MANY ATTEND TERRACING DEMONSTRATION

Terracing was accomplished with the use of a Disc Terracer or Disc Plow furnished by Cooper Klooster of Atwood. The disc plow is a new farm machine in Northern Michigan. Its operation was very efficient and effective. Many farmers expressed the belief that there is a very definite place for such a tool on many farms.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN BEEF SALE, OCTOBER 14

The third annual Northern Michigan Beef Feeder's Sale will be held at Gaylord, Thursday October 14, according to Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

Breeders of beef cattle in Artrim County desiring to sell feeder animals at this sale are urged to send in their application for consignment. Blanks can be obtained at the County Agents office.

Farmers desiring to buy feeders for winter feeding are urged to keep the October 14 date in mind. Well bred, northern grown beef animals will make unusually good gains and good profits for farmers having sufficient feed.

Vern White of Elk Rapids purchased three pens of twenty five head at last years sale. Vern reports excellent gains and is looking forward to further purchases at this years sale.

"Healing the Mind with Surgery" — New type of brain surgery, a 10-minute operation on the lobes of the brain is described by G. B. Lal. This operation particularly recommended for insanity or behavior disorders of less than a year is described in The American Weekly, the great magazine distributed with Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

Have Purchased Frank J. Brown Estate

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Whitmore of Lansing have purchased the Frank J. Brown estate on highway M-66 about five miles from East Jordan and plan to make it their permanent home. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left last week end for their Florida home near Lake Worth.

Mr. Whitmore is associated with his father, Roger L. Austin in the operation of Austmore Farms southeast of here. Approximately 12 acres of cleared land at the Brown estate has been planted to fruit and is irrigated.

The Whitmores have two daughters, Sharon Marie and Ann Charlene, who will attend school here.

Chamber of Commerce Next Tuesday

There will be a Chamber of Commerce meeting at the City Council room in the city building - next Tuesday evening, Sept. 21st at 7:30 P.M. Several matters will be discussed at that time and each will be of special interest to the members. It is hoped that all who can possibly make it will be present.

Mail to Leave Postoffice Earlier

Vocational Rehabilitation Will Sponsor Speech and Hearing Institute

The Traverse City District Office of the State Board of Control for Vocational Rehabilitation will sponsor a Speech and Hearing Institute October 13th and 14th at the Bingham School in Alpena.

Anyone having any kind of a speech difficulty, a cleft palate, or who is either deaf or hard of hearing is eligible to attend. (Those who have hearing aids and do not find them satisfactory may also attend.) You must however, provide your own transportation. Speech and hearing specialists from the University of Michigan Hospital will be there to give proper diagnoses and recommendations for treatment. Vocational Rehabilitation will follow up the recommendations providing speech training, hearing aids, and treatment where necessary.

A physical examination is required in order that the specialists may better know the general medical condition of those attending. Vocational Rehabilitation will pay for these medical examinations if you are unable to do so. You may secure the medical forms from your county nurse, and if you live in Alpena, you may secure them also from Mr. Stanley Van Lare, Vocational Guidance Counselor at the High School. If you are not able to contact your county nurse, write directly to the District Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, 130 West Front Street, Traverse City, and a medical form will be sent you.

We would like all such requests by October 1, 1948, so that appointments can be made. You will be notified of the time of your appointment.

The Institute is an unusual opportunity and service being offered, and it is hoped that everyone needing such service will take advantage of it.

Pelicans Visit Michigan

A squad of white pelicans, seldom seen in Michigan, has apparently made the Pointe Mouillee, near Trenton, marshes, its stamping ground for the season.

Conservation department biologists at the southeastern Michigan game area report observing a dozen of the large birds on one occasion and a smaller group later.

The bird is rarely found in any of the northeastern states, although early records show that white pelicans have been reported in the state in a few instances.

The pelican is almost entirely white and may be distinguished by black tips on the wings, which reach a spread of 8 to 10 feet.

