Bowling News

Once again the pins are falling and the 1952-53 Bowling Season has officially started. The bowling alley has a new look this year, with newly decorated walls and upholstery.

Merchant's League started Sept. 8th with three new sponsors replacing Sommerville's, Recreation, and State Farm Ins. This year finds Dave Clark bowling regularly on the Super Market Team with his father as a team mate. Don has found tough competition these first few weeks with him.

The Ladies League started the league's rolling by bowling Sept. 4th. They again have 16 teams, which shows that the women really are enthusiastic about bowling. Two new sponsors replace Quality Food and B & B Drive In. Several new bowlers are in the line-ups and most of the old bowlers are back.

The 700 League has made the most changes. New sponsors, new faces, and a women's team is filling in for the sixth team. This will be the first time in E.J. to try this but it has worked successfully in larger cities.

The foundry league, the only league with one sponsor, is now organized and in their third week of bowling.

Charlevoix is again bowling in East Jordan, in a Wednesday night spot. Their Secretary is Mr. Ray Kipke.

Changes appear again in the Inter-City League, which is made up of East Jordan, Central Lake and Ellsworth teams. Consumer's Powers moved into the league replacing Rainbow Bar.

The High School league is being organized and will start in the near future.

Marriages Gibbard — Dollhopf

Before a candle lit altar, decorated with pink and white gladioli, on Saturday, Sept. 13, at the College Lutheran Church at East Lansing, Ruby Jean Gibbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gibbard of East Jordan, became the bride of Carl H. Dollhopf of Romulus.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon tulle ballerina-length gown with a lace jacket with cuffs of pleated nylon tulle, matching the skirt of pleated nylon tulle. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a lace cap, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. Miss Gisila Dollhopf, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid. She wore a pastel pink nylon net strapless ballerina-length gown with a matching net stole, and carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations.

The brides mother wore a navy blue crepe dress and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother wore a dress of maroon iridescent taffeta and a corsage of red roses. Mr. Richard Dierks of Detroit, served his friend as best man. George Frith of Detroit served as usher. Reverend Herbert C. Wolf performed the double ring ceremony.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony for about forty relatives and friends. Miss Jean Hulbert of Hastings, Miss Pat Stevens of Iron Mountain and Miss Carolyn McFall of Detroit College friends of the bride, served the guests a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pastel pink rosebuds, and punch, coffee, sandwiches and relishes.

The young couple then left on a wedding trip through Buffalo, N.Y., Niagara Falls, and through Canada, arriving at East Jordan the following Friday.

The bride was a graduate of East Jordan High School with the class of 1949, and is now employed at Michigan State College. The groom is in his senior year at M.S.C.

They will live at the M.S.C. trailer camp at East Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gibbard attended the wedding.

On Friday, Sept. 19th, at 8:00 o'clock p.m., the bride was given a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents. About 30 friends, relatives, and classmates were present. Mrs. Bill Serocki, Miss Pat Simmons, Mrs. Leslie Gibbard and Mrs. Glen Young were hostesses. The guests were served coffee, sandwiches and cake, two of which were made by Mrs. Burl Braman. The couple received many lovely and useful gifts.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Michigan voters cast twice as many votes in the 1952 primaries as they did in the last presidential year, '48.
But at least one observer isn't handing out any laurels for that record.

He's closely identified with a major political party and so he doesn't want to be named. In this close-fought campaign, one observation such as this might lose the race.

Governor Stevenson's remark about "the mess in Washington" has certainly been thrown back at him enough and Eisenhower was quick to seize upon the levity with which the Illinois governor spoke of Korea in an unguarded moment.

So this political expert stays anonymous — but not silent. "Everybody is getting all excited because 58% of the registered voters went to the polls. "But they completely overlook the fact that only 81% of our eligibles in Michigan are even registered. Take 58% of 81% and you get a measly total of about 21 who exercised their ballot."

"Add to that the fact that an awfully lot of the primary voters were practically hog-tied and dragged to the polls by service clubs and civic organizations that has 'Get Out The Vote' campaigns.

"Put them all together and you get a picture of a state that doesn't care a whooping darn about the most crucial election we've had in a generation. I say crucial and I don't care what party you lean toward."

In 1948, the total votes in the gubernatorial primary, in both parties, was 715,834. In August this year, there were 1,436,875 votes cast on the Republican ballot where competition was keen and on the Democratic one where Governor Williams was doing a solo act.

The same increase held in the senatorial primary. In '48 the total was 637,576 and in '52 it rose to 1,340,858.

The upswing this year isn't due entirely—or even in greater part—to a population growth. Something has kindled a fire in the voters. Whether it's the fresh personalities on the national scene, the issues of corruption that have aroused citizens in both parties, or the reawakening of public interest due to campaigns staged by Michigan newspapers, great and small, to get people to the polls, no one can say with finality.

One thing is sure. Not only Michigan but the whole nation can well better their previous records.

In 1940, two out of three persons of voting age went to the polls. Four years ago barely one out of two voted. While, from '40 to '48, over 14 million more people became eligible to vote, the number of votes actually cast decreased by more than 3 million.

Only 16% of the total population elected Harry Truman president. Whether his election was good or bad depends, of course, on the political affiliation of the assayer. But no patriotic American, Democrat or Republican, will be happy over a decision made by such a minority of his countrymen.

If Michigan voters don't break all records come November, it won't be for a lack of the wooling. Campaign plans on both sides of this fence call for the most concerted onslaught on the electorate in history.

Michigan is a key state in both national campaigns and neither the GOP nor the Democrats can count it in the bag. That's why both Ike and Adlai have, and will make major speeches here.

That's the one in the Eleventh District, bordering the Straits. Potter left its Congressional seat to seek a place in the Senate. In the Republican primary, Victor A. Knox of the Soc was chosen to carry the GOP standard and is expected to be a shoe-in come November.

