Migratory Birds Are Arriving

RETURNING BIRDS ARE ADDING COLOR, SONGS TO MICHIGAN.

Not only are the usual spring migratory birds arriving in Michigan to add new color and song to the landscape, but some birds are already nesting.

George M. Sutton, associate professor of zoology at the University of Michigan, has received reports on two nests of the great horned owl. He also says the prairie-horned lark has established nests since it is the earliest of nesting passerine (sparrow-like) birds.

The prairie-horned lark sometimes nests while the snow is still on the ground and often has to reach its low-lying nests, he reports.

Each week now will bring more birds back to Michigan from their homes. Among those due now, Professor Sutton says, are the fox sparrow, the hermit thrush, Canada geese and various wild ducks, including mergansers. The ducks arrive each year as soon as the ice disappears from the rivers and inland lakes.

The yellow-bellied sapsucker, a woodpecker with a large white patch on its wings is also due now, Professor Sutton reports. This bird may be observed to hitch downwards two or three times after it has alighted on the tree. Woodcocks should be heard soon. The bird may be heard in the late twilight, singing in its upward flight from the ground. It nests very early.

Likewise due to arrive soon is the song sparrow, which will be singing as soon as it comes. Other migrants are the rudy-crowned kinglet, the myrtle warbler (the latter bird sometimes stays here during the winter), the cowbird, red-winged blackbird, grackle, bittern, and the great blue heron. Robins, returning now in numbers, sometimes winter in Michigan, depending perhaps on local food supply, Professor Sutton says.

The two nests of the great horned owl reported to Professor Sutton are both close to Ann Arbor. One was in a woods about 20 miles to the north and the other was in the Edwin S. George Reserve, a University property near Pinckney.

The great horned owl, which remains in Michigan throughout the winter takes over the nest of other birds, usually that of the red-tailed hawk or crow. Occasionally, it will occupy a squirrel's nest, he reports.

One of the nests was found late in February by Kay T. Rogers, instructor in anatomy at the University, and David Parmelee, a graduate student from Iron Mountain. They are keeping track of the nest to find out when the mother owl will lay her two eggs and the length of the incubation period.

Pearl N. Beal Born and Died in Echo Township

Pearl N. Beal, son of Asa M. and Lucy Gardner Beal, was born in Echo, Antrim County, March 20, 1883 and passed away at his home in Finkton March 5, 1951. He was ill only a short time, when his condition became so alarming that he was taken to the Little Traverse Hospital, Petoskey for observation where the doctors found that he had leukemia in an acute form. He remained there a week when he was released to his home two days before he expired.

As a boy he was reared on a farm where he attended Pleasant Valley school and did the various tasks usual on a farm.

On December 25, 1907 he was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Smith of Echo. Having a natural love for the soil, he purchased in 1912 the farm where he has since resided and with the help of his sons has farmed quite extensively. In addition to this, he operated a saw mill and tended a large sugar bush, making gallons of maple syrup every spring of such a fine quality that he never lacked for customers.

Mr. Beal was a kind husband and father, a real friend and neighbor, one who was always on hand in time of need and always felt a deep concern in anything pertaining to the welfare of his community, always ready to assist in a worthy cause, either with his means or his labor. Needless to say that he will be missed.

Besides his wife he leaves four sons, Leland and Norman at home, LeRoy and Asa, who live in the community, one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock (Eleanor) of Port Huron. One daughter, Lillian

Beaver Prospects Are Good

THIS YEAR'S HARVEST PROMISES BETTER THAN USUAL "IF."

A record-topping harvest of beaver is a likely prospect in the extended beaver and otter trapping season this spring, according to the conservation department.

Season begins March 20 in the lower peninsula and March 25 in the peninsula.

"The 'if' in the picture," says D. H. Jenkins, department mammalogist, "is the weather. There's a large beaver population but trappers need reasonably open backroads to operate."

In spite of snow-clogged byways and generally miserable trapping conditions last spring, the 1950 take of 8,178 beaver was the third best on record. The modern-time record bag, 15,296 pelts, was set in 1945.

A sizable increase in trapping license requests is expected by game men. License agents issued 5,046 last season. Trapping fee again is $2.

Beaver damage complaints, usually an indication of increasing colonies, have not slackened from last year's increased pace.

Fur demand has dragged the last several years. Jenkins says the fur market should be better—with women now abandoning hope that the federal fur tax on coats will be removed during the national emergency. Raw fur prices are expected to be about 30 percent better than last season when the largest received as little as $3 for smaller pelts.

To promote cropping of surplus beaver, the conservation commission has made several changes in 1951 trapping regulations. A 21-day upper peninsula season, five days longer, runs Mar. 25-Apr. 14 while the lower peninsula trapping period again is Mar. 20-31. Season opens and closes at 12:00 noon, E.S.T.

Maximum take of otter has been increased from two to three. Beaver bag limits continue at six above the straits and three below. Maximum of 15 traps is allowed a licensed trapper.

Trapping license cannot be purchased later than 5:00 p.m., opening day. Sealing pelts, by a conservation officer in the zone where the animal was taken, must be completed by 12:00 noon, April 16 in the upper peninsula.

Closed to trapping are Arenac, Bay, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Midland, Muskegon, Oceana and parts of Lake and Alpena counties. Also closed are certain specified areas, wildlife refuges and sanctuaries.

The local conservation officer can provide further information.

Wilson Farmer's Union

The Wilson Local Farmers Union members and their guests held their first meeting in their new hall Wednesday night, March 7th, with about 35 present. The hall is almost finished and expected to be completed for the first dance March 24th, if possible. Watch your weekly paper to be sure.

A short meeting was held and after that Mr. Schroeder, Agriculture teacher, and his boys from East Jordan presented a Parliamentary Procedure program which was very good.

Later a delicious pot luck lunch was served with coffee to all.

Zion's League meets at the church at 4:30 on Sundays. The speaker for the 11 o'clock hour will be Bruce Harvey of Boyne City. Theme for his sermon will be "On The Resurrection."

FROM THE CROSS
Christ's asking that forgiveness be given does not indicate that the sins of those for whom he asked forgiveness was of little moment. They were terrible, and it took a heavy price to have them forgiven. In the face of the cross, it does not seem that evil doers could believe their waywardness was unimportant.

The religion of love is the religion of power. The religion of pardoning mercy is too little used in our day. There is still so much we can learn from the Man on the Cross. We need not try to dress up this simple story of greater love than the world has ever seen. As we listen we are made aware of how he must have loved us.

While Christ hung upon the Cross he uttered some words that are a challenge to us—"Father forgive them; for they know not what they do."

