

E. J. - Charlevoix Sailing Classic

WILL BE RUN THIS SUNDAY CHARLEVOIX TO EAST JORDAN

Under the joint sponsorship of East Jordan and Charlevoix, next Sunday, Aug. 17th, will witness the first annual free-for-all sailboat race between the two cities. This year's event will be open to all classes of sail with the exception of the "scow" type and will offer the contestants $225 in prize money divided among the first three craft to finish at East Jordan; first $100, second $75, third $50.

The race this year will start in Round Lake at Charlevoix at 10 a. m. with Captain of the Port Joe Howard as official started. The course will be supervised and patrolled by the U. S. Coast Guard while the judges will be stationed at the finish buoy at East Jordan. John Porter, Frank Brown and George Secord have been appointed to the judging staff while Hollis Drew represents East Jordan on the technical and arrangements committee.

Interesting views of the race action may be had almost throughout the entire course while maneuvers at the start, at the Ironton channel and at East Jordan should prove particularly exciting. The exact finishing time will, of course, depend on the existing weather conditions prevailing during the contest.

All local sailors desiring to enter are advised that if they will contact Hollis Drew arrangements will be made for a powerboat tow of their sailing craft from East Jordan to the starting line at Charlevoix.

Let's Keep It Clean

At considerable cost, the city has re-decorated the City Building including the rest rooms.

These were in a bad state, owing to the public's misuse of same. It is hoped that the public will use the rest rooms the same as they would in their own homes.

It is rather harsh, but the continued misuse of these rooms, both ladies and mens, will lead to prosecution of the offenders, and please remember that parents are responsible for the acts of their children.

So, please, Let's Keep 'Em Clean. Harry Simmons Chief of Police

Getting Ready for the Fair

Attendance at our Charlevoix County Fair being held this year from September 2nd to 5th is a pretty important thing but it can not be successful without lots of good exhibits. The county fair is the summer Achievement meet for 4-H club members. All club members are required to exhibit their produce in order to complete their summer's work. I would like to present some hints on getting your garden produce ready. This will apply to adult as well as 4-H club.

The produce should be excellent. This means practically perfect. Clean, free from injury, uniform in size, shape and color, of the best market size and true to variety type. Beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips when shown as roots should be topped and washed. Beets and carrots when shown in bunches are washed and tops left on. Cabbage should be washed or brushed and trimmed slightly. Do not trim cauliflower too closely. Celery should be washed and slightly trimmed. Cucumbers, egg plants, musk melon, water melon, peppers, squash and tomatoes are to be wiped and not washed. Onions should have only a few of the outer scales removed. Sweet corn should be exhibited with the shucks on but peeled back. Potatoes should be brushed with a soft brush; never wash them.

The 4-H club members make an attractive grouping of at least 5 different vegetables grown in their gardens. They may also show in the open class and display a number of produce as indicated in the 1947 Fair Premium Book.

If the produce in your garden are worth talking about they are worth showing. Let's show off our Charlevoix County produce by having an exhibit at the Charlevoix County Fair this year.

Next week we will talk about fitting our dairy cattle for exhibit. Karl C. Festerling District Club Agent

4-H Conservation Club

The 4-H conservation Club will meet in Room 5 of the Grade school August 27 at 2:00 P. M.

Bring a list of the wild flowers you have collected and pressed. Bring the loose leaves of your notebook if you need help in filling in the blanks.

At this meeting we shall make plans for an exhibit at the Charlevoix County fair. If the club members would like a picnic plans for one will be made at the same meeting.

Lutheran Bible School Parents' and Family Night

Members of the Lutheran Parish of Boyne City and Wilson township, as well as all children who have attended the vacation Bible school and their parents, are invited to attend the showing of a sound motion picture "The Life of Saint Paul" August 15th in the auditorium of Christ church, Boyne City. The program will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The children of the Bible school will sing several songs learned in the school which has been conducted for the past two weeks at Boyne City.

Following the showing of the film, refreshments will be served to all present by the Aid Societies of the parish. Opportunity will also be given to become acquainted with the work in which the children of the Bible school have participated as well as special projects in which they have been engaged to correlate the lesson subjects taught each day.

On Saturday afternoon of this week all children who have attended the Bible school will enjoy a picnic at Whiting Park, and on Sunday August 17th diplomas and special awards which have been earned by the pupils will be presented to them in the morning services of the day at Boyne City and Wilson township.

Despite many unfavorable factors the Bible school has a total enrollment of over eighty pupils of which considerable percentage are from East Jordan.

St. Joseph School Alumni To Hold Picnic, Aug. 17th

With the decline of the lumbering industry in our city, it was natural that many of our young people as they attained adulthood, should leave East Jordan. Their parents followed them when they were settled in new localities and the population was depleted considerably. However, we find increasing evidence as time goes on that the string of remembrances of childhood pull very strongly on these people who have left our vicinity.

Last year it happened that a large group of East Jordan residents who had at some time or other attended St. Joseph's school, happened to be visiting here. They formed an organization known as the St. Joseph's Alumni, elected officers and agreed to have a similar reunion each summer. For 1947 the reunion date has been set for August 17th at the Tourist Park. Each is to bring his own basket and it will be a picnic affair. After the festivities there will be a meeting to determine or settle any business that has or might arrive.

Be sure to read this colorful new series of true stories about Wall Street's fabulous gambling financiers. Begin it with "The Rise and Fall of Jesse Livermore", the spectacular story of "The Boy Plunger of Wall Street", in "The American Weekly", with this Sunday's (August 17) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Building Trim

In architecture, aluminum was first used as trim and decoration, from which point builders and architects discovered that the metal also could be used to great advantage for many construction purposes.

Break for Groom

A husband of the Bogos race in Eritrea never sees his mother-in-law's face or utters her name. The wife is never permitted to speak the name of her husband or that of her father-in-law.

