2012 BASEBALL/SOFTBALL SEASON PREVIEW

PART 1 OF 2

Boyne City Softball

Lady Ramblers to be competitive.
Solid defense, timely offense will be keys to victory.

By Chris Fiel

BOYNE CITY – The Lady Ramblers will be young with only two players that return from last season's team. Those two are senior Ketrin Hocquard and junior Jessica Sellisen.

The Ramblers also welcome senior transfer Tanner McCune to the roster along with Tess Seelye who did not play as a junior.

"We expect to be competitive," veteran Rambler coach Sandy Clausen said. "We're young, but talented as we have five underclassmen, it all depends on how they develop."

"I think most games will come down to who can put the most runs on the board."

Boyne will look to Hocquard and Sellisen to lead the offense as well as get key contributions from many of the underclassmen that swing the bat hard.

The pitching duties will be split between a trio of athletes with both Tanner McCune and Rainy McCune seeing action along with freshmen Katelyn Banner.

Boyne City Baseball

Boyne baseball looking to find identity.
Young group of upstarts very coachable.

By Chris Fiel

BOYNE CITY – With only returning a pair of starters of last seasons Lake Michigan Conference co-championship team, Boyne City coach Todd Shumaker knows there may be some growing pains.

"We are young; we're working on all of the fundamentals; hitting, throwing, fielding, base running, etc."

The coach said. "This group is very coachable, were trying guys at new spots, learning new positions, but they listen, they don't argue and so far we like what we see in practice, it will be a learning process for everyone."

After losing seven starters to graduation, with three of them playing ball at the colligate level, the Ramblers will rely heavily on the two returnees, those two starters, Elliott Hausler and Zeek Beek will look to lead Boyne.

Hausler will be the top hurler for Boyne City and will look to use the experience he gained last spring to mow down opposing hitters.

"We are a junior heavy group," Shumaker noted. "We look good at times, they know we will make mistakes and we will learn from them going forward." "Once we get past that learning process, we will be pretty sound. The goal is to be playing good ball at the end of the year."

When asked about who will take over the offensive leadership for the Ramblers this season, the coach wasn't really sure.

"A lot of it has to do with the new bats that we have to use this season," he said. The MHSAA has changed the bats from the BESR rating to the new BBCOR rating.

"From what limited use we have seen, the new bats don't have as much "pop" as the BESR bats, this will make more teams hit singles and look to manufacture runs as opposed to hitting the long ball. We really don't know who is going to lead us offensively this season."

The Ramblers will look to answer some of those questions as they have a scrimmage prior to their first conference double-header on April 13 as they travel to Elk Rapids.

Allergy Proof Your Home

By Sandy Cook

It's amazing what people can be allergic to. Foods, animals, molds, dust, pollens, chemicals, insect stings or bites – the list is long. This article focuses on common airborne allergens and looks at methods for allergy-proofing your home.

First, let's go over some of the more common, allergy-related terminology.

- Allergen: A substance that your body regards as alien and as an irritant, thus triggering an allergic reaction. House dust, consisting of both indoor and outdoor elements, dust mites, dander, molds and pollens are common allergens. These sneeze-inducing annoyances can be carried on animals or found in upholstered furniture, carpets, drapes, towels – you name it. Remember, though late summer is generally the most allergy-intensive time, indoor allergens are a constant throughout the year.
- Allergic Rhinitis: Commonly known as hay fever.
- Allergy: An extreme reaction to an allergen, as a result of the release of histamine or histamine-like substances into affected cells. Note that some allergic-type responses, like asthma, are thought by some to be prompted by stress. Ask your doctor about this if you've any doubts.
- Anaphylaxis: Life-threatening response to an allergen. If this occurs, do not hesitate. Find a doctor! Symptoms: Wheezing or difficulty in breathing, lightheadedness or dizziness (indicating lowered blood pressure), rapid or irregular heartbeat, possible swelling or hives, and unconsciousness.
- Animal Dander: It is not normally fur or feathers that act as allergens, but rather animal (or even human) dander, also known as dandruff. It's best to be tested by an allergist for dander hypersensitivity.
- HEPA (High-Efficiency Particulate Air): This label is seen on specially built air filters that, with their microscopic pores, can filter out allergens. To reduce airborne allergens, equip your air conditioning or heating units with such filters. You can also purchase, at reasonable prices, HEPA-adapted vacuum cleaners.
- Histamine: A substance released by your immune system after an encounter with an allergen. This results in annoying symptoms like sneezing, runny noses, watery eyes, itching and swelling.
- Immunotherapy: At present, this is the only long-term treatment available to desensitize allergy sufferers. This involves a series of shots, over a space of years, with each successive shot containing an increased amount of the allergen in question. While possibly unpleasant, such treatment has a high success rate, and could allow you to keep that beloved pet.
- RAST (Radioallergosorbent Test): The blood test that allows physicians to pinpoint allergies. It also rates the degree of your sensitivity.