Below its long bill, the bird has an elastic skin pouch in which it stores minnows and small fish, its principal items of diet.

There will be a family get-together at the Methodist Church Wednesday Sept. 22, with a pot luck supper at 6:30 o'clock. This will include a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. Jess Robinson and family who have sold their home and will be leaving the city in the very near future. Friends are invited.

Rotary Club Welcomed District Governor

The Rotary Club of East Jordan, at its last regular meeting, welcomed Guy W. Correct Cooling Needed to Assure Quality of Eggs

The quality of eggs depends greatly on how quickly they are cooled after they are laid, reports J. M. Moore, extension poultryman at Michigan State College.

He points out that consumer interest in eggs centers on quality. USDA poultry specialists estimate that five eggs out of each 100 produced become unfit for food as a result of quality deterioration or other causes. This five percent loss has taken an annual toll of more than 235,000,000 dozen eggs in the past five years.

Farmers are urged to collect eggs from nests at least three times each day—10 a.m., Noon, and 5 p.m. Less frequent collection not only delays proper cooling of the eggs but also results in a partly cooled egg being left in a nest to be re-warmed by other hens using the same nest. In very hot weather, eggs should be gathered every two hours in the morning and twice in the afternoon.

Eggs should be collected in wire baskets which permits the free circulation of air around every egg. This is impossible when pails, boxes, or woven baskets are used. They should be placed on a wire tray and put in the cellar immediately after collecting. Because eggs absorb odors quickly they should not be kept in places where there are strong odors such as those of onions, lemons, kerosene, or mustiness.

Eggs should be fully cooled before they are placed in egg cases since there is not sufficient air circulation in the cases to allow eggs to cool properly, Moore concludes.

If some one calls you a snake — coil up and strike him.

Deming — Sloop

The double ring ceremony uniting Eleanor Joan Deming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Towns of Boyne City, and Ray Henry Sloop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sloop of this city, in marriage, was performed Saturday at 4:00 o'clock, at the Methodist Church in Boyne City, by Rev. Henry Clay Alexander.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ron Deming. Her gown was of candlelight satin and was designed with drop shoulder neckline, long pointed sleeves and full skirt ending in a long train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a tulle and orange blossom coronet and she carried a colonial bouquet of glomelias.

Florence Deming was her sister's maid of honor. Ruth Sloop, Edith Brooks and Barbara Deming were junior bridesmaids. The attendants gowns were fall shades of moss green, gold, blue and rose. All wore horsehair headpieces and veils of contrasting colors and carried colonial bouquets. Caren Jay Deming, daughter of Mrs. Willetta Deming, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a floor length pink taffeta dress and veil similar to the bridesmaid and carried a hand crocheted basket. Ralph Sloop was his brother's best man and ushers were Russell Brown, Albert and Calvin Deming. The rings were carried on a satin pillow by Richard Sloop, brother of the groom.

The solos, "I love you truly" and "Because" were sung by Betty LaLonde of Boyne City accompanied by Sally McNeil also of Boyne City. The church was decorated with large baskets of gladioli, fall flowers and ferns.

A reception for 125 was held in the parlors of the church.

The brides mother wore a grey dress with green accessories and the bridegroom's mother chose black and white sheer and both corsages were glamelias.

The couple left for a trip through Northern Michigan. For going away the bride wore a grey checked suit with green accessories.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Deming and sons Ralph and Ronnie of Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Palmore and daughter of Detroit; Mrs. Willetta Deming and daughter, Mrs. Olga Wylie, Mr. Eugene Wylie, Mr. and Mrs. Don Reich, Dearborn; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrison of Indiana; Mrs. Albert Tomlin, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tomlin and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cox, all of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brown and son of Roseville; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gilkerson, Owosso; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Archer and sons of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilkerson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gilkerson, Ellsworth; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zitka and family, Norman Sloop, John W. Valencourt, Gale Murphy, Roy Sloop and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sloop and family of East Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloop, Boyne City.

