Bird House Contest Rules; Entries To Be Decided on April 24

We hope the boys and girls of Charlevoix County are busy building bird houses for the contest to be held April 24. This contest, sponsored by City Extension, No. 1, will be an opportunity to show your skill and originality. Each child participating is expected to build the house himself although you may of course get pointers from Dad or Big Brother. Entries may be left with Mrs. Basil Holland, or at Clarks' Clover Farm Store. Entries are to be graded as follows: First through the Third, Fourth through the Sixth, and Seventh through the Ninth.

Prizes for each group will be announced as soon as details can be arranged.

The response of our boys and girls to last year's contest was encouraging for a first event. We are looking forward to a much bigger and better one this year. Too much color, lack of ventilation and placement of doorway was among the criticisms of the judges last year. Contestants will do well to remember these points, as they are important.

We hope to be able to tell you where the contest will be held, in the next issue of the Herald. Remember the date! April 24.

Legion Anniversary Supper A Big Success

On the evening of March 18, the American Legion held their annual Birthday Party at the Oddfellows Hall. The usual pot-luck supper was a complete success as was the entire party in general. Merle Crowell was Master of Ceremonies with his usual witticisms and timely jests.

The program for the evening consisted of the following: A pot-luck supper was first on the schedule. There was one draw back—the seating capacity of 85 would not accommodate the 150 who attended. Consequently the late arrivals ate while milling around with a plate in one hand, silverware in the other, coffee in the other and, anyway, no one went away hungry. One complaint was registered by Chief Simmons who found the coffee cups too small and had to resort to a sugar bowl which was more his size. While the Auxiliary was cleaning the tables, group singing was led by Jake Snyder, vocalist extraordinary.

Tom St. Charles gave a brief history of the American Legion since its activation in 1919. It seems the Legion started in 1919 with nothing and after 29 years of tireless efforts now have a grand total of nothing. Moral of this story—being too close to the fire hall is something worse than being too far away.

The feature of the evening was color pictures by John Hodge and Milt Meredith of the recent fire, which showed the Legion's progress down considerably, and the New Years Eve party at the Legion Club. Due to the poor light reflecting qualities of the walls of the Legion Club, picture taking was next to impossible but Milt did very good and several red noses could be seen glowing in the dark. Dave Pray submitted some very good color pictures of the Memorial Day Parade last year. Shots of the Color Guard came out very well and we think it was the best looking Color Guard in the U.S., bar none.

After the show was over the organized entertainment ceased and it was every man for himself in a dance, round and square. Music was furnished by the Thelma Evans, Eva Peterson, Eva Stark, Burl Walker, Clarence Carney, Leon Peterson, and Bill Kamradt.

Credit for the success of the whole affair goes entirely to the American Legion Auxiliary who did a bang-up job of planning.

The Auxiliary and Legion wish to take this opportunity to thank the Odd Fellows for the use of their Hall.

Didn't Know It Was Lost Till She Saw It In The Herald

When The Herald runs a "found" adv. the owner generally claims the lost article.

But it took a found adv. in last week's Herald for Mrs. L.G. Bunker to realize that she had lost a rather valuable wedding ring. She came in the Herald Office, Saturday, described and obtained her "lost" property—thanks to the finder—Mrs. Bussing.

Announces Engagemnet

A Grand Rapids daily recently ran a picture of the bride-to-be with the announcement:—"Miss Jewell Scott's engagement and approaching marriage to Donald G. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Phillips, Hope St. S.E., is announced by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Arthur, College Ave., S.E. The couple are making plans for a July wedding. Mr. Phillips served more than two years in the Navy and now is attending Coyne Electrical School in Chicago."

Everyone Welcome

To special revival services to be held in the United Missionary church of East Jordan April 4-18. Rev. C.B. Greenman of Bellaire, engaged speaker.

"Come and we will do thee good."

It's The Right Thing To Do!

On April 5th we will be asked to approve a 5 mill tax to be used only for the purpose of erecting a suitable building to house this city's fire fighting equipment.

At this time this equipment is in temporary quarters which makes for slow "get outs" which can easily mean unnecessary loss of life and property because we all know that fire does not wait and a few minutes or even seconds can make the difference between a nominal loss or the complete destruction of property involved and also extensions to other buildings.

Another angle to be considered is the proper care of fire hose that has been used at a fire. If left rolled up and thrown in a pile which is all that can be done with it now, it's life will be much shorter than if the proper means are provided to dry and store it. The least hose that the department can operate safely with 3200 ft. which at $1.17 per ft. makes it an investment worth caring for to say nothing of the danger of uncarred for hose, bursting just at the time it is needed most.

The Fire Underwriters when setting the insurance rate for a locality to take in consideration how the racks are housed, what care is taken of the equipment and if it can be on a way to a fire quickly when called. It is true that building costs are high at this time but that applies equally as well to replacing a home which many of us worked many cars to get and which we could not hope to replace.

Is we lose our insurance rate, which as been a reasonable one, and are placed in a higher cost bracket, the taxpayer will have spent in about 3-1/2 years an arritional amount for insurance equal to the proposed 5 mills tax and still have no Fire Department building. This seems like a good proposition and well worthy of a YES vote at the April election.

Disasters Demand Red Cross Help While Fund Drive Lags

More than 8000 people are homeless in 17 midwestern communities as the results of Spring floods, tornadoes, and explosions. Cities, towns and small villages in Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri are suffering heavily. The Red Cross has stepped forward to provide food, clothing and shelter to relieve the suffering of disaster victims. At Bunker Hill Illinois, a little town of 1500 almost totally destroyed, Red Cross is feeding 700 people three meals a day. Red Cross has allocated $250,000 to relieve the distress of these people. While service is being demanded from the Red Cross here as well as in these disaster stricken communities, the annual drive for funds lags far behind. The Charlevoix County Chapter has raised less than two-thirds of a $6,000 goal.

