Tabulations by townships are as follows—Wilson 25 votes cast, 22 for, two against and one void ballot; South Arm 46 votes cast, 44 for, and two against it; Evangeline six cast and six for; Hudson six cast, five for and one against; Eveline 62 cast, 60 for, one against and one void ballot; Norwood 39 cast and 39 for; Bay 10 cast, nine for and one against; Charlevoix nine cast and nine for; Chandler three cast and three for; Melrose 11 cast and 11 for; Boyne Valley 21 cast and 21 for; Marion 42 cast, 39 for and three against; St. James seven Peavine 24 cast and 24 for; Hayes 39 cast, 37 for and two against. Of the thirteen names on the ballots for directors, Carlton Smith received 151 votes; George Klooster 150; Clayton Healy 94; Lee Sneathen Jr. 88; Leonard Babel 84; Norval Korthase 68; Joe Topolinski 54; Albert Carlson 52; Joe Leu 52; Carl Grutsh Jr. 47; Harold Thomas 45; and Harry Bearinger 11.

The next step is for the State Soil Conservation Committee to declare a district in Charlevoix county. They also have to appoint two more directors to make a five man board. These two directors are men in the county suggested by the local steering committee.

HELP OFFERED FOR TIRED HOUSEWIVES

"Tired" housewives may find some relief for their feeling of exhaustion from suggestions offered by Irma Gross, head of the department of home management and child development at Michigan State college.

First, advises Miss Gross, there really are several kinds of "tiredness" and the remedies are different for each kind. So, before you plan a vacation from your family as a answer to your situation, ask yourself what is making you so tired.

One reason, of course, is overwork or lack of rest. It is trite physical fatigue. Few household tasks use up enough energy to cause this kind of tiredness. Work such as doing the family wash without modern equipment, canning large amounts of food, moving furniture, or constant lifting and carrying of children can cause you to be overtired.

Quite different causes result in two other kinds of "tiredness". One is fatigue caused by just plain boredom. If you do the same jobs such as dish washing or dusting in the same way year after year and have no interest in the tasks you can become tired from the monotony.

The third kind of tiredness comes from mental conflict. Housewives who have more to do than they think they can accomplish, who have constant interruptions, or who may be worrying about something, such as family illness, have a tired feeling because of all the conflicts they face.

Rest and sleep help all kinds of tiredness and are the only way of fighting physical fatigue. To overcome boredom, introduce interest in your household tasks by trying new methods or trying to "beat your own time". If it's worry that's making you tired, decide what is bothering you most and try to remove it from your situation.

Miss Lela Muck of Jackson and Mr. Harold Jactett of Buffalo, New York, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart this past week. Miss Muck was a former teacher here.

PLEASE OBSERVE HERALD DEADLINE

The Herald is already operating short-handed, and henceforth it will be necessary to rigidly enforce our deadlines which are as follows:—

Headed Articles — Tuesday at 6:00 p. m.

Deadline for Re-Instatement of N. S. L. Insurance, is July 31

July 31, 1948 is positively the easy re-instatement deadline for National Service Life Insurance. There will be no extension beyond this date.

Before August 1, 1948 an eligible veteran may reinstate any amount of term insurance from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500, regardless of the length of time the insurance has been lapsed and usually without a physical examination. He need only fill out a simple application form in which he certifies that his health is as good as when the policy lapsed and pay two monthly premiums at the same rate he paid while in service.

On and after August 1st, the privilege of reinstating on this basis will be available only to veterans whose insurance has lapsed for less than three months. Where the period of lapse is three months or longer, the veteran will be required to take a physical examination and qualify as an insurable risk.

City Zoning Plan Soon To Be Offered

After two years of intensive study and numerous surveys the Local Planning Commission is ready to offer a number of concrete suggestions and a suggested ordinance to guide and control the future development and expansion of our municipality. This Commission includes the following citizens: James Gidley, Keith Dressel, Clyde Goodman, Helen Shedina, Howard Porter, Lucille Dubas, Obert Burrull, Mrs. Garrison and Robert Campbell. Map preparation and technical details have been under the personal direction of Mr. Martin Frissel, one of the most experienced consultants in the midwest, and as a result of the thorough ground work that has been done we may confidently expect a zoning plan will be presented that is entirely adequate for our present and future needs.

City planning, although not new, is only recently receiving the attention it merits from numerous municipalities—usually after they have run into difficulties. It's value is very obvious when the purposes health, safety, moral and general welfare, safety from fire and panic, provision of adequate light and air, prevention of over crowding of land, provision of adequate transportation, water, sewerage, schools, parks and other public improvements. It is now time that East Jordan gave this development serious consideration.

Hunger May Have Caused Bear To Kill Child In U. P.

Rabies apparently must be written off as an explanation of the killing last week of an upper peninsula child by a black bear. First tests for rabies completed by the state health laboratory were negative; final tests will not be completed until next week.

Dr. S. C. Whitlock, conservation department pathologist who examined the bear, reported the animal was very thin. He found it had been eating grass and ants, and said hunger may have been one of the reasons for its attack.

"Hunger, however, ordinarily does not drive bears to attack humans," Dr. Whitlock said. "This bear was one in a million that went berserk. Ernest Thompson Seton, the banking authority on North American mammals, wrote that he knew of only one authenticated attack of this sort."