Soybean Production

Soybean cultivation, pioneered in 1924 by the Staley Manufacturing company of Decatur, Ill., has made Illinois the nation's largest producer, with an estimated 1945 crop of 71,280,000 bushels.

American Sport

Basketball is the only major sport of entirely American origin. It was invented in 1891 to keep athletes physically fit and entertained between the football season and the baseball season.

IMPROVE PASTURES NOW FOR NEXT SUMMER

Pastures that will carry cattle through hot summer weather means dollars to the dairyman.

The Antrim Soil Conservation Directors have obtained a marsh breaking plow which can be used by the farmers throughout the county to get wet areas on their farms into productive pasture — Reeds Canary or White Dutch Clover are two of the best grasses.

During August-is the time to work these wet areas and to get the pasture prepared for seeding.

Ward Grove of Helena Township is using the plow to break up an acreage for truck crop. The power used to pull the plow is the Wood Brother's D-4 Cat. It is necessary to use a track-laying tractor to pull this plow in wet or low land areas.

The marsh plow is owned cooperatively by a number of Soil Conservation Districts in Northern Michigan.

It will be in Antrim County but a few weeks. Those people desiring to use the plow are being urged by Frank Hooper, Machinery Representative at the Antrim Soil Conservation District to contact the District Office at Bellaire and schedule the plow for a definite date.

4-H POTATO TOUR TUESDAY AUGUST 19

The 4-H Club members from Antrim, Kalkaska and Crawford Counties will spend a day touring various potato fields in this area. Mr. Leyton Nelson from the Farm Crops Department of Michigan State College will work with the Club members on potato diseases. Two 4-H Club members from Crawford Co. will give a demonstration on proper cutting of seed potatoes with the use of a cutting box. The tour will start at 10:00 o'clock at the Darius Buell's farm at Elmira.

Several neighboring farms will be visited. Club members will have the opportunity of seeing an irrigation system in operation.

In the afternoon a soft ball game between counties will be engaged. Club members are asked to bring their own lunch.

Four miles southwest of the lake of the Clouds in the Porcupine Mountains State Park and accessible to travelers only by winding mountain trails is a dream spot known as Mirror lake.

Guarded by virgin white pine and hemlock, some of which are four to five feet in diameter and tower 100 to 120 feet in the sky, Mirror lake nestles in a mountain range. The sun sets early. Twilight shadows on the water give rise to its name.

The altitude of Mirror lake is three feet higher than the top-most crest of the rocky escarpments that rim the southern edge of Lake of the Clouds.

You begin to realize this height when you hike over a well-marked foot trail with your bedroll and two days' supply of food in a ruckpack strapped on your back. The trail ascends steadily after you leave the Carp river outlet of Lake of the Clouds. You are traversing the center of Michigan's new wilderness park, an untouched timberland of nearly 20,000 acres, the largest remaining hardwood stand in the Middle West.

Two-thirds up the mountain trail you reach a scenic gorge. Caug creek, fed by cold mountain springs, tumbles down in a series of picturesque waterfalls. Along the banks of this miniature canyon is an ideal place to refresh your spirits — boil a pot of coffee or tea, munch on a sandwich or candy bar, and admire a fairland of giant trees and ferns. The ground is a brown cushion of pine needles.

Since October, 1944, when we failed to reach Mirror Lake because we got on the wrong trail, I had been telling the missus about the fascination of the Porcupines. And so we two became, quite by accident, the first couple to pack in our bed and food to the state's first log cabin at Mirror Lake.

Earl J. Donnelly, native of Ontonagon and now assistant director of the budget bureau at Washington, D. C., had preceded us with a party of seven. But with admirable prudence he had hired a team and wagon to haul supplies from the Nonesuch mine, site of a future park dude ranch. The team had taken nine

JELLY WILL SET IF YOU USE CORRECT MIXTURE

To make fruit jelly which sets successfully you must have three ingredients in the right proportion — pectin, acid, and sugar.

Jelly, according to Alice Crossette, foods specialist at Michigan State college, should hold its shape when turned on a plate but should quiver when the plate is moved.

Some fruits have enough natural acid and pectin to make good jelly. Tart apples, blackberries, wild grapes, currants, gooseberries, wild grapes, Concord grapes, plums, quinces and raspberries are the common ones.

For best results use a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe fruit. The underripe will furnish pectin and acid and the ripe will contribute color and flavor. Some fruits have enough pectin but not enough acid and others have the acid but not the pectin.

Sometimes you can combine fruits to get the right proportions of pectin and acid. These combinations result in different flavor and color blending. Try currants or gooseberries with raspberries, tart apple with plum or quince, or quince with cranberry. Or you can use commercial pectins. Lemon juice will increase the acid.

Make small amounts of jelly at a time. Use 6 quarts of berries or 8 pounds of other fruits. Two pounds of fruit will yield about a pint of juice and with an equal amount of sugar will make about a pint and a half of jelly.

Some fruits such as currants, crabapples, wild grapes and gooseberries are so rich in pectin that you can extract the juice from them twice. To get the second batch of juice, barely cover the pulp with water and simmer 15 to 20 minutes.

Vacuum Bristle

Here's how to determine whether your bristles in your vacuum cleaner are long enough to sweep the carpet. Lay a card across the nozzle. If bristles touch card, they'll touch the carpet. Too short? Learn how to lower the brush—there's probably a pin or slot mechanism or a flat screw at the ends of the roll.

The latest things in men's clothing — women.

gazed at the deepening shadows of the lake. A rabbit hopped from the underbrush by the lake shore and nibbled at tender leaves of a ground vine. He ignored nonchalantly our invitations to come and share the warmth of our camp fire. Dumb bunny!

The next morning we beheld, trapped in a sink inside the cabin, a timid, trembling kangaroo mouse. He had missed the rare treat of butter-milk pancake flour, for which we were eternally grateful.

