Bus Service For East Jordan

GRAYHOUND LINES TO CON-NECT OUR CITY WITH LAN-SING, DETROIT

Bus service between Detroit, Lansing and Charlevoix over US 16 and M-66, will be inaugurated about May 27, it is announced by President Manferd Burleigh, of Great Lakes Greyhound Lines.

The Michigan Public Service Commission in granting this intrastate obid

The Michigan Public Service Commission in granting this intrastate certificate of operaton, also gave the company permission to operate from Prudenville, on Houghton Lake, to Lake City over State Highway 55, and around the west side of Higgins Lake to Roscommon, tieing in with Great Lakes route over US 27. It is expected that service will begin at the same time over these routes.

Great Lakes Greyhound operates bus routes from Detroit to Columbus, Detroit to Cincinnati and Louisville, Indianapolis to Evansville, Cincinnati to Madison, Indiana, and to the principal cities of Michigan. Three of its Michigan divisions are to the nor-thern part of the state and reach Ludington, Alpena, Cheboygan, Petoskey, Mackinaw City, St. Ignace and Sault Ste Marie Connections are made at Cincinnati and Louisville for the south and southwest, at St. Ignace for the western part of the Upper Penisula, Wisconsin and the northwest and at Sault Ste. Marie for Toronto, Monthe al and other parts of Canada.

The East Jordan Chamber of Com merce has been working on this pro position for several years. A com-mittee from our Chamber of Commerce went recently to Lansing for a hearing before the MPSC, and it is gratifying to know that East Jordan is finally to get good passenger trans portation service. The Herald under stands there are several local busi ness places applying for the bus stop station.

Nineteen Buddies Didn't Come Back

SHALL WE CONTRIBUTE TO-WARD AN ATHLETIC FIELD TO COMMEMORATE THEIR SACRIFICE

To the 19 boys from this area who didn't come back we, their buddies who did, would like to express our humble gratitude in some living, physical way so that in years to come their children, and all children, will know that they are the ones should be eternally honored as the real heroes. We think we can best do this by a useful memorial that will not only remind us of the supreme sacrifice of our heroes, but, will for-ever remind this entire community that one of the surest preventitives of war is cleanliness, Godliness and a sense of humor on the part of all of us. An Athletic Field where our young people can be educated in those virtues would seem to be most suit-

With this in mind the service men who did get back propose to purchase a tract of land two blocks north of the school and measuring something like 760 feet East and West by 360 feet north and south and give it to the school to be used as QUR salute to our 19 buddies we left behind. We would like to make this presentation on Memorial Day. Arrangements have been made to buy the land but money is needed to complete the purchase. The committee in charge is not soliciting contributions from any-one but ex-servicemen of World War. II. We figure that $15 per man is not too much to contribute for such a worthy cause. We agree that it's a lot — but it's less than nothing compared to what the 19 sacrificed. The money is needed at once. See collectors Jake Snyder, Vale Gee or Ed Reuling right away and be numbered among the fellows who did get back who are mighty grateful that they did If you are a parent or relative of a serviceman who is away from East Jordan but still might like to be a contributor why not make the con-tribution on his behalf? Come on fellows - let's put this thing across we need the support of all of you.

Charlevoix Co. School Board

TO REQUEST INCREASED MILL-AGE FROM THE COUNTY AL-LOCATION BOARD

Two joint meetings of the boards of education and superintendents from Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan have been held recently o investigate means of securing additional revenues for school operaion costs.

During the past four years, operation costs of schools have increased sharply, and although State aid to schools has increased considerably during this period, schools still find it extremely difficult to operate with the amount of money available. During the past four years local aid for schools has actually diminished to quite an extent because assessed val-uations have not increased materially and revenues received from delin-quent taxes has practically stopped.

For this reason the boards from Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan will appear before the County Allocation Board Monday, May 13 to ask for a larger percentage of the counties revenues. In the past Char-levoix County has allocated to the schools the minimum millage (4 mills). In view of the fact that a num-Pere Marquette railroad (serving this locating to the schools from 7 to 9 territory) accoding to information mills, the boards feel that Charlevoix received here. this time to help the schools so that date was men-tioned, it frequently was presented as I have done above, in a confus-ing way. Actually, the extension works out to be more than 11 months from now, and nine months beyond the expiration date of OPA powers on June 30.

