Tickets now on sale for 2012 Miss East Jordan Scholarship Pageant

By Jim Akans

Tickets are now on sale for the 2012 Miss East Jordan Scholarship Pageant, to be held on Saturday, April 21st at the East Jordan High School Gymnasium. The annual pageant, now in its 24th year, is open to any East Jordan area girl between the ages of 17 and 19 with a grade point average of 3.0 or higher, and each contestant will receive some level of scholarship award.

"This is not a beauty pageant," notes Miss East Jordan Board Member, Patti Tisron, who has been involved with this annual event since the beginning. "This is first and foremost a scholarship pageant. I started the event with Nancy Sherman after we attended

THE HUNT IS ON!

Easter Egg Hunts offered in several area communities

By Jim Akans

While it's certainly fun searching for Easter eggs at home, kids can also join their friends in making gathering eggs a group activity during several community Easter egg hunts being held this Saturday. Here is a listing of where and when some of those events will be taking place;

BOYNE CITY; Young State Park hosts children from ages one to 10 for an egg hunt at 11 am on Saturday, April 7th, in the day use parking area. Parents and friends can enjoy a bonfire, hot cocoa and cookies while the kids hunt for eggs. This event is free, but vehicles must have a recreation passport, which can be obtained at the park for $10. Info: 231-582-7523.

Also on: April 7th, The Community Church of Christ will host an Easter Egg Hunt from 2 to 4 pm at the church located at 777 Vogel Street. The church will also have an Easter Breakfast at 9:30 am on Easter Sunday (April 8), followed by Easter Worship Service at 11

CHARLEVOIX; The Easter bunny is coming to town on Saturday, April 7th to help celebrate the 21st Annual Easter Egg Hunt. The Easter Egg Hunt will take place at 2 pm at East Park in downtown Charlevoix and is free for children up to 10 years old. The Easter Egg Hunt divides children into four age groups including, 2 years old and under, 3-4 years, 5-6 years and 7-10 years. The hunt is sponsored by Northwestern Bank and will include 4000 eggs filled with Kilwin's candy and various other prizes. So bring your Easter egg basket and be sure to arrive ready at 2:00 p.m. sharp so you don't miss out!

You may want to energize for the Easter Egg Hunt with the Bunny Luncheon being offered from 11 am to 1:30 pm at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant. Enjoy a delicious meal with your family, then get your picture taken with the Easter Bunny, compliments of Picture This. Please call (231) 547-4311 for reservations.

EAST JORDAN; The Lions Club will host an Easter Party at the East Jordan High School Gym starting at 10 am on Saturday, April 7th. While there won't be an actual egg hunt at the event, there will be lots of exciting games for the kids, candy prizes, and even a bike give-away!

City Commission Looks at Funding Exterior Improvements of Residences

By Dave Baragrey

East Jordan – At the City Commission meeting Tuesday night the East Jordan City Commission discussed a plan to help city residents fund improvements to the exteriors of their homes.

The city finance committee presented the budget for the upcoming fiscal year. During the discussion, finance committee member, Commissioner Tony Cutler introduced a plan to help homeowners fund improvements to the exteriors of their homes. Though still in the discussion and planning stages, the plan would fund improvements for city home owners to the roof, siding and facades of their homes. The idea of the plan is to improve the look of the homes within the city.

Cutler said. "Of course, there would be eligibility requirements that may be based on the quality of the home, how long the resident has lived in the city and that it is a principal residence." He went on to explain that there may be other requirements but that the committee and the city commission would continue to look at the plan and find a way to make this work. "This would in all likelihood be a reimbursement plan," Cutler said, "and may require an

Readers spot "April Fools Day" articles in last week's edition

Several Charlevoix County News readers called our bluff, spotting a few April Fools Day articles located throughout last week's edition. The April Fools edition has become an annual tradition at this, and many newspapers throughout the country each year. The inclusion of those fictitious features is intended to celebrate the spirit of April Fools Day, and we apologize if they inspired any undue concern on the part of the reader.

Just in case you missed the edition, or weren't sure about the validity of one or two of the articles, the following features were purely presented to honor the traditions of April Fools Day;

- Presidential election postponed!

Warning: Bearsquatch is back in area!

- Northern Michigan's newest cash crop; cotton? The Charlevoix County

City Commissioner, Mark Penzien commented, "This plan has value to both the home owners and people throughout the city. It could help improve the property values throughout the entire town."

In other budget discussion the commission considered a plan to hire part time officers to help the city police department instead of paying overtime to current fulltime officers.

In other business, the city commission is considering the purchase of tablets or laptop computers that could be used during the meetings for commissioners to review documents under consideration during the agenda instead of printing the hundreds of pages of needed to review

A new face and a facelift for the Ellsworth Farmer's Market

Shannon Fender has been hired to serve as the Ellsworth Farmers Market "Market Master". Fender recently attended the Michigan Farmers Market Association "Boot Camp" conference in Lansing for two days of training, classes and networking on signage, vendor licensing, market development and community involvement. She is currently working with the Ellsworth High School Agricultural Class students to involve them with the market development and to help out throughout the summer events. New banners and marketing promotional materials are being developed to help increase vendors and customers to the event.

The vision for the "new" Ellsworth Farmer's Market is to create a signature event for the community that will offer local vegetables, fruits, crafts and either music or a theme night such as Kids Night, Health Awareness Night or Master Gardner Night. Individuals and families are being encouraged to come to the market and plan on spending the evening shopping, enjoying music and activities in Ellsworth.

When asked about her new position and thoughts regarding the market, Fender commented, "I feel that with the support of the Village, the school and the community, the Ellsworth Farmer's Market will become a major event on the Breezeway for the Village of Ellsworth and local producers and crafters. I am looking forward to a funfilled summer of Tuesday evenings."

The Northwest Michigan Council of Governments provided a grant to the Village of Ellsworth to fund the Market Master position this year and to develop a successful business market plan that will ensure the future of this community event.

