However, the program is predominantly sacred.

There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be taken to help cover the cost of music used. Let your attendance at this worthy civic function speak for your interest and support of the efforts of this organization.

An easy to understand guide to this year's drastically changed income tax law. The increase in personal exemptions, the increase in the maximum medical deduction, the new "tax credit" idea, other exemptions, the new "community-property" provisions, etc., are amply explained. Study Club Reporter Has Job Keeping Up on Club Meeting Dates

Well, the East Jordan Study Club reporter has been slipping up on reporting the wheres and whats of the club. It sure has been a job keeping up with the changes of program. Since the Feb. 8th book review by Mrs. Laura Malpass was given on Jan. 11th, "Cheaper by the Dozen" which kept us all in stitches. The Jan. 25th program was on schedule, but instead of being at Alice Shermans, it was held at Mrs. Anna Shermans. The program, "A Night with Shakespeare" was to have been given by Mrs. Amanda Shepard, "But" Amanda had a frog in her throat, so called upon her sister. Don't we all wish we had a sister who could do the job as well as Mrs. Alice Bellinger did for Amanda? Alice gave us a very enjoyable evening, reading several excerpts from plays by Shakespeare. — Alice, you are always welcome, we enjoyed your program very much.

No, in-as-much as we had our Feb. 8th program, Jan. 11th, presume you are wondering what is on schedule for Feb. 8th. It will be held as scheduled Feb. 8th, the hostess will be Mrs. Helen Watson, as planned, but time moves forward a month. Mrs. Phyllis Lilak, who was, who will, well anyway she will give her paper on Wisconsin, Feb. 8th, 1949, at the home of Mrs. Helen Watson at eight o'clock with co-hostesses Mrs. Ethel Clark and Mrs. Amanda Shepard assisting. By the way, they aren't supposed to serve until March 22. See what I mean? You figure it out, I can't. Anyway, the date is Feb. 8th, the place home of Helen Watson, time eight bells. If you are too mixed up after reading this call, Ethel Clark, who is the one who started it all.

County, District, Community Fairs And Shows Increasing

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1948, 151 different events were held, reported Clarence L. Bolander, Supervisor of Fairs, Mich. Dept. of Agriculture. Those events included community, township, county and district fairs, breed shows, potato and rabbit shows.

Up to Jan. 1 of this fiscal year, 151 fairs or shows had been held. Twenty shows are scheduled to be held before July 1, finishing this fiscal year with an increase over the previous year.

Again this fiscal year the Dept. of Agr'l has paid for 1/2 of the premiums and awards at the previous fairs.

The amount of premium paid indicates that more classes were filled at the various events than has ever before been experienced. In many instances, this was due to an increase in 4-H and Future Farmers' entries.

All organizations receiving financial assistance from the State are required to be properly incorporated and must file annual reports with the Corporation and Securities Commission, as well as the Mich. Dept. of Agriculture.

C. of C. Are Planning Big Year

MET WEDNESDAY EVENING TO FORMULATE PLANS. ELECTION PLANNED WED., FEB. 16

The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce met at Andy's Duck Inn Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, with 19 members present.

President George Secord stated this meeting was for the purpose of deciding whether to disband or not. The majority of members present favored getting out and start pushing to raise necessary funds for contemplated projects.

Earl Clark, Sec'y, gave the annual report, which the Herald will try to have published next week.

Contemplated projects discussed were: The Fourth of July Homecoming, which Boyne City has offered to let East Jordan have this year, and then rotate between the two cities. An invitation is being extended to the Crittenden Carnival of Midland to come to this Homecoming. This is the same carnival that showed on the west side here last fall, and is a high class carnival as far as carnivals go. Matter of the fiesta was also brought up.

Mrs. Huckle brought up the idea of East Jordan furnishing some entertainment for the wives of the Circuit Judges of Michigan who will meet in convention at Charlevoix the first of September. It was moved by Keith Dressel, supported by Mike Barnett, that the Chamber of Commerce sponsor a trip down the Jordan River for these ladies, if they accept the invitation. Mrs. Huckle automatically became chairman of a committee to attend to this matter.

Eddie Streeter brought up a novel idea of inducing people to come to East Jordan, and the matter is being investigated.

George Secord told of the Traverse City C. of C. having a more or less unwritten rule that whoever brings up a project for the C. of C. to work upon (and is approved by the members) he automatically becomes chairman of a committee to further said project, and the privilege of appointing two other members to the committee.

It was moved by Paul Lisk, supported by Barney Milstein, that the above idea be adopted by the East Jordan C. of C. Carried.

President George also told of Traverse City's C. of C. giving a newspaper writer there $500 a year to write articles for the newspaper there just to keep things stirred up. The Herald offered to do the same here for $500, but didn't see any of that folding green stuff in sight!

The Herald was panned for lack of co-operation in publicizing the fiesta last year. The Herald is more than glad to give all kinds of publicity to any worthwhile project in East Jordan, and asks but two things: Fair treatment by those in charge of publicity of any project, and bringing in their publicity before our Tuesday night deadline.