A lot of water may go over many dams in the next 11 months and the continuance of the government's powers to act against prices for that long a time could hardly be called destructive of OPA.

What angered the administra-tion to unusual bitterness against the bill were the amendments. One amendment pro-posed what was generally de-scribed as "cost plus reason-able profits to producers and handlers." OPA contended this handlers." OPA contended this would upset their ceilings on many of the major items of production, autes, rubber and such. This would depend upon whether their ceilings now deny "cost plus profit" on these items and it would require a skilled mathematician a week to figure out the involved formula for one item. Frankly I la for one item. Frankly I would not attempt to referee this argument.

NEARLY YEAR LEFT FOR NEW ADJUSTMENTS

Certainly, however, the general notion of "cost plus a reasonable profit" does not sound like an unreasonable invasion of the consumers' rights, or what OPA is sup-posed to have been doing.

There was one amendment which seemed to me logically what might possibly be called "murderous" of OPA, as one irate Democratic congressman termed the bill, which was approved on a final passage by 205 Democrats, including himself, and 148 Republicans. This was the one to drop control over certain articles when their production reaches the level of production of the year July 1, 1940. to June 30, 1941—which was far from the "peak year" it was described to be in one of the accounts. Production did not reach a peak until the last year of the war.

Now it would be entirely logical and sensible for price controls to be removed the moment production reaches current demand. Of course current consumer demand is great-er than July, 1940-June, 1941. It is very much greater, due to the ac-cumulation of demand for consumer goods during the war. It might be "murderous" to OPA to impose that new formula on cessation of regulations, but it would be what fairness demands. Relief of regulaone should be timed to the period when production can care for the present demand, when the pressure of shortages for higher prices has been relieved.

The other important amendment called for gradual elimination of subsidies. Frankly, I have never liked subsidies. The theory is wrong to pay from the treasury, which is the money of all the people (and their debt now is heavy), a certain portion of the price which should be naid by the man who have should be paid by the man who buys the article. Not even Mr. Truman has defended subsidies as a permanest proposition. Whether the time limit fixed by the house would work efficiently, again calls for intricate technical knowledge of the effect of the removal on each article at each time.

A revision of the bill by the senate is being prophesied by most authorities, but it is not lkely to be a full-power lease of existing au-thority as the administration has been demanding.

Not only have the party chieftains exhibited confusion in a series of ridiculous "mistakes" as to whether they are running Mr. Truman or congress this year, but they have been building up a sideline cam-paign on the Roosevelt bier. First one member of the Roosevelt family was trotted out as a prospective candidate for governor of New York; a young man without previous experience or political pretentions, who, if he wanted to start as his father did at that age, would run for the town council.

Theft of the remains of Benito Mussolini from a potter's field near Milan pointed up the undercover activities of fascist forces in Italy. When Mussolini's body was dug up from an unmarked grave and carried off, with a boot with part of a rotted leg left to lie behind, a note extolling Il Duce and signed "Democratic Fascist party" was placed near the burial plot. Gas Revenues Increase

Ten states collected more than 25 million dollars each from gasoline tax revenues in 1945 when total receipts from such levies reached $49.6 mil-lion dollars — an increase of 13 per cent over 1944 collections which totaled 747.4 million dollars. Of the 10 states that lead in collections, Florida with its levy of six cents a gallon had the highest tax rate

Futures Soar

With May rye hovering at the 22.63 a bushel mark and daily future transactions running far above prewar levels, the Chicago Board of Trade was scheduled to under-take its second investigation of dealings in the commodity to ascertain if any operator or group pos-sessed a corner.