The "new" 2012 Ellsworth Farmer's Market promises to offer a summer schedule of great produce, products and events that will showcase the many agricultural and handcrafted amenities in the area. The market is the only evening farmer's market in the region, held Tuesday evenings from 5:00 PM – 7:00 PM beginning June 12, 2012 on C-48 "The Breezeway" at the corner of Church Street and Main Street.

Classic Instruments in Boyne City Expands to new Location!

Classic Instruments in Boyne City designs and manufactures instrumentation products and accessories for automotive, recreational, and marine markets. They offer catalog products that include round gauges and direct fit kits for popular hot rod vehicles as well as award winning custom instruments, both retrofits and custom design. The company is constantly innovating new products for the hot rod industry. They were named to Inc 500's "Top 5000 America's Fastest Growing Private Companies" list for multiple years in a row, and are a member of the 2010 class of "Michigan 50 Companies to Watch" company has grown immensely over the past few years, so much in fact that they are moving locations!

They purchased the building at 826 Moll Drive in Boyne City's industrial park. Significant changes to the interior reflect Classic Instruments personality. By the end of March, they will have new carpet, paint and office furniture. The move will take place in three phases, the first being the sales department, marketing department and technical support in early April. That initial move will be followed by the machine shop and customs department in May. Once the machine shop and engineering department are moved, efficiency improvements and line design will begin to prepare for moving the production line. Many changes are in process to help them be more efficient and further improve their product quality, including a new state of the art calibration station.

This move will help improve their manufacturing process and organization. The building gives them space to work efficiently in each department, yet still remain a tight knit company. Classic Instruments is excited and they invite everyone to tour their new facility!

Easter treats are sweet at Alpine Chocolat Haus

By Jim Akans

It's the perfect place to shop for Easter treats. The Alpine Chocolat Haus offers a delicious array of handmade chocolates, caramel corn, and tasty caramel apples and more...just the ticket for making sure baskets are brimming with delightful goodies this coming Easter Sunday.

The sweet, inviting aroma of freshly made chocolate confections immerses the senses upon entering the Alpine Chocolat Haus in downtown Gaylord or Boyne City. Spread out before the defenseless shopper awaits a vast assortment of handmade dark, milk and white chocolate truffles, creams, clusters, caramels...chocolate covered fruits, pretzels, potato chips...potato chips?!

The Alpine Chocolat Haus offers a delicious array of handmade chocolates, caramel corn, and tasty caramel apples and more...just the ticket for making sure baskets are brimming with delightful goodies this coming Easter Sunday.

"Chocolate covered potato chips are our number one seller," observes owner, entrepreneur and Chocolatmeister, Bruce Brown. "It is a combination of sweet and salty flavor that once you try, it's very hard to resist."

Bruce Brown has been churning out chocolate treasures and assorted other confections in downtown Gaylord since opening his shop on Pearl Harbor Day back in 1985. Born and raised in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, he had spent eight years as an assistant manager for a F.W. Woolworth store in that Upper Peninsula community before moving to Gay-

Bruce recalls, "I heard there was a chocolate store for sale in Gaylord and ended up purchasing it. At that time the chocolate was purchased from a downstate vendor. The problem was, people would travel to Gaylord from downstate and they wanted to buy something that was truly from northern Michigan."

A short while later, Bruce met "Katie," his mentor in the art of chocolate making. For nearly forty years prior, Katie and her husband had been chocolate makers extraordinaire, and now she was prepare to share those tantalizing recipes and preparation se-

"She also knew where we could buy equipment to make those chocolates," Bruce states, "though we didn't think we could afford it. Amazingly, she said she didn't want to charge for her assistance. If it wasn't for Katie, we wouldn't be here today."

Over the next three decades, the Alpine Chocolat Haus expanded from producing delicious treats using that initial equipment, capable of producing about sixty pounds of chocolate a day, to utilizing a pair of much larger machines capable of making up to 600 pounds of chocolate in a day.

Bruce Brown's heartfelt passion for supporting community organizations, such as the Gaylord Little League, Community Schools, and the United Way is deeply rooted in his family's experience while he was growing up in Sault Ste Marie.

His father worked at Algoma Steel across the bridge in Sault Ste Marie, Canada. When Bruce was ten years old, his dad became seriously ill with diabetes, resulting in series of several operations on his feet, which eventually led to the amputation of both legs below the knee. The community rallied around the distraught family, holding a spaghetti dinner that earned enough proceeds to pay a substantial portion of their outstanding medical bills.

Bruce relates. "The way that community came together to help my family is something I will never forget. I learned first hand how a community can help and I think the support I give today is my way of continuing to pay that back."

The community has also helped to keep the marvelous assortment of delectable goodies offered by the Alpine Chocolat Haus flowing for over a quarter of a century, both by their continued patronage of the establishment, and in assistance early on from the local business community.

"There were times in those early years," Bruce states, "when we struggled to keep going. One time when we desperately needed a loan, the bank and their board of local businesspeople came through in approving us. If it wasn't for that, we would have closed our doors a long time ago. It's so very important when local people help each other by buying locally...as it keeps their hard-earned money in their own community."

Charles M. Schultz once wrote for the character Lucy in his wildly famous Peanuts cartoon series that "All you need is love...but a little chocolate now and then doesn't hurt." The love of chocolate is alive and well at the Alpine Chocolat Haus.