ADVISES ON CHOOSING FALL COAT FASHIONS

In choosing your new fall coat style this year, remember it's the silhouette that counts. If you're wondering about the full flaring backs of last season—they're still fashion's first choice.

Best news about the flaring backs, believes Marjorie Eastman, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State College, is that they are somewhat less extreme and more wearable. They have a slimmer look, due to smooth-fitting shoulders and controlled fullness.

In the moderate price range fashion favors the casual boxy coat. This is cut with a yoke and deep inverted pleat for back fullness. It gives a somewhat straighter effect than last year's full flare which started at the shoulders.

Some of these new boxy coats are sold with an extra belt of fabric or leather, so you can make your own silhouette—straight or fitted. This type of coat usually has a large collar. Sleeves are set in with a smaller shoulder pad than used last year. Zip-in linings will continue to be good.

Although the big coat, generously cut, is in first place, you may expect to find fitted coats also, especially in higher price brackets. One popular model is cut on princess lines, with small fur collar and narrow rounded shoulders.

Nearly complete returns from the 29th district gave Andrews a lead of 2,426 votes over Bishop. These unofficial returns gave Andrews 7,705 and Bishop 5,279.

Migraine — Malady of the Emotions

Scientists find deliberately suppressed or unconscious feeling of anger is a basic cause of migraine headaches. How science is straightening out these mental twists to bring relief to migraine sufferers, is described in "Migraine - Malady of Emotions", in The American Weekly, great magazine with this Sunday's (Sept. 19) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 19:23-41
DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 15:1-10

For a Better City

Lesson for September 19, 1948

"FOR A BETTER CITY" is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it. If the great city of Ephesus, capital and metropolis of the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of the Roman Empire, had had a chamber of commerce, no doubt they would all have been in favor of a Better City. There would be no argument about that. The question is: What makes a city better? Four different ideas on that line—two very bad ones and two good ones—can be seen in the story of Acts 19.

Dr. Foreman

You should read the story itself before looking over these comments. Because we are beginning toward the end of the story, with the very lowest and silliest of the four ideas how to make a city better. It is a very simple idea: Just "holler," yell, make a demonstration. Make it long, make it loud, and the city will be the better for it. For two mortal hours that absurd mass-meeting kept the uproar going: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

A curious thing, the mob-mind. If something is true, how can noise make it truer? If a thing is a lie, how can all the shouting in the world make it respectable? But the mob-mind thinks that if a thing is said loudly enough and by enough people, it is bound to be true. So that theater-full of fools wasted a good afternoon shouting a lie into the deaf blue heavens. It did Diana no good. She was as dead as Marley's ghost, she had never lived, in fact. It was no use drumming up the decibels. Do you know people who think they can make your town better by shouting about it? It won't work. You can make a town or county famous if you shout long enough; but you won't make it better.

Making Money
THE SILVERSMITHS there in Ephesus had another theory. The way they looked at it, the big thing is money. They used to make money selling their little silver shrines. Now this fellow Paul had come along, persuading people that hand-made gods are no gods at all, and the trade in "sacred" trinkets had fallen off. It looked like a bad year for the silversmiths. To make things better, they decided, they needed more money. More business! More production! The fact that what they produced was not only worthless but actually harmful, did not seem to bother them. Do you know people like that today?

Abiding By the Law
THE TOWN CLERK of Ephesus had a simple idea, vastly better than these other two. He saw no sense in the mass meeting, he seems not to have been taken in by the silversmiths' crocodile tears. If anything was wrong in Ephesus, he said, the courts were open, and trials were open, and trials could be held. We have laws—let us live by them; that was the gist of his idea. That is not bad advice. All honor to the honest servants of the public who now as then give their best efforts to seeing that good laws are made and well enforced.

