Community Chest Recreation Program

ANNUAL RECREATION PROGRAM GETTING OFF TO A GOOD START

The summer recreation program is getting off to a good start this week according to Dan Devine, who started the first program East Jordan has ever had last year.

The school has fixed up the tennis courts and purchased new nets and a new softball field is being laid out in back of the baseball diamond so facilities in East Jordan will be at a new high.

According to Devine, parents have shown a great deal of interest in the joint summer camp to be held with Petoskey, Boyne City and Pellston, starting June 26. The program will consist of swimming instructions, life-saving, athletics, nature study hikes, fishing, campfire programs, good sportsmanship and other features. An entry blank or any information may be obtained from Mr. Devine.

Part of next week will be spent getting organized, but the following program will be followed as closely as possible. Young people may come anytime, however.

Your Charlevoix Soil Conservation District

A series of articles will be written under this heading to better acquaint you with the operation of your Charlevoix Soil Conservation District.

The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District was organized in October, 1948, under the Michigan Soil Conservation District Law. The Directors are George Klooster, chairman; Norval Korhase, vice-chairman; Peter Winnick, treasurer; Clayton Healey and Carlton Smith. Ed Reban, county agr. agent was elected secretary. E. B. Watkins is soil conservationist or farm planner.

It is the responsibility of the directors to administer the program and to cooperate with all agencies, organizations and individuals in developing an adequate soil and water conservation program for the lands of the county. It is also the responsibility of the directors to accept applications for assistance and to decide in what order assistance will be made available to the applicants. They also supervise the use of materials or equipment made available to the district. Assistance obtained from the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District is made available at no cost except for materials or equipment furnished or used.

The Soil Conservation Service, a federal bureau under the U. S. Department of Agriculture, when asked by the soil conservation districts for assistance, assigns a full time farm planner to the district at no extra cost. These technicians or farm planners have no authority whatsoever over the district or the farmers in it. The SCS directs the work of its own men and develops their technical standards, but it has no power of any sort over the farmers or their soil conservation district.

SHOULD TONSILS COME OUT?

Tonsils, formerly were considered seeds of infection, warranting removal as a matter of course. Recent findings indicate need of much caution in their removal, it is reported in an article "Should Tonsils Come Out?" in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (June 11) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. Get Sunday's Detroit Times.

supported by Strehl that building permits be granted to Elgy Brintnall, C. Leslie Gibbard, Mrs. Lucy Ranney and Howard Darbee. Carried all ayes.

Motion was made by Rebec and supported by Clark that a fire hydrant be replaced on the corner of Second and Mill Streets with the necessary valves. Carried all ayes.

Illegal To Dump Minnows

FISHERMEN WHO DO SO SABOTAGE EFFORTS UNDERTAKEN FOR THEIR OWN BENEFIT

Fishermen enjoying good fishing on their favorite lake may find contrary conditions in a few years if they dump unused minnows and other live fish in the water, the conservation department cautions.

Too, such anglers are violating the law, the department notes as more boats dot upstate inland lakes. Besides being illegal to release minnows and other live fish in any lake or stream, it also is against the law to fish with any kind of live fish in designated trout lakes.

Emptying the minnow pail in the lake actually amounts to planting fish without a permit and it may undo the work and waste the money the department has expended in an attempt to create better fishing. Trout lakes, for example, have been created or improved by removing certain species of fish and minnows. Every year fishery field crews poison out a number of waters, yet careless or unthinking fishermen can sabotage the very efforts undertaken for their benefit.

Frequently, a second poisoning of a lake substantiates the suspicions of fishery workers—that undesirable types of minnows had been re-introduced and upset the biological fish balance.

The conservation department urges anglers to destroy all unused bait at the end of the fishing trip or return it to the place obtained.

Some 35 species of minnows can be found in Michigan lakes and streams. Most common are the lake emerald shiner, northern common shiner, blunt-nosed minnow, western golden shiner and the northern creek chub.

Auxiliary Meeting In I. O. O. F. Hall

All members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 227 are to meet at the Legion Home Sunday, June 11th, at 1:00 p. m. The Lower 11th District Auxiliary business meeting will be held in the I. O. O. F. Hall. District President Hilda Bathke will conduct the meeting. All members should try to attend this meeting and be on hand for all events of the day as we want to make this an outstanding convention.

Incorrect Report Being Circulated Relative to State Parks

Moving to spike incorrect reports, the conservation department's parks division states there is no admission or parking charge collected at any one of the 60 state parks and recreation areas.

Several news accounts referring to the 50-cent camping charge—which becomes effective June 15 in those parks where tent or trailer camping is available—have led many persons to believe gate fees would be collected from park patrons. For the average park user, park officials stress, there are absolutely no charges with which to contend.

To help meet park operating costs, the conservation commission recently approved a camping charge for tent and trailer camp users of 50 cents-per-day per camp.

Some people speak from experience, and others, from experience, don't speak.

Parolee Slays Petoskey Patrolman

ED. GEORGE OWNS FIRING FIVE SHOTS AT OFFICER ROBERT RUSSELL

Twenty-year-old Edward George early Tuesday afternoon calmly admitted killing Patrolman Robert Russell of the Petoskey police force.

George and his brother-in-law, James W. Allen, 22, were surrendered to police by the former's father, Arthur George of 611 Lockwood Ave., Petoskey.

According to Captain Earl Hathaway of the state police, George admitted he killed Russell after the officer had ordered him to drop his gun.

