Charlevoix Co. Red Cross Held Monthly Meeting at East Jordan, Friday

The Charlevoix County Chapter of the American Red Cross met Friday night at the City Hall in East Jordan for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Neil Kreigoff, Miss Ethel Crowell, and Miss Frances Milner who recently returned from the Red Cross National Convention held in Cleveland gave their reports.

Delegates from each of the 48 states were present and also from a few of the foreign countries. Miss Milner who represented Charlevoix County as a Junior Red Cross delegate, stated that there were actually present 1200 youngsters, many of whom were from distant countries.

Rev. B. Gail Hetrick executive secretary, gave a report on the Claims Institute, which he attended last week, Wednesday and Thursday in Traverse City. The purpose of the institute was to learn the latest data on filing claims for veterans. Veterans who wish help with their claims should call at the Red Cross office in Boyne City over the Bank building.

Extensive plans are being laid for First Aid Classes, Water Safety, and Home Nursing. The meeting was adjourned and the board will not meet again until August 15.

Blood Donors Request

The Red Cross chapter of Charlevoix county is making an urgent appeal to veterans and civilians who are of blood types 3 and 4 to file their types with the Red Cross. Tuesday morning a request was received for type 4, which is one of the rarer types. There are only 8 type 4 to draw from and if the Red Cross is called very often, the supply of the particular type of donor will soon be exhausted. Donors are advised to send their name, age, sex and blood type to the Red Cross office in Boyne City and give phone number.

KNOW YOUR RADIO

By T. M. Luxford

How many times we find ourselves positive and determined about some decision we have made with respect to some thing or other that we have to pass judgment upon, only to learn finally that we were wrong. Sometimes the result is ridiculously funny, more often, however, it is pathetic or even tragic and affects some person or persons adversely, possibly to a disastrous degree.

We are not trying to go dramatic on you, but it would be well to point out that, before you blame some particular person or persons for creating radio interference, you would do well to make sure. In either event do not publicize it. Should you suspect radio interference to be radiating from some particular source, we certainly want to know about it. That's why the city council has created the office of Radio Interference reports, but let's not publicize it. Report it to me and I will make an inspection of the suspected source.

We are pleased to report this week that we have eliminated more interference coming from business area. It has been necessary in some instances for business firms to make quite an expenditure to avoid radiating interference. All are cooperating and many orders for installation of filters are awaiting fulfillment.

Last week, a noise covering all of the city and much of the surrounding territory manifested itself. It sounded much like the ticking of a clock with an interval between "tick" of one second. It was more noticeable Friday, June 27th, showing up all morning. We spent the morning trying to locate it and were going to continue in the afternoon but it stopped. If there is anyone who owns or knows about some electrical equipment which they feel might create such a disturbance we would appreciate being notified at once. We wish to point out that it is extremely doubtful that it is an electric clock, even of the large commercial variety, as the nature of electric clock construction is such that we can practically eliminate it at the source. We mentioned the clock merely as a manner to describe to you the type of noise.

A great amount of interference we are experiencing is not man-made. Mother Nature is a large contributor, especially in the summer. The past week has been particularly bad for weather static. Weather static on a bright sunny day is not unusual and may be an indication of an approaching electric storm. Oftentimes these storms are close enough to radiate static, yet do not pass over your territory, but go around. Consequently, hearing static is not a reliable method of locating a storm.

Don't be surprised if you hear odd interruptions in your radio programs this summer. We have been on the Jordan River several times and have firmly established the fact that the Jordan River Valley mosquitoes are using Radar to locate their victims this year. Don't be too discouraged about this. Every cloud has a silver lining, and at least, we can be proud of the fact that even the mosquitoes are employing modern methods.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to sincerely thank all friends and neighbors for their gifts of fruit, plants and cards, and for their cherryl visits, while I was confined to the hospital.

Slicing Carrots

Slice large carrots crosswise in thin slices. Chill thoroughly in refrigerator, placing in ice water unless very fresh. Spread with peanut butter. A delightful addition to your canape tray.

Rats and mice will not chew modern American matches creating fire hazards, because of ingredients so repulsive to rodents that in laboratory tests they would not touch the composition even when starving.

