creed or declaration of purpose. It aims to set forth in clear detail what we mean when we say it is our sincere desire to honor the dead by helping the living.

You who have served in the Armed Forces, on foreign soil or in hostile waters, will find a spirit of comradeship within the V. F. W. that will be important to you in terms of practical advice and aid based upon years of experience. Among the hundreds of thousands of World War II veterans who already belong to our organization, you will find the fellowship of mutual understanding and a common language.

Safety Record

Although railroads are handling a greater amount of high explosives on account of the war than ever before, not a single railroad employee lost his life in 1944 as a result of accidents in connection with the transportation of explosives. Seven accidents due to the transportation of explosives took place in 1944. These resulted in only one person being injured and a total property loss of $75,440. One accident took place in connection with the transportation of fire works, while six accidents resulted from the transportation of military explosives. In the past 11 years, there has been only one fatality resulting from accidents in connection with the transportation of explosives and that one took place in 1939.

Dangerous Cargo

In connection with the transportation of great quantities of dangerous articles, other than explosives, handled by the railroads in 1944, two persons were killed and 40 injured. Those two fatalities resulted from accidents in connection with the handling of gasoline. Accidents in connection with the movement of various dangerous articles other than explosives totaled 990 in 1944. Of this number, gasoline accounted for 178, electrical storage batteries, 170; crude oil, 138; sulphuric acid, 72; nitric acid, 46, and naphtha, 30. Property damage in connection with fires and explosions resulting from such accidents totaled $568,283 compared with $1,128,150 in 1943, when there were 966 accidents and six fatalities.

Safe in Feed

Well over 700,000 tons (14,000,000 bags) of commercially mixed feed containing urea as an ingredient were fed to ruminants in the United States during the past year with satisfactory results, according to a statement compiled by a special committee selected to review technical and practical backgrounds of urea feeding. Extensive studies at leading agricultural colleges and experiment stations in the United States demonstrate without exception that urea, in scientifically safe amounts, is properly assimilated, the committee said. It can efficiently replace a limited portion of the normal protein in the diet of such ruminants as dairy cows, growing heifers, steers and range cattle.

Thunderhead

MARY O'HARA
W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Thunderhead is the only white horse ever foaled on the Goose Bar ranch in Wyoming. He is a throwback to his great grand sire, the Albino, a wild stallion. His 14-year-old owner, Ken McLaughlin, hopes that he will become a famous racer. Thunderhead is entered at a fall race meet in Idaho. He is very fast but is hard to handle. Rob McLaughlin, Ken's father, sells off most of his horses and goes into sheep raising. Financial worries had created a rift between Rob and his wife, Nell, but they are reconciled. Ken is to go with Thunderhead to the races. Nell finds that she will soon be a mother again.

CHAPTER XXI

Of course, no riding; and there was a new outdoor couch with wheels on the terrace under the pergola where she lay for many hours, not doing anything, her hands clasped behind her neck, her eyes on the sky or the distant hills. Often the hair of her bang was darkened with sweat, and there were tiny beads on her upper lip, and her hands were not steady.

Their father had called both boys to him soon after they got home and had said with his harsh voice and his fiercest eyes, "Don't do anything this summer that will cause your mother trouble or pain or the least anxiety!"

"No, sir," he and Howard had answered instantly. Afterwards, they had looked at each other with a long thoughtful look. This was serious. It mustn't be forgotten. Their father sure meant what he said.

Howard's coming home had been another excitement, because Howard was changed. At least he was changed when Ken first saw him getting off the train and riding home in the car telling his mother and father things about the school in a deep voice that never slipped up any more. He was in his gray tweed suit, and the Fedora didn't look funny on his face now.