Russell was killed in the driveway of the Perry Auto Sales as he was investigating prowlers at 2:45 a. m.

The senior George appeared at the police station at 1 p. m. with the two men as state police converged on the swamp area south of the city. He said he had found them at the home of Allen's father, Ray Allen, on US 131, south of the city. Earlier police had searched the house but had failed to find a trace of the slayers.

Tuesday morning, about five hours after the killing, the senior George called Sheriff John Kilborn and said his son, Edward, was missing. He said his .22 caliber revolver and a supply of ammunition were also missing.

The father soon afterward identified a hat found near the scene of the killing as the property of his son.

At noon Captain Hathaway questioned Herbert Canell of Jarman St. who said he had been with Allen and George throughout Monday evening.

The trio visited several nearby cities, drinking gin from a bottle. Canell was quoted as saying, "He declared he left George and Allen at George's home at midnight."

Both of the young men have criminal records. Allen is on probation for a series of burglaries for which George's older brother, William, is serving a two to 15 year sentence at Jackson prison. The younger George was committed to the Cassidy Lake Training School at Chelsea after a series of minor crimes in 1948. He was released last September.

Police visited a Mitchell street house where Allen had a room and found suitcases belonging to both Allen and George packed as if a hurried departure was planned. It is believed they had left Allen's room and were going to ward the Perry used car lot when they were spotted by Russell and Patrolman Charles Laubrich.

The two officers saw two men cross the bridge and enter a car in the Perry lot. They circled around and parked the police car on Wachtel avenue. Laubrich went to the rear of the building and Russell went to the front. Laubrich heard shots fired and ran around the building. He found Russell lying in the driveway. — Petoskey Evening News.

Children Are Rushing Out To Play

NEED EVERY PROTECTION ADULTS CAN GIVE THEM

A million Michigan children—glad in the freedom of school let out—are rushing out to play.

With skates and bikes, kites and boats, and dolls and jumping ropes, and careless in the vacation fun, they need every protection that Michigan adults can give them.

Be sure that your car does not harm one of them.

Check to make sure that your own home, yard and drive have no hazards for your children—no place where they can be caught unawares and injured.

Enroll your children in the organized playground activity in your home community and show them how to get to the playground and back home safely.

Let them go swimming at a guarded beach where the buddy system is used, but be sure that some adult sees to it that they do not stay in the water after they become tired nor so long that they become chilled.

Plan for a rest period for your children each afternoon. A rested child is not only safer from illness, he is safer from accidents.

Leave Fawns Alone

With first fawns showing up in many areas, conservation officers are urging tourist to leave the apparently helpless creatures alone.

The fawns are neither lost nor are they orphans. The mother deer disappears when people approach but usually is nearby and will return.

No pet permits are issued by the conservation department to any private person for rearing wild fawns.

Most fires are a race between the firemen and the fire to see who can do the most damage.

Skunks Made Groggy

The hazards of live-trapping skunks have come to an end at the conservation department's Rose lake experiment station near Lansing.

Game workers lure the odorous little animal into a box trap with another nostril twister, smoked herring, but the final enticement is a "loaded" ball of ground meat. The meatball conceals a capsule of pentobarbital sodium, a drug which produces one groggy skunk long enough for game men to safely examine, tag and release it.

Game men report weasels, raccoons and opossums also find a strip of smoked herring irresistible.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

MSC Finds High Interest In Grass Silage

Farmers in Michigan are showing an increased interest in grass silage. Karl Vary, Michigan State College agricultural economist, says a survey in nine Michigan counties showed a 300 percent increase in the number of farmers harvesting grass silage in 1949 over 1948.

The most common use of grass silage is to put first-cutting hay and excess pasture growth into the silo and feed it to supplement late-summer pastures. However, Vary found more and more farmers using grass silage as a winter feed with good results.

Michigan weather conditions for putting up first-cutting hay are not too good. Under customary authorities find that from 20 to 40 percent of the feeding value of hay is lost each year. About 85 percent of Michigan's hay crop comes from the first cutting.

The farm management specialist thinks grass silage offers a greater possibility of putting up good quality forage under these Michigan weather conditions than under usual haying conditions.

Under usual haying methods, field-cured hay, to be safely stored, should be put into the mow at less than 25 percent moisture. Studies show about 15 to 20 hours of sunshine are required to get hay below 25 percent moisture content. Forage can be put up for grass silage in a silo at about 68 percent moisture, which requires only 1 to 3 hours sunshine.

Demonstrations on making grass silage will be held at the eight Grass Day programs throughout Michigan in June. The Michigan Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring these all-day programs to help farmers learn more about the harvesting and use of better grasses and legumes in their forage program.

WITH THE ANTRIM COUNTY AGR'L AGENT W. G. Kirkpatrick Extension Agent

GRASS DAY PUBLICITY: The use of legumes and grasses in farming will be demonstrated and the latest information on hay and grass management will be given out at the 1950 Grass Day programs, says, Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agr'l Agent.

In this area the program is scheduled for June 23 on the Tom Milbocker farm, located 2 miles from Johannesburg in Otsego County. The event is being arranged by the Michigan State College extension service and local planning committees.

Michigan State College Extension Specialists in cooperation with Mr. Milbocker prepared demonstration plots of various seedings there last fall for inspection this June by Grass Day visitors. The plots will reveal fertilizer results and erosion control, and will be used in harvesting demonstrations.