Local Red Cross leaders have announced that unless funds are raised the Red Cross program must be curtailed.

An Old Fashioned Mother Presented By Junior Class of Ellsworth

The play is a parable of a mother's love triumphant over the ingratitude and neglect of her children, and is arranged as a drama in three acts.

The play opens with a rehearsal of the village choir with numerous interruptions from Jeremiah Gosling, a comical country boy always trying to swap something, and from Miss Lowitz Loviny Custard, the romantic old maid who is anxious to recite her original poetry.

The play has a definite moral told throughout the play, also Scripture is frequently referred to.

Mrs. B.G. Braman left Thursday to visit relatives in Toledo.

The Trestleboard

Did You Know that John Hancock, stellar patriot and wealthy colonial merchant, first made the acquaintance of Joseph Warren and Paul Revere when initiated into the St. Andrew's Masonic Lodge in 1762? Their patriotism undoubtedly stirred the fires of Hancock's own zeal. Having inherited some quarter million dollars, he was one of the wealthiest men in the colonies. His business associates for the most part, were members of his lodge, met in the Royal Exchange, and hobnobbed with officers of the crown.

During the early years of the colonies before, during, and after the revolution, prominent members of the Craft, meeting in the various cities along the Atlantic seaboard. Were wont to air their views on burning issues of the day and their pronouncements doubtless had much to do with molding the public opinion of the day. Then as now Masons were picked men. The conduct of lodge affairs afforded a school of training for leadership. The prominent men of the day, aided by this training and inspired by the democratic principles of free masonry, became effectively active in public life. The Masonic Lodge as a lodge shunned politics, but at every stage of the revolution the brethren were working and fighting for freedom. They were the backbone of the forces of liberty and makers of a history of which their descendants may be justly proud.

Mark Chapter O.E.S., wishes to announce a very special meeting for Friday, April 2. Initiation degrees will be conferred on several candidates, prominent out of town guests will be honored, and an interesting program will highlight the occasion. All members are urged to be present.

The program committee of the Eastern Star announces that Thursday, April 8, will be the date for the next semi-formal dance, which the order will sponsor. The dance will be held in the high school gym and the music will be furnished by Stan Severance and his orchestra. Tickets may be purchased for $2.50 per couple, from members of the committee on arrangements. Mrs. Marion Jackson, Mrs. Ed Reuling, and Mrs. Minnie DesJerdins.

Prophet Among Exiles

Lesson for April 4, 1948

THIS quarter we study the Captivity and Return of the Jews, using the Books of Ezekiel, Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. Sunday's lesson is found in Ezekiel 1-4 and 33:1-9.

It would be well for us to read again the history of this most interesting man, Ezekiel—how he came to be among the captives by the river Chebar. He is one of the most attractive personalities in the Old Testament—a man of surpassing culture and charm—and yet enabled to "sit where they sat."

A MESSENGER OF GOD
EZEKIEL could never have adapted himself to the role of ministering to the captive slaves apart from the knowledge that he was the messenger of God—the messenger of God's hope to broken, beaten souls.

God spoke to his people through Ezekiel. He speaks to his people today through chosen messengers—parents, teachers, the Bible, the Holy Spirit. God may be speaking to you today.

HEAR YE THE WORD
EZEKIEL'S approach to the Jews in captivity was by the authority of God's direct message to them through him. Ezekiel was faithful to God's appointment and mission. He knew that what he had to say to the Jews meant their hope of release and return.

He studied their plight. He studied their mood. And then he spoke to them, telling them what God wanted them to know, but he moved among them. He loved them.

He had God's message, and he went in God's mood of compassion. We cannot help people until we understand them and love them.

GOD'S WATCHMAN
EZEKIEL reminded the people that he had been sent from God as a watchman, and he told them what terrible responsibility was upon him in warning them to repent and return unto God. Read Ezekiel 33:1-9.

If the watchman faithfully warns the people, and they refuse to heed the warning, their blood will not be on his hands; but if he fail to warn the people, their blood will be on his hands. Here is a lesson for every teacher and preacher and parent today.

And in this same 33rd chapter, Ezekiel goes on to declare God's attitude toward all sinners. "Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live—turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die?"

A WATCHMAN UNTO EXILES
"SON of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel," Ezekiel 3:17.

This was the explicit commission of God to Ezekiel. And grandly did Ezekiel accept and execute to the limit of his ability that commission.

The Jews were far from their beloved home. They were driven by hard masters. They could not sing the song of the Lord in a strange land. They had hanged their harps on the willow trees.

With a sensitive soul, Ezekiel comes to them with the word of hope. He reminds them of the goodness and mercy of Jehovah to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He lifts their drooping spirits with clear and ringing words of promise. He pleads with them to confess their sins and claim the pardoning mercy of a loving God.

He used numerous means of gaining their attention—symbols of their former communion with God. Patiently he traced the dealings of God with them and their fathers before them.

They listened, and all who heeded the pleas of the faithful watchman were saved and restored to faith in the goodness and mercy of God.

We, too, are watchmen among exiles. Let us learn the high art of Ezekiel in our ministry as watchmen.

The churches will fall if the lessons of Sunday are forgotten on Monday and are laid aside for special observance on only one day of the week.—Wayne Morse, U. S. senator from Oregon.

