Trout Fishermen Must Not Overlook Purchasing Trout Stamp

Trout fishermen preparing for the season opening April 29 should not overlook purchasing the $1 trout stamp and pasting it in the space provided on the regular fishing license.

This year the name of the angler must be written across the stamp in ink, the conservation department points out.

Close to 90,000 of the 178,000 stamps issued last year were picked up by sportsmen by opening day.

Resident and nonresident alike must have the stamp pasted on the fishing license, as the duck stamp is glued on the hunting license.

While fishing for brook, brown and rainbow trout every angler must have the stamp with him. The wife of the licensed resident angler however may fish for trout on her husband's stamp, the same

Summer Recreation Program Is Now Being Planned

SEVERAL PROJECTS UNDER WAY AT THIS TIME

With summer just around the corner, I've been doing a little planning for the summer recreation program. All last summer I had hopes of getting an adult golf league started (might give me a chance to play with some one I can beat). Several fellows have signified their interest so it looks like a good bet this year. If you would like to play in such a league, which would find each team playing perhaps one night a week, please let me know and we will call a meeting and get organized. You can give your name to "Muscles" Hamerski if you don't see me.

The adult softball league for the first year was very successful. I've heard Ted Malpass has been throwing curves all winter in anticipation of another Championship for the East Jordan Iron Works. We'll be calling a meeting of team managers soon to start working on a schedule. It should run along much better this year with better organization. It would be well if we put in a softball diamond away from the baseball diamond itself.

I have been planning with the Petoskey and Boyne City recreation directors for making a joint camping trip into Northern Michigan for a week. We have a good spot lined up and the only expense would be $7.00 per boy for food for a week. Any boy between the ages of 10-18 will be welcome. A definite date will be set later for this.

Commercial — Don't forget East Jordan High School is represented in the Conference this spring by a baseball and track team. I will be glad to give anyone a schedule of all events upon request.

Dan Devine, Summer Rec. Director.

Plants In The Home (By Vaun Ogden)

Amaryllis seems to be a very popular plant here in East Jordan. It is remarkable that such large blossoms can be stored up inside a bulb the size of an onion. Did you ever see a bulb send out two flower stalks, with three or four blossoms on each? Carlton Bowen had one this winter and we have heard of others since, so perhaps that is not so rare.

When the bulb is through blooming, keep the plant growing in the sun, giving it plenty of water. When the weather warms up, set it out in the garden, sinking the pot in the dirt, and keep it growing. It may need an occasional watering. In the fall, bring it in and gradually withhold water so that it will go into a dormant stage. Cut the old yellow leaves off and store it in the cellar. Sometime during the winter, shake some of the top dirt off, and replace with rich dirt. Set the plant in the livingroom. Water sparingly until growth starts. As soon as the bud shows from the side of the bulb, give plenty of water. Fertilize once a week.

If you buy your bulb (they run from 40c for an orange one to $3.00 for a pure white one), pot it as soon as it comes, which should be October to December. The pot should be but a little larger than the bulb, not over two inches wider. Water sparingly or not at all until the bud shows. This method invariably gives 100 percent results. The bud may even appear before the leaves. Then treat as suggested above.

Years ago my bulbs didn't produce, but I found that the greenhouse was too cold for them. This year they did better in the livingroom.

It takes about four years to grow a blooming bulb from the little bulblets. If you have lots of patience—and time—you might try it.

You might think fifty weeks is a long time to get a plant into bloom which then lasts perhaps only two weeks. However, if you had seen the enormous red blossoms Phyllis Malpass produced on her plant this year, you would consider the time well spent.

Customer: "Gracious, can you make a living tuning pianos way out in this backwoods?"
Tuner: "Oh, sure—in slack-times I tighten wire fences."

as she fishes for other species on her husband's license.

Revenue from trout stamp sales must be used by the conservation department exclusively for propagation and planting of trout.

Local Girls Attend Youth Talent Exhibit At Lansing

As a prelude to their own Achievement Day exhibit to be presented in Charlevoix, April 26, four East Jordan girls, Margaret Zoulek, Margaret Lord, Deanna Lehrbass and Sharon Whitmore, visited the third annual Youth Talent Exhibit in Lansing.

The girls were very impressed with the wide variety of talent exhibited which ranged from creative writing to toothpick structures, and included over a thousand entries.

They were pleased to note that a clothing entry by a girl in the 13-14 year group was second only to an exceptional piece of creative writing for the grand award. Also the clothing and novelty exhibits by the 12 year group were of great interest. The grand award for boys was an operating model speedboat with many unique workable features. The grand award winners in Lansing received trips to Washington, D. C.

The girls were accompanied on the trip to Lansing by Mrs. Seth Whitmore and were guests of friends of hers while in that city. While there they also visited many other points of interest in and around Lansing.

Mother: "Jimmy, there were two pieces of pie in the pantry this morning and now there is only one. How is that?"

Jimmy: "I don't know, it was so dark I guess I didn't see the other piece."

"Gracious, Mrs. Jones, what did you do when Bobbie swallowed the half dollar?"
"Oh, it wasn't serious—my husband held him up by the heels and shook him and it came out. You know he works for the Internal Revenue Bureau."

