East Jordan Closes Baseball Season With a Loss

FIFTH STRAIGHT FOR CLASS B TROJAN'S ALL BY SLIGHT MARGINS

East Jordan High School closed its 1951 baseball season at Traverse City last Wednesday afternoon by dropping a close 4 to 3 decision to the Class B Trojan nine. It was the fifth straight victory the Traverse City nine has posted over the Jordanites during the last three years and all have been by the slim margin of one run.

Traverse got off to a fast start in Wednesday's encounter as they pushed across three big runs in the opening frame. A pair of local miscues paved the way for all three runs coming after two were out. Traverse counted again in the 4th frame with what later proved to be the deciding run. The "Red Devils" came to life with three tallies of their own in the 5th frame as shortstop Don Whiteford highlighted the inning with a tremendous triple that drove Ellwin "Red" Evans pitching in two runs.

his last contest for the locals turned in a credible performance on the hill giving up but 5 hits, striking out 3, while walking 5; but was a victim of four costly local errors that figured in all the Traverse scoring. Max Sommerville worked behind the plate for the locals. Hockstadt and Carlisle formed the winning battery the former giving up 9 hits, walking 2, and striking out 9.

Huckle, Boring, and E. Evans contributed 2 hits each to the local cause. Johnson, Traverse third baseman, led the winners at bat with 2 hits in 3 appearances at the plate.

Larry Huckle, Max Sommerville, Ellwin Evans, Bryan Boring, Richard Dipzinski, Jean McPherson, Earl Bennett wound up their playing careers in a Jordanite uniform as all will graduate this spring. Their loss will leave a huge gap in the local nine next spring and Coach Saxton will find it tough filling their shoes with untried personnel come next baseball season.

The locals posted a 4 won 2 loss record this spring and capped the Northern Michigan Class C Conference baseball championship.

Farewell Party

Sixty three Rebekah sisters and invited guests met in the Odd Fellow Hall, May 22 at 8 p.m. The event was a complete surprise on Mrs. Irene Kiser who is moving to Cheboygan, Mich., where her husband is employed at the Consumers Power Co.

A lovely necklace was presented to Mrs. Kiser with the Rebekah insignia on it. Dancing entertainment for the evening, after which a lovely luncheon was served.

Mrs. Kiser will be greatly missed by her Rebekah sisters as she was a faithful worker in our lodge. Our loss will be Cheboygan's gain.

Guest: "Thank you, but only a mouthful."

Hostess: "Hilda, fill up her plate."

Poppy Sales Success In East Jordan

The American Legion Auxiliary 227 Poppy Chairman Mary Hayes wishes to express her thanks to the residents of East Jordan for their generous contributions to the poppy sale held here last week. The money received from the sale of the Memorial Poppies is used entirely for the benefit of veterans and their families in the community and for the veterans in the hospitals at Xmas time etc. This is one fund that stays in the community with the cost of the poppies which is used to pay the veterans who make them. The Poppy Chairman especially thanks the girls of the Aux. who donated their time to sell them and Joe Wilkins for his untiring efforts to keep people informed of the poppy sales and what they stand for by his announcement over the P.A. system. Many thanks to Kieth Stinchomb of the Home Modernizing shop for the use of the P.A. system.

The annual meeting of the Community Chest at eight o'clock, Tuesday, June 5th, at the City Building.

Garden Planting Time With Dogs on the Loose

Every year at this time complaints come pouring into our office relative to dogs running over and digging into planted gardens.

Please keep your dog on his own premises. Your neighbors don't like your dog tramping out seed beds and young plants, nor do they want to complain against a neighbor.

If owners of dogs want to be fair to their neighbors they will keep their dogs confined to their own premises. If they think their dog is different they have another guess coming.

Should anyone wish, they may file a written and signed complaint with the Justice of Peace and the matter will be taken care of.

It would be much pleasanter if dog owners would keep their dogs at home instead of allowing them to run at large, causing damage and irritating their neighbors. HARRY SIMMONS, Chief of Police

Board Plans New Elementary School

SINKING FUND FOR NEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL BUILDING TO BE VOTED ON AT THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION.

At their last regular meeting on Monday, May 14th, your Board of Education agreed to submit the following proposals for your approval at the annual school election, June 11th.

PROPOSAL NO. 1

To Increase the Fifteen Mill Tax Limitation

Shall the total tax rate limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in the East Jordan Consolidated Rural Agricultural School District No. 2, in the Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes levied for the payment of principal and interest on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased, as provided by Section 21, Article X of the Constitution of the State of Michigan by one half of one percent (1/2%) of the assessed valuation (5 mills) of all property in the East Jordan Consolidated Rural Agricultural School District No. 2 for a period of ten years from 1951 to 1960, both inclusive:

PROPOSAL NO. 2

To Establish Sinking Fund For A New Elementary Building

Shall the East Jordan Consolidated Rural Agricultural School District No. 2 comprising territory in the City of East Jordan and the townships of South Arm, Wilson and Eveline in Charlevoix County and the Townships of Jordan and Echo in Antrim County, State of Michigan, levy 5 mills to create a sinking fund for the purpose of erecting a new elementary school building for a period of ten years, 1951 to 1960, both inclusive:

NO

As stated before in the Herald, your Board feels that the school electors should have the privilege of expressing their desires as to whether or not they want a new elementary building. Your Board also feels that the sinking fund, or pay-as-you-go plan, is preferable for the following reasons:

1. It is the least painful method of securing a new building.

2. It saves interest charges on bonds. In fact taxes collected can be invested in certain securities and dividends can be added to the sinking fund.

3. It should easily put us within striking distance of a new building in ten years.

We ask that you give us your support at the June 11th election

SHORT STORY

The O'Maddigan's

By Patrick J. O'Brien

TOMORROW is Flanagan's wake, Kathy O'Maddigan recalled, as she hurried up the brownstone steps leading to the apartment where she and Paddy had lived since their marriage three years ago, this very day.

Kathy smiled
as she visualized
the new spring
outfit she would wear at the gathering. Paddy was proud of her dress, too, even if he didn't say so. She knew he liked the way it emphasized her figure. Of course he had complained about the cost, adding: "If you want to waste money on clothes, you should have married a banker."

But the argument about the dress was not the real reason she had left. The breaking point was reached when Paddy had refused to buy the darling bonnet displayed in Murphy's window. "Ridiculous!" he said.

Ridiculous? How could a hat be ridiculous when every day, for nearly a month, she had stopped to look in the window and admire it.
Reaching the apartment door, she turned the knob, but the door refused to open. Apprehensively, she thrust the knob back and forth,
but to no avail. She was locked out.
Kathy blushed furiously with indignation.