SPRING 4-H ACHIEVEMENT DAY TO BE APRIL 14, 15, and 16

The Annual Spring 4-H Achievement Days will be held at the Community Hall, Bellaire, April 14, 15, and 16, says Orville Walker, District Club Agent.

Exhibits will be brought in on Wednesday afternoon, judging will be Thursday and the Achievement Day Program will be on Friday beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning.

This years achievement event promises to be one of the best with many boys and girls enrolled in Clothing, Handicraft, Food Preparation, Deer Yard Study and Conservation Projects.

Here's hoping that the nation's labor pains give birth to full production.

CHOOSE WALL PAPER TO SUIT YOUR PURPOSE

In spring a homemaker's thoughts turn to her home and particularly to the walls. A likely decision will be that new wall paper will be just the trick to brighten a dingy room.

With so many kinds and colors to choose from, it's a real problem to select paper that you will be happy with for months to come. Mildred Wilson, home furnishing specialist at Michigan State college, believes that you should first decide whether you want the paper for decoration or for background in the room.

In rooms that are little used you can use a bolder and more brilliant paper than one where you will be reading, relaxing and spending a great deal of time. If the other articles in the room are plain, the paper can be more decorative. The size of the room will affect your choice and so will the amount of light in it.

After you have considered the use of the room think about the room as a personality. The floors, walls, woodwork, doors and the ceiling are so closely related that they should harmonize in color and texture. If it's furnished with a particular period or a special scheme, consider that, too.

If you can, get several different kinds of paper and hold them up on the wall that's going to be papered. Then compare them. It's still better if you can experiment with several strips of one kind for your idea of how it will look. For background paper the less conspicuous the better it will be.

MYSTERY OF THE LUCKY VAL- ENTINO RING

Superstitious Hollywood stars believe a plain silver ring, once owned by the celebrated Rudolph Valentino, brings good luck to the one who wears it. WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Masaryk's Death Crystallizes Red Menace as U.S. Prepares to Act; Spring Rash of Strikes Breaks Out

Released by WNU Features
 (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MASARYK: Death in Prague

Whether Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, took his own life or was liquidated by the Communists really didn't make any difference.

The Communist government had announced that he had leaped to his death from a first, second or third-floor window (U. S. newspapers readers could choose their own version) of the foreign office in Prague.

Later reports by "highly authoritative persons" insisted that Masaryk had been murdered by Communists. An alleged "eyewitness" testified that he had seen Masaryk's body after its reported fall to a concrete pavement and that it bore no evidence that the foreign minister had died in such a manner.

Supporting the murder theory was the fact that Masaryk was reported to have met President Edouard Benes the day before his death, and the two were said to have planned something the Communists wished to prevent.

Unidentified Czech officials who have escaped from Prague reported also that President Benes was a prisoner of the Communist regime.

But whether Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czechoslovakian republic, had been murdered or goaded to suicide by his intolerable position, one thing was certain: Communists had killed him just as surely as if they had put a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger.

If Masaryk took his own life it was not just because he was seeking an escape, but because it was the last service he could do for his country—throwing light, by his own destruction, on the terrible, destructive force that is communism.

NERVES: Warlike

The alternate, ostentatious flexing of muscles by the United States and Russia was, it appeared, shifting in status from a cold war to a war of nerves.

There were the unmistakable signs of the military preparing to reassert itself. Many reserve officers had received letters pointing out that, although they were not being called to active duty immediately, they would do well to prepare themselves for such a possible eventuality.

In the Pentagon building in Washington army planners were working late at their desks. Procurement officers were reported to be showing great interest in cement factories, since cement is vital in building underground shelters and fortifications.

Russian troops were said to be massing in eastern Germany, but no one would venture to say whether this was pure bluff, a threat of retaliation to the Marshall plan and union of western Europe, or a show of force intended to influence the coming elections in Italy.

But President Truman himself precipitated the worst outbreak of war jitters when he publicly proclaimed that his faith in the attainment of real world peace had been shaken, although he still believes real peace is possible.

In this crisis the U. S. government was stressing these points which embodied administration policy for meeting the situation:

1. The European recovery plan should be carried out promptly.
2. The U. S. encourages formation of what Marshall called a political association in western Europe as the first step toward restoring stability.
3. Spread of Communist governments anywhere in the world, including China is opposed by the American government which will do everything in its power to block communism.
4. The U. S. will continue to work for world peace wherever possible.

Finally, any estimate of the situation must include this inescapable conclusion: Neither Russia nor the U. S. wants war now; and, more important, neither could afford to fight one. This particular decade continues to be a period worked by a shifting of forces and consolidation of strength where it will do the most good if and when the real showdown comes.

SHIFTING WORLD

Nobody Worries About 'Tissick' Now

City dwellers of 300 years ago—the inhabitants of London in the year 1648, for instance—were only half as likely to be killed in accidents as are the metropolites of today.

But they were several times as likely to die from tuberculosis or other diseases with such fearful names as spotted fever, purples,

The Way Out

Added to the list of the world's numberless martyrs for liberty was the name of Jan Masaryk, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, son of Thomas Masaryk who was the first president and liberator of the country.

STRIKES: Miners

Widespread strikes in the nation's soft coal fields were touched off by John L. Lewis' latest foray into the national scene, a demand for $100-a-month pensions for his miners.

The United Mine Workers leader had asked rank-and-file "reaction" to his charge that coal operators had "dishonored" the 1947 contract by failing to grant pensions. And his miners produced the exact reaction he wanted as almost 200,000 of them in 11 states quit to support Lewis' stand at the very outset of the difficulties.