Was all this worth the effort, the toil of a long hike up the mountain trail? Yes, we think so.

Life in Michigan is good, and we are at peace with the world.

(Delayed from last week)

ONTONAGON — The airplane has just made a piker out of me.

By steady driving and not tarrying in too many towns, I arrived here from Lansing with my 19-foot house trailer, ready for an Upper Peninsula newspaper conference and a vacation, all in a little less than two days and a half.

Considering that Michigan is such a big state and that the North Peninsula stretches out well over 320 miles from Sault Ste. Marie to Ironwood, I thought I was doing pretty well. In fact, I was about to brag about the accomplishment until Colonel Floyd Evans arrived with a party of five newspaper editors.

Taking off from the Lansing airport around 1 p. m., Colonel Evans flew a Beechcraft airplane to this Lake Superior gateway to the Porcupine Mountains State Park in less than two and half hours. Yes, only 150 minutes!

Colonel Evan's passengers ate luncheon at the state capitol city and dinner at Ontonagon. And they did it easily with time to kill. Such modern air transportation promises to bind the Upper Peninsula together as nothing else could possibly do.

"There is every reason to believe that Michigan's tourist business, now doing a total volume of well over one-half billion dollars a year can be augmented materially by the airplane and good airports," said Colonel Evans, director of the state department of aeronautics.

"Tourists are able to come greater distances by air. Land and water are not barriers."

The airplane is still in its swaddling clothes. Back in 1929 when the legislature created the department of aeronautics, Michigan had only 27 airports. Today, it has 202 licensed airports and 16 seaplane bases, all meeting strict requirements for public safety.

We learned from Colonel Evans that Michigan leads all states in pilot training schools and in number of students. Today the state has 235 schools. They are furnishing flight instruction to more than 15,000 students.

Trans-Canada air lines, a Canadian company, has been spending thousands of dollars to develop fields at Grand Marais and Houghton. Planes cross the border at Sault Ste. Marie and fly cross the Upper Peninsula rather than risk flights over the wilderness north of Lake Superior.

North Michigan is air-minded in a big way. New airports are being pushed at Escanada, Ironwood, Iron Mountains, Marquette and Menominee. By 1950 the state hopes to lead all states with a comprehensive network of 300 safe airports and 25 seaplane bases. All communities are being marked for guidance of pilots.

This country, north of the Straits, is looking more and more to the airplane for freedom from isolation. Next week I will tell you about packing in overnight to Mirror lake in the Porcupine Mountain State Park. The missus and I are enjoying a vacation in the north country, and we love it

"Wet and Dry" Issue Provokes A Herald Reader

The Charlevoix County Herald East Jordan, Mich.

To the Editor:—

You seem to take a good deal of delight in running letters telling other people how to live, and perhaps that is your business, but it seems to be that you exceed your duty when you arrogate yourself the right to print letters informing all of those who may happen to enjoy an occasional drink of "Scotch" on occasions.

I have been presented a fine bottle of Scotch whiskey and it's before me as I sit at my typewriter and indite this letter to you. It bears the label of Sandy MacDonald — a good, fair, well-bottled liquor which I am assured was bought a good many years ago and has been in my friend's cellar ever since. What right has anyone to complain if I partake of this gift as it was intended that I do by the giver?

I maintain that such complaining is an invasion of my personal liberty. I notice that some of these letters printed in your excellent columns referred often to the so-called Bill of Rights which secures to all men and women certain inalienable rights to their personal liberty, which, as they say, are not inconsistent with the rights of others. How can they reconcile their statements?

I have just tasted of this bottle of liquor, I will confide to you, and I cannot see where or how I am invading the rights of any other person on earth. I find it excellent. I cannot feel, Mr. Editor, that I wronged the community or added to the lawlessness of the general society in so doing. It makes me tired to be classed as a hoodlum and a drunkard for any such occasion, and I notify you that before long there will be a revolt against the sort of stuff that you are printing.

Just to show my independence of such truck as you are printing, I have taken another drink of the aforesaid most jubilant Sandy MacDonald, and I will say to you that it is about as smooth a drink as a fellow ever put into his system. The second drink, which I shall soon follow by a third, makes me more certain that those who feel their systems require a stimulant should band together; organize, and start a campaign to floor the business these dry are attempting.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am no bum and you can't make me a bum: I like a little drink now and then and I have taken a third and maybe it is a fourth, and I am more than ever convinced that any man that doesn't is a big idiot. These letters in your column state that this is producing a stage of affairs in our Great and Glorious Country. They are wrong. This country is jess as good as it ever was and was a great deal better country and I will lead it to you if it wasn't, when we had free rum way back before the first war.

I want to say to you that this Scotch is all right. A lot of it wouldn't do us harm. When we need stimulatory we need it. My grandfyer was brought up on rum. That had it in the hound all the time. They drank it freely and even the ministew drank it when he came to our house. It's a pretty kind of a country when a grandson ie better than his grandfather. I can drink this sort of Scotch all day and nit be no worse a cicozen than I was before. I could drink this whole gaeat audd neger giber an etelash.

Bue whay I wneat of you is to remind yiu oncr agaiiaan and agnian that you arw dead wronb ih comfseing evert bonu whu drlns as a bouhm. We aint cruals.

I will sat inclosing, that i wisg you a 2meRftChrihymax" an % haoyu Ner Yrare".

PENINSULA... (Edited by Mrs. E. Hayden)

Everyone was shocked Wednesday a. m. to hear Douglas D. Tibbits of Cherry Hill had shot himself. Mr. Tibbits had been a resident of Cherry Hill since 1923, a very much respected citizen.

Don. Hayden of Dearborn arrived by bus Friday a. m. at Orchard Hill in time for breakfast, having hitch hiked from East Jordan to spend the long week end with relatives. He returned Sunday evening.

