Discover a different way to ride The Can-Am Spyder Roadster

By Chris Fiel

Do you enjoy the open-air feel while motorcycle riding? Looking for a rush? Want a new way to explore the open road this summer?

Whether you're thinking of going for a quick stroll around the beautiful Northern Michigan countryside or headed out for a road trip across the country, give the three-wheeled Can-Am roadsters a try!

They offer a unique look to them, they're easy to ride, offer automotive-inspired technology, including stability control, anti-lock brakes, traction control and a semi-automatic transmission.

The Spyder comes in three different models, the Spyder RT, Spyder ST and the Spyder RS.

For those looking to see the country, the Spyder RT is a machine designed for ultimate comfort and built for touring. It allows the riders to sit straight up and keeps the knees in a relaxed position. Some of the key features are wind protection and an ergonomically designed touring saddle and ample amounts of storage, in addition to the RT model, it is also available in RTS and RT Limited models for those looking to upgrade.

For those looking for a sportier look with the feel of a touring bike, the Spyder ST is for you, it keeps the knees in a relaxed position but gives you the upper body lean that a sport bike offers. The ST offers ample storage along with wind protection but with all the ergonomics to handle tight corners as easily as it handles long trips. The ST also offers upgrades in a STS and ST Limited models.

And those that want that sport look and feel, the Spyder RS is waiting. The RS is a sporty machine that is performance driven and requires the rider to hug the machine much like sport bikes of the past, from the forward lean to the sporty knee bend. So if you're looking for amazing acceleration and superb cornering, then this is the model for you. As in the previous models, this bike also offers ample storage along with the ability to upgrade to the RSS model that features Fox Podium shocks.

Each model offers the optional D.E.S.S. (Digitally Encoded Security System) Anti-theft system that helps protect your investment from theft or other unauthorized use. The vehicle will not start without the correctly coded electronic key.

There are choices when it comes to the transmission as well. You can opt for the traditional 5-speed gearbox created specifically for the Can-Am roadster or if no clutch or foot shifter is your fancy, you can choose the semi-automatic option.

The semi-automatic 5-speed transmission uses paddle shifting, for quicker, smoother shifts. Simply apply pressure with your left thumb to shift up, and then use your forefinger to downshift. Both transmission models feature reverse for increased maneuverability.

Every roadster is powered by a 998cc Rotax V-Twin engine that offers a responsive acceleration and plenty of torque. The electronic throttle control helps with better fuel efficiency and most models also feature cruise control.

Another feature is the Dynamic Power Steering system. The Electronically controlled power steering system provides the rider with a varying amount of assistance, depending on the speed of the machine. So no matter how you drive, it is always easy to maneuver and steer.

So if you're looking for something a little different, a little better this summer, give one of the Can-Am Spyder three-wheeled motorcycles a try and see where the open road takes you.

Antlerless deer license applications on sale until Aug. 15

The Department of Natural Resources reminds hunters that the application period for antlerless deer licenses ends Aug. 15.

Hunters can apply for a quota-limited license online at E-license, at any authorized license agent or at a DNR Customer Service Center. A nonrefundable $4 fee is charged at the time of application. Hunters may only apply for a single public-land or private-land license.

Beginning Sept. 5, applicants may visit www.michigan.gov/hunt to check their drawing results and see the number of remaining licenses available.

Young hunters, ages 9-16, may purchase one junior antlerless deer license over the counter July 15 to Aug. 15. No application is required. A 9-year-old must be 10 by Sept. 15 to purchase this license.

About 554,000 antlerless deer licenses are available statewide for the 2013 deer seasons, down from about 709,000 for 2012. License quotas for individual Deer Management Units (DMUs) can be found at www.michigan.gov/deer.

Over-the-counter purchases will begin on Sept. 10 at 10 a.m. for licenses that are left over following the drawing and for private-land licenses in units for which applications are not accepted. Licenses will be sold until quotas are met. Applications are not needed for private-land antlerless deer licenses for DMU 487 (including Alcona, Alpena, Iosco, Montmorency, Oscoda and Presque Isle counties in the northeast Lower Peninsula) and DMUs located in the southern Lower Peninsula.

A number of new, smaller DMUs have been created in southern Michigan, replacing the large multi-county DMU 486 that has been in place for the past few years. Several of these new DMUs range from two to four counties in size; DMU 308 (Barry, Calhoun, and Eaton counties), DMU 311 (Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties), DMU 319 (Clinton, Gratiot, Ingham and Shiawassee counties), DMU 332 (Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola counties), DMU 339 (Kalamazoo and St. Joseph counties), DMU 341 (Kent and Ottawa counties and those portions of Muskegon County in Zone 3), DMU 354 (Mecosta and Montcalm counties), and DMU 361 (Newaygo and Oceana counties and those portions of Muskegon County in Zone 2). Watch the new southern Michigan DMU video to learn more.