Arts, Dining & Events

Annual Youth Arts Festival begins at Crooked Tree Arts Center

For over thirty years, Crooked Tree Arts Center has been showcasing the art of area students in the Charlevoix-Emmet County School District through the annual Youth Arts Festival. Beginning Saturday April 21, the 2012 Youth Arts Festival kicks off with the public opening of the Youth Arts Show in the galleries at CTAC from 2:00pm to 4:00pm. All events are free and open to the public. Exciting Festival programming for this year includes:

Tuesday April 10, 9:00am -Friday April 20, 5:00pm: Young Writers Juried Expo Submissions accepted, online www.crookedtree.org

Saturday April 21, 2:00pm-4:00pm: Public Opening Youth Art Show exhibits, CTAC galleries

Saturday April 21, 10:30am: Portfolio reviews begin with Kendall College of Art and Design, CTAC Visual Arts Room (sign-up sheets begin at 10am)

Saturday April 28, 1:30pm-3:30pm: Youth Collage Performance, CTAC Ross Stoakes Theatre

Friday May 4: Winning Young Writers Expo entries published, Petoskey News-Review

Saturday May 5, 2:00pm-4:00pm: Young Writers Awards Ceremony, CTAC Edith Gilbert Gallery

Saturday May 12: Final day of Youth Arts Show exhibit, CTAC galleries

Crooked Tree Arts Center will again be working with the Kendall College of Art and Design to offer scholarships to high school students interested in attending Kendall. These scholarships are intended to offset the cost of tuition. Kendall College of Art and Design will offer portfolio reviews beginning at 10:30 am in the Visual Arts room, in the basement of CTAC. Students can sign up outside the Visual Arts room door beginning at 10 am when the building opens.

A new addition to the Youth Arts Festival this year is the Youth Collage Performance, scheduled from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Saturday April 28. The performance will feature Crooked Tree Arts Center's Jazz Band, Strings students, and dancers, Little Traverse Youth Choir, and Acting Up - A Teen Improv' Group. Each of the performing groups will be showcased in a round-robin arrangement.

"Bringing together students from the different youth arts groups to be showcased in one performance is an exciting idea. It will be a treat for the students to be able to see other youth groups perform and it will be especially impressive for the audience to see the variety and depth of talent in our communities' young performers," stated Crooked Tree Arts Center staff member and 21st Century Arts Program Coordinator Marty Samson.

For all the young writers in the area CTAC, in conjunction with the Petoskey News-Review, is hosting the 10th Annual Young Writers Juried Exposition. Elementary, middle and high school writers in the Charlevoix-Emmet ISD, or home school students in Charlevoix or Emmet Counties, are invited to submit one work of poetry, prose, or one of both.

Saturday, May 5 at 2:00 pm, the Young Writers Expo awards reception will be presented in Crooked Tree Arts Center's Edith Gilbert

Gallery. Refreshments will highlight the work of Boyne City Culinary Arts students. All winning young authors will receive a writing journal and have an opportunity to read their work publicly. High School winners receive monetary prizes: 1st place - $75, 2nd place - $50, and 3rd place - $25.

"One of the best ways to develop literary skills for a young author is to share his or her work publicly. From putting their ideas on paper to seeing their work published in the newspaper, the Young Writers Expo gives children and teenagers in the community an opportunity to experience the writing process from beginning to end.", states Megan DeWindt, Crooked Tree's coordinator for the program.

An invitation is currently open to all area teachers and home school families to involve their students in the program. All work must be submitted by a parent or teacher on-line through Crooked Tree's website, www.crookedtree.org from 9:00 AM on Tuesday, April 10 through 5:00 PM on Friday, April 20. For writing requirements and more details about the Young Writers Juried Exposition, please visit www.crookedtree.org or contact Megan DeWindt at Crooked Tree Arts Center, 231 347-4337.

With all the great events, now is the time to save the date and celebrate the work of our area student artists at Crooked Tree Arts Center. More festival information can be found at www.crookedtree.org.

A Sense of Scale

The NOrthern Michigan Astronomy Club (NOMAC), which meets the first Thursday of every month, is hosting a talk at Raven Hill Discovery Center on April 5 at 7:30 PM. The guest speaker will be David Rodgers, Professor of Chemistry and Earth Sciences, North Central Michigan College, Petoskey, Michigan. His talk is titled "A Sense of Scale", which puts into perspective the vast distances of space and time. Rodgers will take about 20 minutes at the beginning, while there is still daylight, to do an outdoor demonstration of "The Thousand-Yard Model", more popularly called, "The Earth Is A Peppercorn". The weather is forecast to be beautiful and this demonstration will get everyone thinking about the enormous distances involved just in our own solar system. The group will then move back inside for the remainder of the pro-

After the indoor program, those interested will move out to the Center's Moon Base to view the night sky through the Center's 16-inch reflecting telescope, if the weather permits. Anyone interested in learning more about telescopes & astronomy and exploring our universe is welcome to attend. Attendees are also invited to bring their own telescopes. . Raven Hill has one of the best observing sites in all Michigan with its dark sky and low horizons. Call 231.536.3369 or go to NOMAC's web site at www.nomac.net for more information.

You belong at your library this National Library Week, April 8-14

Whether you are a job seeker looking for resources to land a new job, a parent looking for free activities for children, a student searching for vour next favorite book. or a spot to meet a friend, you belong @ your library.

Today's libraries help level the playing field by making both print and digital information affordable, available and accessible to all people. Libraries provide cultural heritage and genealogical collections, materials in print and electronic formats, job seeking resources, and many creative and resourceful programs.

Libraries have historically served as our nation's great equalizers of knowledge. The strength of libraries has always been the diversity of their collections and commitment to serving all people. This National Library Week, join our nation's libraries and librarians by celebrating the place where we all belong.

"Today's libraries provide a wide range of opportunities for people with diverse needs and interests," says Valerie Meyerson, Library Director at the Charlevoix Public Library. "That means providing their communities with tailor made collections, services and programs for all people in the community."

First sponsored in 1958, National Library Week is a national observance sponsored by the American Library Association (ALA) and libraries across the country each April. For more information and to find out what's happening during National Library Week, visit one of the many local libraries in the area: Boyne District Library at www.boynelibrary.org, Charlevoix Public Library at www.charlevoixlibrary.org, Crooked Tree District Library at www.crookedtreelibrary.o rg, or Jordan Valley District Library at www.jvdl.info.

National Library Week highlights Boyne District Library visit from PaleoJoe

To Celebrate National Library Week, April 8-14, Boyne District Library will host paleontologist, author and storyteller Joseph Kchodl, known as "Paleo-Joe" on Tuesday, April 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Room. The whole family is invited to come to the free program, featuring a "real dinosaur

The winners of the library's National Library Week Bookmark Contest will be announced at the start of the program. Children submitted entries in three age groups (K-1, 2-3 and 4-5), and a winner from each age group will be announced.