PASTURE POINTERS FOR DAIRY FARMERS

Good pasture doesn't just happen. It has to be planned. Planned crops are particularly needed to bridge that pasture gap in July and August when June grass and other native grasses dry up. Here are some planned pastures that can be planted and used this year as recommended by the dairy and crops specialists at Michigan State College:

Oats — Seed about one and one-half to two bushels per acre. Get it in as early as possible and start pasturing when it's around 12 inches high. Accompanying grass seedlings are not injured by pasturing.

Sudan Grass — Seed about 20 to 25 pounds per acre at corn planting time. Should be fertilized for best results.

Balbo Rye — Seed about one bushel per acre in mid-August. Do not pasture too closely that fall. It will give you the earliest pasture of any grass the next spring.

If you would like this information in written form, along with a lot of other good pasture pointers for dairy cattle, see your county agr'l agent or write to the extension office at Boyne City. Ask for "Pasture Pointers."

FERTILITY FOR THE GARDEN

A fertile soil in your garden will give you better production and more satisfaction. So, we'll list some recommendations from Jim Porter, extension soils specialist for Michigan State College.

Jim Says some good old barnyard manure applied at the rate of 20 bushels per 1,000 square feet along with 20 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate will give the soil lots of fertility. Get it on as soon as possible and before plowing. If you don't have any of that manure then use a 3-12-12 fertilizer at 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet and turn it under when you plow. Use of fertilizer at the time of planting will give results, too. Make a trench about two inches deep and two inches on one side of where the row of seeds is to go in. Then put in 3-12-12 fertilizer at the rate of two pounds for 100 feet of row. This will be covered when you dig the seed row and plant the seed.

Most gardens have been overlimed so it's a good idea to test the soil at least every two or three years before you put any lime on it. Chances are that it won't need the lime and putting it on will do more harm than good.

McLean Put Two Lots, Which Total More Than 6,300 Square Feet, Into Concrete in 1946. It Cost $1,100 in Materials and Labor, Not Counting Ten Days of His Own Labor and That of His Hired Man. But the Next Spring He Was Able to Hold 65 Head of Choice Steers on Feed 30 Days Longer than Many Other Farmers in the Locality Who Did Not Have Paved Lots.

The results included a three pound daily gain and a cent a pound advance in price, which McLean figures paid the cost of the lot.

The concrete yard is six inches thick and made up of a five to one mixture of pit run gravel. He cleans it off twice a week with a scraper on the rear of his tractor and loads the manure into the spreader for use on his land. The paved lot saves much of the value of the fertilizer also, McLean contends.

"So you don't believe Smith's widow is as sorry as she lets on?" "Well, when I gave her the $50,000 insurance check, she'd stopped crying and said she'd cheerfully give $5,000 of it to have him back."

Brown — Garrett

Center, a mutual cousin of the couple, and Dalton Knox, a brother-in-law of the bride, lighted the candles on either side of the altar which was arranged with palms and baskets of white gladioli. During the ceremony Miss Inman played "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, and as the couple knelt Mrs. Dorton sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Traditional wedding marches were used. The bride's gown of white satin featured a fitted bodice and full skirt which fell into a long train. The Queen Ann neckline was enhanced with small pieces of satin folded back across the shoulderline to the edge of the long sleeves, which came to a point at the wrists. A seed pearl design together with clear bugler beads was arranged on the folds. The seed pearl design was repeated in a tightly fitted inset at the waistline. Tiny self-covered buttons extended down the back. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

A coronet of seed pearls held in place her three-quarter veil of illusion. She carried a white orchid on a white bible, from which extended white satin streamers, caught with white feathered carnations. She was given in marriage by her brother, Robert H. Brown.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Dalton Knox, a sister of the bride, wore a light green floor length frock of marquisette. The bodice of the dress buttoned from the edge of the V-neckline to the waist-line with self-covered buttons. The bodice was tucked and tight fitting, and short puffed sleeves completed the dress. She wore a headband of matching material and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations, tied with ribbon matching her dress. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Betty Miller of Lansing, Mich., who was bridesmaid, wore a light yellow dress, styled identical to one worn by the matron of honor. Her colonial bouquet was of pink carnations tied with ribbon matching her dress. She also wore a single strand of pearls. DeWayne Weatherholt, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Mrs. Williams, mother of the bride, wore a navy street length dress with navy accessories. Mrs. Garrett also wore a navy blue ensemble. Both wore corsages of white feathered carnations.

The reception was held in the church basement after the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom centered the table, daffodils and greenery surrounded the cake. White tapers in crystal candelabra were also used on the table.

Mrs. B. R. Hayden, aunt of the bride, was hostess for the reception, assisting her were Beverly Jane Weatherholt of Montpelier, Ind., a niece of the groom, and Miss Irene Gorsline, Miss Norma Rice, Miss Ella Grover, Miss Helga Bley and Mrs. Keith Doddall of Lansing.

For traveling Mrs. Garrett changed to a two piece navy blue and red crepe dress. She wore navy accessories and a white orchid.

The bride was a graduate of the East Jordan High School class of '42', then attended L. B. W. at Lansing. After that was employed as secretary in the State Conservation Department in the State House at Lansing 6½ years. The groom graduated from the Montpelier High School and the Indiana University School of Dentistry.