—Mrs. Emaline Bader

First Presbyterian Church

Edward O. DeHaven, Pastor

Holy Week services for the week of March 18 through 25 are as follows:

On Maundy Thursday, March 22, we will celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper the service beginning at 8 p.m. This is the traditional day of the week when Jesus instituted a supper with his disciples. We, too, will commune with Him on this service.

On Good Friday, March 23, the churches of the community are uniting in a service of Commemoration of the Crucifixion of our Lord and His giving of Himself for each of us. This service will be held in the United Missionary Church on Garfield St. The service will be conducted from 12 noon to 3 p.m., in the following manner: there will be periods of Meditations, conducted by the ministers. These will be brief periods of devotion to which each of us may come for prayers and meditation. Each period will last 30 minutes. The theme of the Meditations will be "The Humanity of Jesus." There will be three of these periods.

Beginning at 2 p.m., there will be the United Service, when the entire community will join together to commemorate this day. The theme for this service will be, "Behold the Son of God." The ministers will review briefly the events in the life of Jesus Christ which took place during this last week, culminating with the Crucifixion. All people are invited and urged to participate in the services.

Easter Sunday will begin with an early service conducted by the Westminister Youth Fellowship, beginning at 7 a. m. This will be a Worship Service in which the story of Easter will be told in song and story. We are trying to do two things through this service: first, it is fitting that we begin the day early with a Worship Service; secondly, because of the usual confusion, due to the large congregation on Easter and the crowded space in our church, we have always had to shorten our Sunday School period upstairs, in order that this space may be made ready for the morning service. This year we are using this early service as our Sunday School Service for the department which regularly meet upstairs. There will be no 9:45 services for these department upstairs. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

The department down stairs will meet at the regular 9:45 a.m. service for Sunday School.

The morning Worship Service in the church will be held at the usual hour of 11 a.m. During this service the Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be celebrated. Any parents who desire this for their children please contact the pastor before Easter Sunday.

A nursery department for younger children is regularly kept in the basement, during the Worship Service for all parents who desire the use of it.

The Churches of the community are preparing a service of Sacred Easter music to be sung in the Presbyterian Church, Easter (continued on last page)

Can Fish In Rivers During Spring Spawning Runs

With fishing through the ice nearing the end of the season, the conservation department points out that fishermen soon can shift to fishing rivers during the spring spawning runs. Besides the popular hook and line angling for perch, dipnetting is legal on non-trout streams and some designated trout streams, when ice conditions permit, during March, April and half of May. Species which may be dip-netted are suckers, smelt, mullet, dogfish, carp and garpike. Spears may be used to take carp, suckers, redhorse, mullet, dogfish and garpike on non-trout streams in the lower peninsula, April 1-May 15, and on non-trout streams in the upper peninsula during May. Some designated trout streams also are open on these same dates.

Walnuts For Veneer Planting Ready Now

Black walnuts to plant for growing valuable veneer timber are available from the forest nursery operated by Michigan State College, according to W. Ira Bull, nursery supervisor. The walnuts are supplied to the college nursery by members of the American Walnut Manufacturers association and are sold at 50 cents a peck to pay the cost of hauling, stratifying, and packing. Orders for these walnuts can be placed on regular forest tree seedling order blanks, available from county agricultural agents or from the Forestry Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan. Bull advises that seedling of the following trees species are also available: white ash, green ash, black locust, and American elm. Evergreen seedling for spring for spring planting have all been sold.

Sam: "My wife is scared to death someone will steal her clothes."
Joe: "Doesn't she have them insured?"
Sam: "She has a better idea. She has some guy stay in the closet and watch them. I found him there the other night."

This is an artist's conception of the scene that took place on the top floor of a Boston boarding house where Alexander Graham Bell and his assistant, Thomas A. Watson, conducted their experiments with the telephone. On the evening of March 10, 1876, Watson was in another part of the house with the experimental receiver. Bell was working on the transmitter in his lab. When Bell accidentally spilled a jar of battery acid, he called out to his assistant—oblivious for the moment of the transmitter—"Mr. Watson, come here; I want you!" Watson heard the words over his receiver and came rushing into the lab, exclaiming, "Mr. Bell, I heard every word you said—distinctly!" Thus, were the first seven words transmitted electrically over a pair of telephone wires.

OUT OF TRAINING

A Texas Democrat had successfully campaigned for a seat in the house of representatives. To show his appreciation, he promptly introduced a bill to finance the widening of Trinity River back home. A Republican congressman from up north jumped to his feet in indignation. "What can the government do for a piddling trickle like the Trinity?" he demanded. "Why, I can spit halfway across it." The speaker of the house banded with his gavel and cried, "You're out of order." "You're right, I'm out of order," agreed the Republican. "If I was in order, I could spit all the way across it."

A Difference
Wife: "I've got a lot of things I want to talk to you about."
Husband: "That's fine. You usually want to talk about a lot of things you haven't got."

FAIR VANITY

"Why did I sock my wife, Your Honor? Well, she kept deviling me all the time."
"Just how did she irritate you?" asked the judge.
"She kept saying: 'Beat me! Hit me! Go ahead, hit me just once and I'll have you hauled up before that bald-headed old reprobate they call a judge, and you'll see what he'll do to you!'"
"Case dismissed."

DARNED CERTAIN

News reached a small village in New England that a motor-bus plying between that village and a neighboring town had gone over the side of a cliff with all on board. It was also known in the village that the wife of a much hen-pecked man was en route to the neighboring town on the bus. An interested villager immediately called on the husband.
"Ain't ye worried 'bout yer wife?" he asked.
"Well," was the drawing reply, "I was fer a while, but her sister just called me up and said she saw Sal git on the bus with her own eyes."

DON'T INTERRUPT

The young bride had just taken her first driving lesson and was telling a friend about it. "My husband went along with me," she said, "and, oh, did we have a frightful time! I stalled the car right on a railroad crossing and there was a train coming."
"My dear," the husband interrupted, "there was no train coming."
"With a frigid look in his direction, the bride answered, "There was a train coming sometime," and went on with her story.

As I've often commented, small towns may not have an absolute monopoly on characters, but they come mighty close. For instance: Some years back, a small two-stop-light Kentucky city hired a most unusual personality as town marshal. This guy was very shoddy with the duties of his office, but he had one more than somewhat slight handicap in the discharge of same—as you shall see. One day, the story goes, he was standing on the corner when he saw an out-of-state-licensed car run the red light on the other corner. The traveler did, however, recognize the color of the light at the corner where the chief was standing and stopped. The law came stomping out to the car. "You smart son-of-a-gun, you ran a red light," he roared. "I'm a good mind to give you a ticket!" "Go ahead, give me one," said the traveler. "I'm in a big hurry."

"Aw," awed the suddenly shortened arm of the law, "go on. I can't read or write—but don't let it happen again!"