"The winners will have their artwork on display for a whole year, as these will be the library's official bookmarks for the year," said Monica Kroondyk, children's librarian. "We had so many great entries, it was difficult to choose just three.'

In addition, each winner will receive 25 bookmarks featuring their design, as well as a book of their choice. All entries will be displayed in the children's room at the library through April 30.

PaleoJoe's entertaining educational style is sure to capture the imaginations of those attending the program, as it has with the tens of thousands of children he has spoken to in schools and libraries in Michigan and surrounding states. He will bring dinosaurs to life with a T-Rex tooth, a Velociraptor skull and a variety of other amazing fossils. With PaleoJoe's high-energy program, students see, hear and experience the fascination that dinosaurs and fossils bring.

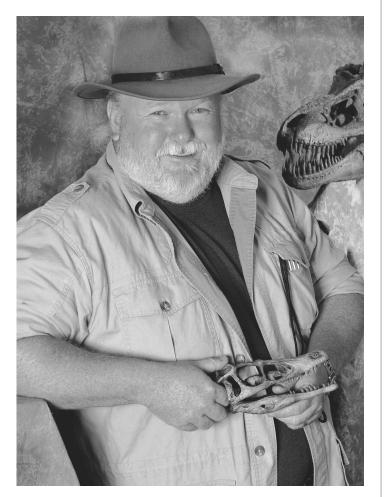

Dinosaurs, however, are not the sole focus of the program. "I want kids to be excited about science, not just paleontology," Kchodl says. "It's just great to inspire kids and get them to want to read and learn."

PaleoJoe takes students and adults on a wild ride through the ancient world while describing and reinforcing the importance of reading. He also gives insights into the mind of a writer, as he describes his adventures that sometimes appear in his work.

Kchodl has written several books about fossils for adults, including "The Complete Guide to Michigan Fossils," as well as books for children. The chapter book series for children in second through sixth grades, "PaleoJoe's Dinosaur Detective Club," follows the adventures of two children who help PaleoJoe solve prehistoric mysteries. "Hidden Dinosaurs" is a dinosaur hunting and fossil collecting hide-andseek book for children, filled with dinosaur rhymes and interesting dinosaur facts.

In addition to speaking and writing about fossils and dinosaurs, Kchodl continues to hunt fossils, and says, "Yes, I am a real dinosaur digger." He continues to dig with world-renowned paleontologists and has discovered ribs of an 11 million-year-old rhino in Nebraska, remains of a 60-foot long Camerasurus in Utah, and helped a team recover a Tyrannosaurus Rex in Mon-

Boyne Area Alano Club to hold spaghetti dinner fundraiser

The Boyne Area Alano Club will host a spaghetti dinner on April 19 at St. Matthew's Parish Hall to raise funds to support Unity Hall, a meeting place in Boyne City for several 12-Step addiction recovery programs. Dinner will be served from 5 to 6:30 p.m. The cost is a charitable donation at the door.

The Boyne Area Alano Club is a non-profit organization whose main focus is to financially support and manage a safe and caring meeting place for people suffering from addictive, compulsive or other behavioral problems. It is currently home to an average of 60 meetings per month with an average monthly attendance of 760.

"With Unity Hall, our community has a place where 12-Step meetings can thrive, where voices can be heard and problems shared, and where addiction is recognized without prejudice," said Alano board president Richard Fish. "Unity Hall is a place where those affected by addiction can find real answers and the comfort of knowing they are not alone."

Contributions to Unity Hall are always appreciated. They can be mailed to: Boyne Area Alano Club, P.O. Box 406, Boyne City, MI., 49712.

Purchase tickets now for the 36th Annual Knights of Columbus Cash Raffle Party

By Jim Akans

Now is the time to purchase tickets for the upcoming 36th Annual Knights of Columbus "Cash Raffle Party," which will be taking place on Saturday evening, April 21st, at Castle Farms Knights East Garden. This yearly fundraiser, sponsored by the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus Council 7172, features an evening of fabulous food and refreshments, live music, and over $14,750 in cash prizes!

"We believe this is the best party that takes place in Charlevoix County each year," states Steve Seely: who co-chairs the event along with fellow Knights of Columbus officer, Roger Nesburg. "And it keeps getting better and better each year. Last year we raised over $10,000 which we allocated to 22 area organizations in need, including the years went by. By popular re-Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Sea Scouts, 4H Youth Programs, the Mariners, area schools, the Charlevoix Food Pantry, the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful campaign and many more. We have also established a program to help purchase gas cards for area veterans who need to travel to hospitals.

Seely reflects that when this annual fundraiser began 36 years ago, the grand prize for the evening was a new car.

He smiles, "Vehicles were about $5000 back then, so we changed the event to a cash party as the quest, we have changed the for mat of the twenty random drawings this year so that those will be drawn as winning ticket pulls. 'Showdown drawings' will be for the major prizes only."

And there will be plenty of cash drawings during the evening. There will be (20) $250 prizes, four 50/50 drawings, and four major drawings; a Grand Prize of $5,000 – Second Prize of $2,000 - Third Prize of $1,000 -Fourth Prize of $750 – and a Fifth Prize of $500.

But that's not all. A luscious array of delicious gourmet foods will be offered by "Catering by Matter of Taste!" from 6:30 to 10 pm. Steve Larson of Disc-O-Nection will be back again this year DJ'ing some great music to dance to from 6:30 to 11:30 pm, and there will be two mixed cocktail bars and a beer/wine bar from 6 to 11

So join the "Best party in Charlevoix" and a terrific community fundraising event on Saturday, April 21st at Castle Farms Knights East Garden. Tickets reservations at $150, which admits two people, are on a first come-first served, and includes food entertainment and a bever age allowance. To purchase a ticket, please contact Steve Seelv at (231) 499-3674 or Ed Linse at (231) 547 4526.