It was not a strike in the technical sense of the word. Lewis, in all his power, simply had nodded his shaggy head and his men, quick to catch the signal, walked away from their jobs.

The current mine contract does not expire until June 30, but it provides that the miners need work only as long as they are "willing and able."

Impact of the soft coal walkouts showed first in the nation's steel industry where output is threatened if the shutdowns continue for any length of time. Many of the closed mines are "captive" whose entire output goes to the steel companies.

Packers

Fraught with an even greater immediacy than the mine walkouts, however, was a nationwide strike for more pay by 100,000 members of the CIO packing-house workers.

The strike went off as scheduled despite an urgent request by President Truman asking the packing companies and workers' representatives to maintain the status quo without interrupting negotiations until April 1, at which time a board of inquiry was slated to report to him on conditions of the strike.

In reply to the President, the union strike board rejected his proposal because, it said, the packing firms would not agree to placing even their wage proposals into effect during the negotiation.

As the strike began, government records indicated that the entire nation would come to feel the curtailed meat supply after the first week, with some areas more severely affected than others.

GOVERNMENT: Expensive

Total per capita cost of running the federal government for one year has zoomed $201 since 1939, according to a report by the Tax Foundation. It now is about $270 a year, compared with $69 in 1939.

War, of course, was mainly responsible for the increase.

Total estimated expenditures for the fiscal year 1948 are 37.7 billion dollars. War and its aftermath accounted for almost 23 billion of that.

But the blueprint for 1949, said the foundation, registers an increase. It quoted President Truman:

"In the fiscal year of 1949, 79 per cent of our expenditures reflect the costs of war, the effect of war and our efforts to prevent a future war."

rising of the lights, plague in the guts, tussick, imposthume and others, says a study of early and present day mortality by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The king's horsemen were the fastest traffic to contend with in 1648. The automobile was still 250 years in the future.

TREATY: 50 Years

Communist expansion was going to meet a roadblock if the nations of western Europe had any voice in the matter.

Britain, France and the Benelux (Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg) nations adopted a 50-year treaty for a political, economic and military union of western Europe in an out and out move to check the communism that threatens their independence.

Delegates from the five countries completed their efforts after more than a week around the conference table. The alliance was a direct out-growth of the union of western European nations suggested in January by Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary.

The treaty was believed to bind the nations to mutual assistance in the face of aggression, mutual aid in the economic field, co-operation in improving their living standards and a measure of co-ordination of colonial resources.

It was just a beginning, but a good one. In the eyes of U. S. government leaders the alliance was not only a desirable but necessary element if the Marshall plan for recovery is to work at all.

SAY UNCLE: Palestine

People continue to ask the Arabs and Jews of Palestine to stop their futile wrangling.

France, China and the United States sent an appeal to the Jews and Arabs of Palestine and also to the six Arab state members of the United Nations, asking them to take steps to promote a truce in the Holy Land fighting.

There was no real confidence among delegates of the three nations that their request would be heeded. Russia, the fourth country taking part in the big power talks on Palestine, refrained from joining in the appeal because the Soviets have taken the typical stand that there is no need for the big powers to consult with the Arabs and Jews.

Most observers thought the truce appeal looked like wishful thinking. For one thing, no group among either Arabs or Jews in Palestine is in a position to control its dissident members and thus guarantee a truce.

Moreover, the idea of a military truce does not bear upon the heart of the problem. The United Nations is still committed, on paper, to partition, while the Arabs adamantly continue to reject that proposal and the Jews assert just as strongly that they will accept nothing else.

Women's

Accident rate among girls and women has been reduced by about one-half in the past 35 years as a result of modernization of the American home, according to statistics compiled by Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Illustrating the reduction in home hazards, the statisticians said, are the shift from oil lamps and gas for lighting to the electric light bulb, replacing the traditional coal stove by the modern gas or electric range, and use of central heating instead of stoves and fireplaces.

Mortality from burns fell from 10.3 per 100,000 in 1911 to 1.4 in 1946—a decrease of 86 per cent.

Consumer Income Up

Consumer income rose in January to a record high annual rate of 210.8 billion dollars, the commerce department announced.

The figure for December was 210.4 billion dollars. The January rate, according to the department, was 7 per cent higher than the 1947 average of 196.8 billion.

January's increase over December came despite a slight downturn in wages and salaries.

American Red Cross Relieves Disaster Victims in Mid-West

With more than 8,000 persons in 17 midwestern communities following a series of disasters which began March 18, volunteers in 1,500 Red Cross chapters in the 16 state Midwestern Area of Red Cross redoubled efforts, today, to bring the 1948 Red Cross Fund drive to a successful, speedy close.

"Disasters so far this year follow a pattern strikingly similar to last year's," Helen Kereghoff, chapter chairman of the Charlevoix County Red Cross chapter pointed out. "Actually, Red Cross has allocated more funds disaster relief, already, than it had at this same date in 1947."

No special appeal for funds to meet disaster needs is being made by Red Cross, Helen Kereghoff emphasized. All expenditures are met from the disaster reserve set up after the Fund drive of one year ago, and future allocations will be met from funds put aside from contributions made this month.

Floods have rendered 4,000 homeless in Michigan and threaten countless others following a 12-hour rain the afternoon of March 18, and a quick thaw which had caused ice jams. Six Red Cross shelters have been set up in Grand Rapids, in anticipation of a possible crisis on the Grand River. Shelters have also been provided at Battle Creek and Lansing, and chapters in eight other communities are alerted for action when necessary. At Saginaw, a veterans' housing project is threatened by the rapid rise of the Cass River.