Thomas L. Hayden of Pleasant View farm motored to Caro, Saturday, where he hopes to get a job.

Miss Lena Ticloy, Superintendent of the Greenville Hospital, and sister, Mrs. Hazel Knox, a teacher in the Bridgeport schools, arrived Sunday to visit their brother, Duncan MacDonald and family in Three Bells Dist. and other relatives.

Water Safety

Summer vacations at the lake or seashore can be fun—and you can have better assurance of living to tell about your good times—if you go equipped with some words of water wisdom from your doctor of medicine.

The primary rule for a good vacation is: Know where to find a doctor of medicine, a hospital or ambulance if an emergency should arise.

Water safety is as important to the expert swimmer as to the novice. Make it a rule to wait one hour after meals to go swimming and then always go with someone else. Swim at guarded beaches, during daylight hours, and be content to stay on the beach when the water is so cold it will overchill the body.

Learn to know your ability in swimming and get out of the water before becoming chilled or overtired. It is wise to learn to float so that you can rest on the water when you become tired or exhausted. If you enjoy diving, remember to test the water depth before you try the springboard.

If you don't swim, you may live longer if you refuse to go out in a canoe or rowboat. Inspect a boat for leaks before you push out from shore and don't try to take along that extra person who would overload the boat. It pays to keep a weather eye open when boating and to head for shore if a storm is coming up.

Accidents will happen even when all of these precautions are observed. If and when they strike, lose no time in getting a doctor of medicine to the scene of the accident or in getting the victim to a hospital.

son of Indiana have been helping them.

Mr. Ernest Staley of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Staley and Miss Arlene Hayden of Charlevoix were callers on the Orvel Bennett family, Sunday afternoon.

Pat and Bob Fine of Grand Ledge are staying with the Orvel Bennett family and picking cherries at the Porter orchard.

There were 24 at the Star Sunday School, Aug. 10.

Rod Baxter of Flint is visiting his sister, Mrs. Lance Russ on Lake Shore Drive, and fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Simmerman and two children of South Bend, Ind. were at the Will Gaunt home in Three Bells, Monday.

Lawrence Townsend and family of Blanchard were at the Will Gaunt farm, Sunday, for cherries.

Carl and John Beyer of Detroit spent Saturday night with their sister, Mrs. F. K. Hayden and family at Pleasant View farm.

A very nice crowd attended the Bingo at the Star Community Building, Aug. 9.

A very large delegation from the Peninsula attended Douglas D. Tibbits funeral at the Stackus funeral home in Boyne City, Saturday afternoon.

The weather stays very dry and hot. Everything is suffering for moisture. Cherry harvest is progressing favorably, oats are nearly ready to harvest, corn is tassling but needs ain very badly.

Orvel Bennett has taken over the Cherry Hill orchard and is caring for the harvesting of the cherries.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U.N. Halts Indonesian Conflict; Major Ford Strike Prevented; Churchill Hits Labor Government

Released by Western Newspaper Union
 (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

As co-chairmen of the armed services special weapons project, Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons (left) and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves have major responsibility in the historic job of seeing to it that the U. S. keeps out in front in development and production of atomic weapons and other advanced instruments of war.

UPRISE: War Stopped

United Nations security council, stepping out gingerly on a slender limb of rather doubtful authority, issued a call for an end to the Dutch-Indonesian war, and to the surprise of virtually everyone concerned the desired effect was achieved.

The war stopped. Acting Governor Gen. Hubertus J. Van Mook issued a cease-firing order to Dutch troops, and the Indonesian Republican government immediately went on record as being "agreeable to a cessation of hostilities."

At first glance, the most pronounced reaction was a wave of optimism within the security council over the success of U. N.'s first direct attempt to halt a conflict.

At second glance, the swift compliance of both Dutch and Indonesians with the U.N. request brought to mind a pair of spent and weary fighters who were only waiting for the bell ending the round.

At third glance, the complications appeared. Indonesia qualified its acceptance of the armistice by pointing out that "the cessation of hostilities can be carried out effectively only if the armed forces of both sides be withdrawn behind the demarcation lines fixed by both sides on October 14, 1946." That looked like a loophole.

Also, the Dutch cease-fire order which came so readily did not square off with the Netherlands' previously revealed attitude toward U. N. intervention in the conflict. Four days before the United Nations acted, Dr. E. N. Van Kleffens, Netherlands ambassador to the U. S., spoke before the security council and issued a flat warning to the delegates to keep their hands off the Netherlands-Indonesian issue.

The shooting phase of the war was ended, perhaps, but the barometer of international relations indicated that there yet might be some stormy scenes ahead.

FORD ACCORD: Strike Averted

For a while it looked as though there wouldn't be very many Fords in anyone's future as negotiations strained and wheezed along in the waning hours before a strike deadline which would have seen 107,000 members of the United Auto Workers walk out of 46 Ford motor company plants across the nation.

Then came the shift into high and union and company officials reached a final agreement eight hours before the time scheduled for the walkout.

The accord embraced a settlement of the union's demand for immunity from penalty provisions of the Taft-Hartley act and a plan for

How 'Real Income' Stacks Up in Nation

American families' "real income"—the relationship of revenue to costs of living—is virtually the same as it was a year ago, it has been related by a monthly Investors Syndicate survey.

In other words, the purchasing power of the average American family is neither greater nor less than it was at this time in 1946, despite shifting costs of consumer goods and services during the past year.

working out differences over a Ford workers' pension plan.

Peace terms were agreed upon to avert the auto industry's first major strike in 17 months even as rank and file union members were setting up their strike machinery, establishing soup kitchens, picket details and other paraphernalia.

A company official had estimated that a walkout at the 46-plant nationwide Ford network would cost its production employees 1.4 million dollars a day in wages alone.