That leaves Knox's old job of Speaker of the House vacant. Who succeeds him will have a big bearing on Michigan's internal affairs.

The shutdown of Great Lakes freighter runs during the steel strike should cause no coal shortage in Michigan this winter.

The idled ships were those that hauled ore down from Lake Superior and carried coal back up on their return. Most of their loads are dumped in the Duluth area.

Michigan gets its coal in the main from Toledo and only a very slight deficit resulted from the steel strike—well under 200,000 tons.

Of course, John L. Lewis can change the picture in the flick of one of his king-size eyebrows. A coal strike—possibly to regain personal political power Lewis has lost—would play hob with more than Michigan.

Michigan lost one popular insurance policy against John L's whims.

The last working mine in Saginaw County—and in the whole Central Michigan area—closed this Summer at St. Charles. Owned cooperatively by the men who worked it, the mine was granted special dispensation by Lewis to stay open during strikes.

Many a Saginaw Valley home stayed warm during mine shutdowns, thanks to the St. Charles mine.

Today not even a tippie remains to mark the last stronghold of the once-mighty coal mining industry of Lower Michigan.

Move over, Texas!
Michigan will soon have something to brag about that even the Lone Star State can't match—a bridge five miles long, with a 3,800-foot span, soaring 565 feet above the historic Straits of Mackinac.

"The bridge is closer to reality than ever before in our history," says Prentiss M. Brown, former United States Senator and now chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Let's ask Brown a few questions that Michifanders have been wondering about:
Can a bridge be built at reasonable cost which will withstand all the forces of nature?
"Yes," asserts Brown. "Leading engineers, experienced with long-span construction says that a Straits bridge would pose no problem which hasn't already been solved."

Winds are pretty strong up at the Straits. Will we be having bridge that blow down (at Tacoma) on our hands?
"The bridge is designed to withstand 120-mile-per-hour winds; the highest ever clocked there has been 78 miles per hour. Piers and anchorages have been designed to stand under the thick ice and heavy currents of the Straits, too."

A University of Michigan professor said the rock on which the bridge would stand is cavernous and would collapse. How about that?
"He has since retracted his statement. Expert geologists have made tests that emphasize the fact that the bridge would stand on very substantial formations."

Do you have to dig far to reach solid rock?
"The south anchorage would go down 140 feet. The San Francisco Bay Bridge went down 240 feet."

How long would it take to build the bridge?
"Four or five years, depending on weather and availability of materials."
Will the bridge be useable in all kinds of weather?
"In any kind of weather you can ordinarily drive a car and, particularly, in all weather that the ferry boats can operate in."
All that sounds mighty good but there's always a joker in buying anything you like very much: How much does it cost? How do we pay for it?
Brown has an answer for that, too.
"Toll rates—exactly the same as those charged by ferries now—would pay for the $85 million project. The State would not have (Continued on Second Page)

 to obligate any of its general fund
 money for that," explains the dynamic chairman.

"Present ferry tolls gross $1.4 million a year. That wouldn't be enough to pay interest and principal but traffic experts predict
 that a bridge would increase traffic so much that in the early years
 of the bridge tolls would be $3.5
 to $4 million. That would grow,
 too, just as ferry crossings have
 in the past."

On August 22, a Saturday but nowhere near a holiday, nearly 8,500 vehicles were carried across
 the eight-mile ferry route. That was an all-time record and nearly doubled the peak load of 1942.

More than half of the present
 ferry business comes from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and points east.
 These are all heavily populated
 and rapidly growing sections of our nation. The potential added
 tourist trade from these parts
 hasn't been touched yet. The bridge itself would lure tens of thousands of visitors and its convenience would take many more
 along US-2 for transcontinental
 travel, says men who study traffic trends.

There's another economic factor involved in crossing the Straits.
 The State loses more than a
 half-million dollars annually operating ferry service. As demands
 increase—as they do every year
 —that deficit gets larger.

The $8 to $9 million invested
 in new boats and docks in the past three years would have built
 a lot of State highways, Brown
 points out.

Upper Peninsula businessmen
 would purchase many more of their requirements from Lower
 Michigan instead of Wisconsin
 and Illinois if a bridge speeded
 transportation.

"Scores of businessmen hesi-
 tate to expand above the Straits
 because they cannot depend upon
 the arrival of shipments on schedule," says Brown. He knows, too, because he spent most of his life on the northern shores of
 the Straits. "They can't afford
 to tie up their men and equipment
 waiting for ferries, either."

He envisions the new bridge
 transfusing fresh economic blood
 into the UP Country which hasn't been flush since the days of the copper and lumber booms. And that, he contends, will help the financial security of all Michigan-
 ers.

Sen. Brown's group was formed by the Legislature in 1950 to study the physical and economic feasibility of the bridge. After it reported that no real obstacles
 stand in the way, the Authority was empowered to finance and build the structure.

Since then the Authority has
 been ringing doorbells to find the millions needed for the job. It has applied to the Reconstruction
 Finance Corporation for such a loan and has invited private financial firms to bid on bonds it
 would issue.

The latter have reported that without the State underwriting the
 loan to some extent, such bonds
 would be hard to sell. The law
 creating the Authority prohibits pledging the faith and credit of the State so it appears that the RFC is the key.

A report due any day now is expected to lend much weight to the Authority's arguments. It's by Conventdale & Colpitta, New York
 traffic experts, who made previous reports and now are bringing data up to date that the Authority feels sure will demonstrate
 both to RFC and private financiers that their investment would
 be sound and profitable.

"For fifty years the people of Michigan have dreamed about
 a bridge to link the two great
 peninsulas of our state," Brown
 recalls. "We believe that if people
 can have the bridge at no greater cost than they now pay for ferries, they would much prefer it."

"I know that many people enjoy the boat ride across the Straits.
 Most people enjoy a horse-and-buggy ride, too. But they wouldn't swap their auto for a surrey with a fringe on top."