Carol Ann Pomerankey, three, was carried from her home in Marquette national forest near Sault Ste. Marie last Wednesday and mauled to death by the black bear. The animal was flown to Lansing for pathological tests.

Farm Safety Week Starts Sunday

ACCIDENTS AND DEATH CAN BE CUT DOWN

Michigan will join the rest of the nation in observing Farm Safety Week, July 25-31.

Fred Roth, farm safety specialist at Michigan State college, says that farm folks have an extra stake in safety precautions. Disabilities resulting from accidents sometimes wipe out a lifetime's work and savings.

Farm Safety Week will highlight the need for cutting the number of farm accidents and preventing thousands of needless deaths and injuries.

In proclaiming the week officially, Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan pointed to the 175 people who were killed accidentally last year on Michigan farms and the hundreds more who were seriously injured and endured suffering.

"The goal of the 1948 observance", Governor Sigler said, "is the elimination of specific farm hazards, and the long-range aim is to make every American farm and every American farm resident as safe as possible."

It is estimated that 30 million safety hazards exist on American farms.

Practicing safety isn't a week-long affair either, Roth points out. He believes that the elimination of unsafe practices and hazards is an activity that the family can take part in 52 weeks a year.

HOW TO LOSE WEIGHT SENSIBLY!

You can—if you follow the helpful suggestions and menu tips in the practical 7-day diet designed for hot weather, a fat-burning diet in The American Weekly, great magazine with this Sunday's (July 25) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. Overweight folks, here comes your opportunity to reduce—SENSIBLY.

SAUGATUCK—Here on Michigan's West Dutch coast, just 12 miles south of tulip-famous Holland, is the artist summer capital of the Middle West.

As you approach the village by automobile on US-31, an illuminated sign welcomes you.

It displays an artist's pallet, bright with colors.

Landscape paintings are on display at village shops. At the Saugatuck Village Hall, whose architectural lines remind you of New England, you are invited to view an exhibit of paintings, 2 to 5 p. m. daily. An artists' ball is held in August.

And yet, apparent as it is that Saugatuck is proud of its artists, the artists themselves are not all happy about Saugatuck's growing prosperity as a summer recreation center.

Garish electric signs tempt tourists to imbibe at cocktail bars. The blare of orchestra music is in the air. Sale of liquor is abnormally brisk at Saugatuck and Douglas. Like the phenomenon noted by a protesting minister at Rose City, popular first stop of northbound hunters and fishermen. Saugatuck is a satisfactory place for city people to relax and unwind.

Vacationers, some of whom arrive in luxurious cruisers, are inclined to imbibe freely. The artists' atmosphere of Bohemian informality lends itself well to laxness of behavior. Sport clothes are the vogue. Mother does not need to dress up. She borrows daughter's blue jeans and joins her offspring in a sidewalk parade. The jeans seem to fit mama more than they should. Daughter rolls up her jeans to the knees. Father's attire would do justice to Bing Crosby in Hollywood. Just about anything goes.

At night the crowds throng the cocktail bars and the Pavilion where dancing and motion pictures are featured. On the sidewalk, if the weather permits, M. Hasselbar, mass production artist, puts on a circus-like act under bright lights. Using a variety of brushes, he rapidly daubs colors upon a canvass.

A sign says: "Direct from artist to you."

Mrs. Walter Davis Elected State Pres.

OF RURAL LETTER CARRIERS ASS'N AT LANSING

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis attended the annual convention of the Michigan Rural Letter Carriers Association and Ladies Auxiliary July 13-14-15 at Lansing. The convention headquarters were in the Old's Hotel. It was the 46th annual meeting of the Rural Carrier's Association and the 23rd annual session of the Auxiliary.

Gov. Kim Sigler addressed both groups Wednesday p. m. at a joint meeting. Preceding his address was a talk by Herbert Borchert of Detroit, representing the Michigan Society of crippled children and adults.

Mrs. Davis had charge of the Ladies Banquet Tuesday evening, July 13. The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce providing the favors for the banquet and the East Jordan Canning Co. donated prizes.

At the final session Mrs. Davis was elected President of the Michigan Auxiliary and is the Michigan delegate at large to the National Convention, August 16-20 at St. Paul Minn. Mr. Davis was also elected one of the delegates from the Rural Carrier's Association.

For several years the Auxiliary has had a cancelled stamp project in their program. A few of the pictures are on exhibition in the Chamber of Commerce window. The one of the Capital at Washington with cherry trees was the state winning picture and was made by a Rural Carrier's wife from Levering. It will be entered in the National contest at St. Paul. These stamp pictures were judged by Art instructors.

Fire Destroys Barn and Cattle on Kenneth Isaman Farm

The barn on the Kenneth Isaman farm south-west of East Jordan in South Arm Twp. was destroyed by fire early Wednesday. The blaze was discovered at midnight, Tuesday, and was well underway at the time. The fire department was called, but too late to be of any assistance.

A small calf, a valuable bull, and the hay crop were also destroyed. The fire is thought to have started from combustion. The barn was partially covered by insurance.

Apple growers of Charlevoix county are warned that the adults of the apple maggot have emerged. This means that the first application for the control should be completed by July 21. Two sprays of lead arsenate, three pounds per per 100 gallons of water, 10 days apart is suggested. Growers should see their spray calendar pages 47 and 48.