Having failed to uncover a "cor-

Because May rve carries no ceiling, observers said that the high prices the grain commands reflect supply and demand. Against the $2.63 a bushel figure in the open market, the new crop was selling around the $1.48 a bushel ceiling. RAIL WRECK:

Big Toll

In the worst train wreck since 1944, when two sections of the Southern Pacific collided near Great Salt Lake, Utah, and 48 persons were killed, the Burlington's Exposition Flyer plowed into the rear of the stalled Advance Flyer in Naperville, Ill., to take a toll of approximately 48 dead. Running on the same track three minutes apart, the two crack trains crashed when the Advance Flyer pulled up to a stop for its crew to investigate a flash of flame from beneath one of the coaches. Though an automatic caution signal went on 7,784 feet to the east and a danger signal beamed 1,100 feet from the stalled train, the engineer of the Exposition Flyer was unable to brake his charging Diesel in time brake his charging Diesel in time to avoid the crash.

Though Engineer W. W. Blaine, 68, of Galesburg, Ill., himself suf-fered only a face cut, many pas-sengers were killed when his big locomotive ripped into the last steel coach on the Advance Flyer and the impact buckled the diner ahead of it and overturned two other cars. of it and overturned two other cars. In all, six coaches were upset or derailed and lay strewn over the twisted track like toys. In addition to the 48 killed, over 100 were injured.

clusion of terms, their deputy foreign ministers who had foundered over a majority of the issues happily advanced a solution to the Trieste problem: Agreeing to set-tle territorial claims on the basis of residential nationalities, the deputies recommended Italy's reten-tion of Italian-populated Trieste and surrender to Yugoslavia of Yugoslavian-settled land nearby the vi-

Disposition of Trieste was only one of the knotty problems facing the Big Four in drawing terms for Italy. One of the principal bones of contention centered in Russia's demands for trusteeships over Italy's North African colonies situated along Britain's Mediterranean lifeline to the Far East. With Brit-ain resisting the Reds' claims out Soviets in a strategic position along the imperial lifeline, the U. S. advanced a compromise under which the colonies would be placed under a United Nations' trusteeship.

CIGARETTES:

Hike Prices

In granting increases in the price of cigarettes, OPA declared that rising manufacturing costs necessitated the boosts to assure producers of earnings equal to prewar levels.

While manufacturers were allowed a 25 cent raise per 1,000 cigarettes, retailers were permitted to hike the prices a half cent a pack on multiple sales of two. four. six on multiple sales of two, four, six, etc., packs and five cents on a carton of 10 packs. Where sale of cigarettes through vending machines is permissible, an increase of one cent a pack was granted.

Allowed primarily on sales of mul-tiple packs offered at cut-rates, the price increases were not extended to single packs.

TO PUBLISH PICTURES OF LOCAL CHILDREN

Pictures of the children of this city and surrounding com-munity are to be printed in this paper as a special tribute to our young citizens. Tomorrow the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the world will be placed upon their shoulders. All are invited and urged to participate in this featured event. Among our children are those destined to fame and fortune, so let's not omit any of them!

Every parent should cooperate to make this a colorful and inspiring exhibit. You can cut out and keep these pictures of every youngster in the community. They will always be treasured keepsakes and cherished memory records that could not be acquired in any other way.

You are all guests of ours, and all photographs will be taken free of charge.

We have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known portrait photographers, to come and take the pictures right here in town. You do not have to order photographs, subscribe to, or be a subscriber to this newspaper, to have your pictures taken and run in this featured event. All that is necessary is that the children be brought by their parents to the photographer on the date and at the location mentioned below Proofs of all poses will be submitted to the parents, and cuts of approved poses will be repeated, identified, written up, and printed in this paper.

The Studio will also take pictures of adults and family groups, and submit proofs without charge, but these pictures will not be published in the paper.

If photographs are wanted for yourself it will be necessary to arrange for them direct with the Studio when proofs are submitted for examination because they cannot be obtained through this paper.