Grass Days, which were well received by farmers throughout the state the past two years, are conducted to bring farmers up to date on the establishment, management, harvesting, and utilization of higher yielding forage of better quality, according to McMullen, County Agent of Otsego County, who is general chairman.

With the emphasis on high crop production, grassland farming has been neglected, authorities point out. They contend that well-balanced rotation, including both soil-building sod crops and grain and row crops, will provide the most satisfactory results through a period of years.

Weed control, gully control, and efficient use of forage, will be other highlights during Grass Day. New harvesting machinery and other farm equipment will be brought in for visitors' inspection.

On hand will be MSC Extension specialists to explain the various demonstrations and to discuss individual problems with county farmers.

Is it Your Own Fault If You Mistake a Stairway For a Closet?

A woman took her kitten to a neighbor's house one morning and asked if she could leave it there for awhile. The neighbor walked over to a door, opened it slightly, and said: "Put her in there." Thinking it was a closet, the woman picked up the kitten and stepped through the doorway. Unfortunately, the door opened onto a stairway —and the poor woman tumbled all the way down to the basement. Considerably shaken up by the fall, she later sued her neighbor for damages. But the court turned down the woman's claim, saying it was her own fault for carrying the kitten through the door. The judge said the natural thing to do, in locking up a kitten, is to push it through the door with one's hands and then quickly close the door!

May a Real Estate Agent "Serve Two Masters?"

A man who owned a home near downtown hired a real estate agent to find him some property on the city's outskirts. A few days later, a woman living in the suburbs asked the same agent to find her a place in the city. The agent seized the opportunity to engineer a trade between the parties, figuring that he would collect a nice commission from both sides. Unluckily for him, the owners compared notes and found out about the double commission. Both thereupon refused to pay a cent to the broker, and the court upheld their position. The judge said that, if an agent is working for both parties, he can't do a good job for either one. This rule has been traced to the Biblical maxim that "no servant can serve two masters."

Should a Dog Be Judged By the Company He Keeps?

Bent on mischief, a band of dogs spent a busy morning harassing a farmer's cattle. Then they went off to romp in a nearby field, where they were soon joined by a big, friendly collie. Meanwhile, the farmer decided to teach the marauders a lesson. He took his rifle, went to the field, and shot into the pack. Unfortunately, the bullet struck down the only innocent one of the lot—the collie. When the collie's owner sued for damages, the farmer argued that it was the dog's own fault for getting mixed up with troublemakers. But the court was not impressed and held the farmer liable. The judge said that an innocent dog should not be condemned just because he gets into bad company!

May You Collect Damages If You Fall Off the Gangplank of a Ship?

A ladies' auxiliary hired a steamboat and went on an all-day excursion. At the end of the trip, the gangplank was lowered and the ladies began marching down to the dock. Unfortunately, the gangplank was very narrow, had no railing, and was tilted at a 30-degree angle.

Sure enough, one of the ladies lost her footing and splashed into the water. She was speedily fished out—safe and sound, but ready for trouble. She sued the steamship company for damages, and the court granted her claim. The judge said that, as a public carrier, the ship should have provided a safer gangplank for its passengers.

A woman member of a small country church was a pretty good organist. After considerable coaxing by her friends, she agreed to play the organ every Sunday morning. Nothing was said about a salary. After about two years, the woman decided that she was entitled to some compensation for her work—and she filed suit against the church for two years' pay. However, the court turned down her claim. The judge said that the woman's playing was presumed to be "a labor of love."

Microscope May Supersede Clinic Thermometer, Belief

A microscope trained on the eye may soon replace a thermometer in the mouth as the conventional method of judging a person's physical condition, according to the Better Vision Institute. This new development is a result of 16 years of research and experimentation by four scientists on the conjunctiva, the thin membrane that covers the eye.

By observing the capillaries in the conjunctiva, the scientists discovered that red blood cells—each about the size of a capillary—do not flow through the capillaries freely in unhealthy bodies, as they do when the health is good. Instead, they form clumps which cut off nourishment from cells usually supplied by the capillaries. This situation exists in at least 60 diseases, ranging from the common cold to acute alcoholism and cancer.

In larger blood vessels, the clumps disturb the free flow of blood and it becomes turbid. The resulting situation is similar to that of an automobile trying to run in the winter with summer oil thickened by the cold weather.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nation Displays Might on First Armed Forces Day; Atlantic Pact Nations Announce Defense Plans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

ARMED FORCES: A Workable Team

Any doubts that observers might have entertained about the success of armed forces unification in the United States was dispelled with the observance of the first national Armed Forces Day.

For the observance, America's fighting forces across the world paraded in the mightiest show of power since World War II. The biggest show of all went on in Germany where more than 85,000 Yanks demonstrated their readiness.

The day's message to the world was plain: The United States is awake to the menace of Communist aggression and is readying its defenses.

President Truman took the occasion to tell the public that if congress had passed his universal military training program five years ago "there would have been no cold war."

He also invited all Americans "to take stock of the state of our readiness to defend ourselves against aggression."

And, in general, Americans were pleased and impressed with what they saw on parade. Although the forces were less in number, they seemed well trained, power-packed units that would form the backbone of new armies should the situation arise.

Army, navy and air force put on a united front that was pleasing to observers who remember recent unification squabbles between the services.

BOSTON: Taste of Tradition

Climaxing its jubilee celebration, staid old Boston let down its hair by serving dinner to 10,000 on the Common and holding a barn dance at the Garden.