THE CRISIS: No Coalition

"I did not become His Majesty's prime minister to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

And the spirit was still indomitable. The Winston Churchill who uttered those words in the fyece heat of war made it clear to parliament, in a measured indictment of the Labor government, that he did not intend to stand by while someone else presided over the liquidation.

Berating the Labor government as being responsible for Britain's most perilous economic crisis in the nation's history, the leader of the Conservative party scorned any possible forthcoming offers to form a coalition government.

Although Churchill implied strongly that he doubted whether Prime Minister Attlee's proposed measures would be able to whip the emergency, he emphasized that the Conservatives would support "and endure" any sensible proposals, no matter how severe.

Running true to form, the belligerent Briton called upon the United States to moderate the terms of the British loan and said he was trusting that concessions along that line would be brought about by the wisdom of "the fair-minded American people." In the same vein, he renewed his plea for "an ever-closer association with the United States."

GERMAN ARMY: Russian-Trained

Are the Russians training a powerful new German army behind the iron curtain? Information filtering through from the dark mazes of the Soviet Union says they are.

Specifically, it has been reported that no fewer than 36 German divisions, including 18 armored and seven motorized divisions, are being formed. Some of them, a French newspaper adds, retain the Panther and Tiger tanks with which they originally attacked the Red army.

Sponsored by the Soviets, German units are said to be concentrated at three places: at Lake Ladoga near Leningrad, in the region of Minsk and in the Crimea.

Recruitment started among the prisoners of the German eighth army, whose commanders were sturdy supporters of the Free German committee which favored Germany's surrender during the latter stages of the war.

One Paris newspaper says the entire military setup is based on a Soviet plan for an early end to occupation of Germany. The paper reported, too, that military aristocrats in the German forces have high hopes that military cooperation between Germany and Russia will be possible soon.

WAR GADGETS: For Whom?

Major problem in postwar Germany is how to keep the industries of that pivotal nation in a state of peaceful production while simultaneously curbing what has come almost to seem a national German bent toward manufacturing the tools of war.

It was with no easy minds that U. S. army officials discovered that two plants of the Askania works in the American zone of Berlin have been producing secretly precision war instruments for an unnamed "foreign power."

Stockpiles, hidden from normal inspection routes, contained partly completed gyroscopic motors for aircraft, submarines and tanks; submarine periscopes; parts of Link trainers, and other precision instruments.

One of the Allied control laws specifically bans manufacture, transportation or storage of war materials for the obvious reason of preventing German rearmament.

The Askania factories were closed, five plant officials arrested and the American investigation of the sub rosa scheme was continuing. Said a U. S. communique, with laconic understatement:

"Evidence, which is now being sifted, indicates that the war material was being manufactured for a foreign power without sanction by the office of the military government."

But whether or not American counter-intelligence men discovered which "foreign power" was behind the deal, it was doubtful that the world at large would be told—at least while the peace is in its present delicate state of balance.

MORE DELAY: Riding Public

That vision of a "buyer's market" in the automotive field, when there will be more new cars than people to buy them, will not become a reality for at least two years.

Authoritative sources in the car industry say that despite rising prices the demand for new automobiles will exceed the supply for that period, if not longer.

The recent widespread opinion that the latter half of 1947 would find enough new cars on the market to satisfy the voracious demands of the riding public has undergone a complete revision. Producers of cars in the low and middle price brackets now have on hand more orders than they are likely to catch up with all through 1948.

A buyers' market, thought to be imminent last spring, has not developed, principally because production has not come up to expectations. Orders for new cars also have kept flowing in in undiminishing quantities.

As far as the gulf between supply and demand is concerned, the industry and the public are in the same relative positions that they held a year ago, experts say.

Off for Paris

Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, rarely photographed wife of aviation pioneer Charles Lindbergh, is shown as she prepared to board an airliner for a flight to Paris. Former school teacher and author of several books, Mrs. Lindbergh is believed to be on a magazine assignment.

PRODUCTION: Semper Paratus

Everyone hopes there won't be another war, but if there is—

Sixty complete government owned industrial plants, worth 2.3 billion dollars, will be kept in a state of readiness by the war department just in case another international caruncle should develop.

The plan for industrial preparedness was announced by Secretary of War Kenneth Royall.

If another conflict comes, there will be no time advantage in which to gird for production, Royall said, observing that rapid advancements in science have precluded any time lag in which we may recover from the shock of the initial outbreak of hostilities.

GIANTS: In the Earth

Relics of an ancient race of huge men who attained a stature of eight or nine feet have been unearthed in a 180-mile square area of the Colorado desert.

The discoverer, Dr. F. Bruce Russell, retired Cincinnati physician, took several well-preserved mummies from caverns extending through much of southern Nevada from Death Valley, Calif., across the Colorado river into Arizona.

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 17—Proverbs 20:1; 23:19-21, 29-35; Ecclesiastes 10:17.
MEMORY SELECTION—Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit.—Ephesians 5:18.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

THE increase in the drinking habits of our nation is a source of concern, not only to the forces of morality, but to the liquor interests themselves. How strange it is to have the purveyors of a commodity urge moderation in its use!

Undoubtedly the Bible's answer to this whole problem is the only right one. The Word of God has many strong things to say concerning alcoholic beverages. Wise is the man who heeds the injunctions of Scripture.

I. Liquor—a Description (Prov.
20:1).

WHAT a striking text this is!
Think of its implications.
"Wine is a mocker." It grasps its victim in a vicelike grip, and then taunts him in his inability to release himself. The drunkard is a victim of his own appetite, helpless to resist the temptation which ensnares him.

The young person who takes his first drink for sociability is indeed deceived, in that alcoholic liquor never reveals the possible cost which it exacts from the one who takes that first drink. The better part of valor is to leave the stuff alone.