Farm Topics

HOLSTEIN PRODUCES OVER 70 POUNDS OF BUTTERFAT:

A Holstein cow owned by the Meadowbrook Farm at Belleair, produced 70.8 pounds of butterfat during June, according to Lee Cook, Supervisor for the Charlevoix, Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement Association. The next highest cow was also a holstein owned by Elias Somerville, it produced 62.8 pounds of butterfat. Versal Crawford owned a guernsey herd of 11 cows that averaged 42.5 pounds of butterfat for the month.

The average production for all cows was 839 pounds of milk. The average returns for $1.00 feed cost was $3.04. The average feed cost per pound of butterfat was 34 cents and per 100 weight of milk was $1.36.

SALT TREATMENT OF FENCE POSTS:

By using a salt treatment on fence posts, it's possible to use many types of trees for posts that you wouldn't normally consider. You can use such trees as aspen, popple, red or black oak, soft maple or even willow.

Three chemicals are recommended for this salt treatment and they are listed in order as to effectiveness: Number one is chromated zinc chloride, number two is ordinary zinc chloride, and number three is copper sulphate of bluestone.

To treat a full length sapling, prepare the solution and place the container near a building or tree so that the saplings can be supported as they stand in the container. Trim the lower branches from the sapling, but leave enough leaves at the top to carry on the process of transpiration. Do the job in spring or summer and on a good sunny day it should take only six to eight hours to treat a full-length sapling.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Arabs and Jews Go Back to War
As U.N. Truce Fails in Palestine;
Truman OKs Farm Price Support

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FAILURE:
U.N. Truce

There was not peace, but once more a sword in Palestine. The United Nations truce had failed. As the four-week interruption of hostilities between Arabs and Jews dragged somberly through its final hours, combatants on both sides were making preparations to resume warfare. They had failed to come to terms, and that failure arose out of the fact that there had existed no political or social basis upon which a peace agreement could be rested, nor were either the Jews or Arabs particularly eager to create one. Their attitude throughout the truce negotiations had been that the contest over whether the state of Israel should be allowed to exist must necessarily be a flat, win-or-lose battle with no middle ground solution possible.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in Palestine, had tried hard, but he had had to carry out his negotiations in what might be termed a spiritual vacuum between the Jews and Arabs. There simply was no meeting of minds upon which he might have capitalized.

Before the truce expired Bernadotte had endeavored to get it extended and continue the negotiations. Israel had agreed to such an extension but the Arab league opposed it.

Previously, during the last days of the truce, the Arabs had rejected a plan submitted by Bernadotte which included an extensive revision of the now defunct U.N. partition scheme.

Bernadotte's proposal would have restored the area of Palestine to what it was before Trans-Jordan was separated from it, and that total area then would have been partitioned into independent Arab and Jewish states.

The plan, as presented, had a ring of desperation in it. It must have been obvious, even to Bernadotte, that the Arabs would not accept such a scheme, particularly since they had violently opposed the original U.N. partition idea.

Trans-Jordan was especially antagonistic to the plan, insisting that it would put the nation under at least partial jurisdiction of the United Nations, thus making it no better than a dependent state.

As Bernadotte and his staff left Palestine guns already were firing and the Holy Land had relapsed into a condition of war.

FARM BILL:
Price Support

To the accompaniment of his now customary blast at the 80th congress President Truman signed into law a farm bill that extends present price support policies for 15 months and establishes a long-range, flexible support program to begin January 1, 1950.

Signing the bill, the President said: "I wish to make it plain once again that legislation for price supports is only part of the action this congress should have taken to meet the problems of American agriculture."

Thus, he was not criticizing the farm price support bill in itself but rather giving another re-run to the familiar theme whereby he has been castigating congress for doing a little when a lot more was needed.

Congress, he said, failed to enact legislation to strengthen the soil conservation program; it did not provide the necessary funds for marketing research; it did not act on the international wheat agreement. "It failed," he specified, "to meet 'the serious problems of rural housing, health and education.'"

"In the field of agriculture, as in so many others, most of the business of the 80th congress was left unfinished," Mr. Truman observed.

Under the extension bill farm prices generally will be supported at their present levels. However, the support price for cotton will drop from 92½ to 90 per cent of parity.

The idea behind parity farm prices is to insure the farmer the same buying power, compared with the rest of the community, that he had during a favorable crop period. Usually the standard interval upon which parity prices are based are the five years from 1909 to 1914.

Five other basic crops will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity. They are wheat, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

Spending Money

As the economic cooperation administration closed its Marshall plan books on the first three months of its operation it reported that recovery shipments worth $762,747,140 were approved for Europe and China during that period.

That total is about 58 per cent of the goal originally set for the quarter, but ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman said the unspent balance would be used eventually.

Stage Manager

Rep. Hugh D. Scott Jr. of Pennsylvania has been chosen by Republican leaders as the national chairman to lead the party in the forthcoming presidential campaign. Scott is 47, a World War II veteran and represents the Germantown-Chestnut Hill district of Philadelphia in the house of representatives.

BERLIN:
Trouble

As U. S. planes continued to fly tons of food into beleaguered Berlin the East-West stalemate over Germany was solidifying in a stubborn mold.