HELLO!

The defendant, ignorant of court procedure, approached the witness stand in an uncertain manner. The judge, wishing to put him at ease, said kindly, "Address yourself to the jury, my man." The defendant then bowed low before the jurors and said, "Good morning, gentlemen. I am happy to make your acquaintance."

FORGETFUL

"I'm getting old, boys," admitted Squire Farnol as he huddled close to the pot-bellied stove in the Centerville general store. "I kin tell because there's three things I never kin remember: names, faces and—and—consarn it, I kin't even remember the third thing!"

BOUND TO HIT IT

A young lady was on a sight-seeing tour of Detroit. Going out Jefferson avenue, the driver of the bus called out places of interest.
"On the right," he announced, "we have the Dodge home."
"John Dodge?" the lady asked.
"No, Horace Dodge."
Continuing out Jefferson, "On the right we have the Ford home."
"Henry Ford?"
"No, Edgel Ford."
Still farther out on Jefferson: "On the left we have the Christ Church." Hearing no response, a fellow passenger tapped the young woman on the shoulder and said, "Go ahead, lady, you can't be wrong all the time."

Jesus Faces Death
Lesson for March 18, 1951

MANY A STORY has been written around the theme of a man who knows he has only a short while to live. But the best of these is the story of Jesus. It is the best not only because it is true; it is the story of the best man known to history. We Christians go further than that. We believe he was Perfection in all his human life. Jesus' way of facing death is the right way to face it, the way his followers too will choose.

Dr. Foreman

Heart at Leisure

FOR ONE thing, Jesus did not try to conceal from himself or others the fact that he would shortly die. Through all that happened, he was aware of his death. He neither shut his eyes to the inevitable, nor mourned over it.

Now, in our sad times, with death so near to all of us, the approach of death is not something to talk about as if it were an event of the 21st century. Death may come to any of us soon; death is very likely to come to many of us soon; and sooner or later, death is certain to come to all of us. Facing death may bring out all a man's hidden selfishness. From the moment he knows his days are limited, he may think of nothing but himself and his "chances" to escape.

Jesus, on the contrary, under no illusions about escape, accepting death quietly, day by day thought of others rather than of himself.

His Friends and God

MANY PERSONS, in the felt presence of death, withdraw into themselves. They cut the ties that have bound them to others, they set their faces "outward bound." Not so with Jesus. While it was still day, he would not act as if it were night. So we find him tightening up the bonds of friendship.

It is an interesting fact that of all Jesus' living days, those which were remembered best were those which came just before his death. Part of the reason for this may be that his friends came closer to him in those days; there was a intimacy, a greater warmth, between him and his old friends than there had ever been. Even when he prayed in Gethsemane he was not content to pray alone. If there was none to watch with him and in some dim way share his agonies, it was because his friends were not awake to his need, not because he in any way turned his back on them.

Again, we find Jesus' prayer-life growing intense in those last days and nights. Nowhere else from Jesus' whole life is such a long prayer recorded as the one John puts into the story Mark tells so briefly of the last supper (John 17). Not in Jesus' whole life before, though he prayed early and often, do we hear of such agony of prayer as that in the garden before Judas came. He not only turned to his friends, and turned to God, but it is plain that he wished of all things most to bring his friends nearer to God.

Yet how many Christians are there who, if they knew death would be coming for them within the week, would think of others' spiritual welfare rather than their own? How many would help to prepare others for God, and not themselves alone?

First, a Good Life

THE CHURCH has always been a bit suspicious about "death-bed repentance." We know it can be real; but over a period of two thousand years it has been noticed that most people who suddenly turn good in the presence of death are likely to be just as bad as ever if death postpones his visit.

Jesus' last days were not those of a scared man trying to make up in a few short days the lost opportunities of a mis-spent lifetime. On the contrary, Jesus' last days were all of a piece with the rest of his life. Prayer, friendships, appreciation and help of others, even sacrifice, were not strange to him.

So with each of us. We all know how we ought to live if death were hovering near. But we shall have a hard time living and acting so, then, unless it is our habit already. It is well to pray for a "good death;" but the best way to have a good death is first to live the good life.

Protection of Car's Chromium Plate

The preservation of the chromium plating on your car is of special interest to the owner in the present defense emergency. The following simple procedure bears the recommendation of leading plating engineers in the automotive industry and is supplied the press through the offices of the American Electroplaters' Society:

"Salt and calcium chloride, used extensively on highways and city streets to clean them of ice and snow and also used on gravel and dirt roads during the summer to lay the dust, if allowed to remain any length of time on the plated surface of the car, are destructive to the chromium finish because these compounds have a chemical reaction which eats into the surface and opens it to rust."

"This may be prevented by frequent washings, followed two or three times during the winter months and at least once in the summer with an application of a thin film of light oil to the wash-chromium parts. This should then be rubbed off so as not to impair the luster or appearance."

"In instances where rust has already attacked chromed parts, it is recommended that these be scoured with any scouring powder and the oil film then applied."

Learn and Observe Cancer's Seven Danger Signals

What is the one thing every one can do that will definitely save lives from cancer?

The answer, according to Mrs. Ronald Scott, County Commander of the American Cancer Society's 1951 Cancer Crusade here, is to learn and observe cancer's seven danger signals.

"Knowing the danger signals which may mean cancer and seeing a doctor when one appears would result in saving thousands of lives every year," the commander said.

"Early diagnosis and prompt treatment can double the figure of 70,000 cancer cures annually," she added. "Because of the importance of this part of the ACS program, we consider it the first objective in the Cancer Crusade."

Mrs. Scott explained that pamphlets listing the danger signals would be distributed free throughout the community during this year's Crusade.

"We believe it is just as important for people to learn the danger signals as it is to contribute money to the American Cancer Society," she said. "When a solicitor leaves a leaflet at your home, a few minutes spent in memorizing the seven danger signals might well be invaluable to you."

The seven danger signals, that ACS says may mean cancer and certainly should mean a visit to your doctor, are:

1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. A lump or thickening in the

Time Is Here To Buy Baby Chicks

Baby chicks take at least three weeks to hatch, so you can't just go in and shop like you do at a supermarket, cautions H. C. Zindel, Michigan State College extension poultryman, in advising farmers to purchase chicks now.

Contrary to popular belief among some poultrymen, you can't buy "cheap" chicks and expect to make money, Zindel warns. Most "cheap" chicks are surplus, or diseased or poor quality, so that the end result is the same—no eggs or meat. Every year some people fall for "special offers" of 100 bargain chicks at ridiculously low prices.