Brain Tissue

Human brain tissue is absolutely insensitive and can be cut while the patient is conscious. Headaches cause pain, not in the brain itself, but in the membrane covering the brain or in the blood vessels of the brain.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Seth Huggins brought his dilapidated flivver to a noisy halt before the village store, and shouted up to the proprietor sunning himself by the doorway, "Wall, Si, you said I couldn't dew it, but, by cracky, I done it."

"You done what?" asked the storekeeper.

"Sold that there old bag-o-bones mare of mine—that's what I done," he shouted exultantly.

"Gosh amightly, but you air a smart one!" cried the amazed Si. "That there critter warn't wuth a dime. What did you sell her fur?"

"Nope, she warn't wuth nothin,' 'tis true," agreed Seth. "But all the same I sold her fur a hundred dollars—got the money right here in my wallet, too."

"Seth, I got to hand it to you," declared Si. "You shore air a slick trader. A hundred dollars! Why that there mare warn't wuth even five dollars. She wuz 20 year old if she wuz a day and blind in one eye and spavined and wind-broke and all petered out. Who, in the name of St. Peter, did you sell her to?"

"Who do you reckon?" exulted Seth. "I sold the critter to ma!"

VOICE FROM THE REAR

"Ruth," moaned her long-suffering husband, "you promised you wouldn't buy a new dress. What made you do it?"

"Dear," replied the modern Eve, "the devil tempted me."

"Why didn't you say, 'Get thee behind me, Satan?'" the poor man inquired.

"I did," the little woman replied sweetly, "and then he whispered over my shoulder, 'My dear, it fits you just beautifully in the back.'"

Shocking News

The village dead-beat, returning to town after a long absence was gratified to find a new shop had sprung up on the main street during his travels, and that it bore the inviting sign: "Come in and have it charged!"

Hoping that the new merchant's ignorance of his bad credit reputation might enable him to get something without paying for it, the prodigal hastened into the new establishment and eagerly inquired, "What do you charge here?"

"Nothing but batteries," was the obliging reply.

Trimmed the Loss

The man who always looked at the bright side of things had the misfortune to suffer from burglars who raided his store.

"But it could have been worse," he said philosophically. "You see, I didn't lose as much as I might have, for I had just finished marking down things for the month-end sale."

Not Root of All Evil

"Would you marry a man for his money?" asked one chorine of her girl friend the other day.

"Not exactly," replied the girl friend. "But I'd want my husband to have a lovely disposition, and if he didn't have money he'd very likely be worried and ill-natured."

STUBBORN, EH?

The jury had been locked up for hours. One of the jurors had refused to agree to the view of the others. At last the officer of the court was instructed to provide refreshment.

"Shall I order 12 dinners?" he said to the foreman.

"Make it 11 dinners and a bale of hay," replied the weary foreman.

Wait Its Turn

"Yo sho does look worried."

"Boy, I've booked up solid on worrying. I've got so many worries on mah mind that if sunpin happens to me today, Ah won't get time to worry about it for two weeks."

Sulphuric Acid Increases Flow of Gum From Pines

A few farmers scattered throughout the south Georgia naval stores belt are demonstrating that applications of sulphuric acid to pine trees to stimulate the flow of gum is no longer in the experimental stage, but is a sound commercial practice. With slash pine a 40 per cent solution of acid, and with longleaf a 60 per cent solution, applied at the rate of one quart per 1,000 trees for each treatment, maintains the flow of gum twice the normal length of time.

Also, according to Ray Shirley, naval stores specialist for the Georgia Extension Service, where a tree continues to yield a supply of gum for six to seven years when chipped once each week as is the usual practice without acid, the same tree yields gum more years when acid is used because it is chipped only half as often.

Introduced by the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station, the practice of stimulating the flow of gum with acid was used to some extent during the war. When acid is applied and trees are streaked weekly, gum flow is increased 40 to 60 per cent over normal production. When trees are streaked every other week and acid is applied, the gum flow is about equal to that from trees streaked each week without the use of acid.