The Russian blockade of Berlin had brought the painful German issue to a head, and both the Soviets and the western powers were anticipating that events might begin to move very rapidly soon.

There were these developments: The Communists announced that they were drawing up a constitution for a German republic and also a two-year plan to link Berlin economically with the Soviet zone.

At the same time, on the free side of the iron curtain, German political leaders were expressing their opposition to the western powers' plans for a West German federal government.

In Berlin, power cuts were ordered in the three western sectors of the city to save the dwindling coal stocks. The action was taken despite the fact that coal shipments had begun to arrive by air.

Key to the situation, perhaps, was the Communist proposal for a new constitution. The Soviet-sponsored German People's Congress of eastern Germany announced that the document would be official. In a statement the group said that "Germany is an indivisible republic made up of states and that executive power stems from the people."

That appeared to bring Soviet intentions more or less out in the open. It means that Russia apparently is determined either to force the western democracies out of Berlin or bludgeon them into an agreement whereby the Soviets would be in virtual control of the city.

REPUBLICAN:
Changes, If

Although the presidency of the United States still is far from a reality for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican nominee nevertheless is giving considerable thought to some of the problems that will face him if he does get elected to the office.

If, for instance, he is to make good his promise to sweep out "18 years of Democratic cobwebs" from the federal government, these are some of the tasks he will be expected to perform:

Replace hundreds of officials in Washington and all over the nation with men of his choice who will put his policies into effect.

Establish with congress a coordinated program of policies for all federal departments, both foreign and domestic.

Streamline government functions and eliminate duplications in the present structure of alphabetical agencies and bureaus.

It will be a gigantic task. Policies that a Republican president would have to establish would range through the current conduct of foreign affairs; domestic spending of taxpayers' money; federal relations with private business, labor and industry; housing, veterans, agriculture and social improvements.

Then there will be the matter of choosing a cabinet that will be geographically representative of the entire nation.

PRICES:
Up Again

Consumer's price index, formerly called the cost of living index, for mid-May this year rose .6 per cent above that for mid-April to reach a new all-time high, according to figures released by National Industrial Conference board.

RAILROADS:
No Strike

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough was not a man to stand idly by and watch society disintegrate, as he termed it, so he issued an injunction forbidding a national rail strike.

The injunction was a permanent one replacing the temporary "no strike" order he issued last May after the government had seized the railroads in the face of an impending strike by the three operating brotherhoods.

Justifying his action, Goldsborough said that if he had not issued the order "the whole economic and political system of the nation would be upset."

Although rail unions had protested that a permanent injunction was unnecessary, Goldsborough said they could not be permitted "to adopt a process which will disintegrate society itself." That held true, he pointed out, regardless of whatever merits the union's case might hold.

"Our political influence throughout the world would be done away with, we'd become a laughing stock. To permit a strike of this kind is something society should not be forced to tolerate."

But as the stalemate dragged on the disputants apparently lost some of their zest for the contest.

Finally a series of conferences, arranged by John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, resulted in a more or less amicable settlement: The unions agreed to accept a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour, plus some changes in operating rules.

Chortled President Truman as he called the labor and management representatives into his office: "You did this on your own hook and I feel very good about it. I congratulate all of you on it."

CYCLES:
Freezing

People who are addicted to the theory that human existence is defined by cycles have made a horrendous prediction: This will be a world of dictators for the next 250 years.

That prognostication was made in a "law of growth of nations," published by the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. This law indicates further that after the period of dictators will come a static or "frozen" civilization.

This "frozen" civilization probably will be a happy one, but it is, nevertheless, doomed to deteriorate. The end is foreseen when younger peoples, eager for the loot of the world, rise to give the coup de grace to the emasculated western powers.

Who these younger peoples are is not revealed. They may be a fresh group of barbarians or near-barbarians who will come sweeping down from the north or up from the south.

Low Finance

In addition to giving Russia a false incentive toward becoming particularly nasty in Berlin, the recent currency revaluation in Germany's western zones caused a certain amount of personal financial confusion also. Cotton is Most Popular Of Mattress Materials

Solid-filled mattresses derive their comfort from the natural resiliency of their filling materials. The greatest percentage of these are filled with cotton. The best ones are filled with long-fibered cotton which has been felted into layers. The cheaper ones—the ones into which short cotton fibers are blown, or the plater mattress which has loose fibers in the center with a few felted cotton layers above and beneath—tend to mat down, developing lumps and depressions.

High quality curled hair makes a good mattress for anyone who prefers a very firm sleep foundation. Horse tail and cattle tail hair are best, with horse mane second. Hog hair is rather stiff and less resilient.

Kapok, which comes from the pod of a tropical tree, makes a soft, light, easy to handle mattress. However, kapok fiber is extremely perishable and there is little demand for kapok mattresses today.

Rubber mattresses are made from the milk of rubber trees which has been whipped into a foam-like substance. Most of them are only four inches thick and require a deeper than standard bedspring. They are expensive and still too new for cumulative consumer reaction to be obtained.

First Bolt Factory Used Bull for Power Source

The main source of power in America's only bolt factory in 1839 was a bull, patiently walking the treadmill which operated the forge bellows. Micah Rugg had invented a machine to help in the manufacture of bolts. It was a crude thing, still involving plenty of hand work, but it was the beginning of a mighty industry in this country.

