Suit Over Charlevoix Hospital Dismissed by Court

Two bills of complaint filed against the City of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Hospital were dismissed by Judge Howard L. Campbell of Cadillac following a hearing last week.

The first bill contested the sale of the Trailer Park to the Charlevoix Hospital for the sum of one dollar for the site of the proposed new hospital. The bill was filed in March by Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Miller and stated that the sum of one dollar was insufficient payment for the property, that the transfer of the property was never placed before the taxpayers for their approval and the transfer was a misuse of city funds.

A second bill of complaint filed by Peter Winnick stated he had contributed to the hospital fund and had not been allowed a promised vote in the choice of a site.

Following dismissal in the circuit court here, Miller said he was considering taking the case to a higher court unless the hospital board will settle the issue by a vote of the donors on the site. He suggested the present site of the Charlevoix Hospital could very well be used for a two-story building.

The Trailer Park site was deeded to the hospital board by the city in Dec. 1950 without a vote of the taxpayers. The Hospital Board went ahead last January with plans for a one story building outside of the city to the west near the undeveloped lands of the Medusa Portland Cement Co.

In January, Miller and a group who did not approve the Trailer Park site secured an option on property at Garfield and May Streets on M-66 inside the city and offered it free as a donation to the hospital. It was their contention that the donors should be allowed a vote on the choice of a site as promised during solicitation of funds. The board declined the option before which ran to May 23.

Miller has said repeatedly that he will drop the suit if the choice of a site be given the donors.

"Signal When You Turn"

Chief Harry Simmon's warned motorists that turning from the wrong lane causes more trouble in left turns or right turns than any other violation. "Other drivers are misled when a driver at the right edge of the pavement turns left or when a driver near the center line turns right", he said.

Pointing out that the position of the car at the intersection is taken as a signal, Chief Harry Simmon's said, "It's where you are before you turn that counts the most. Be sure to put your car in a position where other drivers expect you to turn left, before you turn left — and put your car in a position where other drivers expect you to turn right, before you turn right."

According to the State Safety Commission "accident-free drivers" use a distinct maneuver in pulling to the center line or the right-hand edge as a signal indicating which way they are going to turn. By doing this they attract the attention of other drivers who may not have seen their hand signal.

Going into the third week of the safety campaign to make safer turns, sponsored by the East Jordan Police Department and the State Safety Commission the Chief renewed his request that all motorists cooperate with the safety authorities.

A THANK YOU.

Mr. G. A. Lisk, Editor
Charlevoix County Herald
East Jordan, Michigan

Dear Mr. Lisk:

This letter is one of thanks and congratulations for the wonderful cooperation and work that you have shown in the 1952 March of Dimes. I personally, in behalf of all the people connected with the county fund drive for the March of Dimes, wish to thank you and your organization for your magnificent help in the 1952 Campaign. Without the support which your newspaper has so wholeheartedly given, I feel quite sure that this year's campaign would not have done nearly as well.

I know that you were aware of the necessity for making the 1952 March of Dimes the most successful in the history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mrs. Walter Davis, Chairman and Campaign Director for Charlevoix County has emphasized that your newspaper's contribution was an important factor in making this year's March of Dimes a success. Cooperation such as yours gives encouragement to all of those doctors, nurses and research people working toward victory over polio and assures that the victims of this dreaded disease will have the best possible medical care available.

Once again, our thanks to you for a great job well done.

Very sincerely yours,
Jon W. Dahl
State Representative

Chestonia Area News

(Edited by Mrs. A. Wycoff)

Mrs. James Meredith, nee
Gloria Rogers, has returned home from Phila. for an extended visit with her parents.
She was accompanied by her husband as far as Battle Creek, where they stopped over in a motel. While there they visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brennen and saw the new baby.

Jim expects to sail for Cuba very soon and will probably be on the water most of the time until October when Gloria will rejoin him in Florida.
Everyone around here has been staging his own private clean up campaign, especially in the front yards.

It would be greatly appreciated
if folks using the highways especially M-66, would refrain from throwing papers, cans and other trash from car windows in passing our homes.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henning were Sunday callers at Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Murray's staying for dinner with them.

Robert Bartholomew was home
the week end of the 19th to visit his family. He is now employed at Big Rapids in a newspaper office.
Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Wilson spent a pleasant evening at the home of Mrs. Wilson's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Thompson.

A serious accident was narrowly averted last Monday when Glen Wilson was struck by a chain saw he was operating. The saw flew up, cutting him across the throat. The cut, though jagged fortunately was not deep.
Sunday dinner guests of Mr.
and Mrs. Floyd Scott were: Mr.
and Mrs. Alfred Larsen and Mr.
Olus Omland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ceylon Bonney, of Grand Rapids, dropped in on the Wycoff family while enroute from Rexton to their home. Mrs.

Bonney is Mr. Wycoff's sister.
Having been discharged from the Armed Services, Carroll Bartholomew visited his father and family last week end. He stopped at his sister Marilyn's at Adrian before coming home.

While here he was called to work in a factory at Adrian.
The Missis Pat Cihak and Margaret Archer, also Ralph Ager were dinner guests at the Raveau home on Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Russell had dinner and spent the afternoon with Mrs. Gladys Wilson Tuesday.
On Thursday, Mrs. Roscoe
Mackey of Grand Rapids made a call on Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bartholomew. Mrs. Bartholomew seems much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bond of Gaylord were Sunday visitors of the Arthur Wycoffs.

Don't forget the Antrim County
Craft Show at Bellaire on May 3rd and 4th.

Visitor: "My, what a sweet and innocent-looking face your little girl has."
Mother: "Mary, what have you been up to now?"

The riots at Jackson State Prison are old hat now. The fury is quieted and the biggest story in Michigan since the state office building burned has faded off page one, to be replaced by the old regular—politics.

But still, in the face of the tragedy of death and mayhem which ruled the prison for four days and to which the state humbled itself to offer the rioting prisoners everything but a ride in the park, politics has been at the wheel.