Karakul Replaces Diamonds

As S. W. African Top Export

In South West Africa diamonds have yielded their position as a leading export to the rapidly expanding volume of karakul lamb pelts destined for coats in Great Britain and the United States. Since 1920, recalls the National Geographic society, South West Africa has been administered by the neighboring Union of South Africa under a League of Nations mandate. It was a German colony from 1884 to 1915. Late in that period, pure-bred karakul sheep were imported from Bukhara, now part of the Uzbek Soviet Socialist Republic.

These karakuls from the northern edge of the Iranian plateau were crossed with South West Africa's native clothing-wool sheep. The resulting lambs' fur was not so tightly curled and lustrous as that of the pure-bred Persian strain, but it has always been in demand, as proved by the recent phenomenal growth of the trade.

In 1926, a mere 10,000 pelts were shipped from the South West African collection center at Windhoek. In 1936, the total reached 800,000. Despite World War II and scarcity of ships, exports increased to 2,300,000 skins in 1941 and to 2,529,000 in 1944.

Soybean Production

Soybean production in the United States has increased so enormously in the past few years that it now rivals Chinese production and is nearly twice that of Manchuria. The soybean is no longer a strange and exotic crop to the farmers of the United States. It has become quite definitely westernized, so much so that more than one hundred varieties are now grown in the United States. Estimates place the 1946 United States soybean crop at an estimated 192 million bushels, or just a million bushels under the record breaking crop of 1943. Before the war China and Manchuria accounted for about three-fourths of the world's soybean production. The war was, of course, chiefly responsible for the United States production increasing in proportion to the Asiatic crop. The war-induced vast increases in the acreages planted to soybeans in the United States, while these same wartime operations and disruptions cut production in Asia.

Ripening Pears

Pears, like bananas, ripen best off the trees. Since pears become hard and gritty when left on the trees, they are picked as soon as they mature. If the fruit in the store is not soft, keep it for a few days at room temperature, between 60 and 70 degrees. In home kitchens pears may be covered with a damp cloth until ripe or in a paper bag with a wad of damp paper to provide the necessary moisture. They should not be put in the refrigerator until they are soft. The exception to the rule is the Kieffer pear, the hardy variety widely grown in home orchards. They need a cooler temperature for ripening than other pears and should be kept at from 55 to 65 degrees to develop a soft texture and pleasing flavor. Most home cellars provide the right temperature for the Kieffers.

Discover Roman Ruins

Bombs and rabbits led to new discoveries of England's Roman centuries. Decorative mosaic floors of about A. D. 300 were revealed beneath bomb-bared cellars at Canterbury and in Somerset. The rabbits, scratching in a dry castle moat in Dorset, uncovered pottery and metal objects of the Roman period. Ruins of Roman Londinium were found under Middle-Ages artifacts by delving a dozen feet beneath blitzed basements in the Ludgate Hill section of London. Student volunteers excavated Roman dwellings beneath rubble in bombed Southwark and Exeter.

LESSON TEXT FOR JULY 6—Job 1:1; 27:1-5; 31:19-28.
MEMORY SELECTION—My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go: my heart shall not reproach me so long as I live.—Job 27:6.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

MODERN problems may well be solved by the principles found in Old Testament Scripture. Man is essentially the same as he always has been; sin and temptation to evil have only changed their outer trimmings. Above all, the Word of God is eternal in its validity and effectiveness.

We learn from him and his experiences that it is possible so to live by the grace of God, that he can be pleased with our lives. That is an encouraging fact. Job was just a man, but he was a man who was

I. Upright and Good (1:1).
SOME liberal critics of the Bible have tried to prove that Job was not a real man, but other Scripture makes it clear that the words "there was a man" (v.1) states a fact. (See Ezek. 14:14 and 20: James 5:11)

He was a man with a large family, with great flocks and herds, and so a man of business, and the husband and father in a growing and active household. But in it all he was upright, and a good, God-fearing man.

Many make excuses for their failure to serve the Lord. They say that their business duties and relationships make it just about impossible. Others say that family situations and responsibilities keep them from service and worship of the Lord.

The experience of Job explodes all such excuses and squarely faces us with the fact that it is possible to live for God in the midst of the very circumstances of modern life.