Thirty trained disaster workers from Midwestern Area Office have been dispatched to trouble spots where volunteers need additional help. More will be sent, as needed, when the rehabilitation phase of disaster relief gets under way; needs have been weighed and plans set up to put families unable to help themselves back on their feet again.

Stump The Driver

The average driver will flunk at least four of six important points about driving, traffic experts found after examining results in a countywide drivers poll.

1. The fastest, safest way to stop a car: "Pump" the brake pedal, instead of slamming it down and holding it there.
2. How to control the car when a tire blows out: Grip the steering wheel hard, concentrate on keeping the car going straight ahead, keep your foot on the gas, never, never slam on the brakes—slow down slowly.
3. The astonishing distances required to stop a car at various speeds: At 40 miles an hour, it takes 128-164 feet; at 50, from 188 to 243, and at 60, from 276 to 397 feet or more than a city block.
4. The right way to hold the steering wheel: The left hand should be at a place corresponding to 9 or 10 o'clock and the right hand at 2 or 3 o'clock for quickest action in an emergency.

Although there's a switch away from the Russet Rural potato in Michigan, Henry C. Moore, Michigan State college potato specialist, thinks even more producers should consider other varieties. Chippewa, Sebago and Katahdin varieties are bringing about ten percent higher market prices than the Russets. That's because consumers show a preference to the white-skinned potatoes. The supply of certified seed for these varieties is limited, Moore reports, because there has not been such a great demand in past years. Six years ago, however, 85 percent of the potatoes certified for seed were Russet Rurals. This year Russets accounted for only 60 percent of the total certified. A few cultural practices are different in growing white-skinned varieties. Care must be taken to plant them in soil which has not grown potatoes for four or five years. Seed must be well-treated to eliminate scab infection before planting. The use of organic matter such as green manure, is recommended. Sebago potatoes need to be planted earlier than Russets. Katahdins must be planted deeper and closer together to prevent sunbur or hollow heart. Farmers who plan to grow certified seed should consider the increasing demand for these varieties. From 80 to 100 cars for seed are now being shipped into Michigan each year to satisfy the demand. Moore also believes certified seed growers should also consider the heavy demand for Pontiac. This red-skinned variety is in great demand in the south where they grow no seed potatoes. Certified seed growers of this variety are finding an excellent market soon after digging in late summer or early fall. Southern growers plant potatoes in mid-winter for the early crop. HERE'S THE STORY OF A BIG TELEPHONE YEAR

More telephones and more service for customers! More jobs and more money for employees! But earnings for investors continued their downward trend because the rise in costs far exceeded the rise in revenues. That's how 1947 stacked up for Michigan Bell.

CUSTOMERS

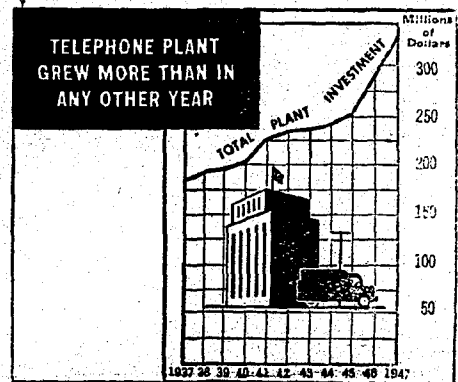

At the end of 1947, there were 133,000 more telephones in service than in 1946, including 16,000 more in rural areas. In the territory we serve, 78 of every 100 families had a telephone. But 51,000 families were still waiting for service.

Service was better. Customers could call more people than ever before, and did. With the average customer making between 5 and 6 calls a day, total calls averaged 8,022,000 a day.

We added more switchboard "positions," switching equipment to connect 87,000 more dial telephones, and 350,000 miles of wire. We enlarged the capacity of 198 central offices and built 7 new ones.

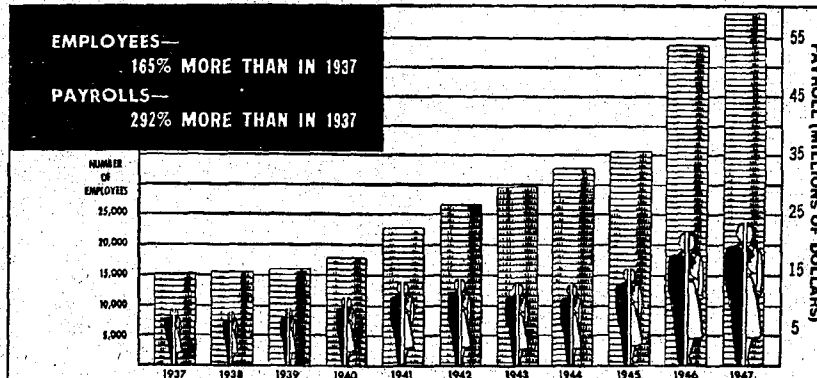

Forty-eight million dollars were spent for expansion and improvement. But Michigan Bell's plant is still not big enough to serve everyone the way we would like.

EMPLOYEES

Michigan Bell's expanding business created 1,900 more telephone jobs during 1947. This required more supervisory jobs which were filled by promotion from within the ranks.

There were nearly 3 times as many employees at the end of 1947 as 10 years ago. Payrolls were nearly 4 times as high. Wage adjustments last Spring increased costs about $5,864,000 annually. One out of every 11 employees received benefits because of illness or injury.

By purchasing A. T. & T. stock under a payroll deduction plan, 7,400 Michigan Bell employees were on their way to becoming part owners of the business.