Then she exploded:
"Open this door! Do you hear me?" she shouted, pounding frantically on the warped panels.
"It's not enough that I work myself to the bone so a body can have a decent home to live in.
No, I must be locked out of my own home. My home, mind
you!"

"Your home," Patrick O'Maddi-gan's voice vibrated through the thin partition. "Is it now? And only this morning you were ready to walk out of my house."

"When I get my hands on that stubborn neck of yours," Kathy O'- Maddigan shouted, "I'll . . ."

"Sure now," Paddy said, "would you be wanting to harm your bread and butter?"

"Open this door, I say!"

"In good time, woman," Paddy replied. "It's your Irish temper that has the best of you."

"Temper!" Kathy shouted. "A fine one you are to be talking of an Irish temper. Who was it that woke the neighbors with his carrying on in the wee hours of the morning?"

No answer.

"It was Patrick O'Maddigan, that's who it was. And all because I wanted the money to buy the hat."

"BUT the price, woman. I couldn't afford a week's wages for a bit of lace and cloth."

"Don't you want your wife to be all . . ."

"Your home," Patrick O'- Maddigan's voice vibrated through the thin partition. "Is it now?"

the best dressed lady at the wake tomorrow?" Kathy asked.

"That I do. But could you not purchase a hat that's more reasonable in price?"

"I had my heart set on wearing that hat to the wake," Kathy said.
"Don't you love me?"

"It's not a question of love," Paddy replied, "it's the money I'm thinking of."

"Then you'll not buy the hat for me?"

Silence.

"Let me in, Paddy," Kathy pleaded, a pathetic note creeping into her voice. "I'll be good . . ."

Enjoys His Absence

The four-year-old was busy playing in his yard when a grownup stopped by. "Hi, Mike," she said,
"where's your friend Jason?"
"Away," he replied.
"Don't you miss him?"
"Yes," Mike admitted. Then, meditating darkly on the number of times Jason had beaten him, he added, "But I like missing him."

Prayer Works Wonders
At prayer meeting one night, the minister asked if there was anyone in the congregation who wished to have a special prayer said. A lady parishioner promptly rose. "I should like a prayer said for my husband," she announced. "But you haven't a husband," said the perplexed minister. "Well," replied
the lady tartly, "I can think of no better reason for praying for one."

TEXAN MANNERS

When it comes to gallantry, Texans cannot be beat. As an example, a rough old gaffer from the oil fields who was just preparing to dig into a succulent piece of roast pig at a barbecue when someone careened into him from behind and knocked his plate to the ground. In a rage he bellowed, "You hawg! You want all the space there is?" and then he perceived the offender was the dignified wife of his host. Without a second thought he amended his statement, "Lady hawg, that is, ma'am."

Both Legs Same Age

An elderly lady, having been troubled with pains in her leg for some time, consulted her physician.
"It's rheumatism," he told her,
"but we must expect such ailments
as we grow older." "Nonsense," was the reply. "It has nothing to do with age. My other leg isn't one bit younger and it doesn't bother me at all."

Gets Around

She, with indifference: "I believe I may have seen you somewhere."
He, with equal indifference:
"There is no doubt you have. I go there often."

INTERESTED IN DETAILS

A stranger walked into the pet shop and asked for the proprietor.
"I have come to inquire about your advertisement in this morning's paper for a man to retail imported canaries," he announced.

"Glad to see you, sir. Are you interested in the job?" asked the proprietor.

"Oh, no. I was just curious to know how the canaries came to lose their tails," the placid stranger replied.

When to Laugh
An actress was once appearing opposite a ham actor who took himself very seriously. Like most hams, he was temperamental, and found something new to complain about every night.

One night, between acts, he cornered the actress and said:
"I saw you laughing at me during the last scene. I demand that you stop laughing at me on the stage."

"Oh, I never laugh at you on the stage," said the actress innocently.
"I always wait until I have returned to my dressing room."

COULD BE TRUE

"The new baby has its father's nose and its mother's eyes."
"Yes, and if grandpop doesn't stop leaning over the crib, it's going to have his teeth."

Party

Host Insures Guests
LONDON, England — Charlie Allgood held his 28th annual party for neighborhood children recently—and insured every one of his 504 guests.

A ton of food, including hundreds of California oranges, were served. And the genial tavern owner watched his guests gorge with never a worry over the outcome. He had each one insured for 2,000 pounds ($5,600) against accidents or illness from overeating.

The day after the party he told newsmen "there hasn't been—I've got my fingers crossed, mind you—a single claim."

Allgood said one of the big hits of the party was a gift air shipment of one orange for each child from the California Fruit Growers exchange.

"Those oranges were still on the trees a week before the party," he said. "You can't beat those Californians."

Catherine's Ghost Fails to Show Up For British TV

LONDON, Eng.—In England the general public accepts the fact that ghosts do exist. In the United States there is general skepticism on the subject.

Recently the BBC planned to put a ghost on television. Over 2,000,000 television fans sat expectantly before their sets. But it was a failure.

The shade of King Henry VIII's wife, Catherine Howard, who was beheaded in 1542, had been booked hopefully as the star of a 10-minute television visit to Henry's palace at Hampton Court, 15 miles from London.

Three television cameras, an infrared spotlight, and transmitting gear involving more than 800 tubes were set up to command Hampton Court's "haunted gallery." All video fans got, however, was a view of the period atmosphere of one of Britain's historic palaces.

No living actors appeared, either.
BBC announcer Audrey Russel described the scene from offstage in a tense whisper, as though she expected the ghost to appear at any moment, and the cameras were operated in the same spirit.

Legend has it that Catherine walks through the gallery as she did in 1542 to plead with Henry not to have her beheaded.

Henry condemned Catherine on the suspicion that she had retained some of her premarital lovers after she became queen number five.

Just before her execution, Catherine eluded the guards at her bedroom door and walked along what is called the haunted gallery to Henry's private oratory—in which they had been married—where he was attending mass. She pleaded vainly for mercy.

Some ghosts in Britain have almost historic status. Catherine is one of them. Many persons over the centuries have professed to have seen her. But she is shy, and the last "authenticated" appearance was in 1917.

Jettliner Makes 102 Minute Flight from Chicago to N.Y.

NEW YORK—A four-jet passenger transport slated for commercial use in about two years provided military preparations in North America do not interfere, flew from Chicago to New York recently in 1 hour and 42 minutes, breaking several records.