The Word of God says further that "strong drink is a brawler" (A.S.V.). All of us have probably seen how the drunkard enters into conflict entirely without reason. Liquor seems to make a man senseless to danger and quick to express anger.

II. Liquor—a Warning (Prov. 23: 19-21).

THE admonition of this passage is that we should not be found among drunkards and gluttonous men.

Solomon here tells us of one of the results of drunkenness and gluttony —poverty. The drowsiness which is the result of both of these sins does indeed clothe a man with rags.

If, therefore, we have no higher motive than that of self-respect, than that of having enough of this world's goods to make a presentable appearance, we should avoid company with those who will lead us into the same excess that characterizes them. How important it is that we guide our hearts in God's way.

Let us understand, of course, that there are far higher motives for right living than those involved here. However, if we can come to the conclusion to avoid drinking on the basis of a lower motive, how much more important it is to come to the same conclusion on the basis of a higher one. As Christians, that higher motive concerns our testimony before men, our living a life that will cause others to want to know Christ; in short, our living for the glory of God.

III. Liquor—a History (Prov. 23:
29-35; Eccles. 10:17).

IN the first of these Scripture passages we have what may be called a history of drunkenness.
This sin leads to woe, to sorrow, to contentions, to wounds without a cause.

But that is not the end. Look carefully at Proverbs 23:32 and stress the first three words, "At the last."
At the last, it does indeed bite like a serpent and sting like an adder.

Such poison is injected into one's body and soul that it seems as though there is no remedy.
Thank God, there is a remedy;
there is power in the blood of Christ to make the foulest clean.

In verses 33 to 35 we read some of the results of drunkenness: Beholding of strange things (v. 33), utterance of perverse things (v. 33), insensibility which is the result of drinking (v. 35), and inability to avoid succumbing to the same temptation all over again (v. 35).

Is it any wonder that the admonition is "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it sparkleth in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly." Although man still has a semblance of right thinking, the temptation is great enough to deceive him as to the consequences.

In view of such results, is it any wonder this same Preacher says in Ecclesiastes 10:17 that the land is blessed when its rulers eat and drink for strength and not for drunkenness.

It still is true that righteousness exalteth a nation, but that sin is a reproach to any people. And since the princes of the land as the leaders will frequently personify the people of the land as the followers, happy is that nation which has godly governors.

Slums Add to Cost of City Government in New Jersey

Slums in Newark, N. J., are costing the municipality an estimated 14 million dollars annually according to a recent study cited by the National Association of Housing Officials. Emphasizing urgent need for slum clearance throughout the U. S. for economic as well as humane reasons, the Newark study disclosed that in one small slum area the cost of municipal services was 3.2 times as great as the area's contributions to municipal revenues. In a high-rent residential area studied in Newark for purposes of comparison, the reverse was true—revenues were found to be 2.2 times greater than city expenditures.

Although residential districts usually cost their municipalities more than they yield in revenues, Newark slum researchers observe "There is a limit beyond which communities should not go in supporting residential areas." To the great municipal cost of slums must be added relief expenditures by private agencies.

The study, conducted by the Newark Housing Authority, concludes that "though a program of slum clearance and rebuilding would be costly," it is "the only way of stopping the spread of blight" which is driving middle and upper-income families to reside in the suburbs while costing the city millions annually in increased costs of crime, fire, and sickness. By examining what occurs when families are moved from slums to decent housing, without changing their incomes, the Newark research group found that good housing can bring "substantial improvements in the welfare of the people even though their poverty remains."

National Fire Losses Approach All-Time Mark

During 1946 national fire waste totaled $561,487,000, the highest losses in 20 years, and the second highest ever recorded. This destruction came within half a million dollars of exceeding the record year of 1926, when the waste totaled $561,980,751.

Last year, the waste by fire was greater than in any of the years of vast city-wide conflagrations, such as 1871, when Chicago burned, or 1906 when fire destroyed virtually all of San Francisco. In 1906, by comparison, losses for the whole nation, including San Francisco, were estimated at $518,611,800.

The great destruction in 1926 climaxed seven postwar years in which fire losses increased year by year. The nation now has nearly equalled the 1926 waste in just one year after another great war. If the losses continue this upward trend, the nation will be faced with the annual destruction of a billion dollars worth of valuable resources, nearly all of them irreplaceable, by the year 1953.

We are now burning up at the fastest rate in our history. December's fire losses of $58,094,000 were the highest recorded in a single month since the National Board of Fire Underwriters began tabulating monthly losses in 1929. This is an increase of 30 per cent over November, 1946, and 17.4 per cent over December, 1945.

Placing Thermostat

Suggestions on the proper location of the thermostat to provide the utmost in heating comfort and fuel economy are offered by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau. The thermostat should be placed where it will maintain, as nearly as possible, the average temperature of the house or space to be controlled. The best location for the thermostat is usually on an inside wall of the living room or dining room where there will be a free circulation of air over the instrument. It should not be exposed to hot or cold drafts, warm air registers, radiators, fireplaces, lamps, or direct rays of the sun. Nor should the thermostat be mounted on an outside wall or walls containing hot or cold water pipes or ducts or the chimney. The bottom of the thermostat should be located so that it is about 4 or 5 feet above the floor. At this height the instrument will not be exposed to tampering by children or damage when moving furniture. Large pieces of furniture should not be placed close to the instrument because they might interfere with the free circulation of air.

Winter Centerpiece

If you're stuck for an idea for a centerpiece in winter take a tip from the home economics students in the homemaking apartments at Cornell, who have made centerpieces with mothballs. Here's how to do it. Fill a rose bowl, or any kind of a bowl with a curved surface, with water. Add 1 teaspoon of baking soda, 1 teaspoon of citric acid crystals, and three to five mothballs for each cup of water. The chemical reaction between the baking soda and the citric acid will keep the moth balls moving from the surface of the water to the bottom of the bowl and back for about two hours. The curved surface of the bowl magnifies the size of the moth balls, and if you place the bowl on a mirror you get twice the effect. The centerpiece is even more interesting if the water is colored. A little vegetable coloring will do the trick. And if you have a flower from last night's corsage, float it on top.