A committee composed of Barney Milstein, chairman; Minnie Desjardins and Eddie Streeter was appointed to draw up 12 names on a sheet and present same to the next meeting. The names receiving the five highest number of votes will become the new board of directors.

Next meeting of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce will be held Wednesday, Feb. 16, at Andy's Duck Inn at 7:00 p. m. Election of Board of Directors will be held. Tickets can be obtained from Earl Clark for $1.25. A large turnout is urged. The Duck Inn can seat 46 and only that many tickets are being sold, so get yours early. Business women of East Jordan are especially invited.

In every part of the nation more than 2,200,000 boys and their adult leaders, will observe Boy Scout Week, Feb. 6th to 12th, marking the 39th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. The theme of the celebration is "Adventure—that's Scouting!" This year the movement is emphasizing the fun and fellowship its members get out of the game of Scouting. More high adventure is planned in the out-of-doors. Their adventure in citizenship will find Scouts emphasizing civic service activities, emergency service training and world Scouting relationships. During Boy Scout Week, Scouts, their parents and countless communities will honor the volunteer adult leaders of the nation's 70,000 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Senior Units. ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The training derived from the assembly program can be very worthwhile for both entertainer and listener. An assembly provides opportunity for self expression, for appearing before an audience, for helping develop certain talents, and for developing habits of courtesy and citizenship. Contributions from various rooms make up the program. These are taken from routine activities which have been perfected.

Last Thursday a varied program was given by the grades and included a flag bearing ceremony by a group of sixth graders, with the audience giving the pledge of allegiance and singing the "Star Spangled Banner." Judy Lillak, Joanne Bader and Karen Bradshaw entertained the group with their baton twirling act. Dramatization, rhythmic games, choral readings and group singing were other features of the program.

The next assembly will be on Friday, Feb. 11, and will be composed of patriotic and valentine numbers.

FIRST and SECOND Grades — Adeline Bowerman

As we started the last half of our school year Monday morning, we each took inventory of ourself. We looked at some of the papers we did the first week of school, then tried to summarize what we had accomplished so far this year. Our aim for the second semester is to learn as much as we can in preparation for the next grade.

Our food store is a busy place each morning, at recess, and at noon. Linda Skop made the refrigerator for the milk and butter and Jane Campau brought her adding machine. This week we are learning about money in number class. In art, we made some "play money" and the second graders have written some very nice stories about the store. On Friday we will have a "Going out of Business" sale with reduced (subtracted) prices. A first grade boy came from the store with a bag of groceries. He was asked "How much did they cost you?" "I don't know," was the reply. "I told the clerk to charge them."

Betty Sloop had her 7th birthday on "Ground Hog's Day." Jerry Bennett, Larry Hayden, Richard Kraemer, Betty Sloop and Agnes Zoulek, Duffy Chihak, Lauren Donaldson, Herman Prevo and Linda Skope had perfect attendance the last six-weeks marking period.

SECOND Grade — Agnes Johnston

The first semester of school ended last Friday. The children who were neither absent nor tardy during this period were: Bonnie Barnett, Rex Bennett, and David Damoth. We think it is very nice that these children haven't missed any school the first semester.

The children who were neither absent or tardy for the third six-weeks were: Bonnie Barnett, Rex Bennett, Jerome Chanda, David Damoth, Robert Detloff, Elaine Eaton, Eleanor Meyers, Gloria Richards and Barrie Snyder.

Last week we took a "Weekly Reader" test. We found that many of us are improving in reading.

The last four weeks Miss Jean Simmons, a student teacher at Central Mich. College of Education, has been working with us. We were sorry to learn that last Thursday was her last visiting day with us. We had a little farewell party for her on that afternoon. We all drew a little picture for her so she could remember us in some way. The party concluded with each receiving an ice cream stick.

THIRD Grade — Jessie Hager

We had a card from Larry Sweet. Larry is living in Flint this winter. We will be glad when he comes back. We sang and played "Did You Ever See a Lassie" for assembly last Thursday.

THIRD and FOURTH Grades — Marie Hughes

Patty VonSoosten will be 10 years old, Saturday, Feb. 5. Lyle Howard will be 10 on Friday, the 4th. Louella Pinney and Joyce Cool have been absent several days because of illness.

Mrs. Claude Green called on our room, Thursday, Jan. 27th.

We now have 39 members in our room.

The children seemed very glad to get back to school Monday after an extra day weekend.

FOURTH Grade — Grace Galmore

We have a book from the Michigan State Library about how to draw birds. Several children have tried and found that they could draw better because of it. We are hanging up some of the best pictures.—Cal Darbee.

Sunday I went to Boyne Ski Mt. There were many people there. I saw some people come down from the top. They have to ski from side to side to break their speed. When they go back up on the chair, they just sit down.—Joanne Bader.

Mrs. Galmore's room wrote letters to pupils in other states and countries. I wrote to Miss Alberta Bohm. She is 9 yrs. old and lives in Clever, Missouri. Karen and Versil have already received an answer to their letter.—Connie Russell.

