JERSEY COW PRODUCES 72.8 POUNDS OF BUTTERFAT DURING DECEMBER.

Versall Crawford of East Jordan owned the Jersey cow that was highest in butterfat production in the Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement Association for December. This Jersey cow was in the mature class under five years of age and produces 72.8 pounds of fat at twice a day milking. Jay Williams of Bellaire owned the Holstein cow that was next highest, this cow produced 62.4 pounds of fat during December. Archie Murphy of East Jordan owned the Guernsey cow that produced 53.6 pounds of fat.

Elias Sommerville of Central Lake had the herd that averaged 28.8 pounds of fat for all cows including dry ones. Versall Crawford of East Jordan was second highest with 28.1 pounds of fat. Jay Williams of Bellaire was next with 27.5 pounds of fat produced during December. Versall Crawford of East Jordan had the herd that produced a pound of butterfat for 36 cents worth of feed during December.

During December Lee Cook, who is the tester for the Association tested 24 herds with the total of 273 cows, including 58 dry cows. The average test was 4.29 percent with a average production of 545 pounds of milk and 19.5 pounds of fat for the month for all cows.

PLANS FOR 1948:

- The beginning of a new year is always a good time to make plans to improve the farm business. One of the important bases of a successful farming program is a good soil conservation plan. Charlevoix County farmers should consider the following resolutions for more profitable farming to adopt them as farming practices.
1. Establish a cropping program suited to the capabilities of the soils of the farm.
2. Make more adequate use of legumes.
3. Apply liming materials only when needed.
4. Apply adequate applications of phosphate and potash with all legume seedings.
5. Use more alfalfa-bromegrass meadow land for pasture.
6. Establish sod in all watercourses to prevent gullying.
7. Keep a living, growing crop on the land at all times.
8. Work across the slope whenever practical.
9. Plow down a legume sod whenever an open cultivated crop is to be grown.
10. Cooperate with the proposed Charlevoix County Soil Conservation District.

STORAGE IMPORTANT FOR GOOD POTATOES:

Storing potatoes at a temperature of 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit for two weeks before they are cooked will give you high quality. Potatoes which have been held at a low storage temperature should be brought to a higher holding temperature for a while before they are used. How long they have been stored at a low temperature will decide how long they should be held at higher temperature before cooking.

Storage temperatures, length of storage, and the cooking water all affect the color of cooked potatoes. Potatoes held at a low temperature, about 35 degrees, may become very brown before they are thoroughly cooked when used for fried potatoes.

Very alkaline cooking water will cause cooked potatoes to become yellow. You can prevent this by adding one teaspoon of vinegar or one-eighth teaspoon of cream of tartar per quart of cooking water. Iron in the water will cause potatoes to darken, so iron kettles or chipped enamel ware should not be used when cooking potatoes.

FARMERS WEEK PROGRAM:

A supply of programs for Farmers Week, which is to be held January 26 through 30 at Michigan State College has been received by the County Extension Office. Anyone desiring a program for Farmers Week may have one by calling or writing to the County Extension Office at Boyne City. A very educational and interesting program has been planned and if anyone can attend it will be more than worth while to do so.

BWARE OF MEDICAL HUCKSTERS

Medical fakers have brought misery and death to countless men, women and children. Read the full shocking story of "fake" cures, in an article, "Medical Hucksters", by Morris Fishbein, M. D., Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and William Engle, in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (January 11) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Children's Clinic

The regular clinic for infants and preschool children will be held Tuesday, Jan. 13, from 9:30 to 11:30 in the Masonic dining room. The clinic will be conducted by Dr. VanDellen, assisted by Mrs. Rice, County Nurse.

Oil Leaders Ask State Housewives To Conserve Fuel

Michigan housewives were urged today by oil industry leaders to join in a war on waste of fuel oil and gasoline because the current unprecedented demand for petroleum products is threatening a critical supply situation in this area.

"Housewives can cut their oil heating costs appreciably and at the same time contribute their share towards making sure others will have cold homes this winter if they will keep their thermostats set at a comfortable, healthy 70 degrees in daytime and at 60 or lower while the household sleeps at night," said Kenneth Cunningham, Sun Oil Company, Detroit, who is chairman of Michigan Oil Industry Public Relations Committee. "Savings up to ten per cent in fuel costs can be realized by simply watching the thermostat in your home. If everyone saves a little oil, there'll be enough for all."

Other fuel-saving tips which can save dollars without the expenditure of a penny, Cunningham said, include: (1) keep doors and window shades drawn at night. Ways in which automobile drivers can conserve gasoline are: by driving only when necessary and avoiding long trips; by keeping your speed under 40 and having your car serviced regularly and keeping tires properly inflated.

"While our industry is producing and delivering more oil products to Michigan than ever before in our history, yet the demand continues to grow. Our industry thoroughly recognizes the fact that the only solution lies in the hands of the public just as State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard pointed out in his recent State Emergency Fuel Oil Committee report on the situation."

