Persecution of the Wolf

IS MAKING ITS LAST STAND IN MICHIGAN

Persecution of the wolf—making its last stand in Michigan and elsewhere—is exemplary of the ingenuity, cruelty and stubbornness of mankind on the way to eventual dominance over wild animals.

Making this assertion in the latest issue of the Michigan Conservation magazine, biologist David Arnold charges that, on the other hand, perhaps the most futile, widespread and expensive measure for stamping out the wolf is the bounty system. The state predator research specialist cites the encroachment of civilization as the only effective factor reducing the population, so low, that those states still with a few wolves are indeed fortunate in having this touch of the unspoiled wilderness remaining.

Bounties have been paid on wolves alone for more than 300 yrs. in the United States and at an estimated cost of over $100,000,000. Payments, which presently in Michigan are $20 for females and $15 for males wolves, have been paid in money, liquor, tobacco, pigs, cattle and other goods.

For a state considered a leader in conservation, Arnold asserts Michigan has participated in this expensive game too long. Michigan, with a bounty law since 1838, has spent $161,510 in payments on just wolves. Arnold says "there are certainly too few wolves remaining for anyone to take them for the bounty profitably. If one trapper were to take every possible wolf in the state in one year, he would still make only a modest living and then only if he could do so without a great amount of traveling."

Only 27 were taken and bountied last year, one less than in 1950. Arnold states it is necessary to go back as far as 1921 to find a year when over 100 were bagged. Arnold says it has been demonstrated time and time again that men and wolves are not compatible. And, he adds, "the wolf is far from a prolific species."

One of the earliest methods used by Indians to capture wolves was to dig pits along wolf trails. At times, sharp sticks were placed in pits to spear victims. Some of the early explorers discovered the pits the "hard way."

One of the cruelest devices used to kill wolves is employed by Eskimos. A slender whale bone, sharpened on both ends, is bent into shape by seal fat or blubber which is hard when cold. When a wolf bolts down one of these Mickey Finns, its stomach is pierced by the whale bone which straightens as the blubber melts.

The wolf also has been caught with fish hooks, poisoned, and fenced off. Burning brush and trees which sheltered wolves was another useless measure tried.

Arnold concludes that the "wolf may have been winning over individual men when the county was first opened by settlers, but humans have continually won out and pushed the wolf back with the wilderness."

Pears like them uplift contrivances are a device to keep a man on his toes.

Home — All Day Sunday

This poem was brought to my attention by a lady who is shut in. So I am going to send it to the paper hoping the people will be inspired to attend church while they may.

DISAPPOINTED
"I came to your church last Sunday. And while walking down the aisle I noticed that your seat was vacant." Said Jesus, with a friendly smile.

"Yes, I was at home," I answered. "Some folks up Salem way Drove down for a week end visit, So we stayed at the house all day."

"Oh, I had an awful head ache, And I had a roast in the pan Or, we over slept that morning, But I go when ever I can."

The Master gazed at me sadly As I was about to speak "My child" he replied, "are there not six other days in the week?"

If all of my other children Should treat me the same as you My home would be closed-deserted Then what would lost sinners do?"

I saw I had grieved my Master As slowly he turned away. And I vowed he'd not find me absent Again in His Holy Day.

THE AMERICAN WAY

At Last The Truth

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS
of Main Street and the World

Truman's State of Union Speech
Termed Friendly, Conciliatory

STATE OF THE UNION—Was it a wiser or politically calculated President who delivered the state of the union message to the session of the 82nd congress? Was his conciliatory and friendly message dictated by the fact that 1952 is an election year, or was it an effort to consolidate the majority behind the defense program and the nation's foreign policy? These questions have been in the minds of every American since the President's speech.

For the first time in five years, President Truman, who is beginning to show the strain of his years as chief executive, did not go all-out for welfare-state legislation. He made it clear, however, that he was not abandoning any of the things he has advocated since 1948. Rather, he would have the country concentrate its full efforts to defense and keeping economically sound.

In this respect he said the stabilization law was shot full of holes at the last session and "it will be one of the main tasks before congress to repair the damage and enact a strong anti-inflation law". As for defense, he warned that the situation in Korea remains dangerous and that "the Soviet Union is increasing its armed might." The world still walks in the shadow of another world war, he said.