II. Tried and True (27:1-5).
AFTER Job had lost his property, his children and even his health, three of his friends came to comfort him. But they only added to his sorrow by accusing him of being sinful, and suffering only what he deserved.

Job in these verses is replying to them. We note that in his ignorance of God's purposes, he accused God of being cruel to him (27:2; 30:21). This matter was later to be straightened out with the Lord.

But even now when he did not understand God's dealings, and stood there sick and destitute, he maintained his integrity. He would not turn from the Lord, nor would he be led off into wickedness.

It is possible for a man to be beaten and bruised and bewildered, and still true to the Lord. Let's never forget that!

III. Kind and Fair (31:19-23).
JOB had been a rich man, but had not let his own prosperity dim his eye so that he could not see the need of his poor neighbor. He was not among those who, because they are well fed, can see no point in all the fuss about the hungry people round about.

There is something very fine and worthy of our imitation here. It is so easy to take what we have as a special favor from the Lord, to be retained and used by us, when we ought to recognize it as a matter of stewardship for the Lord.

A vital part of real moral integrity is the right use of possessions. Many a man or woman who has passed all the other tests with flying colors comes to grief at this point.

IV. Spiritual and Faithful (31:24-28).

THERE were plenty of temptations in Job's day, as there are now, to depart from the worship of the true God to other modes of devotion.

The worship of the sun was common, and Jeremiah 44:17 shows that it continued for generations. In fact, what shall we say of the world-wide devotion to astrology in our day.

Then there was the temptation to worship gold. How up-to-date that is, for do we not have millions who worship "the almighty dollar," yes, even if they do not have it.

To all such temptations Job said a resolute "No." He would not even permit his innermost heart to be enticed secretly (v. 27). He stood true for the God he loved and served.

Who will question that one of our greatest needs in the world today is for men and women who, by the grace and blessing of God, will live good and upright lives, true to the Lord, and sacrificial, in real loving-kindness to men. God give us men, yes, that kind of men!

Times are going to be better on Michigan farms.

That is — despite the 1947 wet spring.

Cupid is getting along pretty well, for one thing. Only one divorce has been recorded out of 600 marriages among members of the Michigan Junior Farm Bureau, according to Ruth Parsons, president. That's better by far than the one-out-of-six record for the nation today.

Farmers' checks are bigger and father. Mortgages are being paid off. New equipment and buildings are being added in a program of mechanized agriculture. Farmer income, on a per capita basis, has finally exceeded the normal relationship to wage and salary income.

This prosperity has been long overdue. For the past decade or so, farmers and small-town dwellers have comprised a fifth of the nation's population. Yet they have received only about one-tenth of the national income.

Our 1947 boom is riding into the second half of the year at a high level. Income payments are now at a record rate of $177 billions a year. This rate is just about $100 billions more than the pre-war level. Giddap, we're going to town!

More hospitals for Michigan rural areas are on the way, too.

Governor Kim Sigler announces that Michigan is going to put its house to order. The state seeks to be eligible for $10 millions of federal funds available during the next five years for construction of rural hospitals in Michigan.

Uncle Sam is to pay one-third or more of such cost; local communities two-thirds. The federal law permits a higher priority to rural areas in allotment funds.

The 1946 state survey of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation proposes "one or more hospitals or medical service centers for each county". The foundation recommends establishment of 181 public health and medical centers.

The Michigan State Medical society is sponsoring a Michigan rural health conference at Michigan State College early in September. Cooperating agencies include the State Grange and Farm Bureau.

For encouragement of character and religious education, the University of Michigan is currently sponsoring a "workshop" June 27 to July 7 under the able leadership of Dr. Edward W. Blakeman, university research consultant in religious education.

Along with other states, Michigan is now experiencing a post-war moral slump. Crime is rising rapidly. Apparently unaware of the moral law, "Thou Shall Not Kill", 16-year-old Oliver Terpening, Jr., Lapeer county farm boy, slew four children "because I always wanted to know what it would feel like to kill somebody". We could write a column on this subject — our lagging morals and our need for more religious education. Maybe we'll do it some week.