Raven Hill Announces April Events

Raven Hill is open every day from noon to 4 p.m. through Saturday, April 7 so families can treat themselves to an afternoon of fun and exploration at Raven Hill Discovery Center. Visitors can build connections between science, history and the arts in an interactive learning environment. In addition to the hands-on museum and exotic animals, guests can spend time in the one-room schoolhouse, explore the new tree house, see the geologic history of the earth on the Exploring Beyond Jurassic Park outdoor exhibit, stroll through various cultures in the Ancient World, play music in the Earth Tones Music Garden and take a peek at the Center's Energy House, which is solar

The Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, in collaboration with the National Endowment for the Arts has granted a 2012 award to Raven Hill Discovery Center for Blurred Boundaries: Modern Interpretations of Ancient Megaliths. This is the twelfth consecutive grant awarded to Raven Hill by MCACA and will allow Raven Hill to expand its Ancient World area with five new megaliths. Megaliths (big rocks) are large stone sculptures or groupings of rocks originally placed for sacred celebrations or to honor something or someone. Two professional artists will create and install their modern interpretations of well-known ancient megaliths. The other three megaliths will be chosen from submitted miniliths created by students and community members, who are invited to bring their modern interpretations of ancient megaliths by April 21, or design and build a miniature of their modern interpretation of an ancient megalith right at Raven Hill over spring break. The activity is $3 above admission cost. All submitted miniliths will be on display April 22nd to May 1st at Raven Hill. A committee of experts will choose three miniliths to be "enlarged" and installed in the Ancient World exhibit in June. The five new megaliths will be unveiled at a grand opening September 16, 2012.

The Northern Michigan Astronomy Club (NOMAC) will meet Thursday, April 5th at 7:30 pm at Raven Hill Discovery Center. The program is titled, "A Sense of Scale" and will be presented by David W. Rodgers, Professor of Chemistry and Earth Sciences at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey and

Then, the popular free Second Saturday events continue at Raven Hill Discovery Center with the next event on April 14th. Visitors can explore surface tension with "Swirling Milk." Sponsored by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, each month free 2nd Saturdays highlight a different science, history or art activity (and the connections between them!), as well as allow families to explore the hands-on museum and animals indoors and enjoy the outdoor exhibits. Free 2nd Saturday hours are from noon to 4 pm. Bring the whole family or make it a special event for parent and child. There will be fun problem-solving demos & activities to fit various ages, abilities and interests. Please no organizations or groups on 2nd Saturdays remember, it's a family affair!

On Sunday, April 22nd, join friends and neighbors for an Earth Journey at Raven Hill to celebrate Earth Day. Between noon to 4 pm, visitors will be able to pick up a passport and walk the grounds at Raven Hill. Special Earth Journey t-shirts will be available for $6 each while supplies last.

Raven Hill Discovery Center is a regional science and technology center. It is located on 157 acres in a rural area of northwestern Lower Michigan next to the Little Traverse Conservancy's Raven Ridge Nature Preserve. It is also a cultural, historical and art center. Raven Hill Discovery Center is the only place in northern Lower Michigan where children and adults can link science, history & the arts with hands-on activities and explorations both indoors and outdoors. Connections emerge through classes, exhibits and facilities that provide opportunities for all ages to learn, create, grow and play. The Center is located between East Jordan & Boyne City, just off C-48 at Pearsall Road. Can't make it during regular hours? Call to schedule an appointment at your convenience. For more information, phone 231-536-3369 or toll free 877-833-4254 or check the Center's website: www.RavenHillDiscoveryCenter.org

Arthur Roy Ranger III

(APRIL 10, 1959 - MARCH 30, 2012) Arthur Roy Ranger III, 52, of Big Rapids and formerly of Charlevoix, died Friday, March 30, 2012.

He was born on April 10, 1959, at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Texas, the son of Arthur A. and Patricia (Ratigan) Ranger. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1977. He received his bachelor of science in land surveying in 1981 from Ferris State College.

He married Beth Ward on June 6, 1981, in Big Rapids.

Upon graduation, Art was employed by Wightman & Associates in St. Joseph, Mich., until he received his professional license in 1985. They moved to Charlevoix where Art worked in his father's company, Ranger Engineering. In 1994, Art started Ranger & Associates, Inc., a stand-alone land surveying business.

Art was a longtime member of the Michigan Society of Professional Surveyors. He was first and foremost a surveyor and an avid outdoorsman who loved hunting and fishing.

Art is survived by his wife, Beth Ranger, of Big Rapids; his parents, Alvin and Patsy Ranger, of Charlevoix; sister, Corinne (Paul) Vita, of Saratoga, Calif., and their children, Jonathan and Julia; two brothers, Robert (Lisa) Ranger of Midland, Mich., and their children, Scott and Alissa, and William (Amy) Ranger of Traverse City and their children, Max, Emma and Isabelle; and special nieces "daughters," Emily, Leslie, Laura and Elizabeth, who shared their lives with Art and Beth at various

Governor's Awards for Historic Preservation Announced

1910 Waterworks Building preservation recognized

Governor Rick Snyder and Gary Heidel, executive director of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, announced the selection of the 2012 Governor's Awards for Historic Preservation.

The State Historic Preservation Office initiated the award program in 2003 to recognize outstanding historic preservation achievements reflecting a commitment to the preservation of Michigan's unique character and the many cultural resources that document Michigan's past. Previous recipient projects include private residences whose owners used state historic preservation tax credits, the excavation and study of the Riley Mammoth Site in Saranac, the rehabilitation of the Argonaut Building in Detroit, the long-term preservation of the Northern Michigan Asylum in Traverse City, Fort St. Joseph Archaeological Project in Niles, the General Motors Technical Center in Warren, and the Point Betsie Lighthouse rehabilitation.

"The preservation of historic buildings and archaeological sites is vital to maintaining a sense of place in our state," said Snyder. "This year's recipients understand the power of historic places to attract business and tourists and the difference they make in our communities."

"The people and organizations we are recognizing this year have invested money, time, talent, and hard work to make their projects a reality and to preserve these important historic places," said Heidel. "Each recipient has had a positive impact on Michigan."