The riots have become the well known political football of the month.

Democrats are yelling, "Yah yah, you didn't give us any money to enlarge the prison facilities."

Republicans reply, "Yah, yah the $600,000 you asked wouldn't have helped anyway."

What both sides have failed to reveal is: Just why did the riots occur?

Before the bodies were cool, Governor G. Mennen Williams bleated, "My warnings have been disregarded. My request for $600,000 for a new building to relieve the overcrowding at Jackson was rejected by the legislature."

"Appropriations have forced a reduction of 60 guards at Jackson since 1949, while the prison population was increasing."

And the Republicans whimpered in reply, "Jackson has more guards now than it ever has had before."

But the question still remains, just why did the prisoners riot? The politicians will bat the question around until it is ragged and more than likely there will be a special session of the legislature to whip up some more cash to repair the damage done.

But listen to a former guard at the prison. "Prisoners are devoted to one theme," he says (and he refuses to call them convicts), "and that is walking out of those iron doors. Their lives, their thoughts are wrapped up in getting out. They think of little else."

"But when you get a prison in which nothing is settled, in which the parole board is changed so regularly and the prison rules themselves are changed, you have the parole board is changed so unregularly."

He pointed out that Jackson prison is hard time to serve. Marquette is tougher, but it's easier for the con because there everything is done by rule. Hard or easy, it's readymade.

Several years ago a prisoner blew his top because he was changed from one steamer to another. The kitchen help had been changed. It was necessary to move him up. But that old steamer, on which he had served five years was his wife, his family, his whole life. He had polished it, cleaned it, kept it working. It was the center of his entire interest.

Change the number of bricks in a prisoner's view of the wall or paint one, he's liable to do the same.

And so what has happened at Jackson? Joe Sanford was warden. At this time, he still is considered as having been a good warden. But when the opposition party took control, he quit before he was fired.

General Frisbeen was hired, and up until this time had been considered a fine warden. But the parole board has been changed constantly. The prison officials have been moved around.

commissioner, long has voiced fears of such a riot. Burl Burke, who once was prison industry chief, now in the same capacity at the Iowa state prison also warned against an uprising.

The day before the riot, the Iowa prison board heard a study report commending to the skies the Jackson set-up. Burke said, "Watch the place, it's full of dynamite."

He was right. And now the entire issue, dead as it is, is being exploited by both parties.

But does that help the lifer who for 18 years had cared for the greenhouse? The old man wept when he saw what the rioters had done to his work. The political issue still will seethe despite the man's tears.

And nothing much can be done. Except formulate a solid and consistent policy in the prison—with solid and consistent men in charge.

FARM FACTS
from your County
Agricultural Agent
Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

Many Michigan farmers could improve the quality and yield of corn by growing earlier maturing hybrids, believes Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Possibility of an early fall frost is probably the greatest single hazard to corn production in Michigan. Rebman believes that planting early maturing hybrids is the best way to avoid this hazard.

E. C. Rossman, of the Michigan State College farm crops department, told the county agricultural agent that corn trials in the state show that some of the early hybrids yield as much or more corn per acre than the late hybrids.

Earlier harvest in the fall is possible when weather conditions are favorable with early-maturing hybrids. This early harvest reduces corn losses from broken stalks and dropped ears in the fields. Early hybrids usually have lower moisture content at harvest and permit safer storage—more clean, sound, high-quality corn will be taken out of the crib. This mature, dry corn makes better feed for livestock.

Agent Rebman points out that fall plowing of corn stubble may be possible with early hybrids too.

Weevil injury to stored grain speeds up in warm weather, Ed Rebman county agricultural agent. He points out that winter weevil damage usually is confined to small areas where weevils ball up to keep temperatures favorable to them.

Farmers in Charlevoix county should inspect their grain over its entire surface. Best way to inspect is to run the arm-elbow deep into the grain to see if all areas are cool and free from mold. Damp, moldy spots attract weevils. Such areas will feel warm to the hand.

If grain is dug away from these areas, they will "stand" vertically with out falling. In these spots there will be weevil contamination, dust and grain particles.

Weevils can damage enough grain and produce enough shrinkage to wipe out a season's profits. They multiply rapidly in warm weather.

If you find that weevils have caused damage to your stored grain, agent Rebman advises that you call at the county extension office, located in Boyne City, for advice on how to handle the situation.

Boat Owner Names

Public fishing site user this year must affix name and address to boat if he plans to anchor or leave the craft unattended overnight.

Abandonment of old boats at access sites prompted the new conservation department law which specifies that writing should be legible.

The mental patient was about to be released after twenty years of incarceration. He put on his best suit, then decided to shave himself. As he stood in front of the mirror, razor in hand, a nurse, passing by, called a cherry message of, "Good luck, Harry."

As he turned to answer her, the razor caught in the string supporting the mirror and the mirror slipped to the floor. The patient, turning around, was now gazing at a black wall.

"Damn it," he said, "just my luck. Just as I'm ready to leave here after twenty years, I cut my head off."

RHUBARB ADDS GAY TOUCH TO COOKING

Homegrown rhubarb will soon be available. It is a sure sign of spring that can add tart-sweet flavors to meals that have been lacking in taste and color appeal.

Miss Mary Morr of the department of foods and nutrition, Michigan State College, reminds homemakers that rhubarb is one fruit to which sugar is added before it is cooked if it is to remain in whole pieces. Water should be added in small quantities as the rhubarb has a naturally high water content.

In preparing rhubarb sauce, remember that the fruit should be cooked as short as possible to retain the most of the fresh fruit flavor—the more aroma in the air, the less flavorful the cooked sauce.

Rhubarb lends itself to baking. Miss Morr said. The prepared fruit should be placed in a baking dish which can be tightly covered. Sugar and a very small portion of water are needed. Bake the fruit in a 350 degree oven. One part dates to three parts rhubarb make a rich baked fruit combination, she suggested.

