CHILDREN NEED REGULAR MEALS DURING SUMMER

Your growing children should eat regular meals during the summertime, but it's sometimes a problem to get them to stop being "too busy playing" to eat. Food and nutrition specialists at Michigan State College have a couple of hints that they hope will help make the job easier. They say that getting children to eat the basic seven foods is easy when meals are served regularly. Regular meal times will help prevent the formation of the "munching" habit. Nibbling on sweets may temporarily satisfy hunger, but it does not satisfy the body's need for nourishing food, they remind mothers.

"If your child needs a between-meal snack, make it a point to serve some of the basic seven foods as part of their daily diet. A small glass of fruit juice, fresh fruit, milk, a crisp vegetable or bread and butter are ideas for snacks," the MSC specialists remind.

Children adapt themselves easily to routine and regularity. Remember that you'll have healthier, happier children when you serve regular meals that include the basic seven foods.

What Kids Think Of

Show stopper during a children's pet parade at the state park at Gladwin was a turtle pulling a cigar box loaded with onions, carrots and radishes.

Another attention getter was a lad dressed as a cook, leading a Bachund puppy sandwiched in between the halves of a long loaf of bread.

NEW TREATMENT FOR HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE Dr. Arthur F. Cocs of New Jersey believes high blood pressure may, in some cases, be caused by certain foods and inhalants and reports that by eliminating them from diets of patients benefit results. Read details in Sunday's (Aug. 12) issue of The American Weekly, exclusively with The Detroit Sunday Times.

Cutting of Red Pine Stock

NOW ON BY REGIONAL FORESTER NEAR ROSCOMMON

The first commercial-size cutting of planted red pine stock ever made in a state forest has started near here, marking a milestone in Michigan conservation and reforestation history.

What otherwise might pass as an unheralded and routine commercial logging job will continue for several months on 20 acres in the Higgins Lake state forest, discloses H. V. Borgerson, conservation department regional forester here.

Commercial cutting rights to about 50 percent of the solid red pine stand on the acres recently were offered a public auction by the department's forestry division. The selected cutting will produce about 200 cords of scarce paper-making stock and some softer material.

The stand was planted in 1914, about the time the state's reforestation of denuded acreage began gaining momentum. Actual planting got underway in 1902 and in ensuing 49 years a total of 206,000,000, mainly red, white and jack pine seedlings have been planted on 261,000 state forest acres.

First actual cutting of planted trees of any type started with jack pine in the Alpena state forest about seven years ago.

The logging now beginning in the Houghton Lake forest stand is more than the cutting of timber which has reached a harvest size. The planned cutting is a thinning operation as well, and necessary to continued forest reproduction.

An increasing number of plantations will be reaching the stage in the next few years where a timber crop can be harvested and remaining stock can continue growth into larger timber. Today's forest picture is a striking contrast to that in the late 1800's when millions of trees were cut, slashed and burned off the land.

Three basic conservation practices have been responsible for the comeback stage reached to acreage, planting of idle and abandoned substandard crop land, and protecting growing stands from forest fires.

Looking to future milestones, foresters of the department and of the co-operating federal Lake State Forestry Experiment Station staff conceive of the day when continued proper management and fire protection will eliminate the need for most artificial state forest planting.

Robert E. Dennis has been appointed to the Short Courses staff at Michigan State College to supervise young people's work in Northern Michigan. He is especially concerned with counseling and instructing young men and women interested in farming and home making programs. His schedule calls for frequent visits to Charlevoix county.

Graduating from MSC in 1942, Mr. Dennis received specialized training and service in the U. S. Army from 1943 to 1946. Since that time, he has had five years of vocational agricultural teaching experience in North Adams and Howell, Michigan.

Mr. Dennis replaces Milton H. Erdmann, who has enrolled for fulltime graduate study.

At Our Tourist Park

Our park is full and bulging with trailers and tents, at present we have twenty three trailers, and seven tents, some are former tenants and for other it is their first visit to our 'little city' within a city.

Tuesday afternoon our park was invaded with young folks, first came another group of Hyavent-a camp boys and the counselors, about every week or so a different group from this camp on Torch Lake pay our park a visit. Later in the afternoon thirty-three members and counselors from the Torch Lake Yatch Club arrived after a trip down the Jordan river from Graves Crossing, after a weenie roast they left to enjoy themselves at various places of amusement, mainly the theater and bowling alley.

Among these young folks the states of Ohio, Indiana, Florida and Michigan were represented. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Robinson enjoyed a visit with the latter's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holman and daughter, Shirley of Flint.

On Thursday guests at the Meredith home were Mrs. Meredith's niece, Mr. and Mrs. Vic Armstrong of Pontiac, and also her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Townsend of Boyne City. On Friday another niece, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Holmes of Detroit visited them.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Dickey of Kansas City, Mo. and Melbourne, Fla. are stopping off in our park for a week or so on their way to Northern Mich. and through Wis. This is their first visit to our park, and seem well pleased with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Arney of Sturgis, Mich. arrived Monday for their vacation. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Pettingill of San Bernadio, Calif. and Pontiac, Mich. arrived last week from Traverse City. They have been attending the Tin Can Tourists Convention there. Mr. Pettingill is royal treasurer of the T. C. T. of the world.

On Friday Eve, the Past Matrons Club held their meeting and picnic in the dining room, honor guests was Mrs. Ella Clark. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin and son, David of Belding are again spending their vacation in our park.

Another couple who have returned again are Mr. and Mrs. James Keeler of Alma. Due to Mrs. Keeler's health they were not able to be with us last year, but we are happy to have them again.

Mrs. Andy Anderson was in Dimondale for a few days last week. We are sorry to learn her brother-in-law has suffered a serious heart attack, and is hospitalized.

New ones come in while others go out, some who have left for their homes are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whiteford and son Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrod all of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Koontz and family of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shengle of Sparta; and M. D. Culver of Sparta.

New arrivals this week are — Mr. and Mrs. Marrion Briggs and sons of Hazel Park; Mr. and Mrs. Hayton Alsop and children of Clawson; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Lemon of Grandville; Lewis Hearn of Midland; Fred Griswold of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Atkinson and children Sally, Helen, Morris, and Bonnie of Flint; and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pangborn and children Bob, Shirley and Janet, of Midland, Bob returned to his work there Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McClintock of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Ted England and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price of Ironton were callers at the Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Fredrick of Dundee were Sunday and Monday visitors of the Robinsons in the park and the Lewis Kamrats.

