CHARLEVOIX: To end the 18 month long saga in which former Charlevoix County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Shaynee Fanara filed a lawsuit against former County Prosecuting Attorney John Jarema the County will give $375,000 to Fanara for mental anguish, lost wages, and attorney costs.

The lawsuit was filed October 1, 2012 when Fanara alleged that Jarema had harassed her based on her gender, and that her attempts to stop his behavior had gone ignored by the County Board of Commissioners and County Human Resources Coordinator. The trial for the lawsuit was set to begin 2 weeks ago; however attorneys representing both parties came to a settlement beforehand in April. The details of that settlement were revealed last week.

As compensation for her losses throughout this legal battle Fanara will receive $375,000 from Charlevoix County. According to Fanara's attorney Kathleen Bogas the settlement accomplishes the purpose that Fanara set out to have.

"Mrs. Fanara sought compensation for her losses, including lost wages and benefits and

CHARLEVOIX: In another stroke against the proposed

Charlevoix/Boyne City Rd detached bike trail, the County Board of Commissioners found themselves questioned yet again at the May 28 regular meeting.

Though the issue of Phase 1 was not directly on the agenda, several in the audience took advantage of the public comment periods to express their unhappiness with the decision to move forward with gathering funding for Phase 2. Among those frustrated were two homeowners who live along the road who have yet to give their signature of approval to go ahead with the trail.

The concerns expressed included but were not lim-

Charlevoix County Community Foundation helps keep Charlevoix Beautiful

Chip Hansen, President of Charlevoix Community Foundation and Rob Straebel, City Manager for the city of Charlevoix announced the establishment of the Canopy Fund to replace trees in the city.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the City of Charlevoix have partnered to protect the beautiful tree-lined streets of Charlevoix and keep the city green for many years to come. All over Michigan, trees are dying due to the invasive emerald ash borer, a green beetle that infests ash trees, leaving them dead within one to two years. In the past 10 years, Charlevoix has lost more than 200 trees throughout the city. Over time, most likely every ash tree within Charlevoix will be affected by the emerald ash borer and will need to be removed.

The tree loss has been so great that city funds cannot meet the need to replace the trees. "The city has had an aggressive tree planting program in the past, but reduction in state funding and reduction in taxes has made it difficult to keep up with the need for new trees," said Rob Straebel, city manager for the City of Charlevoix.

If this continued, Charlevoix would lose much of the beautiful foliage that lines city streets. When partners at the community foundation became aware of this issue, they wanted to find a way to help. After talking with a few potential donors, the foundation established a new Canopy Fund that is dedicated to helping the city replace trees on an annual basis. Established in September of last year, the fund will hopefully provide for the purchase of seven to 10 new trees each year.

"We're hopeful that the fund will continue to grow, which will help to ensure that Charlevoix's streets will remain as they are today—lined by beautiful, mature and healthy trees," said Chip Hansen, president, Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

This fall the city will plant at least 100 new trees. "We are incredibly enthused about the partnership between the community foundation and the city," said Straebel. "The Canopy Fund is extremely beneficial, not only for now, but for future generations." The trees planted will be a diverse variety of species, helping to ensure that any future disease introduced will not spread to affect the entire tree population. No new ash trees will be planted, as those would be quickly affected by the emerald ash borer, said

Straebel.

"Keep Charlevoix Beautiful is more than a slogan, and many factors combine to make Charlevoix a beautiful place to live and work," said Hansen. "The tree-lined streets are a big part of Charlevoix's appeal, and we're pleased to be in a position to partner with the City of Charlevoix to establish and build the Charlevoix Canopy Fund for years to come. We hope more people will join us to participate in this worthwhile project."

