Boyer City's Wildwood Rush does not disappoint

By Chris Fiel

BOYNE CITY — Looking for something a little different to cap off your summer? Something Exciting? Something Thrilling? And something just plain Fun?

Then look no further than a few miles northwest of downtown Boyne City, just past and across the road from the entrance to Young State Park.

There lies Wildwood Rush, a local attraction that will quench the thirst of any and all thrill seekers.

Wildwood Rush, the creation that co-owners Andy Poineau and Todd Wright came up with when they put aside their initial idea of an ecofriendly housing development is in their third summer of operation and is quickly becoming a destination spot for locals and seasonal visitors alike.

Michigan's Largest Zip Line Canopy Tour takes you through, and above some of the most beautiful natural hardwood forests in the State that includes aspen, cedar, hemlock, and white ash trees. It is also constructed to the standards established by the Association for Challenge Course Technology (ACCT) and all of guides are trained and tested under those ACCT standards. Safety is the top priority of Wildwood Rush.

I had the opportunity to partake in my first tour over the past weekend with a group of four others (Nick and Alexander Barris of Freeland, MI, along with Donna Pastuschyn and Robert Kardos, both of St. Clair Shores) and our two experienced, knowledgeable and very humorous guides, Seth Hoagland and Andrea Westrick. Andrea is completing her third summer at Wildwood Rush before returning to LSSU this fall to pursue her degree in the dental field.

We had the opportunity to hike along short trails, make our way across five aerial sky bridges constructed of planks and secured with cables, and of course "zip" from tree to tree, platform to platform for nine amazing runs, including the 1,200 foot final run that includes the Midwest's only triple zip line where they say you can reach speeds of up to 40 miles-per-hour and to tell the truth, we were moving at a pretty good pace.

When we first arrived at Wildwood Rush and following checking in, and leaving any loose pocket items such as keys and phones at the main desk; we were fitted for our full-body pulley harnesses and given some safety instructions.

We then hopped in the back of their All-Terrain pickup, equipped with bucket safety seats for up to ten individuals and preceded to our first stop. Following our drop off, we hiked a brief five minutes at the most where we arrived at the first zip line where Seth and Andrea went over further safety instructions, explaining the zip line process and how things would work and what we could expect, all while keeping the adventure exciting with their wit and humor and also gave us some history on the construction of the property and some interesting details about the local ecosystem.

It wasn't long after those instructions that we were off and soaring through the woods on approximately 5000 feet of suspended cable.

Each of the first few zip lines got longer, a little higher and a little faster, preparing us for some of the best aerial views that I have had the opportunity to take in with my own eyes.

Once we landed on a couple of the first tree platforms (constructed with materials from the property) there were plenty of chances to take in (and take photographs of) the breath taking views of our own Lake Charlevoix.

The tour lasted about two hours based on the size of our group, and to say we all had a blast is an understatement, the experience was absolutely Awesome! It was my first time zip lining as it was for both Robert and Donna, while Nick and Alexander had previously been zip lining at other courses, they both lauded the design and experiences they encountered at Wildwood Rush.

If the full canopy tour isn't for you, they also offer rides on just the 1,200 foot triple zip for a lower rate.

But please don't take my word for it, go experience this thrilling adventure for yourself and while you do that, bring along a friend, take your family or gather a group together and call to set up your reservations.

CHARLEVOIX — And it's official. Recent Rayder graduate Tommy Zipp committed to attend and play baseball for Glen Oaks Community College, located in Centerville, MI.

Zipp was a second team All-State pitcher, but will roam the outfield for the Vikings.

During his senior season in which he led the Rayders to their best season in school history, finishing 27-3 overall, a top ten state ranking and Charlevoix captured their first ever Lake Michigan Conference championship and their first district crown since the 1988 season.

Tommy finished with a .354 batting average and knocked in 30 RBIs on the offensive side, and when he wasn't patrolling center field for the Rayders, he set up camp on the mound where he was nearly unbeatable with a 9-1 record and 1.93 ERA.

His ability and performance didn't go unnoticed by fellow coaches as he was named all-state, all-region, all-district, all-conference and academic all-district.

"Tommy was one of the best run producers that we've had here,"

Charlevoix coach Allen Telgenhof said. "He had the biggest hit of the season for us - a game winning bases loaded, bases clearing double with two outs against Harbor Springs and he was almost unbeatable on the mound also."