When he got into a shirt and blue-jeans with a bandana hanging out of his hind pocket, Ken began to feel more easy with him. And next day Howard stopped sitting gravely with his mother and father and began to talk with Ken and wrestle with him. And on the third day they started to tell each other things. Ken made the acquaintance of Howard's two best friends at school, Jake who was a football star, and Bugs. And in turn he told Howard all about his trip to the Valley of the Eagles, and promised to take Howard there as soon as there was a chance, and undid his belt and pulled up his shirt, and showed him the scar from the eagle's talons. It was still impressive.

"You know, Howard! Gee! Sometimes I just can't believe it." "Can't believe what?" "That it's all turning out to be real about Thunderhead."

"Real? Why you dope—what fun would it be if it wasn't real?" "Well, I dunno—"

"Were you just pretending about it all?" "Oh, of course not!" Ken was puzzled about that. How you can be planning a thing in a real way thinking about it nearly all the time, and yet it is more of a dream than a reality, so that when it suddenly comes true and has to be geared in with actual events, hours and dates and weighing scales, and entrance fees and shipping arrangements, it is just as much of a shock as if you never really expected it to happen.

Howard was squinting one eye, and then the other, making a hawk that was floating high up move from one end of a cloud to the other.

"When we get to Saginaw Falls and change these heavy shoes he's wearing to light aluminum shoes they'll feel so light on his feet he'll go like the wind!"

Howard held a finger in the air above his face and looked to one side of it and then the other.

"And if Charley Sargent buys Dad's surplus hay and sends it down to Saginaw Falls for the race, then Thunderhead won't have to change to a different kind of hay from what he's used to. Besides, Charley can sell it down there for fifty dollars a ton. He said so. Mountain hay is the best, and down there they'll pay anything if they think it will give their nags a better chance. But nobody can beat Thunderhead!"

Ken went off suddenly into one of his wild bursts of joy, rolling over backwards and trying to stand on his head.

"Can't you do that?" said Howard contemptuously. He got up slowly, stood on his head with ease and nonchalance, then lay down and stretched out again.

Howard sniffed at such childishness. "Say! When shall we go down there—to the Valley of the Eagles?"

"Let's go soon. Golly, I hope that one-legged eagle is there! I'd like to pay him back for what he did to me."

"Maybe we could go this weekend."

"We won't say a thing about where we're going," said Howard. "It might worry mother."

"No. Just for a camping trip."

"Yes. But I bet dad won't give us any time off till we've finished this draw." Howard looked at his watch. "Hour's up. We'd better hop to it."

But it was not until that draw was finished and another one as well, and all the hay put up, that Rob McLaughlin said the boys could have the rest of the summer to do as they pleased in.

Rest? There wasn't any rest. September was here, and there were only four days before the date for which Howard's return accommodations had been taken.

But four days was twice as much as they would need. So they announced that they were off for a camping trip, and Nell put up provisions for them, and Thunderhead and Flicka were hung with bags, rifles, slickers, frying pans, and the boys rode away up the Saddle Back.

Under their feet the bare rolling hills and soft burned grass—beyond, the Buckhorn Mountains, a wilderness of forests and peaks. And an infinite distance away and above, as if born up on the lower crests, a gleaming shape misted in clouds—the Thunderer—beckoning to them!

And how eagerly they answered. Not the antelope nor the jackrabbits fled more swiftly over the plains than the four young things, wild with excitement and freedom, galloping south with yells and shouts and pounding hoofs, and their faces cold in a wind that was sharp and sweet with snow.

From the moment of leaving the ranch Thunderhead was in a state of intense excitement. And when they had climbed the Saddle Back and headed south, his wild eyes and his nostrils and his pricked ears never ceased exploring those mountains ahead of them. His mountains! His valley!—from which high fences and stern masters had kept him for a year.

He was hard to hold when the smell of the river reached them. Ken let him go and he galloped on the little trail he had made himself until they rounded the hill and the Silver Plume river came into view. While the horses watered, the boys debated whether they should stop and fish, or try to complete the trip that night; and because of Howard's limited time decided on the latter.