It is the only turbojet-powered airliner in flight in the western hemisphere. The Jettliner left Chicago airport at 11:07 a.m. and buzzed the control tower at La Guardia airport at 12:49 p.m. It had cruised at 36,000 feet, setting a record for high altitude transport flight, as well as a speed record by bettering the airlines' schedules by at least an hour.

The plane was built by a Canadian firm and was piloted by the manufacturer's chief test pilot. He set a rate-of-climb record when he reached an altitude of 30,000 feet
twenty-two minutes after take-off.

Aided by a tailwind that averaged 70 miles-an-hour, the plane cruised at 450 miles an hour and top speed was well over 500 miles an hour.
The plane began the let-down for the landing at La Guardia when it was over Allentown, Pa., or thirteen minutes from New York.

Grippers Change Their Tune When Sirens Change Theirs

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Many
residents of San Francisco complained that they couldn't hear the sirens in a recent air raid test. Not so any longer.

Rear Adm. A. G. Cook, civil defense director, arranged a private test of a super-sized World War II siren at Ocean Beach. Seagulls, stunned by sound waves, crashed to the beaches . . . housewives rushed outdoors . . . a police station was flooded with anxious inquiries from as far as five miles . . . the ground shook 25 feet away.

Engineers said the 140 horsepower siren's shriek was 100 times as loud as that of an ordinary fire siren. Pooch, said Admiral Cook, the thing can be tuned 10 times
louder!

The city has five of the sirens and plans to order 12 more.

In one of today's most tragic traffic accidents a school child is struck down from the rear by a car. In most cases the driver never saw the child before the moment of impact because the child was not walking on the left side of the highway facing oncoming traffic. As part of its child-safety campaign, Automobile Club of Michigan has distributed 6,100 of the above posters to Michigan schools for bulletin board use during June. Some 25,000 lesson sheets teaching the "walk on left" message have been supplied to Michigan teachers for classroom use.

Grassland Vital To Crop Rotation

All-out production of food, fiber and other crops cannot be maintained long if grasslands are eliminated from crop rotations.
Richard Bell, Michigan State College farm crop extension specialist, made this comment in stressing the need for continued effort for production of more high quality grasses and legumes on Michigan farms.

"To protect the soil and to give profitable and sustained food production, farmers must resist the farmers to attend the event near-grasses and legumes during this period of high demand for cash crops" Bell opined. Improved grasslands will make possible greater forage production on fewer acres.

After a year or two in soil-building grasses and legumes, the crops specialists say these acres will then produce larger yields of grains and other cash crops.

Bell, who also heads the committee planning six Grass Days throughout the state in June, urges farmers to attend the event nearest them.

The demonstration plots, which show what good practices, fertilization, seed selection and management can do to increase forage production, will be explained at each farm. There will also be discussion of utilization of the forage crops by farm animals.

The six Michigan Grass Day programs will be held in mid-June in Calhoun, St. Clair, Saginaw, Montcalm Manistee and Oscoda counties.

Michigan's upper peninsula
farmers are participating in pasture improvement programs this summer. Extension specialists in that area believe these county events will be very valuable this year in stimulating the production and utilization of better forages.

Disorderly farm shops are not only unsightly and hazardous,
but time consuming for repair jobs because it is difficult to find things.

Teacher: "Just before his execution King Charles of England made a speech."

Student: "Maybe if he had tried a filibuster, he would still be with us."

THE AMERICAN WAY

Aroused At Last!

Antrim Co. Farm Bureau News

Several members attended the NMAPC meeting at Gaylord May 7 at which many important matters were discussed.

Mr. Wenney district supervisor of Extension Service, outlined a program for better living for for people in these northern counties. It included:

- (a) A better forage program.
- (b) Better adapted livestock program.
- (c) More attention to forestry products.
- (d) Development of special crops, and other suggestions.

Watch your local papers for information on this program sent out by your county agricultural agent.

The committee is still working to establish the Institute for Better Living—a school for those, young and old, who wish to learn as they work. Dairymen who are having one cent per lb of butterfat deducted from their checks for May and June should listen to "The Voice", News Ahead of the News,
by David Lawrence over our local Mutual Network station at 8 p.m.
every Sunday evening.

Are you interested in having a Fertilizer Plant built in Antrim County? The site has been offered and railroad and electrical facilities assured for such a plant.
There are none north of Saginaw and Lansing and a plant of this kind would mean great savings to the farmer of northern Michigan.

Debate Arms Boycott

MOST IMPORTANT diplomatic debate of the Korean war has been going on backstage at the United Nations—namely, an arms boycott of Red China.

So far our U.N. allies haven't got around to voting to ban arms, let alone an economic embargo. However, it remains a fact that this is one of the most important steps to be taken against any aggressor. Furthermore there is a long history of diplomatic pussyfooting regarding this by our supposedly good friends—pussyfooting that eventually has landed them in war. Here is some case history:

Pussyfoot No. 1 was when the British undercut us in 1931 when Japan first invaded Manchuria. Issues almost identical to the Korean aggression were involved in Manchuria, and the late Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson saw them clearly. He saw that Japan was sowing the first wild oats of aggression, just as Russia is today, and that if she got away with one aggressive bite there would be more.

But Stimson never could get the British, who had more at stake than we, to cooperate. When U.S. Ambassador Cameron Forbes would deliver a note of protest, the British ambassador did likewise — then dropped round to the Japanese foreign office an hour or two later to explain that Britain's note was merely to please the Americans and not to be taken seriously.

Pussyfoot No. 2 was when President Roosevelt tried to organize an economic blockade of Japan in 1936 in order to stop further aggression against China. By this time the British realized their 1931 mistake and went along with us. But Roosevelt could not get the support of other European powers. Hitler and Mussolini were too strong by that time, and he also faced the private opposition of Cordell Hull.

Pussyfoot No. 3 came when Mussolini invaded helpless Ethiopia. This was one of the cruelest cases of aggression the modern world has seen, and the tottering League of Nations conscientiously tried to act. But although an economic blockade was voted for the first time in history, two things made it unsuccessful.

One was the exclusion of oil. The big American and British oil companies pulled backstage wires, managed to scare British and American diplomats into permitting the continued shipments of oil to Mussolini. Without oil, his fleet would have been paralyzed and his trucks could not have moved. But we pussyfooted.

Pussyfoot No. 4 is taking place right now in regard to Red China, an obvious, wanton aggressor in Korea. While the British are the worst pussyfooters, we in the U.S.A., including General MacArthur himself, have pulled our punches.