To contribute to the Charlevoix Canopy Fund, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440. The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a public charity dedicated to improving and enriching the lives of people in Charlevoix County. The organization holds various funds, all established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes; others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County now and for generations to come. Boyne City spring residential rubbish collection delays

This year's start to Boyne City's Residential Rubbish Collection has not gone smoothly, according to Boyne City City Manager Michael Cain. Scheduled to begin for the south half of Boyne City on Wednesday, May 28th the contractor did not provide a rubbish collection and removal truck until one full day and an additional several hours later than expected on Thursday the 29th. Those delays combined with a much larger than usual volume of items set out for collection meant that Wednesday's scheduled collections were not completed until Friday afternoon and Thursday's scheduled collections were unable to be addressed before the weekend. The contractor informed the City that no trucks were available over the weekend to help catch up. On Monday the bad situation was made worse when the contractor failed to provide the truck necessary to begin work on last Thursday's scheduled pickup. Throughout Monday, City personnel worked to get the project back on track with the contractor or make other arrangements. Late Monday the contractor pledged to provide the necessary trucks on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week to hopefully get the project back on schedule. The North end of Boyne City, which is usually scheduled for Thursday's Residential Rubbish collection, and still hasn't been touched, will be the first areas addressed. The City of Boyne City sincerely apologies for the inconvenience these delays have caused and will continue to work diligently until all outstanding issues are resolved. The City greatly appreciates the patience its citizens have exhibited during this time. Changes to the City's special residential rubbish collection program noted above do not affect regular non city provided trash collection schedules. Further updates will be provided on the City's website www.cityofboynecity.com or by calling 231.582.6597 during normal office hours.

EAST JORDAN-East Jordan City Commissioners met Tuesday evening to approve requests for the upcoming South Arm Classics Festival.

The annual event, which began as a classic boat show in 2006, will set sail July 11 and 12 in downtown East Jordan and will host a series of events, including a microbrewery beer and wine tent. The beer tent will be located in the East Jordan City Marina parking lot and will offer local brews from 2:00-8:00 p.m. on Saturday, July 12. With the tent's location set on city property, commissioners were asked to approve recommended guidelines for the festival board.

Anita Shepard approached the commissioners on behalf of the festival with concerns over three of the recommendations: 1) servers must meet age requirement of 21 or over, 2) servers are prohibited from drinking alcoholic beverages while on duty, and 3) no one under age 21, except musical performers, will be allowed within the microbrew tent and fenced-in enclosure.

Shepard requested that the age requirement of servers be lowered to 18 or older, aligning with state laws, as some volunteers could be between the ages of 18 and 20. She also asked that all servers of legal drinking age be allowed to partake in drinking up to two alcoholic beverages (12 oz/cup) during their three-hour shift. While most volunteers wait until after their shift has finished to consume alcoholic drinks, Shepard said, it is a freedom that has been awarded in the past.

Commissioners debated the requests, assessing the city's liability.

City Attorney Scott Beatty

weighed in, saying, "There needs to be some balance; if you put your trust in good people, better things are bound to happen."

After commissioners amended the guidelines to meet the requests of the festival, the commission unanimously approved the recommendations.

"I commend activities like the South Arm Classic," said commissioner Mark Penzien. "It's part of our future, part of our economic growth. It's a little bit of a balancing act, but we need to take some chances for economic growth."

At the close of the meeting,

City Administrator Chris Yonker reminded the public to be aware of the construction on the M-32 bridge in town and asked to keep intersections clear. As traffic may back up at the temporary traffic signals, Yonker requested that the public not block intersections at Main St. and Mill St., as well as Second St. and Mill St.

The next regular meeting of the East Jordan City Commission is scheduled for 7 p.m., Tuesday, June 17, 2014.

Like to Learn: Volunteer tutors needed for summer program

Boyne District Library is looking for volunteers to help children in grades K-5 improve their reading skills during the summer. The "Like to Learn" summer program is free and will run June 23 – Aug. 25.

"Parents have expressed a need for help with improving reading skills for their children, and volunteers are willing to help, so the library is providing the means to connect one with the other," said children's librarian Monica Kroondyk. "We are pleased that the library can provide the framework for getting children the help they need to be successful and happy readers." Kroondyk ran a pilot tutoring program the last few weeks of school, and based on its success, the program will continue during the summer, focusing on reading skills.

"Tutors do not need have an education background, just an open heart and a willingness to help," Kroondyk said.