For some years before 1839, Rugg had been the village blacksmith for Marion, Conn. Using methods handed down through generations, he had made carriage bolts so successfully that he decided to give all his time to their manufacture. He was a shrewd Connecticut Yankee, who realized that he must make in quantities and sell cheaply to be successful, and with this in mind he set about developing his machines. Two heading machines and, a year later, a threading machine crowned his labors.

Fortunately, in Stamford, Conn., was an iron works. It was probably from here that Rugg bought his bars of puddled wrought iron, the only metal considered usable for carriage bolts. It wasn't long before he was making 500 of these fasteners a day.

Aid to Oil and Gasoline

Peak output of gasoline and fuel oil can be maintained by adding antiseptics to the water used in refineries for cooling purposes, it has been reported to American Chemical society. The slime formed by water-borne bacteria in a single month can reduce operating capacity 25 per cent by clogging pipes. Small amounts of chlorine, phenol or other bactericidal chemicals in the water keeps the equipment almost entirely free from choking slime for as long as four months. Bacteria themselves comprise only about 25 per cent of the deposit, the rest consisting of minerals and debris entrapped in the slime. Practical experience indicates that formation of slime can be observed continuously without halting plant operation by checking the cooling efficiency of the water pipes, according to the report.

SCRIPTURE: I Samuel 18-30; 25:16-18; II Samuel 1:1-7; 5:1-7.
DEVOTIONAL READING: I Corinthians 13:1-13.

Jonathan, Loyal Friend
Lesson for July 25, 1948

WE'LL might we term this a lesson on the facets of friendship. Rarely will one come upon such a splendid example of friendship in all literature. Coleridge put it well when he wrote, "Friendship is a sheltering tree." Diogenes Laertius, writing on Aristotle, says, "He was once asked what a friend is, and his answer was, 'One soul abiding in two bodies.'"

Such was the friendship of Jonathan and David—a sheltering tree—one soul abiding in two bodies. Although Jonathan's father attempted at least ten times to kill David, Jonathan was drawn the closer to David, with whose soul his was knit. The record of this friendship is found in our scripture and devotional readings for the lesson, with the golden text from Proverbs 17:17, "A friend loveth at all times."

A PRINCE SHARES WITH A SHEPHERD
JONATHAN was the crown prince apparent. David was a shepherd boy. Saul expected to place Jonathan on the throne. God had selected David. Jonathan would, no doubt, have made a better king than Saul, his father; but he had no desire to be king when he discovered the kingly qualities in his friend, David. Not once did Jonathan ever indicate any disappointment in not becoming king.

JONATHAN STANDS UP FOR HIS FRIEND
WHEN Saul openly plotted the death of David, Jonathan begged his father to reconsider his course and spare the life of the man who had killed Goliath and had proved himself the valiant friend of Saul. This was the final test of Jonathan's sacrificial love for David. He might have remained silent, thus aiding in the death of the one man who stood between him and the throne. But Jonathan was made of the stout texture which counts no sacrifice too dear for a friend. He was willing to stand up and be counted when it meant that he would not become king. Thus we see that true friendship is not always easy. It usually is very costly, but it pays big dividends in the coin of eternal wealth.

FRIENDSHIP THAT COSTS
AND like as Jonathan stood up and witnessed his lasting friendship for David, at a very great cost, so are we today summoned to this ennobling type of friendship for Christ. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you," he once said. Young people find it rather costly to be loyal friends of Christ today. There are many siren voices that invite young people to take the low road—social drinking, gambling devices of one sort and another, satisfaction of sensual desires. But the true friend of Christ will withstand these voices, choosing rather the high road of Christian gentlemen.

SACRIFICIAL FRIENDSHIP
"FRIENDSHIP is the loveliest flower in the garden of humanity," according to my cherished friend, Dr. Hight C. Moore. I would add this thought—true friendship flowers in the garden of humanity, but it finds its life in the Garden of God's Perfect Eden.

I have not known one single friendship that has impressed me that did not stem from above. "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" And the only cement that will hold human hearts together—one soul in two bodies—is the grace of God. "Friendship is as God, who gives and asks no payment," said Richard Hovey, and not until the human will is yielded to the will of God, even as was the will of Jonathan, can sacrificial friendship come to flower and to harvest.

Magic Ministry
A club of ministers who use magic to illustrate religious lessons has been formed under the name of "Magi-Ministers." Most of the members practice amateur magic. One of their favorite tricks is the passing of a handkerchief through a tube marked "Church" which changes its color from black to white, illustrating how a blackened soul may be cleansed of sin.

Don't miss an absorbing new series of true-life dramas starring some of the theater's most colorful personalities. Read "Tragedies of the Stage" in The American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with SUNDAY'S CHICAGO HERALD-AMERICAN.

It's the Children Who Pay With LIVES!