Remember, all children must be accompanied by parents or

THE STORY THUS FAR: Spratt Her-long, motion picture producer, met and married Elizabeth, whose first husband, Arthur Kittredge, was reported killed in World War I, but who later, unrecog-nized, went to work for Spratt under the name of Kessler. Dick, 17-year-old son of the Heriongs, enlisted in the Marines. He was convinced that he had a Job He was convinced that he had a job that must be done. After they saw him off, Elizabeth, recognizing Kessler as Arthur, told him about it. He depled that thur, told him about it. He denied that he was her former husband and told her that unless she forgot it, he would go away. He forbade her to say anything to her husband. He called it an illusion and tried to convince her that she was wrong.

CHAPTER XXI

"That you will not trouble your husband with this. For it would trouble him, more than you can imagine in your present state. He'll he here in a four printing. Your first be here in a few minutes. Your first impulse will be to blurt out words that tomorrow morning you'd give half your life to take back. Will you promise?"

She did not answer, and he added, "If you don't promise, I'll leave Beverly Hills tonight. I will not be the means of wrecking your peace or his."

"Yes," she said faintly, "I promise that. But you haven't convinced me. Everything you've said — I know you."

The maid came in, bringing orange juice and the morning paper. "Why didn't anybody wake me?" Elizabeth asked.

"Mr. Herlong said not to. He said you were tired."

Spratt had left her a note, scribbled in pencil across a sheet of stu-dio stationery. "Elizabeth — Glad you're getting a long sleep. I told Cherry and Brian to go on to school Cherry and Brian to go on to school without bothering you. I have to leave now, will ring you later if anything turns up, otherwise will see you tonight. All well. Chin up, the war news looks pretty good this morning, anyway nothing lasts forever. I love you, thought I'd remind you in case I hadn't mentioned it lately. Spratt."

She got up and went to her tele-

It lately. Spratt."

She got up and went to her telephone. Apparently he had been waiting for her call, for he answered the phone himself. When she told him who she was he said, "Yes, Mrs. Herlong?" and waited expectantly.

"First," said Elizabeth, "I want rist, said Elizabeth, "I want to apologize for my startling behav-ior last night."

"Then you do know this morning," he asked eagerly, "that you were mistaken?"

don't know that, not yet. But "I don't know that, not yet. But at least this morning I can promise you to behave like an intelligent adult. You told me I could see you today. May I come over?"

"Certainly."

"Now?"

"Whenever you like."

"Whenever you like."
"Thank you."
Kessler's housekeeper told her he was waiting for her in his study. Elizabeth went in and shut the door behind her. Kessler had been sitting before his typewriter, with sheets of manuscript around him. For an instant she wondered if he had been working, or if he had set the stage to make it look as if he found this so unimportant that he could go on with his work without interruption. But she thought of that only an instant. As she came in Kessler put his hand on his cane and stood up. Their eyes met, and Elizabeth said.

abeth said, "I came here this morning to see if I was right or wrong in what I said to you last night. I was right."

Kessler drew in a quick breath, without answering. Elizabeth came nearer and sat down. Holding her handbag in her lap, she leaned back to look up at him.

She said, "I have not been drinking and I am not hysterical. I had nine hours' sleep, and when I woke impression of last night seemed like a mistake based on a chance resemblance. It was not a mistake." She smiled at him, pleadingly. "Arthur, let's face this and ingly. 'A.
'alk about it.'

"I'll talk about it as long as you like," he answered her, and as he spoke he smiled too, as though sorry for her. "But it's not true, Mrs.

But Elizabeth continued, "You have a scar on your arm where you were burnt by a splash of boiling chocolate one night when I was making fudge. You have another scar ing fudge. You have another scar on your right knee, made when you and I were practicing fancy dives and you hit the edge of the pool."

Kessler sat down, and moved a pencil that was about to fall off the edge of his table. "I have so many scars," he said, "that no doubt you could find two that would fit those you are talking about." Then, supyou are talking about." Then, sup-porting himself on his cane, he you are talking about." toward her, and continued, "Mrs. Herlong, my body is such an accumulation of patches and make-shifts that to prove or disprove my likeness to any healthy man would be very difficult. I didn't grow this beard to disguise my face, but to cover some ugly lines on my chin that would make me even harder to look at than I am now. Yet you insist I resemble your first hus-band."