"He deserves a lot of credit for working so hard to make himself into a very good player, and he had two great guys who worked with him a lot, his dad, Tom, and former pro baseball player, Mike Epping. We're all very proud to see Tommy continue his baseball and academic careers."

Famed Course Architect, Arthur Hills, to Redesign Crooked Tree Golf Club

Crooked Tree Golf Club, located in Petoskey, and a member of the Boyne Resorts collection of golf courses, is receiving a facelift by renowned golf course architect, Arthur Hills, who is re-designing holes 16, 17, and 18. Construction is expected to begin in late August and the course will remain open for play on holes 1 through 15 during the construction period.

Hills and his associates at Hills & Forrest - International Golf Course Architects have created a plan to renovate Crooked Tree Golf Club to make the holes more playable. Significant work is being done to enhance the greens, which are being relocated on holes 16 and 17 and remodeled on all three holes. Other upgrades include a decreased slope on the 16th fairway and reshaping of the 17th fairway in order to improve the lines of sight to the greens. Bunker work on the 18th hole is also part of the project. Boyne Resorts will debut the newly designed holes in the spring of 2014.

Hills is no stranger to working with Boyne Resorts. In the mid-90s, Hills collaborated with Boyne Resorts' president of eastern operations, Stephen Kircher, in designing the renowned Bay Harbor

Golf Club, and constructed his namesake course, Arthur Hills, which opened in 1999 at another Boyne property, Boyne Highlands Resort in Harbor Springs.

"We are honored to once again have the opportunity to work with Arthur Hills, a true golf legend," said Bernie Friedrich, Boyne Resorts' senior vice president of golf and retail. "Hills' re-design of Crooked Tree Golf Club's finishing holes will have a great impact on the playability of the course while maintaining the aesthetics and beauty for which Crooked Tree Golf Club is known."

Crooked Tree Golf Club is a hidden gem amongst Michigan golf. Golfers discovering this premier course are rewarded with elevated terrain and centuries-old hardwoods, challenged with blind shots and impeccable greens, and are astonished by scenic vistas and a stunning location offering breathtaking views of Lake Michigan's Little Traverse Bay.

Crooked Tree Golf Club was originally designed by architect, Harry Bowers, and opened in 1991.

The Affordable Care Act... Not as Scary as it Sounds

Changes are coming to health insurance come October. Individual health insurance is now required by the federal government. With these upcoming changes, many people have begun to wonder if the Affordable Care Act (ACA) will change their current health insurance policies and how they can access the new health insurance exchanges. Lyn Jenks, CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital, will be presenting on the expected changes resulting from the launch of the ACA. Ms. Jenks will be addressing key questions regarding the individual and business mandates, health insurance exchanges and the expected penalties for not having health insurance coverage. "We are hopeful that these presentations will help folks understand what the ACA means to them and how they can access the insurance exchange to evaluate and select insurance products that fit their personal and family needs." Ms. Jenks will be speaking at the following locations, dates and times. August 22, at the Boyne City Public Library at 5:30pm August 29 at the Charlevoix Public Library at 5:30pm September 10 at the East Jordan EMS Station at 5:30pm September 17 at the Charlevoix Public Library at 5:30pm

These sessions are free and open to the public. The length of these presentations will be an hour. Ms. Jenks will conclude each session with a question and answer session. Charlevoix Area Hospital is located at 14700 Lake Shore Drive. For more information about the Hospital please visit cah.org.

Breastfeeding Awareness Month emphasizes mom-to-mom support

Breastfeeding is known to have a positive effect on the health of the infant. But what about the physical and emotional needs of the mom?

This month is Breastfeeding Awareness Month, and the importance of peer support among moms is being emphasized, according to Karen Kowalski, an RN with the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. Research shows that mothers who receive peer counseling from other moms, who are trained to provide assistance to expectant and breastfeeding families, can breastfeed longer and with greater success. Kowalski said this outcome is paramount to the health and wellbeing of both the mother and the infant.

Barb, a mom from Otsego County who tried peer counseling, agreed. "I had two very different breastfeeding experiences with each of my two children," she recalled. "Both times, my peer counselor was very knowledgeable and supportive. She helped me with different techniques and positions, and gave me confidence that I could find a way that would work best for my baby and me. She was right."