Changing Lives
SPEAKING OF LAWS, there are three kinds of people in the world. One kind will not obey the laws whatever they are. These are the criminal classes. A second kind stay "inside the law" but they never advance a step beyond them. A third kind, too rare, will go far beyond the law's requirements in personal living and in social helpfulness. Now Paul had been in the city of Ephesus for some months, and he had nothing to do with the laws of that city. Yet what he was doing was more effective in making that city better than anything the courts could have done. For what he was doing was nothing less than changing lives. "The trouble with people is that they're people," and the business of Christianity first of all is changing people. It is no use hanging out the slogan "For a Better City" unless you are working for better people. A tree is no healthier than its roots, and a community's roots are the characters of her people. And from St. Paul's day to this, the one and only organization which sets out to change people from the inside, is the Christian church.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

South Receives Wallace With Fury;
CIO Pledges to Support President;
Berlin Meetings May End Stalemate

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

WALLACE:
Pure Hate

Henry Wallace claimed that his expansive love for his fellow men had not been diminished by his experiences in the South, but it stood as a fact that the ramparts of that abiding affection must have undergone a severe test.

As the Progressive party's presidential candidate Wallace had gallantly penetrated into the southern states to bring them his brand of enlightenment.

But the crusader was not appreciated. He was received in North Carolina by hostile audiences who showered him with invective, vilification, eggs and tomatoes.

His speeches were blanketed out by boos and catcalls in Winston-Salem, Durham, Burlington, Greensboro and Charlotte, N. C. Wallace was stunned with unbelief at what was happening to him.

In Burlington, where the full force of North Carolina's vituperative mood was unleashed, the former vice president was not even given a chance to talk. He was unable to do anything except dodge missiles and plead with the furious citizens closest to him that things like this were not supposed to happen in the United States.

It was an ugly display of bad taste that spread hysterically from town to town as Wallace's tour progressed. The egg and tomato tossing was severely criticized by top U. S. officials, including President Truman who called it "highly un-American business," and said: "Mr. Wallace is entitled to say his piece the same as any other American."

Nevertheless, in North Carolina Wallace's say was confined for the most part to protestations against the treatment he was receiving. At Greensboro, with egg shells clinging to his head, he shouted:

"I don't mind being hit by eggs and tomatoes, but they would be more useful being fed to children."

"The faces I have seen distorted by hatred are of people for whom I have in my heart profound compassion, because most of them have not enough to eat."

The crowd laughed at him. And as Wallace left North Carolina to head into Alabama and Mississippi it looked as though he might be able to use some "profound compassion" for himself, for his racial views are opposed even more violently in those states.

BACKING:

For Truman

As the two major presidential candidates prepared to swing their campaigns into full career in preparation for the November elections, some good news popped up for President Truman.

The CIO officially threw its support to the Democratic ticket and pledged the organization to work for his election.

That was the way the CIO had written itself on the political books this year, but the action left the organization simmering with internal discord.

Bitter protests of 12 left-wing union leaders had had to be overcome before the CIO could cast its lot with Truman and Barkley. The dissenting unions wanted to support Wallace, and they had their way insofar as the resolution adopted by the group was easy in its criticism of the Progressive party's candidate.

GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey, however, was condemned as "the candidate of big business." The Dixiecrats, headed by Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, were shrugged off in the resolution as a coalition of Democrats and "do-nothing Republicans" that has "steadfastly adhered to the philosophy of the National Association of Manufacturers."

The pro-Truman resolution by the CIO executive board did not necessarily mean total support for the President, however. Philip Murray, CIO president, said that the 12 dissenting unions are not bound by the majority decision to back Mr. Truman.

"Any union still may exercise its right to do what it wants," he said.

That meant, apparently, that the leadership of at least 12 CIO unions, numbering more than a million members, would continue to labor in behalf of Wallace, while 30 other unions with about 5.5 million members would go to work for the Democratic party.

NO RELIEF TOMORROW

High Cost of Living Stays and Stays

Here's that same old news again: There is no immediate relief from the high cost of living in sight, and it probably will continue to creep upwards throughout the election campaign this fall.