Better rural life in Michigan is the aim of a course in rural leadership at Michigan State College July 7 to 18.

A Michigan rural safety council has been formed to do something about the causes of 169 fatal accidents on Michigan farms last year. Burns and explosions accounted for one out of every three mishaps; machinery, one out of four; the bull, one out of four.

And so it goes. One important thing is this. Michigan farm folks are trying to help themselves. And from the current signs, they're doing pretty well, thank you.

The Picnic Was a "Hug" Success!

Our local Wild Life League went on a picnic Saturday, and I went along to cover it for the Clarion. Monday, folks kept stopping me, and saying: "Must have gotten out of hand, that picnic!"

"Nonsense," I says. "It was mighty pleasant and congenial. Just beer and hot dogs, cheese and cider." And then they show me the headline reading: "WILD WIFE PICNIC HUG SUCCESS."

Of course it was Elmer, my type-setter, who had made the misprints: But is my face red! It's only because folks are so temperate and well-behaved in our town, that they could afford to take the whole thing as a joke.

From where I sit, even a newspaper editor's entitled to a few mistakes. And since I reported that they served a moderate beverage like beer, I'm sure nobody thinks the picnic was the least bit wild, or anything but a huge success — and I mean huge!

Taft-Hartley Labor Act in Force; Floods Dash Corn Crop Hopes; Investigate Limit on Aid Program

Released by Western Newspaper Union
 (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

TRUMAN DEFEATED

Congress Quashes Labor Bill Veto

Verging on mental and political exhaustion after a bitter, two-day fight, weary senators voted 68 to 25 to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill.

The action, sustaining a walloping 331 to 83 house vote to pass the bill over the veto, came on the heels of a final presidential plea to Sen. Alben Barkley (Dem., Ky.) to muster all possible forces in the senate "to prevent this bill from becoming law."

Opponents of the measure needed 32 votes to uphold the veto, and they waged a desperate, last-ditch battle to attain their objective. Final result, however, was a smashing defeat for Mr. Truman at the hands of the Republican-controlled congress.

Highlights of a tooth-and-tongue opposition fight to delay the senate vote as long as possible in order to gain support was an all-night session during which Sen. Glen H. Taylor (Dem., Idaho) held the floor for eight hours and 20 minutes and Sen. Wayne Morse (Rep., Ore.) talked for 10 hours and two minutes. It was the longest filibuster in modern congressional history.

PROTEST STRIKES

With the Taft-Hartley act in force only a few hours, scattered protest strikes suddenly blossomed into a full-scale walk-out of 180,000 soft coal miners. At least 41 mines were closed in 10 states. The walkout appeared to be a spontaneous reaction on the part of the miners to the new labor law.

The Taft-Hartley act, which constitutes a wholesale revision of the Wagner act of 1934, was termed by President Truman in his veto message a "shocking piece of legislation." He asserted that the measure would "cause more strikes, not fewer," and would put the country a long step on the dangerous road toward "a totally managed economy."

"This legislation would encourage distrust, suspicion and arbitrary attitudes," the President told congress.

FLOODED OUT: No Bumper Crop

Experts who recently predicted a three billion bushel corn crop this year were hastily revising their estimates in the light of continuing torrential rains and widespread floods which have transformed much of the Midwest into a soggy mass of mud.

Damage has been particularly heavy in Iowa, extending from one end of the state to the other. Flooding of river bottom lands is only part of the loss.

Thousands of acres of crops have been washed out, and the loss is considered irreparable. It is too late to replant with anything except forage crops and possibly buckwheat if seed is available.

On upland farms, ponds and lakes overflowing their boundaries also will cut seriously into corn yields. All in all, a bumper corn crop is considered extremely unlikely, even with a favorable growing season up to October.

Some authorities have begun to believe that the government's grain export program should be re-examined in view of conditions existing on the nation's farms at present.

ATOM TREATY: Hope Dies

Hope of writing an international atomic control treaty before the United Nations general assembly meets in September virtually has been abandoned by the U.N. atomic energy commission.

Deadlocking the situation is the now commonplace fact that Russia and the western powers remain diametrically opposed on all major issues with regard to an atomic treaty.