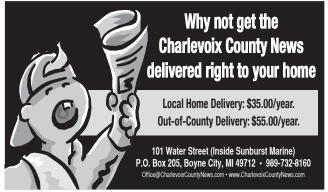

The library has literacy games and other materials and support available for tutors. Volunteers are asked to make a minimum weekly commitment of one hour. Time slots will be offered for 45 minutes from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and volunteers can pick the days and times that work best for them.

There will be an informational meeting for potential tutors on Friday, June 13 at 3:30 p.m. in the library's community room.

Whether children need to improve their reading skills, or just want to add some educational activities to their summer months, they can "Like to Learn" at Boyne District Library.

If you're interested in tutoring or if you have a child who would like to participate contact Kroondyk at kroondykm@boynelibrary.org or 231-582-7861.

Have Fun, Be Safe

Sheriff encourages teens and parents to make prom and graduation safe by following the law

Sheriff Don Schneider wants teens in Charlevoix County to have a fun and memorable experience at this year's prom and graduation open houses. To ensure that teens stay safe, he is reminding them and their parents that underage drinking is not only dangerous but it is against the law. "You can't have a memorable experience at prom or graduation if you are unable to remember any of it because you have had too much to drink," said Sheriff Schneider.

The consequences of underage drinking are serious. Every year underage drivers under the influence of alcohol kill or seriously injure themselves or others in crashes. In some communities a partnership between law enforcement and school officials prevents students who have been caught drinking from participating in extracurricular activities.

Sheriff Schneider offers the following tips to prevent underage drinking and keep this year's prom and graduation open houses safe for everyone in the community:

Parents and other adults must remember that underage drinking is against the law. Not only is furnishing alcohol to someone under age 21 a crime, it sends the wrong message.

Parents and teens both need to understand that "everybody is doing it" is just plain wrong! Being liked should never mean giving up your personal responsibility or caving in to social pressures. Parents have an obligation to set boundaries that tell teens which behaviors are appropriate and which are not.

Everyone in a community is responsible for preventing alcohol-related injuries. At prom time retailers, limousine drivers, hotel owners, and others in the community have a responsibility to report suspicious activity to law enforcement. Suspicious activity may include:

Drinking and/or visible intoxication of a youth

Someone purchasing a large quantity of alcohol, furnishing alcohol to a minor, or a teen using a false ID.

Prom parties hosted in hotel rooms

Sheriff Schneider warns, "Keep safe during your end of school celebrations. If you are a teen, don't drink or use drugs. If you are a parent, remain vigilant about what your teen is doing. By making it inconvenient for kids to drink, you just may save a life."

Wings Over Gaylord Father's Day weekend

By Jessica Boyce

The Wings Over Gaylord Air Show has been bringing people to Gaylord for four years, and this year they are celebrating their 5th Anniversary. People from all over can come to the Gaylord Regional Airport to enjoy this spectacular air show. The air show takes place on Father's Day Weekend, June 14th and 15th, with "Find the Plane' taking place on Friday, June 6th.

On the 6th, community members can try to "Find the Plane" that is parked someplace in Gaylord. This is the fifth year in a row that the airport has offered this opportunity to Eagle 101.5 listeners. All you have to do is be the first to find where the plane is parked and tell the team that is with the plane that you heard it on Eagle 101.5 to receive prizes. Last year, the plane was parked at Gaylord Ford, in 2012 it was in the Hampton Inn parking lot, in 2011 it was in Meijer's parking lot, and in 2010 it was under the pavilion downtown. Where will the plane be this year? Tune in to Eagle 101.5 to find out.