Another combination is lemon or orange or both added to rhubarb. Use either the juice or grated rind of the lemon or orange.

Rhubarb punch is colorful and tasty for springtime entertaining. Use pink rhubarb, Miss Morr advised, to get the best color. In cooking the fruit for punch, the sugar should not be added before cooking. Rhubarb marmalade is another variation for this fruit. The tart-sweet flavor is enhanced by addition of a small portion of orange or lemon, she said.

Polio Pledge

If polio comes to my community I WILL REMEMBER TO Let my children continue to play and be with their usual companions. They have already been exposed to whatever polio virus may be in that group, and they may have developed immunity (protection) against it.

Teach my children to scrub their hands before putting food in their mouths. Polio virus may be carried into the body through the mouth.

See that my children never use anybody else's towels, wash cloths or dirty drinking glasses, dishes and tableware. Polio virus could be carried from these things to other people.

Follow my doctor's advice about nose and throat operation's inoculations, or teeth extractions during the polio season.

Be ever watchful for signs of Polio: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of the neck and back.

Call my doctor at once and, in the meantime, put to bed and away from others any member of my family showing such symptoms.

I WILL NOT Allow my children to mingle with strangers, especially in crowds or into homes outside their own circle. There are three different viruses that cause polio. My children's group may be immune to one of these. Strangers may carry another polio virus to which they are not immune.

Let my children become fatigued or chilled. Overtired or chilled bodies are less able to fight polio.

Take my children away from our community without good cause. Polio time is the time to stay home and keep with everyday companions.

If polio strikes my home I WILL Have confidence in my doctor, knowing the earlier the care the better my child's chances for complete recovery. I know that my child has a better than ever chance to recover without paralysis.

Call my local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis immediately for information or help. The telephone book or my health department will tell me how to reach the chapter.

Remember that whatever financial help my family needs for polio care will be given through the American people to the March of Dimes each January.

Has a secret for postponing old-age been found? In The American Weekly, the great color magazine distributed with Sunday's Chicago Herald-American, Elsa Maxwell, on a trip to Paris last June, learned how many aging Europeans have found new leases on life through injections with Bogomoletz, a new serum developed by a Russian pathologist. Don't miss this revealing article, in the great color magazine distributed with Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

Playwright Anita Loos writes about Emmet Kelly, famous circus clown who became a living caricature to make people laugh. The Sperm Whale

Before petroleum was jumped from wells, the world got most of its oil from whales. In those days, fleets of sailing ships roamed the seas in search of the ocean giants. Many a fierce battle was fought between men armed with harpoons and the powerful creatures whose bodies could be turned into oil.

The big fellows were waging a game, but losing, battle for existence when two discoveries were made. Men found it was easier to get oil from the ground, and they learned that electricity gave better light than whale oil. Thanks to the rise of the petroleum industry of electric lights, whales were spared.

But today, says the National Wildlife Federation, they face a new threat. Whale oil, though no longer needed for lamps, is a valuable raw material in the manufacture of textiles, cosmetics, and candles. In some countries, people buy and eat whale meat.

To meet these demands, 20th Century whale hunters rove in deadly packs. Leading the chase, in each whaling fleet, is a factory ship. It is outfitted with machinery to butcher a record haul of whales on a single voyage. The crew is seldom idle, because small killer ships keep bringing in fresh victims — all of them snarped by accurate, hard-firing harpoon guns.

Among the prizes caught in this way are the massive Sperm Whales. They live in all the oceans of the world, staying in warm currents when they feed, but often swimming in the frigid Antarctic.

The male is among the largest of the entire whale family. He sometimes grows to be 60 feet long, and he may weigh as much as 60 tons. The female Sperm Whale is about half as big.

Both are dark in color and shaped like gigantic tadpoles. They have big, blunt heads and powerful teeth. With the aid of their side flippers and their broad, forked tails, they can swim at speeds of three to four knots with ease. When pursued, they plow ahead at ten or twelve knots.

For food they eat mostly squids or cuttlefish, but sometimes they gulp down larger creatures.

From the time they are born, at a length of ten to twelve feet, until they reach full size, Sperm Whales grow thick layers of blubber around their bodies. It is from this coating of fat that much whale oil is taken. An even finer grade of oil comes from their heads.

Besides oil, the Sperm Whales sometimes produce a valuable substance called ambergris. It is a gray or blackish mass of material which forms inside them when they are sick. Though ugly to look at, it is a highly prized ingredient in the making of fine perfumes.

A 400-pound chunk of ambergris once sold for more than $100,000. State College specialists.

Crime in America

How the Laws Are Enforced In Up-State New York

As the Senate Crime Committee trailed the national crime syndicate across the country, evidence everywhere pointed in some way to New York City. America's largest metropolis, nerve center for much of its financial and industrial life, also was a nerve center of the underworld.

Our New York investigation, however, was not confined to the city itself. Months earlier we had conducted closed sessions in Manhattan, probing the workings of a vicious New York-New Jersey gambling ring and the flagrant operation of gambling establishments upstate at Saratoga Springs.

One result was that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who had refused to go to Manhattan to see the Committee, convened a special grand jury to investigate the Saratoga conditions.

In Bergen County, New Jersey, just across the Hudson River from New York City, gambling had become so notorious that there finally had been a partial crackdown.

At the time of our hearings, only Anthony Guarini, who seemed to have been the front man for the ring, had been sent to jail. After our hearings, however, gambling indictments were returned against Joe Adonis, Salvatore (Solly) Moore, Moretti, Arthur Longano and James (Piggy) Lynch.

We questioned a Newark (N. J.) certified public accountant, George Goldstein, who seemed to perform the same functions for East coast mobsters that attorney Eugene Bernstein performed for the Chicago-Capone syndicate. He acknowledged that for some years he has handled tax returns for "the New Jersey gambling partnerships."