In addition to encouragement, peer counselors are able to answer questions and share experiences during a time when moms need support the most.

"Even when mothers are able to get off to a good start, all too often there's a sharp decline in breastfeeding rates and practices in the weeks and months after delivery," explained Deb O'Neill, Breastfeeding Peer Counselor. "This is the time when a mother-to-mother support system is essential."

Kowalski added that breastfeeding moms also need support from their families, friends and communities. "We all need to praise and support young families who are breastfeeding," she said.

Peer support is offered to expectant and breastfeeding families at each of the Health Department of Northwest Michigan's local offices in Bellaire, Charlevoix, Gaylord, Harbor Springs/Petoskey and Mancelona. The Health Department also offers the WIC program, newborn home visits and phone consultations with nurses. Moms can call (800) 432-4121 for more information or to schedule an appointment.

Lyme Disease Numbers 10 Times Higher than Previously Reported says CDC

Protect Yourself and Your Pets

On Monday, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention released an estimate of the number of people diagnosed with Lyme disease each year and their new estimate is 10 times higher than previously reported.

While the CDC's newest numbers estimate the number of Americans diagnosed with Lyme disease each year is approximately 300,000 people, veterinarians from Michigan Veterinary Specialists, a BluePearl Veterinary Partners hospital, want to remind people that their pets are susceptible to Lyme disease as well.

Lyme disease is an infectious disease caused by bacteria that is carried and transmitted by ticks.

Lyme disease can cause fatigue, fever, joint pain, kidney damage, lethargy, loss of appetite, neurologic disorders and trouble walking. Lyme disease is treatable, but as with most problems, the sooner it is caught, the better. If left untreated, it is potentially fatal.

Here are some things MVS and BluePearl doctors recommend to ensure your pet is protected:

- Talk with your veterinarian about vaccinating your pet against Lyme disease.
- Talk with your veterinarian about the best way to prevent fleas and ticks from latching on to your pet.

- They may suggest an oral medication where your pet is simply given a pill once a month or they may encourage spot-on medications, medicated shampoos, powders, tick dips or tick collars.

- Try to keep your pets indoors as much as possible and have your yard and home treated.

- Inspect your pet for ticks if they have been outside near wooded areas.

- If a tick is found, take tweezers and remove the tick as close to the body of the pet as possible, trying to get the head of the tick out.

- Keep an eye on your pet and look out for any changes in behavior.

- If your pet is not acting right, take him or her to your veterinarian as soon as possible.

According to data provided by the CDC, Lyme disease is found throughout the continental U.S. but is found more heavily in the Midwest and eastern U.S.

According to the CDC, 96% of Lyme disease cases in the U.S. were reported from Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin.

Michigan DHS Launches Protect Mi Family

Project Aims to Keep More Children, Families Together

The Michigan Department of Human Services is pleased to announce the launch today of Protect MiFamily, the new Title IV-E waiver project approved for the state by the federal government. The five-year pilot program begins operating today in three counties: Macomb, Kalamazoo and Muskegon.

Michigan needs to invest existing federal resources in the most effective and innovative way possible. Protect MiFamily is designed to do just that by strengthening families and improving the lives of vulnerable children, with the aim of keeping families together.

The children involved in this project will be from birth to 5 years old and determined by Children's Protective Services to be at high or intensive risk for future maltreatment. Families served also must live in one of the three pilot counties, where private agencies Lutheran Social Services of Michigan and Catholic Charities of West Michigan will partner with DHS in the new program. All three counties chosen have a higher than typical rate of children in that youngest age group being removed from their homes and placed into foster care.

The federal government oversees Title IV-E funding to the states. That money generally gets spent on the placement costs involved with moving children into foster care. Now, Michigan is one of just a handful of states to be granted a Title IV-E waiver for 2013 and beyond. There will be no additional federal dollars involved, but rather the repurposing of a portion of existing child welfare dollars to the project.

"There's been a real disconnect between what we want for children and families and what we can afford," said Maura Corrigan, DHS director. "Reallocating funding from the federal government into early intervention to prevent abuse and neglect is a smart investment. Keeping families together and children safe will be our primary goal with Protect MiFamily."