Now, what can one do about their allergies?

As stated above, shots may be required. In any case, if at all possible, you'll want to remove whatever's causing the problem. This could mean getting rid of a wood-burning stove, some overstuffed and possibly dust-mite infested furniture, or even all carpeting, which houses hoards of potentially dangerous microscopic critters.

You'll also want to clean – clean every surface, and wash all fabrics. Upholstery, drapes, towels and bedding should be cleaned thoroughly and on a regular basis. Also, hard surfaces like window sills, floors, walls, cabinet fronts and interiors and countertops need to be washed down. Even with the utmost care, it may be a full six months before the full benefits are reaped.

If it's a matter of pets, you've got choices. There are always shots or doctor-prescribed oral medication for less severe cases. If the pet remains indoors, ideally someone else can care for it. This person would also wash the animal often. If you do this, you avoid excessive contact, and the cleaner the animal is, the less dander will be spread. Throw in a good vacuuming at least twice a week, and you're on your way to a healthier, less allergic, you. Of course, you might choose to keep the animal outdoors. Still, where an animal is concerned, always stop to ask yourself if the treatment you're considering is the best thing for it. It may simply be that you need to find a new and loving home for your furry or feathered friend.

Allergies can pop up in anyone in any stage of life. For more details, call your doctor or check on-line for web sites that specialize in allergy prevention.

What to do about allergies:

- Get a RAST (Radioallergosorbent Test) to help your doctor pinpoint your allergies and rate your degree of sensitivity.
- Undergo immunotherapy, which, at present, is the only long-term treatment available to desensitize allergy sufferers.
- Purchase a HEPA (High-Efficiency Particulate Air) filter equipped air-conditioning or heating unit that filters out allergens from the air in your home.
- You will probably want to remove whatever's causing the problem from your home, whether it's a wood-burning stove, certain furniture or fabrics or even carpet.
- Clean every surface, and wash all fabrics including upholstery, drapes, towels and bedding and hard surfaces like window sills, floors, walls, cabinet fronts and interiors and countertops.
- If the culprit is a pet, you may opt for immunotherapy. You may designate someone else in the home to take care of the pet and wash it often. You may even decide to find a new and loving home for your faithful friend.
- Learn more by contacting your doctor or researching such websites as that of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology at www.aaaai.org.

Mackinac Bridge included in "Light it Blue" for autism-awareness campaign

The Mackinac Bridge Authority (MBA), in partnership with Lt. Gov. Brian Calley, Corner Pieces, and the Autistic Children's Treatment Network (ACT), will hosted a special public bridge-viewing ceremony at the St. Ignace Country Club in St. Ignace on April 2 in honor of Global Autism Awareness Day. "Light It Blue Michigan" is an autism-awareness campaign launched by Corner Pieces, a non-profit organization based in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., dedicated to improving the well being of children and families living with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). The Mackinac Bridge was lit blue at sundown on April 2 to kick off the month-long campaign.

"This is another important milestone involving the Mackinac Bridge and the health of Michigan citizens," said William H. Gnodtke, MBA Board Chair. "By being a part of this great program, hopefully we will not only raise awareness about autism, but also help increase support for families coping with this disorder."

ASD is a neurodevelopment disorder that affects a child's ability to communicate and socialize with others, and usually appears within a child's first three years. Over 15,000 children in Michigan have autism, fourth-largest in the U.S. More children will be diagnosed with autism this year than with AIDS, diabetes and cancer combined; there is no medical detection or cure for autism.