The 2012 recipients are: Keweenaw National Historical Park, Quinn Evans Architects, Yalmer Matilla Contracting, Inc., and the Keweenaw National Historical Park Advisory Commission, for the rehabilitation of the Union Building, Calumet

Swanee, Incorporated and Barry Polzin Architects for the rehabilitation of the Richter Brewery, Escanaba

G. A. Haan Development, U.P. Engineers and Architects, and Oakwood Construction for the rehabilitation of the Adams and Masonic Temple Buildings, Sault Ste. Marie

City of Boyne City, C2AE,

Richard Neumann Architect, and Graham Construction for the rehabilitation of the Boyne City 1910 Waterworks Building, Boyne City

Eastside Armory LLC [Gillespie

Eastside Armory LLC [Gillespie Group], Studio Intrigue Architects and Kincaid Henry Building Group for the rehabilitation of the Lansing Artillery National Guard Armory, Lansing

Michigan State Medical Society for stewardship of the Michigan Medical Society Building, East Lansing

"We see the results daily of how historic preservation transforms communities," stated State Historic Preservation Officer Brian Conway. "The Governor's Awards for Historic Preservation give us an opportunity to recognize some of the people behind the projects that are making a difference to Michigan."

Recipients will receive their awards at a public ceremony in the Michigan State Capitol Rotunda on Wednesday, May 2, at 9:00 a.m.

To learn about previous Governor's Award projects, go to: www.michigan.gov/shpo.

The State Historic Preservation Office is financed in part with federal funds from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior. The office receives federal financial assistance for identification and protection of historic properties. The State Historic Preservation Office is part of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority. The Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) provides financial and technical assistance through public and private partnerships to create and preserve decent, affordable housing for low- and moderate-income residents and to engage in community economic development activities to revitalize urban and rural communities.*

*MSHDA's loans and operating expenses are financed through the sale of tax-exempt and taxable bonds as well as notes to private investors, not from state tax revenues. Proceeds are loaned at below-market interest rates to developers of rental housing, and help fund mortgages and home improvement loans.

MSHDA also administers several federal housing programs. For more information, visit www.michigan.gov/mshda.

Spring ushered in like a lion, but the lamb has arrived!

By Jim Akans

What a glorious spring to be in northern Lower Michigan. Basking in the glow of predominately sunny skies and 50-ish temperatures, it's not easy (or necessarily good for the soul) to recall that the month of March truly arrived like a lion; with freezing cold temperatures and nearly two feet of snow on the ground in many parts of the area.

Yet by mid month, the thermometer has skyrocketed into the lower 80's, the snow retreated like the bashful lion in the Wizard of Oz, and lamb chops were destined for the renewal of the backyard outdoor grilling season. Could this early start to the spring season be a sign of the summer to come?

'Overall," states Jim Keysor of the National Weather Service office near Gaylord, "The spring looks to be above normal temperatures, with plenty of warms days ahead that will be above our typical high temperatures...though of course we will still see some colder weather now and then. At this time, our normal highs are in the 40-degree range and we are starting to see daily temperatures exceed that. This is also the "fast track" time of year in terms of the rise in average daily temperature highs, going up about one degree every two to three days for the next couple of weeks."

Keysor points out that area residents experienced temperature variations during the month of March that most folks don't typically see in a single month.

"Here at the weather center, we saw a 99-degree spread between the lowest temperature, which was minus 17 degrees Fahrenheit early in the month, to a high of 82-degrees in the middle of the month. People always like to talk about the weather, and that is an interesting statistic to bring up during those conversations."

Another fascinating fact is that when the northern region experienced those 80 –degree-days, the normal high during that time should have been in the 30's. Keysor says don't blame these aberrations on Pacific basin phenomenon such as La Nina or El Nino.

"While we have been in a La Nina pattern the last couple of years," he explains, "that pattern has weakened and our weather is in a neutral period...right where it should be without those ocean-atmospheric effects. During that recent unseasonable warming trend, the cold air simply retreated well into Canada, as if Mother Nature forgot what time of year it was!"

While most will ha

While most will happily accept the generally above normal spring temperatures, there is concern that area fruit crops, which have begun budding due to the warm summer-like days, will become vulnerable to freezing nighttime temperatures that may come our way in the next several weeks. It remains to be seen how this will affect area fruit trees and primarily depends on how many cold nights show up, and just how cold those nights are.

While Keysor relates that there are still question marks surrounding predictions for the upcoming summer months, the weather service has a high level of confidence in their prediction of a warmer than usual spring.

"We had a warm fall and winter," he states, "and now we are looking at a warm spring. For April that means instead of looking at average highs in the 50's we should be seeing more average high temperatures in the 60's. In May, instead of average highs in the 60's, we should see a few more days with highs in the 70's. We may also be looking at higher than normal precipitation, but with less than normal snowfall over the winter and a rapid melt in March, that extra precipitation would be a good thing for ground moisture."

So get those golf clubs, watercraft, and backyard barbeques ready. Even if those extra warm temperatures don't arrive as predicted, the lion of the winter has likely lost its roar.

Get moving!

Dear Dave,

My husband works two hours away from home. He gets up at 3 a.m. and doesn't get home until 7 p.m. We have a fully funded emergency fund, and he makes $95,000 a year. My parents' place is an hour from his job, and they've offered to let us live with them. What do you think of this idea?

Jessica

Dear Jessica, Why don't you just sell the house and move closer to where he works? If he makes that kind of money and you've got your emergency fund in place, you should be able to handle moving costs. I've got to be honest, I'd do the two hours to work and two hours home drive maybe once before I'd begin seriously looking for a place much

Right now, you guys don't have a life. And moving in with your parents wouldn't be much better. That poor guy practically lives on the road, and I'm sure you both want more quality time together. He sounds like a great guy, though, to be willing to go through all that. He's busting his tail and doing what it takes to provide for his family, but there's just no reason for either of you to go through this kind of pain and inconvenience.