MacArthur, for instance, has permitted a steady dribble of strategic materials to flow into Red China from Japan. From July to October, 1950, he permitted $3,106,000 in metals, machinery and textiles to leave Japan for China. From October to January, Jap exports to the Communists increased to $11,100,000. Since MacArthur controlled all Jap exports, this could have been stopped.

However, the flow of British goods entering China through Hong Kong is the most shocking scandal of the entire Korean war. While American lives are being snuffed out, British millionaires are being made overnight.

Yet the state department has taken no tough steps, such as a threat to cut off U.S. economic aid to Britain, as a means of stopping this trade.

Merry-Go-Round

Robert Mack, a senate elevator operator, literally stepped into Senator Kefauver's shoes the other day. The Tennessee crimebuster worked so late that he had to dress for dinner in his office, bolted out the door wearing dinner dress, but brown shoes. In the elevator he noticed his mistake, traded shoes with Mack, who had on black shoes, and got to dinner on time. Congratulations to Ira Hirschmann and his radio station WABF in New York for winning the Peabody award for good music.

Chinese Give Up

It didn't get into the press columns, but a small naval task force turned back a Chinese thrust down the Korean east coast recently. The Chinese Communists sent two units to prod for a weak spot in the South Korean line that is defending the east coast. However, two American cruisers and four destroyers hurled broadsides all day into the attacking Chinese. After 1,000 rounds of devastating ship-to-shore fire, the Chinese gave up.

SIMPLE TIPS TEACH GOOD FOOD HABITS

If children are to establish good food habits, mealtime should be a happy and relaxed time, says Shirley Agriesti of the Michigan State College school of home economics.

Teaching children good habits is easy, she believes, if you observe a few simple rules. First, children should be seated comfortably with their feet resting on the floor. The dining area should be attractive and uncluttered to develop a peaceful atmosphere.

Adults should not mention food dislikes in the presence of children. Young people are quick to notice tough, strong flavored, gummy, stringy lumpy or burned food. They like mild natural flavors in food and they prefer simple food. They should be given food that requires chewing. Crisp vegetables and toast are good examples of this.

Children should be allowed ample time to eat their meals. Don't rush them in their eating, the home economist suggests.

The home economist says that seasoning should be used sparingly in food for children. Sugar should also be used sparingly. It blunts the appetite. Fruits are best if served ripe and unsugared.

Individual servings of food given to children should be small and second helpings encouraged. Children are discouraged by seeing a big helping and hence may not attack it. Small children should have their food cut into bite-size pieces.

Variety should be used in children's meals, but don't introduce more than one new food at one meal, the home economist concludes.

There's a mighty lot of interest among anglers all over the country in the new glass rods. This is only natural, of course, since everyone wants to know if these rods will perform and last as good as or better than bamboo and steel rods.

A reader, Mrs. Paul Davidue of Hartford, Conn., writes in to ask if a solid glass fly rod is better than one of tubular glass. Well, Old Hi wouldn't say that it is, for the test depends much upon the use to which the rod will be put.

For example, you are going to troll with an outboard motor and use spinners or small plugs, it's wise to use a solid glass rod because it is stiffer, heavier, and has more backbone to withstand the strain. But if you are going to cast with the various light and medium weight fly rod lures, the tubular glass rod will lend more sport since it's lighter and more flexible.

Old Hi can tell you that a tubular glass rod has plenty of tough strength, for he watched a rod section being bent into a smaller circle before breaking than could a bamboo section. It's a fact that tubular glass can undergo strain far beyond any placed on it normally by fish or fishing practices.

Glass rods are more flexible than bamboo of equal proportion, and since plastic impregnated tubular glass rods are unaffected by livable temperatures they do not take on a "set" or curvature from exposure. "This material," says Bob Pigg of Los Angeles, who originated these rods, "is by equal weight stronger than steel. It isn't indestructible, of course, any more than bamboo or steel, but it will last for an indefinite time."

For most of your trolling, though, and for bait casting, you should wield the "Highline" solid glass one-piece casting rods that are strong and flexible. Until you have experimented with one of these glass casting rods, in comparison with bamboo and steel, you don't know what the best is in smooth and easy action and real power.

The solid glass salt water rods are proving to be favorites with hundreds of salty anglers, such as the Flounder and Mighty Midget; and the "Glass Caster" surf rod made of tubular glass with 7-foot tip section is bringing great success in casting lures and playing vigorous fish along the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

Yes, there is power and strength enough in solid and hollow glass rods for all types of fresh and salt water fishing, and tests have shown their durability. If, though, you have any questions about the rods, just drop a letter to Old Hi, in care of this newspaper, and they will gladly be answered.

If you're puzzled over what tackle in general, and methods, will serve to give you the finest sport and best catches while you are at lake, stream, or seashore, one of the quickest ways to find out is to write today for your free copies of Old Hi's illustrated booklets called "Fishing For The Millions," "Salt Water Sports Fishing," and "Pacific Coastal Fishing." But their suggestions into practice.

Out of Ruins

Lesson for June 3, 1951

A GERMAN who came through World War II recently said: "At present there is no country in the world where a man can live more like a man than in Germany. This is because yesterday has been reduced to ruins and rubbish. . . . We can thank God that he has blessed us with ruins more than he has others."

This may sound shocking, but it sounds not unlike the Bible. There were Jews in ancient times who lived to thank God for the ruins of Jerusalem.

Meanwhile, Democrat Moody is allowing no moss to grow on his new senatorial shoes. Invading Grand Rapids itself (evidence of where G.O.P. opposition to him will stem) the new senator advocated restoration of unity on the same bi-partisan policy pioneered by the late senator.

A movement to eliminate the last minute legislative jam which again has featured the state legislature's 1951 session has been launched by Speaker Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie, sparked off by Rep. Louie C. Cramton of Lakeport. Reform proposals: All bills must be introduced by March 1; each committee must act on bills within 30 days; additional compensation for members of the House Ways and Means committee and Senate Finance committee for budget hearing prior to convening of the legislature. Cramton favors a 90-day legislative session. Indiana legislators do the job in 60 days.

It is expected that the 1952 legislature will be asked to appropriate funds for a long-term program to erect road sign markers to designate Michigan's historic sites and geographic features.

The request will be but one of many similar ones. Latest grab bag is the $65,000,000 approved last fall to improve mental and tuberculosis hospitals. Counties have been standing in line to get on the gravy train. How far will $65,000,000 go?

Already bids on six projects in the state are $1,484,500 over funds appropriated for the jobs. Contracts are being held up pending word from the legislature concerning additional financing.