Do you know that almost half of the pedestrians injured in traffic accidents are children? That while only one-sixth of the country's total population is in the 5 to 14 year age group... one out of every three pedestrians injured in traffic is between 5 and 14 years of age? Look at the figures for 1948:

|---|----------------------------|
| In nation-wide motor vehicle accidents— | 1,600 deaths               |
|   | 55,000 injuries            |
|   | Children less than 5 years |
|   | 2,600 deaths               |
|   | 145,000 injuries           |
|   | Children between 5 and 14  |

What is the reason for these appalling figures? What can be done to stop these tragedies? 1. Teach every child the rules of safety — talk safety, and teach by good example. 2. Practice safety every minute—every second of your driving time! Statistics prove that two-thirds of the above figures are a result of children being struck while part of a pedestrian stream of traffic. That is proof of the carelessness of drivers on our highways today! Are you one of those careless drivers? Study the rules of driving safety—follow these rules and your own good common sense. Traffic accident slaughter of children can be reduced — it must be reduced. It's up to you... you... and every driver on the streets and highways of Michigan!

New Chemical Weapons To Combat Weed Pests

Farmers and householders waging war on crab grass and other troublesome weeds and grasses can look for help from two new weapons.

The weed-killing chemicals bear the jaw-breaking names of sodium isopropyl xanthate and allyl mixed chlorophenyl carbonate. They have been tested by federal and state agricultural experiment stations "with excellent results against many weeds and grasses not economically or satisfactorily controlled by other chemicals or practices," the announcement said. They are being used in active experimental programs but are not yet available commercially.

The second-named herbicide is the one that combats crab grass, as well as barnyard, orchard and blue grass, cattails and similar plants. It has a hormone-like action which attacks the root structure of the weed and arrests growth immediately by preventing seed development, even though no effect is apparent on the surface for the first week or longer. It also is used effectively in combination with 2,4-D against some broad-leaved weeds not affected by 2,4-D used alone.

The sodium isopropyl xanthate is described as a "complete killer" which should be applied directly to crop plants. It shows promise for pre-emergence treatment, in spray or dust form, and has been used with success in the chemical weeding of growing crops.

Pig Iron Warrants Used As Trading Commodity

In the early 1900s pig iron was traded as a commodity, like grain, sugar, coffee or cocoa. Trading in warrants on the produce exchange and through brokers entitled the holder to specific quantities of pig iron in storage.

The practice grew out of the financial straits of small merchant blast furnace operators who could not afford to shut down during periods of dull business activity and thus were able to continue operations and secure cash for their output by arranging for issuance of warrants against iron produced.

Under this system the land at the furnace on which the pig iron was stored was leased to a storage company. The latter hired a yardmaster to guard the stores of iron and attend to shipments. The storage company would issue the warrants, usually representing claims against 100 tons or multiples of that amount of the iron in storage. Sale of the warrants to the first purchaser would provide the furnace with needed cash.

Seaweeds Used as Food

Filipinos use a number of seaweeds or algae in their homeland and in Hawaii for food. Some 21 species of edible seaweeds are found around the small islands north of Luzon and also along the coastal region of northern Luzon. The Ilocanos from this region make the greatest use of seaweeds in Hawaii. They do not relish all of those liked by the Hawaiians. They like neither limu nor koku, considered by most Hawaiians to be the finest and most delectable of all. The seaweeds are gathered direct from the rocks on which they grow and, at certain times of the year when the waves break them from their holdfasts and wash them near the shore, they are gathered in great quantities in the shallow water. The carbohydrates of algae are not utilized by man as food but give bulk to the intestinal contents and thus stimulate the normal movements of the digestive tract.

Rockets Aid Telephones

Use of rockets in laying lightweight field telephone wire over inaccessible terrain by means of an improved type wire dispenser has been proven practical by tests of the army signal corps at Fort Dix, N. J. Tests showed that in emergencies the rockets may be fired without use of the rocket launcher. The rocket in its original cardboard packing case is fired from a wedge-shaped hole dug in the ground, laying out the wire satisfactorily to distances up to 50 yards. A distinct advantage of the rocket method of laying wire lies in the simplicity and portability of the equipment required. One man equipped with a wire dispenser, a small field telephone and a rocket can establish wire communication for relatively short distances over rivers, lakes, ravines, cliffs and other formidable obstacles.

Good Year for Many

The year 1947 was the most prosperous peacetime year in history. This is especially interesting in view of numerous early predictions that a business recession was imminent, point out business research workers at University of Illinois. Reasons why the recession did not materialize included: short crops in both Europe and the United States, and resulting higher food prices; exports higher than expected; the backlog of demand proving larger than was anticipated, with bottlenecks preventing production of many commodities from meeting demands; increase in consumer credit and bank loans to individuals, and increased wages to coal miners leading to price increases in coal, steel and automobiles adding impetus to inflation.

DEMOCRATIC CHALLENGE

Truman, Barkley Head Ticket

By WALTER A. SHEAD

WNU Washington Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, PA.—In a thrill-packed convention, probably the most dramatic in modern political history, President Harry S. Truman was nominated for a full term for the presidency and the veteran Senator, Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, was named his running mate to head the Democratic ticket for the 1948 campaign.

And to feed the flames of a bedlam-rocked convention hall, the President broke all precedents and threw down the gauntlet to the Republicans by literally daring them to carry out their platform pledges at a special session of the Congress which he said he would call July 26.

While sweltering delegates who had battled each other throughout a day in which irate southerners had staged an open revolt against the civil rights plank of the platform, cheered themselves hoarse, the President openly challenged his Republican opponents in a ringing declaration of war.

Let's see if their platform means anything. If it does then we can get some action in 15 days.