Our park has taken on a 'new look' near the entrance, Max has been busy with his shears and trimmed the circular hedge, and all the lower limbs of the cedars and back of the picnic grounds. Sure looks nice now. It is the desire of several now to have Max or someone else help trim up the trees and weeds between the lake and the trailer park, that way the lake could be seen the full length of the park.

The shuffle board court got a new wax job this week too. Miss Hazle Crofoot and Harriet Franklin made a trip to Mackinaw City Thursday by way of the scenic drive to Cross Village and Wilderness park.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm Camp were the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs.

Willis Camp and daughter Carole of Marshall.

Another large crowd gathered for the weekly dance on Thursday even. It was a rainy, miserable night, but when folks like this type of entertainment, weather doesn't seem to interfere. We enjoyed the special intermission of some fancy tap dancing by Diane and Judy Taylor, dressed identically in cute little yellow dresses and polk bonnets to match. Last week Lyle Peck entertained the crowd with two very fine solos, his rendition of 'Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy' was especially enjoyed. Thanks Pee Wee, Diane and Judy.

Sunday guests of the Harvey Pangborns were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathis and sons Robert and Larry of Boyne City. Robert leaves this week Wednesday for California enroute to Korea.

Fifty relatives gathered for the Boyer family reunion in the park Sunday. The dining room porch was the setting for the picnic dinner. Guests for this occasion came from Thompson Falls, Montana, Plains, Montana, Marco, Florida, Detroit, Flint, Bay City, Ironton and East Jordan, Mich.

Monday callers at the camp trailer were Mr. and Mrs. George Walbeck and their son, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walbeck, all of Marshall.

This is the last week of the playground under the capable supervision of Jean Strehl. The park has been very lively all summer with their croquet, tennis, bats and balls etc. we will sort of miss this activity.

The water in the lake is very high this year; the beach seems narrower and the diving dock much farther out than former years.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Edwards are entertaining their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Edwards of New Richmond, Mich. A picnic dinner was held in the dining room Sunday eve, those present were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Archer and son Ronnie of DeWitt, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Ken Peebles and daughter, Mrs. Addie Peebles, Mr. and Mrs. John Peebles, all of Ellsworth.

Another family picnic took place in one of the kitchens for the Oscar Weisler family. Guests at the Geo. Bettes trailer home were Mr. and Mrs. E. Phil Bradstrum of Sparta, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks. Mr. Brooks has been associated with Mr. I. E. McGowan, formerly of East Jordan, in the Sparta foundry.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bettes attended the Veterans Motor Car Club of Michigan at Gaylord Saturday from there they traveled to Cheboygan where they enjoyed a buffet dinner at the home of Walter Moar at Mullet Lake. Mr. Moar's father was the first designing engineer of the Buick Motor Co. in Flint. He called at the Bettes home Monday in one of the old Buick 1909, number 10 model.

On Monday the Bettes' drove their little English type Singer car to Gaylord where they entered the cavalcade at Charlevoix they were served a buffet luncheon at the Beach hotel, from Charlevoix the cavalcade turned south to Traverse City where thousands of people lined the streets for the parade.

The weather has been very disagreeable the last few days for vacationers, especially the ones in tents. We are hoping for the sun to come out and dry everything out.

This about winds up the activities from our park for the week, I guess.

Ordinary tramping along the sides is sufficient for packing, Bell points out. He adds that trench silos are just as permanent as any, cost less to build, lower machinery costs, and there is no reason for any spoilage if the job is properly done.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:

The hot weather here has turned to rain and cold but those were two beautiful weeks that have just passed. The resorters sure swarming around this old town. All the cottages were filled and Main St. buzzed night and day. But all good things must come to an end some day and so last Saturday it started to rain. The resorters are still with us but the enthusiasm has been dampened a little bit.

Last night my phone rang — it was Mrs. Ruskell. She informed me that her son, Richard, was in the hospital in Detroit suffering with a serious infection in his hands and arms: It is an odd sort of stuff, seems to start at the finger-nails and spread up over the hands and arms. She says he can't use his hands at all, not even to write with. He is at present in the US Marine Hospital in Detroit, Michigan. Well, Seaman 1st Class Richard, we hope you will soon be back on your post in Charlevoix all well and healed again. Here's luck to you.

Last week I reported that Robert Farmer and Charles Dufore had left to join the Air Force. Bob made it and his address is now Pvt. Robert C. Farmer, AF 16 379 489, 3658 Tng Sqdn, Flt 601, Sampson AFB, New York. After you get settled, Bob drop me a line and let me know how you like flying boys. For some reason or other Charley didn't make it. Tough luck Charley, but I suppose we'll be seeing your name with an ASN after it some of these days.

James Nachazel now has a navy address and I presume that he is now on that cruise that I wrote about some weeks back. His new address is Mdn. James Nachazel, USS EA Green (DD-711) PPO, New York, N. Y.

Carroll Bartholomew has been home on furlough and has now been reassigned to the Chemical Corps. His new address is Sgt. Carroll J. Bartholomew, RA 16 287 064, 1st Chem Corps School Comp Troop Unit, Army Chemical Center, Maryland. Carroll, that last part of your address doesn't sound quite right to an old post office man like myself. It seems as though you ought to have a camp or post office. Write and let me know, will you?

Don Braman writes from RM School in Norfolk, Virginia and asked me to say "HI" to all the other servicemen. He wrote quite a lengthy letter (I envy his clear penmanship) and I will attempt to pass on to you some of the news from him. He writes that he is attending a Class A radio operator's school studying international Morse Code, radio procedure, and a little theory for background. It's a pretty tough course all in all and many flunk out, transfer to another school, or take to the sea. The course is 16 weeks long with a new class commencing every two weeks. They proceed all the way from a beginning of taking down 4 words per minute by (stick) pencil to a final exam of 22 wpm straight and in code in order to graduate. He writes that one is tempted to throw typewriters and earphones around when the heat is on. I should say pressure, because he is suffering from a different kind of heat also. He says the weather is putrid, something like Ed Lord described in Georgia and there is nothing to do but sleep, eat, and work. Say, Don Dixon is in the Pipefitters School over in the South Annex. Seems as though you two should be able to contact one another.