A new state office building may be nearer than we think. State administrative board has ordered vacating of homes on the site of the new structure—just west of capitol building. It is expected to cost $5,000,000.

In 1950 the nation had 25,103 medical students enrolled—101 more than in 1906. Despite military demands the 72 four-year medical schools are continuing to accept only one of every 3.6 qualified students who apply.

Says Dr. Hugo Aach, Kalamazoo: "It seems today that all the institutions want is bigger and better buildings—I feel that what we need rather than more facilities is better use of the present ones and sounder judgment in choosing our medical students." He blames A.M.A.

Unemployment insurance receipts hit a new high in Michigan in 1950. Insured workers in the state earned $6,077,697,743 during the year. Insurance benefits paid out in the entire nation last year was only $1,400,000,000.

Chuckle of the season is the comment of Chelsea farmer Hilarian Bibicoff who after attending a farm meeting in Ann Arbor returned the $7.50 paid him by the government for being present saying, "They didn't tell me anything I didn't already know—I do not feel justified to accept he taxpayers' money for nothing."

Bigger and plainer reflecting highway signs are being installed and are expected to increase safety for Michigan motorists and visiting tourists.

John B. Martin of Grand Rapids, state auditor general, has revealed his candidacy for the senate seat recently vacated by the late Arthur H. Vandenberg. It was no surprise. The big G.O.P. battle for nomination to the chair, now occupied by Williams' appointee, Blair Moody, is expected to be between Martin and Arthur Vandenberg, Jr. son of the famous bi-partisan policy supporter.

Vandenberg has the name but Martin for a year has been dropping not too subtle hints concerning the job and may pack more power than is expected. Young Vandenberg was his father's secretary and undoubtedly will use "experience" as the backbone of his campaign—if he runs.

There is no reason to assume he won't enter the race.

of Main Street and the World

Committee's Proposed Tax Increase Hits Lower Income Groups Hardest

TAXES ON THE LOCAL LEVEL—By July 1, or shortly thereafter, the man on Main Street is going to find himself subject to increased individual income taxes if the house ways and means committee's proposals are carried out.

The committee voted to increase income taxes $2,950,000,000 a year. The increase would raise taxes in every bracket by 3 percentage points.

In The News

For instance, a single man with a net income of $2,000 a year would pay $322 in taxes instead of $280. This would be an increase from 20 per cent to 23 per cent. In the second bracket ($2,000 to $4,000), the tax would go up from 22 to 25 per cent, and in the third bracket ($4,000 to $6,000), from 26 to 29 per cent.

In general, the increase in each person's tax would be about the same as the jump which took place under the first war-tax bill passed last year. This proposed taxation is tentative, however, and subject to possible changes by the house, the senate finance committee, and the full senate. But it is an indication of approximately what the small-towner can expect before the summer is over.

WHAT DOES AMERICA THINK?

From the time this nation was founded politicians have tried to keep in close contact with the home towns in an effort to know and understand what the average man is thinking. Very few of them, however, have succeeded.

With this in mind, Secretary of Defense Marshall made a bold statement during his testimony on the MacArthur-Truman controversy when he asserted the American people will stand with the administration on military policy in Korea.

Marshall believes the average home-towner has no desire to expand the war in Asia. He believes the American people "are on the side that the defense department, the joint chiefs of staff, and the civilian authority of the government favor."

This side, Marshall asserted, involved a settled conviction that the present policy of limited commitment of force in Korea must go on.

TEAM WORK—The first thing the American youngster learns, whether he is a city boy or a small town one, is that he has to be a member of the team. To play with the other kids he must cooperate. Americans carry this lesson with them through life.

It was with some relief, therefore, that home-townners heard the news that those few nations who have been trading with Communist China had finally agreed it was time to start playing with the home team and to cut off that trade completely.

Britain, trade and dollar hungry, was possibly the worst offender. It could be that the senate vote to cut off economic aid to any nation which permits its citizens to trade with Communist areas had much to do with the sudden spurge of cooperation.

FOR HUNGRY BEEF EATERS—In an action entirely independent of the recent projected general rollback on beef prices scheduled by October 1, the government unexpectedly slashed approximately 12 cents a pound off ceiling prices of some chuck steaks and pot roasts.

For the hungry beef eaters of the nation it was a welcome surprise. It is not likely to make relations between the administration and the nation's beef producers, packers and distributors any cosier, however.

Dr. Mary T. Martin Sloop (top picture), 77-year-old of Crossmore, N.C., became big news when she was named American Mother of 1951. Dr. Sloop, wife of a country doctor, became nationally known for her work among the underprivileged in the mountains of her state. Always sensational news, glamor princess Rita Hayworth, arrived in Reno to divorce Prince Aly Kahn.

Here again the free world has been blocked in its attempt to ease world tensions and try to make some progress toward real peace.

THE TALKING CONGRESS—At the moment it appears that the 82nd congress will go down in history as the talking congress, with a record of fewer laws enacted than the 80th congress which was termed the "do-nothing congress" by President Truman.

After four full months, the 82nd congress has enacted only 28 public laws, a recent check revealed. None of the major platform planks on which Truman won election for a second term have been approved. Of 37 specific legislative recommendations by the President, only three have become effective as a result of congressional action since January. And two of them affect only soldiers or veterans of the war in Korea.

FROM COW TO CAN

New Milk Canning Process Is Reported

A new cow-to-can process that produces milk that tastes like bottled milk, but which can be shipped long distances without spoiling is being used by a dairy in East Stanwood, Wash., and being sent to Alaska, Japan and the armed forces.

The process was invented by Dr. B. Graves, 64-year-old research scientist. Since March 30, 2,000 gallons of milk have been canned daily.

The milk is never exposed to air. The canning is done in a bacteria-free atmosphere of steam. It differs from the standard pasteurization process in the amount of heat used.

In the new process the milk is exposed to 278-degree heat for only eight seconds, the 64-year-old scientist reported.

Secrets Are Bad

By Richard H. Wilkinson

NO ONE caught on to my secret but Sheila. Sheila was smart. Pretty, too. She had smoky gray eyes and titian hair and pure white skin.

We met at a winter sports house-party up in New Hampshire, and the next Monday, back in Boston, I took her to lunch.

"I've got some friends I'd like to have you meet," I said. "They have an apartment out on the Fenway. Suppose we run out tonight?" She looked at me with a sudden flash of her smoky eyes, and I said quickly: "Sounds like a stuffy evening, I suppose. It won't be. Bette and Gill are O.K. You'll like them."