SIXTH Grade — Alma Larsen

In health we are making sleeping charts to see how many hours we sleep at night.—Irving Bulmann.

Our 6th grade boys played two games of basketball and won both games. Our team is Bob Darbee, Bob Romback, Bob Danforth, Floyd Cutler, Barry Peacock, Geo. Nelson, Jim Sherman, Bud Seaman, and Irving Bulmann. David Graham is our manager.—David Graham.

Mrs. Howard Darbee showed Mrs. Galmore's room and our room three movies they took while they were on their trip to the west.—Leslie Gibbard.

We had an assembly Thursday afternoon. Our room sang two songs, "Dear Evelina" and "Fair as the Morning." After the assembly we saw a movie.—Patricia Judy.

We had our eyes tested on Thursday. Most of the pupils eyes tested 20-20.—Irving Bulmann.

Sunshine Extension Club

The Sunshine Extension Club met with Mrs. Mary Lenosky Jan. 27. Nine members present, also three visitors, Lulu Clark, Eleanor Scott and Jennie LaLonde.

A review of "Legal Phases of Home Management" was carried on in the form of a "spell-down". Lulu Clark also taught us how to make "tuck" buttonholes. Recreation by Anna Keat was a "quiz" program. Then lunch, furnished by our hostess, was enjoyed by all.

Next meeting will be Feb. 24 with Dessie Montroy.

"All For Christ" Youth Rally

Yes, we are once again calling all youths to our rally, which will be held this Saturday night, Feb. 5th.

The place is the Bennett Schoolhouse. The time is 8:00 p. m.

A fine musical program has been planned. This will be followed by an inspiring message by Rev. Stanley Watts of Levering, Mich.

GET LEGUME SEED NOW

If you're planning some legume seeding this coming season and don't have the seed on hand at the present time, it would be a good idea to swing into action. That's the opinion delivered by Carter Harrison of Michigan State college farm crops department after looking over the figures on legume seed supplies.

Michigan's most important legume, alfalfa, is in short seed supply this year. Other areas are also short and will be competing with Michigan farmers. Harrison says good alfalfa seed is going for $40.00 and $45.00 per bu. Bromegrass, Timothy, Sudan grass, and sweet clover are also short in supply. However, red clover is in reasonably good supply this year and selling from $33.00 to $36.00 per bu.

LIVESTOCK INSECT CONTROL.

The other day we were talking about good livestock management as one way to make these price adjustments easier to take — an important part of good management is the control of parasites for those animals which aren't bothered with parasites are going to make faster and cheaper gains. What's more they'll bring better prices on the market.

We asked Ray Hutson, head of the Mich. State college department of good livestock insect control. Here's what he has to say: On cattle this time of year it's important to control lice. This can be done by spraying or dusting with rotenone. In this cold weather, dusting is a better procedure as a general thing, although spraying can be done if the operator thinks the weather is mild or he has housing for the animals that will keep them from getting chilled. The dust should contain 1/2 to 1 per cent rotenone. It can be applied with a piston pipe applicator. Make sure you work it into the hair and down to the hide where the lice are — if you do spray, use 10 lbs. of the 5 per cent wettable rotenone powder per 100 gal. of water. The rotenone application will also be a good control for cattle grubs which will be showing up this time of the yr.

The big problem in external parasites of hogs is control of lice and mange. Hutson says one spraying with benzene hexachloride is generally enough to do the job on both lice and mange.

Here are precautions to make sure the hogs aren't chilled by the process. Be sure to wait at least 60 days after spraying before you butcher or send the animals to market. If you don't, the meat may have an off-flavor. Clean up the brood sows and their quarters at least 30 days before farrowing. If this job is done right, lice and mange won't be passed on to the baby pigs.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Begins Busiest Four Years; GOP Wins First Senate Vote Test; Bevin Offers Critics Olive Branch

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

INAUGURATION: Brief Introduction

President Truman could lay valid claim to the title "busiest man in the world." The inaugural behind him, the nation's chief executive was up to his neck in problems, both foreign and domestic.

ON THE HOME FRONT, there was a little matter of having congress implement Democratic campaign pledges and provide funds for the continuing armament expansion. Abroad, with this nation committed to the gargantuan task of saving the world from communism, the problem was equally monumental.

But for awhile, on January 20, Harry Truman, Missouri farm boy who rose to the presidency of the United States, once by succession, currently on his own vote-getting prowess, relaxed, basked in public adulation, may even have forgotten the tremendous pressure under which he labored.

ORIGINALLY PLANNED as a more or less sedate affair, with this atmosphere desired by Truman, the inauguration, instead, was turned into one of the most lavish and spectacular since Andrew Jackson rode into the top spot.

Packed and jammed, Washington gave a hero's welcome to the World War I artillery captain. Truman buttons, Truman pictures, Truman banners were greatly in evidence and the President, seeing these and the vast multitudes, must have wondered if there were anyone at all who voted against him in the November election.

BUT THE INTERMISSION from duty was brief. The parade, the swearing in ceremonies, the round of gala capital affairs that night, and the next day, Harry Truman was again on the job.