Profits from these various companies were shared by Guarini, James Ruitkin, Adonis, Gerals Catena, Salvatore Moretti, and Lynch. Actually, there is no way of telling exactly how much they took in, as Goldstein admitted he made out tax returns from figures which were not based on any real audit. But one gambling company alone admitted to gross receipts of $488,698 in its 1945-46 tax return.

Still another business-like facet of the gamblers was their method of converting into cash the sizable checks taken from their victims. Max Stark—since sent to jail—was "check cashier" for the mob. Daily, he would bring to the small Macy and Chants Bank of New York City some 60 to 70 checks signed by losers at the casinos. Over six months, the checks came to about $5,000,000. Stark, conveniently, had become a stockholder in the bank; he owned 10 per cent of the bank's stock.

Another New Jersey operator examined by the Committee was Willie Moretti. The 58-year-old older-brother of Salvatore Moretti was—and is—a big-time gambler, and, more lately, part-owner of a big laundry and linen supply company. Willie let slip a great many scraps of information about the East coast mob.

Willie's talkativeness, apparently, was not an isolated phenomenon. When racket boss Frank Costello was testifying months later, Rudolph Halley quoted transcripts of telephone wire taps, legally obtained, which showed that Moretti called Costello "chief," and that Costello told him "... Rest and don't call me so much" ... "Don't talk too much; you know ..." Costello insisted he was just giving a little friendly health advice to a sick friend.

We took Willie through a list of leading gangsters, and with only a few exceptions, he knew them all. Halley: Aren't these people ... what you would call racket boys? Moretti: Jeez, everything is a racket today.

Halley: These people come from a great many different cities around the country ... How do you get to meet all of these people ... ? Moretti: Well, you go to race tracks and you go to Florida, and you meet them; and the man that is well known meets everybody; you know that.

Halley asked him if he belonged to any political clubs. "I don't belong to any. I am a bi-partisan," Moretti answered. "The incredible gambler went on to boast that he didn't 'operate politically'—that, if he did, he might have become a member of Congress—'maybe sitting where you are.'"

What about some old charges filed by an established competitor, was when we asked him:

Q. When you get to be the superintendent of the state police, you are supposed to have enough savvy or understanding to leave it (the gambling at Saratoga) alone, unless you are told to go in; is that correct?

Gaffney: Well, probably, yes, it has been a policy over the years. Behind the situation, of course, was the complacency of the Saratoga Springs police department of 23 men. We interrogated an incredible local police chief, Patrick (Paddy) Rox, who admitted that he augmented his police earnings by collecting $10 a night for taking money from the bank to the Saratoga raceway.

Walter F. Ahearn, the Saratoga detective supposedly in charge of suppressing gambling in the resort town, confessed that he, too, supplemented his pay—by $120 a week—transporting the bankrolls and gambling loot between two casinos and the local bank every night.

The gamblers—though, of course, Ahearn "didn't know" they were gamblers—were afraid of stick-ups more than anything else," he said.

New Potato Growing Plan Offers Added Income Possibility

A money-making idea for upland soil potato growers who plant foundation seed or selected certified seed potatoes is being sponsored by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, according to L. V. Nelson, extension specialist in farm crops at Michigan State College.

The idea is for farmers to grow tablestock and certified seed in combination on their farms in 1952. That makes it possible for potato growers to sell the large potatoes for tablestock and the small potatoes—one and a half inch minimum—as certified seed.

One advantage is that both the grade and quality of the tablestock will be improved and the entire crop can be sold to best advantage. In addition, this production plan will furnish, at a premium price, small size certified seed potatoes. The program will increase the volume of sales per acre and provide seed requirements for the farmer.

Many potatoes growers are faced with seed prices this spring that are two to three times as high per bushel as they got per bushel for the crop sold last fall. With this combination program, a grower could sell the small potatoes as certified seed and buy foundation seed, or plant the certified seed and grow tablestock.

Nelson said that growers interested in learning more about details of this plan should contact their county agricultural agent or write to the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, East Lansing, Michigan.

Fish "Elevators" Operating Man-made obstructions to natural fish spawning activity in Michigan streams and rivers call for a helping hand for wall-eyes and rainbow trout at this time of year. At the Newwayo Dam on the Muskegon, the Homestead Dam on the Betsie and the Tippee Dam on the Manistee, the Conservation Department is supporting fish "elevator" projects. Close to 12,000 big spawners—mostly wall-eyed pike—will be trapped or netted and then released above the dams to complete their spawning runs. Some will return to the Great Lakes thru the water flow at the dams, while many more will remain up-river to challenge the skill of Michigan anglers this summer.

10,000 Wall-eyes Netted Greatest activity along these lines is at the Newwayo Dam on the Muskegon River. A heavy run of wall-eyed pike has been in progress there for the past two weeks. Winch-operated dip nets are located along the river bank just below the dam. Major runs occur at night, and, under close supervision of Conservation Department personnel, local citizens man the nets transferring the catch to live boxes. Next morning geared tank trucks move the fish upstream above the dam, distributing them at various points along the river. All fish are weighed, sexed and counted, and the transfer continues until a total of 10,000 wall-eyed pike have been netted. The cost of the project is borne by the Consumers Power Company, owners of the Newwayo Dam. The big spawners range up to ten pounds in weight, and all 10,000 fish in the quota will probably be taken in less than a two week span.

Rainbow Lift Progressing At the Tippee Dam near Wellston on the Manistee River, and the Homestead Dam on the Betsie just below Benzonia, traps are built into the power-structures to catch the big steelhead or lake-run rainbow trout. Between eight and nine hundred will be lifted at night hundred within the next two weeks, while as many as 1200 may enter the Tippee Dam trap for distribution in the upper waters of the Manistee and Pine Rivers.

There is a striking difference in the appearance of the steelhead on the Betsie and on the Manistee. Fish taken at the Tippee Dam on the latter river bear the brilliant-hued rainbow stripe from gill to tail, while the Betsie "bows are bright silver with only a hint of the vermilion stripe.