The President's spirited and bristling speech of acceptance topped and threw into the background events which at any other convention would have been top news—the walk-out of the Mississippi delegation—the threat of a rump southern convention at Birmingham—the spanking of the southerners who were given a sound drubbing when they sought to challenge the report of the platform committee and the delegates by overwhelming vote adopted a more drastic civil rights plank.

Checking off the promises of the GOP platform on domestic issues, the President, in a fighting mood which swept the delegates and galleries in rafter-rocking applause, declared he had time after time asked the Republican-controlled 80th Congress for action on the very pledges made in their platform. But they won't set away with promises, he told the packed convention hall.

He said that he would demand that the special session of the congress take action to halt high prices to aid education, a national health law, civil rights, increase in minimum wages, extension of social security, funds for public power and cheap electricity, an adequate displaced persons' law to substitute for "the anti-semitic and the anti-catholic law they provided" in the 80th Congress.

The dramatic climax of the convention overshadowed the fight for the presidential nomination which became a rout when the southerners switched from Governor Ben Laney, of Arkansas, their announced candidate, to Senator Richard B. Russell, of Georgia. The only ballot vote was 263 for Russell and 947 1/2 for Mr. Truman.

One highlight of the convention was the platform fight on the floor over the civil rights program. Southern delegates led by Gov. Dan Moody, of Texas, offered a minority report to the platform committee report containing a states rights program to supplement the civil rights plank adopted by the committee. Not only did the convention snow under this southern states offering by a vote of 925 to 309, but the convention then immediately adopted a minority report offered by the California, Wisconsin and Minnesota delegations spearheaded by Mayor Hubert J. Humphrey, of Minneapolis.

This plank paid high tribute to President Truman for his civil rights stand and called upon the congress to support the President in (1) the right to full and equal political participation; (2) right to equal opportunity of employment; (3) the right of security of person and (4) the right of equal treatment in the service and defense of our nation. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 651 1/2 to 582 1/2. The vote does not indicate relative strength of the opposing forces since many states voted against the resolution merely to uphold the resolutions committee which had adopted a compromise plank on civil rights.

Convention Briefs

PUMMELING HOME HER charge that Republicans were responsible for high prices, Mrs. India Edwards, director of the Democrats Women's Division of the National committee, waved a juicy, raw T-bone steak above her head as she addressed the delegates. She said the steak cost her $1.10 a pound at a Philadelphia butcher shop. Other women speakers highlighted the high cost of house-keeping because of inflated prices.

The platform differs from the Republican platform in some essentials—it demands repeal of the Republican Taft-Hartley labor act and declares it has proven a failure; it demands repeal of the discriminatory taxes on oleomargarine; it pledges to oppose any revision of federal laws "designed to curtail the most effective functioning of farm cooperatives." This is interpreted to mean the party goes on record against change of the tax-exempt status of farm cooperatives. As a matter of fact the platform supports all forms of cooperatives and "other democratic associations for the purpose of carrying out any proper business operations free from any arbitrary and discriminatory restrictions."

The foreign policy plank pledged continued support of the Truman doctrine, the Marshall plan, the United Nations, the Good Neighbor Policy with respect to South America; and, taking a slap at the Republicans, pledged sufficient appropriations to carry out the will of the congress on its foreign commitments.

Truman's Opposition Lacked Leadership

In the hectic days prior to the roll call of states, the revolt against the nomination of President Truman, followed much the same pattern that was evident in the Republican convention held in the same hall only a few short weeks before. . . the opponents of the President could settle on no single leader to make the race.

So it was in the GOP convention. . . opponents of Governor Dewey could settle on no concentrated opposition. So the President ran away with the nomination on the first ballot as Dewey did on the third.

While many of the faces of bygone glory were at Philadelphia and the ghost of Franklin D. Roosevelt still hovered over the conglomeration of factions which always has made up the Democratic party, there was no single leader able to cement these factions into unity as Roosevelt and his brain-trusters did through four national conventions, one of them here at Philadelphia in 1936.

While some sources sought to interpret this factionalism in the convention as a "wake" or a "breaking up" of the party, the political history indicates there has always been such factionalism in Democratic conventions. This factionalism or sectionalism has been brought about by geographical and political philosophy factors. . . the south, the liberal element, labor, even religion and race.

As a matter of fact in only three conventions since the civil war has this factionalism been brought together with any degree of national unity. . . the 1884 Chicago convention which first nominated Cleveland; the 1912 convention at Baltimore which nominated Wilson and the 1932 Chicago convention which first nominated Roosevelt. In all three the cement of unity was a national crisis.

A great many of the delegates believed the nation again faces a major crisis. . . that any day some incident may touch off World War III. Hence they sought Gen. Eisenhower as a national leader who could weld the party into unity. Eisenhower refused. Then they turned to the liberal and New Dealer Justice William O. Douglas. He refused. Then in attempting to center on someone else revolters could find no one.

Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, one of the better known liberals, put himself forward. But the big states—California, New York, Illinois refused to take him and swung back into the Truman column after James Roosevelt, son of the late President, had been severely chastised by his own California delegation.

The south wouldn't accept Pepper's liberalism. So, Gov. Ben T. Laney, of Arkansas, was tossed into the ring by conservative and reactionary southerners who put states rights above civil rights. Party caucuses were bitter.