You are talking in abstractions.

I tell you, I know."
Kessler shook his head. Elizabeth shrank back into her face with her hands. She did not know how thankful he was for that moment, when she did not see the tightening of his eyes and lips that even his grim self-control could not prevent. She got out a handkerchief and began twisting it between her fingers, then carefully untwisted it and folded it again. Her pause to regain her own calmness had given him time to regain his, and when he spoke again his voice was steady.

"Now that Dick has gone to fight for tomorrow's world," he said to her, "it would be a catastrophe to see his mother refusing to give up her dependence on yesterday.

Elizabeth started. "What on earth do you mean?'

He spoke to her in a low, intensely purposeful voice. "Mrs. Herlong, not long ago your son sat where you are sitting, defining in his own mind the question before this generation. At length he understood-1 like to think I helped him under-stand—that he was living in one of the periods when the advance of civilization seems to halt because of forces that are trying to push it back instead of letting it go ahead as it was meant to do. He came to see that his side was the right and ultimately victorious side, because those who fight to raise up the dead past eventually destroy them-selves."

Elizabeth shook her head with a puzzled frown. "I understand that, but what has it got to do with me? With us?"

"It has a great deal to do with you and me. This battle between yesand me. terday and tomorrow is only occa-sionally an international affair. But sionally an international arrair. But it's going on all the time in our own lives. Some of us refuse to let go of what used to be. We cling to it even when it is nothing but dust and dead leaves, instead of accepting the fact that we've got to go aboad in time whether we like it or ahead in time whether we like it or not.'

Elizabeth did not answer. But she was listening to him, for he spoke so earnestly that he made her listen.

"Sometimes it's so obvious that a child can see what they're doingbaldheaded grandfathers acting like fools over young girls, women in their fifties making themselves up into ridiculous caricatures of ado-lescence. Hasn't it ever occurred to you that they do this because they've still got adolescent minds? They've never developed to the point where they can enjoy adult pleasures in the company of adults, so they try to imitate and associate with the children whose equals they are, ripe mentality is an achievement. It takes effort, and some people have never made the effort. So instead of growing up, they stay half-finished and spend what ought to be ished, and spend what ought to be their most abundant years paying their dancing partners and beauty operators to tell them how young they look. You've seen them, and laughed at them.'

Elizabeth caught her breath in protest. "But you were just telling me I wasn't like that. I'm not for heaven's sake, I'm not going to be a fat old woman who gets her face lifted and goes starry-eyed over a gigoloi" the idea. She laughed shortly at "But even if I were, what has this got to do with us now, today, with what I came here to tell you?"

"It has a great deal to do with it Herlong," Kessler insisted. Mrs "You're a charming woman, not be-cause you're sixteen but because you aren't. Genuine maturity has a gracious poise that youth never has.
The charm of youth is in its physical freshness, but the charm of mathey have no youth and no maturity either. You have maturity, you know how fine it is—don't start to be like them. Don't reach back now!"

"I don't understand you!" she exclaimed. "I want to know whether or not you are Arthur Kittredge come back from that German hospital where they told me you had died. What are you trying to tell

He answered her simply. "I am He answered her simply. "I am trying to tell you that if you want to believe I am Arthur Kittredge, you can persuade yourself that I am. You can make yourself see me as a living reminder of a period of your life that was very happy—that perhaps has grown happier in your recollection of it."

"I didn't come hare" retorted

"I didn't come here," retorted Elizabeth, "to be advised whether or not I should believe in fantasy. I came to be told the truth."

"I am telling you the truth," he insisted. "The truth is that you can stop living in the present if you want to. You can reach back and demand that the past be returned to you. But it won't be returned to you. You won't get back what you have lost. won't get back what you have lost, you'll only be destroying what you "For the past few months you "For the past few months you have found the present very hard to take. You have been looking back into a time when you weren't aware of the demands life was going to make on you. In those days every minute was delightful for itself. You had what you wanted and you didn't had what you wanted and you didn't know you were going to have to pay for it. You've personified that lovely thoughtlessness of youth in the figure of the man who shared it with you. You want it back—not Arthur, but the rown of the dealer. but the young freedom Arthur symbolized for you."