By coincidence Don Dixon wrote me the same week as Don Braman did. (Mun'sn't get my Don mixed up) This Don writes that instead of trying to teach him more about pipefitting they have been giving him some hot work to go with the hot weather. He says that it has been 95 in the shade and welding with a hot torch during that heat is no fun. He has 10 more weeks to go and he wishes it were only 10 days. He also doesn't like Norfolk for his liberty periods. Says he hasn't been able to get a date with a babe yet. (Can any of you fellows imagine Don Dixon not being able to get a date?) Well, take it easy Don. Better times may be ahead for you when you finish that welding course. See if you can look up Don Braman, will you?

This letter seems to be aimed all in the same direction. But when I get letters from one source that is what I must write about. Don Braman asked if I knew anything about the time that Fred Holland would be in Norfolk. By another coincidence Fred wrote me this past week also. He will be arriving in Norfolk about the 10th of August. That is the same day this paper will be leaving East Jordan. However, he will be staying in Norfolk until the 16th, so Don should get this paper before he leaves. If Fred doesn't look you two Don's up before you get this issue why you two do your part. According to my addresses two other fellows are in or around Norfolk too. They are Robert Cummins, US Minors ARL 14 E. Div, over in the West Annex and my address card still shows Clare Loomis to be in ACB No.2, Co B, Little Creek. However there my copy.

So Long,

"Jake" Snyder

Guide Post Since 1853

Gradually becoming a Michigan rarity are original bearing trees such as this one which Dean DeLaMater, conservation department surveyor, "discovered" near Gwin in a routine forest survey. Still partially visible but not entirely readable is the marking made in 1853, locating this particular spot as townline 44 north, range 25 and 26 west, linking sections 19, 24, 25 and 30. DeLaMater reports this is the first "location" tree he has come across in 12 years of forestry work. Tree was cut in early upper peninsula lumbering days. Most likely area to still find original bearing trees is in the few upper peninsula virgin timber tracts.

What's this I hear about Platformed Gasoline? What Will Platforming Do For My Car?

Suppose you step into your car and instantly notice a remarkable improvement in performance—quicker starting—faster pickup—no ping at any speed.

That would be a short description of Platformed gasoline. Here's a process so new, so radically different, so amazing in its results, that it promises to blaze a completely new trail in refining processes.

As a leader in providing the newest, most advanced improvements in gasoline, Mid-West Refineries, Inc., has installed a $1,000,000 Platforming unit at its refinery in Alma, Michigan — one of the first in the country. This unit produces the most improved and advanced quality of gasoline science can devise. Because Platforming is so new you undoubtedly have several questions about it which we have answered as it affects the operation of your car.

Platformed Gasoline is completely NEW kind of motor fuel, produced by Mid-West Refineries, Inc. through a completely new process that effects an amazing improvement in the performance of your car.

Q. WHAT IS PLATFORMING?

A. Platforming is a radically new process for refining gasoline which employs precious, expensive PLATINUM as the catalyst to completely rearrange the molecular structure of the motor fuel. It is the newest, most advanced refining method in operation today.

Q. I understand most gasolines today satisfy 60% of present day automobiles. What percentage does PLATFORMED gasoline satisfy?

A. The better balance of gasoline qualities in Platforming plus high anti-knock and higher octanes fully satisfy the requirements of 100% of today's engines.

Q. What are the features which make PLATFORMED gasoline superior to other gasolines?

1. High anti-knock quality—motor ping is eliminated.
2. Low sulphur content and non-corroding. Reduces engine wear.
3. High octane content. Means more power and faster pick-up.
4. High road rating. Gives extremely high performance under actual driving conditions. Less shifting of gears.

Q. Does PLATFORMED Gasoline give me more mile per gallon?

A. Yes. Most drivers will get more mileage per gallon. Because motors using Platformed gasoline perform more efficiently without knocking they naturally use less gasoline per mile.

Q. Does PLATFORMED gasoline eliminate knock?

A. In properly tuned motors, road tests have shown that it is almost impossible to get a knock from cars using Platformed gasoline.

Q. What do you mean by higher road octane over laboratory rating?

A. Experience has shown that FOR THE FIRST TIME the octane of Platformed gasoline under actual driving conditions actually EXCEEDS its official laboratory rating.

Q. Is PLATFORMED gasoline actually superior to other gasoline?

A. Yes. It is the most balanced, most powerful gasoline of its kind being produced by any method so far developed.

Q. What are the advantages of PLATFORMING in low and high speed driving?

A. In LOW SPEED driving — Smoother idling, faster acceleration; in HIGH SPEED driving — faster pick-up, smoother performance at sustained high speeds.

Q. Is a change to PLATFORMED gasoline immediately noticeable in the performance of a car?

A. Yes, instantly in most cars. The first thing you notice is a smoother, more powerful running motor that doesn't knock with sudden acceleration or an up-hill climb.

Chinese Profiteer

American truce negotiators in Korea have noted with interest that the Chinese Communists are using American jeeps. The American public has also wondered not only how the Communists were able to obtain American equipment, but why the Nationalist government was driven out of China.

The sub-rosa operations of the Chiang Kai-Shek family may be one of the answers. Another of their operations has just come to light—a move by a Chiang brother-in-law, with other wealthy Chinese to corner the soybean market at the expense of the American public.

The brother-in-law is T. L. Soong, brother of foreign minister T. V. Soong, who formerly handled much of the three and a half billion dollars worth of supplies which the United States sent to China during the war. The soybean pool netted a profit of $30,000,000 and shot up the cost to the American consumer $1 a bushel.

One of the strange things about the soybean manipulation was that its operators knew exactly the right time to buy up the world's soybean supply—a few weeks before the Communists invaded Korea.

Recently this column told how Eugene Soong, son of T. L. Soong, together with L. K. Kunk, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law, sold a huge quantity of precious tin to the Chinese Communists. As a result Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has now barred this group, together with three law partners of Ex-Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, from getting export licenses to trade with any country for three years.

It was the father of Eugene Soong, T. L. Soong, who bought up half a million bushels of soybeans before the Korean war in May, 1950.

GOP Targets for '52

A frank outline of GOP campaign strategy for 1952 was presented to key Republican senators' assistants by A. B. Hermann, the energetic national committee executive director, in a private meeting, the other night.

The tall, banjo-eyed Hermann, one-time big-league ballplayer, confided: "We won senate seats last year wherever we took our gloves off. There were only two states we should have taken and didn't and that was because our nominees refused to punch hard—Missouri and Connecticut.