In the fuel oil report cited by Cunningham, Commissioner Leonard estimated that despite increased supplies available in Michigan, it was likely that fuel oil supply would fall 82,000,000 gallons short of demand this heating season if current consumption rates of 592,000,000 gallons a year continue. Cunningham endorsed Commissioner Leonard's appeal for public co-operation in conserving fuel oil.

Legion Auxiliary Initiate a Large Class of Members

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the American Legion Hall Dec. 22nd, with 75 in attendance. Initiation ceremonies were held for 34 new members, conducted by the chairman, Helda Bathke. We were also honored with 17 guests from the Ellsworth Unit.

Rehabilitation Chairman, Edna Wilkins, gave a complete report on boxes packed and mailed to "Our Gifts to the Yanks who Gave."

A very hilarious program, under the supervision of Edna Wilkins, and assisted by Eldeva Gokee, was the high light of entertainment for the evening. Santa Claus was on hand with his letters received from Auxiliary members, and Father Time with the resolutions for 1948. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments served by the committee.

With the able guidance of Caroline Richardson, a new group was organized of the Junior Auxiliary Members.

Celebrate Their Fifty-first Wedding Anniversary

December 29 marked the fifty-first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartholomew. Eighteen relatives of the couple gathered at the home of their son, Manuel, on the Boyne Falls road; then they were brought in. It was a surprise. Vows were renewed, the ceremony being read by Rev. Scott Bartholomew. They were attended by their grand daughter, Rose Helen Fradette and grandson, Evert Bartholomew of Detroit.

After the ceremony a delightful lunch was served. The table was decorated with bouquets of yellow roses and a three tiered cake decorated in yellow.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew were presented with a purse.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fradette and daughter Susan and Evert Bartholomew of Detroit; Mrs. Charles Wolverson and Mr. and Mrs. Rabert Sloop of Boyne City.

The Bartholomews were married in the old Methodist parsonage by the pastor, Rev. J. A. DeGraff. Their attendants were Miss Olive Murray and Scott Bartholomew, who were later married.

They had two sons, one living, six grand children and one great grand daughter.

Trees Available Now

Farmers cooperating with the Antrim Soil Conservation District should be getting their tree orders in for this spring.

The directors feel the price of trees will be between $3.00 and $4.00 a thousand. This is the cheapest the directors have been able to sell trees and the feeling is to pass the savings on to the farmer.

The following species are available:

White Cedar	5,000
Norway Spruce	25,000
Jack Pine	5,000
Red Pine	68,000
Scotch Pine	27,000
White Spruce	5,000
Virginia Pine	10,000
Black Walnut	1,000
Green Ash (Windbreak)	1,000
Multiflora Rose (Windbreak and Wildlife Plantings)	10,000
Wild Plum (Wildlife Planting)	2,000
Wildlife Packets	300

Total number of plants 159,000. This will plant approximately 160 acres.

Farmers are being urged to place their orders at once as the supply of trees is expected to be exhausted early. Orders will be accepted in the Antrim Soil Conservation office in the basement of the Court House, Bellaire.

Rock Elm Grange Have Annual Meeting

Rock Elm Grange met at their hall on New Year's day for their annual New Year's dinner. About fifty members and friends enjoyed a lovely meal, Pot Luck, followed by Ice Cream and Cake.

Grange meeting was called to order without form by the W. M. Frank Lawton.

After the business was taken care of, the meeting was turned over to the W. P. Zola Kemp, who presented a fine program.

Brother William Brake, District Deputy, then presented us with Movie Films, one on Views of Scotland was very much enjoyed by all especially Mrs. Ben Smatts, Bro. Brake's daughter was also present. All present expressed themselves as having a wonderful and enjoyable day, and hoped they would all be able to be present next New Year's Day.

"BLACK SNOW" EVIDENT THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Farmers should take note of the "black snow" on their farms, says Everet Gulembo of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, Bellaire.

The "black snow" accumulates on the edges of field boundaries, roadways, weed patches, hay fields, woods, etc. and is sure and conclusive evidence that wind erosion is moving the fine materials, the good topsoil, the "cream of the land."

This may seem unimportant to the farmer, however, measurements made by Soil Conservation Service personnel in the Grand Traverse Soil Conservation District indicate that in some locations this material accumulates to a depth equal to 50 tons of soil loss per acre.

One can see these areas throughout the entire county, however, observation has pointed to Banks Township as the area most subject to "black snow erosion" these past few weeks.

This wind erosion can be stopped by planting corn crops in all fields of rye grass or rye. Or strip cropping will give protection on beets, potatoes, and other fields, that do not lend themselves to cover crops.

Red Cross Desires A Full Class

WOMEN ARE URGED TO AVAIL THEMSELVES OF OPPORTUNITIES IN NURSING COURSE

The Charlevoix county chapter of the American Red Cross is urging all women and girls to enroll in the home nursing course offered. The classes will be taught by a registered nurse.