Economists of the labor, commerce and agriculture departments concur in the prediction that no break in prices is likely to come about before the November 2 elec-

Crowd Fury

Henry Wallace, Progressive party candidate for President, has discovered that the penalty for espousing political ideas that differ sharply from the majority opinion is hatred. Speaking at Greensboro, N. C., he was pelted with eggs and vegetables—which probably is just another form of freedom of expression.

BERLIN:

Some Talk

That sound of sabers rattling in Berlin meant this time that the disputants in the fight over control of the German capital were merely laying down their swords to get together and talk about it once more.

Tension lifted almost visibly when the Big Four military governors of Germany met for the first time in more than five months to discuss a single currency for Berlin and the lifting of the Soviet blockade of the city.

The meeting was called in the first place to implement decisions reached by the American, British and French ambassadors with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. At least the Moscow talks had accomplished that much.

Topping the list of items for discussion was the problem of what to do about the rival currencies in Berlin. At present both eastern and western zone marks are circulating in the city.

It was understood that the conferees in Moscow previously had agreed in principle that only the Soviet zone mark should circulate in Berlin, but that it should be under four-power control.

There were still conflicting attitudes as to what course the Berlin parley should take, however.

The Russians believed that an agreement on getting a single currency must be worked out before any final East-West agreement on Berlin can be possible.

In Washington the U. S. state department, backed by Great Britain and France, was insisting that the Soviets must lift the Berlin blockade before any discussion of the currency problem is held.

The whole situation was extremely complex and, actually, few persons outside of high official circles made any pretense of being able to understand it fully.

About as far as general understanding of the subject went, it was limited to the realization that unless an agreement were reached soon the tortured peace would become more dangerously strained.

Headliners

IN GARLAND, TEX. . . . A campaign-minded hatmaker was offering edible candy headgear (above) for reckless election bettors who vow to eat their hats if their candidate loses.

IN ROCHESTER, N. H. . . . Raymond Beaulieu, fined $73 in municipal court for operating an unregistered automobile, sold his car to raise money to pay the fine.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. . . . Robert H. Smith was granted a divorce when he testified that his wife, enraged because he didn't know how to dance the polka, slapped and kicked him until his weight dropped from 165 pounds to 140.

GREEK CRISIS:

Relieved

Few U. S. forays into the field of international aid have been so widely condemned and excoriated as the so-called "Truman doctrine" for economic help to Greece and Turkey.

Almost since its inception the "Truman doctrine" has been denounced as a fraud, a farce and a flop. Much of the denunciation, however, seemed to be based on opinion rather than fact. Actually, for a long time it was almost impossible to assess the condition of the Greek aid program.

Now the government has come out with a report to congress that states bluntly that American military and economic aid has removed the danger of Greece falling to Communism.

"While not all the problems in Greece are solved, the crisis of 18 months ago has been averted," one official said. "The aid program in Greece is over the hump."

The report, submitted by President Truman and covering the first year of American efforts to keep Greece free, embodied virtually the first optimism anyone has expressed regarding the picture in Greece.

So far does this optimism extend that Greece now is accepted officially as the "bright spot" in American attempts to help other nations resist the onslaughts of Communism. In Asia and other European countries the anti-Communist battle is not considered won.

Government emphasis, of course, is on the fact that the task in Greece still is not done. Between 15,000 and 17,000 Greek guerrillas remain at large despite recent successes by government forces. And guerrilla action may continue for several years, depending on the amount of aid received by the rebels from Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Briefly, the official success story of the Greek effort claims that the nation's wild inflation has been resisted, the cost of living is dropping, about 1,000 miles of key roads have been reconstructed and the vital Corinth canal is open to traffic.

Love in Bloom?

British tongues and heartstrings are vibrating with rumors of a romantic association (that's what it is when royalty is involved) between Princess Margaret Rose, youngest daughter of the king and queen, and the marquis of Blandford, a fair-haired young nobleman. Her parents have yet to pass judgment on him, however.

DEATH CAME:

Charles E. Hughes

Regally bearded Charles Evans Hughes came within a whisker of being elected the 27th President of the United States in 1916.