Thunderhead took the lead and they plunged into the mountains. He was filled with a fiery and masterful energy. He had never forgotten; and now that the way was open to his inherited destiny, he was ready and eager for it. His stallion's consciousness had come of age at last.

It was already twilight in the gorge; and under some of the overhanging cliffs and great trees the trail led into darkness. But Thunderhead went swiftly; and when the boys stopped to pause and look and exclaim at the plunge of the great waterfalls or the foaming cauldrons of whitewater, his iron shoe struck the rock impatiently, and his strident neigh tore the thunderous roar of the river.

The scent was getting stronger, and it maddened him with joy. It was the scent of a destiny, of a life, of an overwhelming emotion. For not under the saddle or running obediently around a track, but here in these mountains lay his whole existence and he had carried the flame of it in his consciousness for a year.

That evening they pitched camp in the park-like grounds not far from the base of the valley rampart.

Picketed with Flicka below the camp Thunderhead did not lie down and sleep as a young horse should. Only older horses, who no longer have growing pains, sleep standing on their feet. But Thunderhead stood all night long, his body quivering, turned to that rampart and the pass into the valley, his ears pricked to catch the faintest sound.

He knew it immediately when, in the early dawn, a group of mares and colts drifted through the pass to graze in the park here below the rampart. He nickered and started to run to them, but was pulled up by his picket rope and stood there pawing impatiently, nickering again and again.

Flicka woke up and was also seized by the excitement of meeting strangers. Thunderhead ran around the circle allowed him by his picket rope. He backed away, lowered his head and gave it a few shakes, pulling at the rope. But his training had been thorough. It was now almost a physical impossibility for him to fight a head rope. He plunged a bit, and then reared up, pawing the air. When he came down he whirled and looked at those mares again—just dark shadows in the vague gray dawn—then he dropped his muzzle to earth, placed one forefoot on the rope, with a little fling of his head got it between his teeth and bit it through as neatly as he had bitten off the leg of the eagle.

With an eager neigh he trotted off toward the mares, leaving Flicka impatient and unhappy, nickering lonesomely, but too docile to attempt escape.

Ken had been dreaming all night of the playful nickering of horses. He dreamed he was riding Thunderhead on the range in a band of yearlings, but why did they keep nickering so? What was attracting their attention? There came an uneasiness into the dream. The nickering persisted but, as if attempting to present a plausible explanation; the dream changed rapidly. Now he was riding Flicka in the brood mare bunch. And now he was riding in the corrals on the day of the weaning, for that was surely the nickering of young colts—

Ken's dreams became still more uneasy, and he sat up suddenly and saw the dawn and knew where he was and could not understand why the nickering continued even now that the dream was ended.

There was one dazed minute in which he sat there, collecting his wits, brushing the sleep and the hair out of his eyes, and then he realized that off near the rampart was a group of mares and colts with a white horse among them, and that the nickering came from them.

It was just what he had seen on his former visit to the valley except that this was only a small number of mares; and the Albino, for some reason or other, was not behaving like a sensible stallion but was rearing, squealing, whirling around to face first this one then the other, in fact was a living coil of movement and excitement.

But there was nickering closer at hand too, and suddenly Ken became anxious lest Thunderhead and Flicka should be excited by the proximity of strange mares and break away from their picket lines. He flung back his blankets, leaped out of them and ran down stream. It brought him up sharp to see only one horse there. Flicka hardly paid any attention to his arrival. Her ears were pricked toward those strange mares, and she pawed the ground, and it was her nickering that had aroused him.

In a daze, Ken picked up the second picket rope and looked at the end of it. Bitten clean through. He dropped it and rubbed his hand through his hair. That was Thunderhead over there with the mares then, not the Albino! No wonder he had behaved peculiarly. Thunderhead with mares at last!

Ken's mind began to labor. He must be got away from them immediately! The Albino might come out through the pass, looking for those mares. And suddenly near-panic seized Ken. The race so near! And the least injury to Thunderhead at this late date might make it impossible for him to run.