The gates for the air show will open at 9:00 am on both the 14th and 15th, and the Opening Ceremony will take place at 12:00 pm on Saturday, June 14th. Also at noon on Saturday is something that has never been done at an air show before. Liz Johnson and Jim Wiley will be getting married in a short ceremony that is being called "Rings Over

ONLINE AT WWW.CHARLEVOIXCOUNTYNEWS.COM

Gaylord." Jim is an Otsego County Fireman and also works at the airport, and Liz is a nanny and a full-time student at North Central. The air show organizers have arranged the ceremony at the start of the air show and have included some surprises for the couple and the spectators

The performances on Saturday will start at 12:30 pm after the ceremony, and at 12:00 pm on Sunday. Some of the performers this year include: the Vintage WWII Aircraft of Yankee Air Force, The Jet School Bus, RZR Jet Polaris 4 Wheeler, T-33 Shooting Star, The Extra 300, Parachute Jump Team, Aero Stars Formation Aerobatics, Wing Walker, Super Stearman, Military Vehicles, and Aircraft and Helicopter rides. New this year is a "Kid Zone" aviation themed inflatable park. At 7:00 pm the Kiwanis Band Night gets started with music by the band The Cookies.

Wings Over Gaylord got started as a way to bring people to Gaylord and to bring attention to the community. There are only six air shows in Michigan, and most of them take place down state. The only other air show in Northern Michigan is in Traverse City, and that only consists of the show over the bay and not all of the interactive opportunities like Wings Over Gaylord has.

Wings Over Gaylord is a great way for families to spend Father's Day Weekend. In the past, around 8,000 people have attended the event, whether they stay for the whole weekend, or just come to the show for one day. The price of admission remains the same as the past years with the cost at $10 for adults, $5 for children 6-12, and children 5 and under are free.

Don't miss out on the chance to see Wings Over Gaylord and Rings Over Gaylord this year. For more information you can visit wingsovergaylord.org.

Personal Injury Accident

Sheriff W.D. (Don) Schneider reports on May 31, 2014 at approximately 1:07am , the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office along with East Jordan EMS responded to the scene of a personal injury accident at 1344 Seguanota Rd. The accident originally occurred on Novotny Rd. near Kerry Lane in Marion Township but the victim had been moved from the scene prior to 911 being contacted. Shortly before the time it was reported, 26 year old Emily Vandeweghe of Charlevoix and 34 year old Scott Cromie of Alanson were leaving a party near Novotny Rd. and Kerry Lane with their four year old son, Nathan Cromie.

When Emily decided she wanted to stay at the party longer, Emily jumped out of the moving vehicle, fell and was then ran over by the vehicle operated by her fiancé Scott. Scott picked up Emily and put her back into the vehicle and left the scene. They went to 1344 Sequanota Rd. while a friend called to report the accident. Emily was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment. Alcohol is believed to be a factor in the incident which is still under investigation.

News Moms & Tots Center receives $5,000 grant

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation awarded a grant of $5,000 to the Moms & Tots Center for the purchase of cribs and car seats for Charlevoix County residents who are unable to afford them. The grant was awarded to help address the Foundation's concern for the safety of children.

The grant was recommended to the Foundation Board by the Youth Advisory Committee. The Youth Advisory Committee has been a core part of the community foundation since the beginning. Youth from throughout Charlevoix County are selected to be members of this special committee and together they oversee grantmaking to causes that serve area youth. They meet several times a year to share their perspectives on local issues, survey their peers to set grantmaking priorities, advocate for youth needs, acquaint themselves with area resources and nonprofit organizations, and put philanthropy into action. This is a training ground for future philanthropic leaders, and an excellent place to learn the power of giving. They review and evaluate grant requests and select projects for the future. Over the years, our YAC has awarded more than $803,000 in grants to benefit this area's children, teens, and families.

The Moms & Tots Center is a Christian non-denominational human service agency assisting with the needs of pregnant young women and young mothers from southern Charlevoix and northern Antrim Counties. The Center is a program of Good Samaritan Family Services located in Ellsworth.

The Moms & Tots Center was established in August of 2001.

The grant approval was celebrated recently at the Moms & Tots Center. From the left Carole Broadwick, Director of the Center, Mishelle Shooks, Program Associate for the Charlevoix County Community Foundation presenting the grant check, and Jerry Troyer, Board Chair of Good Samaritan Family Services.

The clients earn cribs and car seats by watching educational videos. A client can earn a crib by watching six hours of educational videos about child care, parenting, discipline, etc., a car seat requires two hours.