"Why," complained Hermann, "we had to bootleg speakers like McCarthy into Connecticut." The "prime targets" in 1952, he said, were Scott Lucas in Illinois; Francis Myers in Pennsylvania; Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Turning to Frank Smith, assistant to Sen. John M. Butler, who defeated Tydings, Hermann continued: "We did a beautiful job in Maryland and Utah, Frank. I don't see why the Democrats yelled so much about the composite picture in your campaign, when, by comparison with the anti-Thomas newspaper in Utah, your publicity was like a country gentleman's."

He referred to the fact that in Utah, a supposed "congressional record" with statements attacking Thomas as a pro-Communist was circulated to all mailboxes—so late that Thomas had no opportunity to reply.

"We all know Senator Thomas was not a Communist," Hermann explained, "but these tactics were necessary to balance the pseudo-liberal newspapers which were for him." Pointing to Dick Cardall, administrative aide to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, Hermann continued: "There's the fellow who gets a lot of credit for that victory. Senator Bennett (the Republican who beat Thomas) is very much indebted to him."

The 1952 target areas, Hermann indicated, were to retain all Republican seats in the New England and Atlantic states, and pick up new senators in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We have Republican governors and some patronage strength to put on real scraps," he explained. "Also, we have a fighting chance of picking up seats in Maryland, Kentucky, West Virginia and strengthening our position in the south. "On the other hand," he said, pointing to a map behind him, "we could lose four or five senators."

Oil and Gold

Ex-Sen. Sheridan Downey of California recently met radio correspondent Rudy Block in a Capitol corridor. Downey, who rose to political fame on an old-age pension scheme known as "ham and eggs," a number of years ago, is now lobbying at $3,000 a month for tide-lands oil.

"Well, Senator," said correspondent Block, as they shook hands. "I see it's from ham and eggs to oil and gold."

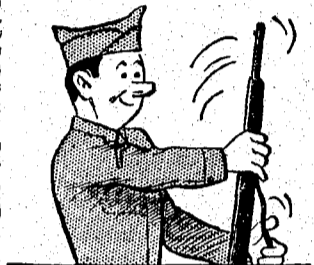

Slips That Pass in The Night

From time to time, I comment on how a misspelled word or a transposed letter in a word can change the meaning of a newspaper story.

Some years back a county correspondent for a Kentucky paper commented on the death of a local citizen. The item came out this way: "Mr. — had a fine funeral. It took six men to carry the beer."

Crossed 'Em Up
G-Man: "Got away did he? Did you guard all the exits?"
Policeman: "Yes, but we think he must have left by one of the entrances."

JINGLE BELLS

The veterans were boasting about their army outfits.

"Why, our company was so well drilled," said one, "that when we presented arms all you could hear was slap, slap, click."

"Pretty fair," said the other, "but when our company presented arms, you could hear slap, slap, jingle."

"Jingle?" said the first veteran. "What did that?"

Came the nonchalant reply, "Oh, just our medals!"

Ain't It The Truth

Christmas wouldn't be, well, Christmas without one story in a holiday mood.

This little girl was nuts about Christmas songs. Sang them all the time. Only trouble was, she often got the words mixed up. For instance, her version of "Jingle Bells" went as follows:

"Bells on cocktails ring, making spirits rise . . ."
They do, indeed!

Give It Time

Don't forget that the peacock of today is the feather duster of tomorrow.

Must Be

Voice: "How do you feel this morning?"
Second Voice: "Fine."
Voice: "I guess I have the wrong number."

HE'S OFF

The new fireman, just hired, was watching his side of the track as the yard engine switched a string of empty boxcars around a curve. "See anybody back there?" the engineer asked.

"Yeah," said the greenhorn, spying a brakeman, "there's a guy on top of a car waving his arms like a bird. Looks like he's going to fly." Just then the yard train bumped into another cut of cars with more than the authorized impact. "Yep," said the fireman, "there he goes!"

Not Firmly Imbedded

A homemaker's magazine chronicles the dismay of a man who had just completed a sparkling new sidewalk in front of his suburban castle when a mischievousurchin gleefully stamped across it, leaving a track of his footprints the length of the job. The lady next door clucked disapprovingly at his string of epithets and added, "I thought you were so fond of little kiddies."

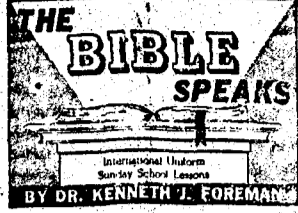

"In the abstract, yes," growled the man, "but in the concrete, No."

FIFTY PER CENT OFF

On a bus, two shop girls were discussing the art of conversation.

"Name," said one, "take 'I'll say' and 'I'll tell the world' away from some people and you cut their conversation practically to zero."

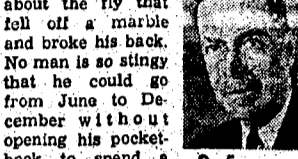

To which her companion enthusiastically rejoined, "I hope to tell you! Ain't it the truth?"

Christian's Spending

Lesson for August 12, 1951

ONCE upon a time, so they say, a Scotchman opened his pocketbook in December, and a June-bug flew out. That story belongs to the class of stories that sound funny because they are impossible, like the Paul Bunyan stories, or the one about the fly that fell off a marble and broke his back. No man is so stingy that he could go from June to December without opening his pocketbook to spend a single cent. Spending is something all of us do, all the time.

Dr. Foreman

Is Your Money Yours?

"It's my money and I can do what I please with it." That is the average man's attitude toward his money. But it's not the Christian attitude.

In the first place, Jesus' parable of the talents reminds us that all the conditions, and all the energy, and everything else that makes earning money possible, are in the long run the gifts of God. "It is he that hath made us and not we ourselves" is just as true now as it ever was.

God it is who gave us life in the first place, who has preserved us, and endowed us with whatever gifts and capacities we have. We are not our own, we are bought with a price, as Paul puts it.

However, we earn our living, whether as farmers, business or professional people, if it had not been for the blessings of God we could have earned nothing at all. One bedrock principle of the Old Testament is that the earth is the Lord's. Put that together with the New Testament principle that the Christian belongs to God, and you have arrived at the great principle of "stewardship."

Profits or Profit?

THE earliest Christians of Jerusalem pooled all their resources and dealt them out to all, in proportion to their individual needs. This experiment in sharing the wealth failed; and one main reason for the failure was that they paid all their attention to consumption and none at all to production.