At that time he was a crusty, unbending, academic man, and it was probably because of that temperament that he lost the presidential race to Woodrow Wilson in one of the closest elections in history—277 electoral votes to 254.

California's vote was the deciding factor in the final result and Hughes lost that when he incensed the California governor by failing to visit him while on a tour of the state.

But Charles E. Hughes was, nevertheless, as near to being a great man as most people ever get. And he mellowed with time.

He was the only American ever to be appointed twice to the U. S. supreme court—once in 1910 and again in 1930 when he returned to preside as chief justice.

He was twice governor of New York, his native state, resigning the position during his second term to become a supreme court associate justice.

In July, 1941, he retired from the supreme bench to withdraw into private life. Between that time and August of this year he made only one public appearance—to attend the funeral services of Harlan Fiske Stone, another chief justice, in April, 1946.

Timber Top

Lumber production in the U. S. this year probably will exceed the 1947 output by at least 5 per cent, the commerce department has estimated.

The department's lumber survey committee reported that this level would be attained if there is no slackening of demand. Lumber currently is flowing to markets in ample quantity to supply the record-breaking construction activity.

Wrong Line

AMY was one of the most popular girls in town, and when she married, the church was crowded. After the ceremony, friends rushed to kiss the bride. After half an hour the breathless girl looked puzzled and, gazing down at one little man, she said: "I don't know you. Why are you kissing me?"
The little man scratched his head. "I dunno, lady. When I joined the line outside I understood it was for razor blades."

EDUCATION DOESN'T SMELL

Johnny came home from school with a note from his teacher, which read: "Please give Johnny a bath. He smells bad."
Johnny's mother sent a note to the teacher saying: "Johnny ain't no rose. Learn him, don't smell him."

Thrifty Tommy

The piano teacher was expected any minute, and Tommy was preparing to take his lesson.
"Did you wash your hands?" inquired his mother.
"Yes."
"And your face?"
"Yes, mother."
"And did you wash behind your ears?"
"On her side, I did, mother."

Mrs. Briggs: "Did you catch your husband flirting?"
Mrs. Jiggs: "Yes, just once."

SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING

"Now, look," said the blacksmith. "I'll get the shoe from the fire and place it on the anvil, like this. When I nod my head, you hit it with the hammer."

The assistant followed his instructions perfectly, but now he's looking for a new job.

Reserved Seats

She was sitting on the aisle seat in a movie one night very interested in the picture, when suddenly a fat man and his wife interrupted by saying, "Excuse me," and squeezed past her into the aisle, stepping on her toe as he passed.

The distracted movie fan sat down again, forgetting it immediately, and became absorbed once more in the picture. After a few minutes, the same voice interrupted again.

"Excuse me, lady, but wasn't it your foot I stepped on a few moments ago?" he asked.

"Yes, it was," she answered a little amazed, "but that's all right."
"Thank you, m'am," said the man as he turned and signaled to a woman some distance behind him. "Come on, dear, this is our row."

ACCURATE REPORTING

The state editor of a Detroit paper was nursing along a particularly obtuse correspondent who frequently forgot essential details in the stories he filed. One time he warned the outstater very sharply to get names in his dispatches.

A couple of days later the correspondent filed this:
"Climax, Mich., July 10—Due to possibility of there being rabies spread in this town, our police force has rounded up four dogs recently. Their names are Towser, Rover, Fido and Prince."

Jet Carriers

American Sailor: "We never time them. We just require them to keep up with their planes."

A New Nation

"And what is the name of your country?" was the next question.
"Tis of Thee."

Too many people make life an intermission instead of a mission.

East Tawas — Joseph Valinto, government forest engineer of Czechoslovakia, shook his head. He had been traveling about the United States and had just arrived in East Tawas for a visit at headquarters of the Huron National Forest.