April 12th Opening Disappointing Thousands of fishermen who greeted the April 12th steelhead season for the first time this year found high, roily waters and water temperature below 40 degrees. Most fish were taken from the Betsie River near the dam, where, for some unknown reason, the run of trout was well advanced. Elsewhere fishing was fair to poor, with only small concentrations of spawners in the rivers!

Hobbyist Grows Pearls; Clams Used in Tests

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Andrew C. Heckenkamp wouldn't believe that salt water oysters had a monopoly in the pearl growing industry, so he went to work. Now he and some Missouri clams are busy making pearls in big fresh water tanks in his basement.

He started the project back in 1944. He had a little knowledge of pearls and heard that some fresh water mussels had yielded gems of value. After consulting scientists he began his experiment with Missouri clams.

The pearls he has grown have real commercial value, he says, but he won't give details. The first experiments were on the Black River in the Missouri Ozarks. Heckenkamp and associates began the tedious task of agitating the clams—inserting sand-like particles under their shells.

First Tests Fail

This is done with an instrument similar to a hypodermic needle, the rough particle irritates the clam and causes it to emit a milky substance which cloaks the irritant and hardens into mother-of-pearl. He put in long hours on his Black River experiments, but they produced no results.

If the clam is forced open for an inspection it often dies. The problem was how to keep a watch on the pearl growth and keep the clam healthy.

At the first Heckenkamp and his helpers coated the irritating particles with a lead type metal which would show up in rays. This proved ineffective. The clams quickly covered the metal or disposed of it.

At this point, Heckenkamp decided to move the clams into tanks in his basement so that he could keep closer watch. New techniques were developed. Heckenkamp finally learned just how and where to insert the irritant so that it wouldn't be expelled. He says he has produced a number of pearls. Only recently he opened a clam that had lived undisturbed for more than four years in his aquarium. In it were four small pearls.

100 Clams at Work

"Now we know we can produce here," he observed. "The hobbyist of tomorrow will probably concentrate on shell fish. Think of producing a $1,000 or even $10,000 pearl in your parlor goldfish bowl."

Heckenkamp says it isn't the size, but the quality of the pearls which determine its value. He sends his pearls to a New York jeweler. Today Heckenkamp has about 100 clams in his basement and in outdoor tanks. The clams' diet is supplemented with occasional feedings of honey and brewers' yeast.

Heckenkamp likes the idea of clam pearls because they can be grown in shallow water where the harvest can be reaped without diving. Yes, perhaps even in goldfish bowls.

Pay for Shepherding Is Highest in History, Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There are plenty of jobs available these days for men who can live alone and like it while chaperoning thousands of strong-minded but misguided females.

For such a job applicants must have plenty of common sense, more than a little knowledge of psychology, and a capacity for endless walking. Their prospective charges are among the most unpredictable of their sex, belonging as they do to the sheep family.

Today the wages offered for shepherding are the highest in the occupation's long and colorful history—about $250 monthly and found (food and sleeping equipment). Yet a shortage of competent herders in the United States is so acute that late reports blame it for an "alarming" decrease in the nation's wool production.

In an attempt to remedy this deficiency, efforts are being made to bring to this country groups of the finest shepherders in the world, the Basques of northern Spain. They are reputed to have not only the necessary experience but even more important—the indispensable temperament for the job.

Vast School Outlay Needed, Citizens' Committee Says

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Citizens Federal Committee on Education, an advisory group of the Federal Office of Education, estimated recently the nation will need more than $14,000,000,000 in new school construction in the next decade. The committee said there will be needed in the next 10 years:

- 270,000 more classrooms—with 30 pupils to the room—"just to take care of the population increase." Estimated cost: $1,290,000,000.
 - 150,000 more classrooms to replace "all those firetraps and other school structures which should be abandoned." Cost: $4,050,000,000.
 - 60,000 more classrooms in the reorganization of school districts. 40,000 more for anticipated 1,200,000 new enrollments in kindergarten and junior-collect programs.
- "In other words, over the next 10 years we will need at least 80 per cent more classrooms than we have now," the committee said.

Taft Strength Falls

IMPARTIAL GOP observers, who watched the jockeying of Taft and Eisenhower forces at the San Francisco Republican strategy meeting, came to the conclusion that Taft lost ground. There were three reasons for their conclusion:

1. Taft did not show up to greet the politicians. The senator had become irked at Chairman Guy Cabellson for opening up the conference to all candidates; so ended up by giving the gathering the cold shoulder. If he had attended, shaken hands, slapped a few backs, been one of the crowd, he might almost have sewed up the nomination.
2. Vice Johnson moved Taft's headquarters from the Fairmont hotel where the main meeting was held, to the Mark Hopkins Hotel. It rained most of the time and a lot of the politicians did not go outside the Fairmont.

3. Dave Ingalls' speech against "glamor" and "sex appeal" candidates left a bad taste with the moderate Republicans, especially the women. Though the speech was aimed at Eisenhower, it happened that Gov. Earl Warren of California, a statuesque and handsome figure, sat on the platform at the time of delivery, and many people thought it was also directed at him. There was considerable sympathy for Eisenhower and Warren as a result of Ingalls' speech.

During the San Francisco meeting it was also noted about that Taft had lost considerable strength, including Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, and Indiana, which he has been listing as "sure."

Some G.O.P. politicians think that Taft has reached his high point and that the slide downward has definitely begun. Others counter that the Eisenhower forces are poorly organized and it will take a lot of fumbles on Taft's part to lose.

Military Waste

The full scandal hasn't been told, but three U.S. air bases in French Morocco have suddenly been abandoned in the middle of construction. Over one million dollars had already been spent on the three bases—when suddenly the Pentagon changed its mind and decided not to build them.

The senate preparedness committee is quietly investigating who is responsible for this expensive boner. One report is that the air-strips weren't built on solid ground and sank into the sand; another report is that the rainy season flooded out at least one base.