Now he thought fast. He picked up a nose-bag half full of oats and walked very quietly over toward the mares.

As he drew near, he called Thunderhead softly and held out the nose-bag and shook it. The oats made a rustling sound. That was enough, as a rule, to draw twenty horses at a run. But Thunderhead merely turned his head to glance at him, then gave his attention to the mares again. Now and then he would drop his nose to the ground and half-circle the mares—plunging at them—turning, dodging, snaking them. It looked as if he were going to round them up! Ken became more alarmed. If he rounded them up, he'd get them going and he'd go along with them, and it would be still harder to catch him!

"Here Boy! Here Thunderhead! Come along, boy. Here's your oats—Oats, Thunderhead! OATS!"

Thunderhead paid no attention. With more determination now, he drove at the mares. He whipped around them, got them moving, drove them toward the cleft in the rampart.

Ken stood still, appalled by the realization that the horse had actually taken possession of the mares. They gave him complete obedience, as if the electric power within him as if he welded them all into a unit of which he was head and master.

Suddenly Ken ran forward again. "Oh, Thunderhead! Come boy! Oats! Come get your breakfast!"

"Hey, Ken! Ken!" rang out behind him. "What's up?"

As Howard came running, Ken looked at him speechlessly. Howard saw Thunderhead driving the mares through the gap, and he too halted.

Powerful New Sunlamp Tans Skin Rapidly

Capable of converting any room into a "beach at home," an electric lamp being manufactured is so rich in ultraviolet energy that it sustains human skin three times faster than Old Sol in midsummer.

Only five minutes exposure is required to mildly redden the untanned skin of a person of average complexion who basks 24 inches from the lamp. To get the equivalent coloring, one would have to sit under a July sun at the Jersey seashore for 15 minutes.

Because its base is the same type and size as bases for regular household incandescent bulbs, the sunlamp can be screwed into any regular light socket operating on standard alternating current electricity. But for convenience in aiming and in handling, a simple adjustable portable holder for the lamp is recommended.

Great Seasoning
Ginger makes an excellent meat seasoning. Rub it on the inside of chicken or duck or over a leg of lamb—the flavor will be wonderfully improved.

Sandpapering Shine

Where clothes' shine results from wear, sandpaper's abrasive action may raise a garment's nap again. However, the remedial effect will be only temporary and the fabric will be permanently weakened. Light scorch effects may be removed by sandpaper, whereas deeper ones will be impossible to remove. And an undesirable weakening of the fabric which may develop into a hole simply cannot be avoided where sandpaper has been used. Removal of heavy scorch is generally not attempted even by professional cleaners. They can, however, often successfully treat the shine caused by faulty pressing at home. Often, too, light scorches can be removed by means of an oxidizing agent.

Egg Protein Efficient For Building Body

Every sealed, sanitary egg contains a yolk and a white filled with nourishing foodstuffs. The protein of both the yolk and the white are efficient for building and mending body tissues.

Twelve of the 13 minerals needed by the human body are found in the edible portion of the egg, largely in the yolk. The iron content of the yolk is high in comparison with other foods and the fact that this iron is associated with copper in both the white and yolk, makes the iron most available for blood formation, reminds Miss Hazel Bratley, extension nutritionist.

Eggs are important sources of most of the essential vitamins. And as with the minerals the yolk is the richer in health-giving vitamins. These vitamins include riboflavin, which is essential for health and vigor; thiamin, also called B1, which steadies nerves; niacin, which helps in preventing and curing pellagra; vitamin K, an anti-hemorrhagic factor; vitamin A for healthy body tissue and vitamin D for promoting the best use of calcium and phosphorus. Truly an egg is a bargain in food value at almost any price.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY
by Vance Wynn Public Ledger

The House on the Hudson

SEVERAL years ago Chief Flynn, of the United States Secret Service, discovered that counterfeit $2 bills were being circulated in large quantities in the eastern part of the country. His search first led him to Philadelphia, but the trail was imperfect and he returned to New York, where he finally located some of the men who were passing the bad money.