"Is that what I've been doing?"

"Yes," he said, "it is." Elizabeth was silent. She felt as if she had been accused of a sin, cial programs will continue on an and found just enough echo of guilt international scale, honoring the to lose now, so much more than you had twenty-five years ago."

Elizabeth moved forward in her chair, listening intently. The curious sense of guilt had not left her.

"As for your first husband—"

Kessler began.

"Yes—what about him?"

"How old were you when you married him?"

"Eighteen." After she had spoken

"Eighteen." After she had spoken she realized that her answer had come as readily as though she had never had any reason for believing he knew this already. "Eighteen!" Kessler repeated.

"What did you know then about lov-ing a man?"
"I thought I knew a great deal,"

she retorted.

"Naturally you thought so. How could you judge your feeling for him except by the standard you had then? But look at it now and see what it was by the standard of love you have today. A bright girlish rapture. Beautiful, no doubt, but no more than that."

"But what else is a young girl's love? What else should it be?"

"Nothing else. That's what I'm trying to tell you. But what did you lose when you lost Arthur? A lover and a playmate. You had nothing else to lose."

Elizabeth drew back and stared at him, almost angrilly, resenting what he said and fighting against having to accept it. He waited a moment to give her time to get used to it, and then went on.

we were skipping over the surface without dreaming how thin it was."

Elizabeth still did not answer. Afl this was new to her, as relating to herself. It was as though he were accusing her of having been foolish ust when she thought she was be ing wise.

"When we do look back," said Kessler, "it means that just then we are frightened at the challenge of being adult."

"I have been frightened," she ac-knowledged, still astonished at all he was showing her. "You know "What we forget in those mo-ments, of course," he went on, "is that the profoundest joys, as well as the greatest trials, are found in the depths of experience. The happiness of youth is a shallow merriment, it can't be anything else. But the hap-piness of maturity, I mean real mental and emotional maturity, is strong and deeply rooted because it comes of having tested this and that until we have discovered the perma-nent values. Cherry is heartbroken if she goes to a party and isn't dressed like the others. Some women your age are too, because they're still judging life by Cherry's standards, but you aren't, because you long ago outgrew letting yourself be heartbroken over things that didn't metter. The voluntary effort to cut down food consumption simply hasn't worked.

It isn't that the people are unitarity is the theorem in the people are unitarity is the people are unitarity. willing. It's that there was no immediate way to cut down on eating which seemed practical. And so a practical means of getting food in cans is to be tried, and its success will depend on the local volunteer organization in your commu-nity. The foods needed are milk (condensed, evaporated or dried), meat, fish, peanut butter, baby foods, baked beans, juices, stews, soups, honey, vegetables.

I know that you have heard this before in detail. I hope you will hear it again, with further details, but perhaps you don't realize what you and the United States can get in return for the food we send out. and what we may lose if starvation becomes widespread.

The whole question is pointed up in a not-too-prominently displayed dispatch from Moscow to which an official called my attention last week. It was a statement made by a correspondent of the Soviet paper Izvestia, who had been touring the American zone in Germany.
"The food stuff difficulties which forced lowering of rations (in the American zone)," the correspondent wrote, "are explained, in my view, not so much by the absence of pro-ductive districts as by a lack of order and distribution of agricul-tural products." Then he went on tural products." Then he went on to explain that the big estates had not been broken up, as they were in the Russian zone

Hunger Used as Political Weapon

This criticism, which I think investigation will prove to be exceedingly biased and unfair, reveals how ingly blased and untair, reveals now food, or the lack of it, is serving and can serve as a weapon to stir up discontent and to bring the west-ern countries into disrepute and dis-

Revolution follows hunger just as surely as hunger follows war.

As a matter of fact, one of the most efficient organizations in the American military zone of Germany is the agency which distributes food. Working closely with it is another highly efficient American agency which the British have used as a model in their zone—the health and sanitation division.