"These chicks are no bargain," Zindel says. "Remember—cheap chicks don't cheap long." Know your hatchery and buy only from reliable sources, he advises.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Probers Charge Illegal Influence Exerted to Obtain R. F. C. Loans; Troops to Europe Fight Continues

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

The United Nations launched an offensive on a 60-mile front in Korea aimed at killing as many Communists as possible. The offensive, called "Operation Killer," moved forward behind continued artillery barrages. U.N. commanders reported Red forces retreated all along the line and set their losses at 64,000 in the period January 4 to February 28.

R.F.C.: Illegal Influence

What may turn into one of the rowdiest battles in the administration's history began to take shape when a subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee charged that influence emanating from the White House had been exerted on the R.F.C.'s lending policies.

At first the investigation seemed just another periodic urge to probe by investigating senators. But then President Truman stepped in where many Presidents have feared to tread and disclosed he had collected a file of letters written by congressmen to the R.F.C.

He let it be known that he had in his possession between 700 and 900 letters, most of them from congressmen, and some asking favorable consideration of loan applications. At the time it looked like President Truman was turning the investigation from the White House back to the senators themselves. Immediately the senators screamed that they refused to be intimidated.

It was at this point that the President issued a statement saying he saw no reason to make the correspondence public since it did not show any illegality either on the part of the executive branch or legislators.

The investigation fell into something of a lull after the first flurry of publicity, but it is not likely to stay dormant for very long. It has all the ingredients for a mud-slinging battle. And the offended senators are not likely to forget Truman's tactics of turning the spotlight of publicity upon them.

FIXER: Faces Heavy Tax Lien

Salvatore T. Sollazzo, who allegedly spent thousands to fix big-time college basketball games, found himself the subject of an investigation by the federal government. The Internal revenue bureau placed a $1,128,493 tax lien against him.

The effect of the lien was to freeze Sollazzo's assets until the government can collect whatever it may be entitled to. The lien listed allegedly unpaid taxes running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for each of the years from 1943 through 1947.

There was no indication from the government as to the source of Sollazzo's income during those years. He is a jewelry manufacturer.

Meanwhile, investigation of the bribery charges against players for three New York colleges continued. No investigation in recent years has caused so much comment in the sports world.

Basketball is the most popular high school and college sport in the nation. Repercussions of the investigation were felt even to the high school level.

American Farmer Is on the Defensive

The American farmer is angry. He is on the defensive and he doesn't like it.

Since the government ordered price controls the farmer has been attacked with the charge that he is the "hog" in the high food price picture. And to make matters worse, there appears no way for the farmer to convince the consumer that he is not getting the

BACK EUROPE: Dewey and Stassen Plea

The split within the Republican party on the issue of sending troops to Europe came into sharp focus with testimony of Harold E. Stassen and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey before the senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

Dewey had previously backed the administration's policy of sending troops to Europe. Stassen joined Dewey in opposing Sens. Kenneth S. Wherry, Nebraska, and Robert A. Taft, Ohio, and supporting the administration's claimed authority to send American troops overseas without congressional restrictions.

In urging the policy of sending troops to Europe, Stassen said: "If America showed timidity and short-sightedness in refusing to back up General Eisenhower, I believe the reaction right inside America would seriously undermine the stability and confidence in our own economy which is essential for all purposes."

Governor Dewey went even further than Stassen. He told the senate groups, as he looked at Mr. Wherry across 20 feet of space in the caucus room: "The most terrible thing that has happened to this country and the world is the defeatism evidenced by some of the questions asked here as to whether we could hold Europe."

Dewey and Stassen visibly angered some Republican senators by their testimony. That anger will possibly find expression when the Republicans begin a serious search for a presidential candidate in 1952.

As far as sending troops to Europe and backing Gen. Eisenhower's plan to defend Europe, the congress finds itself in a position where it can do nothing but back the administration. Any action to the contrary would be a serious blow to world peace.

AMENDMENT: Two Term Limit

The 22nd amendment, barring future Presidents from serving more than two elective terms or more than 10 years in the White House, was added to the constitution when Utah and Nevada became the 35th and 36th states to ratify the amendment. A three-fourths majority, 38 states, was needed to make the amendment effective.

Minus the legal phraseology, here's what the amendment provides:

"That a President may serve only two elected terms. A man who served up to two years of another President's unexpired term could still serve an additional eight years. But a Vice-President succeeding to the Presidency and serving more than two years before the term expired would be eligible for election only once.

The proposed amendment had been kicking around in state legislatures since March, 1947, but only 24 states had voted to ratify until late in January of this year.

The amendment does not apply to President Truman. He was specifically exempted when congress submitted the proposed amendment.

The last amendment to the constitution—the 21st—repealed prohibition. It became effective December 8, 1933.

KOREA: Operation Killer

United Nations forces under Lt. Gen. Matthew Ridgeway pushed forward in a limited offensive called "Operation Killer" with the idea of eliminating as many Chinese as possible. The offensive was operating on the Ridgeway thesis that "terrain as such is of no value."

There were also indications that the Chinese Communists were concentrating behind a maze of trenches and strong points for another counterattack against U.N. troops. A new over-all picture of the Korean conflict was beginning to emerge from the confused fighting of the past few weeks. It seemed to be this:

The war was at a stand-off between Chinese manpower and U.S. firepower. Neither side could win a decisive victory without committing much larger forces than they seemed willing to commit. But of the two, the Chinese seemed to be getting hurt the worst.

With this thought in mind, a number of United Nations delegates were again hoping the Mao Tse-tung might be willing to reopen peace negotiations.

NAVY: Senate Approves Bill

The Senate unanimously approved a $2,358,082,000 atom-age navy modernization program. The bill, already cleared by the house, was sent to President Truman for his signature.

It would authorize the navy to build a new 57,000-ton super-carrier capable of handling atom bombers. The navy also could buy about 140 new warships with a total weight of about 500,000 tons, and convert 292 others with a total weight of 1,000,000 tons.

Meanwhile, Gen. Omar Bradley reluctantly accepted a house armed services committee compromise bill to lower the draft induction age from 19 to 18½. The bill would increase the term for all draftees from 21 months to 26 months.

Bradley said he would accept the plan reluctantly because some form of legislation was needed to reach the goal of 3,500,000 men under arms as soon after July 1 as possible.

RENT CONTROL: A Limited Extension

The senate banking committee approved a three-month stopgap extension of federal rent laws controlling the rents of 7,000,000 homes.

The committee resolution will be sent to the senate floor for action. Existing rent controls expire March 31, except in communities which decide to continue them. Communities so deciding may remain under federal ceilings until June 30.

Under the new resolution federal ceiling would stay in effect until June 30 except in communities which decide to abolish them. The administration has been plugging for a law permitting more widespread application of rent controls. Since the war rent control has been removed from millions of homes.