Large numbers of mothers are in need of simple home nursing skills. Basic pre-natal and post-natal care, infant health, child care, and family health re among subjects covered in the 24 hour course.

Enrolling is as easy as telephoning 66 East Jordan, or 431 Boyne City. This course, in keeping with Red Cross tradition, is offered without charge as a public service.

Antrim Telephone Meeting At Central Lake

On December 30th, a meeting was called by County Farm Bureau at Central Lake which was attended by members of the various farm and business organizations in the County to further discuss the telephone situation.

Mr. Sage state that a finance company will decline to put up the total sum of money without local interest as part of the money should be raised in the area serviced. Mr. Brake of the Grange asked if the present system couldn't be modernized and expanded later. The answer was yes, but it is best to plan for the future. The old stock would probably be bought up by the new corporation. The old company has good salvage value.

The first step in selling the idea and reorganization the company is to get the people interested. This can be done by publicity and by selling the idea to various groups that make up the county.

Governor Kim Sigler's appointment of Joseph W. Sanford, Warden of the United States Penitentiary at Atlanta for the past nine years, to be Michigan Commissioner of corrections at a pledged salary of $12,000 a year is regarded at the State Capitol as a "ten-strike" for the Sigler theory of centralized authority and responsibility.

Sanford is to take over the job February 1. He succeeds a five-man Commission, members of which do not their services as civic duty. The commission was replaced by an appointive commissioner, subject to the will of the Governor and the State Senate.

It is the Governor's belief that direction of governmental bureaus and departments through boards and commissions has the tendency of taking government away from the people. He would like to see the governor given authority to appoint or fire the directors of bureaus and departments and to have these appointments subject to confirmation by a branch of the state legislature, the State Senate.

That the Governor has acted wisely in his first test — that of getting a competent man to run the state's correction and penal system — appears to be conceded by everyone. Mr. Sanford's experience in managing the federal prison at Atlanta is regarded as ample qualification for the Michigan responsibility. Governor Sigler refers to this experience as "your long and distinguished career in penology."

In a directive to Mr. Sanford, Governor Sigler presented his credo. Here are some highlights: "First of all, the prisons and reformatory must be operated in accordance with as high standards of honesty as can be achieved." No favoritism to prisoners. Need for "good morale" and its counterpart, "granting undue privileges and other forms of favoritism to preferred prisoners, especially those with political or other influence."

"Accepted principles of sound business management" should be applied to operation of the prison industries. "Emphasis must always be placed on proper diversification of industries to prevent unfair competition with free industry and to provide the widest possible variety of practical vocational training for the prisoners."

"The department has an obligation to lessen the burden on the taxpayer by employing prisoners in productive enterprises."

Austin H. MacCormick, national-known penologist, was engaged by the Governor to serve as a consultant for the reorganization. Mr. MacCormick's recommendations played an important part in the Governor's decision to appoint Mr. Sanford to the new post. They included the following:

That the commissioner's salary be increased from $10,000 to $12,000; that the commissioner and directors be appointed to terms of four or six years, preferably the latter, in order to assure greater security in tenure; that a "youth division" be created to "devise, organize and supervise programs for the more effective training and treatment of youthful offenders, particularly the 17-21 age group"; that the state establish a reception and medical center where newly convicted offenders would go prior to their prison commitment.

If the Sanford appointment, directives and recommendations are any test of the Sigler principle for centralized authority, judgment to date may be summed up about as follows: "So far, so good."

SHORT STORY

Men Are So Independent

By MARIA MORAVSKY

THE electric eye bell tinkled melodiously and the man walked in. Miranda gave him a good look before he saw her. She was standing in the shadowed corner, behind the counter piled with ties.

He was tall, dark and handsome, just like the men gypsies always see in the future of any girl. His eyes were as blue as the gulf. When he came closer and laid his battered panama on the counter, the girl noticed white hair, shining like tinsel among the dark brown. "What can I do for you?" her voice was eager.

"Well, you might look at these samples," he opened a box of machine-made ties.

Miranda imperceptibly wrinkled her small nose. A salesman—with all that physical? He ought to be in the movies, she thought, derisively. And here he was, selling ties.

"I keep in stock only hand made..." she said with polite regret. "This is what gives my ties distinction..."

"Can I show you some of those new glass belts?" he asked wearily. "Why, yes. I sell belts, too. That's something I can't make, so..." she was glad he had another line of samples.

"They might sell," she said brightly. "If you give me a bargain. What are they worth?"

He named the price. "It's too stiff for this one cylinder business," she smiled apologetically showing both dimples. "Can you come down?"

Without an answer, he walked toward the door. Miranda grew furious. This was what men did. They would not even discuss terms with her. Sometimes they tried to date her. At other times, they acted so independent. This one was the "take it or leave it" kind.