But his approach to taxation, compulsory health insurance, civil rights, and other controversial issues was so amiable that it left many Republican critics speechless. In fact, Republicans, who obviously were all set for a field day of criticism, found little about which to demonstrate.

The main criticism, when it was all over, was the charge that the speech was just a rehash of past messages. Generally, Democrats praised the message. But from the opposition came such statements as: "The same broken record..." "The President's speech could be characterized as follows: spend more, waste more, socialize more, give more away, control more, talk more, and blame the other fellow for all the ills of the United States and the world."

The fire and stubborn fight of the Truman of old was so obviously lacking that it seemed almost apathetic to many home towners who heard the address.

PRODUCTION—Production of civilian goods for the second quarter of 1952 has been cut back sharply. Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced the government has ordered home building slashed by 23 per cent for the months of April, May and June. Automobile output was slashed by 7 per cent and other consumer goods using scarce materials were trimmed 10 per cent.

This is the general picture for the second quarter: Construction—Home building, now at a rate of 850,000 a year, will be slashed to a rate of 660,000. Only factories vitally needed for defense production will be built, and little material will be available for office buildings, stores, and other commercial construction.

Autos—The industry will get enough copper and aluminum to make 800,000 cars and enough steel to make 900,000.

Civilian Goods—Most consumer goods, including refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, television sets, and radios, will be cut by about 10 per cent from the first quarter.

Railroad Equipment—Freight car production will be reduced about 14 per cent below the 20,000-car output for the first quarter.

Roads—Only the most urgent road-building will be permitted.

Ships—Allotments to the Maritime Administration will be increased.

TAX EVADERS—The Treasury department has launched a new policy that should receive wide approval of the average home town taxpayer. The Treasury will no longer let tax evaders escape criminal prosecution if they voluntarily confess their fraud and pay up.

The department also took steps to speed up its prosecution of tax evaders, including: (1) Reducing the number of conferences with taxpayers about their cases, although taxpayers still will be heard when necessary to develop actual facts; (2) The only persons who can represent taxpayers in these conferences must have duly certified powers of attorney to speak for the taxpayer.

The new policies are expected to reduce the lag in prosecution from an average of 292 days to about 100, it was estimated by the Treasury department.

PEACE TALKS—The Korean peace talks remain deadlocked over the question of whether or not the Communists be allowed to build airfields in North Korea during an armistice. The Reds insist that any ban on rehabilitation of combat airfields would infringe on North Korean sovereignty by interfering in internal affairs. On the other hand, the United Nations says it will not make a peace that gives the Communists the right to build up military forces and installations for further aggression.

At home, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, reports he is hopeful for a workable truce in Korea, but there is one price we won't pay—appeasement.

CLEANUP—President Truman's long awaited plan to clean up graft in government is under way, although it drew considerable fire from Republican critics.

The President dropped his plan for a special commission and handed the job to Attorney General McGrath. Republicans immediately began their criticism. The general charge was that "a whitewash is coming".

The President did not indicate how extensive the clean-up measures will go. A number of administration leaders are known to want action which would remove the corruption in government issue as far as possible from the approaching presidential election campaign.

Truman first asked Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy of New York to head a cleanup commission. Murphy withdrew before his appointment could be announced officially. What caused him to change his mind has not been made public.

One of Russia's newest twin jet planes is depicted in this drawing, released by Aviation Age. The trade and technical magazine said it was either a twin jet fighter, night fighter, or ground attack aircraft, recently developed by the Red air force. Its exact designation is not known.

THE NATION'S SCHOOLS

Rearming Brakes U.S. School Gains

The nation's schools are again facing a serious crisis, brought on by four major factors: increased enrollments, inflationary costs, lack of building materials and an acute teacher shortage.

Educators, however, contend that the nation's economy is strong enough to support the defense program and the schools. And they insist that schools are the first line of our defense. A recent survey revealed that 3,500,000 elementary and high school children—one out of eight pupils in the public schools—are suffering an impaired education because of inadequate facilities.

An estimated 400,000 boys and girls are not getting a full school day—some are attending school on triple-session schedules.