TRUMAN: Interesting Speculation

President Truman is the subject of a bit of interesting speculation in and about Washington. It has been rumored that he may run for his old senate seat when his term expires January 20, 1953.

Although no one would say for sure and it is much too early to speculate on presidential possibilities, old friends of the President continue to say he is seriously considering a return to the senate where he passed 10 happy years.

Most observers believe Mr. Truman will not make up his mind whether to run for another term until early next year.

Stassen

Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, called for "drastic and definite" support of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower by prompt rearmament of western Europe. The former GOP presidential aspirant made his plea in testimony before the senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

RUBBER: NPA Announces Slash

The national production authority ordered a reduction in the amount of natural rubber in approximately 40,000 products. The order went into force the first of this month.

A NPA spokesman said the order was designed to conserve natural rubber for stockpiling, armaments and industrial items for which demand will increase as the mobilization program advances during this year.

The St. Lawrence Seaway project, long a controversial subject, now is being shuted around in Washington. Says Norman W. Foy of Republic Steel Corp., "The seaway is needed as a lifeline between iron ores in Labrador and the blast furnaces of the Great Lakes area."

Gov. Williams has now evinced interest in the Michigan mining industry. It is still cheaper to use Michigan ore—and so he is organizing a Michigan ore research while negotiating in Washington for a seaway to the mid-west. Research in the state is being pushed. The state mining industry, he says, must not be periled.

The Michigan state legislature adopted resolutions in 1933, 1935, 1937, 1941 and 1947 favoring the St. Lawrence seaway. Decision rests with Congress, legislators point out.

Michigan can look for the establishment of a crime commission or an equivalent organization. Gov. Williams is meeting with lawyers from all over the state seeking the answer to Michigan's increasing crime rate. Look for the announcement soon.

There will be a showdown soon on state taxes. The 3 percent used car sales tax, a 1½ cent gasoline tax increase and weight tax boost have been approved by the senate. Will the governor sign the bills even after they pass the house? Gov. Williams says he opposes consumer taxes, favors a corporation tax.

As a substitute for the Williams corporation profits tax, the Senate Taxation committee has reported favorably a $15 million increase in corporation franchise fees. The Senate already has approved a tax on sale of used automobiles. The new levy would add $17.8 million to the general fund. The Higgins industrial processing tax bill is still in committee, and Higgins has indicated it may not be needed to balance the budget.

Inflation note: More liberal unemployment compensation benefits are proposed by a legislative term study committee. A minimum weekly payment of $30 is asked by labor. Industry wishes to preserve present merit rating which opposes.

The National Institute of Mental Health has awarded $28,917 in grants to three Michigan institutions for research. The awards: University of Michigan, Dr. Lee R. Rice, $9,288; Wayne University, Drs. Fritz Redi and Donald Lippitt, $4,644; Michigan State College, Dr. John H. Huseem, $14,985.

Mt. Clemens has plans for a new 100-bed hospital (general) to cost an estimated $7,000,000.

Report is on tap that Republican National Committeeman Arthur Summerfield, Flint, may seek his party's senatorial nomination next year.

Michigan lawmakers are grimacing over the bitter pill tossed them by a specialist for the "little Hoover commission". Hardest to swallow was the assertion that the Democratic governor and his lieutenants have been tied down by "connivance" of a politically hostile legislature whose ideas and methods he describes as "amateurish, blind, discredited and time-wasting". The critic was Aruthur Eugene Buck of New York, a reformer more interested in ideas than in results.

Constitutional earmarking of state funds and other restricted accounts have tied the hands of the legislature, Buck pointed out. Legislators now have control over only 36 per cent of general fund monies. In this "hodgepodge" is the sales tax diversion amendment whereby 78 per cent of sales tax revenues must be diverted to schools, cities, villages and townships. (Notes: Counties do not receive sales tax revenues, as reported in error here last week.)

The state revenue department took in $179,000,000 in the first seven months of this fiscal year, an increase of $31,600,000 for that period last year. January sales tax was more than $5,000,000 over last year, reaching $24,800,000 for the month. Ogre inflation still is with us.

WASHING SWEATERS CAN BE EASY JOB

Does it seem all your sweaters and those your family are shabby and dreary looking, ask Mary Gephart of the Michigan State College school of home economics. She offers directions for washing that will make them seem new again.

Directions for washing sweaters should be followed carefully, before washing. Use these measurements to block out flat for drying.

Use lukewarm water and squeeze mild soapsuds or detergent suds through the garment—don't rub. Support their weight with both hands so garments won't stretch out of shape from weight of water.

Rinse in lukewarm to cool water. Miss Gephart emphasizes that it is important not to subject the sweater to a great change in temperature. For drying, if you put a heavy layer of newspaper on the floor, then a turkish towel, you can wash several sweaters at the same time. Put them in a place where they can stay undisturbed until dry. Some people have wire sweater forms for drying sweaters.

Sweaters badly stretched at the neck or waist can be improved by using elastic thread through the ribbing on the back side about one half inch from the edge.

If you have to wash a sweater with numerals or decorations of some other color on it, it is a good idea to blot the color very thoroughly with a towel when you lay it flat to dry. Continue to blot it occasionally as it dries. Put something between the front and back of the sweater so that color cannot go through to the back of the garment.

For a more finished look, steam the sweater. Cover it first with a dry cloth and then a damp one. Press lightly with the iron until the moisture steams through the sweater but do not iron dry. Remove press cloths and leave the sweater until thoroughly dry.

It's always easy to find an excuse for delaying hard work. public serviced still disrupted.

Although the last of the state's game hunting seasons closed the first of the month, Michigan's hunter army can still do some legal shooting around the state. Conservation department has a list of non-protected species which can be taken at any time between sunrise and sunset.

WINTER DIETS MAY LACK VITAMIN NEEDS

How is your children's winter diet, asks Mary Lewis, of the foods and nutrition department of Michigan State College's school of home economics.

Compare the diet with a recent check on the wintertime meals of a hundred Michigan school children. In the main, the children were provided milk and meat. Breads, cereals, cakes and cookies were eaten in abundance. But few children were given at least one serving of a green of yellow vegetable.

Scarcely any had a fresh fruit of vegetable salad; and almost two-thirds had no dependable source of Vitamin C.

Green and yellow vegetables are rich in Vitamin A, cites the foods and nutrition authority. This vitamin aids in maintaining the normal health of the protective membranes lining the nose and throat. They are the body's "front-line defenses" against harmful bacteria.

Canned tomatoes, tomato juice, grapefruit and oranges, along with the juices from these fruits, are the very best sources of Vitamin C that are on the market during these winter months. Because there are no reserves of Vitamin C in the body a reliable source of this vitamin should be included daily in the meals of all persons. Especially should they be given systematically to children as their bodies will become deficient more quickly than adults. The cheaper juice orange can be peeled and sliced. The children like to pick the slices up in their fingers to eat.