INVESTORS

HOW WE DID FINANCIALLY

leave EARNINGS	$ 7,722,000	DOWN $ 4,616,000
EARNINGS PER INVESTOR'S DOLLAR	3 1/10%	DOWN 3 1/10%

Money received from customers for service was 6% more than in 1946. But costs of providing service—wages, taxes, goods and services from others, etc.—rose 13%. Earnings per investor's dollar dropped to about half of what they were in the previous year.

730,000 investors in Bell System securities supply the money to build Michigan Bell's plant. Millions more have invested indirectly through savings accounts or insurance policies with institutions owning Bell securities.

Even with the telephone system operating at capacity, because of rising costs only 3 8/10 cents were earned on each dollar invested. This is not an adequate return. So the Michigan Public Service Commission is now considering our application for an increase in telephone rates.

ALL THREE GROUPS—customers, employees and investors—have a stake in the business. Looking to the future, Michigan Bell fully expects to supply a continually improving service to the public... good jobs for thousands of employees, with plenty of opportunity for advancement in a growing business... and a reasonable return to those whose savings are invested in the business.

Governor Kim Sigler has a tough nut to crack: How can he successfully dissociate his personal ambitions from his new program of constitution reform?

It's not an easy task. The problem boils down to something like this.

Sigler is asking the legislature to submit amendments to Michigan voters next November. These amendments, if approved, would lengthen terms of the governor and other state officials from two to four years, would permit the governor to appoint the secretary of state and attorney general, would permit legislators to set salaries of their successors and elective state officials, and would permit the calling of a constitutional convention by a majority of the votes cast such as a convention call, not a majority of all voters who go to the polls.

Governor Sigler is convinced that these steps would make for better and more responsible government in Michigan. But a number of legislators are yet to be convinced. They link the reforms to personal ambitions of Sigler, a desire to get greater power for himself, not for his successor.

If Sigler is re-elected in November for a second term, the four-year term amendment would deprive him of one month of this second term. He would go out of office on December 1, 1950, instead of on Jan. 1, 1951.

As Sigler sees it, the Dec. 1 inauguration date is evidence itself that he would deprive himself of one month and that this would benefit his successor, not himself. While he has not said he would retire at the end of a second term, he had plainly inferred it.

Furthermore, the governor has emphasized repeatedly that he does not look upon the governorship as a stepping stone to the United States Senate or other political public service. He would like to do something about better government, and he is not satisfied to hold the office of governor unless he strives to accomplish this.

In the governor's mind, the reform program should not be associated with Sigler's political future. But it is inevitable that some legislators will want to be convinced. Frankly, they are not altogether sold.

For one thing, the governor's amendments would strengthen the power of the governor and other elective officials, but they would do little for legislators. The right of the legislators to increase salaries would not apply to themselves but to their successors. Legislative incumbents would be exempt. State officials would not. While terms of elective officials would be stretched to four years, terms of senators and representatives would remain at two years.

Speaker Victor A. Knox of the Soo said, "there is a feeling among many members that if we are to grant a four-year term to the governor, the same reasoning would apply to the legislature itself."

Aud there you have it—human nature inevitably in action, linking a man's program of change to his personal ambitions.

Governor Sigler points out that since the 1908 constitution was adopted, only five governors have served more than one term. "Most of the time we have had a shift of administrations every two years. In the light of these facts, can anyone wonder why a well planned program of state government has not been carried out?"

"Does anyone seriously contend that a worth-while program can be accomplished in two years? . . . Governors are not in office long enough to lay out a program and see it through."

As for greater power for the governor, here is a quotation from Sigler's message to the legislature: "It is the governor to whom the people look for administrative accomplishment, and whom they blame for lack of it. The tools of administration, however, have not been provided to enable the chief executive of our state to fulfill this responsibility. . . . There should be authority commensurate with that responsibility."

Governor Sigler asks the legislature to create a state department of administration which would take over function of numerous state boards and agencies. The governor would appoint its director. This department would handle budgeting, purchasing and accounting. This department would give the governor, says Sigler, "the means to get a job done", a "right arm" with power to get results. It is a good illustration of what Kim Sigler wants:

Michigan state government has too many boards, bureaus, commissions and other agencies.

So declares Governor Kim Sigler. He proposed that the state legislature consolidate many of them into a state department of administration. Furthermore, he favors—as a last alternative—placing a state constitutional amendment before the voters in November which would limit the total of state administrative departments to 20 or less, about one-fifth of the present total.

Governor Sigler's observation that Michigan's government has become too complex—too many boards and commissions—has received favorable support of many people in Michigan. There is some evidence to substantiate a belief that many of the voters who supported the sales tax diversion amendment in November, 1946, did so in the conviction that Lansing had too much money for its own good, too many state employees on the payroll.

And so the move to clip the wings of state bureaucrats—curtail the super-structure which has developed from year to year at the state capital—offers a popular political appeal.

Quoting Governor Sigler: "At the latest count there were more than 100 state boards, bureaus, commissions and agencies. Many of them perform overlapping functions or duties which are not necessary for the welfare of the people. Others enter into the everyday life of many citizens."

"The whole thing is a sprawling maze of organization. Perhaps disorganization would be a better term."

"In well organized states, recognized for their efficient operation, what do you find? Not 100 boards, 20 agencies run by commissioners who are directly responsible to the governor."

Right here the governor introduces a second reform. Not only would he reduce the number of state bureaus at Lansing, he would put them under the direct responsibility and power of the governor.