Peace has been his rallying cry. Its importance marked all his utterances. Now he was buckled down to the job of trying to preserve it. Men of good will everywhere in the world were wishing him success.

MONKEYS: Up in the Air

For whatever benefit it may be to scientists or anthropologists, two sad-eyed dogs will not calm 300 Rhesus monkeys.

THIS WAS graphically, if somewhat disturbingly demonstrated when 30 crates of the monkeys arrived in New York by plane from the Azores.

The trip started sedately enough with all the monkeys locked in their crates. Two large, sad-eyed dogs were along because someone had said their presence would tend to keep tranquil the monkeys' spirits. Somehow most of the monkeys got out of the crates and suddenly there were monkeys in the cockpit, monkeys peeping out of windows and monkeys even trying to liberate other monkeys.

Capt. Miguel Braganca and his crew, heavily outnumbered, was forced to stay in the forward part of the ship while the monkeys cavorted. The monkeys saw to that. Says the captain: "They kept hanging on the cockpit door and watching us all the time."

When the plane reached La Guardia field, about a dozen chattering monkeys were starting to climb out the windows, but eight airline cargomen joined the crew and with brooms and blankets finally snared the truant.

The monkeys were consigned for infantile paralysis research.

SIX "NO'S": Was It Revolt?

Six Democrats joining with senate Republicans gave the GOP victory in the first test of strength since the 81st congress convened. The issue may have been trivial, but the result burned Democratic leaders. Scott Lucas, Illinois, successor to Vice-President Barkley as majority floor leader, "sputtered." Barkley was also put out. For, it appeared, the result was an unexpected as it was "humiliating."

THE ISSUE was exemption of inauguration tickets from federal amusement taxes. The exemption slid through the house 199 to 49, so one can imagine the surprise when it failed in the senate.

Chief target of administration censure was Kentucky's Virgil Chapman.

But those who remembered the Kentucky campaign would recall that Chapman showed no little independence in his drive for votes

Cupid Curbed

The army is making it tougher for American G.I.'s to marry German frauleins. In the first place, many army authorities and chaplains suspect too many German girls are using marriage as an excuse to escape from the hard life of occupied Germany to the United States. There is also an apparent desire to protect young draftees expected to start arriving soon in Germany.

Open Campaign

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Linda Brown, 4, March of Dimes poster girl, open the annual anti-polio drive in Washington. Linda was cured of polio through the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

He did not completely endorse the Democratic platform, would not be led into enthusiastic "me too" declarations.

Lucas was vehement. "On whose coattails did Chapman come to the senate," he demanded, "the Truman-Barkley coattails or those of Dewey and Warren?" Other angry Democrats rushed to point out that Chapman ran 100,000 votes behind Truman and Barkley in Kentucky.

JOINING CHAPMAN in the "no" votes were Democratic Senators Byrd, Johnson, Maybank, McClellan, Robertson and Russell.

Chapman didn't take criticism lying down. He declared, in effect, that if such taxes are to be removed, it ought to be done in regular legislative process, not by hurried action on the floor.

Republicans were more metaphorical. They argued that since there is a tax on powder used on babies, a woman dressing up for an inauguration ball should regard her powder as more of a luxury than powder applied to a baby. This statement followed an effort to exempt baby powder for federal taxation which failed of approval.

OLIVE BRANCH: Bevin Recants

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin apparently was relenting in his stand on the Palestine situation. Gingerly he held out an olive branch: Britain's willingness to release Jewish immigrants of fighting age now held in Cyprus, his personal and strong support of peace negotiations between Israelis and Egyptians at Rhodes.

Observers declared this position a "deliberate and genuine effort on his part . . . to seek peace with Israel and his critics in Britain and in the U. S."

WHATEVER MOTIVATED the foreign secretary, there was no overlooking the fact that criticism had been mounting both in England and America. With the pressure continuing, the situation might have resolved itself into one holding the very political future of Bevin.

The foreign minister also indicated that de facto recognition of the government of Israel was being seriously considered. If that step were taken by Great Britain, it would mean the death knell of Arab hopes for continuation of strife or any eventual triumph in the Holy Land controversy.

DIXIECRATS: Rough Road

The road ahead looked rough for state's righters.

Democratic administration forces were showing little patience with southern old-liners who had bolted the party in the presidential election.

THE PURGE SWORD swung first at the un-American activities committee and two heads tumbled. They were those of Representative John A. Rankin, fiery Mississippian, and F. Edward Herbert, Louisiana, both of whom supported the state's rights ticket against President Truman in November.

Rankin, along with everyone else, knew the blow was coming, accepted it calmly.

BONUS BILL: Amvets Ready

Amvets, World War II veterans organization, has announced its intention to ask Congress for an immediate veterans bonus which they think might cost as much as $7 billion dollars. The organization said it will carry its proposal to congress soon.

A similar bill prepared by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is in the house hopper, having been offered by Rep. Rankin, Mississippi.

U. S. BUDGET: Under Attack

The question whether President Truman's 21 billion dollar budget was excessive was being raised, again. This time John Foster Dulles, chairman of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations general assembly in Paris, raised the issue.