The Moms & Tots Center is located in Ellsworth at 9100 Pleasant Hill Road. The hours are Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, 10-4. Young women are invited to visit the center any time it is open. All services are offered free of charge. The center's phone number is 231-588-2200; toll free is 866-488-2200.

The Moms & Tots Center's ability to help is limited only by its financial resources and is dependent on the generosity of members of the community. Anyone interested in helping with a tax-deductible gift, please make your check out to Moms & Tots Center, and send to: Moms & Tots Center, PO Box 206, Ellsworth, MI 49729

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a local charitable organization dedicated to enhancing the quality of life for all citizens of Charlevoix County by building permanent endowment, addressing needs through grantmaking, and providing leadership resources to serve the community. Double Up Food Bucks program to expand fresh food access.

Fifth season features innovations to reach more Michigan residents

CHARLEVOIX — Double Up Food Bucks, the successful program designed by Fair Food Network both to expand access to healthy food for lowincome Michigan residents and to support Michigan farmers, is now available 9am -1pm every Thursday in East Park at the Charlevoix Farmers Market.

Double Up Food Bucks doubles the value of Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program benefits, also known as SNAP, or food stamps, when used for fresh, locally-grown fruits and vegetables at nearly 100 farmers' markets across Michigan.

In the grocery pilot, SNAP recipients who spend at least $10 on produce items using a Michigan Bridge Card will get a Double Up Food Bucks Reward Card good for another $10 of Michigan-grown produce, up to $20 per week.

Consumers can see a map of participating markets and watch a video of how to double their Bridge card money at Doubleupfoodbucks.org

Charlevoix Farmers Market also accepts WIC, Project Fresh coupons for seniors, Michigan Bridge Card, VISA, Master Card and Discover Card.

Double Up Food Bucks began in 2009 at five farmers' markets in Detroit. Customers have since visited scores of participating markets over 100,000 times, spending about $3.5 million in combined SNAP benefits and incentive dollars for fresh, healthful foods from local producers.

If you have questions or to learn how to qualify for these programs, please contact Charlevoix Market Manager, M. Chris Leese at 231-330-0968 or email: ChxFarmersMarket@gmail.com.

T.F.I.O.S. Rant

The Fault in Our Stars will be in theatres June 6 and the Charlevoix Public Library wants to hear from teens about their favorite parts of the movie and how well the producers did compared to the book. Join the library 1:00 -2:30 p.m., Saturday, June 14 and have a good rant about your favorite parts of the movie and especially the parts you think they screwed up.

John Green's popular book, The Fault in our Stars, or more widely known as TFiOS (pronounced ti-fi-ohs) is a tragic (or maybe comedic – depending on vour view) love story revolving around two kids, cancer and their favorite novel. Mr. Green somehow is able to celebrate life while at the same time showing life's suffering. This wildly popular teen book will make for great discussion and fun at the library.

Join in the discussion, take a selfie with the book (attendees will get to take a free copy home), make a quotable pillowcase and enjoy some TFiOS snacks. Participants will also have a chance to win free movie tickets at the Charlevoix Cinema III. For more information about this or other teen programs at the library, visit www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

Mancelona Food Pantry & Resale Shop is a win-win organization

It's truly a win-win organization. The Mancelona Food Pantry & Resale Shop is both an excellent spot to find quality, used items of virtually any kind, and the proceeds from sales at the Resale Shop help to support the ongoing mission of the Mancelona Food Pantry in providing food for area families in need.

"The Food Pantry serves families throughout Antrim County." states Edith Plumb, a volunteer at the establishment and Secretary of the Board. "It was founded about 10 years ago and is ran by a very dedicated group of volunteers. We serve approximately 200 families in assisting with the food needs each month, which translates into approximately 700 individuals.'