Barkley's Keynote Sparked Enthusiasm

The delegates were whipped into something like old-fashioned "democracy" when Barkley delivered his blistering, fighting keynote speech. The veteran Kentuckian was given a 28-minute demonstration. These delegates were just waiting for something to cheer over, to lift the morale from the bitter depths of factionalism and Barkley gave it to them. He speeded up the tempo of the convention so that by the third day there was some evidence of the will to win and to fight for the nominee of the convention.

So the pattern of this 29th quadrennial convention of the Democratic party was set with the goal of whipping into being enough unity to convince the American people the nation faces a new crisis with national security even more important than domestic issues and that a cohesion of the Democrats, the liberals and the independents is again necessary for the common welfare. Democrats have never won an election except on that issue. . . that and the record of the 80th Congress will be the issue on which they must pin their hopes in 1948.

Due to the absence of competing downtown headquarters at the various hotels, such as was the case in the Republican convention, there was not quite the activity and enthusiasm engendered among delegates at this convention. Aside from this fact however, the convention hall pageantry was just as hectic and inn all probability these Democratic delegates wanting desperately something to cheer about, cheered at the louder for their speakers and the demonstrations were just as vigorous and noisome as the Republican convention held here such a short time previous.

Comparatively, the convention set-up was identical. Some of the state delegations had been changed around to give the more favored Democratic states better positions with regard to the speaker's podium.

DEMOCRATS SAY REPUBLICANS put 'em up to it. Maybe it was because convention goers will buy almost anything. But vendors were offering buttons reading "draft Pershing."

LESLIE BIFFLE, the sergeant-at-arms, had strict orders to keep folks out who didn't have the proper credentials. But the guards were locked out of their own dressing room at convention hall one session when the lock jammed.

Invitation to 44 boys and girls of Antrim County have been extended through the County Agricultural Agent's office to attend the annual state summer 4-H Club camp to be held at Gaylord July 26 to 30. KILL GRASSHOPPERS WITH SPRAY

The use of a chlordane spray to kill grasshoppers is proving very effective, says Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

Chlordane is a new compound that is being used by a number of companies and available under various trade names. It is used at the rate of two pounds per hundred gallons of water and sprayed 100 gallons per acre. Farmers with pressure potato or orchard sprayers find this a very fast and effective way to cover large areas. It will remain effective for several weeks. This new type of poison should not be sprayed on hay fields or pasture fields that are being grazed or hay to be cut for feed soon. A period of two weeks should elapse between the time of application and feeding.

PRESERVE FENCE POSTS WITH SALT TREATMENT

By using a salt treatment on fence posts, it's possible to use many types of trees for posts that you wouldn't normally consider. Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent says you can use such trees as aspen, popple, red or black oak, elm, soft-maple, or even willow.

Mr. Kirkpatrick recommends three chemicals for this salt treatment and lists them in order as to effectiveness: Number one is chromated zinc chloride, number two is ordinary zinc chloride, and number three is copper sulphate or bluestone.

To treat a full length sapling, prepare the solution and place the container near a building or tree so that the sapling can be supported as they stand in the container. Trim the lower branches from the sapling, but leave enough leaves at the top to carry on the process of transpiration. Do the job in spring or summer and on a good sunny day it should take only six hours to treat a full length sapling.

QUEEN CONTEST FOR NORTHERN MICHIGAN PICNIC

A queen contest is being sponsored by the County Junior Farm Bureau's to be climaxed as part of the Barbecue Program activities in Gaylord August 10.

The County Junior Farm Bureau's are now staging county elimination contest to be completed about July 30. Each county will be entitled to one entry in the District contest at Gaylord August 10. The juniors are to hold an all-out party by July 25 for the selection of the County Queen.

The judging will be done on a basis of the contestants general appearance and bearing, activity interests such as: Junior F. B., 4-H, leadership ability and special talents. A report sheet is to be used in the County and district judges. Any other information that can be secured by the contestant as to her talents and abilities will help the district judges.

Any girl member of a local Junior F. B. between the ages of 15 and 24 years may compete.

All county winners are to be in Gaylord early in the forenoon of August 10 for the judging. The final winner must be selected before noon that day. The runner up contestants will be a Court of Honor in the crowning event. Marshall Wells of W. J. R. will crown the queen and present her with a very fine life time Shafer Threesome pen and pencil set that is now on exhibition at Nelsons Drug Store in Gaylord.

Ray McMullen, County Agricultural Agent, Gaylord Barbecue Chairman says that a great deal of interest is developing for this big event.

It is possible that this will develop into a real annual event for Northern Michigan and will help to attract much attention to the beauties and resources of this region.

YOUTH STUDY SOIL CONSERVATION

Youths in the Antrim Soil Conservation District have been studying the supervision of the Directors this past month. Each director has taken groups on farm tours where soil conservation practices have been established, explanation of the practice and reason for establishment was explained. After gathering this information each one in the group was asked to participate in an essay contest by writing their observation of the tour. Two groups participated, one at Mancelona under the direction of Director Gerald Biehl and one at Elmira under the direction of Director Chales Stanek. Placings in the contest were as follows:

Jo Anne Bulla, Mancelona, first prize $5.00, Ruth Allen, Elmira, second place, $3.00. Helen Moore, Mancelona; Susan Marker, Elmira and Casimer Marker, Elmira, honorable mention, $1.00 each.