The budget, which Dulles questioned, provides 15 billions for military expenditures, six billions for foreign aid during fiscal 1950. DULLES THOUGHT it too high. He pointed to dwindling war fears and potential menace to U. S. economical health as reasons for curtailment of Truman proposals.

Conceding that there is a "risk" of war, Dulles declared the "risk is not so great that we should seriously jeopardize our own economic health . . . by saddling ourselves with such vast armament."

Dulles suggested cause, implied a remedy. He blamed lack of sufficient unification of U. S. armed forces for administration belief in the need of huge military outlay, and declared that present huge military expenditures cannot go on.

"I think our armament is exaggerated by the fact that there is not sufficient unification between the different branches of our (armed) services," he said. "It seems as though the rivalry were such that each branch wants to be strong enough so that if there is a war it can win it alone, without help from anybody."

Dulles said there is "less fear of war," than there was last year, but commented:

"OF COURSE, there is always a risk. You have a tense situation like a dry autumn in the woods when any fool can start a fire.

"It is entirely possible, however, to have better relations with Russia and I think it is probable." The problem was up to congress. Could it gamble on the "fool" in the woods, or should it prepare with all possible equipment to stand by for a possible conflagration?

PERFECT: Testers Amazed

U. S. air force intelligence testers rubbed their eyes, looked again. Yes, there it was—a perfect I. Q. score by a gangling, bespectacled Kentucky youth seeking a connection with the military.

WILLIAM M. BELEW, 18, of Simpsonville had done what no one before him had been able to achieve, something the army believed impossible. Told he was not expected to answer all the questions correctly, he nevertheless went ahead and, in rapid-fire order, dashed through the test without a single error.

It was the preliminary test given volunteers at the air force recruiting office in Louisville. The testers were amazed. They checked, rechecked the score, found it perfect. They then checked the records. Sure enough, Belew was the first to make a perfect score.

THESE NEW TESTS, much more exacting than the old, have been in use since last May. Questions are divided into three sections, vocabulary, arithmetic, and perception of spatial relationship. There are 45 questions and they must be answered in 40 minutes.

Belew will give the air force a trial. If he likes it, he will make it a career; if he doesn't he will take up accounting.

A Simpsonville high school basketball and diamond performer, Belew stands six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, was expected to pass the army physical examination with ease.

Tourist Queen

This German fraulein, Miss Elfi Giovannelli, was chosen "tourist queen" and will tour the U. S. this year in an effort to stimulate attendance at an import exhibition in western Germany.

Duke Gets His Tractor

Duke Thomas bought a farm with the money he'd saved in the Service, but he couldn't get a tractor. He needed it badly, but was tenth on the local dealer's list.

"Tell you what," old man Peters says. "If those nine fellows ahead of you agree, you'll get the next one I get in." "No, thanks," says Duke, "I'll just take my turn."

But old Peters mails out nine postcards. And the other day he tells Duke his tractor will be in next week. "I simply wrote the facts to the fellows ahead of you. They decided it."

Teaching Religion

Lesson for February 6, 1949

SOME PEOPLE, strange to say, don't believe in Sunday schools. Most North American Protestants do, because Jesus did. The word may not be found in the New Testament, but the thing is there. If Jesus did not believe that religion could be taught, then he was a guilty of wasting much of his time, for he worked at teaching in season and out of season. He was a product of the Dr. Foreman Sunday school, in a sense. During his childhood he would go to the synagogue school week days and especially on Sabbaths; we know that by the time he was grown it was his "custom" to attend synagogue services.

And in every Jewish community the synagogue was the place where for two hundred years and more, children and youth and older people had been taught the Word of God.

If Christians today are faithful to Christ's example, we also will keep at the job of teaching our religion to every child within our reach.

Body and Soul
READERS of the gospels will note that when Jesus went home from the synagogue on the Sabbath, his day's work was not done. He would spend hours, sometimes till far into the night, healing people brought to him for cure. Jesus ministered to mind and soul. Jesus was interested in personalities, whole people, not half-people. Our minds have to be fed, but we live in bodies, and bodies have no little to do with personalities. Jesus was not content with teaching sick people; he made sick people well. So the church today, if it is faithful to Christ's principles, will consider people as complete personalities.

The Common People
WE FIND that Jesus did not insist on university audiences. Indeed, he never spoke to a university audience. There were great universities in those days, but it was not necessary for any one to be a graduate of one of them in order to enter Jesus' school, or to understand what he taught. He taught the plain people plainly. Again the church of today takes a leaf out of Jesus' book. Most of our Sunday schools, for instance, have graded lessons; the little tots do not study from the same quarterlies the grown people use.

In all our teachings we try to use the pupil's language and to put our Christian ideas in the thoughts that the pupils can understand.

At the best seminaries, young ministers-to-be are carefully taught how to put the great Christian doctrines in ways that the simplest over people's heads is not teaching.