He served in the U. S. Navy four years as a Dental officer and is now a Hartford City practicing dentist. — From Hartford City, (Ind.) News-Times, April 3.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Defense Setup Challenged; Progress Reported in ECA Field; Truman Signs Crop Increase Act

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DEFENSE: Charges Hurdled

Charges that the government has been "ragging its feet" in organizing civil defense against an A-bomb attack and in telling Americans how to protect themselves have been hurled by four big-city officials.

MAYOR Elmer E. Robinson of San Francisco minced no words in asserting that federal authorities have "fumbled the ball" of civilian defense. He urged that a policy of total defense be inaugurated immediately by the federal government.

Federal planners have said that local officials will have to assume primary responsibility for civilian defense against atomic warfare, the government's role being that of coordinator.

THAT MUST have seemed an odd stand to take to officials who have no knowledge of atomic bomb effects or of the first steps to take toward protection if such bombings occur. Surely public leaders were within the bonds of reason and logic when they demanded that the government channel to them more information on how to provide protection against atomic warfare—information which only the federal government possesses, if anyone or any group does possess it.

The government's attitude seemed a cautious one and hard to reconcile with all the scare techniques prevalent in connection with the possibility of another war in which the A-bomb or the H-bomb would be the most frightful weapons.

FOREIGN AID: Some Progress

As the economic cooperation administration started its third year of operations, Marshall plan countries were being urged to take two steps of paramount importance to make themselves independent of extraordinary outside aid by the time ECA ends in June of 1952.

COUNTRIES participating in the Marshall plan were to be told that they should intensify efforts to sell more products to the United States and other hard-currency areas. ECA pointed to that as one means of closing the dollar gap.

In that connection, the agency continued, the U.S. could assist by following increasingly liberal import policies and commercial policies generally so that trade barriers do not prevent European countries from increasing dollar earnings in this country.

AS to European economic unification, ECA stated its belief that the establishment of an effective European payments union is of great importance. Elimination of public and private trade restrictions also were said to be a contributing factor to economic unification.

As a result of increased production and financial and political stabilization, ECA said, communism has been placed on the defensive in all participating countries.

HOGS: No Progs

For the first time within the past eight years, hogs were being bought and sold at major U.S. markets without any price supports—and dealers admitted it was difficult to note any difference.

PRICES were steady to 25 cents higher. What did that mean? Was it an indication that federal agricultural planners could have been wrong all these years? If that were the case, there probably would be no admission of it.

In fact, one U.S. department of agriculture spokesman hailed the event as a "normal market." It was "just a matter of supply and demand," he said, as if the department had been aware of and had considered that venerable law ever since the government went into the farming business.

FARMERS and traders, however, held varying opinions as to what might happen when the markets opened for the first time since hog price supports were allowed to die. Some felt growers would become panicky and flood the market with hogs. But, as was reported, nothing happened.

Anti-support adherents, nevertheless, could draw little consolation from the evident, for farm leaders had made it clear vigorous efforts would be made to restore hog price props.

'Hot' Shirt

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson (right) talks "cold war" in a "hot" shirt as he and President Truman discuss defense strategy and anti-Communist activities at the "Little White House" in Key West, Fla. Secretary Johnson's shirt recalls the "Solomon-in-all-his-glory" quotation, but even it was topped by one the President frequently donned for pictures.

CROP BOOST: A Compromise

In any manner likely to affect the farm vote—with the congressional elections not so many months away—President Truman showed an unwonted disposition to compromise, rather than come out fighting against anything he didn't like, as he has done so frequently in the past.

THE PRESIDENT compromised on an agricultural bill raising acreage limitations on cotton and peanuts for 1950 and modifying price supports for Irish potatoes next year.

In signing the measure after long study, the President noted, according to the presidential press secretary, Charles G. Ross, that "the good features outweighed the undesirable features." And with that profound utterance, the bill was signed into law.

The President acted after undergoing heavy pressure from groups urging approval or veto of the joint resolution.

The section affecting potatoes, knocks out price supports for potatoes in 1951 unless marketing quotas are then in effect. Additional legislation would be needed, however, to put such quotas into operation in 1951.

THE MEASURE as approved authorized an increase of 1.5 million acres in cotton acreage this year and a 50 per cent increase in acreage of peanuts planted for oil production. The previous cotton allowance was 27 million acres.

It would permit peanut growers—principally in Texas and Alabama—100,000 more acres and would permit excess peanuts to be grown for oil without penalties on certain conditions.

JAPAN: Bible vs. Marx

Believing that Christianity and the Bible are the dykes that are holding up the flood of communism in Japan, the American Bible Society is beginning a campaign to send Bibles to Japan—Bibles printed in the Japanese language.

Already the society has distributed a total of 2,789,956 Bibles among the Japanese, but it is felt—and this sentiment is shared by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, that isn't enough.

GENERAL MACARTHUR isn't alone in that opinion. He has asked for millions more. And Dr. Shiro Murata, an officer of the Japan Bible Society, said: "The eyes of Japan are fixed on two books. One is Das Kapital by Karl Marx. The other is the Holy Bible. Japan is at the crossroads."

To usher in its program of Bibles for the Japanese, the American Bible Society this month is sponsoring a huge signature book of donors for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase and send the Bibles. Every person who contributes one dollar or more to the project will be asked to sign the donor book.

WHEN the campaign comes to an end, probably this fall, the huge book, bearing the signature of every donor, will be forwarded to Japan where it will be displayed in the offices of the Japan Bible Society as a token of friendship from the people of America to the people of Japan.