Hunters also are reminded to apply for the Pure Michigan Hunt for $4 as many times as they would like. Three winners will receive a prize package valued at over $4,000 that includes an elk and bear license, rifle and crossbow. Visit www.michigan.gov/puremichiganhunt for more information. To purchase Pure Michigan Hunt applications, visit E-license.

For more information, see the 2013 Antlerless Deer Hunting Digest, which can be found at local license agents or online at www.michigan.gov/dnrdigest.

Kiersten's Ride raises funds for suicide prevention

EAST JORDAN — The Clavier family and friends will host "Kiersten's Ride" in East Jordan on Saturday, Aug. 17 in memory of Kiersten Clavier, who died at the age of 17 in August 2012. She was the daughter of David and Lisa Clavier of East Jordan.

The 12-mile horse ride will raise funds for North Country Community Mental Health to further develop suicide prevention programs in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"We decided it was a nice way to honor her and bring awareness to the cause because horseback riding was something she loved to do," said Lisa Clavier, Kiersten Clavier's mother. "Everybody's afraid to talk about suicide. Nobody wants to say the word, and not talking about it doesn't help."

Kiersten's Ride participants will leave East Jordan Aug. 17 at 9:30 a.m. at the intersection of Lacroix Road and M-66. The memorial ride will conclude at Family Farm & Home in Charlevoix on M-66. The Clavier family and friends will offer lunch in the Kmart parking plaza and greet visitors from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Horseback riding and a kind-hearted love for animals were Kiersten Clavier's greatest passions. She volunteered with the Exceptional Riders Program of Petoskey, arriving early to groom and prepare the therapeutic riding horses before teaching people with disabilities to ride. She and her twin sister, Crystal Clavier, rode 250 miles across the state on the Shore-To-Shore Trail with the Michigan Trail Riders Association.

Kiersten Clavier's horse, a white-and-chestnut paint horse named Eugene, will be riderless and led by her sister, 20-year-old Stephanie Fuller, during the first half mile and last half mile of Kiersten's Ride, Lisa Clavier said.

"It's to symbolize that she should be here to ride her horse," Lisa Clavier said, adding that Kiersten Clavier purchased Eugene with her own money when she was 11 years old.

Suicide is the third leading cause of death among 15- to 24-year-olds in the U.S., and approximately 4,600 people in this national age group take their lives each year, according to a 2010 report from the American Association of Suicidology.

There has been a 28 percent increase in suicides committed by adults between the ages of 35 and 64 over the past decade, said Dr. Michael Lucido, a North Country Community Mental Health psychologist who worked with Kiersten Clavier.

North Country Community Mental Health provides behavioral health services to six counties in Northern Michigan, Lucido said.

Registration is open for "Kiersten's Ride," a 12-mile horse ride in East Jordan that will benefit local suicide prevention programs.

— Lisa Clavier, Kiersten Clavier's mother.

"Everybody's afraid to talk about suicide. Nobody wants to say the word, and not talking about it doesn't help."

The agency served 845 children between five years old and 17 years old in 2012.

North Country Community Mental Health will set aside donations from Kiersten's Ride specifically for local mental health awareness initiatives, Lucido said. The funds will help to further develop programming through a collaborative suicide prevention workgroup that is facilitated by the Human Services Coordinating Body of Charlevoix & Emmet Counties.

"I think it's important for people to understand that it can be anybody," said Gretchen Spedowske, a Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District career and college readiness consultant who serves as a member of the suicide prevention workgroup. "Even if someone's talking about it, take it seriously because you don't know. Life is so important."

Warning signs of suicide or risk factors include mental health issues such as anxiety and depression, substance abuse, previous suicide attempts, non-suicidal self-injury, firearms in the household and low self-esteem, Lucido said.

"Getting to the help that is needed is most important," Lucido said. "Sometimes all someone needs is a little encouragement to help them get through a difficult time in their life. Be a support. Let them know moods are temporary states and are never permanent."

Lisa Clavier said she hopes Kiersten's Ride will become an annual, weekend-long horseback-riding event. "We've got to do something," she said. "Every time I hear something like this I keep thinking, 'What have I done to make it better?' So this is my attempt at helping. I just want people to know that we're trying to make a difference and help somebody."

For more information about participation in Kiersten's Ride or sponsorship, contact Lisa Clavier at lisaclavier@hotmail.com.

Donations will be accepted at the event or may be mailed to the Clavier family directly: 04316 Cosier Road, East Jordan, MI 49727. Checks are payable to North Country Community Mental Health.

Stress and How to Survive It (Part 2)

BY DEB HAGEN-FOLEY

Stress is the condition or feeling a person has when they perceive that "demands exceed the personal and social resources the individual is able to mobilize," according to Richard Lazarus, an early and influential stress researcher. Stress is all around us. For some people, stress is a part of daily life. Stress can be both positive and negative. Stress can motivate and improve performance. Chronic stress can be detrimental, both physically and psychologically. What is considered stressful and how one responds to stress will vary from one person to another.