"Barring upheavals in the international situation, it appears that
 a bridge at the Straits is virtually on its way," observes the former senator.

Texas! Better do your bragging
 now; Michigan is coming up with
 a real whopper!

"Wanna buy a raffle ticket for
 a poor widow?"
 "No, but I'll take two on a rich
 widow."

Use DHIA Record
 To Boost Profit
 From Dairy Herd

Many farmers aren't making
 full use of the profit-making opportunities provided by dairy herd
 improvement association records.

There are three methods of improving the efficiency of Michigan dairy herds through information provided in DHIA records,
 says George E. Parsons, Michigan
 State College extension dairy specialist.

For one thing, DHIA records
 provide a reliable record from which a dairyman can retain or cull animals from his herd. "There
 are two kinds of cows," Parsons
 explains, "those which keep the dairyman and those which the dairyman keeps." These records
 will help put the non-profitable
 animals in the slaughter house
 where they belong.

The DHIA records also provide a basis for a sensible feeding program. In addition the yearly records provide the basis for a sound breeding program. This third value of DHIA records is a big one.

porting all of the lactation records, a proof will be assembled
 and reported on the herd sire. To further make use of these records
 the dairyman should refer to the
 back section of the DHIA book
 for instructions on how to make
 a herd analysis.

A herd analysis will show in an easy-to-read graphic form what
 has been happening in the herd
 during the years while it was on test. Parsons says it will show certain families of cows within
 the herd which have been consistent good. From such a family you will want to save heifer
 and bull calves.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:
We have news from two different members of the Young family this week. Carl, over in Germany, sent in a change of address as follows: Sgt. Carl J. Young, RA, 16 294 265, 514th Ord MAM Co, APO 21, C/O PM, New York, N.Y. Carl still hasn't give me his location in Germany so I can't pass that on to you men over there. However, you might keep on the lookout for the 514th trucks here and there.
Hershel Young checked in from Port Lyant with the following letter: "Well, here are a few lines from Port Lyant, French Morocco — just to catch you up on this part of the Med. area. We are all fine over here. It is a little cooler now, especially in the evening and the morning. The rainy season will be setting in soon.
"I see a lot of Clare Loomis. He is up for the weekend a short time ago.
"Well, Jake, I am equipped to take some moving pictures now. When I get home I will show you all the modern changes of North Africa. Lots of people would not believe the things that are going on here. The Arabs are after their own independence and I can see why they should not be allowed it. They are away behind life in many ways. But it is through no fault of their own. The French have so many restrictions on them. Well, enough of that for now.
"I will be staying over here an extra year. This is pretty good duty."
Thanks for the letter, Hersh — don't forget that Champagne.
Fred Holland writes from Edinburgh, Scotland — "Seem like the only time I ever write you is when I have a change of address or something. Approximately 16 days ago (Aug 26th) we left the States from Newport in company with 14 other ships enroute to Edinborough, Scotland arriving here about 9:00 yesterday morning. The reason it took us so long to cross was because we underwent a pretty extensive training program in preparation for "Operation Main Brace" which takes place during the next two weeks. If the Navy is working true to form then you people back home probably know more about what we are doing and will be doing then we do ourselves. So you probably are familiar with "Operation Main Brace", that it is a NATO operation and just about the largest gathering of ships in naval history. By the time we got over here we had joined up with over a hundred ships from the States alone.
"After "Main Brace" we will proceed down to the Med. for the remainder of a 6 months cruise. Having never been over here before I have great hopes and expectations. I haven't been on the beach over here as yet but tomorrow I'll be on that first liberty boat!"
Thanks for writing, Fred. Let us know how this operation "Main Brace" turns out. Fred is in Group I "O" Division aboard the USS Cogswell, DD 851. If any of you other sailors are in that vicinity you had better make your presence known to Fred.
We have the address of two new army men this week. Larry Whiteford and Burton Bunker who entered the service on September 8, 1952. Their addresses are Pvt Laurence Whiteford, US 55 288 501, Btry B, 7th Tng Bn, A.A.A.R.T.C., Fort Bliss, Texas. Larry's dad informs me that these two left at the same time and have been assigned to the same outfit.
Fred Burbank, who some time ago wrote that interesting letter about Gibraltar, and who was in a little peeved at his sister for letting me have it for this letter, is due to leave the Mediterranean for home sometime around October 23rd. We will hope to see you get home, Fred.
The wedding bells are going to ring for another member of our service people. Frances Lenosky will be getting her discharge on October 16th and is placing herself under the control (?) of the stronger (?) sex shortly after that. Got anything to publish about it, Frances?
Don Dixon wound up that old typewriter again this last week and here is the result. "Hi Jake — I thought it was about time that I dropped you a line to let you know that I am still living in the good south. However, I would much rather be up north where there is some snow in winter. I have been in the Navy 20 months and have spent 17 of them here in Norfolk. I don't like it very well but there is not much I can do about it.
"I saw Glen Persons last weekend and ate dinner with him aboard his ship. Then we saw the movie and had a good talk about home.
"I have to agree with Joe Hammond on guys coming into the service. It is no place for kids because there are a lot of things that I would rather not have a kid of mine to see or hear in this outfit. I wish that I were out of here but it is this or the army and this is better — I think.

"We have been having some good weather down here for the last two weeks but they have been working me pretty hard."
Thanks for the letter, Don. I sure am glad to hear from you again and we welcome your comments on this suitability of the services for young people. Don't you agree with me, however, that after a fellow is out of High School and the draft is sure to get him soon that it is better to enlist than to just wait around doing nothing?
Ed Streeter told me this last week that Larry was in town on leave. Guess he must have spent most of his time out of town or sleeping. Anyway, I didn't get to see him.
Dave Wade is still in evidence around town. He is due to leave this Friday, the 26th. I just saw him tonight and it seemed to me that Dave has lost a little weight. At least those pleats in his trousers don't stretch out like they used to.
Guess things are picking up again out in Korea. It make one wonder just what they are trying to settle out there.
So Long Men

It is not thrift to keep old dishes. Fall cleaning time is an opportunity to get rid of chipped and cracked dishes — especially cups. MSC home economists say when the glaze is worn or chipped from dishes they simply cannot be sterilized and hence they may be a health hazard.