"I'd love to go," she said. And so that night we called on Bette and Gill.

On the way home Sheila said she'd had a grand time, which is why I've always marveled at Bette and Gill, because we'd done practically nothing.

"I like them," Sheila said. "They're married and they seem happy."

"They are happy. They've been married six years and they're happier than when they started. I've known 'em both since high school."

Well, during the six months that followed I saw a lot of Sheila, and together we saw a lot of Gill and Bette. One night I went up there without her, and you'd think those two had been waiting for an opportunity to get me alone.

"Say, listen," Gill said, "you're getting old. I mean, here we've been married six years and you're not even in love."

"How would you know about that?" I grinned at him.

"I know it!" Bette cried delightedly. "It's Sheila! He's in love with Sheila! Oh, Jim, we think that's grand! She'll make you a wonderful wife!"

"Sheila's all right. Good company. So are the dozen other girls I've been bringing up here."

Gill shrugged. "O.K., Jim. We've been hoping you'd fall for one of them, because you're missing something—not being married."

TWO nights after that I saw Sheila. I went to an in-town hotel to dinner and dance. Around 10 o'clock I suggested we leave and run out to Gill's and Bette's. But Sheila shook her head, and I looked at her in some surprise.

"They're nice people," she said. "I like them, but I'm a little tired of being an excuse."

"Excuse?"

"I've heard about the other girls. They were all excuses, but I'll bet they didn't know it."

"Now, wait a minute," I said. "What is this?"

"Call it a game, if you like," she looked at me steadily. "Jim, you'd better give up. Gill happens to love

"I knew it," Bette cried delightedly. "It's Sheila! He's in love with Sheila!"

his wife and I have an idea he'll keep on loving her."

"I flushed angrily. 'Of course he will. Who says he won't?'"

"Nobody. But you hope he won't."

"I hope what? What the devil are you talking about?"

She sighed. "Oh, Jim, stop pretending. You're in love with Bette. You've been in love with her for so many years you've lost count. You kept bringing pretty girls up there, hoping he'd fall for one of them, hoping she'd break up their match. Then you'd have a chance with Bette."

"Stop!" I yelled. "You're crazy!"

"No I'm not. I'm quite sane. What kills me is that neither Gill nor Bette have caught on."

She stopped and bit her lip. "Well, it's none of my affair, but I'll tell you this, Jim: Those two are about the only inspiring people I've ever known. And I'm all for letting them stay that way. From now on, count me out."

I shrugged. "O.K. You're out. There are two dozen others out with you. But you're the first who's guessed the reason." I sighed. "I guess I'd better quit. Gill and Bette think if I married you I'd be getting a prize. I'm beginning to agree with them. Will you marry me?"

"No," said Sheila.

Which is what a chap gets for having a secret like mine.

Strained Relations

"Doc," said the old mountaineer, leading a gangling youth into the presence of the village medico, "I want you should fix up my son-in-law. I shot him in the leg yesterday and lamed him up a mite."

"Shame on you, shooting your own son-in-law!" scolded the doctor.

"Wal, doc," rejoined the mountaineer, "he warn't my son-in-law when I shot him."

A Fair Deal

Taxes, of course, are a perpetual thorn in the side of the wealthy. A member of the class of '19 at Princeton had a hard time persuading two of his wealthiest classmates to join him in promoting a new corporation that he hoped would earn a fortune. Both agreed the enterprise looked good, but pointed out that, because of taxes, it meant nothing more to them than additional headaches.

"I know," agreed the promoter, "but you two are my oldest friends, and I wouldn't feel right about going into this deal without you."

"All right," agreed the wealthier of the two reluctantly, "but one thing must be distinctly understood in advance. If we make the money you predict—you have to keep it."

SPEECH IMPEDIMENT

Mortimer: If I'da knowed I coulda rode I woulda went.

Bergen: Mortimer, you must watch your speech.

Mortimer: I can't. My nose kinda cuts off the view.

He's The Umpire!

Once when Frankie Frisch was chased off the field for bitterly protesting an umpire's decision, he turned and thumbed his nose before stepping down into the dugout. The ump rushed over and roared: "Did you thumb your nose at me?" Dead-panned Frankie: "You made the other decision—make this one."

VERY CIRCUMSPECT

A young bride from the West moved to a small Vermont village, and months went by with little sign of friendliness from her neighbors. At last she spoke about it to the woman who cleaned for her.

"I don't see what else you can expect," responded the Vermonteer crisply, "considering what the people here are saying about you."

"Saying about me!" gasped the bewildered bride, whose life was above reproach.

"Yes, about your washing. I don't know how you do things in California, but here we do not hang our pink panties out for everyone to see. We pin them up on the line inside of pillow cases."

Beyond the Law

These guys sitting around outside the courthouse were talking about the very tough old judge who was holding court inside.

"He's tough," one of the debaters said, "but he sure believes in justice."

"Sure does," agreed another who only recently had been sentenced by the judge, "he's the most justice judge I ever saw—just as soon hang you as not!"

HAD TO HAPPEN

"Say, I hear you lost your job. Did the foreman fire you?"

"Well, you know what a foreman is—he's the guy what stands around and watches the other fellows work."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Why, he got jealous of me. People thought I was foreman."

Looking Backward . . .

MAY 27, 1911

Bert Solly, aged 35 years and Mrs. Mary Eliza (Howard) Solly, aged 51 years, were united in marriage by Justice F. B. Boosinger last Saturday evening. They are both residents of East Jordan.

Our board of Trade held a meeting Tuesday evening to discuss ways and means for the new buildings at the County Fair grounds. E. B. Ward of Charlevoix addressed the citizens assembled. Following this a subscription paper has been passed among our business men, who contributed liberally to the project.

Just "Can't Get Over" Easy's Fence

Few years ago, Easy Roberts took a lot of kidding when he planted that hedge of Multiflora roses — along his property line. Folks said he was getting pretty high-falutin'.

But today plenty of people who laughed at the idea slow down when they drive by Easy's place — just to look at those roses. Most beautiful sight you ever saw.

Practical, too! The hedge is a good four foot high now, and at least five foot thick—even a shoat couldn't get through that prickly mass of shrubbery. Best of all, it cost less than ordinary fencing. (Might be well worth your while looking into.)

From where I sit, there's no sense in looking down on something just because it's different from what we like. For instance, some people think ice-cold lemonade's the best "cooler-offer" on a hot day. Some of us would rather have a glass of beer. The important thing is not to "hedge ourselves in" against other people's ideas and preferences.