No matter how smoothly you distribute the wealth, if some one is not producing, the whole pile will vanish in time.

Nevertheless, those earliest Christians did have a firm grasp of a real truth; namely, that when a Christian spends money he ought to have the needs of the community first in mind, and not his own profits. Does this sound too idealistic?

Well, even the law, slanted though it may seem toward the protection of wealth, puts limits on the ways a man can spend his money. It can be shown that what he pays his good money for is hurtful to the community, the law will clamp down on him, in many cases. You can't keep a skunk farm on Broadway. It may be your money, and your skunks, but it's not your Broadway.

To take another angle: down in Atlanta (Georgia) a highly successful industrialist, when he died, left the stock in his company to his employees. They had helped him earn his fortune, he said; they should share in the proceeds.

Does not our community help us earn whatever we do earn? And doesn't the community deserve consideration in the spending?

The Money-God

NO temples on our main streets are labeled "To the God Mammon." But money is often a god, all the same. On Mammon's altar how many things and men are sacrificed! What will men not do to "make a fast buck," to turn a neat profit? Honor, decency, truthfulness, health, even life itself, will be given up before consenting to cut the profits down.

Every great entrenched evil—gambling, prostitution, corrupt courts, liquor traffic—is as hard to dislodge as the silversmiths of Ephesus, and for the same reason: The people who stand to make money out of sin never care what happens to the sinners.

But let us watch ourselves. Do we smalltimers criticize the paunchy big-shots because we really hate the way they sacrifice everything to greed, or is it because we are envious?

Quick Agreement in Korea Unlikely; Control Fight Confused Main Street

A LONG WAY FROM PEACE—As much as the people in the home towns of the nation desire peace, the majority approved the United Nations' flat refusal to talk about withdrawal of allied troops from Korea. The UN pointed out, and rightly so, that the question was purely political and could not be discussed at the preliminary talks.

Most observers are inclined to believe the Reds will withdraw their demand that the issue be put on the agenda. If they don't withdraw, it is almost a certainty that true talks will collapse.

Red General
General Nam Il, head of Communist delegation to peace talks in Kaesong, issued demand of withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

Even if the troop-withdrawal issue is solved, however, home towners should realize it will not necessarily mean a cease-fire in Korea. It will be merely an agreement on what subjects to discuss in seeking a cease-fire.

The issue of withdrawing all foreign troops from Korea will come up again in the main talks. As a result, there is only one logical conclusion the home towners can draw; the world is a long way from peace.

SHADOWS OF 1952—The long shadows of 1952—the presidential election year—again fell across the national scene with a speech by Sen. Robert A. Taft.

In an address described as the jump-off for his bid for the 1952 GOP presidential nomination, Taft described the Korean conflict as "a useless and expensive war brought about by the Truman administration."

Despite the fact he approved intervention in Korea, Taft charged that the United States is involved in a "useless and expensive war."

Besides attacking the administration's foreign policy, Taft promised that the GOP would restore "honesty and integrity to government" after the 1952 election and end "the low moral tone, the dishonesty and the inefficiency" of the Democratic administration.

CONTROL FIGHT CONFUSING—To most home towners the battle over the price control bill, which should by this time be the law of the land, has been a fight of confusion. The house and senate versions of the bill differed in many details. And even one representative, when asked how his amendment to the bill would work, replied he didn't know.

For the average American, it has been much the same. He has been unable to understand the many details of the bill and the conflicting viewpoints of the proponents and opponents of price legislation. Only one thing he understood: the administration wanted a stiffer price control law, but seemed doomed to defeat.

The administration contended that old controls should be extended and strengthened. That the old law was inadequate, particularly in controls of food prices, rents and credit. A stronger law was needed in the face of government defense spending during the coming months.

These arguments, however, did not impress congress. Opponents of the administration argued that the President just urged stronger controls as a "power grab". Skillful lobbyists for business interests also battled to weaken controls.

Just before the final version was due out of the house-senate committee, observers believed the administration would be thankful for any kind of bill and that it would be signed immediately upon receipt by the White House.

TRAINING PROGRAM OVER—Thousands of World War II veterans in the small towns and big towns of the nation received educational benefits under the GI bill that expired last week.

And despite the abuses of the program, educators, congress and the veterans administration agree that it has produced benefits the nation will feel for a long time to come. Thousands of veterans reaped educational benefits that they could not have otherwise afforded.

Approximately 7,600,000 veterans received training for an average of 15 months each. They drew $8,700 billion in subsistence. The rest of the $12,400 billion cost went for tuition, fees, equipment, books and counseling.

Veterans college enrollment hit its peak in December, 1947, when 1,158,000 discharges crowded back to the campus. To date, a total of 2,200,000 veterans have studied in institutions of higher learning. But even more—3,300,000—have taken courses below college level in nearly 38,000 grade schools, high schools, vocational, trade, business and correspondence schools.

SPECIAL FLOOD APPEAL—For the first time since 1938, the American Red Cross launched a general disaster fund appeal in an effort to raise $5,000,000 to help 45,880 families affected by the midwest floods.

Flood waters of the Missouri river caused millions of dollars of damage in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois. It was possibly the most costly flood in the history of the nation.

In the four-state area, the Red Cross was reported housing 17,500 flood victims in 80 shelters and feeding 42,600.

King Is Assassinated
Prince Naji (left), was appointed regent of Jordan after the assassination of his father, King Aboullah (right). The king was shot as he entered a mosque in his capital of Amman. In center is King Faisal of Iraq.

PRICE WARS END—According to a senate report the price wars that started in New York after the Supreme Court's "fair trade" decision have all but died out.

The report said cutting of fair-trade merchandise occurred in 43 of 123 leading trade centers throughout the country. In the 43 cities, only 825 of 77,241 stores set prices on one or more items of merchandise below the resale price recommended or set by the manufacturers.

The report showed Denver leading the list with price cuts in 300 stores, Detroit second with 175, and New York third with 100.

JAPANESE TREATY NEAR—The possibility of a quick Japanese peace treaty became evident last week when the United States invited 50 nations, including Russia, to join in signing the agreement at a conference opening September 4 in San Francisco.

Missing from the invitation list were the Communist and Nationalist governments of China, South Korea, and Italy.

Although the Russians were invited, they are expected to refuse to sign the treaty, which the Soviet has denounced. In all likelihood, however, the Russians will send delegates to the conference to attack the treaty.