FARM FACTS
from your County
Agricultural Agent
Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

FRESHENING COWS IN FALL

There are several advantages to the dairymen which should encourage the practice of breeding cows for fall freshening, Ed Rebman, county agent said today. A summary of DHIA records of cows in Michigan during 1951 showed these cows freshening during September, October, and November produced more milk and butterfat than cows freshening during other months of the year. The income over feed cost was $232 per cow for those freshening during these fall months as compared to $212 per cow for those freshening during March, April and May.
The feed cost was slightly higher for the cows freshening in the fall than those in the spring but the increase in production and higher price for milk and butterfat still provided about $20 more per cow in favor of fall freshening.
Cows freshening during the fall months make possible a more even distribution of labor throughout the year. During the late fall, winter, and early spring there is more time to spend with the dairy herd that will help to obtain maximum production. Calves born in the fall will usually make better growth since they are in the barn for the first six or eight months when they will receive better care and then be of such age and size by the following spring that they will be able to make good use of pasture.
Fall freshening is of particular importance to those dairymen selling whole milk for most fluid milk markets since these are the months in which milk base is established.
It is not always easy to breed cows so they will freshen during the fall months. However, a greater percentage of cows would freshen in the fall if the herd was managed with this goal in mind.

PROTECT YOUR TRACTOR

Much of the horse power found on the farm today is under the hood of a tractor or truck rather than on the four feet in the form of draft horses, Ed Rebman, county agent said today. Few people exposed their work animals to the weather throughout the year. Almost every farm provided some type of housing for their power units in past years, and it is important today to still provide protection for your power units.
A gasoline engine that is protected from the elements will give longer service and more dependable service through the span of use. The little things that can go wrong with an engine that cause delay in starting and irritation to the operator can many times be eliminated when proper protection is afforded a gas engine.
Housing in the form of a large tarpaulin covering the entire unit may afford the same protection as a machine shed. However, it is much easier to run the tractor in a machine shed than to get a tarpaulin and cover it every time we crawl off the tractor.
Protection of the other farm implements shows good management practices. An all metal machine may give quite a long life even though it is exposed to the elements if the metal is treated with some type of rust preventive such as oil or paint.

However, machines that have parts such as rubber belts, wooden shafts, flexible couplings, exposed bearings, canvas aprons and rather fine adjustments all need protection or the life of the machine is bound to be shortened. Such parts that deteriorate rapidly can be removed from the machine and housed separately. However, many times this is a time consuming operation. Even a tarpaulin cannot protect some of the less durable parts.
Several studies have been made during the past years to show the economic value of housing for farm equipment. Where protection was given to parts of the machines that will deteriorate rapidly the studies have shown that housing has not afforded any great economical advantage in the length of the machine life or the wear from moving parts. It is much easier and much simpler to put machines under a roof than to depend on removing the less durable parts. Machinery that has been housed generally gives less trouble in field operation and requires less expense for maintenance.

CHECK GRAIN HEATING IN STORAGE

Is your grain heating in storage?
"Better check to be sure, cautions Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Frequently grain which looks and feels dry at the time it goes into the bin may start to heat several weeks after harvest, he explains.
Grain should be down to 14 per cent moisture or less for safe storage, reminds Rebman. Take samples from several points in the bin to get representative grain, he advises, and have it checked at your local elevator for moisture.
Green weed seed and trash often cause heating in directly combined grain. These may be removed by running grain over a fanning mill. The same operation will cool off any grain that may have started to heat.
Moderate heating, undetected in the bin, can impair germination. Rebman recommends checking germination of any home grown seed grain before spring planting.
Weevils multiply rapidly in warm grain and can destroy large quantities of feed. If a check shows more than one weevil per quart of grain, farmers should obtain full fumigation instructions from Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, at Boyne City.

Famous Broadway reporter Maurice Zolotow writes a surprising explanation for her spectacular career, Sunday in The Chicago Herald American.

SEEDLING AND TRANSPLANTS NOW AVAILABLE

Forest tree seedlings and transplants are now available to farmers in Charlevoix county. The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District will have about 30,000 red pine for this fall planting. These trees will arrive in the county next week. Anyone interested in obtaining some of these trees should contact Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent in Boyne City as soon as possible. Order blanks for trees from the Conservation Department and Michigan State College will also be available at the county extension office.
Tree planters throughout the state are faced with the problem of choosing the proper species to plant on their particular land. According to Lester Bell, extension forester at Michigan State College, each species of tree has specific soil and environmental requirements. Bell says some trees do best on dry sandy sites while others prefer lower moist sites, some prefer acid soils, others want alkaline conditions; some need open areas where they will get full sunlight, others do best under partial shade.
According to Bell, the site preferences of most of our common species of trees have been pretty well catalogued by foresters and botanists. "Now," he states, "our big problem is to select the proper species for planting on each of the sites that we wish to reforest."
In general, Bell states that Scots and Jack pine are best adapted for droughty light sandy soils. Red pine likes a well drained sandy loam and white pines do best on the more fertile loams with a fairly high water table. The spruces should be planted on well drained loamy soils not subject to droughty conditions.
The spruces and white pine should not be planted on south and west slopes where they will be subjected to hot drying winds and high soil temperatures. Such slopes are better adapted to the growing of Jack, Scots and red pines.

Bowling News

Once again the pins are falling and the 1952-53 Bowling Season has officially started. The bowling alley has a new look this year, with newly decorated walls and upholstery.