A general raid in various sections led to the arrest of twenty men, most of them Italians.

This was very well, as far as it went, but it did not go far enough for the detective.

His desire was to find the men who were manufacturing the money, and eventually he got a clue which made him believe that the plant of the conspirators was located in a town on the Hudson river in New York state.

He went there and discovered what was called, in the language of the department, a deserted house.

It was not actually deserted, because an aged Italian and his wife were living there, and when they learned the mission of Mr. Flynn they vigorously protested their innocence of any wrongdoing.

But paper and ink had been shipped to this town of Highland, and when he made a search of the premises he discovered dies and other tools used in the making of counterfeit money.

He decided not to arrest the old couple, feeling that premature action might enable the real culprits to escape.

He returned to New York again and in the course of a few weeks managed to get on the trail of two men who were known to be in the business of making bogus money.

Salvatore Cuono and Vincent Gago were the suspected ones, and it did not take long to satisfy the secret service man that they were connected with the deserted house on the Hudson and knew something about the $2 bills which were being circulated in the Eastern cities.

They were shadowed day and night. The chief spent his days in his office laying his plans and his evenings in gathering evidence.

One morning one of his men called at the office and told him that the suspects knew they were being shadowed, and had been heard making threats against him.

He shut his lips grimly and decided upon his plan of action.

The threat which had come to him was regarded as a challenge.

Flynn accepted it. That night he started out as usual, but instead of pursuing his usual round of investigation he made straight for the saloon where he was likely to find the two men he was interested in.

It was the sort of thing that required nerve, but anyone who is acquainted with this great detective knows that he is not deficient in courage.

The door of the place was shut and locked.

He knocked on the panels and demanded admittance.

The door was opened on a crack. Flynn pushed his way in, and found that the saloon was crowded with a motley assemblage of men and boys, most of whom were easily recognizable as inhabitants of the underworld.

His dramatic entrance filled them with awe.

For some moments they stood there looking at him without saying a word.

Before they had time to recover from their surprise he pulled a revolver and shouted:

"Hands up, everybody!"

He had planned all of this before he entered the place.

He knew the psychology of crowds. He knew, especially, the kind of men he would have to deal with.

The result was exactly what he had anticipated.

Every man in the saloon raised his hands, and the next moment a corps of assistants rushed into the place and placed the men under arrest. Among them were the two men he was after.

They were taken before a United States commissioner and held for trial.

When the trial took place some time later the evidence was so complete and conclusive that they were promptly convicted and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary.

Most of the other persons caught in the raid were released, but it is a significant fact that the manufacturing and circulation of the counterfeit bills ceased from that time.

It was a clever piece of detective work, involving keen handwork and personal courage.

Iron Age Relics Are Found

Relics of an early iron age have been found in the caves at Ballintoy, northern Ireland, by a group of archeologists under Dr. J. Wilfrid Jackson of the Manchester museum. The most remarkable and unique find was a roughly finished female figure in baked clay, which was similar to some of the clay figures of Crete and other Mediterranean places of ancient times. A fireplace, built of large water-worn stones was unearthed at a depth of six feet. It was partially surrounded by a wall of similar stones. Among the worked bones were pliers and needles, including a very fine polished needle about two inches long, with a perfectly formed eye.

Sugar Restrictions Prevent Solution Of Dessert Problems

Mounds of creamy ice cream ride on top of peach halves set on squares of tasty, hot milk sponge cake. A dessert sauce made of the peach juice is a delightful foil for the fruit, ice cream and cake.

Now that food rationing has loosened up in most of the eatable goods, and we are once again able to get back on a prewar standard, cooking problems need not be pressing. However, in spite of this lifting of restrictions, we still have at least one major problem—that of sugar.