APPROPRIATION
Senate Group Approves Farm Work Fund

A bill calling for $751,000,000 in new cash and authorizing $282,000,000 in loans for various farm programs was approved by the Senate appropriations committee. The group, however, ordered a department of agriculture payroll reduction of 10 per cent below President Truman's budget.

Besides the cash and loan money, the bill authorizes the spending of some $172,177,264 automatically set aside by law for use by the department farm programs.

The $751,000,000 in cash is some $34,400,000 more than the amount voted by the house, but is $69,000,000 below the amount the President requested.

The boost in cash came chiefly in a $24,000,000 increase in funds for soil conservation.

Smart Quarterback

Dennis: I'll never forget our big game. I was the quarterback. There was just a few seconds to play. The score was tied. We had the ball on their one yard line, first down... so I called for the water boy.

Benny: What?

Dennis: While everybody else was drinking, I ran for a touchdown.

Almost Proud

Judge: "Aren't you ashamed to be seen here in court so often?"

Prisoner: "Why no, your honor, I always thought it was a very respectable place."

FISH FABLE

"Speaking about showers of fish," said the solemn looking man from his seat on a cracker box in the general store, "reminds me of the time we were marooned on an island in the blue Pacific. For two hours there was a shower of fresh mackerel and, strange to say, they all dropped into a salt lake on the mountainside. That brined them."

"Whew!" the old codgers chorused in unison.

"But that's not the strangest part of the story. Ten days later a cyclone came along, picked up the brined mackerel and dropped them into a hot spring. That boiled them; and, gentlemen, they were the finest boiled mackerel you ever tasted. I thought about sending some home to the folks, but—"

There was a sudden interruption and six strong men took the story teller outside and ducked him in the horse trough.

No Improvement Yet

When Noah sailed the waters blue, he had his troubles same as you. For forty days he drove the ark, looking for a place to park.

Help Yourself

The bulky Dr. Charles Hill, general secretary of the British Medical Association, was interrupted during a recent speech by a heckler who asked about the low birth rate under Conservative governments.

"If you're so interested in the birth rate," snapped the doctor, "why don't you spend more time at home instead of going to political meetings?"

SIGHT, ALONE

A buxom negro woman came into the room where a group of women were conducting a rummage sale. Her black eyes roved around until they focused on a table of shoes. With a cry of delight she swooped down upon a pair of red satin slippers size three double A. Holding the pair upon one palm, she inquired, "How much is these lovely red slippers?"

"For you?" inquired the saleswoman.

"Yaas, ma'am."

"Why they are much too small for you, and, besides, one of them needs to have the heel repaired."

"That doan' matter," responded the negro woman. "Jes' think how fine they will look sticking out under the aidge of mah bed!"

Extraction

Frowzy woman handing coffee to dour husband hidden behind his newspaper: "Of course I know you don't use sugar. I just wanted to hear your voice."

VOICE FROM BRITAIN

The temperance lecturer asked his audience: "Now, supposing I had a pail of water and a pail of beer on this platform, and then brought on a donkey; which of the two would he take?"

"He'd take the water," came a voice from the gallery.

"And why would he take the water?" asked the lecturer.

"Because he's an ass," was the reply.

ANGLING ANGLES by old Hi

Most of us have caught sizable black bass by trolling, but Old Hi wonders if you get the top sport out of trying this method. You'll find a big difference in how it's done, and what tackle you use.

You may have clung to a stiff bait casting rod with heavy line and a fluted spoon with feathered hooks. While rowing a boat you dragged this lure, weighted by a sinker, close to the rocky bottom in about 12 feet of water.

This setup is all right, and you took bass, but if the greatest sport and skill are incentives you'll try the following scheme the next time you visit the bass grounds:

Clamp an outboard motor to the boat and move along at a moderately fast—rather than the slowest—speed. Rig up a Ranger 3-piece bass action tubular glass fly rod 9 feet in length, with an automatic fly reel and 75 yards of size D level Old Gold fly line, and attach either a long double-hook streamer fly or a small, curved plug.

Here's the dope for some real fun with the bronze-back warriors. You troll close to the rocky and sandy shores in early morning or late afternoon, moving a trifle slower when using the wiggly plug than with the streamer fly. At first, no sinker is used, for the bass are often near the surface at the time, feeding on insects or shallow-roving minnows. Later, though, as the fish move into deeper water as the temperature rises, you'll have to add a light sinker and get close to the bottom.

Usually you will need only from 30 to 60 feet of line out, for the bass are apt to strike almost in the wash of the motor. The churning seems to attract their attention, and they see the fly twitching along, or the plug gyrating. This makes them rush to the attack, and they hit hard.

Then, solidly hooked, a big bass will try at once to leap from the surface and shake . . . and, brother, it's plenty exciting when a big fellow does this and you're holding a limber glass fly rod! You keep the line taut (but not strained) by releasing the brake on the automatic reel and gradually bring the bass to the net.

Try this inshore, fly rod trolling for bass. It will add zest to your day's sport. And let the illustrated booklet "Fishing For The Millions" give you some other tips on catching bass by trolling, casting, and still fishing.

Send for your free copy today, by sending a postcard request to me, Old Hi, in care of this newspaper.

Fellows, this is a grand month for going after the many kinds of tackle-testers roaming along the Atlantic and Pacific coastlines. And there are some contests in progress from which you can win a lot of swell prizes. FAST, ACCURATE TELEPHONE SERVICE IS VITAL TO CIVIL DEFENSE

Warnings of approaching planes, coming from air raid spotters or military radar screens, are flashed over networks of Long Distance and local telephone lines to Filter Centers.

Telephone reports are quickly charted on Filter Center maps. Then waiting Air Force interceptor planes are alerted.

This is but one type of the many special telephone networks serving government and military forces to help protect our nation.

This great and growing telephone system was built to serve America in peace. But it is just as ready to serve in any emergency.

The value of this nationwide telephone network was never greater—never clearer—than it is today.

It must be kept strong. It is vital to a strong America.

To help speed your Long Distance call, please give the operator the out-of-town telephone number. • Telephone lines are busy with national defense.

Is Stephen J. Roth planning to oppose Senator Blair Moody in the 1952 senatorial primary? In his outburst again Neil Staebler, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, which involved Democratic party fund raisers soliciting campaign contributions from high involved Democratic party fund raisers soliciting campaign contributions from high from high G. O. P. officials, Roth registered high shock and righteous indignation and spoke out "for the party good".