Merchant's League started Sept. 8th with three new sponsors replacing Sommerville's, Recreation, and State Farm Ins.

This year finds Dave Clark bowling regularly on the Super Market Team with his father as a team-mate. Don has found tough competition these first few weeks with him.

The Ladies League started the league's rolling by bowling Sept. 4th. They again have 16 teams, which shows that the women really are enthusiastic about bowling. Two new sponsors replace Quality Food and B & B Drive In. Several new bowlers are in the line-ups and most of the old bowlers are back.

The 700 League has made the most changes. New sponsors, new faces, and a women's team is filling in for the sixth team. This will be the first time in E.J. to try this but it has worked successfully in larger cities.

The foundry league, the only league with one sponsor, is now organized and in their third week of bowling.

Charlevoix is again bowling in East Jordan, in a Wednesday night spot. Their Secretary is Mr. Ray Kipke.

Changes appear again in the Inter-City League, which is made up of East Jordan, Central Lake and Ellsworth teams. Consumer's Powers moved into the league replacing Rainbow Bar.

The High School league is being organized and will start in the near future.

Marriages

Gibbard — Dollhopf

Before a candle lit altar, decorated with pink and white gladioli, on Saturday, Sept. 13, at the College Lutheran Church at East Lansing, Ruby Jean Gibbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gibbard of East Jordan, became the bride of Carl H. Dollhopf of Romulus.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon tulle ballerina length gown with a lace jacket with cuffs of pleated nylon tulle, matching the skirt of pleated nylon tulle. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a lace cap, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Gisela Dollhopf, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid. She wore a pastel pink nylon net strapless ballerina length gown with a matching net stole, and carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations.

The brides mother wore a navy blue crepe dress and a corsage of red roses. The grooms mother wore a dress of maroon iridescent taffeta and a corsage of red roses. Mr. Richard Dierks of Detroit, served his friend as best man. George Frith of Detroit served as usher. Reverend Herbert C. Wolf performed the double ring ceremony.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony for about forty relatives and friends. Miss Jean Hulbert of Hastings, Miss Pat Stevens of Iron Mountain and Miss Carolyn McFall of Detroit College friends of the bride, served the guests a beautiful three tiered wedding cake decorated with pastel pink rosebuds, and punch, coffee, sandwiches and relishes.

The young couple then left on a wedding trip through Buffalo, N.Y., Niagara Falls, and through Canada, arriving at East Jordan the following Friday.

The bride was a graduate of East Jordan High School with the class of 1949, and is now employed at Michigan State College. The groom is in his senior year at M.S.C.

They will live at the M.S.C. trailer camp at East Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gibbard attended the wedding.

On Friday, Sept. 19th, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. the bride was given a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents. About 30 friends, relatives, and classmates were present. Mrs. Bill Srockki, Miss Pat Simmons, Mrs. Leslie Gibbard and Mrs. Glen Young were hostesses. The guests were served coffee, sandwiches and cake, two of which were made by Mrs. Burl Braman. The couple received many lovely and useful gifts.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Michigan voters cast twice as many votes in the 1952 primaries as they did in the last presidential year, '48.

But at least one observer isn't handing out any laurels for that record.

He's closely identified with a major political party and so he doesn't want to be named. In this close-fought campaign, one observation such as this might lose the race.

Governor Stevenson's remark about "the mess in Washington" has certainly been thrown back at him enough and Eisenhower was quick to seize upon the levity with which the Illinois governor spoke of Korea in an unguarded moment.

So this political expert stays anonymous — but not silent.

"Everybody is getting all excited because 58% of the registered voters went to the polls.

"But they completely overlook the fact that only 81% of our eligibles in Michigan are even registered. Take 58% of 81% and you get a measly total of above 21 who exercised their ballot.

"Add to that the fact that an awfully lot of the primary voters were practically hog-tied and dragged to the polls by service clubs and civic organizations that has 'Get Out The Vote' campaigns.

"Put them all together and you get a picture of a state that doesn't care a whooping darn about the most crucial election we've had in a generation. I say crucial and I don't care what party you lean toward."

In 1948, the total votes in the gubernatorial primary, in both parties, was 715,834. In August this year, there were 1,436,975 votes cast on the Republican ballot where competition was keen and on the Democratic one where Governor Williams was doing a solo act.

The same increase held in the senatorial primary. In '48 the total was 637,676 and in '52 it rose to 1,340,858.

The upswing this year isn't due entirely—or even in greater part—to a population growth. Something has kindled a fire in the voters. Whether it's the fresh personalities on the national scene, the issues of corruption that have aroused citizens in both parties, or the reawakening of public interest do to campaigns staged by Michigan newspapers, great and small, to get people to the polls, no one can say with finality.

One thing is sure. Not only Michigan but the whole nation can well better their previous records.

In 1940, two out of three persons of voting age went to the polls. Four years ago barely one out of two voted. While, from '40 to '48, over 14 million more people became eligible to vote, the number of votes actually cast decreased by more than 3 million.

Only 16% of the total population elected Harry Truman president.

Whether his election was good or bad depends, of course, on the political affiliation of the assayer. But no patriotic American, Democrat or Republican, will be happy over a decision made by such a minority of his countrymen.

If Michigan voters don't break all records come November, it won't be for a lack of the wooing. Campaign plans on both sides of the fence call for the most concerted onslaught on the electorate in history.

Michigan is a key state in both national campaigns and neither the GOP nor the Democrats can count it in the bag. That's why both Ike and Adlai have, and will make major speeches here.

The Moody-Potter senatorial campaign will be watched closely by the whole nation. That result may play a dominant part in the makeup of the new Congress.

Potter's scorching attacks on Communism may be another indication of just how much the American public is aroused and alarmed by Red infiltration. Many Michigan observers believe that Sen. MacCarthy's victory in Wisconsin was less an endorsement of his methods than approval of his vigor in fighting domestic Communism.