Stalin Gets Mad

If we get discouraged over government waste and efficiency here at home, it might pay to look at an official report from Moscow that Marshal Stalin has secretly visited Russian shipyards in the Baltic to find out what's holding up his plan to build a powerful fleet of super-battleships.

American observers report that Stalin was furious at the excuses his admirals have been giving for Russia's failure to turn out a single new battleship since 1939.

Therefore, accompanied by 200 secret police, he personally inspected the naval installations where three 50,000-ton battleships are under construction. The inefficiency and blunders he saw, especially at Gdynia, infuriated him even more, and Stalin has now ordered a complete purge of the Russian admirals responsible.

Well-Suited Congressman

Some strange things have gone on in the offices of congressmen.

There was the late senator from Florida, Park Trammell, who slept in his office, never rented a hotel or apartment in Washington.

Then there was his opposite number from New York, Charles A. Buckley, who became known as the "phantom congressman," because he was rarely in his office or, for that matter, in Washington. Buckley is still in congress, but his attendance record is much better since he became chairman of the public works committee.

Other congressmen have used their offices, furnished free by the taxpayers, to promote personal enterprises or as propaganda mills for lobbies, while, during prohibition, several house members were accused of bootlegging.

However, Congressman Pat Sutton of Tennessee has come up with a brand new twist. Sutton has made a profitable sideline of selling men's suits in his capitol hill sanctuary. The Tennessee gets the suits wholesale from his father-in-law, who has a store in Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Washington Pipeline

Attorney General McGrath has not held one single press conference since he took office. Many editors wonder why he isn't willing to answer questions like other officials.

Children From This Area Numbering 173, Receive Treatment at Traverse

Dr. F. A. Litzzenburger, director of the District Health Department serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego Counties, reports that during the year 173 children from the area received treatment at the Central Michigan Children's Clinic at Traverse City, which is operated by the Children's Fund of Michigan. Six other children were referred to the Child Guidance Clinic there.

Under its Program for the Correction of Visual Defects, the Children's Fund provided glasses for 139 children in the four counties.

The Children's Fund regular dental program, in charge of Dr. C. O. Whitten, continued throughout the year. 1755 children made 2,364 visits to the clinic, where 3,505 fillings were inserted, 1,889 teeth extracted, and 6,207 miscellaneous operations performed. In addition, a Sodium Fluoride Application program operated throughout the year, with Miss Cora Jean Dunn, dental hygienist, giving service to 1,473 children. There were given 1,462 prophylaxes and 4,862 visits to the clinic; they 4,862 sodium fluoride treatments.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:

You know men, we folks at home owe it to you to write regularly and let you know that everything is progressing satisfactorily here. We should regularly to keep in the closest possible touch with the one who is far away and possibly just a little bit homesick and blue. We should keep in close touch so that if any emergency should arise there will be no difficulty in making contact with the member of the family who is away. I believe that the majority of the mothers, father, and sisters at home are doing their share of the writing. Any of them that aren't doing so may possibly start a letter writing spree any moment. But how about all of you men out there. Are you doing your part? You know, you can't expect them at home here to write, and write, and write with no answer from you. If any of you have been writing home regularly, then disregard this paragraph and go on to the next. Then read it all take it to heart. If you are guilty of neglect there is one man in particular of whom I am thinking at this time. He was home for Christmas on furlough and returned from his home here to Chanute Field, Illinois. Since he left here around New Year's have had not one scratch of a pen from him. They do not know whether he is there or not. I feel quite sure that he is getting this paper as none of them have been returned. I also feel quite sure that he will know of whom I am writing. All I say is this — If you have any feeling at all for your home — then sit down at once and write.

Larry Streeter has finished his basic at Lackland AFB and is moving out for places unknown. He writes to his folks that he may be assigned to Scott Field, Illinois where Bob Farmer is at present. I'll give you his new address as soon as I get it.

Fred Holland has arrived in the States from Cuba and writes as follows: "Sorry I haven't written more often but somehow a good pinocchio game always seems more interesting than writing a letter. I am back in the States now operating out of Newport. We got back last Monday from a rather rough and nerve wracking operation in Cuba. We will be operating out of Newport until the first of August when we take a short cruise to the Mediterranean.

If I remember right, Jim Meredith is stationed here at Newport. I wonder if you could send it port. I don't have his address here again. I had it at one time but I must have lost it.

Our ship did a little better at Gitmo this time as we came through our final battle problem with a "Very good" rating.

Jim Meredith's address is: E Div, USS Formose, DE 509, c/o FPO, New York, N.Y. Jim — if you get around to looking before Fred does you can find him aboard the USS Cogswell (DD 651) in "O" Division.

A new man among us this week is Jim Pollitt who has finally settled down in Camp Chaffee, Arkansas. I saw a picture of you today, Jim, and I must say that smile you were sporting was a dandy. Guess they're not starving you down there. Jim's full address is: Pvt Ralph Pollitt, RA 16 405 003, Co "C", 81st Med Tk Bn, 5th Armored Division, Camp Chaffee, Arkansas. I understand that Jim Rusnell is there in Chaffee too. How about you men getting together and giving me the lowdown on what's cooking in Camp Chaffee — besides the beans in the kitchen. I don't have Russells address yet but expect to have it for all of you next week.

After being off the mailing list for a couple of weeks here is a new address for Dean McPherson. He is now A/3c Dean — McPherson, AF 16 402 929, 3769 Stu Trng Sq; Barracks 582, Shepard AFB, Texas, Dean is taking a course in Airplane and Engine Mechanics. What's cooking down there in Texas, Dean?

My steady writing buddy, Claude Crandall, checked in again from Fort Riley this week. If 1/10 of you men would write 1/2 as much as Claude I could fill this whole back page every week. Claude writes, "Received the paper today. It is the only paper I get from Michigan. It looks like I have another year to serve in the Army. But I'm going to re-enlist for six years more. If I get out now they will be drafting me back in again and then I'll have to start all over again. When I came in the first time it was just for three years. Now I am ending up with five.