Teacher Slips Up

A certain well-known statesman, who operates a farm as a hobby, being queried recently about underpaid teachers, admitted that he had never encountered but one teacher who might conceivably have been paid as much or more than she was worth.

One day this statesman went to a certain farm, he said, to purchase a bushel of buckwheat for sowing. The farmer was absent, so his wife waited on the caller. She took a peck measure, filled it and emptied it twice in the statesman's bag, and then proceeded to tie up the purchase.

"Pardon me," the visitor said, "but don't you know it takes four pecks to make a bushel?" "Does it?" rejoined the woman. "I never had any experience in measuring grain before I was married. I always taught school."

NOTHING WORTH SEEING

An artist who wanted a home among the Taconic hills of Vermont was talking the matter over with a farmer who allowed that he had a house for sale.

"I must have a good view," said the artist. "Is there a good view?" "Well," drawled the farmer, "from the front porch yuh kin see Ed Snow's barn, but beyond that there aint nothin' but a bunch of mountains."

Doing His Bit

A certain conservation speaker, waxing wroth at the wasteful squandering of the nation's natural resources, belligerently challenged his listeners with: "I'll venture to say that not a man here ever lifted his finger to conserve timber."

"I have," piped up a little fellow in the front row.

"What have you done, my friend?" rejoined the slightly mollified speaker.

"Well," explained the little man, "I have used the same toothpick twice."

Money Solves Everything

"Yes," said Henderson, "for a while after our marriage we were nearly eaten out of house and home by visiting relatives and friends."

"How did you stop it?" asked a friend.

"It was quite simple," laughed Henderson, "I loaned money to the poor visitors and borrowed from the rich, and I haven't been troubled with a visit from either since."

On Hand

A relative had come visiting, and during family conversation asked Henry, the eldest boy, his age.

"Thirteen," replied Henry, boastingly.

"No," interrupted the father, "you're only 12."

After a hot debate the father could no longer control his temper and said angrily, "Don't talk, boy, I remember the occasion; I was in the house the day you were born."

"So was I," replied Henry, smiling.

Sliding Door On Truck

Ed and Jim Long, of St. Johns, Mich., can unload grain in record time. A sliding door in one side of the truck box does the trick. Farm labor specialists of the Michigan State college extension service recommend the sliding door, or a hinged door to save the time and effort required to bend and lift the grain over the side of the truck. With an opening in the side even with the floor of the truck, unloading a truckload of grain is a mere matter of pushing the grain, instead of lifting.

Five-Day Vacation

Pat, an argumentative Irishman, was fired from his railroad shop job and to avoid discussion, the foreman gave him his discharge in a letter.

The next day Pat was missing, but five days later he was back to work. When the boss came through and saw him at work he tapped Pat on the shoulder. "Didn't you get my letter?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, I did," said Pat.

"Well, didn't you read it?" asked the boss.

"I sure did that," answered Pat, "inside and out. On the inside ye said I was fired, and on the outside said 'Return to A.B.C. R. R. Shops in five days.' Boss, I've had a heck of a time doin' nothing for five days."

TWIN WANTED

A little man came into the office of a psychiatrist.

"Come in," boomed the doctor.

"What seems to be the trouble?"

"I was wondering," the little man offered timidly, "if you couldn't split my personality for me."

The doctor looked puzzled. "Split your personality? Why goodness me, my man, why would you want that done?"

Tears tumbled down the little man's face. "Oh, doctor," he wailed, "I'm so lonesome!"

Such Humiliation!

Professor Wright, who was a stickler on correct English and proper spelling, was sitting in his living room, reading quietly. Suddenly the door burst open and his excited wife rushed in flourishing a piece of paper. She handed the paper to the professor, who opened it and read:

"I am running away from home and I am taking the money you hid in the dresser drawer and have gone to the south maybe to Mexico Your son."

"Oh the shame of it!" shrieked the professor. "To think that a son of mine could be guilty of using such horrible grammar. He even misspelled Mexico."

Early Game

A shop foreman found certain off-duty chores accumulating till his daylight afterwork hours were not enough to complete them. So he posted a bulletin one morning asking his employees to start work at six o'clock for a few days, to accommodate him.

"You play ball with me and I'll play ball with you," he added.

One of the sleepy-eyed workmen read the sign, pondered a minute, then wrote below.

"O.K., I guess. But six a.m. is no time to play ball."

The Whistle Blows

Endeavoring to rest after an exceedingly hard day, poor father was being bedeviled by an endless stream of unanswerable questions from little Willie.

"What do you do down at the office?" the youngster finally asked.

"Nothing!" shouted father.

It looked like the kid had been put off for a while, but not for long. For after a thoughtful pause, Willie inquired, "Pop, how do you know when you're through?"

NO FEED PROBLEM

The farmer, just back from the county fair with a new horse, discovered that the animal refused to eat or drink.

"Well," he said hopefully, "looks like I got a real bargain, if he's a good worker."

Maybe He Had!

A Birmingham insurance agent, while paying a claim to a woman recently covering the death of her husband, sought to persuade the fair beneficiary to take out a policy on her own life.

"I believe I will," the woman agreed, after a moment's reflection. "My husband had such good luck."

Find Typhoid Fever Still!

Menace in Rural Communities

The incidence of typhoid fever, a disease which has been largely conquered in urban areas, is still running high in six Mississippi valley states, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, according to two doctors from the Charity hospital at New Orleans. Typhoid fever is a gastrointestinal disease, the causative agent, a bacillus, being eliminated with the waste matter of the infected person. Control of this disease is largely a matter of keeping sewage from draining into the water supply.