Believed to be the largest meal ever served to a seated group, the guests got a taste of tradition by consuming five tons of baked beans, three tons of potato salad, and 3,500 pounds of ham.

Earlier events of the jubilee were designed to call attention to the cultural, business, industrial, and recreational advantages of Boston and New England.

Serving the "baked-bean supper" and all the trimmings took less than an hour, some kind of a record. The trimmings included 2,000 loaves of brown bread, 12,000 individual apple pies, 12,000 servings of cheese, and 12,000 Parker house rolls.

One thousand volunteer waitresses, supervised by 40 home economists and dieticians, served the food.

UNEMPLOYMENT: Worker's Output Up

According to the federal reserve board the individual worker's increased output has been one of the big factors in the unemployment picture since last summer.

The board analysis of "labor market developments" point to two influences at work on the part of business management:

1. "Large profits and strong financial position in recent years have encouraged business to spend record amounts for new machinery and equipment of highly efficient design.

2. "Intensified competitive pressure on management to reduce costs, partly by curtailing employment and by utilizing those employed more efficiently than earlier in the postwar period."

In addition the board reports there is an increased "tendency for married women to work outside the home," and a similar trend among teen-agers.

FARM INCOME: Likely to Dip

The agriculture department predicts that the cash income of the nation's farmers will be well under 1949 totals.

The department explained: "Prices farmers receive for their products have generally been below those of a year ago, while their costs have declined only slightly. This situation is expected to continue for the rest of the year."

Cash receipts from marketings in 1949 totaled 27.5 billion dollars. Forecasters expect the 1950 total to be approximately 25 billion dollars.

NATIONALISTS: Ready for Last Stand

Observers believe the long expected last stand of Chinese Nationalists is now underway. They base their opinion on the fact the Nationalists have withdrawn from all except one of their blockading bases along the China coast.

Apart from Formosa and the neighboring Pescadore islands, the only territory remaining to the Nationalists appears to be Quemoy island, off Amoy.

Assails Truman

Sen. Robert Taft is shown above speaking over a nationwide radio network. He charged in his speech that the administration has shaken the confidence of the people and seeks to elect a "subservient" congress to vote into law policies that would wreck the country.

DEFENSE: West United

At one point in their policy making in recent years, the Russians reasoned, and not without basis, that the western powers would never really be united. That reasoning, however, has received a terrific jolt.

The 12 western nations, members of the Atlantic pact, have agreed to pool their economic and military might into one vast armed force, centrally directed to resist Soviet aggression.

The plan, in reality a unification move, is American inspired. It will "create a balanced collective force," which means each of the 12 nations will contribute specific units to the central western armed force and not try to maintain expensive over-all military establishments, each self-contained in all arms.

The move was seen by military men as the one means of giving the west a balanced defense force, working in harmony, and with maximum efficiency.

The United States is expected to bear the greatest part of the cost, although each nation will share in proportion to its resources. The U. S. share is expected to cost more than a billion dollars this year.

That the West is deadly serious and intends to have the plan in operation as soon as possible was evident by the creation of an over-all council of deputy foreign ministers, meeting all year round, to put the plan into force. This council will have a permanent powerful chairman who, it is understood, will be an American.

Some sources predicted the U. S. may require a larger air force and navy under the plan, since this country will be entirely responsible for atomic and other strategic bombing in case of enemy aggression.

DEMOCRATS: Harmony Disturbed

Surface harmony prevailing among Democrats at the Jefferson jubilee celebration in Chicago was shattered by the controversial civil rights issue, which split the party in 1948.

The Democrats were startled because of the unexpected source of the dissent.

Most southerners who attended the Chicago meeting chose to ignore the civil rights panel. Jonathan Daniels, North Carolina national committeeman and former White house aide under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, did not so choose.

He sat through the meeting, listening to 16 speakers demand enactment of the Truman program, and then insisted upon speaking at the conclusion.

He told them flatly he could not go along with them in favor of a compulsory fair employment practice act, and added: "You cannot have a prohibition law against discrimination in the south."

He asserted the propaganda for the creation of a fair employment practice commission "gives a weapon to our enemies, the Dixiecrats" and makes it possible for them "to hide behind the civil rights issue while they fight every progressive measure."

Moscow Tool

The Independent United Electrical Workers union has been denounced again as "Communist dominated."

Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor, and Phillip Murray, president of the CIO, made the charges in speeches at a rally of General Electric workers. The UE was expelled from the CIO last year on charges of having left-wing tendencies.

POLITICS: Are Both Parties Split?

Observers are wondering if the Republican and Democratic parties both are going into the November election with split political fronts.

The Republican trend came to light in the Oregon senatorial primary which was won by independent voting Sen. Wayne Morse. His campaign is not likely to resemble any other Republican drives this fall.

In Pennsylvania, Governor James H. Duff defeated the old guard Republicans in the senatorial primary.

In many quarters the Duff and Morse victories were seen as signs that many Republican voters think the party needs to offer more than mere opposition to President Truman's Fair Deal.

On the Democratic front, a few more cracks have been added to the split caused by the civil-rights conflict started in 1948.

Southerners are still battling the program, and recently, have generally opposed Truman's plans for more government spending. The Brannan plan has added fuel to the fire of discontent among some of the President's best western friends.

With these points in mind, the September and October political speeches of both parties may prove the most interesting in years.

Meanwhile, a high-ranking Republican took another swing at the President, charging that he seeks a "rubber-stamp" congress elected in November.