Get your house on the market, and find a little rental near his job for now. You can rebuild part of your emergency fund if necessary, but if I'm in your shoes, I'm going to fix this logistical nightmare as fast as humanly possible!

Teaching and tough

Dear Dave,

My husband and I need to update our will, but we're not sure how to divide the money. All of our children are grown, including my three stepsons. The problem is that two of my stepsons are irresponsible with money and are drug users. Do you have any advice?

Colleen Dear Colleen,

Typically, if you give money to a drug user they'll use it for one thing: drugs. Your goal as a parent is to love them and teach them to the best of your ability. Buying their drugs upon your death doesn't fall into either of those categories. There's absolutely nothing wrong with you deciding not to leave them any money as long as they're involved in this kind of activity.

If it were me, I'd have a reading of the will when the changes are made. Then, I'd sit down with the family members and explain why you've updated the will in this manner. Let them know you love them and want what's best for them, but you and your husband have decided you're not going to take a chance on funding any misbehavior on their part.

Make sure you let them know, too, that things can change if they change. They might be mad and fuss about it, but that's okay. Let them be mad. It's perfectly all right for you to attach stipulations to any inheritance they might receive, especially when it's for their own good!

STAFF COMMENTS

Sixth-grader Austin Harmon is passionate about a lot of things... reading books by Louis L' Amour and Gary Paulsen; playing dodge ball, baseball, and basketball; watching Michigan State athletics; hunting at the family cabin; out-of-door adventures; telling jokes; and doing well in school. His naturally competitive nature drives him to do his best in everything. When it comes to school, Austin works hard and always does his best. He listens well and participates and is a natural leader in the classroom. He cares about his progress and definitely understands that being "successful in life" begins with the choices that he's making right now. His future is bright! Austin, congratulations on being this month's Student of the Week! (Ryan Book)

Adoption a deeply rewarding choice for many parents

QUESTION: My wife and I have a 2-year-old of our own, but now we're considering adopting another child. Frankly, we can't decide if we should pursue it or if we're simply setting ourselves up for a lot of stress and heartache.

Jim: Adoption is a major undertaking, and there are many things to consider, as vou well know. But with planning and a lot of prayer, it can be a beautiful thing.

Dr. Debi Grebenik is a licensed social worker and the executive director of a foster care and adoption agency. Her years in the field have led her to identify several traits of successful adoptive families.

First, according to Dr. Grebenik, the adoption journey begins with a commitment for life. In many ways, adoption is similar to marriage — it calls for love and understanding in sickness and in health, for richer or poorer. There will be unforeseen detours, mountaintop experiences and challenges along the way. But adoptive parents who begin the process with this rock-solid commitment are more likely to see it through.

In addition, adoptive parents, just like all parents, must be prepared to love their child unconditionally. You probably already know that some kids have deep emotional wounds after spending years in foster care. They may display manipulation, defiance, aggression, depression and other challenging behaviors. A parent's unconditional love may be the only lifeline they have as they emerge from an unstable environment and learn what it means to be part of a permanent, stable family for the first time in their lives.

There are difficulties associated with adoption, but they are not insurmountable. And the blessings and rewards far outweigh the challenges for those who are willing to take the plunge. For more resources on this issue, visit www.icareaboutorphans.org or www.focusonthefamily.com.

QUESTION: I am a single mother, and due to the economy, I am really struggling to make ends meet.

Should I move back in with my parents until things get better?

Juli: Your question is becoming more and more common as many single parents face the realities of a tough economy and the unceasing demands of raising children by yourself. Unfortunately, answer. There are, however, some principles to consider that might help you make vour decision.

It can be a true blessing for everyone when generations of a family live together. In many parts of the world, this is the norm. It can provide a wonderfully rich environment for children to grow up knowing their grandparents and having empathy for the older generation. It also gives grandparents a wonderful outlet to love and invest in their grandkids, as retirement often allows for more time. And it would give you, as a busy mom, another set of arms to help with cooking, homework and loving.

There are, however, some potential problems that you want to investigate before making the decision to move in with your parents. Many of these relate to boundaries and expectations. For example, how much would your parents like you to contribute financially? What expectations do they have regarding keeping the house clean, bedtimes and whether or not they are full-time babysitters for your kids? To what extent do they have the authority to discipline your children? What if they disagree with your parenting style? What if they don't approve of other choices you make for your family? How will you resolve these conflicts? However stressful these conversations may be to initiate, they are absolutely essential to confirming whether or not moving in with your parents is a good idea. Do the work up front to avoid creating a situation that could eventually end up destroying your relationship with your parents.

Once a year the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners meet with the County Planning Commission to share ideas and review items of in-Planning Director, Larry Sullivan reviewed a 14-page report of activities from 2011 with both boards. The report highlighted items including a Capital Improvement Plan, the Recreation Plan, a Land Use Plan, Economic Development Plan, Solid Waste Plan and administrative items.

Chairman of the Planning Commission, Denny Jason, said, "It is important for us to meet with County Commissioners to find out what you want us to focus on this year."

Jason went on to say, "Our top priority in the upcoming weeks is to finalize a plan of capital improvements to recommend to the board of commissioners." The capital improvements plan should be completed by mid-May. Other top priorities for the planning commission are completing the Recreation Plan and the Land Use Plan.

Jason asked the County Commissioners for input on what they would like to see from the Planning Commission.

County Commissioner, Chris Christensen said, "I would like to reshape the Planning Commission. I would like to see them be pro-active instead of reactive. In 2011, we spent 2.5 million dollars with no plan in place...2.5 Million dollars! If we had a model in place we could plan for these expenses."

County Commissioner, Shirlene Tripp said, "At the Michigan Association of Counties conference they told us that our lakes are our biggest asset. We should do everything we can to protect out lakes."

County Commissioner, Ron Reinhardt said, "Farming is the second largest industry in our state. We should do what we can to develop this industry.'

County Commissioner, Joel Evans said. "I would like to see our county help small growers to build and promote local farm markets.'