"You Americans are so wasteful," he said. "I cannot understand it. Over in Czechoslovakia we try to plant trees as we cut them. We do not let any part of the tree go to waste. Even small sticks are gathered as faggots to burn in stoves. But in this country — it seems such a pity. You Americans waste so much."

Franson related it to us when we dropped in for a chat. The chat ended up in a day's inspection tour of the 450,000 acres of federal forests under his wing. After getting a close-up of what Uncle Sam is doing to rebuild our vanishing forests, we were both worried over the future and somewhat reassured. It's hard to explain.

Here's a fast picture, as we got it. The United States is rapidly becoming a have-not nation in natural resources.

According to the last annual report of the Forest Service, the nation's woodpile has been reduced 44 per cent in the past 36 years. And listen to this: The annual drain on the nation's forest approximates 54 billion board feet, while the annual growth is only 35 billion board feet. The annual loss is greater than annual growth by more than 50 per cent!

"I believe there is a change of national thinking about our natural resources," commented Franson. He is a career man in federal forest work; a native of Boston who went to the University of Michigan. Congress increased funds this year for tree planting, and as a result 12,000 acres of trees are to be planted in Michigan. Crews started their work in the Huron National Forest last Monday (Sept. 13).

The money will be an investment rather than an expense. National forests are beginning to earn their own way, covering cost of planting by sale of timber.

Approximately 2,800,000 pine trees will be planted in the Huron forest alone.

A tractor and a tree-planting machine, manned by only two men, can plant 10,000 to 12,000 trees a day — about three times more than by hand. Trees lie dormant over winter.

Jack pines, planted 1,000 to an acre, about six feet apart, will mature in 60 years. If the soil is right, white pines are used. The seedlings are planted close together so that each tree will be forced upward to get its share of sunshine, and the result will be a tall pine tree. In 25 years the first thinning is done, and sale of this pulpwood will cover cost of the original planting. Then in another 35 to 40 years the trees will be thinned again.

As the old trees are cut, new seedlings are planted. Then you have a perpetual supply of wood.

Timber contractors used to import southern whites to cut the Huron woods. When the trees were all gone, the southerners became welfare clients of the community.

The modern system is much better. The Forest Service helped 120 farmers to organize a cooperative, the Au Sable Forest Products Association. Proceeds of Huron pulpwood, sold to paper mills at Muskegon and near Ludington, are pro-rated among members according to cords cut. The co-op has provided a steady income to supplement farmers' earnings, especially during winters. Wages now average $1 an hour.

As substitute for taxes, 25 per cent of stumpage receipts are returned by Uncle Sam to county governments. And 10 per cent comes back for local road improvements.

A careless camper started a forest fire here last May. Fed by a 20-mile-an-hour wind, flames raced over crowns of pine trees a distance of two miles in 90 minutes. Foresters and farmers checked the conflagration only by literally fighting fire with fire.

If dry weather cycle returns, and Franson fears it is now due, the peril of fire will be greatly increased.

More of a danger, however, is public indifference to the draining of our timber resources. We can't continue to cut and burn more trees than we grow. Our water level is dropping steadily. Soil erosion has soared as man turned forests and grasslands into open, bare fields. Dust bowls are man-made.

Our visit to Huron National Forest convinced us of one thing. It's significant. Planting of trees, under expert supervision and long-range control, is a sound national investment — one that is self-supporting, paying steady dividends.

It takes 60 to 100 years to grow a tree. What are we waiting for?

They buried the pedestrian the other day who held that the motorists are the ones that should dodge.

Surgery Technique Will Aid Amputees

Severed Limbs Are Restored by Use of Refrigeration.

CHICAGO. — It now may be possible to sew back in place a severed arm or leg and have it grow in place, restoring its normal functions through a newly developed technique, Dr. L. W. Crossman, attending surgeon at the New York City hospital, said in a paper read before the 12th annual assembly of the U. S. chapter of the International College of Surgeons. The paper was read by an associate, Dr. J. M. Armengal.