Drs. Stuart and Pullen, who are also members of the department of medicine, Tulane university of Louisiana school of medicine, point out that in the United States there has been a marked decrease in typhoid fever, due largely to betterment of water supplies and improvement in sewage disposal. It now has become largely a disease of rural areas.

Distribution of 360 patients in Charity hospital revealed that "84 lived in New Orleans. Inadequate data failed to reveal how many of these patients had recently been in rural communities. One hundred and twenty-nine lived on farms, while 90 lived in rural communities and were engaged in farm work, fishing, hunting or trapping."

Explaining the sources of infection, the authors say that "about two-thirds of this group of patients came from rural communities. Many had inadequate screening and toilet facilities, while about one-fourth of these lived on the river or along the bayous. Many of these gave a history of drinking water of a well or a stream. Forty-nine of the group had been exposed to typhoid among members of their family, while 26 others knew of cases in their community."

Most Food Poisoning Is

Caused by Common Germ

Most cases of food poisoning seem to be caused by the bacterium staphylococcus, which is an extremely common organism. Probably every person has it on his hands, in his nose and throat; and in any burns or cuts he may happen to have. Although the germ itself is not poisonous, it produces a toxin which causes severe illness. Two characteristic symptoms of the illness, which is seldom fatal, are that there is no fever and that the symptoms appear within about four to six hours.

Conditions necessary for the staphylococcus to produce its poisonous toxin are a warm temperature and moisture. This means that it frequently appears after food is cooked, and there is scarcely a food which is exempt from the danger. Since the organism is so common, it is almost sure to get into the food; so the best method of control is to prevent its growth and the production of the toxin.

Precautions which should always be taken include using carefully cleaned equipment, keeping foods adequately refrigerated and covering cuts and burns with water-tight bandages when preparing food. Refrigeration is probably the most vital step because that is the best way to prevent development of the toxin. Heating may destroy the staphylococcus, but it does not eliminate the toxin once it has been formed.

Dye Uniforms

Uniforms can be dyed effectively, with dark brown and jade green covering olive drab, as do black, navy blue, dark green and rust. Marines should stick to black, dark brown and dark green for their re-conversion colors. Skivvy shirts may be dyed in a rainbow of colors and worn by any member of the family. Be sure directions are followed exactly in dyeing, remembering that woollens should simmer in the dye bath and never boil. Sturdy gay clothes for the children can be made from army castoffs. In making a coat or other garment, first rip it up and then dye a new color. Take a lesson in tailoring during the ripping process. Little jackets, coats, overalls and snow suits can be cut from shirts or trousers. Short coats, so fashionable now, may be made from the ripped and dyed army overcoat. After all this dyeing and remaking, collect the scraps for patchwork, afghans, hooked rugs or wool quilts.

Missed by a Hair

"Missed by a hair!" is a common expression among rifle shooters who hunt small game with a 22-caliber rifle or who love to engage in the sport of "plinking" with the same firearms. These "misses," some of which are really "by a hair," are generally blamed on faulty aim, bad holding, improper trigger squeeze and numerous relative factors, and sometimes on the rifle or ammunition itself. There is another very important factor, however, which causes many of those "hair misses" and which the average fellow who hunts with a 22 seldom considers. That is the effect the wind has on the bullet over various distances. Accurate or inaccurate judging of the force of the wind has caused many a championship to be won or lost and lack of wind consideration has caused many a deer to be wounded or missed entirely and many squirrels to escape unharmed.

A Mr. Mark of Idaho will open a barber shop in the Nachazel building next to Lewis' grocery this week.

A detailed account tells of a near accident when the Hum cleared Iron-ton for East Jordan. She singled an approaching launch to keep to the right but when within a short distance, the wheelman threw the launch which contained a large number of women and children directly across the bow of the Hum. Engineer Thompson shut down the engines and the launch missed being run down by a few feet. The writers suggested the boat's papers should be taken away.

Benton L. Calkins, aged 77, was found dead in bed last Saturday morning, Aug. 6th, at his home in Jordan township. He had been Antrim Co. surveyor for a number of years. Services were held in the Rockery schoolhouse, with burial in Elmwood cemetery.

"The State Supreme Court has denied the petition of Hersey for an injunction to prevent the moving of the county seat to Reed City. The voters recently favored the change. Hersey claimed ballot boxes in certain townships were not sealed. The court held the election valid." This sounds like the grief the three towns of this county went through a number of years ago. However, neither East Jordan nor Boyne City was left in the straits that Hersey was, as the county seat was all that kept it alive, after the lumbering industry waned.

Mrs. Mildred McMacken of East Jordan, aged 18, and John Groen-wald of Bellaire, aged 48, were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Wolfe, Aug. 4th.

You stand to GAIN from Michigan Bell's proposed rate increase

EAST JORDAN telephone users could call BOYNE CITY and CHARLEVOIX without paying toll charges.

When somebody raises prices, it usually means you just pay more for what you've been getting all along.

But that's not entirely the case with the rate increase Michigan Bell will propose to the Michigan Public Service Commission on August 27.

The suggested rate increase would help protect the future quality of your telephone service . . .

AND—the suggested rate increase also would provide more service to most telephone users.

Compared with the time when present rates were established many years ago, telephone service has become far more useful—and far more valuable. That's because we've added so many more telephones which you can call under the flat rate you've been paying.

Now, under the proposed rates, telephone customers also could call telephones in certain adjacent communities without paying toll charges.

This means telephone service would be "tailor made" to fit calling needs in this area. It means that telephone service would be geared more closely to the widespread social and business interests of modern living.

Community by community, our proposed local rates are related to the number of telephones each subscriber could reach, and thus the amount of service he could get, without a toll charge.

Now that increased rates are needed to meet increased costs, this is the fair way for each subscriber to help assure the future quality of every-body's service.