Said GOP national chairman Guy Gabrielson: "The 1950 issues now are clear. President Truman has asked the voters to give him a rubber-stamp congress that will approve his program of socialism."

WINNIPEG: Wet but Undefeated

Flood battered Winnipeg slowly returns to normal. With nearly a fifth of the city at one time under water, the citizens raised a banner proclaiming they were "wet but undefeated" on the court house and waited for the Red river to show its first drop.

Before it came flood waters had reached a record high for the century. Some 100,000 of Winnipeg's 350,000 population were forced to evacuate and many of southern Manitoba's towns were deserted.

When the river showed its first drop, flood waters were about two feet below the absolute peak at which engineers figured nearly all of Winnipeg would be waterlogged and the whole population would have to be evacuated.

Even with the river back in its banks, however, observers said it would be near the last of June before the city would be back to normal.

MRS. ROOSEVELT: Comforted Distressed

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was awarded the seventh annual Williamsburg Settlement gold-medal award for typifying the American way of life and aiding the underprivileged.

At the presentation dinner, former congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce called her long-time political foe the "best-loved woman in the world" and said that no woman ever had "so comforted the distressed—or distressed the comfortable."

"When her justly notable tolerance and patience with the Communists finally gave out, that day tolerance of communism in America ended officially. It is safe to say that her resistance to Soviet communism is a more potent factor in winning the cold war than an extra billion dollars of Marshall plan aid," she added.

Something New

With all the investigations that have been under way in Washington, Rep. Usher L. Burdick of North Dakota has come up with a new one. He asked the house rules committee to approve a resolution to investigate "of all things—congress. The committee postponed action on the resolution indefinitely.

EXPLOSION: Second in Generation

The stunned and battered community of South Amboy, N. J., 30 miles south of New York City, tied up its wounds and for the second time in a generation, went about the business of rebuilding.

On May 19 four explosive-laden barges blew up with such force debris was splattered over a 10 to 12 block area. Twenty-six persons were dead or missing and nearly 400 were injured.

July 1, 1950, will be a red letter day for Michigan's newest educational institution, Ferris Institute, at Big Rapids.

It marks the occasion when this trade school, founded 64 years ago by Woodbridge N. Ferris, becomes a state vocational training center.

When the state legislature in April, 1949, voted to accept the institute as an outright gift, it did two things:

First, recognition by the State of Michigan that Ferris Institute would fill a big gap in our present educational system. Ferris has specialized in vocational education. Not every high school graduate can afford to attend college; not every graduate has capacities to attain a college degree. But nearly every high school graduate may learn a useful trade, a valuable livelihood, by taking a program of vocational training.

The legislature also paid recognition to the fact that Ferris Institute was a going concern with assets of more than $1,000,000. Its tradition of practical education is liberal in scope; thousands of men and women with no more formal education than the eighth grade have profitably pursued practical studies at Ferris.

High school youths may attend specialized trade courses in the following: Watch and clock repair, architectural or machine drafting, refrigeration and air conditioning, radio repair and electronics, printing, stenographic and secretarial, higher accounting, business administration, B. S. degree in pharmacy, B. S. degree in commerce of science teacher training, college preparatory (high school), and advertising-salesmanship.

Some of these courses are short in time; others run for four years. The one-time superintendent of schools at Pittsfield, Illinois, became the founder of Ferris Institute. Mr. Ferris founded the school Sept. 1, 1884, as the Big Rapids Industrial School. Later, the name was changed to Ferris Industrial School and in 1899 shortened to Ferris Institute.

In January, 1902, the Pharmacy building was completed for four-year training.

In 1912 when Republicans were feuding over the Progressive movement, Ferris was elected governor on the Democratic ticket. He then became United States Senator and died in Washington in 1928 while serving as senior senator from Michigan. Arthur H. Vandenberg was named as his successor.

The school has had its up and downs and during the depression of the 30's the enrollment dwindled to less than 300 students as compared with nearly 1200 today.

When the school officially becomes a state institution on July 1, Ferris Institute will have achieved the educational record of having trained more than 75,000 men and women for the actual duties of life.

President Byron Brophy is proud of this tradition.

He is determined to carry on the founding spirit of Woodbridge N. Ferris in the new coming era of public service.

You'll hear much more about Ferris in the years ahead.

From a Young Polio Victim's Letter of Thanks to a Benefactor: "Now I have an iron lung, and you have a heart of gold."

Repentance

Lesson for June 11, 1950

ZEPHANIAH seldom has been any reader's favorite prophet. His pictures of doom are enough to send shudders down any one's spine. It is as realistic as if he were describing H-bomb day. But the main point of Zephaniah is plain and practical: Repent! For selfish man and stubborn nation, that is the first necessity of all. Repentance is not merely regretting something one has done. Anybody can do that—and Dr. Foreman can do right on committing the same sin. Furthermore, a man's regret for something he has done may be for a wrong reason.

Suppose an adulterer is sorry for the publicity he got when the newspapers caught up with him? Suppose a lazy farmer is sorry, at harvest time, that he didn't work harder during the summer? That sort of thing is not repentance at all.

Also, repentance is not just repentance-in-general. It is one thing to say, "O God, I am a sinner." It is quite another thing, and a harder one, to kneel and say to God: "You know well what a liar I have been."

Repentance is not real unless it is honest; and it is not honest till the repentant looks squarely at his own sins, knows them for real sins and is willing to call them by the ugly names they deserve.