Potter is playing that theme for all it's worth.

One Congressional election will have more of an effect on Michigan than it customarily does.

That's the one in the Eleventh District, bordering the Straits.

Potter left its Congressional seat to seek a place in the Senate. In the Republican primary, Victor A. Knox of the Soo was chosen to carry the GOP standard and is expected to be a shoe-in come November.

That leaves Knox's old job of Speaker of the House vacant. Who succeeds him will have a big bearing on Michigan's internal affairs.

The shutdown of Great Lakes freighter runs during the steel strike should cause no coal shortage in Michigan this winter.

The idled ships were those that hauled ore down from Lake Superior and carried coal back up on their return. Most of their loads are dumped in the Duluth area.

Michigan gets its coal in the main from Toledo and only a very slight deficit resulted from the steel strike—well under 200,000 tons.

Of course, John L. Lewis can change the picture in the flick of one of his king-size eyebrows. A coal strike—possibly to regain personal political power Lewis has lost—would play hob with more than Michigan.

Michigan lost one popular insurance policy against John L's whims.

The last working mine in Saginaw County—and in the whole Central Michigan area—closed this Summer at St. Charles. Owned cooperatively by the men who worked it, the mine was granted special dispensation by Lewis to stay open during strikes.

Many a Saginaw Valley home stayed warm during mine shutdowns, thanks to the St. Charles mine.

Today not even a tippie remains to mark the last stronghold of the once-mighty coal mining industry of Lower Michigan.

(Delayed) Move over, Texas!

Michigan will soon have something to brag about that even the Lone Star State can't match—a bridge five miles long, with a 3,800-foot span, soaring 565 feet above the historic Straits of Mackinac.

"The bridge is closer to reality than ever before in our history," says Prentiss M. Brown, former United States Senator and now chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Let's ask Browner a few questions that Michifans have been wondering about:

Can a bridge be built at reasonable cost which will withstand all the forces of nature?

"Yes," asserts Brown. "Leading engineers, experienced with long-span construction says that a Straits bridge would pose no problem which hasn't already been solved.

Winds are pretty strong up at the Straits. Will we be having bridge that blew down at Tacoma) on our hands?

"The bridge is designed to withstand 120-mile-per-hour winds; the highest ever clocked there has been 78 miles per hour. Piers and anchorages have been designed to stand under the thick and heavy currents of the Straits, too."

A University of Michigan professor said the rock on which the bridge would stand is cavernous and would collapse. How about that?

Do you have to dig far to reach solid rock?

"The south anchorage would go down 140 feet. The San Francisco Bay Bridge went down 240 feet."

How long would it take to build the bridge?

to obligate any of its general fund
money for that," explains the
dynamic chairman.
"Present ferry tolls gross $1.4
million a year. That wouldn't be
enough to pay interest and principal but traffic experts predict
that a bridge would increase traffic so much that in the early years
of the bridge tolls would be $3.5
to $4 million. That would grow,
too, just as ferry crossings have
in the past."
On August 22, a Saturday but
nowhere near a holiday, nearly 8,500 vehicles were carried across
the eight-mile ferry route. That was an all-time record and nearly
doubled the peak load of 1942.

More than half of the present
ferry business comes from Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and points east.
These are all heavily populated
and rapidly growing sections of
our nation. The potential added
tourist trade from these parts
hasn't been touched yet. The bridge itself would lure tens of
thousands of visitors and its convenience would take many more
along US-2 for transcontinental
travel, says men who study traffic trends.

There's another economic factor involved in crossing the Straits.
The State loses more than a
half-million dollars annually operating ferry service. As demands
increase—as they do every year
—that deficit gets larger.

The $3 to $9 million invested
in new boats and docks in the
past three years would have built
a lot of State highways, Brown
points out.

Upper Peninsula businessmen
would purchase many more of
their requirements from Lower
Michigan instead of Wisconsin
and Illinois if a bridge speeded
transportation.

"Scores of businessmen hesi-
tate to expand above the Straits
because they cannot depend upon
the arrival of shipments on schedule," says Brown. He knows, too, because he spent most of his
life on the northern shores of
the Straits. "They can't afford
to tie up their men and equipment
waiting for ferries, either."

He envisions the new bridge
transfusing fresh economic blood
into the UP Country which hasn't
been flush since the days of the
copper and lumber booms. And
that, he contends, will help the
financial security of all Michigan-
ers.

Sen. Brown's group was formed
by the Legislature in 1950 to 1950 to study the physical and economic feasibility of the bridge.
After it reported that no real obstacles stand in the way, the Authority was empowered to finance and build the structure.

Since then the Authority has
been ringing doorbells to find the millions needed for the job. It
has applied to the Reconstruction
Finance Corporation for such a
loan and has invited private financial firms to bid on bonds it
would issue.

The latter have reported that
without the State underwriting the
loan to some extent, such bonds
would be hard to sell. The law
creating the Authority prohibits
pledging the faith and credit of
the State so it appears that the
RFC is the key.

A report due any day now is
expected to lend much weight to
the Authority's arguments. It's by Converdale & Colpitts, New York
traffic experts, who made previous reports and now are bringing data up to date that the Authority feels sure, will demonstrate
both to RFC and private financi-
ers that their investment would
be sound and profitable.

"For fifty years the people of Michigan have dreamed about
a bridge to link the two great
peninsulas of our state," Brown
recalls. "We believe that if people
can have the bridge at no greater
cost that they now pay for ferries, they would much prefer it."
"I know that many people enjoy the boat ride across the Straits. Most people enjoy a horse-and-buggy ride, too. But they wouldn't swap their auto for a surrey with a fringe on top."
"Barring upheavals in the international situation, it appears that
a bridge at the Straits is virtually on its way," observes the former senator.

Texas! Better do your bragging
now; Michigan is coming up with
a real whopper!