THE anger of many humiliations welled within her. She ran from behind the crowded counter, barring the salesman's way.

"Listen, mister. That's not the way to treat a woman in trade. Just because I own a hole-in-the-wall shop, is no reason for slighting me. Why, I may have a string of them one day..."

"I have no doubt you will," he said curtly. "Please, let me pass. My baby is crying in the car."

"Your baby!" She followed him to the car. Among the pillows on the back seat, sat a whimpering, thin girl with straw-colored hair, its end-curls damp with tears.

"Let me hold her," Miranda stretched her arms toward the child. The girl snuggled against her with a sigh of satisfaction.

"Why do you travel with a child?" "That's the only way I can take care of her. Her mother died when she was nine months old. At first I hired a nurse, but..." he looked up and down the street. "Say, how long can I park here?"

So he wanted to tell her his story. Miranda felt expanding warmth. "Endlessly. I'm a friend of the cops. Come into the store and I'll warm her milk."

While she was heating the milk in the kitchenette at the back of the store, he told her, holding Lucy on his knees:

"I paid that nurse well. I could afford it then. I was the manager of a sport goods store. I looked like a sportsman's dummy," he smiled ruefully. "It helped attract customers. The shop was successful; they made me a junior partner. But..."

about that nurse; it was not her baby; once she let Lucy fall from the bed. The child was hurt badly. She lay for three months in a cast. After that, I took to the road. It's the only way I can have her with me, always. But sometimes, when Lucy begins to cry in the car, I feel so helpless..."

Miranda turned away and wiped her eyes. The electric eye bell tinkled again.

"Please, be the boss, while I feed her," Miranda asked softly. "Sell the fellow what he wants—the price list is tacked to the wall, behind the counter."

Left alone with the child, so easily entrusted into her care, Miranda revised her opinions.

"Men are so independent," she laughed to herself.

Long Unwanted Atoll Now Ranks as Major Air Spot

Lonely Clipperton Island, a barren atoll 760 miles southwest of Acapulco, Mexico, and 2,000 miles west of the Panama canal, during the first 200 years it was charted was not found worth occupying by Spain, England, France, the United States and Mexico, who claimed it, according to National Geographic society.

Then the Panama canal was built and the air age arrived. Clipperton's location became strategic. It served as a wartime navy air patrol base.

Ship captains sprouted many a gray hair groping their way through the fogs that are frequent in the region. Ship radars now send waves that penetrate the soupiest fogs, bouncing back from 60-foot Clipperton rock to warn of the atoll's position.

Spaniards first visited the palm-fringed isle. Its name came from John Clipperton, who sailed one of English explorer William Dampier's ships at the beginning of the 18th century. Clipperton and his men are said to have used the atoll as a hideout for their expeditions in piracy.

Concerted Campaign Halts

Foot-and-Mouth Outbreak

Just as an attacking military commander is careful to leave no weak points in the forces with which he surrounds and prepares to crush the enemy, so the Mexican-United States commission directing the campaign against foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico is blocking off any loopholes through which the disease might spread or perpetuate itself.

One recent step in this determined effort to bring the disease under control and eradicate it is establishment of a thorough-going system of railroad car disinfection in the Mexico City freight yards. All rolling stock in which livestock are sent to Mexico City—main slaughter point of the country—is subjected to a three-stage treatment before it again is released for transport duty.

After the livestock cars arrive in the stockyards and the animals are unloaded, a cleaning force immediately removes all manure and litter from the cars. The cars then are shifted to another siding, thoroughly washed down with streams of water under pressure, left to dry and, as a third step, disinfected. Each car is sprayed inside and out with a 2 per cent or stronger solution of sodium hydroxide.

At conclusion of this treatment, each car is sealed and placarded and then assigned for further transportation use. Thus on arrival at a new loading point, shippers are assured that the cars on which they will load their animals have been thoroughly disinfected and possible spread of infection to free areas is avoided.

China's Version of Traffic

Boosts Back-Seat Driving

Back-seat driving is among the "reforms advocated by the Shanghai Health Precautionary association, according to a report from the California division of highways and public works. The division quotes the following "action program," but details are lacking on the American "quoted plan":

"All motor cars have rubber-tired wheels and run without noise. It is too late to blow a horn when a car has already collided with a pedestrian. A car should have a very small bell attached to one of the front wheels and this bell should be kept ringing all the time so that when pedestrians hear it they can get out of the way.

"There should be one licensed chauffeur and an assistant to take care of each motor car. The assistant should sit behind and keep a lookout when the car turns around, goes backward, enters or leaves the garage. The owner of the car will not mind spending a little money in employing an assistant chauffeur.

"After a person is killed by a motor car, a wax image of the decedent should be made and placed in a room. Any chauffeur who causes injuries to others should be locked up in the room so he will see the image and feel sorry. This may cause him to repent. This has been introduced in America and has produced successful results."

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 40:28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 14:8-14; Acts 17:22-31.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 33.