Proceeds from sales at the Resale Shop greatly assist in serving those family's needs. Highlights of the donated items available include just about every type of household article; includ-

Charlevoix Brew Event to start the festival season early

By Norma Jean Babcock

CHARLEVOIX: For those who love Craft Beer Charlevoix has a delightful festival in store for you! On June 7, make sure you head to Bridge Park for a brand new festival hosted by the Bridge Street Taproom and the Downtown Development Authority which will feature microbreweries from across Northern Michigan and live music.

The concept for the "Craft Beer Festival" originated with the owners of Bridge Street Taproom, who wanted to bring more traffic to the area in the off season and feel that craft brew is the perfect niche for Charlevoix to dip into.

"The idea started with our grand opening and that we should host an event in Bridge Park which is adjacent to our Tap Room...I believe Craft beer festivals have a direct economic impact on the local area and this is an event that can grow over the years," said co-owner Phil Parr.

The festival will feature many different breweries, as well as live music in the park and food trucks. The festival will be centered in a tent that only those over the age of 21 may enter.

However, those arranging the festival hope to garner an audience of varying ages.

"The festival will draw craft beer lovers from around the local area, if not further... (it) attracts every demographic from young 21 year olds on up. That is why craft beer is so great," states Parr.

Some of the breweries featured are: Short's Brewing Company.

Petoskey Brewing Company, and Beard's Brewery. Food trucks include Happy's Taco and Etta's Food Truck. In addition to the festival featuring these breweries. local restaurants will be hosting the breweries for "taptake-overs" on Friday evening.

The DDA is excited to cosponsor this event, especially due to the fact that all proceeds will go directly to the DDA for projects that further the downtown area.

"We are so excited to work with the Bridge Street Tap Room to bring this festival to Charlevoix, not only will visitors be able to enjoy craft beer and beautiful scenery; but we are hoping that they will take time to walk around town and enjoy the countless amenities, shops and restaurants that make downtown Charlevoix a unique and vibrant place," said Bethany Pearson of the DDA.

Although the festival is limited to those 21 and over people of all ages are encouraged head to Charlevoix this weekend to enjoy the many activities it has to offer.

"...bring the entire family to Charlevoix. The Library, Circle of Arts, beaches, parks and Fountain of Youth will all be open and ready to entertain children and adults alike," said Pearson.

CHARLEVOIX CITY COUNCIL MEETING, MAY 2, 2014 Council Creates New Ordinance

Norma Jean Babcock

CHARLEVOIX: In a quieter City Council meeting this week, a new ordinance was created for picking up leaf and brush within the City limits and two grants we're awarded to Charlevoix.

City Manager Rob Straebel explained to City Council and the gathered audience that new regulations will take effect in thirty days for leaf and brush pick up in the City. Straebel stated the program was a very popular one but that there were some issues with it, including slower pick up times and difficultly regulating the items left for pick up.

'We've heard some complaints regarding materials being left on the street too long," stated Straebel.

Because of this, the new ordinance ceptable being left out. Some of these items, including tree stumps, bricks and treated lumber make it difficult for those collecting the brush to do so quickly. These items were never intended to be a part of the program, and not only slow down pick up, but also create a blight according to city planners.

Acceptable materials include leaves, perennial cuttings, and grass clippings to list a few. Leaving out materials other than these to be collected could warrant a Municipal Civil Infraction.

Straebel said at the meeting that the point of this ordinance is to expedite pick up and to avoid blight, not to ticket those who violate it. He stated that tickets would be issued only after warning letters had been ignored.

This new ordinance can be found awarded two grants by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. One of these grants is from the Chicago Club, who are giving $1,900 for use toward scholarships to Camp McSauba for children whose families could not ordinarily afford the camp. This is the sixth year that the Chicago Club has awarded this grant to Charlevoix. The other grant of $14,500 is for the Lake to Lake Trail and was awarded by the Ethel Coeling Environmental Fund and two anonymous donors.

In other council news the Bridge Street Tap Room will feature outdoor seating this summer directly in front of the buildings location. Tips to Protect your pup from the dog days of summer

As you and your dog head outside to enjoy the warmer weather, it's important to remember pet safety. Heat can be dangerous for pets, increasing the chances of heat-related stress or illness, including sun burns, skin cancers and heat stroke.