"Wanna buy a raffle ticket for
a poor widow?"
"No, but I'll take two on a rich
widow."

Use DHIA Record To Boost Profit From Dairy Herd

Many farmers aren't making
full use of the profit-making opportunities provided by dairy herd
improvement association records.
There are three methods of improving the efficiency of Michigan dairy herds through information provided in DHIA records,
says George E. Parsons, Michigan
State College extension dairy specialist.

For one thing, DHIA records
provide a reliable record from
which a dairyman can retain or
cull animals from his herd. "There
are two kinds of cows," Parsons
explains, "those which keep the
dairyman and those which the
dairyman keeps." These records
will help put the non-profitable
animals in the slaughter house
where they belong.

porting all of the lactation re-
cords, a proof will be assembled
and reported on the herd sire. To
further make use of these records
the dairyman should refer to the
back section of the DHIA book
for instructions on how to make
a herd analysis.

A herd analysis will show in an
easy-to-read graphic form what
has been happening in the herd
during the years while it was on
test. Parsons says it will show
certain families of cows within
the herd which have been consistently good. From such a family you will want to save heifer
and bull calves.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

No Longer Two Sides
to This Question!

Ever seen those two-family
houses they have in some places—with separate front doors and porches—side by side? My sister owns half of one and lives in it, near Philadelphia.

Nice little frame home. Only Sis painted her half brown and the other family always painted theirs green. Ruined the effect—but for years neither family ever thought of suggesting that they both decide on a common shade.

Now Sis writes that their two-toned home is no longer. "I mentioned we were going to repaint,"

she says. "And they said let's get a color we all like. So we did. A nice shade of gray for both sides."

From where I sit, so often when there's a difference of opinion it's best to sit right down and work things out (like when our volunteer firemen decided to serve both lemonade and beer at their annual picnic last month). Don't let prejudices "color" your opinion of your neighbor. He'll probably be quite as open-minded as you are.

The Servicemen's Letter

Hi Fellas:
We have news from two different members of the Young family this week. Carl, over in Germany, sent in a change of address as follows: Sgt. Carl J. Young, RA 16 294 265, 514th Ord MAM Co, APO 21, C/o PM, New York, N.Y. Carl still hasn't give me his location in Germany so I can't pass that on to you men over there. However, you might keep on the lookout for the 514th trucks here and there.

Hershel Young checked in from Port Lyante with the following letter: "Well, here are a few lines from Port Lyante, French Morocco — just to catch you up on this part of the Med. area. We are all fine over here. It is a little cooler now, especially in the evening and the morning. The rainy season will be setting in soon.

"I see a lot of Clare Loomis. He is up the hill from us. He was out for the weekend a short time ago.

"Well, Jake, I am equipped to take some moving pictures now. When I get home I will show you all the modern changes of North Africa. Lots of people would not believe the things that are going on here. The Arabs are after their own independence and I can see why they should not be allowed it. They are away behind life in many ways. But it is through no fault of their own. The French have so many restrictions on them. Well, enough of that for now.

"I will be staying over here an extra year. This is pretty good duty."

Thanks for the letter, Hersh — don't forget that Champagne.

Fred Holland writes from Edinburgh, Scotland — "Seem like the only time I ever write you is when I have a change of address or something. Approximately 16 days ago (Aug 26th) we left the States from Newport in company with 14 other ships enroute to Edinburgh, Scotland arriving here about 9:00 yesterday morning. The reason it took us so long to cross was because we underwent a pretty extensive training program in preparation for "Operation Main Brace" which takes place during the next two weeks. If the Navy is working true to form then you people back home probably know more about what we are doing and will be doing then we do ourselves. So you probably are familiar with "Operation Main Brace", that it is a NATO operation and just about the largest gathering of ships in naval history. By the time we got over here we had joined up with over a hundred ships from the States alone.

"After "Main Brace" we will proceed down to the Med. for the remainder of a 6 months cruise. Having never been over here before I have great hopes and expectations. I haven't been on the beach over here as yet but tomorrow I'll be on that first liberty boat!"

Thanks for writing, Fred. Let us know how this operation "Main Brace" turns out. Fred is in Group I "O" Division aboard the USS Cogswell, DD 651. If any of you other sailors are in that vicinity you had better make your presence known to Fred.

We have the address of two new army men this week. Larry Whiteford and Burton Bunker who entered the service on September 8, 1952. Their addresses are Pvt Laurence Whiteford, US 55 288 501, Btry B, 7th Tng Bn, A.A.A.R.T.C., Fort Bliss, Texas. Larry's dad informs me that these two left at the same time and have been assigned to the same outfit.

Fred Burbank, who some time ago wrote that interesting letter about Gibraltar, and who was a little peeved at his sister for letting me have it for this letter, is due to leave the Mediterranean for home sometime around October 23rd. We will hope to see you get home, Fred.

The wedding bells are going to ring for another member of our service people. Frances Lenosky will be getting her discharge on October 16th and is placing herself under the control (?) of the stronger (?) sex shortly after that. Got anything to publish about it, Frances?

Don Dixon wound up that old typewriter again this last week and here is the result. "Hi Jake — I thought it was about time that I dropped you a line to let you know that I am still living in the good south. However, I would much rather be up north where there is some snow in winter. I have been in the Navy 20 months and have spent 17 of them here in Norfolk. I don't like it very well but there is not much I can do about it.

I saw Glen Persons last weekend and ate dinner with him aboard his ship. Then we saw the movie and had a good talk about home.

"I have to agree with Joe Hammond on guys coming into the service. It is no place for kids because there are a lot of things that I would rather not have a kid of mine to see or hear in this outfit. I wish that I were out of here but it is this or the army and this is better — I think.

"We have been having some good weather down here for the last two weeks but they have been working me pretty hard."