"Yes, I think Germany looks okay for occupation duty but will have to put up with Communies over there too. Everybody is ready to go back to Korea on getting clear from the post here.

"You have heard about the floods here. I guess if the water comes this way I can swim. But they really don't expect it to hit here until July like it did last year.

"Will you write and ask Russell Fyan why he hasn't written to me lately?" (How about that Russ). Thanks for the letter, Claude.

Another man from Fort Riley came into the office this last week and informed me that he was the proud papa of a new baby girl. Naturally I didn't let him brag too much without sticking in my ear about my new girl. This man, Ellery Inman, made it home for a 10 day emergency leave — flood or no flood. He's due to leave for camp again on May 3rd. I'll bet that leave will fly for him. Ellery is working in the Motor Pool at Riley. He says that he's got a "Snap". Claude — I gave Ellery your address. He said he'd come over to see you if you would promise not to take more of blood from him at one time.

Here's a letter from Howard Evans and an assurance to the Morris twins. He writes, "Just a short note to help you along as to the Morris brothers. You said is sounded fishy that the Recruiting Officer told them they would go to the same camp and would stay together. Well, that is the Army policy now. As long as the brothers request it. Just to sight one case — Two brothers from South Haven, Michigan, went to Japan with me in May of 1948. They stayed there until July of 1950 and went with me to Korea and stayed 10 1/2 months and came home with me. They were never separated at any time. Each were wounded at different times but still came back to the same company.

"This is only one of many cases I know of.

"I saw Dale McWatters once since he has been here. He is a hard guy to find. Whenever I go to his company he is gone. Last time he was on furlough.

"I don't get a chance to get away very often. Being a Provost Sgt is all right but you sure put in long hours. I have only been home once since New Year's. That was for Easter when I arrived at mothers about 4 a.m. and left at 3 p.m. the same day — not much time.

"The weather here is beautiful, makes you want to play hooky. Too bad about the Jordan river — no smelt, huh?"

I guess I misled a lot of you men about the high water and no smelt fishing on the sportman bridge. The water is high — that is true. But it didn't stop the smelt. They've got more smelt out of the holes further up the river this year than they have for years. It reminds you of the old smelt dipping days of the '30's when you could talk in terms of bushels of the finny, smelly, things. I brought a bushel home myself one evening and didn't even wet a net myself. They were even dipping smelt out of the old flume under the power dam.

Well, men, I guess that winds it up for tonight.

So Long,
"Jake" Snyder

GOP's Surest Shot

THE GOVERNOR of California was sitting in Sacramento's Sutter Club with Walter Jones of the Sacramento Bee when his onetime opponent on the Democratic ticket, Bob Kenny, walked in.

"Governor," said Kenny, "I've been conducting a Democratic underground for you for President. Every time an eastern newspaperman interviews you, he comes to see me afterward and asks: 'What's this fellow Warren really like?'"

"I tell them," continued Kenny, who served eight years as Democratic attorney general of California under Governor Warren, "that I went eight rounds with the guy and couldn't even lay a glove on him."

"Perhaps we ought to get a statement from Kenny endorsing you for the nomination," suggested newsmen Jones.

"Oh no," good-naturedly protested Governor Warren, "I'm having a hard-enough time convincing the publicans that I'm not a Democrat."

Many Admirers

Democrat Kenny, who is a sincere admirer of Governor Warren, Republican, put his finger on the real reason why GOP bosses frown on Warren's nomination, and also on the reason why more realistic Republicans lead the way in coming round to the fact that the governor of California would be the surest shot to win for the GOP next November.

For what Franklin Roosevelt advised his party in 1932 — "to win we have to wear away Republican votes" — is ever more true, in reverse, today. With heavy Democratic registrations built up during 40 years of Roosevelt-Truman rule the Republicans must be able to pull Democratic votes to win, and Earl Warren is one sure shot who can do so.

When running for governor in 1942, for instance, he polled 400,000 Democratic votes. When he ran again in 1946, he pulled so many Democrats that they nominated him on the Democratic ticket. In 1950, despite the opposition of Jimmy Roosevelt, a popular and appealing candidate, Warren rolled up a lead of around 800,000 in a state that has 1,000,000 more registered Democrats than Republicans.

Warren's Success

It sounds trite to say this, but the secret of Warren's success is being an extremely good governor in a state that is extremely hard to govern.

The ingredients of that success can be summarized as follows:

1. A shrewd instinct for avoiding executive mistakes.
2. The selection of irrefragable public servants, whether Republicans or Democrats.
3. An intuitive sense of smell that steers him away from emotional issues.

In a state that has seen the rise and fall of funny money, ham-and-egggers, and all sorts of fringe movements, Warren has never jumped on a hallucinatory bandwagon. Frequently it would have seemed good politics to do so. When he was a rising young politician in Oakland, the Ku Klux Klan swept the state like wildfire and many a politician, with a stronger sense of expediency than wisdom, put on the pillow case. But not Warren.

When the rage for loyalty oaths came along, Warren also failed to lead the professional patriots and put his right hand on the Bible. Asked if there would be a purge of California employees, he replied: "No, we never hired any Reds in the first place."

The nearest Governor Warren ever came to skating on thin ice was when he championed a modified public-health bill. This made California doctors see red.

He has stuck to his guns, however, and the reason is that when Warren was a boy, his father, master car builder, was killed by a housebreaker at night, and his mother was left with a large family and the difficulty of paying doctors' bills. So the governor knows what it's like to go without medical attention. He also had an experience with the Pacific Mutual Company when he once forgot to pay his health insurance for one day.

Though overdue only one day, it took all the prestige of Warren's position, then attorney general of California, to get his insurance policy reinstated.