One hundred families in each of the pilot counties (300 total per year) will be identified and offered a broad array of services in the program, with each engagement expected to last a minimum of 15 months. Protect MiFamily under DHS will work with its partners to provide:

Safer Children—Children can be made safer in their own homes by better adapting to strategies under Protect MiFamily, avoiding maltreatment and the chance of secondary trauma often associated with foster care. The extended treatment plan will allow for monitoring both immediate and long-term safety issues.

Strong Families—Helping at-risk families address the root causes of maltreatment and neglect, assisting them in raising happier, healthy children. Strengths will be identified, as will barriers like substance abuse, domestic violence and depression.

Supportive Communities—Many families under stress have no support system in place. Protect MiFamily will work to nurture and grow that support base among family, friends, neighbors and the community.

Innovation—Working to redirect resources right here in Michigan, at the front end when a family can still be saved and preserved intact, with evidence-based intervention. Protect MiFamily will invite new avenues of collaboration between DHS, its private partners, faith-based and other community organizations.

"This new program is an important step and part of the larger reform of child welfare," said Stacie Bladen, Director of Protect MiFamily for DHS. "If successful, this project will set the stage for effective prevention and preservation services along with child protection in the years to come."

DHS has also partnered with noted research consultant Westat and the University of Michigan to provide critical analysis of Protect MiFamily, for a rigorous ongoing evaluation during its run and a full report after the planned conclusion date.

Question & Answers About Selling Real Estate

Clear the Clutter and Sell Your House

Part 2 of 2

Here are some particular areas you should pay attention to as you declutter.

Keep furniture to a minimum in your living areas so that your rooms look bigger.

Clear out shoes, coats, umbrellas and other outdoor items from your foyer or mudroom.

Move out big pieces of equipment, such as guitars, amps, drum sets, or exercise equipment.

Take down your personal photos and store them for yourself. Let the buyer imagine putting pictures of their own family on the walls, tables and shelves.

Get rid of old newspapers, books and magazines, recycling if you can.

Organize your wires in computers, printers, televisions and other electronic equipment so that it doesn't look sloppy and overwhelming.

Take away those boxes of tissue, medicines, magazines and other items you might have on your nightstand and keep just lamps, clocks and maybe a book or two on them.

Edit your bookshelves so that you have a neat, orderly space with books and perhaps a few decorative items, like a vase, globe or other art object.

Remove everything from your kitchen countertops, keeping only essentials like a toaster. Add decorating items sparingly (bowls of unblemished fruit look nice). And clear off all those magnetized coupons and your child's artwork from the refrigerator.

Arrange the shelves in your pantry nicely. Have everything point in the same direction so that it looks neat and organized.

Get rid of sickly plants and only keep a few healthy looking ones on display.

Make sure your beds are made and all extraneous items, like clothes, toys or shoes, are off the floor.

Clear out the bathrooms and spruce them up with some fresh soaps, towels or maybe flowers. Hide your razors, toothbrushes and shampoos out of sight in a cabinet while your house is being shown.

Clean out your closets so they aren't packed to the rafters.

Wonderfully appointed walk-out ranch in Boyne Falls

By Jim Akans

Located on a nicely landscaped, gently sloping lot in Boyne Falls, this wonderfully appointed walk-out ranch home features plenty of beautifully finished space for the growing family to enjoy for years to come.

There is nearly 3,000 square feet of living space in this home, about evenly split between the main living level and the expertly finished lower level. There are a total of four bedrooms; three on the main floor and another on the lower, two baths, and an open dining and kitchen area with adjoining living room that is perfectly designed for family gatherings as well as entertaining. There is a second kitchen with wet bar on lower level which adjoins a large family room area...also a great place to relax or entertain; "are you ready for some football!!?"

Gorgeous wood flooring extends throughout much of the main level, including the kitchen, dining and living room areas. Other highlights of the home including central air conditioning, a full compliment of appliances including washer and dryer, a raised deck that overlooks the very nice rear yard (which includes a handy storage shed), and a fantastic overall home "curb appeal." This fabulous walk-out ranch home is located at 2180 Center Street in Boyne Falls and is listed at $149,900. For a more information or to arrange a tour, call Marty Moody or Chris Christensen at