The American Veterinarian Medical Association (AVMA) wants to help you keep your pups safe this summer with tips to protect dogs from the heat. Remember, dogs can't expel heat as well as humans can, so be sure to follow these tips to make sure your dog stays cool this summer!

Never leave your 1. dog in the car. Ever. Temperatures can rise as much as twenty degrees inside a vehicle in ten minutes, and can reach up to 115 degrees when the outside temperature is only 70! Leave your dog at home instead, your pup will thank you!

2. Make sure your dog has access to water at all times. As temperatures get hotter, it's important for your dog to have water available. If your dog's water bowl is left in the sun for a while, replace it with fresh, cold water that will cool your dog down.

Make sure your dog 3. has access to shade. This is especially important if your dog is going to be outside for an extended period of time. Remember, dogs can get sunburned too!

Walk your pet dur-4. ing the cooler hours of the day. "Pets shouldn't be exercised during the peak hours when the sun is hottest," says Dr. Mitsie Vargas, Veterinarian. "Dogs can't dissipate heat as well as we can."

When walking, try 5. to avoid hot surfaces. As roads, trails and sidewalks become hot, they can burn your dog's paws. Plan a route with lots of shade, and let your dog walk on cooler surfaces like grass.

6. Prevent pesky parasites. Summer is the high season for fleas, ticks and heartworms. Talk to your Veterinarian about the best way to keep your dog free of parasites.

7. Consider clipping or shaving dogs with long coats. Dogs are basically wearing a fur coat 24/7, which can be extremely hot during the summer months. Giving your dog a trim will help keep him or her cool.

Be a responsible pet parent this summer, and keep your dog cool by following these guidelines! The AVMA has been making sure our pets get the best care for over 150 years, and you can find more great information on keeping our pets happy and healthy at .

the meal service. Meals will be provided at East Jordan Elementary School, 304 Fourth St. from June 16, 2014 through August 15, 2014.

At East Jordan Elementary School breakfast will be served from 9:00 am - 9:30 am and lunch will be served from 11:30 am - 12:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Neighborhood children are welcome to participate. The East Jordan site will be closed July 3 and July 4, 2014.

If Walls Could Talk

By Tina Sundelius

HORTON BAY-No matter what the weather is, we know summer has come to Northern Michigan when the Horton Bay General Store opens. The meticulously preserved antiquated building with its tranquil glimpses of the region's history and eclectic selection of vintage items, wines, coffees and services truly is the heartbeat of the village.

Chip Lorenger is the onehundred and thirty year old store's 32nd owner and is holding the record for longevity. "We've had to diversify our sales approach into giftware and antiques at the same time trying to maintain the ambience and history of the store. You can't do just one thing and you have to tweak. Every year we tweak what didn't work last year," explained Lorenger. As a result of being imaginative and flexible the store is finally supporting itself after fourteen years. "We have a love for the building, my wife and I both put our heart and soul into this place. Everyone else tried but I had the benefit of being a nurse and not having to depend on it for our personal income," he said.

Keeping the historical integrity of the store has always been important to Lorenger. When he and his wife Claudia, who passed away in 2012 bought the store they had to gut the entire interior. "It was a 1960's party store downstairs complete with Formica counter tops and florescent lights," he said. The upstairs was a mishmash of different eras and disrepair."This place is the last vestige of the original Horton Bay businesses," he said. The store also holds a sort of international acclaim. Ernest Hemingway frequented the store in his youth and was married in a church that once stood next door. He described the store in the story "Up in Michigan," and it seems to be the model for Mr. Packard's store in "The Last Good Country."

The store continues to evolve. In 2011 a B&B was added upstairs. There are only two rooms available, that are "very Victorian" in style, walking up the stairs you step back one hundred years. "Either room is quite private, one has an in-suite bath," said

Simple breakfasts and deli style lunches are served 5 days a week. A variety of fresh ground coffees is always available for bulk purchase and coffee purchased by the cup is sold on a donation basis with all proceeds going to the Humane Society. Mondays and Tuesdays Lorenger bakes the croissants, muffins, scones, and pastries fresh in the store and only opens the doors to supply coffee and newspapers to the villagers while he bakes and makes the weeks chicken and potato salads. "I open it up just so they can get their newspapers and coffee and that's all," he said. Simple breakfast fare includes eggs, pancakes and according to lunch customer Roger Conaway, "Big sliced bacon."