Thanks for the letter, Don. I sure am glad to hear from you again and we welcome your comments on this suitability of the services for young people. Don't you agree with me, however, that after a fellow is out of High School and the draft is sure to get him soon that it is better to enlist than to just wait around doing nothing?

Ed Streeter told me this last week that Larry was in town on leave. Guess he must have spent most of his time out of town or sleeping. Anyway, I didn't get to see him.

Dave Wade is still in evidence around town. He is due to leave this Friday, the 26th. I just saw him tonight and it seemed to me that Dave has lost a little weight. At least those pleats in his trousers don't stretch out like they used to.

Guess things are picking up again out in Korea. It make one wonder just what they are trying to settle out there.

So Long Men
"Jake" Snyder

It is not thrift to keep old dishes. Fall cleaning time is an opportunity to get rid of chipped and cracked dishes — especially cups. MSC home economists say when the glaze is worn or chipped from dishes they simply cannot be sterilized and hence they may be a health hazard.

FARM FACTS
from your County
Agricultural Agent
Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

FRESHENING COWS IN FALL

There are several advantages to the dairymen which should encourage the practice of breeding cows for fall freshening. Ed Rebman, county agent said today. A summary of DHIA records of cows in Michigan during 1951 showed these cows freshening during September, October, and November produced more milk and butterfat than cows freshening during other months of the year. The income over feed cost was $282 per cow for those freshening during these fall months as compared to $212 per cow for those freshening during March, April and May.

The feed cost was slightly higher for the cows freshening in the fall than those in the spring but the increase in production and higher price for milk and butterfat still provided about $20 more per cow in favor of fall freshening.

Cows freshening during the fall months make possible a more even distribution of labor throughout the year. During the late fall, winter, and early spring there is more time to spend with the dairy herd that will help to obtain maximum production. Calves born in the fall will usually make better growth since they are in the barn for the first six or eight months when they will receive better care and then be of such age and size by the following spring that they will be able to make good use of pasture.

Fall freshening is of particular importance to those dairymen selling whole milk for most fluid milk markets since these are the months in which milk base is established.

It is not always easy to breed cows so they will freshen during the fall months. However, a greater percentage of cows would freshen in the fall if the herd was managed with this goal in mind.

PROTECT YOUR TRACTOR

Much of the horse power found on the farm today is under the hood of a tractor or truck rather than on the four feet in the form of draft horses, Ed Rebman, county agent said today. Few people exposed their work animals to the weather throughout the year. Almost every farm provided some type of housing for their power units in past years, and it is important today to still provide protection for your power units.

A gasoline engine that is protected from the elements will give longer service and more dependable service through the span of use. The little things that can go wrong with an engine that cause delay in starting and irritation to the operator can many times be eliminated when proper protection is afforded a gas engine.

Housing in the form of a large tarpaulin covering the entire unit may afford the same protection as a machine shed. However, it is much easier to run the tractor under a machine shed than to get a tarpaulin and cover it every time we crawl off the tractor.

even though it is exposed to the elements if the metal is treated with some type of rust preventative such as oil or paint.

However, machines that have parts such as rubber belts, wooden shafts, flexible couplings, exposed bearings, canvas aprons and, rather fine adjustments all need protection or the life of the machine is bound to be shortened. Such parts that deteriorate rapidly can be removed from the machine and housed separately. However, many times this is a time consuming operation. Even a tarpaulin cannot protect some of the less durable parts.

Several studies have been made during the past years to show the economic value of housing for farm equipment. Where protection was given to parts of the machines that will deteriorate rapidly the studies have shown that housing has not afforded any great economical advantage in the length of the machine life or the wear from moving parts. It is much easier and much simpler to put machines under a roof than to depend on removing the less durable parts. Machinery that has been housed generally gives less trouble in field operation and requires less expense for maintenance.

Is your grain heating in storage?

Better check to be sure, cautions Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. Frequently grain which looks and feels dry at the time it goes into the bin may start to heat several weeks after harvest, he explains.

Grain should be down to 14 percent moisture or less for safe storage, reminds Rebman. Take samples from several points in the bin to get representative grain, he advises, and have it checked at your local elevator for moisture.

Green weed seed and trash often cause heating in directly combined grain. These may be removed by running grain over a fanning mill. The same operation will cool off any grain that may have started to heat.

Moderate heating, undetected in the bin, can impair germination. Rebman recommends checking germination of any home grown seed grain before spring planting. Weevils multiply rapidly in warm grain and can destroy large quantities of feed. If a check shows more than one weevil per quart of grain, farmers should obtain full fumigation instructions from Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, at Boyne City.

SEEDLING AND TRANSPLANTS NOW AVAILABLE

Forest tree seedlings and transplants are now available to farmers in Charlevoix county. The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District will have about 30,000 red pine for this fall planting. These trees will arrive in the county next week. Anyone interested in obtaining some of these trees should contact Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent in Boyne City as soon as possible. Order blanks for trees from the Conservation Department and Michigan State College will also be available at the county extension office.

Tree planters throughout the state are faced with the problem of choosing the proper species to plant on their particular land. According to Lester Bell, extension forester at Michigan State College, each species of tree has specific soil and environmental requirements. Bell says some trees do best on dry sandy sites while others prefer lower moist sites, some prefer acid soils, others want alkaline conditions; some need open areas where they will get full sunlight, others do best under partial shade.

According to Bell, the site preferences of most of our common species of trees have been pretty well catalogued by foresters and botanists. "Now," he states, "our big problem is to select the proper species for planting on each of the sites that we wish to reforest."

In general, Bell states that Scots and Jack pine are best adapted for droughty light sandy soils. Red pine likes a well drained sandy loam and white pines do best on the more fertile loams with a fairly high water table. The spruces should be planted on well drained loamy soils not subject to droughty conditions.

The spruces and white pine should not be planted on south and west slopes where they will be subjected to hot drying winds and high soil temperatures. Such slopes are better adapted to the growing of Jack, Scots and red pines.