Repentance As The Bible Sees It

THE BIBLE MEANING of repentance is something radical, something life-changing. As the prophets and our Lord set it before us, it means a total change of inner attitude and viewpoint. It does not mean so much stopping something you enjoy, as it means enjoying something altogether different from what you used to enjoy.

For example, you never truly repent of pride until you are really humble on the inside. You never have fully repented of selfishness so long as your biggest "kick" comes from kicking other people around. Repentance means a re-direction of life. It means loving whatever good you hated and hating whatever evil you loved.

The question is: Are you content to be what you are, as you are, or do you sincerely want to be a better, indeed a different person? For that, the grace of God is necessary. For repentance means nothing short of being made over.

Are you aware that by yourself you are doomed to be yourself, your worst self? What is needed is not that you shall make yourself over, what is needed is that you shall pray God to make you over. His grace is not forced on the unwilling. The change may not come all at once, not overnight. Yet surely, and it may be swiftly.

There have been persons whose lives have changed in a single night, in a single moment. There are others whose life-transformation has come slowly. But wherever real repentance is, there the Spirit of God has been at work.

Why Repentance Is Needed
ZEPHANIAH POINTS UP the same two reasons for repentance that we find all through the Bible. One reason is the judgment of God; the other is the promise of God. These are two sides of the same thing.

Man does not live in his own universe. He lives in a universe which he could not have created—in a sense he is a guest of it. It is a universe God created in love, and rules in love. Work and live "against the grain" of God's law of love, and you are headed for destruction.

To repent means that you come out new, in the image of God. Not to repent means that you are a breaker of God's laws because you do not like his laws. To repent means that (in the language of the ancient Psalmist) you love the law of God.

To the unrepentant, the laws of God are like the bars of a cruel cage. To the repentant, the laws of God are like rails to a locomotive—the highway of power.

Agricultural Agent
(Ed Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent)

SAVE DAIRY LABOR:
Labor, which amounts to 40 percent of the total cost of farm operation, is the most important consideration of the dairy farmer, says Ed Rebman, county agr'l agent. A survey of farm records, shows that milking takes about one-half of the time spent on the dairy herd.

Milking alone takes as long as feeding, bedding, and cleaning the barns. Many man hours of chore work can be eliminated by making more effective use of equipment and also doing such minor things as relocating a door, changing a hay chute, and centrally locating a light switch.

Perhaps the most important way of cutting down on farm operating costs is to improve work methods. This may be accomplished by keeping the milker units together as possible and by milking the cows in order as they stand in the barn. Managed milking, sometimes referred to as "fast" and "four minute" milking, is another labor saving cost-cutting operation.

Experiments have proved that cows can be trained to milk within three to four minutes. Keeping the milker on the cow too long does not add to production, and it may injure the cow's udder.

Arranging the hay chutes so hay can be dropped into the feeding area is another way of saving time and labor, as an extra handling of feed will be eliminated, the agent concludes.

SHORTHORN COW HIGH IN BUTTERFAT

A shorthorn cow owned by August Postmus was highest in the Charlevoix-Antrim Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to Don Graham, tester, by producing 80.0 pounds of butterfat for the month of May. Another milking shorthorn that is owned by Jim Rubingh was second highest by producing 72.1 pounds of butterfat. Both of these cows were in the mature class which means that they were at least 5 years of age.

Arnold Smith of East Jordan owned the herd of cows that averaged highest by producing an average of 45.3 pounds of butterfat per cow for the entire herd. This was a mixed herd of cows. Jim Rubingh's herd was second by averaging 43.8 pounds of butterfat.

The association during the month of May showed considerable increase over the month of April. The monthly report as sent out by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, showed that the average production for all cows was 738 pounds of milk and 29.6 pounds of butterfat for the month. The average test was 4.02 percent. Included in these figures are the 65 dry cows owned by the members.

Two new cooperators joined the association and they are Louie Lakies of Charlevoix and Jason Shinn of Bellaire.

RED DANE SERVICE NOW AVAILABLE TO ALL

Following a conference with the American Red Danish Cattle Association, several changes have been made in the regulations regarding obtaining red dane semen from the artificial breeders association. These changes as reported by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, has removed all strings as far as obtaining this service. This means that any farmer who wishes to use red dane may do so without belonging to a dairy herd improvement association or without castrating all of his bull calves. For members who live in the territory services by the Antrim-Charlevoix artificial breeders association, they may have this service by simply calling in the inseminator. For members who live in the area services by the Boyne City artificial breeders association, there must be 150 cows sign-up for red dane before this service can be obtained.

The rules and regulations as far as registering the red dane cattle in the American Red Danish cattle association, are still the same. Ed Rebman urges any farmer who has belonged to the association and has one year of testing, to continue on this program. To register their cattle in the American Red Danish cattle association there must be three generations of cattle on record test and the bull calves for three generations must be castrated. Those who have this one year of testing completed are that much closer to registered cattle.

The income tax collector may not be a jack-of-all-trades—but he collects it just the same.

Plants In The Home
(By Vaua Ogden)

It is time now to plant window boxes. Probably the most important thing about planting window boxes is the location. If your box is on the south or west sides of the house, you can't beat geraniums as a foundation plant. Try to get all one color, or if you want to use white, make it blend with the other geraniums. Use at least three to a small box and at least five to a larger box. Space the geraniums, but don't plant all in a straight row, except in a very narrow box.