Texas Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower sentiment is strong in Texas. If nominated, he would probably put Texas in the GOP column for the first time since it voted for Herbert Hoover. Texas Democrats are quietly organizing a delegation to the Chicago convention pledged to Governor Shivers as a favorite son — not with the idea of nominating Shivers, but in order to block Truman. Most Texans don't believe that Dixiecrat idea will work out.

FAMILY TRAGEDY

4 Brothers Await End

NEW YORK, N.Y. — In a New York apartment that is sunny, peaceful and quiet live Mr. and Mrs. Armonice Godfrey and their four sons. It is in this apartment that one of the great tragedies of our times is taking place, quietly and without fuss.

The sons are Robert, Michael, George and Roy. George, 24, is the oldest, Roy is 22, Robert 18, and Michael 12. All of them are dying of an incurable disease.

Ten years ago, when Roy was 11, he found it harder and harder to climb the five flights to the flat. The doctors finally figured out that he was suffering from muscular dystrophy, a progressive disease for which there is, to date, no cure. It always ends up attacking the respiratory power.

One Son in Navy

Out in the Pacific George didn't know he had it until, after the war, he found it harder and harder to get up the ladders on the U.S.S. Sutherland. The Navy shipped him home. He takes jobs, now and then, and adds to the family income. But he sits around a lot, like Roy.

Mrs. Godfrey, born on a farm near Eau Claire, Wis., says she could take all the children — Robert and Michael are slowing up a little, just as Roy and George did — out to the old place, but that would put them beyond reach of the one man who is searching desperately, full time, for some cure for muscular dystrophy.

The man is Dr. Ade T. Milhorat, on the staff at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. Mrs. Godfrey tells how he tries all the new treatments on Roy and how, when the $10 a day hospital bill got to be too much, the doctor paid it himself.

Mrs. Godfrey said: "Dr. Milhorat has about sixty new kinds of drugs, and he'll test a lot of them on Roy. Roy is one of his pet patients. That's why I can't take the boys out to Eau Claire. The doctor must come up with something, some day. He works so hard at it."

Mother Has Hope

The boys get outdoors, once in a while. A stranger would never guess the fate that dogs them; they look strong and husky, and fresh-faced. That's one of the weird things about muscular dystrophy.

At the present time Dr. Milhorat is the only doctor in the United States giving full time to research of the disease, although it takes 100,000 a year.

Roy said: "Some of that stuff he gave me last time, I felt maybe the strength was coming back to my leg muscles. Then it faded away; it always does."

But Mrs. Godfrey will not give up hope. "I'm pretty sure the doctor is going to strike some cure soon," she says.

Man Who Wanted Son Gets Two Boys — and Two Girls

PONTIAC, Mich. — It has happened again. Mrs. Kenneth Rosebush of Pontiac, Mich., recently gave birth to quadruplets.

Mr. Rosebush, father of four daughters, often bewailed the female predominance in his household. He wanted a son.

Well, he got two, but he lost out on the chance to even the count. Two of the quads were girls.

The four infants, nearly 16 pounds, were delivered by Caesarean section at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Rosebush, a wiry, shy stonemason from Oakwood, is 36. His wife is 34. They celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary the day before the quads were born.

"I really wanted four boys," commented the father after an all night vigil. "I've been the only man around a houseful of women-folk long enough."

"But we're pretty happy as it is," he added, "even if it does look like the girls are going to run the house."

Dr. Edward Christie, a Pontiac specialist, and Dr. Harold F. Stahl, the family physician, delivered the quads in 90 seconds. First came a 4-pound 3-ounce boy, then a 3-pound 9-ounce girl, then a 3-pound 9-ounce girl, and finally a 4-pound 8-ounce boy.

Mrs. Rosebush, told several weeks before their birth, to expect quadruplets, was ready with names — Kenneth, Jr., Keith, Krystal and Kristene. Quadruplets occur about once in every 512,000 births.

Electric Pacemaker Starts Heart to Beating Again

BOSTON, Mass. — An artificial electrical pacemaker that has been used successfully in animal experiments to make stopped hearts beat again was announced recently.

The pacemaker applies an electrical shock to a small knob-like area of the heart. The shock stimulates this area, which in turn stimulates the heart to beat. By controlling the regularity of the electrical shock, doctors can thus control the beating of the heart.

The pacemaker is expected to be used for a period long enough to enable the heart to function on its own powers, and in cases of irregular heart beats, to restore the heart's action to a normal rhythm.

Pig Weaning Time Needs Special Care

"Weaning involves a great deal more than just separating the sow from her pigs," J. A. Hoefler, Michigan State College animal husband, points out.

"A good hog man begins preparations for weaning long before it actually takes place," he adds. "A good pig should weigh 35 to 40 pounds at weaning time, should be castrated, vaccinated and started on dry feed."

Creep feeding a fortified pig starter should begin by the time the pigs are three weeks of age. They should be castrated at 4 weeks, vaccinated at six weeks and weaned at eight weeks. Hoefler suggests reducing the sow's feed slightly four to five days before weaning.

Another suggestion is to continue self-feeding the pig starter ration to pigs for at least one month after weaning. If parasites are present, spray with lindane or BHC, and worm with sodium fluoride.

Hoefler especially recommends a good pig starter ration, emphasizing the fact that it supplements the declining milk flow of the sow during the latter part of the lactation period. Thus, you end up with fewer runts and with much heavier pigs at weaning time. In addition, the pigs will go through castration and vaccination with far less shock and will be set back less with weaning.

Weaning is a critical time because the pig is very sensitive at that time. Most runts develop because the feeder has overlooked some management or feeding detail about that time, he concludes.

"Now," said the architect, "if you will just give me a general idea of the kind of house you want."

"That's easy replied the prospective home owner. "We want something to go with an antique 'door' knocked my wife picked up in Mexico City last winter."

He: "I thought you said you were going to tell your father I kissed you?"
She: "Do you call that a kiss?"