Every corner grocery store carries canned tomatoes and tomato juice. In this section of the country they provide the cheapest source of Vitamin C during these winter months. Tomatoes are grown abundantly in this state and families in Michigan should include them in their meals several times weekly.

The easiest person to deceive is yourself.

If you stir eggs that are to be hard boiled while they are cooking, the yolks will be better centered—making them more attractive for slicing and stuffing.

A relish tray of raw vegetables is a good item on any menu, say Michigan State College home economists. Besides high nutritive value, they'll add variety to the meal.

Don't use the same towels over and over again. Like people, they need rest. If you allow them to dry out thoroughly in the linen closet between laundering and re-use, they'll last longer.

Pigs From Big Litters Make Good Records

Have you ever heard that pigs from big litters never "do as well" as those from an average or small litter? It's another old belief that's been proven wrong according to Harry Moxley, Michigan State College extension swine specialist.

Moxley took the records of nearly 20,000 pigs entered in the MSC Sow Testing Project the last six years to prove his point. It shows that size of litter is of major importance in achieving high litter weights at weaning time.

Pigs from litters of all or more pigs averaged 32.8 pounds at 56 days. Those from litters of 7 pigs, averaged 33.1 pounds each at weaning age. But the total litter weight for big litters was nearly 375 pounds compared with only 233 pounds for the seven-pig litter.

The MSC swine specialist says big litters depend on many factors. Heredity factors such as milk giving ability, number of teats, and breeding from a strain of big litter producing animals can be controlled only by selection. Feeding and management practices during the time the sow or gilt is pregnant have a great bearing on the number of live pigs in the litter and individual size.

"No one breed has a monopoly on high production," Moxley commented. J. F. Hackney, Durand, won the 1950 contest with a litter of 14 Yorkshires attaining a total weight of 615 pounds at 56 days.

Bowling News

Forty-four more couples bowled in the 6th Annual Rainbow City Mixed Doubles, including several combinations from Bellaire and Central Lake as well as 3 more couples from Cadillac. After the day's bowling Minnie Des Jardin and Wes Cooke still hold first place with 1243. Their position was seriously threatened on the 9:00 p. m. squad when Eva Stark and Chas. Dennis, local bowlers, came within 5 pins of first place and tied for 2nd place when they totaled 1238. Both Eva and Charlie missed in the tenth frame of their 3rd game, whereas a spare by either one would have given them the lead. Eva and Charlie are both left-handers and will try their luck again next Sunday at 9:00 p. m. when they are scheduled again. Several other changes were made in the first ten places, but with the last day coming up, and a full schedule practically assured, 60 or more couples will try for that big $50.00 first prize. There are still a few openings on the early squads and local bowlers should make their reservation early if you wish to bowl. The entry this year already exceeds the total number of entries for last year.

In the Merchants league the scores took a drop as the bowlers found the new drop of pins full of splits and misses. Sommerville Grocery team increased their lead in first place by taking 4 points from the Canning Co., while the 2nd place Recreation dropped a pair of points to Thorsen's Lumber Co. Monarch Finer Foods won 3 points from the State Bank to move into a tie for second and St. Joseph's won 3 from the Legion to give them 16 points each and a tie for second and third place. ## Today's Driving Lesson

NINTH STORY

Experienced drivers make more mistakes while executing left turns than in any other traffic maneuver, say Ernest P. Davis, Automobile Club of Michigan's safety and traffic director.

Teachers in 305 Michigan high school Driver-training courses explain that the left turn is the emblem of most motorists because it requires exacting movements. When car is placed improperly in the center of the intersection, the resulting traffic jam is mild compared to more serious possible consequences.

The teachers recommend this sequence of movements for skillful left turns:

1. Start getting into proper lane for the turn at least 300 feet ahead of the intersection. Execute the "straight-out" arm signal.
2. Start the left turn before the middle of the intersection.

Then stop so that cars in lanes on both sides of you can pass. Wait until all oncoming traffic has cleared.

3. Move on so that you pull into the center-line of the street you are turning into. That lane is the counterpart of the lane you left when you turned.

If you wait until your car is past the center of the intersection, you're the maker of a traffic jam, because your car will not allow left hand turns from opposite direction of the street.

Right turns "just come naturally."

1. Get into the far right lane 300 or more feet before the intersection. Use the "straight-out" arm signal.

2. Turn into the far right lane of the street you are entering, and be careful not to "charge" pedestrians crossing legally on the green light. (Next: "What's A Right-Of-Way!")

SHORT STORY

Faithful Servant

By Maud McCurdy Welch

TIMES WERE HARD in the little town of Centerville and Sam Meadows, the town's only druggist was finding it hard to meet his bills. The shoe factory was shut down, one of the lumber mills had moved away and the other one was running half time.

Sam was a widower and lived economically in two rooms in the back of his store. He'd cut down on a few other things, but things kept getting worse.

Bill Bowen, one of Sam's good friends, came in one day to talk the situation over. "The trouble with you," he told Sam, "is that you're not business-like. How can you expect to run a business successfully if you don't collect?"

"When people are sick, they have to have medicine whether they can pay for it or not," Sam said reasonably.

"But, Sam, you can't carry the whole town on your shoulders. If you go on extending credit, you'll probably find yourself in a bad spot."

Bill went to the door, turned back with a word of warning, "Better think it over, Sam."

Sam sighed. He looked up at the small neon sign over the entrance doors of which he'd always been so proud.

"Meadows Drug Store Twenty-five years of service."

Bill Bowen was right. After all a druggist has to take a stand somewhere. He has to protect himself. Sam's next customer was Mary Neely, a tired looking little woman. Sam knew what she wanted, a prescription re-filled for her brother's neuritis. "It's botherin' her awful today," she said.

Mary's husband had had a good job in the shoe factory, but it had been some time since he'd had a steady job.

But Sam had made up his mind. He drew a painful breath, "Mary, you already owe me thirty-five dollars. If you could pay for this prescription maybe . . ." but Sam's voice trailed off unhappily.

Mary's eyes were dazed with surprise. "I haven't any money, but . . ." she broke off. "You mean you . . . you won't let me have the medicine?"

Sam walked to the back of the store, unable to answer. Then suddenly he whirled around. Mary was gone. He hurried after her.

BILL WAS wrong. A man had to have faith. A man has to accept his responsibilities. The health of the people in this town had been entrusted to him. He couldn't fall them, whether they could pay or not.

Sam overtook Mary and said, "Come back. I'll fill the prescription. I'll also put up some Vitamin B for your brother."