SECURITY: A Denial

U.S. State Secretary Dean Acheson branded as falsehoods statements by Sen. Joseph McCarthy that Owen Lattimore—whom McCarthy has called a Soviet agent—was the actual director of American policy in the Far East. Answering questions at a press conference, Acheson added that:

1. Lattimore never was employed by the state department.
2. He (Acheson) isn't sure he ever met Lattimore.
3. Lattimore's contacts with the state department have been limited to a few occasions.

4. According to his information, Lattimore never had a desk at the state department.

Lattimore, a Far Eastern expert and a professor at John Hopkins university, had reached London from Afghanistan, from whence he was returning to answer McCarthy's charges. In London, Lattimore branded the McCarthy charges as "unmitigated lies."

McCarthy, meanwhile, was in a hospital after a four-hour senate speech in which he said he would produce a witness who would swear Lattimore was a member of the Communist party. He told the senate he has documents to prove that Lattimore was a Soviet agent who was getting instructions from Moscow as long ago as 1936.

Lattimore was most important to McCarthy, for the senator had declared he would rest his entire case of Communist leanings in the state department on the outcome of his charges against Lattimore.

And, unless the senator could produce his witness and his documents, the case boiled down to one of the senator's word against that of Acheson and Lattimore, with the public deciding as it pleased about who was right.

FLYING DISKS: Navy Says 'No'

If there are, or were, any flying saucers whirring through space, the United States navy has nothing to do with them and knows nothing about them. The air force said the same thing.

THE SERVICES also denied that they are developing secret planes, guided missiles or anything else that could be mistaken for flying saucers.

These denials were issued after two published reports traced the saucers to navy and air force "secret" projects.

An air force spokesman declared that "the armed forces are not doing anything that could be traced to being the basis of reports of flying saucers."

He said the air force position was the same as it was last December when it announced—after investigating 375 reports of flying saucers—that they were "misinterpretations of various conventional objects, a mild form of mass hysteria or hoaxes." In other words "there ain't no such thing" as a flying saucer.

A NAVY SPOKESMAN denied with equal vigor that the navy is developing super-speed planes that have been spotted as "saucers."

Said he: "The navy is not experimenting with, or doing research on, any type of plane or guided missile that resembles in any way a flying saucer."

So, that should be that. However, it would be difficult to convince many Americans that there are no flying saucers, and if a troubled citizen, seeking, subconsciously or not, a momentary relief from his woes and burdens, thinks an object in the sky is a flying saucer, no particular harm has been done. In fact it may do him some good.

SCRIPTURE: Amos, (especially 4:1-2; 6:1-3; 7:1-7)
DEVOTIONAL READING: Jeremiah 18:1-8

Nation Going Soft
Lesson for April 23, 1950

AFTER the fraternity dance one of the "brothers" shot another, for no good reason. Well, there was a reason of a sort. The killer was drunk, on liquor the fraternity had bought and served him. His excuse, when arrested, was that when he was "tight" he was trigger-happy. . . . A prominent motion picture star divorces her husband for cruelty. It comes out at the trial that he was mean anyhow, and that all his meannesses got worse when he was drunk. One wonders: Did she know him very well before she married him?

Dr. Foreman

Every day the papers carry reports of cars that "went out of control" with serious or fatal results. Careful reading of the story too often brings out the fact that the boys had been visiting a night-spot or two before the crash. Survivors will tell the police they couldn't have been drunk, they had only had a few beers. Well, you don't have to be drunk to let a car get out from your control. This writer personally has observed a driver who had had exactly one beer run a car right off the pavement in broad sunlight.

Gets Monotonous, Doesn't It?

A SEX CRIME is committed by a middle-aged man who sheds tears over it afterward and can hardly remember anything about it. "I never would have done it if I had been sober," he says. . . . A girl is found murdered in a men's rooming-house, a nice girl too.

Nobody was drunk—they had only been taking a few drinks. . . . A 27-year-old woman was shot and killed during an argument with her sister-in-law. The shooting, it was claimed, was accidental. They had been having some friendly beers in a near-by tavern "for a couple of hours" before the shooting.

After they got home, there was an argument. One woman got her husband's revolver out to scare the other woman, and the first thing she knew, she was being arrested for murder. Her husband told the police that when sober his wife was "deadly scared" of guns.

(Beer, the brewers' ads tell us, is the friendly drink, it is the drink of moderation; "Beer Belongs." It does, indeed, but where? Possibly that unfortunate killer-woman had believed what the ads told her.)

The Truth About Liquor

WELL. . . this could be strung out to the length of several columns, without half trying. The above items are not from some chamber of horrors conducted by the W.C.T.U., not from a sermon by some Anti-Saloon league preacher, but gathered from newspaper items from a few days' papers in a city which certainly is not prejudiced against liquor.

The truth about liquor can never be learned from the advertising pages, it can be better learned from the news columns. Better yet, if you want to know the truth about it, ask the lawyers, doctors and ministers you know. Ask the lawyers if their business would be brisker or slower if liquor were not in existence.

Ask the doctors whether steady drinkers have stronger or weaker resistance to disease. Ask the ministers if they know of any troubles in their congregations due to liquor. (And if even church people have troubles with it, what about people with no religion?)