And right here a basic conflict arises. Many state legislators, who are critical of top-heavy bureaucracy at Lansing, hesitate to centralize more power in the hands of the governor by giving him the right to hire and fire department heads.

Fred Green defeated Alex Groesbeck, they recall, on a move to curtail the authority of the governor. Governor Sigler argues his case as follows:

"As it stands now, most boards and commissions are far removed from control of the people. The voters cannot make their approval or disapproval heard because the members of the boards, bureaus and commissions are serving overlapping terms. They frequently are a law unto themselves."

"The people quite properly expect the governor, the legislature, and other elected officials to be responsible for the entire government of the state. The governor of a state, wherever he may be, is popularly considered to be responsible for performance and quality of results, yet under the present system he does not have the authority to fill that responsibility."

"As you may know, I have therefore proposed to eliminate certain commissions and to replace them with commissioners responsible to the governor, with the consent of the senate. The governor, in turn, is responsible to the people. If they don't like his policies they have the opportunity of registering a protest at the ballot box. I also have proposed the merging of certain other commissions and boards to eliminate overlapping, and thus save money and increasing services."

If the legislature votes to submit Governor Sigler's amendment to the voters next November, it will be more out of courtesy to the head of the party than to any personal antipathy of legislators. The governor is asking that the legislature give the jury (the voters) an opportunity to return a verdict. Chances are better than 50-50 that the legislature will do so.

TEST YOUR SOIL

A series of soil testing meetings has been planned for Charlevoix County for Monday and Tuesday, April 5 and 6. Ed Longnecker, Extension Specialist in Soils from Michigan State College will bring his equipment up and will do the testing and give recommendations in regard to fertilizer and crops. The general plan so far is to meet in the Agriculture Room in the Boyne City High School Monday morning, April 5—in the Agriculture Room in the East Jordan High School Monday afternoon, April 5. The third meeting will be at Charlevoix High School, Tuesday morning, April 6.

All farmers who are interested in having soil samples tested should plan on bringing samples to one of these locations. If the soil is extremely wet—collect your sample about three or four days ahead of time and give it a chance to dry out. To take a sample collect some of the soil from the surface of the ground down to about plow depth. An old two inch auger makes a good tool to collect soil samples with. The majority of farmers are well aware of the values of soil testing. However, some of the farmers have added lime on soils that definitely do not need lime. It costs approximately ten times as much to reduce the p.h. of soil one degree as it does to raise it one degree. In other words, if it costs $10.00 to raise the p.h. from six to seven it would cost $100.00 to reduce the p.h. from seven to six. Consequently farmers should know definitely whether they need lime before they add it to their soil.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT TO ORGANIZE:

In the past few weeks several meetings have been held relative to the formation of a Soil Conservation District in Charlevoix County. Many more are scheduled in the near future. At these meetings petitions are being passed out for land occupiers to sign. These petitions request a hearing in Charlevoix County in regard to the proposed District. At this hearing farmers must determine whether there is, or not, a soil conservation problem in Charlevoix County. After the hearing it is put up to a vote whether or not a District is desired.

At the present time the following people have petitions that folks may sign: Gorge Klooster - East Jordan; J.M. Ingalls - East Jordan; Mrs. Zimmerman - East Jordan; Delbert Ingalls - East Jordan; Bill Zitka - East Jordan; Harold Thomas - East Jordan; Claude Pearsall - East Jordan; Clayton Healey - East Jordan; Leonard Babble - Charlevoix; Archie Brown - Charlevoix; Pete Winnick - Charlevoix; George Jones - Boyne City.

Anyone interested in signing these petitions should contact one of the above named men.

NEW LUMBER BULLETIN

In the southern part of Michigan's lower peninsula there is considerable timber in farm woodlots. Michigan State College agricultural engineers and foresters believe that this timber can be converted into urgently needed and less expensive building materials.

A bulletin recently issued by the Station gives the uses of native lumber for house construction in the lower peninsula. Included are such topics as remodeling, characteristics of various woods, manufacturing native hardwood lumber, and building hints.

If you would like a copy of the bulletin, see your County Agricultural Agent or write to the County Extension Office at Boyne City and ask for Circular Bulletin 210. "Use of Native Lumber for House Construction in the Lower Peninsula of Michigan."

Constitutional Changes

BY STANLEY M. POWELL, LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL, MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

The Special Session of the Michigan Legislature called by Governor Sigler at Lansing on March 16, may prove to be exceedingly interesting and historic. For some time the Governor has let it known that he had rather far-reaching ideas as to some changes in the setup of the state government. What he has in mind is coming out into the open. He favors a streamlined administration with control centralized in the Executive Office.

Although the Governor would be happy to have a brand new Constitution for Michigan, he has apparently given up the idea. He has indicated that he will ask the Legislature to reverse itself and take from the ballot for the November 1948 election the question of calling Constitutional convention to draft a new State Constitution. He will, however, ask the Legislature to take the necessary steps to submit to the voters several Constitutional changes, probably at the April 1949 election. Among these would be a 4-year term of office for the Governor, appointment by him of the Secretary of State and Attorney General, removal from the Constitution of any restrictions as to the salary of state officials or members of the Legislature and a 4-year term for county officials.

It is understood that the Governor will ask the Legislature to take from the November 1948 ballot the question of repealing the Sales Tax Diversion Amendment. The Governor would like very much to have it repealed but seems to think that the people as yet do not fully understand its serious implications and that the time is not yet ripe for submitting a repeal proposal.