"You're a good man, Sam," Mary said tearfully.

After that when people needed credit, they got it. Sam was as usual on call day or night.

Bill Bowen came to see him again. This time Sam told him that a druggist's responsibilities to his customers was as great as that of a doctor to his patients. Bill tried to argue with him, but Sam shook his head with a smile.

Bill went out and almost collided with Tom Shaver, the young cashier

"The trouble with you," Bill told Sam, "is that you're not business-like. How can you expect to run a business successfully if you don't collect?"

In the bank Sam was filling a prescription for a shabby young man in overalls. He charged it and as the young man started to leave, Sam gave him a doll for his little girl.

Then Sam said, "Well, Tom, what's on your mind?"

Tom Shaver grinned. "Just wanted you to know the old town's waking up. Shoe factory opens next week, a furniture factory coming in and the mill's going to run full time. There'll be jobs for everybody and the people won't forget you, Sam." Tom went to the door, stopped under the neon sign. "I think I'm going to change that to read, 'Twenty-five years of Faithful Service.'"

Sam smiled at him. He was remembering a favorite Bible text: "For we walk by faith, not by sight."

FARM FACTS

from your County Agricultural Agent

Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

FARMERS DAY HUGE SUCCESS

This year's Farmers Day held last week was a huge success according to reports received from farmers by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. The new film "Science of Agriculture" showing experiments being performed by Michigan State Experiment Station started the program. Mr. Bingham, principal of the Charlevoix High School and Ed Shanahan, director of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, both welcomed the farmers to the town of Charlevoix. Floy Ayres, veterans instructor, was chairman of the meeting.

Jim Hayes, extension dairyman, really put on a show. His topic was dairy mistakes the neighbor makes and he stated that probably the biggest mistake the neighbor made was in not coming to this farmers day meeting. Some of the mistakes that the neighbor makes that Jim mentioned were as follows: turning cows out too soon in the spring, not having enough alfalfa-brome pasture, planting alfalfa, lack of summer pasture for July and August, feeding no grain in the summer, leaving cows outside in fall, being tight with water, poor ventilation in barns, too much brome in alfalfa-brome mixture, alfalfa hay stands left too long, feeding no minerals or bone meal, using poor bull being very unsanitary and using no butter.

Jim Hayes mentioned that not all these mistakes could be necessary serious but enough of them put them together will make a farmer lose money at dairy. The problem of how to inform the neighbor of some of these mistakes is a tough one. You can't tell him or he will cram it back down your throat. Probably the best way to show him these mistakes is to invite him over for a visit to your dairy barn.

The afternoon program started off with some selections by the Charlevoix High School band. The first speaker in the afternoon was Mike Tesser from the farm crops department. Mike spoke on the use of grass in agriculture and the reason we are interested in this program is because it reduces soil erosion, maintains fertility, increases yield of following crops, and means more money in the end to the farmer. Mike stressed the point that good alfalfa seed and then plant it right. It was estimated that about 15 to 20 percent of all the seedings made in the State of Michigan are failures which is too costly at the price of alfalfa seed today.

Mike Tesser mentioned some of the following points in regards to getting a good stand of alfalfa-brome field. Have the right pH, add proper fertilizer, test your soil, inoculate the seed, plant very shallow; a good rule is to plant seed four to five times its greatest length, firm the seed bed before and after planting, use very little nurse crop on light soils early oats best, summer seeding and seed with wheat could also be used, graze the stand field after combining to protect the seedings, mow and fertilize old stands, cut early at about one-quarter in bloom.

The last speaker on the program was Arthur Mauch, extension specialist in agricultural economics who spoke on the topic "How much does Freedom Cost?" Art added that in this country we have freedom of speech, of press, of religion, of property, of free enterprise, and of choice. But this freedom does not come free. Too many of us have taken for granted that this freedom does come free, that we don't have to fight for it, that we don't have to pay for it; but these people are wrong. In United States we enjoy the highest standard of living, we have a good climate, a large supply of resources, good navigation and two political parties. In our country the State is the servant of the people. We produce more than we consume and we also have education for all.

Arthur Mauch, however, pointed out that there are some weaknesses to our system of government. We have boons and depression, we have a public debt that is increasing tremendously, we put shackles on efficiency, sometimes government is by pressure groups, we have cumbersome machinery to change gears in a national emergency and we take for granted that freedom is free. Today we are fighting Russian imperialism. We are also fighting socialism and economic collapse from within.

In 1902 the government owned 7 percent of the property in United States, in 1929 the government owned 9 percent of the property but in 1949 the government owned 20 percent of all the property in United States. Art gave several suggestions in regards to controlling inflation. Some of these were cutting nonessential government expenditures, increase production and prices and wage control.

FARM SHOP MEANS DOLLARS

Farm shops can mean saving and speed in repair jobs, believes Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. He cites that 85 percent of engineering, or some handling of machinery.

Some figures from R. L. Maddex, extension agriculture engineer at Michigan State College, show that the investment to be put into a farm shop varies with the individual. A common figure used is five percent of the machinery investment per year. Maddex advises that this would equip a shop very well. Actually, if the farmer would spend one or two percent of his machinery investment for a period of five years, he would have a very satisfactory shop.

Agent Rebman agrees with the engineer that some farms have the majority of farm tools that are needed to do most of the farm shop work. Organization is needed for the job.

Organization means having a place to work where the tools are handy, where there is heat so that work can be carried on during the cold days of the year, and a place large enough to bring in most of the equipment around the farm for repair work.

Many Michigan farm shops have floor space of not more than 20 by 20 feet. A corner of a large garage, one end of a machinery storage shed, or even an old hen house of the shed roof type, can be easily converted to a work shop and be easily converted to a work shop area for the farm.

One or two substantial work benches and a panel or cabinet for tools, are the basic requirements in the way of equipment for a farm shop, says the agent.

COSTLY TALKER

A man took a fancy to a parrot at an auction but the bidding went up surprisingly and he finally wound up paying $220 for it.

"I suppose the bird talks?" the man said after handing over the money.

"Of course," said the auctioneer. "Who do you think's been bidding against you for the last 20 minutes?"

Mr. Saxton and Mr. Richardson of the high school and Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Johnston of the elementary school attended a conference held at Higgins Lake, March 9, 10, 11.

This conference, with about 100 teachers attending, considered the curriculum problems suggested by participating schools.

Mr. Richardson and Mr. Saxton attended the group meeting on "Citizenship." Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Johnston attended a discussion on coordination between elementary and high school and Parent-Teachers Relationships.

Entertainment was furnished for the group each night.

KINDERGARTEN

Isabel Sidebotham

We are learning some Easter songs. One we like to play and sing is "Bunny Pink Ears." We have made some Easter eggs and Easter rabbits. We like them.