Drink and Doom

IT IS NOT TRUE that if liquor were totally abolished from the earth, all the troubles of mankind would vanish. Man has too much meanness in him. A sober scoundrel is one of the worst. But it is true that liquor lends itself all too easily to all sorts of troubles, all sorts of sins. When Amos thunders against the evils of his time, drunkenness is one of the sins prominent on his list.

Remember that in Amos' time there was no whisky, no brandy, no distilled liquors, only "mild" stuff like wine. Every denunciation of drink in the Bible is directed against what would now be called light wine and beers.

One thing is as certain now as it was in Amos' time: A nation that insists on having its liquor is not the nation God will insist on saving when its day of doom arrives.

Love with Lunch

Collapsing Seat

Quiet, It's Dark
By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Is a Pretty Girl to Blame If a Married Man Falls in Love With Her?

A pretty cashier in a restaurant became acquainted with a customer who often had lunch there. He was a married man, but nevertheless became more and more interested in the young woman. Although she didn't give him any encouragement, he began sending her gifts, writing romantic letters, and "hanging around" the restaurant. Finally the man left his home and moved to an apartment. His wife promptly sued the cashier for alienating her husband's affections and breaking up her happy home. But the court denied her claim. The judge said that a girl can't be held responsible if, without any encouragement, a married man happens to fall in love with her. He added: "To be friendly is a virtue, not a fault. To be attractive and pleasing is a natural right, we may even say a primal instinct of a woman!"

If a Movie Seat Caves in, May the Sitter Collect Damages?

A 196-pound man went to a movie matinee, and eased himself into a back row seat. Half way through the main feature, as the man was shifting his position, the seat suddenly collapsed—dumping him unceremoniously upon the floor. Painfully bruised, he filed suit against the theater owner. At the trial, he was able to prove that the bracket underneath the seat had been loose for some time. The theater owner's defense was that the defect had never been reported—and that he shouldn't be blamed for something he knew nothing about. But the court granted the moviegoer's claim. The judge said that, when a theater sells tickets to the public, the management must take precautions to see that the premises are in safe condition.

Does the Law Require People To Be Quieter at Night Than in the Daytime?

A small bakery, located in a residential neighborhood, did most of its work in the hours before dawn. During much of the night, the neighbors were disturbed by the clangor of trays, the shouts of workmen, and the operation of a mixing machine ("which sounded like a truck climbing a hill in low gear"). Finally the neighbors went to court for an injunction. The proprietor argued that the noises were a necessary part of his business, but the court nevertheless ordered him to reduce the clatter at once. The judge said: "The time when noise is made must be taken into consideration. Mankind needs sleep for a succession of several hours, and nature has provided a time for that purpose—to wit, the night. By common consent of civilized society, the night is devoted to rest and sleep."

May You Swear All You Want To—In Your Own Home?

While repairing his kitchen sink late one night, a man hit his thumb with a hammer. He promptly gave vent to a torrent of purple language that could be heard a block away! Arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace, the man insisted that he could swear as much as he wanted to—in the privacy of his own home. But the court disagreed and found him guilty. The judge said: "The speaker stayed in his house, but the words did not—and the words are the crime!"

A young man became engaged to a very religious girl. At her insistence he agreed to go through a religious ceremony—right after the civil wedding. However, he hadn't the slightest intention of doing any such thing—and he told her so as soon as the first ceremony was over. He said she was now legally his wife, and should make the best of the situation. The girl's reply was to go to a lawyer and start suit for an annulment. And the court granted her a decree, holding the marriage was based on fraud.

Bowling News

In the first of the leagues to complete the season, Dick Hamerski's, Tees of the East Jordan Iron Works league won out over John Umlar's, Valves. Both teams dropped 3 points on the last night. The foundry league had many new bowlers in the six team league which concluded it's third year of competition, among which was Dick Malpass, who was on the winning team. Dick got a real thrill out of winning and bowling in the league.

The remaining leagues have 3 nights remaining to complete their season and, with the exception of the Inter-City league, where the Recreation has a 10 point lead over Chris' Men's Wear, it looks like there will be a battle right to the finish. In the Merchant's league Thorsen's Lumber Co. and Hillman's Insurance continue to set the pace while in the Ladies league Metal Products held 1st place by only 2 points over the Dress & Gift Shop and the State Bank who are tied for 2nd place.

Scores in the Merchant's league Monday night were much lower than they have been, but the battle or points was as usual, hotly contested. Hillman's held the lead as they won 3 points over Cal's and tied the last game. The tie was discovered after both teams had left the bowling alley and the result of the last game will have to wait until next week. Thorsen's Lumber Co. was held to a 2-2 split with St. Joseph, while the State Bank, American Legion and Monarch Finer Foods won all 4 points from Brock's Turkey Farm, E. J. Canning Co. and Somerville's Grocery respectively. Somerville's were without the services of their ace bowler, Spin Cihak, who has a severely cut finger. In the other match of the evening the Recreation won 3 points from Ellsworth Electric. High scores for the night were bowled by Greg Boswell, who had 216 in a 571 series; Ike Rood, who had 204 but only had a 499 series, while Marv Elzinga and Tony Shooks of the same team had 507 and 513. Monk Cihak was tops for Somerville's with 551 which included a 195 middle game. Abe Cole sandwiched 213 between games of 155 and 158 to lead the Legion bowlers, while the best score for the E. J. Cannors was Burl Braman's 449. Rev. J. J. Malinowski topped the Saints with 512 and "Andy" Anderson was high for the Lumber team with 530. "Ol' Burn Em Up Clark" had a 215 game for Hillman's and ended up with the top series for his team 568, while both Dick Hamerski and Joe Wilkins had 530 each for Cal's Tavern. Pat Bartsch shot a consistent 562 series on games of 177-197-188 to lead the Ellsworth Electric and Barney Adair had a 245 middle game for 587, tops on the Recreation.