In between these, and slightly in front, use petunias. Again see that the color blends.

Next are the vines. Vinca vines are probably the best. Use the same number as geraniums. Ivy leaved geraniums are also good. Vines from indoors—like English ivy, German ivy, Wandering Jew, Asparagus, etc.—will do very nicely.

Last, fill in the empty spaces with what small plants you have. Ageratum is excellent. Begonias—fibrous rooted—will give lots of color. Coleus, salvia, monkey flower, pansies, oxalis, alysium, and many annuals will do very well.

Water immediately and copiously. With all these plants tucked into one box, be sure the soil is rich.

Snip the dead blossoms off, pinch the spindly plants back to make them bushy, and you will have a colorful display all summer long.

In the fall be sure to take the dirt out of the box so it doesn't freeze, and keep the boxes painted every year.

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Could a Person Be Convicted Of "Stealing" His Own Watch?
A man left his watch at a jeweler's to be repaired. When the work was done, the man found out that he didn't have enough money to pay the bill. After a few days, he decided upon a bold plan. He went to the store late at night, broke in through a rear window, and walked out with his watch! It wasn't long before the police picked him up and jailed him on a charge of theft. At the trial, the man insisted that he could not be guilty of stealing, since what he took was his own property. However, the judge said that even the owner may not take property from the rightful (though temporary) possession of another person. So the man went to jail for stealing his own watch!

If You See Danger Ahead For Somebody Else, Must You Warn Him?

A girl fell in love with a handsome young man, who pretended to be very rich. But she found out otherwise—after they were married. The man lived on her funds for awhile, and then skipped town. Worse yet, the girl discovered that her "husband" had a prior wife whom he had never divorced! Furious, she turned her wrath against the young man's brother, who happened to live nearby. When the brother admitted that he had known what was going on, the girl filed a damage suit against him. She claimed that he should have warned her of "trouble ahead." But the court decided that the brother was not liable, since he hadn't actually aided in the deception. The judge said: "The law doesn't require a man to protect one person from another. One may tend to his own affairs and leave others to judge for themselves in matters that concern them alone. Conscience is the only sanction."

May a Mother Interfere In Her Son's Romance?

A young man fell in love with the girl next door, and they became engaged. Unfortunately, his mother had long been contemptuous of the neighboring family and she told her son he was making a great mistake. In fact, she harped on the matter so much that the youth finally broke off the engagement. The girl promptly filed a damage suit against the mother, for "causing a breach of the marriage contract." But the judge threw the case out of court. He said: "A parent has a perfect right to advise the child whether to enter into a contract of such importance as the one of marriage." His Honor added that the young man didn't have to follow his mother's advice, if he didn't like it.

Are Finders Always Keepers?

A young couple rented a farm on the bank of an ancient river bed. One day, while digging several feet under the surface, they came upon a primitive boat that had apparently sunk beneath the mud some 2,000 years before! The couple invoked the rule of "finders keepers," but, when the matter was taken to court, the boat was awarded to the owner of the property. The judge said that, as the owner of the land, he was also the owner of everything imbedded therein—unless, of course, the original owner of the boat should ever show up!

A grocery store burned down, and the grocer tried to collect on his fire insurance policy. When he couldn't come to any agreement with the company, he filed a lawsuit. At the trial, doubt arose as to whether the wording of the policy included some fixtures that had been destroyed in the fire. The court ruled that, in case of uncertainty, the policy holder should get the benefit of the doubt. The judge reasoned that the company, which writes the policy, has a better chance to protect itself.

ANGEL FISH Helen Lures New Yorkers

NEW YORK — "Where's your baggage?" asked the clerk behind the ticket counter at LaGuardia Field's overseas terminal recently. He was speaking to four New York businessmen checking in for Pan American airway's morning flight to Bermuda.

"Here it is," they chorused, each waving a pair of bathing trunks in the chap's face. "We're just going down to see Helen. We'll be back on tonight's Clipper."

"Helen must be an extraordinary woman," thought the clerk. But he was wrong. Helen is a fish, not an ordinary fish but a lovely angel fish of iridescent blue with extended fins that trail behind her like gay yellow streamers. Her outstanding attribute is her liking for people. With her friend, Ruth, and a host of yellow grunts, breems and gray snappers, she receives callers nearly every day at her home on a coral reef 15 feet below the ocean level.

Fascinating Diversions

Visiting these residents of the briny deep in their submarine homes is Bermuda's newest and most fascinating diversion. A young American, Bronson Hartley, introduced the fascinating sport of deep sea diving to the tourists a year ago after doing it himself for the past 18 years. Now the vacationist who is bored with the ordinary pleasures of swimming and bicycling can make like a fish at the bottom of the ocean for a mere $5 and the trouble of donning a diving helmet and sneakers—furnished by Hartley—and a bathing suit.

In the past 12 months, more than 1,000 persons — including a five-year-old boy and an 85-year-old lady—have taken Hartley's underwater sight-seeing tour. It's the rage with college students, honeymooners and jokers who like to write post cards underwater with ball point pens. More than one party of high living New Yorkers have clipped the 773 miles down to the Coral Islands for the sole purpose of viewing them 15 feet underwater and last Christmas, 24 persons begged Hartley in vain to take them down.

So popular has this unique sport become that tourists have taken to phoning Hartley at 6:00 a. m. in the morning to make reservations for the day's trips. With good humor, he added the longest extension cord he could find to his telephone and carries it with him from bedroom to bath to breakfast making appointments all the way.