Little relief is in sight right now, and the situation will probably prevail for some months. What shall we do about dessert?

Well, first of all there are fruits which can be dished up in any number of perfectly delightful ways. There's whipped cream and ice cream, and, of course, sugar substitutes.

One cup of sugar or less is a good rule to follow if you are using recipes calling for this sweet but scarce commodity. If your cake calls for 1 1/2 cups of sugar, use 3/4 cup of sugar with 3/4 cup of corn syrup. In this case you must use 2 tablespoons less milk than the recipe calls for and 2 tablespoons of flour, additional.

The fat scarcity also limits us to some extent on the baked goodies we want to make. That's why sponge cake will be popular, as in this following recipe:

Peach Sponge a la Mode. (Serves 8)
Sponge cake
1 No. 2 1/2 can peach halves
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Dessert sauce

The cake used uses 4 eggs and is made with scalded milk to give it a fluffy texture:

Sponge Cake.
2 cups sifted cake flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Sift flour and measure. Sift three times with salt and baking powder. Beat eggs with rotary beater until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Fold in flour mixture, then milk, flavoring and melted butter. Fold until well blended. Pour into square cake pan lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 30 minutes. Cool in pans.

Dessert Sauce.
Liquid from peaches
2 teaspoons granulated sugar
Remaining peach halves, chopped
1/2 cup salted almonds, sliced
1 tablespoon brown sugar
Cook the peach liquid down to 3/4 cup. Stir in the granulated sugar

Lynn Says:

Make Meals Good: No family enjoys eating the same, same foods every meal. It's a good idea not to repeat dishes more than once every three or four weeks. Even favorite foods get monotonous when served too regularly. To get contrast in every meal, follow the basic seven charts to see that you get in all different types of foods.

In planning a meal, have some things crisp, others soft, and still others hard. For example, meat can be the "soft" food, while broccoli or salad add the crispness, and rolls are the "hard" part.

Try to combine colors, too. Cauliflower, potatoes and creamed chicken may all be good, but they don't stimulate the appetite. However, consider the colorfulness of creamed chicken with french fried potatoes and peas with carrots.

There should also be a combination of hot and cold dishes. Even with a salad luncheon, the hot foods can be soup and coffee.

Some cooked, some raw is another good rule. Be sure to have a salad—a big one, too, if you are having roasted meat, cooked vegetables and pie or pudding, which are all cooked.

and chill. Serve over the peach halves a la mode and top with nuts mixed with brown sugar.

To serve, arrange a peach half on a square serving of cake. Top with a mound of ice cream and serve with the dessert sauce.

If it's apples you want, then you will like this pie which is easy on fat because it does not have to have a top crust. It uses an egg for richness and flavor:

Open-Faced Apple Pie. (Serves 6 to 7)

- 3 cups sliced apples (about 1/4 pound)
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- Plain pastry for 1 crust (about 1 cup flour)

Line pie pan with pastry, building up the edge. Fill with sliced apples. Add remaining ingredients to beaten egg; beat well. Pour batter over apples. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

Apples which are best to use in this type of pie are Rome Beauty or Macintosh.

Black walnuts can lend a distinctive flavor to pie when fruit supplies dip to a low during the cooler weather as in this recipe:

- Black Walnut Pie.
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 teaspoons butter
- 1 cup black walnuts
- Baked pastry shell
- Whipped cream

Make a custard of the milk, sugar, flour and egg yolks, cooking until thick in a double boiler. Add salt, vanilla and butter. Cool. Add nuts and pour into a baked pastry shell. Let set and cool. Serve with whipped cream topping.

This novel apple pie saves shortening by using just one crust. For delicious flavor and good, old-fashioned heartiness, add an egg to the apple mixture.

The old-fashioned puddings are always popular because of their molasses sweetness and fragrant spices. Suet is usually used for the base, but one of the fats may be substituted if it is unavailable.

Buttermilk is used to give that fluffy texture which is so appetizing.