The Holmes and Rahe stress scale was developed and validated in 1967 as a means of quantifying the impact of various stressful life events. The scale is completed by summing the Life Change Units corresponding with each stressors experienced in the past 12 months. A total score greater than 150 increases the likelihood that the individual will become ill as a result of an inability to manage the accumulated stress. If you missed the scale last week and want to know how you would score, you can find the scale here: <http://www.stress.org/holmes-rahe-stress-inventory/> or by viewing the last edition of this paper (available online).

To understand how stress can be detrimental to health, think about what happens in the body when we are under stress. When we perceive a threat, our nervous system responds. The fight or flight response, as it is commonly called, is set into motion when we are under stress. Our nervous systems, preparing to fight the threat or rapidly move away, release adrenaline and cortisol, stress hormones. You might not recognize the hormones being released, but you won't be able to overlook the signs - your heart beats faster, blood pressure rises, muscles tighten and breath quickens. Senses become sharper and focus intensifies. In the short run, these reactions prepare us to either fight or flee.

These reactions can be helpful if we are faced with a physical threat, such as needing to leave a burning building. The response can become less useful, and even damaging, if we perceive the threat as greater than it is and our bodies are prepared for an extreme response when all that was needed was to turn off the smoke detector! Repeating this cycle again and again takes a toll on our physical health and emotional well-being.

Next time, I will describe some of the negative consequences of an inability to manage stress.

Question & Answers About Selling Real Estate

Clear the Clutter and Sell Your House

Part 1 of 2

You don't have to be a minimalist when it comes to your decor but if you want to sell your home, your chances improve greatly if you get rid of the clutter.

While curb appeal speaks volumes, once potential buyers enter your house, you want them to be able to picture themselves in it. And they can't do that if your stuff is spilling out all over the place. Clutter is confusion to prospective buyers and that puts you at a disadvantage right away.

If you're living in a cluttered home, you may not be able to see disarray. You see sentimental things, memories of your beloved grandparents, or knick-knacks from a great vacation; the buyer, on the other hand, sees chaos. They can't separate the house from the clutter and in a market where there are more homes than buyers, you need every advantage you can get.

Even if your house is clean, having stuff crammed in every nook and cranny is visually unappealing. What to do?

Well, you don't need to hire a stager, at least not initially, but you should consider renting a storage space and clear everything out.

Make the house neutral. Make it possible for buyers to mentally move their own belongings in.

As with any type of decluttering project, make piles of things you're going to save, things you're going to donate, and things you're going to throw away. Be ruthless. There's a lot of money at stake, after all, especially if you need to sell your house fast.

Call a local charity to pick up your items or drop them off yourself. If you can absolutely, without a doubt have a garage sale or sell items, you can do that as well but it might be best if you can just say goodbye to what you don't need any more and give to a charitable organization. Yard sales take time and organization that you might not have during the selling process.

Keep what you're going to save and store it. You're not getting rid of it, you're just getting it out of sight. And throw things away. Really. It's time.

2013 Ford Focus earns highest possible safety rating from IIHS

The 2013 Ford Focus earned a Top Safety Pick+ rating from the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. Focus is one of six vehicles in the small car segment to achieve IIHS's highest rating.

Top Safety Pick is a new category in the IIHS ratings. Vehicles must earn a "good" rating for occupant protection in four evaluations: moderate overlap frontal crash, side impact, rollover, and seats/head restraints. The tests are scored "good," "acceptable," "marginal" or "poor." In addition, vehicles must achieve "good" or "acceptable" in a fifth test - small overlap frontal crash. Focus was rated "good" in each of the first four tests and "acceptable" in the small overlap frontal crash.

"Ford is committed to designing vehicles that help keep people safe," said Steve Kenner, global director of Ford's Automotive Safety Office. "We are constantly seeking innovative ways to help drivers avoid accidents and keep occupants safe when an incident does occur."

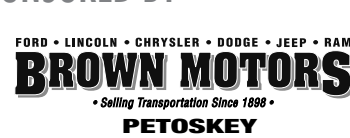

With families in mind, Ford took a holistic approach to safety when designing the Focus - from its ultra-high-strength steel structure to advanced safety technologies. This approach also helped the small car earn top safety ratings from the federal government. The 2013 and 2014 Ford Focus sedan and hatchback, and the 2013 Focus Electric were each awarded a five-star Overall Vehicle Score from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The body structure of the Focus is engineered to be highly protective. It makes extensive use of high-strength and ultra-high-strength steels that to help protect the passenger cabin in a collision. Boron steel in the Focus' structure absorbs and redirects crash forces to protect vehicle occupants in the event of a crash.

Focus also features Ford's MyKey® technology, an industry exclusive. MyKey is designed for families with teen drivers and can be programmed to limit audio system volume, to limit top vehicle speed, and to encourage teens to wear their safety belts with the use of chimes and by muting the radio if the front-row safety belts are not buckled. MyKey is standard on the 2013 Focus.