What We Know of God
Lesson for January 11, 1948

THE Scripture for Sunday's lesson is Isaiah 40:28-31, Matthew 6:9, John 14:8-14, and Acts 17:22-31, with Psalm 33 as the devotional reading.

Dr. Newton

"Hast thou not known? Hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? There is no searching of his understanding. He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

That is the passage from Isaiah. What a promise! In this hour when men are bending beneath the burden of a war-weary world, how it gives lift to one's soul to contemplate the words of this great and blessed promise.

God Our Maker
"HE GIVES to all men life and breath and everything," Acts 17:25. One of our daily prayers should be to thank God that he has let us open our eyes to the beauty of another dawn. We must not take it for granted. It is the goodness and mercy of God that permits us to open our eyes, to breathe, to have food, to think. He gives us life and breath and everything. He causes the sun to shine and the tides to ebb and flow. He causes the rain to fall and the winds to bear their blessings. He holds the earth in its course. God is the maker of every good thing.

And He Is Our Father
NOT only is God the Creator and Sustainer of the physical universe; but he is also our Father. He knows us each by name. He cares for the sparrows, simply because they are sparrows. He cares for us because we are his children, made in his image, capable of fellowship with him. The end of man, as the Catechism clearly teaches, is to enjoy God and glorify him forever.

Read again the passage that describes Paul's visit to Athens, and how he observed that the people, though quite intelligent, were worshipping many different gods. Paul summoned them to worship the one true and living God.

When we acknowledge God as Maker and Father, we are then able to serve him in conscious assurance of his love and care for us as his adopted children.

Show Us the Father
READ again John 14:8-14, and join with Philip in the prayer, "Show us the Father." Jesus answered Philip, saying, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." We come to know God as Father through Jesus Christ, and only through Jesus Christ.

Jesus goes on to say to Philip, "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." The greatest need of our day and generation is a fresh understanding of God—his nature and his will. We can know him through Jesus Christ. And we come to know him through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Enoch walked with God. Abraham was the friend of God. David was a man after God's own heart. And Jesus came to perfectly reveal the Father. The determining factor in knowing God as Father is our willingness to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Belief in God Today

THE Bible is a Book for today—any day, every day. It reveals the purpose of creation, both of the universe and man himself. It reveals the loving concern of God for every soul. It portrays his forbearance and his mercy and his exceeding kindness, even to sinful men and women who reject his love.

Best of all, the Bible tells us the sweetest story ever told—the story of how God gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

Religion, the Christian religion, is the most practical proposition in the world. Every man is constantly in reach of God, if only he will believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. God is yonder in the loneliest watchtower of the timberlands. He is yonder on the storm-tossed ship at sea. He is everywhere, waiting to own and bless any and all who will come to him through Jesus Christ.

Smiling Annie
By Sue Reckfus

THE GIRL behind the counter wasn't pretty. She knew it and she didn't mind. It was easier to talk to the soldiers who came in for a sandwich and coke between trains. Not being pretty, she could joke with them and listen to their stories without flirting with them. When you were pretty, you felt you had to flirt a little.

They called her Annie. Annie with the smile. She wasn't smiling now as she wiped the counter. The place was empty and she had a chance to think about this morning. Mr. Jacobs had been mad, and sorry he was mad, which made him sound even worse. He had worked hard for his tiny restaurant and he was proud he was finally making a profit. He often spoke of his son overseas and how much he wanted enough money saved to give his boy a start when he came back. Lately he had begun losing money and it was Annie's fault.

She had begun in a small way not charging a few boys for their food and putting the money in the cash register herself. She couldn't resist the look on a boy's face when he realized a stranger was being kind. For the last few weeks, however, she didn't have enough to balance and Mr. Jacobs had found out. He had given her the last warning to day. Once more and she would have to leave.

The girl wasn't pretty. She didn't mind. When you were pretty, you felt you had to flirt a little.

The door opened and a soldier walked in. He was tired, but he had a glow about him and his eyes were smiling.

"Hello," he said. "I know just what I want. I'll have two tall glasses of orange juice. Real orange juice not canned or anything else. I want to see you squeeze them and I want to smell the rind."

"Golly with the build-up, I hope we have some. I'll have to look."

She opened the refrigerator and peered into it. Way in the back were a dozen of the biggest oranges she had seen for a long time. Funny, she didn't know they were there. She must have missed them so far back.

WHEN THE first big glass was in front of him, he said, "Now I know I'm home. I wasn't too sure for a while." He slowly drained the glass and put it back on the counter.

He finished the second glass with a sigh of satisfaction and stood up to pay. Annie said recklessly, "It's on the house, soldier."

Turning toward the door, he said softly, "Yep, I'm really home."

Mr. Jacobs stopped by his restaurant to get some things he had left in the refrigerator and to see how Annie was making out. He gave her a cheerful greeting.

"Annie, did you see the oranges I asked you to save? I am sure I put them in here."