Quaker Pudding. (Serves 10)

- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 1/2 cups buttermilk
- 1 cup ground suet
- 1 cup molasses
- 1 cup raisins or other chopped dried fruit, or candied fruit
- 3/4 cup rolled oats

Sift flour with soda and salt. Add all other ingredients in order given and mix thoroughly. Pour into two one-quart greased molds. Cover and steam for 3 hours. Serve with Foamy or Orange sauce.

Stuff green peppers with creamed chicken or turkey and rice. The peppers should be parboiled first, and after stuffed, they may be heated for 10 minutes in a moderate oven. If you like stuffed green peppers, try them with a stuffing of corned beef hash mixed with onion. It's mighty good.

Like sweet potato pudding? One way to make it is to mash six cooked sweet potatoes with 6 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind and 1 cup of orange juice. Bake this mixture in a greased casserole in a moderate oven for 15 minutes.

Saving Farm Land by Six-Point Program

Fertilization Plays Most Important Part

A six-point soil fertility and conservation program for combating the inroads of erosion was described by Paul M. Burson and O. O. Rost, agronomists of the University of Minnesota.

The six steps recommended are: 1.—Drainage and cultivation; 2.—Liming acid soils; 3.—Crop rotation; 4.—Maintaining soil organic matter; 5.—Use of commercial fertilizers; 6.—Erosion control practices.

"Keeping a farm permanently productive necessitates a program of true soil conservation," the agronomists point out. "In recent years, the term 'soil conservation' has been widely used in connection with the physical control of erosion by wind and water. Much emphasis has been placed on this phase of soil conservation through the encouragement of such practices as contouring, strip cropping and terracing.

"Valuable as these practices are they do not correct the basic causes which make soil erosive. Only by proper land use and intelligent management of the soil can economic levels of fertility be safeguarded and unnecessary wastage from erosion be avoided.

"Many of our soils are producing lower yields than they once did and fertilizer trials show increased responses. Nutrients are removed from the farm most rapidly by cash crops. All livestock and livestock products also remove nutrients, but less rapidly since part is returned in the manure. A soil conservation program must include the use of fertilizers to replace the mineral nutrients sold from the farm."

Storing of Soybeans

Storage studies of soybeans show that no improvement in condition was noted from the use of tubes, ducts, perforated sidewalls or roof ventilators. An electrically operated farm has given satisfactory results in good drying weather, reducing soybeans with an initial moisture of 14 to 15 per cent down to 10.5 to 11 (wet basis). About 0.05 kilowatt hours were used for each per cent moisture reduction per bushel. A gasoline motor gave results.

Cloudless Skies
When Australia starts developing its infant film industry and decides to build a counterpart of Hollywood, it won't be able to set it up in central Australia. The weather's too dry there for film-making. Clouds needed for essential pictorial effects in the cattle-droving epic, "The Overlanders" were so rare that on one occasion they had to race 60 miles across a tableland to catch up with a herd of cattle and photograph them while the thin, fleeting clouds were still around.

Lean Fish
If lean fish is used for broiling or baking, brush generously with fat or french dressing.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

A man's social position in Java is said to be determined by the number of spare tires he carries on his car. The more spares, the greater the owner's prestige among the natives.

Fliers can breathe easily at altitudes of 80,000 feet in a pressurized strato-suit developed by B. F. Goodrich.

If one wants to open a tire store in Amsterdam, Holland, he must pass an examination demonstrating his proficiency as a bookkeeper and an executive.

B. F. Goodrich made and sold the first tires containing synthetic rubber in June, 1940.

In This Hour of TRIUMPH

Behind us lie 3½ years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed.

So, today, we celebrate a victory.

After the celebration, what lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise...the materials and resources... with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look.

In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back—to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our just rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded... to bring our veterans home... to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for... to care for the families of those who died before the Victory was won... is simply this:

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

VICTORY BONDS ... To have and to hold