How Forest Fires Start

Evidence that a small spring clean-up blaze can quickly turn into a forest fire—and in extreme southern Michigan as well as in northern regions—is caught by the camera in a conservation department forest fire patrol plane. Farm woodlot fires such as this recent one southeast of Allegan do more than destroy timber and make lesser-damaged trees more susceptible to fungus diseases. Fire also reduces soil fertility, causes faster run-off of rainfall, and invites soil erosion.

A career girl is someone who finds it easier to get a job than a husband.

A six-year-old was looking at photographs of her parents' wedding. Her father described the ceremony and tried to explain its meaning. Suddenly light dawned. "Oh! Mary Jane exclaimed. "Is that when you got Mother to come to work for us?"

BEAUTY WINS
Needling a new secretary, the firm's president decided to have applicants judged by a psychologist. Three girls were interviewed together.

"What do two and two make?" the psychologist asked the first. "Four," was the prompt answer. To the same question the second girl replied: "It might be 22." The third girl answered: "It might be 22 and it might be four."

When the girls had left the room, the psychologist turned triumphantly to the president. "There," he said, "that's what psychology does. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second smelled a rat. The third was going to have it both ways. Now, which girl will you have?"

The president did not hesitate. "I'll have the blonde with the blue eyes," he said.

High Fallutin'
A group of men were discussing their various backgrounds. One boasted of his illustrious ancestors, and claimed to have descended from a family of very lofty station.

"Indeed," quipped one of his listeners, "There is no doubt that you are right. I understand that certain members of your family were finally so elevated in position that their feet did not touch the ground."

U. S. FARMS Farm Assets At New High

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Financially and physically, American agriculture is in the strongest position in its history to meet the production demands involved in the free world's rearmament effort.

The U. S. department of agriculture estimates agriculture's total assets at the beginning of 1951 at a new record high of more than $134 billion, two and one-half times the equivalent total a decade ago.

Much of this increase may reflect inflation, notably in farm land prices, but much of it also represents solid gains in tangible possession and savings.

As to output potentials, the nation's farm plant has never been so well equipped for an all-out production effort as it is now because of the rapid mechanization of recent years, marked increases in productivity, and improved farming techniques in general, agriculture department officials report.

Position Is Changed

The current situation is in decided contrast with the position of agriculture at the beginning of the last war when farming was just emerging from a prolonged depression and still showed its effects.

One of the significant elements of agriculture's current strength is the growth of farmers' savings over the past decade combined with the relatively small rise in their aggregate debt. At the beginning of this year, farmers as a group held nearly $22 billion in bank deposits, currency, U. S. savings bonds, and investment in cooperatives.

This was more than four times the $5 billion total of such liquid assets at the start of 1940. These figures do not include other savings such as life insurance. Farmers are known to have greatly increased their life insurance protection in recent years.

Aggregate farm debt at the beginning of this year was estimated at just under $13 billion, as against $10 billion on January 1, 1940. All this increase has been in the non-real estate category, a large part of it due to government crop loans.

Farm Debts Lower

Actually, the farm mortgage debts is nearly a billion dollars lower now than it was at the start of World War II. Thus overall farm indebtedness rose by only 30 per cent in a period when consumer credit and nonfarm home mortgage debt more than doubled.

To sum up the changed financial position of agriculture, farmers as a whole now have $1.67 in cash or equivalent for every dollar they owe, as against only 50 cents in cash assets for every dollar of debt 11 years ago.

According to the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture, the American farmer today has assets valued at $134.4 billion as compared with $53.8 billion in 1940. Liabilities total $12.9 billion today as compared with $10.0 in 1940.

Irish Spinster Campaigns Against American Women

DUBLIN, Eire—An Irish spinster, Miss Una MacHale, 43, head of the "Daughters of Deceency League," has started a campaign against American women "in order to keep alive the traditions of the Irish girl."

Miss MacHale has called upon Irish girls to stop imitating American women, especially as far as putting on lipstick in public and chewing gum are concerned.

"If you see anyone reddening her lips in public, tell her that American girls do that, but decent Irish girls don't," Miss MacHale said. "American women are loud, vulgar, ostentatious. They dress badly, make up garishly in public, chew gum incessantly and dominate their menfolk."

Miss MacHale said the "American influence" had got hold of the town of Limerick, near Shannon international airport. Limerick used to be a fine town, she said, but now you'd hardly know it was Irish.

"The girls speak with North American drawls," she said. "It has juke boxes instead of traditional Irish fiddlers. There are too many bubble gum chewers".

American men?

"They are much better," Miss MacHale said.

Poor Family Wants to See Money-Chasing Benefactor

PACOIMA, Calif.—Someone has been leaving money near the home of Mrs. Mary Halverson and her four children. The family would like to know something about their mysterious benefactor.

Money has been found in the yard, under rosebushes and in a sandpile. Twelve-year-old Bonnie thinks the money is coming from Jesus. But Mrs. Halverson thinks otherwise.

Wherever it comes from, the cash is welcome. Her only income is the $125 a month the county pays her for taking care of an invalid. Her husband, John, was getting $208 a month in disability benefits, but she can't cash the checks. Her husband has been missing since he went to Blum, Cal., to work some months ago.

A much-married Hollywood actor was confronted by a gay damsel. "Don't you remember me?" she greeted him. "Ten years ago you asked me to marry you!" "Really?" yawned the actor. "And did you?"

I don't. I just need the money.

Red Tape
A veteran obtained a job in a Government bureau, only to have it discovered later that he had never taken a Civil Service examination to determine whether he was qualified for the job which he had been handling for a year and a half. So he was given the test. He failed because of "lack of experience." The problem was neatly resolved, however, by promoting him to be chief of his section.

BORN AGAIN

A certain newspaper rarely made a mistake, but once it reported the death of a citizen who was very much alive. He came into the editor's office later in the day to protest.

"I'm sorry, but if the paper says you're dead, then you are dead," insisted the editor. The only compromise he would make, after long discussion, was to print the man's name in the birth notices the next morning.

NOT FOR "HOOFERS"

The woman had returned a pair of shoes to the exclusive shop.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but these shoes aren't what I need. I can't walk in them."

"Madam," commented the snooty clerk, "people who have to walk don't shop here."

There was a man who called a spade a spade—until he stumbled over one in the dark.

DEBT TO SUN

Sun Drags Earth Along

STARKVILLE, Miss.—"If we had to pay for the energy we get from the sun at present power rates, our bill would keep mounting at the rate of $60 billion a minute," John DeMarche, noted physicist, reported recently.