Andrei Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the commission that Russia never would agree to any atomic control plan in which the large powers had no authority to veto the punishment of violators.

The United States, on the other hand, is insisting that the veto must not be used to assist countries or individuals in escaping punishment for atomic crimes.

High Farm Production Requires Less Work

Farm production, at today's high level, takes only two-thirds as much human labor as would have been required in 1920 for an equal volume of production.

Reporting on advances in farm technology, the department of agriculture has estimated that with 1920 methods, tools, crop varieties and livestock practices, farmers would have to put in about 30 billion hours of work for this year's farm production. But because of the tech-

WHAT ABOUT THE BILL?

The Taft-Hartley act, which went into effect immediately upon passage by the senate, will be administered under the National Labor Relations board.

Broadly stated, the reason put forward for the legislation is that organized labor, under protection of the Wagner act, has grown too powerful for the good of the country.

Some of the changes authorized by the Taft-Hartley act:

1. Closed shop agreements may not be demanded by unions under protection of the labor relations act.
2. An employer may insist that a majority of his employees approve a union's demand for a union shop by secret balloting.
3. A number of union practices are listed as unfair, among them jurisdictional strikes.
4. The President is empowered to name a fact-finding board to investigate "national emergency" strikes, and the attorney general can ask an 80-day injunction against such strikes.
5. Unions become ineligible to make political contributions and same as national banks and corporations.

FOREIGN AID: There's a Limit

Indications of a possible trend away from top-heavy loans abroad were seen in President Truman's creation of three committees to study the impact on this country of its foreign aid program.

Mr. Truman commented that the extent to which we should continue aiding the recovery of production abroad is not easy to ascertain. Major committee which will study the limits of our foreign commitments will be a 19-member group headed by Averill Harriman, secretary of commerce.

The committee has been assigned to report on the limits within which the United States may "safely and wisely" plan to offer aid abroad.

Two other studies, to be conducted within the domestic structure of our government, will be carried out by committees under leadership of Julius Krug, secretary of the interior, and Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's council of economic advisers.

Although the White House announcement did not mention it, the three committees have been assigned to cover a large part of the ground outlined by Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) in an earlier calling for an assessment of the capacity of the United States to meet foreign commitments.

SPEED DEMON: 623.8 M.P.H.

An army air forces jet-propelled fighter plane brought the world's air speed record back to the United States for the first time in 24 years as it hurtled over a three-kilometer (1.83 miles) course four times for an average of 623.8 miles an hour.

Col. Albert Boyd, chief of the air materiel command, who piloted the Lockheed P-80R for the test at Muroc army air base in California, attained a speed of 632.8 miles an hour during one of his four blazing runs over the black oiled strip laid out on the ground.

Preparations had been carried out over the course of a year to ready the jet plane for the assault on the British-held record of 616 miles an hour, set in September, 1946, by a Gloster Meteor IV.

Colonel Boyd was timed at 617.1 miles an hour on his first run, 614.7 on the second, 632.8 on the third and 630.5 on the fourth and last.

First world airplane speed record to be made under official contest conditions was set by the late Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell in 1922. His speed was 222.9 miles an hour. The following year, Lt. Al Williams of the U. S. navy raised the mark to 267 miles an hour. Shortly thereafter, the United States lost the world speed record, only to regain it this year with Colonel Boyd's jet-propelled effort.

WORDS, WORDS:

Million a Minute

Radio newspapers will become as commonplace as the present news sheets in the foreseeable future as a result of a new radio communication system that can send one million words a minute, Niles Trammell, president of National Broadcasting company, has predicted.

Pointing out that many broadcasters may become "electronic newspaper publishers," Trammell told a senate commerce sub-committee that for that reason radio should enjoy freedom of speech equal to freedom of the press.

He explained the new radio communications system as being, in effect, "a radio-mail system which will surpass radio telegraphy, wire telegraphy, cables and air mail in speed of operation. Here, television is used for communications."

Each page would be handled as a picture, with the pictures sent in rapid order. The pages then would be reproduced at the receiving end by a new high-speed process of photography. Practically every form of artistic expression will become available to the people direct from studio to home.