John Gee had his six-year-old birthday last Thursday. His mother came to visit and brought ice cream and such beautiful cupcakes trimmed with pink frosting, coconut and pink candles.

We enjoy working in our books. We are learning to count now.

KINDERGARTEN

Helen Severance

Last week we learned about the number three. We can find things in three; tables, chairs, boys, girls and crayons. We have learned to write 1 and 2. This week we will learn to write 3.

We are learning a new song about a bunny with long pink ears. Today we cut out big Easter eggs and decorated them.

FIRST Grade

Mrs. Stokes

Another marking period gone. Two-thirds of the school year is over.

Roger Clark, Marvin Crawford, David Drenth, Josephine Nemecek, Raymond Richards have perfect attendance this period. Marvin Crawford has not been absent yet.

Mr. Wade got us some new books to read. They are about Bobby and Betty. They are easy and fun to read. We can read a whole little book in one day. The big one takes longer. We must have clean hands to use them.

DIARY OF A FLOWER

March 7 — The children like me.

March 8 — The children gave me a drink.

March 9 — I am pretty now but soon I will be old.

March 10 — No one came to see me.

March 11 — The children are not here.

March 12 — I am getting old.

March 13 — My flowers are wilting. Jean gave me a drink.

FIRST Grade — Mrs. Bowerman
Suzanne Malpass treated her classmates with decorated cookies in the shape of Easter eggs for her seventh birthday. On Saturday she entertained some of her friends at her home.

Ward Cole, Carolyn Gee, Jane Graham and Chris Schroeder were not absent during our last marking period. Dickie Raymond and Keith Holly were absent only one-half day.

We have been enjoying some new readers which we are using as supplemental readers. The vocabulary is very similar to that of our basic texts so we can read them quite independently.

FIRST Grade — Mrs. Brooks

Those having perfect attendance this, the fourth six-weeks period, are: Gladys Archer, Hazel Boyer, Robin Clark, Ila Ingalls and Michael McWatters.

We were glad to have Carol Shedina's mother come to the assembly to see our March Wind exercise Friday morning.

We are learning songs for the Spring Festival which will be given on April 6th.

SECOND Grade — Cora Seiler

Friday we had a birthday party in our room. It was Anette Reed's eighth birthday. Mrs. Reed sent delicious pink, green and white popcorn balls for the party.

These people were neither absent nor tardy for the last six weeks:— Douglas Hayden, Connie Kolker, Linda Murphy, Gerald Peters, Sharon Pinney, Duane Raymond, Anette Reed, Beverly Snyder, Ronald Sulak and Wilma Schwandt.

Dennis Kopkau is back in school after being absent with a bad cold and earache.

We are practicing every day for our Spring festival. We enjoy going to practice with Mrs. Johnston's second grade.

We are learning how to count by three's as well as two's, five's and ten's. We are finding how to get half of any number, how to divide a number into three parts.

SECOND Grade — Mrs. Johnston

Our spelling booklets were finished Monday. The work in the booklet covered the last six weeks' work. Many have had six perfect papers in their books. In checking back over our work since the beginning of school, we found that Judith Jankoviak was the only child who has had all perfect papers in all the spelling booklets. This is an excellent record.

Last Thursday we helped Helen Addis celebrate her eighth birthday. Helen's mother sent a treat which consisted of delicious cupcakes and Easter candy. We sang the birthday song, after which each of us made Helen an Easter picture. Mrs. Sidebotham surprised us by telling the story of "Mrs. Goose and Her Rubbers."

Mrs. Seiler gave our room a daffodil plant. We are watching the buds blossom into flowers.

This week we colored eggs for our Easter baskets.

We are going to be the little Pickaninnies in the spring operetta.

Our report cards were given out last Wednesday. Most of us have made improvement in our work.

Those who were neither absent nor tardy for the last six weeks period are: David Bartholomew, Jane Dunson, Judith Jankoviak, Ronald Klooster and Larry Schumacher. We are all going to see if we can improve our attendance record for the rest of the school year.

THIRD Grade — Marie Hughes

There has been considerable illness among our children the past six weeks. The total number of absences came to 165 half days. Those who missed no school the last marking period are Glenn Arndt, Joanne Clark, Sandra Gibbard, Kay Kamradt, James Kolker, Albert Peters and Martin Ruhling.

Those who had perfect attendance the first semester are Yvonne Elzinga, Earl Gee and Sandra Gibbard. Congratulations.

Eleven of our class of 38 are reading "More Streets and Roads", the advanced third grade basic reader, and doing very well.

Twenty children are reading "Streets and Roads" the easy basic third reader. These children are reading easily and with comprehension.

Seven children are reading somewhat easier material but doing well.

We think our leisure reading period has been a real help to us as well as the special help Mrs. Sidebotham has given a few of us.

There were 26 A's in spelling Friday, five B's and two C's, showing immense improvement and a much better understanding of how to study spelling words.

We are learning Indian songs now in preparation for the spring festival.

The lovely daffodil that Mr. Sanderson gave us has blossomed beautifully and certainly added a bright spot to our room. We all thank you, Mr. Sanderson. Mrs. Hughes took it home last week end.

Beware This Spring of Grass Fires; You Must Get A Permit

Spring fire hazard conditions already exist in the southern third of the state and burning permits are needed the conservation department cautions.

Permits will be issued at the discretion of the local conservation officer or fire officer. Permits also can be obtained from township fire departments.

The department's forest fire service asks public co-operation in keeping spring grass and forest fire damage down and in eliminating needless, expensive fire runs.

A person who starts a brush or grass fire or any other type of open fire when the ground is not covered with snow, except for domestic purposes, without a permit, is subject to a maximum fine of $100 and/or 90 days in jail.

The burner also is liable for extra department expenses and he may be sued for damages should the fire spread to another person's property.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Watch Out For The "Blind-Spots"

Stopped by Squint Miller's farm the other day and saw a vinegar bottle in his kitchen with an oversized cucumber inside it. The cucumber filled the whole bottle.

"What's a cucumber doing in there?" I asked him. "That's my 'blind-spot' reminder," says Squint. "My grandmother kept one in her kitchen to remind her to take stock of herself now and then."

"I slipped that bottle over the cucumber when it was just starting to grow on the vine," he went on. "And like certain viewpoints, not noticed, it just grew and grew — now it's there to stay."

From where I sit, we could take a cue from Squint and watch for our own "blind-spots" and prejudices before they grow too big to get rid of. We've got to respect our neighbor's right to his preferences... preferences for a certain make of car, a favorite movie star, or a temperate glass of beer after work. We won't be tripped by any blind spots if we keep our eyes—and minds—open!