Lt. Gov. Brian Calley, an outspoken advocate of expanding Michigan's health care coverage for children affected by autism, will be the featured speaker at the event. "Setting our state's most iconic structure aglow in blue will send a strong message about the importance of helping children with autism," said Calley, whose 5-year-old daughter Reagan is being treated for autism. "I greatly appreciate Light It Blue Michigan's work to highlight this vital health issue." Additional speakers are expected to include Corner Pieces President Ben Duff, ACT President Murray D. Wikol, DTE Energy officials, and others.

ACT President Murray D. Wikol and his wife Nanette, known as pioneers in the fight to diagnose and treat autism, are sponsoring the ceremony at the St. Ignace Country Club. Since 1995, Wikol has shared his passion throughout the United States and abroad by investing heavily in autism research and education. Wikol also is the longest-serving member of the MBA Board. The Wikol's daughter Anika was diagnosed with autism when she was 14 months old.

In addition to the Mackinac Bridge, other locations participating in "Light It Blue Michigan" included the GM Renaissance Center, DTE Energy offices, the Motor City Casino, Madonna University, and Wayne State University. PART 2 OF 3
Endless Loan Shopping

Some buyers spend endless hours, days and weeks shopping for the perfect loan – watching every up tick and down tick in the loan rates, talking to numerous brokers and banks, trying to get the best possible deal and saving a few bucks here and there on points, fees and other expenses.

In our practical experience, it's all about what is the buyer qualified for and what can they afford? Rather than trying to get the absolute best loan deal, spend time to make sure you have the best available loan broker or mortgage banker.

An experienced and well qualified professional can smooth over the bumps and mini-crises that are experienced with almost every home loan these days. Banks and finance companies are very stringent about their rules and procedures. Having someone who knows the ropes and few short cuts can greatly help you save time and annoyance when closing your loan for your new home. You may have to spend an extra couple hundred bucks but the lack of hassle and last minute negotiations and financial scrambling should more than make up for it.

Extraordinary Lake Charlevoix home PLUS separate cottage

By Jim Akans

This is definitely the whole package. Lake Charlevoix never looked so good as it does from this unique and spectacular setting featuring not just one...but two fabulous homes situated on a beautifully landscaped parcel that features 50 feet of frontage along the gorgeous crystalline blue lake waters.

The main home is a three-bedroom, two-bath residence that includes such wonderful features as a large living room with cathedral ceiling and two glass doorwalls that frame a fantastic view of the lake over an outdoor deck area. Wood flooring and an abundance of cabinetry space highlight the kitchen. The main home also features a fireplace, inviting sunroom and the convenience of an attached garage and main level utility room.

The charming guest home on the property includes two bedrooms and a bath and a half (the latter on the finished lower level), and a main living area finished with the warm wood tones of tongue and groove walls and rich, hardwood floors. Other highlights of this "second home" include an elegant wood-burning fireplace with a brass grille and tile hearth.

There is a sun porch on the back of the home that offers an excellent spot for enjoying the fabulous lake views without being bothered by outdoor pests.

This is a rare opportunity to invest in a family destination complete with an additional guest home that is sure to set the stage for countless memories in the years to come. Located at 1489 Lake Shore Drive near Boyne City, this fantastic home and charming cottage in a superb Charlevoix lakefront location is listed at $599,900.

For additional information or to arrange a tour of this property, call Marty Moody of Lynda's Real Estate Service in Boyne City at 231-582-9555 or email at Marty@lyndas-realestateservice.com

Youth the key for Lady Loggers. First year head coach likes what he sees

By Chris Fiel

BOYNE FALLS – First year head coach Richard Matelski likes what he has seen so far this spring in his young squad.

“We are further along than I expected,” coach Matelski said. “For being so young, I am pretty impressed with the skills that we have, as I was worried about having to hold the upperclassmen back while teaching the younger kids.”

While this may be Matelski’s first go as a head coach, he is no stranger to the Boyne Falls dugout. He has spent the previous six seasons as an assistant in the program and feels that with the familiarity that there won’t be much of a change now that he is running the show.

“The girls know what to expect from me, and they know what I expect from them in return,” he noted. “There really isn’t going to be much change, as long as we work on the fundamentals and execute the little things, we should be able to hold our own.”

The Loggers will look to a pair of upper classmen to lead the team this season. Senior Kristen Matelski and junior Melody Ann Harmon. Kristen will do a majority of the catching for Boyne Falls this season as well as be counted on to be a solid stick in the middle of the line-up, while Harmon will see some time on the mound as well as see time at both second and third base. She also brings a good bat to the top of the line-up.