In the Ladies league Fay Marks of Backmann's had high series with 483 and her team won 3 points over the Central Lake Torch. Mildred Campbell topped the league for high single game on a 196 effort, and the Bankers won all 4 points from St. Joseph. Florine Kranhke had a 190 game for the Dress & Gift Shop as they won 4 points from Quality Foods. Betty Jo Strehl had 191 in her middle game as Cal's Tavern won three from the leaders, Metal Products. Mickey Hamerski added a 465 series to the cause of Cal's Tavern. Norm's Tavern won 3 over Art Cleaners when Helen Cihak had high series for her team on 452. Last place Home Modernizing won a couple of close ones from Rainbow Bar to split 2-2, as Fran Sommerville had 466 for Home Modernizing.

Nine couples from East Jordan bowled in the King and Queen doubles tournament at Cadillac Sunday, and several had good counts over the 1200 mark. Rose and Barney Adair topped the bowlers from East Jordan with 1255 the first time and 1242 the second. 1284 leads the tournament and several bowlers are planning to return to Cadillac next Sunday to take another chance at rolling the high score in the tournament which ends April 23rd.

PROBLEMS OF OUR LADY DIPLOMATS

Like football, world diplomacy has been considered a man's game until Perle Mesta, Eugenie Anderson, Ruth Bryan Owen and Daisy Harriman proved that women are naturally suited to the subtle art of diplomacy. Read about their problems—and lady diplomats have plenty—as told by Augustine, in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (April 23) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Missing Motive
Rueful Release
 By Will Bernard, LL.B.

State laws vary. For personal guidance, see your local attorney.

Should a Merchant Let His Customer Make a Foolish Purchase?

An art dealer bought a group of paintings from a famous collector and put them up for sale. One day a society woman became interested in a certain picture, believing it belonged to the special collection. But as it happened, this particular painting was just part of the dealer's regular stock. After some study, the woman said: "I'll take this one. If it was good enough for that famous connoisseur, it's good enough for me!" The dealer said nary a word, and quickly wrapped up the purchase. When the woman later discovered her mistake, she tried to back out of the bargain—and a court ruled that the dealer must indeed take back the picture. The judge said that, when a customer buys something under such an obvious misunderstanding, the merchant should speak up.

May a Man Be Convicted Of Murder—If the Motive Is Never Found?

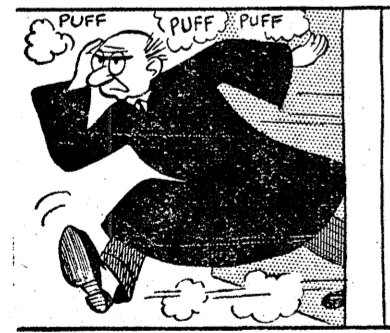

A stranger checked in at a motel on a side street. The next morning, the proprietor was found on the floor of his kitchen—shot to death. Soon afterward the stranger was arrested on a charge of murder. At the trial, the prosecutor produced an overwhelming mass of circumstantial evidence—all pointing to the defendant as the killer. Only one link was missing; a motive for the crime. However, the court decided that the accused man should be held guilty anyhow. The judge said that shooting somebody in cold blood is murder, even though the motive remains locked forever in the heart of the killer.

If an Injured Person Signs a Release Too Soon, Is He Bound By It?

A girl was knocked down by a coal truck, and suffered an injured arm. The coal company offered her $100 cash, if she would sign a release of all claims. When a doctor told the girl that her injury was "nothing serious," she decided to take the $100 and sign the release. Unfortunately, the doctor was wrong. The girl's arm soon grew much worse, and finally became permanently lame. Some months later, she filed suit against the company for additional damages. She said she had signed the release "without realizing how serious the injury was." But the court rejected her claim. The judge said that she had signed away her rights with her eyes wide open—and was therefore just out of luck.

May a Judge Preside Over Two Trials at the Same Time?

Finding himself with a heavy calendar one morning, a judge decided upon an unusual expedient. He called two cases for trial at the same time—one in the courtroom and one in his chambers. During the proceedings, His Honor shuffled back and forth between the two places, hearing as much as he could of each trial. But when his decisions were later appealed to a higher court, both of them were thrown out. The upper court said that, while the judge did undoubtedly speed things up, he didn't do justice to anybody concerned.

An insurance broker's wife was so popular with some of her husband's clients that he became very jealous. Finally he filed a divorce suit on grounds of mental cruelty, accusing his wife of "flirting" with several young men. But the court flatly refused to grant a decree. The judge said: "However reprehensible such conduct may be in a married woman, it does not constitute grounds for divorce." His Honor suggested that, in a situation like this, the husband should either "subdue his wife or suffer in silence!"

Match Snatch
Crooked Gabbie
Sneaky Student
 By Will Bernard, LL.B.