THE TEST:

Three Meet

The meeting in Paris of the European Big Three, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, French Foreign Minister Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Bevin, is being heralded as a decisive test of East-West economic cooperation.

Consensus of opinion was that the talks would either launch Europe on a cooperative self-help program with American aid or widen the split between the Eastern and Western powers.

The conference is a halting, initial step toward a fulfillment of the "Marshall plan" for Europe—a proposal by Secretary of State Marshall which recommends establishment of an economic federation of the European states. As a loosely knit organization, it would operate as a unified reconstruction and recovery program with American aid.

OIL CONTROL

On Again

In a move apparently aimed at quieting congressional criticism of American oil shipments to Russia, the federal government has reimposed wartime controls on exports of petroleum products.

Although the renewed controls will not halt all oil shipments to the Soviet Union, they will make such shipments subject to discretion of the department of commerce. Shipments to Canada will not be controlled.

Theory behind the move is that export control is necessary if the limited domestic supply is to be protected and U. S. petroleum exports are to be used most effectively.

Commerce department officials did not say to what extent the revived controls would reduce shipments to Russia, which received a total of 168,306 barrels during the first four months of 1947.

PARADOX:

Food From Greece

A ridiculous paradox wherein the people of Greece, to whom the United States is sending money, food and military aid, are shipping packages of food to this country has been revealed by customs officials.

Following a disclosure that from 100,000 to 160,000 pounds of meat have reached the United States in small parcels in recent months, Harry M. Durning, collector of customs for the port of New York, acted to ban so-called "gratitude" shipments of meat to individuals in this country from friends and relatives in Greece.

Government authorities in Washington have attributed the mysterious food movement to a Communist-inspired hoax which has spread the belief in Greece that the United States is suffering from a food shortage.

Dimetrios Papatsonis, Greek director of customs in Athens, advanced the counter-theory that the packages were "tokens of gratitude" for parcels received from the United States. He said the meat might be salami and pastourmas, considered a delicacy and sent for that reason.

Reflections

Unfair Distribution

Seth and Hannah were Quakers. They had been "keeping company" for several months, and Seth was getting impatient to know whether Hannah loved him or not, so one day he said to Hannah:

"Hannah, dost thou love me?"

And Hannah replied: "Why, Seth, you know we are commanded to love one another."

"Yes, Hannah, I know, but dost thou feel that the world calls love?"

And Hannah's answer was: "I hardly know what to tell thee, Seth. I have tried to bestow my love upon all, but I have sometimes thought that perhaps thou wast getting more than thy share."

Antrim Co. Farm Bureau

The Farm Bureau Board of Directors held their monthly meeting on June 12 at Central Lake. Mr. Steffens, the State Farm Bureau lawyer, was present to advise on the local telephone situation. He thought that matters were very favorable to reorganization of the line and suggested that materials be sent to the community groups so that they could discuss it thoroughly.

The Board was represented by Mrs. Ellen Clark of Central Lake at the Training School held at Cedar Point this month.

Plans are being made for the annual Farm Bureau for Antrim County to be held some time in August.

There will be a public meeting July 7th at 8 p. m. at the Ellsworth Community Hall under auspices of the Farm Bureau action committee men. A report of the last session of the legislature and its effect on agriculture will be given by Stanley Powell, legislative council.

The County secretary has the membership emblems for use on cars for anyone who wishes to purchase one.

EASY TO SPOT

A flustered woman, her arms full of packages, approached the department store floorwalker.

"Oh, dear," she said in an anguished tone, "I'm looking for my husband. I was to have met him here two hours ago. I wonder if you have seen him?"

"Possibly I have, madam," he replied. "Is there any distinguishing characteristic about him by which I could identify him?"

A frightened expression came over the woman's face.

"He's," she replied hesitantly, "I imagine he's purple by now."

Or Unrefined

The travelogue of the Hawaiian islands, resplendent in technicolor, was very beautiful, and the voice of the commentator soft and soothing. A scene showing a great sugar cane field flashed on the screen.