God and Education
JESUS did not try to teach people carpentry, or arithmetic, or geography. No doubt he could have done so. But he had something more important on his mind, something which he alone could teach. He taught religion, or in other words he taught the truth about God, and about man, and about right relations between God and man. So the teaching church, whether in the Sunday school or in the books written by its scholars or in its schools and colleges, when it follows Christ's example, is always teaching religion first and foremost. We do not believe that religion is a secondary issue, something you can "take or leave."

Religion On Two Feet
JESUS did more than talk. He lived. His whole life and character were saying more loudly and plainly what his words said.

So the Christian church today when it is faithful to Christ, must translate into actual living the faith she teaches in Sunday school lessons, in catechisms and books and sermons.

What we do, as Christians, speaks louder than what we say. Every Sunday school teacher needs to remember that what is said on Sunday is important, but what the teacher does on Monday is more impressive by far. The reason why Jesus was more effective than John the Baptist was that John, after all, was a Voice, while Jesus was a Friend.

This is a diesel ... a modern locomotive that means better service to you.
Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed ... a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

● Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste — a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs — for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You
Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this feather-bedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads — of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol. Diesel crews are among the highest-paid railroad employees — real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You
You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them on order for even greater improvement in service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as on diesel locomotives, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You
But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against YOUR interests — as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work". Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch — and why they are telling you about them.

Cut Building Logs In Winter

The interest in building rustic summer homes or hunting lodges in Michigan has prompted R. C. Deckert, Michigan State college forester, to pass along a few tips on the care of logs to be used for these buildings. He recommends Northern white cedar as the most durable wood growing in Mich. suitable for rustic structures. Late fall or winter is the best time for cutting and peeling logs because they will not check or crack so much while seasoning. Insect and fungi activity is dormant then and log damage is less likely. Careful piling and seasoning are advised to prevent the troubles that come from using green wood.

Three old men were discussing the ideal way of dying. The first, aged 75, said he'd like to crash in a car going 80 mph. The second, aged 85, said he'd take his finish in a 400 mph plane. "I've got a better idea," said the third, aged 95: "I'd like to be shot by a jealous husband."

Fall Freshening Brings More Milk

Fall freshening cows produce more milk and give larger quantities when base production is being established. That's why Geo. Parsons, Michigan State college extension dairyman recommends breeding cows and heifers in Feb. for fall freshening.

To work out a program which will bring more fall freshening requires a planned breeding program, Parsons advises. The breeding of some animals must be delayed and for others it must be moved up. While it may be too late now to make too big a change in the program, Parsons says it's the best time to start if you have not already worked on such a plan.

Another advantage of fall and winter freshening is having calves at an age where they can take full advantage of available grass during the pasture season. Calves will make faster and cheaper growth.

A few years ago there was a course in short story writing offered at a well-known university. The instructor told his students: "There are four requisites for a good short story: It must be brief, contain a reference to religion, an association with royalty, and an instance of modesty. Now you have the rest of the period in which to write a short story."

After about fifteen minutes a hand went up.

"Finished so soon Jones?" asked the professor. "Very well, suppose you read your story to the rest of the class and maybe they will get some ideas."

This is what Jones read: "My God," said the queen, "take your hand off my knee!"

Red Danish Breeders Association Organized At Ellsworth

Nearly forty dairymen from Antrim and Charlevoix counties met at Ellsworth Saturday morning, Jan. 29, with County Agricultural Agent, Walter G. Kirkpatrick and organized the Antrim Charlevoix Red Danish Breeders Ass'n.

Mike Postmus of Ellsworth gave a short summary of the tour by interested Dairymen the week previous. At that time a number of Red Dane herds in Alcona and Oscoda counties were visited by Antrim and Charlevoix Co. dairymen. Those making the tour were very well pleased with the cattle they saw and the splendid records being made under ordinary farm conditions by the early crosses of the Red Dane breeds. Bur Blanchard of Marion Twp., Charlevoix Co. was elected President of the new organization. Alfred Nelson of Echo Twp., Antrim Co. was elected Vice-President and Robert Straw also of Marion Twp. was elected Sec'y-Treasurer. John Peebles of Banks Twp., Antrim Co. and Joseph Pienta of South Am Twp., Charlevoix Co. were elected Directors.

A membership fee for the local Breeders Ass'n of $1.00 per year was voted to cover incidental expenses that may arise.

Twenty-four interested Dairymen applied for application in the newly formed Breed Ass'n. They also applied for membership in the Antrim-Charlevoix Artificial Breeders Ass'n of Ellsworth with a total of 248 cows to be serviced.

The addition of the Red Dane section to the Antrim-Charlevoix Breeders Ass'n bring nearly 1,000 the number of Dairy cattle now being serviced by that organization.

Dairymen applying for membership in the Red Dane Breeders Ass'n are: Donald Senneker, Ellsworth; Milford McElroy, R. 1, Charlevoix; Joseph Pienta, East Jordan; Clint Blanchard & Son, R. 2, Charlevoix; Floyd McCracken, R. 2, Charlevoix; Franklin Cellner, Charlevoix; Sam Straw, Charlevoix; John and Ken Peebles, R. 1, Charlevoix; Harry B. Opposed to a E.J.I.W. Union Shop

Approximately one-third of we E. J. I. W. employees voted against the unions proposal for a union shop. May we state simply and truthfully some of our objections.