Two Trips Daily

Twice a day—morning and afternoon—he sets out in his small cabin cruiser with his faithful assistant, Roy Darrell, and no more than eight guests. While the boat moves out through the brilliant green water of Flatts, Hartley briefs his passengers on what to do and look for while strolling around the ocean floor and how to walk ski-crouch fashion, knees bent and body erect. One must tread lightly, too, to keep from plowing up the sand and clouding the water.

In calm weather, Hartley steers out to the ocean where the passengers descend to one of the coral reefs that surround Bermuda. But in rough weather—when the churning waves of the ocean might make his passengers seasick — he heads for a quiet bay in Harrington Sound. High bluffs fringed with hibiscus and oleander bushes edge this cove and so protect it from the wind that Hartley was able to take a party down there during the last hurricane.

Robin Hood Statue Planned In England

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND. — Robin Hood may return to Sherwood forest if a Nottingham industrialist, Philip E. F. Clay, has his way.

In Robin Hood's own town, where the outlaw and his merry men in Lincoln green once shattered the nerves of the high sheriff, Clay has offered the city council 5,000 pounds (about $20,000), and more, if necessary, to erect a statue of the man who "stole from the rich and gave to the poor."

City council has accepted the gift, and now the town is split over the location of the statue. The raging question is: should Robin stand in Nottingham itself or out in one of the few remaining glades of Sherwood forest? A solution is expected soon.

Clay's gesture was timed to coincide with Nottingham's quinquenary week.

May the Police Use Trickery To Obtain a Confession?

A wealthy recluse was found slain in his garage one night, and suspicion fell upon a woman who lived nearby. However, the police did not arrest her at once. Instead, a detective called at her house—pretending to be a cosmetics salesman. He managed to draw the woman into conversation, and she confided that she was "in hot water." He replied: "Tell me all about it. I've got a magic potion that will keep you out of trouble!" Thereupon the woman confessed the murder—and, of course, was immediately arrested. At the trial, she protested that the confession had been obtained by trickery. However, the court said that didn't matter and found the woman guilty. The judge pointed out that the trick was designed merely to bring out the truth.

On a Dark Night, Must a Pedestrian Be Constantly On the Lookout?

A girl was walking home one evening, on an unlighted side street. The night was dark, and she failed to notice a shallow, unguarded pit jutting part way into the sidewalk. She stumbled into the pit—and suffered a painful injury. Later the girl filed a damage action against the county, since the pit had been left there by a county construction crew. At the trial, county attorneys insisted that the victim herself was equally to blame because she hadn't kept a constant lookout as to where she was walking. But the court allowed the girl's claim. The judge said that, even on a dark night, a pedestrian may take it for granted that the county is doing its duty—keeping the side walks safe for walking.

Could a Person Be Punished For Something He Didn't Do?

Two cousins, out hunting one morning, spotted some birds flying across a public highway. They took quick aim and fired. Unfortunately a man happened to be walking along the road just at that moment and he got shot in the shoulder. However, it was absolutely impossible to tell which gun had inflicted the wound. Not knowing which cousin to sue, the man finally filed damage actions against both of them. They protested that it wasn't fair to "punish the innocent along with the guilty," but the court decided to hold them both liable for the mishap. The judge said that, since they shouldn't have been shooting over a public road in the first place, both must share responsibility for what happened.

Must a Will Be Written in Ink?

While thumbing through a magazine in a dentist's waiting room, a man came upon a form for making out a will. On the spur of the moment he seized a pencil, filled out the form, and tucked it in his pocket. A few weeks later the man died. When his widow found out that all her husband's property had been left to his brother, she went to court to contest the validity of the will. She argued that a document of such importance is no good unless made out in ink. However, the court disagreed and held the will valid. The judge said that, even though the man had been foolish to use a pencil, the will was just as "legal" as if written in indelible ink.

A man who lived in a small apartment decided to move to larger quarters. Since his lease still had six months to run, he subleased the place to a woman—after getting the consent of the landlord. A few weeks later, the woman skipped town. When the landlord demanded that the man keep up the rent payments, he flatly refused—on the ground that the landlord had consented to the sublease. However, the court felt differently and held the man responsible for the woman's act.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Oh—My Aching Feet!

Other night just as I was settling down with a book and a mellow glass of beer, the wife calls down, "Joe—I almost forgot—you and I are going over to the High School and take dancing lessons!" Now, I can waltz with the best of them, so I put up a quiet struggle against going but it was no use. Turns out it was the class in square dancing. And from the look on some of the other men I judged I wasn't the only one there who had been taken by surprise! Miss Williams and Curly Lawson taught us what to do with our feet, and before it was over, de if I wasn't actually enjoying myself. Going back next week, too! From where I sit, we sometimes get an idea into our head for against something and then hang onto it for dear life. Whether it square dancing, or the right to enjoy temperate beer or ale now at then, we owe it to ourselves Americans to take an open-minded attitude — that's even after I make up our minds about it!

The American Way

The words "Michigan" and "fishing" are practically synonymous at this time of the year. And after an exciting day's fishing, it's the "American Way" to enjoy a glass of cool, refreshing Michigan brewed beer to top off the day.

For beer is the kind of beverage Americans like. It belongs . . . to pleasant living, to good fellowship, to sensible moderation. And our right to enjoy it, this too, belongs . . . to our own American heritage of personal freedom. Beer Belongs . . . Enjoy It