From the loudspeaker came the comment: "It takes 18 months for the sugar to grow to maturity." And as an afterthought came the added aside: "That's a long time to wait for your sugar."

"Yeah," rejoined a voice from the back row, "but who wants his sugar immature."

Rates Too High?

When the teacher inquired of her class the cause of the Revolutionary war, little Jimmie volunteered: "It had something to do with automobiles."

"Oh, no, Jimmie!" protested the astonished instructor. "That was in the days long before the automobile."

"Well," rejoined Jimmie, "they said it was on account of unjust taxis."

Not His Fault

At the public library, a small boy presented a well-worn, dirty volume at the return desk. The librarian glanced at the book, leaned forward to take in the size of the boy, and then remarked, "This is rather technical, isn't it?"

Planting his feet firmly on the floor, the boy, half defiant, half apologetic, said, "It was that way when I got it."

Smart Girl

Elizabeth Joy, who had more brains than good looks, attended a party, where someone used the quotation: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

"Oh, I'm glad that I'm not a beauty," chimed in Elizabeth, "for I certainly don't want to be a Joy forever!"

The real low-down on the Midwest gasoline situation!

More motor cars and trucks are on the road in the Midwest today than in 1941 and the per car consumption of gasoline is higher.

Twice the volume of gasoline is being consumed by tractors on Midwest farms as in 1941.

The railroads have four times as many Diesel locomotive units today as they had in 1941. Diesels burn lots of fuel oil.

Additional hundreds of thousands of homes, old and new alike, are depending on fuel oil for clean, economical, efficient heat.

More planes arrive and depart from Midwest airfields. Every plane has a hungry maw that must be filled with high octane gasoline.

It takes a lot of tank cars, pipe lines, and barges to bring crude oil to the refineries to produce the needed gasoline and oil.

Steps taken to increase supplies

Thousands of new wells have been drilled and are producing additional supplies of crude oil. Hundreds of miles of new pipe lines are in service. Our refineries are producing as never before—operating at new high levels.

Standard Oil's expansion program was blueprinted long before there was any break in the war clouds. It has been driving ahead ever since V-J Day.

Refinery projects already completed have added 13% to our crude-running capacity and other projects now under way, although behind schedule because of shortages of materials, will increase this figure to 27% by next spring.

Great progress has been made. But all this is not enough.

Why the Midwest feels the pinch

Last winter's heavy demand for heating oil caused Standard Oil to make large increases in fuel oil yields at the expense of gasoline. As the result of this and heavy gasoline demands this spring, Standard's available inventories of gasoline at refineries and terminals are 30% below a year ago.

Also, in the Midwest transportation is a serious bottleneck. At present there just aren't enough pipe lines and available tank cars to carry to the Midwest the extra load of crude oil and finished products from distant producing and refining areas. Here again, projects which will help the situation by next spring are under way.

How Standard Oil is handling the situation

In the interest of fair treatment of all our customers, we are putting into effect at once an allocation system for the distribution of our gasoline during June, July and August. Throughout these months the total amount to be supplied Standard Oil Agents and Dealers in the Midwest will be approximately equal to what they received in 1946 during the same period. Since gasoline sales are running millions of gallons ahead of last year's, Standard Oil Agents and Dealers, in turn, will be unable to meet an unlimited demand. This temporary allocation system is adopted for your protection.

We frankly do not know how long this situation will last. We are laying our plans on the belief that it will continue through August—perhaps longer.

We do not believe the situation is serious enough to justify the introduction of formal rationing.

How you may be affected by this situation

There may be times when your service station dealer will be out of gasoline temporarily. Even if you are not always able to buy all the gasoline you want, there should be no need for real hardship. Although this is vacation time—if folks will take it easy, will reduce unnecessary driving, and not drive at high speeds that consume a lot of gasoline—everybody should be able to stay on a fairly normal basis. Nobody needs to become panicky. Hoarding, which is dangerous, would only aggravate the situation.

Standard Oil Dealers are cooperating wholeheartedly in this temporary emergency, which there is every reason to believe will not be of too long duration.

We earnestly bespeak your cooperation with your favorite Standard Oil Dealer. Both he and we want to see you often—and for a long time to come.