Our past affiliations with the union at the Iron Works have convinced us that their methods have not been democratic nor do we believe that we have obtained any benefits supposedly achieved through the union and its officials.

On at least three different occasions if they had their way, they would have taken us out on strike; and then perhaps the Iron works would be still and we would be forced to seek aid from the government at the working taxpayers expense.

Why are we working five full days while other foundries in more central locations are tied up with disputes, bankrupt, or on three days per week? The answer to that question concerns many of us in East Jordan, so we asked the folks who run the shop and this was their reply: "Although there are several reasons for our steady employment, we believe the most important is the fact that we have never yet had a prolonged work stoppage in the plant, either from a breakdown, fire, or strike. Therefore when we promise a contractor his castings he has come to depend on our promises and hasn't had to go elsewhere."

Surely, all of we employees have noticed that when a breakdown occurs; such as the charging bucket, that the owners, foremen, and mechanics work under difficult heat conditions to repair the damage. They usually succeed so the men, union and non-union, have not lost a days pay, nor the customer his castings.

We do not wish to forfeit our right to bargain personally with our employer, to the union officials. We hold ourselves quite capable of bargaining with the Iron Works when and as we see fit. We believe our employers to be fair and square and deem it unnecessary to have a union mouthpiece; who often is not capable of being a good representative.

We definitely do not believe a man should be forced to join any organization in order to keep his job. Rather let the qualifications be an honest days work for an honest days wages; and let us individually decide whether we wish to be represented by the union or wish to talk for ourselves. — Contributed.

Dear Sir:

In last week's Letter Box was a communication from a person who brought up that age-old thorn-in-the-flesh — a new industry for East Jordan employing 150 to 200 persons the year around. East Jordan, every year from right after Christmas to the time school lets out in the spring, is involved in a depression all of its own. This is due to two principal things.

First:— All of East Jordan's efforts to promote the resort trade are directed toward summertime activity. While other towns have pushed winter activities hard, working on the well-based theory that when business is poor, then is the time to advertise, East Jordan reminds us of the old poem about the robin, "She'll sit in the barn, and keep herself warm, until summer shall come again!"

Second:— Unemployment resulting from two factories in this area being practically at a standstill half of each year, as far as a large portion of those employed each year are concerned. We are not knocking, but, nevertheless, it's a condition that cannot be helped in this type of industry.

Individuals that were supposed to be looking out for East Jordan's resort interests sat idly by and watched three fellows come up to northern Michigan, scout around, and finally invest thousands of dollars at Boyne Falls in a ski club. As far as we know now, no effort was made to induce these fellows to locate here, although the countryside around East Jordan abounds with hills that we'd hate to try to ski down. Something is lacking somewhere — what is it?

One of the leading resort writers in a neighboring town that is benefiting immensely from this ski club says this: "Boost your winter activities with all you've got, and the summertime will more than take care of itself." His home town proves he's right.

One of East Jordan's mainstays are its farmers. If these fellows that are pushing summer resorting think they could get along without them, they are wrong. We would like to see them change their tune if all the farmers around East Jordan would do their shopping in other towns for a few weeks. They would be begging these same farmers, on bended knee, to come back home.

What is their attitude toward farmers? Consider this: Not many years ago East Jordan practically threw away the chance of a lifetime, and forced a local resident to move a proposed livestock sales to a neighboring Off to a slow start this winter because of weather conditions, ice fishing now is luring its thousands of devotees to Michigan's lakes. They can fish legally for just about everything except trout and black bass. Bluegills and sunfish can be taken through February 28. Above, L. H. Griswold of Manistich catches bluegills on Houghton lake.

IT'S ICE FISHING TIME!

city. This same business now brings more people into that city on Tuesday, than come to East Jordan on Saturday. Just ask any merchant in that city. A large number of East Jordan farmers go to this sale, sell their livestock, and we'll bet afterward they buy a few dollars worth of groceries, Johnny a pair of shoes, fill the car with gas, get a quick lunch at a restaurant, and — this'll slay you local merchants! — probably buy more than one article that could just as well have been bought here possibly a few cents cheaper.

Is this inviting industry to East Jordan — what do you think?

At the beginning of this letter we called this "new industry" business a "thorn-in-the-flesh". Why? Did you ever go to an East Jordan Chamber of Commerce meeting and hear that question batted around — and see how little ever becomes of it? An organized effort against this idea seems to always pop up from somewhere and it's always quashed.

Steady year-around employment for at least 150 more East Jordan wage earners is something that is highly desirable. But how is this going to be brought about?

What is the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce doing about it?

What is the East Jordan Rotary Club doing about it? (Their motto is "He profits most, who serves best")

In fact, what do they do besides meet and eat? Ask any non-member of these organizations on the street, and he won't know, neither will several of the members. We would like to read an answer to this question written by the president of each of the above mentioned organizations. We'll wager they'll rise up in righteous indignation and answer with some artful dodge. How about it?