Planning Commission member, Tom Wieland said, "I like what is happening in Ellsworth. Area growers have a local garden to use at Ellsworth school lunch."

Planning Commission member, Nancy Ferguson informed the group that the Front Porch Café uses many locally grown products at their restaurant. Another local example is the county jail owns a garden plot that is tended by inmates and the vegetables are used at the jail.

County Commissioner, Rich Gillespie said, "We need to protect our large land parcels for farmers. In too many communities these large farming parcels have been sold and parceled for housing developments. Once that happens, they can not be returned to large farm use.'

County Commission Chair, Joel Evans commented, "We commend the Planning Commission for their efforts in 2011. They have a full plate of activities and we look forward to working together to plan growth in the county in the future."

The plan for the renovation of the terminal at Charlevoix Municipal Airport remains the same, but the federal aid for the project has an increase in costs.

The Federal Aviation Administration changed its funding from $95,000 to $90,000, meaning the city and the Michigan Department of Transportation will need to increase its

Strawberry Patch ReSale-Consignment helps Mio area residents buy and sell quality goods

Established in their present location in Downtown Mio approximately eight years ago, Strawberry Patch ReSale-Consignment store offers area residents an excellent opportunity to sell their quality used items, and purchase a wide variety of clothing and household goods at very reasonable prices. The shop, which was founded by Sharon Gardulski, Pastor of the Freedom Worship Center, is operated by a dedicated group of thirteen volunteer from the Mio area.

"We have many different types of items in the store," states Gardulski. "That includes furniture, appliances and other household items, and we have a lot of new and used clothing, including coats in men's, women's and children's sizes, as well as several items that would make excellent Christmas gifts."

The inventory at Strawberry Patch ReSale-Consignment is brought in by local individuals who receive 40-percent of the amount those items sell for. Strawberry Patch takes care of the tagging and marketing of those items, and after a 60 day period, unsold clothing is sent to an Amish warehouse facility that distributes that clothing to people in need all over the world.

"Our location is a great resource for

EASTER FUN FACTS

Here Comes Peter Cottontail

Why are bunnies, baskets, bonnets and eggs part of the Easter celebration?

By Jim Akans

Easter is one of the most reverent of Christian holidays. A celebration of the resurrection of Christ, it is also a day that has become steeped in traditions of colorful eggs, baskets brimming with treats, fanciful bonnets and of course, the bounding, goodies-bearing bunny that literally brings visions of sugar plums to children's imaginations each Easter morning.

How did these seemingly unrelated traditions become such an ingrained part of the Easter celebra-

The egg has long served as a symbol of fertility and rebirth. Long before Jesus walked the earth, ancient Greeks, Chinese and Egyptians would dye eggs to symbolize the rebirth of the spring season after the starkness of winter. Early Christians adopted this practice of using dyed eggs to symbolize the resurrection of Christ, and in transforming the ancient Pagan holiday of Eastre into the observance of Easter, the decorated egg became a part of the celebration.

In Medieval Europe the consumption of eggs was strictly forbidden during Lent, so they were often boiled in order to preserve them until they could become a staple of the Easter meal. In early England and Germany, the practice of rolling these hard-boiled eggs down a hill was established as an Easter morning game for children and was said to symbolize the rolling away of the rock from Jesus tomb. The practice was brought to the United States in the early 19th century, and a short time later Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, started the tradition of holding an "egg roll" for children on the White House lawn, which continues to this day.

Also a timeless symbol of fertility, the "Easter Hare" seems to have originated in Germany, where this fabled bunny would lay eggs (rabbits must have been quite different back then) on Easter morning for children to find. This tradition emigrated to America as part of the German culture, becoming a popular part of the Easter celebration shortly after the Civil War.

Placing Easter eggs into "one basket," along with many other treats, is a custom that has evolved from the early Christian practice of bringing large baskets of food to church to be blessed by priests after the Lenten fasting period. The "grass" at the bottom of those baskets heralds from a Dutch tradition where children would place eggs on Easter Sunday in "nests" of colored grass, which actually was grass in earlier times.

Since the 16th century, donning a new set of clothes has been a part of the English Easter celebration. The idea of an Easter bonnet was popularized the legendary songsmith, Irving Berlin in his 1933 hit song; Easter Parade. Soon, "all hat's were on" during the Easter Holiday, and women and girls would put on wide brimmed, lavishly decorated bonnets to celebrate the joy of Easter season. The Easter bonnet, however, is a tradition that is slowly fading as society becomes increasingly casual about such fanciful things.

Let's not forget the Easter lily. Said to symbolize the purity, innocence and virtue of the Virgin Mary, the lily has been called the "whiterobed apostles of hope," and were reportedly found growing in the Garden of Gethsemane after Christ's crucifixion. Churches have traditionally surround altars and crosses with Easter lilies to commemorate the resurrection of Jesus. This beautiful, bright, trumpet-shaped white flower is a reminder that above all,

This coming Sunday, April 8th, is Easter. In 2011, Easter Sunday fell on April 24th, on April 4th in 2010, and it will occur on March 31st in 2013. So why does Easter Sunday vary by as much as a month over the course of a few years while holidays such as Christmas, Valentines Day and Veterans Day remain the same every year, and Thanksgiving, Father's Day, Mother's Day, Memorial Day and Labor Day usually fall within the same week each year?

Turns out, the date of Easter Sunday is calculated to occur on the first Sunday following or on the first full moon of spring, a season ushered in by the vernal equinox. This "moveable" date of Easter was established back in the 4th Century by the First Council of Nicaea; a council of Christian bishops convened by Roman Emperor Constantine. The logic was that Jesus was crucified just before the Jewish Passover, and that holiday occurs on the 14th or 15th day of the first month of spring. Back in those days. Jewish months started when the moon was new, so being about two weeks later, Passover would coincide with the first full moon of spring. So that seemed like the proper time to set for Easter Sunday.

There it is; the date of Easter is tied to the cycle of the moon. A simple look at the calendar, however, is a much simpler way to keep track of the ever-changing date of the celebration of Easter Sunday with each new year.