A group of sophomores in the form of Emily Matelski, Calsey Matelski, Kathryn Miller, Charlene Bearss and Sarah Benedetti bring some talented youth to both the offense and defense.

Emily will be the Loggers number one pitcher, while Calsey will return to her first base position. Miller and Bearss will see time in the middle infield and Benedetti will anchor the outfield.

Boyne Falls opens play at Gaylord St. Mary on April 10 at 4pm.

Lady Rayders return experienced cast. Solid staff and hitters will carry team

By Chris Fiel

CHARLEVOIX – Coach Ken Hoffman returns a solid cast from last seasons district champion team, including six starters.

The Rayders are looking to take the next step.

Charlevoix will be led by senior pitcher Kristen Mielke, who went 11-2 on the mound a year ago, and hit for a .395 average. She will also see time at shortstop and third base.

Chelsie Hoffman will also be counted on to lead the Rayders, Chelsie will split time between first base and catcher, and she also brings a solid stick to the line-up where she batted .333 as a junior.

Junior Katie Hybl will pitch, catch and play short. She was All-district catcher last season as a sophomore where she batted .500 with 27 RBI.

“We return some experienced players and will look to them to lead us,” Charlevoix coach Ken Hoffman said.

The six seniors that will provide leadership are: Mielke, Hoffman, Paige Montgomery, Addie Loper, Anna Moon and Nicole Pischner.

Moon will patrol the outfield in left field, while All-district selection Jennifer Archey will move from right field to center and returns her potent bat to the Rayder offense where she hit .359.

Jacy Herriman will see time at second base and on the mound and Rachel Schull is also looked at to contribute. Freshman Nicole Peterson will see significant time at third and fellow freshman Kaitlin Loviska will catch.

“Another positive for the program is that we have a junior varsity team for the first time in five years,” Hoffman said. “We have 13 kids out for that team, we are very excited.

“We will see good competition in our league, and look for East Jordan, Kalkaska and St. Francis to be among the leaders,” he noted. “Our goal is to compete for the league but win the district and capture a regional title, and with it being held at Charlevoix this season, that would be great.”

The Rayders play at Kalkaska on April 13 at 4:30pm in a early season test.

Rayders return veteran cast to challenge for Lake Michigan Crown

By Chris Fiel

CHARLEVOIX – The Rayders return all of their starters from their 10-20 team a season ago, and things look very bright for the Charlevoix baseball team.

With a solid group of seniors in the form of ace pitcher Coby Herriman, Andrew Potter, Issac Klooster, Jesse Drost, Morgan Stewart and Travis Rainey.

Herriman will look to continue where he left off last season, where he was 5-6 with a 2.18 ERA. He finished the season very strong, tossing 71 innings, allowing 40 hits, 34 walks and fanned 120 batters. He hold the Charlevoix record for strikeouts in a season and a career (207) even before his senior season.

Coby also scored 15 runs, batted .256 with 11 RBI and 16 stolen bases.

“We have a great mix,” coach Allen Telgenhof said. “We have very good senior experience and leadership with two guys who have started since they were freshmen in Coby and Andrew, and three other seniors who have logged significant playing time (Stewart, Klooster and Drost).”

Potter will hold down the number two spot in the rotation and led the offense with a .295 average, scoring 19 runs with a .375 on-base percentage with 14 steals.

Both Herriman and Potter were All-District selections last spring.

Junior Tommy Zipp, Stewart, sophomore Shane Sutherland, will all be called upon to make the Rayder offense go, both at the plate and on the base path.

“This group of seniors are a great bunch both on and off the field,” the coach said. “They’re very hard workers and that has translated down to the younger guys. It is a no-nonsense bunch and they’ve gotten themselves to a point where they deserve to win.”

Also expected to play pivotal roles for Charlevoix this spring are sophomore Luke Klingler behind the plate, freshman Nate Moon takes over at the hot corner, junior Tag McCreddie and freshman Will Telgenhof will see time at both second base as well as possible outfield duties. “Even with all of this experience, there will be times we’ll start two juniors, two sophomores and two freshmen,” Telgenhof noted. Look for the Rayders to be among the leaders in the Lake Michigan Conference, as they open play at Kalkaska on April 13 in an early test.