However, there is a food shortage However, there is a food shortage in Germany, just as there is in the rest of Europe. The effects are the same everywhere, and Germany serves as an excellent example of the political effects of a food shortage. There, the American authorities can accurately check on what is going on since the military government is so closely tied in to every phase of the daily lives of the Recently a military government official in Germany wrote to me: "No slogan was ever truer than 'Food will win the war and write the peace.'"

We are about to sit down at the peace table with Italy. Russia prob-bly will not be present. But the food that Italy does not have may affect the validity of that peace treaty.

A revealing comment on how this works was appended to a report made shortly after the British were forced to drop to a 1,000-calorie scale and coal producton dropped approximately 20 per cent. This was comment:

"Heavy workers are dropping at their work and food riots have already taken place. If this ration is not raised soon, there will be no coal; without coal there will be no transportation; without coal and transportation, there will be no processing of food from indigenous resources. . . . "The fact that we now have to go back on our pledged word to the German people will seriously impair our prestige and the confidence of the German people in the pledged gional hospitals.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Word of our officials. This will give to those who oppose our economic system the best weapon they have ever received. As fast as possible, we are losing all the advantages gained by the success of arms. We are losing the peace much faster than at the close of World War I.

The first great blow has been the food muddle. Others will pile up like a snowball...
"It appears that we will have to reduce the already inadequate ration for Berlin. This, of course, will give the Russians a strong talking point against the western powers when we cannot afford to sustain the 1,550-calorie ration for the normal consumer."

And so the path of our friend, the reporter from Izvestia, crosses that of the American official. Clearly we see the different segments of the picture which opponents of western democracy have sketched in no faint strokes across the troubled Yes, indeed, food will write the peace!

Polls Show U. S. Ready to Sacrifice

It is interesting to note that the American people are perfectly will-ing to make sacrifices to send food ing to make sacrinces to send tood to Europe. Two surveys were made by the University of Denver National Research center, one of which showed that 68 per cent of those interviewed indicated their wish to resume rationing if neces-sary in order to send critical food

Another survey by the same institution showed that more than a third of the people (35 per cent) believed that we should send food to Germany as a gift if she could not pay us for it.

I believe that if a similar poll were taken in regard to feeding Japan, the results would be approximately the same.

Gardens Grow On Skyscrapers

People have their roots in the soil even when they live 20 stories above asphalt pavements. I had that brought forcibly to mind as I leaned over the wall of a wide terrace of

As I looked to the right and the left, everywhere I saw fresh green edging other walls like the one against which I was leaning; and below me, I could glimpse neat gar-dens already sprouting cheerfully in the first warm spring sun. There was a vine spreading over one wall; higher up were tall trees bursting into leaf. Tall, I say—the tops were some 300 feet above the pavement, if only some 15 feet above their elevated roots.

I saw one old man in a battered straw hat, his trowel laid aside and the evidence of his industry in a row of little pine trees in neatly painted tubs. He was resting in a garden chair, a little fountain play-ing in the wall beside him, and a

Farther away was a real achievement—a lawn at least 50 feet square with tulips blossoming along a neat walk that led to nowhere.

LEARNING TO LIVE TOGETHER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:15-17; 21. 22; Mark 10:35-45.

Mark 10:

One world! Men have discovered in recent years that we do live in one world and that we must learn how to get along with one another, or we may find that we have destroyed civilization and one another.

God has always tagght in his Word that all man are force origin and that all men are of one origin, and that despite their differences, they are to live in unity and peace. That would have been blessedly true if men had obeyed God and his law. Sin brought division and confusion. Now in our day, when we should be far on the way to the attain-ment of God's purpose, we find men more inclined than ever to be sus-more inclined than ever to be suspicious of one another, grasping in their desires and purposes, and evil in many of their ways.

We have not yet learned to live together as nations. Let us set ourselves to the task of living together.

1. A Method for Dealing with Differences (Matt. 18:15-17).

This is the God-prescribed methodores of the control o

This is the God-prescribed method for dealing with personal prob-lems in the Christian church. That body in which love should reign is often rent by jealousies and personal resentments. If permitted to run on unchecked, they create division and even strife before the world, with all the disgrace it brings on the cause of Christ.