Roth was by-passed by the appointment of ex-newspaperman Blair Moody to the senatorial seat left vacant by the death of Senator Arthur Vandenberg.

Says on columnist: "Roth was simply sticking a needle into the Williams administration to see how tended it might be and whether there were any other around with needles they wanted to stick."

In any event, the coming senatorial race becomes more keenly contested.

The state legislature will meet August 20 to validate plans for building a new state office building. Governor Williams limited the subject matter to be one item with no present plan to open the session to any other discussion. In special sessions the legislature may consider only subjects opened by the governor.

Price news is fair to good. Newspapers are littered with ads stressing bargains and clearance sales. Food price predictions are optimistic. But some price cuts take a long time sifting through distribution channels.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has given Detroit a verbal spat for farming out too many defense contracts. He says: "too much of the military business placed in Detroit is being so distributed by the large industries as to leave Detroit for business as usual. This in turn accounts for some of the present unemployment."

Make things look tough for a committee named by the governor to channel more government business to the state.

Sen. Blair Moody says, however, that a speed-up in war production contracts will cushion unemployment shock for most of the cities in the state.

Cass Hough, Daisy Air Rifle Company executive (Plymouth) says the "mental and physical apathy on the part of all our people" come closest to explaining the urrent economic difficulties of the nation. He was addressing the economic education workshop at Michigan State College.

The Public Relation Division of the State Highway Department costs the state $120,000 each year. Now under a new "policy" all highway stories must be cleared through a $7,400-a-year administrative aide, Elmer Hanna. The new "policy" came to light when Hanna objected to a news story quoting a department staff expert instead of Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

Fire damage to Michigan forests has fallen off this year. Thus far 536 fires have burned 3,613 acres as compared with 637 fires, damaging 4,218 during the same period a year ago.

This week 18 conservation officer trainees will be selected. They will take eight weeks of classroom instruction and four to six months of field training.

Archery is a favorite sport of many Michigan residents. In 1950 there were 14,670 resident and 815 non-resident bow and arrow hunters roaming the state.

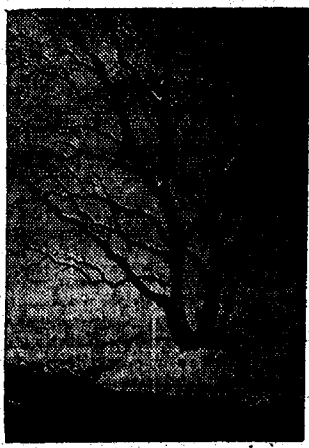

Southern Michigan construction awards for the first six months of 1951 were up 6 percent over the same period of last year—all in the face of credit curbs. June total was $133,793,000. Six-months total for 1951 is $442,377,000 as against $416,910,000 for that period in 1950.

National Wildlife Federation
Black Willow

The Black Willow

The Black Willow, like other members of the willow family, is not a strong, sturdy tree. No one would think of felling and trimming it into planks and beams. It just isn't straight and stout enough to give us fine lumber.

It is an attractive tree, though, and helpful, too. The job it does best is to hold soil together. Where Black Willows sink their roots, it is harder for splattering rain and flowing water to wash away valuable dirt.

Even the wood of the Black Willow is useful at times. Although it isn't what building want, it is good for making excelsior, boxes, crates, baskets, and wicker furniture.

The chances are that you have seen this tree, because it grows in so many parts of the United States. The National Wildlife Federation reports that Black Willows are common over most of the eastern half of the country. There aren't so many of them farther west, but they do grow in spots all the way to California.

The most likely place to find them is along streams and in other wet places where there is plenty of light. They thrive from sea level to altitudes of 2,000 feet or more.

Where it has enough moisture and sunshine, the Black Willow reaches full growth at fifty to seventy years of age. By that time, it may stand a hundred or more feet in height.

Except in winter, when its leaves are gone, the tree is thick and green with long, slender twigs. Filling the twigs are the narrow leaves which are the trademark of willow tree.

The Black Willow's leaves measure from three to five inches in length, and taper down to a fine point. They are a shining yellow-green on both sides—a bit darker on the top than on the bottom.

In the spring, clusters of tiny flowers grow among the leaves. The flowers hang in tassels which are from one to four inches long. When the tassels ripen, they shed cottony seeds.

Wind and water carry the seeds far and wide. They soon begin to sprout tiny fibers which take hold of the soil and hang on. Some of the seeds win the battle for survival and slowly grow into trees.

But this isn't the only way that Black Willows get started. According to the National Wildlife Federation, twigs often drop from the big trees and lodge along the banks of streams. Sticking in the mud, the end of a twig takes root and begin to grow. It, too, may become a full-size Black Willow.

Interesting information on other wildlife species can be obtained by writing to the National Wildlife Federation, Washington 10, D. C.

Pressure saucepan processing times for non-acid vegetables like corn, beans, peas, and greens are 20 minutes longer than those used when foods are processed in a large canner. This is because pressure comes up and goes down more rapidly in the smaller pressure pan, Michigan State College extension specialists say.

Improperly cured hay in barns is the main cause of some 20,000 barn fires in the United States each year. Make sure it's dry enough to put in, then check it for heating to prevent ruined hay and possibly a bad fire.

Cuba Sugar Trade
Keeps Havana Dock
Busy With Activity

HAVANA, Cuba—The bulk of a nation's imports, sugar prosperity and "war scars" buying still are keeping Havana's docks congested with commodities and full of a feverish air of commerce.

Nearly a million tons of imports—94 per cent of Cuba's imports—recently presented shippers with a problem unprecedented in the 400-year history of the waterfront. Most of the imports come from the United States. "Sugar money", derived from the island's great sugar industry, has brought about sharp demands for many consumer items from America. New automobiles constitute a great part of the litter scattered around the bulging piers and the demand for driver's licenses in Cuba has increased four-fold since the end of World War II.

Harassed shipping officials manage to handle all the scheduled ships plying in and out of the harbor. Less frequent callers, however, are often delayed for days until pier accommodations can be arranged.

Exports present less of a problem than imports. Principal export is, of course, sugar, of which Havana handles only about 35 per cent of the nation's total shippage. The majority is picked up at the smaller ports, or from the plantations. Imports are the main fly in the muddled ointment. Although attempts to develop adequate ports elsewhere have been made, the majority of imports are assigned to the capital city, so ships must still call there.