State laws vary. For personal guidance, see your local attorney.

Is it a Crime to Snatch A Package of Matches From Someone?

One fine day a grocer stationed himself in front of a competitor store and began passing out free matches—with his own name and address printed on each package. Soon the competitor stormed outside, ordered the man away, and angrily snatched a package from his hand. The first grocer promptly summoned a policeman and had the competitor arrested for assault and battery. At the trial, the latter insisted that grabbing a package of matches was not serious enough to justify criminal charges. But the court disagreed and found him guilty. The judge said that any rude and angry touching, no matter how insignificant, may amount to assault and battery.

Should You Ride With a Cab Driver Who Has Been Drinking?

A man got into a cab and bent forward to tell the driver his destination. He was surprised to see a half-empty whiskey bottle on the front seat—and he was still more surprised to see the driver take a long drink before starting the car! Soon after the ride began, the cab went through a boulevard stop and crashed into a truck. The passenger was hurt, and sued for damages. But when the full story came out in court, the judge turned down his claim. The judge said it was the man's own fault for accepting a ride under such circumstances. "No one with sense," said His Honor, "would ride with such a driver!"

Could a Student Be Expelled For Ungallant Behavior?

A young man enrolled in a college to study airplane design. One day he sent a "mash note" to a girl who sat near him. The girl promptly reported the matter to the instructor, and the youth was summoned to the office of the dean. There he flatly denied writing the note, blaming it instead on another student. When the truth was finally established, the young man was expelled from the school. He took the matter to court, claiming that expulsion was too severe a penalty for his action. However, the court upheld the ruling of the college authorities. The judge said that annoying the girl, plus lying, plus falsely accusing a fellow-student—all these added up to enough grounds for expulsion.

If a Bully Chases You Off the Sidewalk, May You Collect Damages?

A man was so afraid of his terrible-tempered neighbor that he always tried to avoid him. One evening, while walking home, he noticed the neighbor following him—with a stick poised in his hand. When the man started to run, the neighbor gave chase—but the fugitive managed to duck inside his front gate. Later he decided to sue for assault. At the trial, the neighbor argued that he was not liable because he had never gotten within striking range of his target. However, the court held him responsible anyhow. The judge said that the chase in itself constituted an illegal assault—whether it was successful or not.

An atheist was expounding his views in a public park one morning, when a policeman came up and arrested him. At the suggestion of the district attorney, the man was brought to trial on a charge of "conducting public worship without a license!" Atheism, insisted the district attorney, is really a religion in itself. However, the court disagreed and found the speaker not guilty of the charge. The judge said that worship is based on the concept of a Divine Being—and that's just exactly what atheism denies.

EXTENSION OFFERS
 FREE TRAINING TO LEARN SEWING

Your wish to make your own clothes, or your children's clothes, to save money and have garments that are original need not be an idle one.

Many homemakers without previous training or sewing experience have learned the skills as part of the program of their home demonstration group. Training is provided by clothing specialists from Michigan State College's Extension Service. They train leaders who in turn train local members, and it is all free.

For women with small children there are special classes for making children's clothes. Last year members made more than 500 children's coats and other garments and saved more than $2,000.00. They made more than 3,000 dresses for themselves and saved nearly $20,000.00.

Instruction is set up so that you progress from simple garments to more complicated patterns and fabrics. If you know something about sewing you can start with a more advanced group. You will be pleased to learn, new finishes and short cuts in sewing.

Home demonstration members like their home sewed garments because they believe they are more satisfactory than ready-made in material, construction and fit.

Other phases of clothing are also presented to the members such as facts about the new finishes for fabrics and the use of new fabrics. They learn how to remodel older garments to present-day styles. Study of accessories, becoming styles and colors and pattern alternation are also of interest.

Here Lies Joe Teenager
 Look at the sketch below. That's Joe—the boy who, four hours ago, was humming bebop over cokes at the local soda fountain. The boy who was just a little too enthusiastic about life—and nearly lost it with his car.

Because the world was Joe's oyster, he had to show his girl what a great guy he was. He had to show her that he could "ditch" another car, just for the sheer fun of skillful maneuvering. Joe forgot that there are too many variable factors when you're playing with lives. Perhaps you're a boy like Joe. Perhaps you have the idea that reckless driving is part of being a "regular fellow"—Think of Joe before you try it again. Remember that no false-prestige is worth endangering the lives of others. And you'd look pretty sad at the Junior Prom with a broken arm and leg. Remember too, that it could be worse—a lot worse. Countless teenagers lose their lives every year because they wanted to "show off" with Dad's car. The only really SMART DRIVING IS SAFE DRIVING. Joe had to learn the hard way... don't let that happen to YOU.

May You Get into Trouble By Doing Nothing At All?

Two coeds went swimming at a lake resort, but soon lost sight of each other in the water. When one of the girls was unable to locate her companion, she became alarmed and reported her fears to the proprietor of the beach. He replied: "She is probably on the shore — look around for her!" The man made no effort to help find the missing girl. That evening, her body was recovered from the bottom of the lake. The victim's family later filed a damage suit against the proprietor. In his defense, he argued that a person can't be held liable just for "doing nothing at all." However, the court disagreed and made him pay damages to the bereaved family. The judge said there are times when a person has no right to stand by and do nothing — and this was one of those times!