Professor DeMarche, a physics instructor at Mississippi State College, said although the sun exerts a tremendous influence on the world, only 1/2,000,000,000th of its energy ever reaches the earth.

And if some inter-planetary disturbance should cut off this supply of sunlight, the professor said the earth would become a lifeless planet encased in frozen atmosphere.

Once the earth passed the outer reaches of the sun's orbit, the atmosphere would lose its moisture, until finally it became a cold solid surrounding a frigid and barren earth, he said.

However, there is little possibility that a disturbance would shake the world loose from the sun's grip.

Sun Is a Star

He said the earth is held to the sun by a force equal to a round steel rod some 3,000 miles in diameter. That would cover the United States from coast to coast and reach from the southern part of Canada down to the Gulf of Mexico.

The sun, as we call it, is actually a star. And it's not the biggest star by a long shot. There is one known star which is 2,700 times as large, and a number of them are 1,300 times as large.

"At least one star is known to give more than 400,000 times as much light as does the sun," Professor DeMarche said. "However, there are stars so dim that 500,000 of them would be required to shed as much light as does the sun."

The light received from the sun is equivalent to that from 600,000 full moons, or 50 billion of the brightest stars.

Sun Drags the Earth

All of this light and energy, he said, comes from matter charging into radioactive energy, not from simple chemical combustion.

All the stars are rushing through space, and the sun is travelling toward the star Vega at 12 miles per second, or 43,200 miles an hour. The rest of the solar system, including the earth, is dragged along with the sun.

"It is possible that the solar system will sometime strike denser interstellar materials which will cause the earth to fuse with the sun," he said. "Some stars periodically pulsate with great surges of energy. Such an explosion of the sun would certainly annihilate the earth."

As for the energy the earth has received from the sun, it would run into quite a figure if the payment had to cover all back energy. Preserved and recorded in rocks is an unmistakable record of over a billion years of continuous sunshine.

$19,000 Bank Error Nets Poor Family Big Christmas

HOUSTON, Tex.—Bob Baker, 25, his wife and two children faced a bleak Christmas until a Houston bank made a $19,000 mistake. Bob's spending spree is over now, but it was a good thing while it lasted.

The unemployed painter's bank account was down to $15.73. Christmas was on hand and he didn't have enough to give them a Christmas present.

Then his bank statement arrived. It showed a balance of $19,015.73. He called the bank and they said his balance was $19,015.73.

"Sure, I knew it was a mistake," he said after the bank had found its error. "I knew they might catch me. But I stood right there and made up my mind I was going to pay some bills. And when I looked at my kids—well, I knew there was going to be a real Christmas in the Baker house."

He had spent $4,000 of the account when the error was detected. He arranged to return $15,000 in cash and an automobile he had paid $2,000 down on. The rest he will repay at $30 a month.

The bank said it would not press charges against Baker. Besides, attorneys were perplexed, they knew of no law to cover such a case.

Meanwhile, Rickey Baker, 5, has a new tricycle and other glittering toys. Phyllis, 2, has a new doll and heaps of other gifts and Mr. and Mrs. Baker have some new clothes.

Trapped by Fire, Family Caught by One-Legged Man

MANCHESTER, England—Joseph E. Rushton, 41, who is only able to move about with the aid of a peg leg and crutches, and recently saved his wife and two children from burning to death when their home caught fire.

Rushton was awakened by the crackling of flames. He first crept into the basement and turned off the gas.

Then he stood outside the bedroom, braced himself on his crutches, and deftly fielded his children—Christine, 2, and Irene, 3—as his wife dropped them out a window.

Finally he caught his wife and hobbled away to turn in a fire alarm.

The Servicemen's Letter

By Jason Snyder

Hi Fellas;

I guess that is the best way of greeting you. I know that if I saw a group of you standing around on Main Street here in East Jordan and I wanted to speak I'd say jus that, "Hi Fellas".

This new job that has been tossed my way is really a new one to me. No one has ever before accused me of having any literary talent. You'll see why for yourself before long. Therefore, being lacking on that score maybe we can start right out on the same level. I'm a friend of yours writing to you. You be a friend of mine and write to me.

There, someone is going to say, he's asking for help already. Okay, so I am. After all if I am going to write to and about you servicemen, I've got to know something about you. And what is a better way o find out than to ask you to write me and let me know where you are, what you are doing, and what sort of particularly interesting experiences you are having.

Talking about experiences, a couple of papers were passed on to me this week. These papers contained the names of M/Sgt. Howard O. Evans of the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea and Sgt. Ellery E. Inman of the same Division in the same Hell Hole. It seems that these two GI's got mixed up in some pretty hot action and Sgt. Inman was awarded the Silver Star and Sgt. Evans the Bronze Star. Sgt. Inman was quite seriously wounded in the neck during this action but in spite of this wound he continued fighting beyond the call of duty and is credited with saving the lives of his whole platoon. Sgt. Evans is credited with saving the lives of a considerable number of his company. They were ambushed by heavy machine gun fire and Sgt. Evans organized and directed the fire of a small group of his company so effectively that the enemy gun nest was completely destroyed. Sgt. Evans is at this time on his way home by the way of Japan. He has been overseas for over three years.

An apology is in order from our Community Service Club to Cpl.

Charles C. Williams who arrived home from services in Korea this last week end. We were notified of your arrival too late to arrange a proper reception. Perhaps we can make it up to you in some other way.

Pvt. Jerry McKenny, Pvt. Samuel Bricker, and Pfc. Wayne Flora were still together the last we heard. This is an unusual case and it seems that these men are very fortunate. They went into the service together, took their training together, went overseas in the same Company of the same Infantry Division and see each other regularly. Wouldn't it be something fellas if you could stick together all the way through and come home together? I'll bet no other three servicemen from East Jordan got half that far together.

I see Herb Griffin is home this week. Herb is in training to be a Paratrooper. His uncle Phil Gothro says Herb doesn't mind the jumping so much as he does that sudden stop when that chute opens.

Someone told me Glen Persons was enroute to the Mediterranean. Know anything about that Glen?

Ronald Lundy is another Korean veteran. His dad told me last week he was due for rotation soon. I hope he gets that radio his folks sent to him by Air Mail before he leaves for States Side.

Well fellas — guessthat's about all the dope I've got for this week. Be sure to do your part now and write to me and give me your new addresses, your comments for the Letter and a little Army, Navy or Marine gossip.

So long 'til next week.

"Jake" Snyder

The bone of contention that people talk about is often attached to their own jaws.