Such matters are to be dealt with promptly. The aggrieved one is not to wait for the sinner to make the approach, but is to go to him and place before him the evidence of his guilt. Done in kindness and with tact, this is frequently all that needs to be done. A man may thus win his brother, with no further ado or fuss in the church.

If he proves stubborn, the next step is to bring some brethren along and talk it over again. This evidence of their concern may break the stubbornness, or their prayers may win him. And if it does not work, the things said and done will have been witnessed by brethren who can faithfully report them to ne church.

The final step is to bring the erring brother before the church. Now he may see the seriousness of his offense and repent. If not, there is one plain duty; he is to be put out-side of the fellowship of the church. Does that mean that he is abandoned and forgotten? Certainly not. He is to be "as a heathen man and a publican." Does the church have any interest in such individuals? Indeed it does, for the primary business of the church is to win both heathen and publican to fellowship with Christ.

II. A Measure for Determining Forgiveness (Matt. 18:21, 22).

Peter's question was a practical one. He supposed the case of one who sinned repeatedly against one who had shown a forgiving spirit.

Most of us need not suppose such cases; we have them before us.

We forgive and are ready to let it all be forgotten, when lo, the of-fender turns up with an even greater wrong, indignity or sin! Then there is weeping and appar-

Then there is weeping and apparent repentance, followed almost at once by another offense.

How long is this business to go on? The Jews said, "Three times, then let judgment fall." Peter, being a follower of Christ, went much farther. He would forgive seven times. Well, that's a lot of forgiveness, let up reception the Meet Meet of the seven times. giveness: let us recognize that. Most of us haven't even gone as far as the Jews, and Peter is way ahead of us.

But it is not enough! Forgiveness which has any limit set on it is not forgiveness at all. The very genius of forgiveness demands that we do not stand there with a measuring line or an account book. It must be from the heart, without limit and without restraint.

III. A Means for Attaining Greatness (Mark 10:35-45).

To want to be truly great for God is certainly not a sin. In a world which was rejecting Christ and getting ready to crucify him, this mother wanted her two boys to have a place of honor in the service of Christ. So far, so good; but then came the thing which spoiled it all -selfishness. To seek honor for oneself, or for those one loves in order that the ego might be inflated and self given a chance to show off, that is definitely unchristian.

If then it is right to seek proper greatness, how may it be done? Verses 43-45 tell us. It is by way of sacrificial service, the denial of self.
This world and its kingdoms say that the one who serves is inferior to the one who is served. In the kingdom of Jesus it is the one who serves who is greatest.

Where will such a path lead? For Christ it led to the cross, and beyond it the victory of resurrection day. It may mean death for us, for a real willingness to serve connotes a willingness to give all, even life itself, for his glory.

ALL THEY ASKED WAS AN EVEN BREAK

Building a new country was no easy job. But there were men and women willing to tackle it—to turn their backs on the safe and sure way of life and their faces toward new frontiers. All they asked was an even break.

Free enterprise is another way of saying "an even break." Free enterprise is not a political catchword. It's the basic American principle of vision and personal initiative. Just give an American an even break-a chance to get aheadand he'll go on from there.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its citizens, the American ideal of an even break is destroyed-for government in business enjoys special privileges that are denied the people.

Take the case of government-owned power systems, for example. They pay few, if any, taxes; often get money from the U.S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

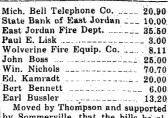

On the other hand, America's business-managed power companies—owned and operated by millions of folks like you—are on their own. They pay their full share of taxes, and they pay fair interest on any loans.

It's a tribute to American self-reliance that tax-paying, self-supporting companies supply over 4% of the enormous amount of electricity used in this country.

The same forethought and experience which furnished electric power for a global war will assure America dependable-and cheap-electric service for a post-war world. There are still new frontiers in electric living to be opened. And business men can do the job better than bureaucrats.