If a Boy Gets Hurt In a "Guinea Race," May He Collect Damages?

A department store hit upon an unusual advertising stunt. At a fixed time, a flock of guinea hens was to be turned loose from the store roof. Some of them would have "lucky number" tags, and whoever caught these hens would win a prize. On the appointed day, the birds were released and enthusiastic crowds went whooping after them. One 17-year-old boy dove for a lucky hen — just as five other people did likewise. In the scramble, the youth suffered a broken leg. Afterward he sued the store for damages, but the court turned down his claim. The judge said that, just as in a neighborhood football game, the young man had taken his chances by getting into the contest.

May a Person Bequeath Money To Perpetuate His Own Memory?

An eccentric bachelor died, leaving behind him a substantial trust fund and a most peculiar will. The will provided that the money should be used to establish a brass band, which would march to his grave on each anniversary of his death — as well as on each legal holiday. At the grave, the band was to play a concert of mournful music and then march back home! The will specified that this ritual should continue "forever after." However, when the will was tested in court, it was held invalid. The judge said it was against the public interest to tie up money forever — just to perpetuate one man's memory!

May a Convicted Killer Get a New Trial—On a Mere Technicality?

A young man was arrested on a charge of murdering his sweetheart. The trial lasted for several days, finally drawing to an end late Saturday afternoon. Anxious to wind up the case, the judge immediately began giving his instructions to the jury. He talked, and talked, and talked — until 10 minutes after midnight! Now it so happened that the local law prohibited any court sessions on Sunday. When the jury brought in a "guilty" verdict, the convicted youth filed an appeal on the basis of this 10-minute overlap into Sunday morning. And the court — very reluctantly — granted him a brand new trial. The judge said it was just as wrong to break the rules by 10 minutes as by 10 hours!

A woman was driving along a narrow side street when she came to a main thoroughfare. She noticed a car coming, but — since it was still some distance away — she started across. Just then, the oncoming car suddenly speeded up! There was a crash, and the man driving the other car was hurt. Later he sued the woman for damages, insisting that he had the right-of-way. However, the court exonerated the woman from all blame. The judge said the man should have proceeded with caution.

In a reply to Republican legislative leaders Governor G. Mennon Williams has reaffirmed his decision not to permit the state legislature to consider a bill in 1950 to increase gasoline and weight taxes for city and rural road improvements. As the 1950 legislative session is a special session, not a general session, the Governor is within his rights to limit bills which the legislature may consider this year.

The Michigan State Supreme Court has restored Brig. Gen. Louis A. Kunzig to his position as business manager of the Liquor Control Commission. The court opinion held that the State Civil Service Commission had full jurisdiction over a state employee in a classified civil service position. Kunzig was fired by two Democratic members of the three-member liquor board, headed by John J. Kozaren, an appointee of Governor Williams. Kunzig served under Governors Kelly and Sigler, and he qualified for his post in a civil service competitive examination, conducted by the Civil Service Commission. The court opinion serves to reinforce the authority of the Civil Service Commission in safeguarding employees from political patronage raids.

Automobile finance gouging in Michigan, as reported by the Better Business Bureau of Detroit, would be eliminated by a reform bill now before the Michigan state legislature. The sponsor is State Senator Harry F. Hittle, Lansing. The bill has already been approved by the Senate, and a favorable vote in the House is forecast this week.

A recent statement of the Better Business Bureau included the following: "Typical complaints have disclosed gouging of car purchasers by conniving dealers and finance companies whose 'finance charges' include dealer 'kickbacks' up to $169.50 and rates of 44, 69, 84, 106, 134 percent and up. "These loan shark rates can be charged with immunity because of the weird fiction that a 'finance charge' is a so-called 'cash-time-differential' but isn't interest and hence not subject to the usury laws!"

Amendments aimed at eliminating the welfare chisler have been reported favorably by the Senate Social Aid Committee of the legislature at Lansing. Amendments would limit state matching funds to 50 percent of the county total unless a higher ratio had been approved by the State Administrative Board; require uniform rules for all county welfare boards; penalize welfare applicants should they fail to report all income; requiring recipients of welfare work "at prevailing wages". These recommendations are the result of an investigation made by a welfare investigating committee headed by Senator Colin Smith, Big Rapids, Republican.

Governor Williams continues to maintain in public speeches that $110 millions in additional government taxes, if paid by corporations out of profits, would not be paid ultimately by consumers. Governor Williams says that corporations would not transfer state tax to the consumer in the form of price increases. In fact, in his March 15 message to the legislature he held: "The weight of expert opinion holds that a corporation profits tax cannot be shifted to consumers in price increases." Increased benefits of unemployment compensation are proposed by President Truman and Governor Williams. The additional cost of President Truman's recommendations was estimated by the President in a message to Congress on April 7 to be $850 millions, all paid by employees. The federal and state unemployment tax is added to production cost and becomes another hidden tax paid by the consumer.

Lansing observers are wondering whether the state legislature can reverse a trend, abetted by pressure groups and encouraged by some Governors, of bigger and better government spending. If Republican leaders can hew to the line, balancing the state budget without imposition of a new tax for increase of state expenditures, the result will be a near miracle. The federal government finds itself unable to make ends meet, even in a period of record prosperity. It is easy to talk economy; it is very difficult to vote economy. The test will come at Lansing in a few weeks.