Officials say that the port is one of the most expensive in the world. The nearly 10,000 port employees earn an estimated $100 per week, considerably higher than salaries paid elsewhere in the country. This fact, coupled with the regulation that importers have a ten-day limit in which to remove their imports from the docks—which calls for plenty of longshoremen to handle full piers—makes the prosperity appear lasting.

Air Force May Discard
Planes—Staplers, Never

MITCHELL AIR FORCE BASE—Under modern conditions, it doesn't take too long for an airplane to become obsolete. Models are discarded after better ones come along to replace them. On the matter of staplers, however, quartermasters are more saving. Lieut. Col. J. E. Aertgeerts found this true recently when he requested staplers for the clerical offices here. When the crate arrived, it was marked "fifty stapling machines." When he opened the box, however, the colonel found the staplers three times the standard size, made of heavy cast iron, and operated by a long handle. They had been in storage since 1917.

New, Potent Penicillin
Held Useful to Military

NEW YORK—Penicillin—modern medicine's chief weapon against disease and health—is available in new and more potent forms today for use on the battle front and the home front.

Dr. Charles E. Dutchess, medical director of Schenley Laboratories, reports that since 1944 "continuous improvement in the technique of deep-vat production of penicillin" has enabled ten prime producers of the drug in the U.S. pharmaceutical industry to boost monthly output to a record 17,000,000,000,000 (trillion) units.

During the month of January, 1948 only 100,000,000 (million) units of penicillin were produced—enough to treat about 150 patients. Full commercial production began in 1944 and in the last months of World War II there was sufficient penicillin for essential military needs, Dutchess said.

Despite the emphasis given such new antimicrobial agents as streptomycin and aureomycin, Dutchess emphasized that "penicillin remains the foremost many-purpose microbe killer—particularly valuable against septic infections stemming from battle injuries." In this connection, he revealed that emergency air shipments of penicillin reached the Korean battle less than four days after leaving pharmaceutical plants in this country.

Slavs Heckle Soviet Radio
From Old German Army Truck

MUNICH, Germany—Three sharp-tongued Slavs, operating from an old German army truck, are heckling Soviet broadcasters to the point of madness. The trio specializes in needling Communism from their mobile transmitter in west Germany over Radio Free Russia facilities. The hecklers are artists at making use of the pause in a program and delight in cutting in on Radio Volga, a Communist station in east Berlin which beams programs to Soviet occupation troops.

A Radio Volga announcer may have just finished the phrase, "A new people's democracy is being built in east Germany," when Radio Free Russia hecklers break in with, "under the watchful eyes of the Kremlin's secret police."

Radio Free Russia has been operating only four months. London monitors first picked up its broadcasts calling for a peoples' revolt in Russia.

New Drug Gives
Additional Hope
To Heart Victims

A significant new drug is now at work combating the nation's number one killer—heart disease.

The drug, which safely increases the pumping efficiency of the heart over long periods, was introduced to medical men by Dr. Frederick Steigmann, director of the department of therapeutics of Cook County hospital, Chicago, and professor of medicine of the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

The new product, named Myocardone, a derivative of animal heart muscle, is produced by Chemico Laboratories, Inc., Indianapolis pharmaceutical product manufacturers. It was the subject of a paper delivered by Dr. Steigmann at the 35th annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology held at the Public Auditorium, Cleveland.

Over a period of a year, Dr. Steigmann studied the effectiveness of Myocardone tablets in 68 patients who were victims of severe and prolonged cardiac conditions. He reported that in most of the cases, "when Myocardone was administered there was definite subjective and clinical improvement," and added that, "it has definite therapeutic value in various cardiac conditions."

The long-recognized medical fact that the heart is the one organ which can be removed from the body and, when kept in proper circulating solutions, can continue spontaneous function, formed the basis for research into Myocardone by the late Dr. Vincent A. Lapenta, Indianapolis surgeon and research chemist.

Pumping Power
Dr. Lapenta, who had made numerous contributions to medical and surgical research, including the development of an effective blood coagulant still widely used, sought a substance within the walls of calves' hearts that would help increase the pumping power of the human heart. With his son, B. E. Lapenta, founder of Chemico Laboratories, he developed the highly purified and concentrated Myocardone used in Dr. Steigmann's tests.

At Cook County hospital, the 58 patients studied included 19 who suffered from painful angina pectoris, a disease caused by spasm of the coronary arteries. In addition, 24 patients with cardiac decompensation showed such common symptoms as dyspnea (shortness of breath), dependent edema (swelling of ankles), orthopnea (inability to sleep in prone position), and lung congestion. Ten patients complained of dizziness, headaches, and other symptoms due to high blood pressure, and five were being treated for arteriosclerotic heart ailments, caused by hardening of the arteries.

Most of the patients had formerly received other medications, such as digitalis and nitroglycerin. They were placed on Myocardone therapy exclusively in the County hospital survey.

Factors used as standards to indicate improvement following use of Myocardone included decreased number and severity of attacks, increased capacity for exercise, and general feeling of well-being.

The study thus far has shown that the beneficial response to Myocardone continued for considerable periods after the medication was discontinued.

Myocardone is currently being made available to the medical profession, and plans are completed for large-scale production.

Some Ice Boxes Are Hot,
Two Lads Soon Discover

DES MOINES, Iowa—Two youngsters learned here recently that ice boxes are not always cold. Tommy Wyzman, 3, and Herbie Camp, 5, saw an old icebox lying on its back in a rear yard where they were playing hide and seek.

The two boys climbed in and shut the door to make their concealment complete.

Half an hour later, Tommy's mother began searching for the boys when she became worried over their prolonged absence. Hearing muffled screams from the old ice box, she opened the door to find the boys limp.

"Sure got hot 'in there," Herbie commented.

WINDAGE

City folks were surprised when the basketball team from the small mountain school won a berth in the state tournament. They knew the mountain boys played on an outdoor court, sprinkled with stumps and sloped downhill.

They were more surprised when they saw the country cousins in action. Their strategy was simple: The first boy who got the ball simply dribbled to the center line, let fly at the basket and walked back to his position for the next tip-off. After watching a dozen points scored rapidly in this manner, one referee finally said, "That's fine shooting, lads. But how can you be so sure the ball is going to go in every time?"

The mountaineers' captain shifted his chaw and grinned. "It's easy in here," he replied. "There ain't no wind."