"I am sorry, Mr. Jacobs, I forgot. I gave them to a customer; a soldier. He was thirsty," she added helplessly, "I'm awfully sorry. I'll go get some more."

In a tired voice, Mr. Jacobs said, "I waited in line early this morning for these. They were the best in town. By the way, what did you charge for them?"

"Can't you please take it out of my next week's salary? I won't give it for free any more. I couldn't help it this time. It was different somehow."

"It always is," he said flatly. "This was the last time. I'm sorry, too, but I'll have to let you go."

He walked out the door, not wanting to see her bleak eyes.

Halfway down the block, he started to run toward a tall figure in khaki. He hugged his son and they started laughing together and sat down talking.

"Say, Pop, I stopped by the place before I got home. I thought maybe you would be there. But I couldn't have had better service if you had. A really swell girl made me some orange juice, just like I used to dream about. I knew I was home then. Boy, it was something. And by the way, she didn't charge me. That made me feel even better. If that kind of thing is your contribution to service morale, you couldn't have picked one better."

"You don't know how many fellows get on the beam again, just from somebody being nice to them who doesn't have to."

Specialists Debunk Food Superstitions

File and Forget the Old Notions, Scientists Advise.

CHICAGO—Thanks to the debunking by scientists of age-old food superstitions, we now are digging fearlessly into mixtures of cucumbers and milk, or lobster and ice cream. We either choose or ignore fish solely because we do or don't want it, not because of its effect on our brainpower.

Also relegated to the file-and-forget bracket are these food fictions: Carrots curl hair; spinach builds muscle (sorry, Popeye); onion soup lengthens life; too much cheese, cream and butter produce deafness.

It was a futile gesture for the man who fed himself only black bread and coffee because he didn't want to fatten his famished tape-worm. A tapeworm, food specialists declare, really eats very little and causes no symptoms at all.

Most recent food prejudices to come under scrutiny of department of agriculture scientists are those concerning food kept in open cans. Their verdict: "It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can if it comes in—if the food is kept cool and covered—as it is to empty the food into another container."

"A few acid foods may dissolve a little iron from the can," the department release continues, "but this is not harmful nor dangerous to health. Cans and foods are sterilized in the 'processing,' but the dish into which the food might be emptied is far from sterile. In other words, it is likely to have on it bacteria that cause food to spoil."

Concerning the notion that freezing will spoil canned foods, scientists say that freezing may change the appearance of some canned foods but it cannot affect their wholesomeness.

Additional advice from the experts: Canned foods retain all their values, including vitamins, to a higher degree than do fresh foods cooked in the average home; canned foods need not be cooked because the canning process thoroughly cooks the contents, heating and seasoning to taste are sufficient; rust on the outside of a can is no indication that the food inside is contaminated, the contents being perfectly safe and nutritious unless the rust has pierced the metal.

Reassured by the scientists, now our only remaining fear about food is: Will we get enough?

Columnist Counts Leaves Of Tree—354,563 of Them

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. — Ed Sovola, Indianapolis columnist, climbed down out of a maple tree and announced that it had 354,563 leaves.

Sovola, who nearly lost his life recently trying out a ball point pen under water in a diving suit, said he counted every leaf on the tree.

The first branch he counted, Sovola said, had a total of 5,164 leaves, eight caterpillars, three ants and three ladybugs.

War Surplus to Aid Europe; Tentative Blueprint Drawn

WASHINGTON. — The government studied plans to funnel millions of dollars worth of war surplus tools, machinery and clothes into the reconstruction of Europe.

Tentative blueprints of the program already have been drawn. They could be put into effect promptly once the Marshall plan takes shape.

War Assets Administrator Littlejohn disclosed the plan. He said he had been working on it for three months with the war and state departments.

Littlejohn emphasized the program is tentative, dependent on—among other things—congressional appropriations for U. S. expenditures in Europe.

Pretzels Get New Twist; Available in 17 Letters

PHILADELPHIA.—There's a new twist to pretzels, the bakers' proclaimed.

Alphabet shapes, National Pretzel Bakers institute, said, are the next step in evolution of the tasty tidbit that began as an oval with a sort of "y" inside and more recently has been marketed also as slim, straight sticks.

Norval Postweiler, president of the institute, admitted, with some embarrassment, that only 17 letters are available now.

"We're experimenting and hope to have all 26 in production soon," he added, "some of them are pretty difficult to make or keep intact."

Distressed Plane Guided to Landing by Woman's Signal

PITTSBURGH. — A woman flier who recognized an aircraft in distress and knew what to do about it commandeered her three brothers and waved towels and shirts to guide a fog-bound plane to a landing.

The plane somersaulted as it hit the ground, but the occupants, Roy Confer, 35, the pilot, and William Loker, 38, were uninjured.