GOVERNOR WOULD REVAMP STATE SET-UP

The Governor has let it be known that he does not like the idea of government by scattered boards, commissions and other agencies. He would like to have all the administration of state government centered in a relatively small number of state departments, each presided over by a director appointed by and directly responsible to the Governor. Most of this administration reorganization could be accomplished by legislative act without a Constitutional amendment.

A major task confronting the session will be that of agreeing on appropriations for all state institutions and activities for the coming fiscal year. The budget as now worked out calls for expenditures totaling $266,000,000 which is $20,000,000 more than anticipated revenues. Ordinarily this would give rise to pressure for some substantial new taxes, but as this is a campaign year, possibly nothing along that line may be done immediately. However, unless the Sales Tax Diversion Amendment is repealed or modified, some rather heavy new state taxes seem inevitable. This is something that farmers should watch very closely.

The Governor's special Advisory Committee on Taxation recently submitted a report to him which among other recommendations urged a state property tax of one mill. The Governor has included this as one of the subjects which he states he will propose during the Special Session. Michigan Farm Bureau is on record as opposed to a property tax for state purposes.

WHAT ABOUT ROAD MONEY?

Whether or not troublesome question of highway finance will be brought before the Special Session remains to be seen. A year ago when the Governor vetoed the one cent increase in gas tax rate, he stated that he was waiting for the report of the study being made by the Michigan Good Roads Federation and would bring the subject up at the 1948 Special Session after that report had been made public. Although that report was handed to him some weeks ago, he has not yet indicated that he is going to open this question during the Special Session.

After studying the condition of every mile of roads and streets within the state, the committee reported that accumulated deficiencies totaled $1,434,910,687. They suggested various ways of raising this huge amount, including heavier gas and weight taxes and substantial local contributions for local roads. They proposed that from 50% to 100% of the cost of local roads be raised through property tax or other funds outside of those contributed directly by the motorists. This is definitely contrary to the Farm Bureau program which opposes any property tax for highway purposes.

It is expected that the formula for distributing state aid for schools will also be an important issue before the Special Session. All in all, it looks as though many bills will be coming up which will be of extreme interest to all rural folks. Farm Bureau members should attend their community group meetings to receive the reports from their Acting Committees and use the influence of their organization to help protect their interests in this very important session.

Robert Hubbell, Sec'y., Antrim Co. Farm Bureau.

South Arm Farm Bureau

The South Arm Farm Bureau group met at the home of Mrs. Nina Zimmerman, Tuesday evening, March 16, with an attendance of 19.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, George Klooster.

The purpose of the Farm Bureau and the Blue Cross Insurance Service was explained by Geo. Klooster. Discussion on the topic "How Shall Our Roads Be Financed?" was led by Delbert Ingalls. The group was in favor of an increase in gasoline tax for the maintenance of Michigan roads. The people who use the roads should pay for the upkeep of them.

After the meeting recreation was led by Mrs. George Klooster. Pot luck lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, April 30, at the home of Mrs. John Addis.

Peak Auto Output Planned for 1948

Manufacturers Seek to Increase Production Marks.

DETROIT.—The nation's car and truck manufacturers have set their sights at the highest volume of output ever attained in a single year.

According to the best estimates available, approximately 3,555,000 cars and 1,275,000 commercial vehicles were made in U. S. plants last year. In planning for 1948, producers are aiming at an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent, compared with the 1947 total of nearly 4,800,000.

Figures for the year 1947 are unofficial and subject to revision which could be upward as easily as downward. In any event, now that 1947 has gone, most of the car makers admit that despite all the materials problems they encountered, it was a good year for production and for completion of expanded facilities.

Ahead of the industry are more problems regarding steel, particularly in cold and flat rolled types. But the vehicle makers found the required material in 1947 for a near record production volume, although they went to unusual extremes to get it into their factories.

Their planning for 1948 is based largely upon the experiences of last year and most of them express the belief that if the Marshall plan for European relief does not bring about a rationing of materials, they will be able to get U. S. car and truck production well above five million units in 1948.

The record for one year is the 5,358,420 units turned out in 1929.

Pilot Buzzes Deer, Saves Them From Illegal Hunters

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Joe O'Neal, Minneapolis flier, was returning from an airplane fox hunt when he spotted four deer being stalked by four hunters south of the Minnesota river near Shakopee.

O'Neal dropped down near the hunters, who threatened him with clenched fists and menacing guns. So he swerved away, went on and "buzzed" the deer to put speed on them and get them away from the illegal gunners.

"It's a job for the wardens," said Joe. "There's a lot of deer poaching along the Minnesota river valley."

Lincoln's Letter Agreeing To Debates Found In Attic

CARTERSVILLE, GA.—A local business man, rummaging through a pile of old family papers says he has found what apparently is a letter from Abraham Lincoln agreeing to the now famous debates with Stephen A. Douglas.

Harry Womelsdorf said the letter, which he has turned over to a firm of lawyers for verification, was written in longhand, signed "A. Lincoln" and addressed to the "Hon. S. A. Douglas."

The letter, Womelsdorf said, was dated "Springfield, July 31, 1858," and read:

"Dear sir: "Yours of yesterday naming places, times and terms for discussions between us was received this morning. Although by the terms, as you propose, you take four openings and closes to my three, I accede, and thus close the arrangement. I direct this to you at Hillsboro; and shall try to have both your letter and this appear in the Journal and Register of Monday morning."

Douglas and Lincoln were opponents for United States senator from Illinois in 1858 and for the Presidential nomination in 1860. As a result of the debates, sentiment in the nation was crystallized against slavery. Douglas won the senatorial seat but lost in the presidential race.