ADVISES SELF-TEST FOR PARENT AND CHILD

It is not a day too early to start thinking about school days next fall and little Bobby or Sally who will go for the first time.

Dread, tears and disappointment can all be avoided in early Sept. if you plan now. Ruth Highberger and Eileen Litka of the Michigan State college Nursery School staff recommend that you give your child an "are you ready for school" test.

Can he run, climb and ride a tricycle with considerable skill? Can he unbutton his own clothes and do most of his own dressing? Does he accept most foods and eat them with reasonably good manners? Does he take some responsibility for washing and grooming himself?

Patience in helping a child do these things for himself now will pay you satisfying dividends in the end. If you start now on the weak points you can help him to achieve the above skills before Sept.

Your child should be having experiences with many other adults — relatives, friends and baby sitters. He should learn to be happy with others when his parents are not near.

He should be mingling with children of his own age. School for him is a world made up of his own age group. The happier he is with other children, the more likely he is to enjoy the first day of school.

Remember that when disciplining your child he should know that he is still loved no matter how many mistakes he makes. Avoid such comments as, "Mother doesn't love you when you do that." He should feel security in your love for him when being disciplined and corrected.

Lansing — Michigan's secret primary is under fire.

According to D. Hale Brake, state treasurer, it has broken down party responsibility. It has invited popular nomination and election of individuals who were without obligation to party platforms or even party affiliation. As a remedy for the boss-ridden convention, it has developed its own weaknesses and evils: Irresponsibility of the party leader to the party; a seesaw fluctuation of voters' whims whereby glamour is favored rather than personal ability. Such is the criticism.

Mr. Brake does not favor outright abandonment of the primary and a return to party convention system as its substitute. He never got along with Frank McKay when McKay was party boss. Brake does favor a pre-primary convention at which party delegates would be given the opportunity to select nominees. These nominees, together with any others who filed with petitions, would be subject to the voters' approval or disapproval at the regular party primary.

While Mr. Brake has not alluded to recent party leaders in his campaign to abolish the secret primary, it is obvious that he has in mind former Governor Kim Sigler. Sigler was elected county prosecutor on a Democratic ticket. He was not the choice of party leaders. Rebuffed by a circuit court judge who was presiding as a one-man jury, Sigler tossed his hat into the Republican primary. He was swept into nomination and election on a popular protest wave against so-called corruption and graft at Lansing. A figure of glamour himself, Sigler became the knight on the white horse, the reformer battling lobbyist and other arch enemies of good government. His pearl-gray craps shooting coat, cowboy hat, and oratorical voice made a flashy combination. It was just like Hollywood.

Governor G. Mennen Williams comes from a family said to be generally Republican. He has been at odds with the Democratic state chairman. He ran his own campaign, financed his own funds, and otherwise operated outside of the party organization.

It is Treasurer Brake's belief that the secret primary, without party restraint or responsibility, invites the nomination of a man who excels in glamour, sex appeal, or other charms that strike the voter's fancy at the moment.

Does Mr. Brake's conviction suggest a personal ambition that is now frustrated or at least handicapped? Lansing observers who have watched the steady progress of the state treasurer agree that what he lacks in glamour, personality, charm or call-it-what-you-may, he certainly makes up in plain old-fashioned common sense.

Here is a man who operates a successful farm in Montcalm county near Stanton. He is literally a dirt farmer, not a gentleman farmer who surveys the work done by others and who basks in the glory of their harvest. Hale Brake can dehorn a cow. Fortunately for the Montcalm farmer this fact is not generally known to the voters, many of whom apparently demand drama and excitement in their political leaders.

County clerks of Michigan met at Lansing last week. They were in agreement, so it was reported, that the secret primary should be abolished and that voters should declare party affiliation before they could enjoy the privilege of selecting party nominees.

Crossing of party lines whereby a Democrat tries to nominate a "weak" Republican candidate, and vice versa, has become a political factor in Michigan under the present system.

Oakley E. Distin, Detroit election supervisor, said the secret primary was introduced 14 years ago by a Republican legislature in order to protect Republican office-holders in a New Deal administration. Later the legislature required separate ballots for presidential and state tickets on the belief that this separation would prevent Democratic leaders from riding to election on the coat-tails of FDR. What happened last Nov? The dual ballot backfired. Voters favored Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president, but switched over by hundreds of thousands to mark a cross in front of the name of Democrat G. Mennen Williams for governor.

The present reaction against the secret primary is also one aftermath of the defeat of Kim Sigler last Nov. People who voted "against" Sigler by voting "for" Williams are now inclined to condemn "glamour" — the handsome face on the billboard, the oratorical voice on the radio, the happy personality on the platform.

Would a pre-primary convention serve as a check against these?

You're going to hear more in 1949 of D. Hale Brake's crusade for party responsibility.

A CORRECTION

The Herald, as usual, made a mistake, and was told about it. In this case the REA was credited with radioing the State Police at Gaylord and reporting the Addis fire. This was not the case it seems now. Conservation Officer Julius O'Brien radioed the Gaylord Conservation Headquarters and they in turn summoned the East Jordan Fire Dept.