Theresa James, 35, a former army transport command pilot, flagged in the distressed plane.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Signs GOP Inflation Bill, Labels It 'Feeble and Inadequate'; 1947 Fire Loss History's Highest

Released by WNU Features

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

UNDER ARREST . . . This is the Holy Land. In Tel Aviv a member of the Royal Irish Fusiliers escorts a boy and girl to military headquarters after weapons had been found in a room they occupied. Incidents like this are commonplace around the bloody "no-man's land" that separates the Jewish city of Tel Aviv from Arab Jaffa.

FRUSTRATED

Mr. Truman Signs

As he prepared to sign the "voluntary agreements" anti-inflation bill President Harry S. Truman was clearly in the customary state of frustration at which he arrives whenever he tangles with a major piece of legislation by the Republican congress.

Summing up his attitude toward the measure, pushed through in the final moments of the extra session, Mr. Truman said, "I would be shirking my responsibility if I did not protest against the obvious insufficiency of this legislation."

And protest he did: "This bill will not reduce the high cost of living and it will not keep prices from going even higher."

He pointed out "with deep disappointment" that the measure included only three points of the 10-point program featuring wage-price and rationing controls he had proposed in November. Those three are: Extension of export controls, extension of allocation authority over transportation facilities and authorization for expansion of the department of agriculture's conservation program.

Concerning the heart and soul of the bill — a system for voluntary agreements among business and industry to keep prices down — the President voiced hopeless pessimism. There is no chance that such a scheme can have any effect on inflation, he thought.

"It is far too late in the fight against inflation to place our main reliance upon voluntary action."

SELF-DEFENSE:

Tojo's Plea

Defiant and with a trace of the old arrogance, Gen. Hideki Tojo, Japan's wartime premier, entered a 60,000-word plea of "self-defense" before the international military tribunal in Tokyo where he is on trial as a war criminal.

Japan, he insisted, was forced into war by United States and British methods in the Far East.

"I fail utterly to understand the reasoning of the prosecution in this fantastic accusation," Tojo wrote in his lengthy affidavit.

He accepted responsibility for Japan's defeat in the war, he said, but refused to take any political blame which Allied prosecutors attach to him.

The 63-year-old man who attempted suicide two years ago just after Japan's surrender told the court that the western Allies so maneuvered as to force Japan to fire the first shot "in self-defense" to preserve her "national existence."

The atrocious treatment of Allied prisoners, he pointed out, could be explained in part by Japanese psychology.

FIRE LOSS:

Greatest

With the great toll of the Texas City explosion heading the list, fires and related disasters cost the United States almost 700 million dollars in 1947, the national board of fire underwriters said in its year-end report.

It was the highest damage loss in history of the nation, and the greatest annual peacetime loss for any country in the world.

By way of vivid comparison, the board pointed out that two years of the German air war against Great Britain cost only an estimated 400 million dollars in property damage.

Thirty-three major conflagrations, including the Texas City disaster and the Maine forest fires, involved damages of more than 100 million dollars. This also was the largest number of major fires in any one year, each representing losses of a million dollars or more.

There were 28 such major fires in 1946, 26 in 1945 and 25 in 1944.

Most costly by far of the year's holocausts was the ammonium nitrate explosion at Texas City on April 16. More than 500 persons were killed, 3,000 injured and property damage ran above 32 million dollars.

Next in importance from the standpoint of material destruction were the Maine forest fires, where property loss at Bar Harbor alone was estimated at 6 million dollars. Third biggest disaster was the explosion of an oil tanker in Los Angeles harbor last June.

The number of lesser fires in 1947 exceeded 840,000.

EMMANUEL:

King Is Dead

It might be said of Victor Emmanuel III, former king of Italy, that his life ended on the day he summoned Benito Mussolini to power after the melodramatic march of the little dictator's black-shirts on Rome.

For it was then that the king refused Marshal Pietro Badoglio a few regiments of troops to smash the not too dangerous uprising.

"I have other plans," the king was reported to have said. "And besides, I want no bloodshed."

With those words he established himself as one of the chief witnesses to the greatest period of bloodshed in civilized history. For 20 years he was a yes-man to Mussolini, acquiescing in every act of Duce proposed.

He watched the rape of Ethiopia and then stood by while the Fascists helped enslave Europe. And when the wheel came to full turn and Italy collapsed in defeat he had to stand by and watch the Germans make a battleground of his native land.

Broken and powerless, rejected by his people, he abdicated in 1946 the throne he had held since 1900 and went to Egypt.

In Alexandria, as the year was drawing to a close, Victor Emmanuel III, ex-king of Italy, died in exile of pneumonia.

The magnificently tragic epitaph which Shakespeare made Macbeth say for himself might not be inappropriate:

"I dare do all that may become a man. Who dares do more is none."

ARCTIC:

Jet Planes

Arctic areas took their place more firmly as a region of vast military importance in this era of power politics with establishment of a full U. S. jet fighter squadron in Alaska. The 94th (Hat in Ring) squadron of P-80B fighters arrived at Ladd field, near Fairbanks, "for the first mass tactical operation" of the high speed warplanes in the Arctic outpost.