The new technique involves use of refrigeration, and such experiments have proved successful with human fingers and with whole legs of dogs, Dr. Crossman said. He said surgeons had "amputated the legs of dogs, placed the legs in an ice box for 24 hours, and then were able to replace the limbs and have them heal to recover the full use of the part."

"We think this is possible with humans under ideal circumstances," he said, "and by a thoroughly trained team of not only good surgeons, but also good blood vessel surgeons."

In refrigeration surgery, he said, a mangled or infected extremity is packed with ice and preserved as long as several weeks, or until the patient's condition is improved to the point where the member may be amputated or saved.

He said surgeons never should "remove a mangled extremity as an emergency operation," but should allow a patient to recover strength while the limb is encased in ice.

Duke's Loyalty to Wife Wins Support of Public

LONDON. — The Duke of Windsor's unflinching loyalty to his American-born wife and his refusal to attend court functions without her are slowly winning him the support of the British public and some newspapers in the royal feud that has kept the Windsors in virtual exile for 10 years.

Because of the social ostracism which has barred the Baltimore-born divorcee from a place in British royal society, the duke refused to attend Queen Mother Mary's 80th birthday anniversary party. Considerable conjecture also surrounded the duke's invitation to the wedding of his favorite niece, Princess Elizabeth.

Crime Declines in Cities; Up in Country Districts

WASHINGTON. — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said that crime was rising in rural areas but declining slightly in the city.

Reports for the first half of 1947 show an increase in rape in both rural and urban areas. The increase was more marked in rural districts, Hoover said. Murder was down in both town and country.

Hoover said reports to the FBI showed that crimes increased 7.5 per cent in rural areas during the first six months of this year over the same 1946 period. In urban areas, it was down 2.3 per cent.

Despite the decrease in urban areas, Hoover said the number of crimes in the first half of 1947 was 12 per cent greater than that in the first six months of 1941.

Both rape and larceny were up 13 per cent in rural areas, while in urban communities rape was up 3.5 per cent and larceny 1.1 per cent. Aggravated assaults increased an average of 2 per cent in both.

Murder declined 7.4 per cent in rural communities and 6.4 per cent in urban communities. Automobile thefts continued to decline, showing a 19 per cent decrease in rural and 22.3 per cent in urban areas.

Boy, 4, Girl, 3, Rescue Baby From Fire

CINCINNATI. — A 14-month-old boy was carried from his crib to safety by an older brother and sister when fire broke out in the family home.

David Smith, 4, and his sister, Cindy, 3, carried their infant brother, Milford, into the back yard a few minutes before firemen arrived to extinguish a blaze that had started near the child's crib.

The children's mother, Mrs. Cecil Smith, was at a grocery at the time. The fire, which caused $1,000 damage, apparently was started by a spark from a cigarette lighter with which the children had been playing, firemen said.

16 Per Cent Drop Reported In Turkey Crop This Year

WASHINGTON. — The agriculture department estimates that approximately 35 million turkeys will be marketed this year, about 16 per cent under last year's crop.

Despite the expected drop, the department foresees no shortages of the birds. The new crop and supplies already in storage will be ample, says the department, to supply everybody with an average of 4.1 pounds. Consumption last year averaged 4.6 pounds and in prewar days 2.6 pounds.

The department has announced a new schedule of support prices for the current crop, continuing through January 31, 1948.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Farming" Versus "Ranching"

Talked to some editors who run my column in their papers—in states where there's mostly cattle and sheep raising—about the differences there might be between farming and ranching.

And they told me: "Joe, there's no real difference between cattlemen and farmers. We make our living from the land like your folks do; we have the same 4-H Clubs and Granges; the same problems of prices and marketing.

"When it comes to recreation, we have the same liking to get together now and then for a barbecue and a friendly glass of beer."

And from where I sit, that about sums it up. Ranchers may have different names for things or grow different crops. But all over America folks who work the land share those common traits of hard work, sober moderation, and good fellowship, whether they're growing cattle for beef, or barley for good American beer and ale.