Assignment of the 94th for a six-month training period in Alaska apparently is in line with the air force program of combining training with garrisoning of the strategic northern defense area.

For the past year, B-29 units as well as fighter squadrons have been given training assignments in Alaska to familiarize air and ground crews with the special problems.

COLD GERM:

Health

"Gesundheit," as an expression of sympathy following a sneeze, soon may become obsolete.

Two research scientists of the national institute of health have reported that they have succeeded in isolating and growing a "common cold" germ and that their experiments point "to the possibility" of producing a vaccine against it.

The common cold, bane of civilized mankind, costs the American public alone about a billion dollars a year and causes more loss of occupational time than any other disease. Anyone who ever has suffered from a cold would hail a preventive vaccine as an all-time great medical discovery.

However, Dr. Norman Topping and Dr. Leon T. Atlas, who isolated the germ, emphasized that their work opens the way only to the "possibility"—not the probability—of producing such a vaccine.

They isolated and actually grew in the laboratory a germ which can produce at least one main, severe variety of common cold. The scientists claim to have kept this germ alive for a year and that they have produced colds with it in prison volunteers.

While they still do not know the exact nature of the germ, a virus which they call "VI-4A," they at least have brought it out into the open where it can be studied.

PROPAGANDA?

For UMT

Rep. Forest Harness (Rep., Ind.) has charged the army with carrying on an illegal campaign of "propaganda" in behalf of a universal military training law, thereby adding more fuel to an issue already destined to be superheated in 1948.

Harness, chairman of a special house investigating committee, said he would call high army officials before his group soon after congress reconvened on January 6 to answer accusations concerning the use of taxpayers' money to influence public legislation.

Said he, "I am receiving hundreds of letters daily from every part of the country concerning a propaganda pressure campaign being waged by the army for universal military training."

A recent investigation by his committee, he said, had disclosed the hiring of two civilians to tour the country addressing women's groups and making radio speeches favoring the proposed law.

Contention of the army is that it simply is doing everything it can to foster a sense of the need for national security among the people, and Harness had yet to prove that the army was morally wrong in that view, whatever the legal technicalities of the situation might be.

To a New Life

Her Nazi concentration camp number still branded on her arm, Fanny Hochmanova of Czechoslovakia arrived in Philadelphia to wed a former U. S. serviceman whom she met in Germany in 1939.

PANAMA:

No Bases

Unanimous rejection by Panama's national assembly of a treaty which would have given the U. S. the right to lease and man 14 military and airfield sites to defend the Panama canal not only precipitated a diplomatic disaster but also left this nation in the position of a fighter without a left hand to guard his jaw.

The action, strongly opposed by Panama's President Jimenez, left the U. S. with just one alternative—to pull out—since commitments had been given that no American troops would remain in Panamanian territory without sanction of an authorized treaty.

Military officials later announced that the withdrawal of some 2,000 U. S. soldiers from the 14 bases surrounding the canal would be begun immediately. That meant, probably, that the troops would be pulled into the canal zone proper, which the U. S. leases from Panama.

This was, by all odds, the most crucial issue to arise in U. S.-Panama relations since this country purchased the canal from France in 1904.

Search for Researchers

One of the adverse factors developing to hamper the nation's post-war program of scientific progress is a critical scarcity of scientists in certain branches of military research, government officials have revealed.

They discount, however, statements that an aversion on the part of scientists to working on death-leaving weapons is the primary cause of the shortage.

Thad's Feet Hurt

After a long, hard day's work on the farm, Thad's idea of how to spend an evening is to take off his shoes, and relax with a mellow glass of beer.

But his missus has other ideas. After being in the house all day, she's all for walking to the village, if it's only for a soda. Likes to see people, catch the latest gossip. But Thad says, no, his feet hurt! Begun to cause unpleasantness in Thad's home.

Then Bill Webster comes up with an idea. If Thad takes the missus to Andy's Garden Tavern, Thad can relax with his glass of beer, and the missus can also chat with all the neighbors there. Each gets his (or her) own way.

Worked, too! In fact, now the missus likes an occasional temperate glass of beer herself. And Thad finds it's pleasanter to enjoy his beer with good companions, rather than alone. In fact, his feet stopped hurting too!

Europe's Population Too Dense for Resources

For her own good, Europe should lose no time in attempting to establish a favorable ratio of population to its feeding resources, observes Guy Irving Burch, director of the population reference bureau.

It is imperative, he said, that such action be taken before the U. S. reaches the point where it no longer can underwrite Europe's material shortages under the Marshall plan or similar ventures.

One way to reach that favorable ratio is to increase Europe's resources. The only other way is to decrease population. Yet, Burch pointed out, many European countries are giving bonuses for larger families. Today, he said, Europe literally cannot support her dense population either by industrialization or agriculture.