A dark stained oak soda bar lined with tiffany lamps dominates the left side of the building. "We do real malted milk," said Lorenger. There is now a tavern in the back of the store that seats 28 and weather permitting another 40 on the patio, open from 6-9 p.m. Thursdays through Sunday reservations are needed due to the limited seating. for the evening," he said. On the weekends he employs a chief, souse-chief, line cook and two waitresses and serves small European style tapas meals. The store provides for a full service event venue and has hosted weddings and private parties. Lorenger is in the process of getting an entertainment license so keep your eye out for upcoming events.

The General Store is open from Memorial Day weekend through late September or early October. It was established in 1876 and has remained the center of business and social life in the village. "They wait for the store to open, it's kind of a right of passage in the spring. When I open it up they know summer has started and I keep it open until the first snow flies," said Lorenger.

Farmers' Markets and Community Supported Agriculture are two ways to eat more local food

Deb Hagen-Foley

The word "locavore" was added to the New Oxford American Dictionary in 2007. A locavore eats food produced within a 100-mile radius. There are good reasons for supporting the local food producers. An obvious reason - eating locally helps to sustain local and small farmers. Eating locally produced food reduces the distance food travels to get to the table and cuts down on fuel, air pollution and greenhouse gas emissions.

The typical American meal contains ingredients from five countries outside of the United States. Tomatoes may come from Mexico by truck and the Netherlands by plan. Grapes and cherries are shipped from Chile and oranges from Australia. While all of these foods are not available locally in Michigan, by eating locally when possible, it is possible to reap the benefits of locavore living.

Local food is fresher. Research indicates that people who eat locally also eat more nutritious meals and make healthier food choices. Eating local food is also associated with reduced risks of obesity and chronic disease, primarily because the food is less processed and more nutritious. Because of the reduced travel time, local food is given more time to ripen before it is picked.

With many Farmer's Markets in the area, this is a great time to eat local. The Gaylord West Farmer's Market is open on Saturdays through June and Wednesdays and Saturdays beginning July 3. East Jordan, Boyne City, and Petoskey also have Farmer's Markets.

Another way to support local farmers - Community Supported Agriculture (CSA). In the CSA model, a farmer offers "shares" for purchase. They are preselling the seasonal produce they are anticipating. Each week during the farming season, those who purchase a membership will receive a box of produce, either delivered to their door or a drop location. In some instances, the subscription allows the purchaser to select items at the Farmer's Market frequented by the farmer. Find a CSA near you by going to www.localharvest.org/csa and searching by your location. By eating local, you can support small, local businesses and enjoy all the regional, fresh produce the season has to offer.

Charlevoix now has heart care that's among the nation's best.

Drs. Oz and Roizen

Television's Dr. Oz and Cleveland Clinic's Dr. Roizen report on health, wellness and quality of life.

IMMUNE SYSTEM NEWS MICHAEL ROIZEN, M.D., AND MEHMET OZ, M.D.

When Boston's legendary mobster James "Whitev" Bulger claimed he had immunity from murder charges because of a deal he made with a deceased prosecutor, it didn't keep him out of hot water. Seems sometimes (supposed) immunity is effective, and sometimes, well, you're not protected. The same can be said about your immune system, that incredibly complex mixture of defense and prosecutorial cells inside you. And recently, researchers have been making amazing discoveries about its powers to protect (or harm) your health.

Case in point: There's now an anti-cancer treatment that empowers your immune system's warrior T cells to knock out multiplying cancer cells. Seems researchers used certain antibodies to "unlock" the tumor-attacking ability of T cells in nearly 300 people; 28 percent of folks with melanoma (the deadliest skin cancer) saw their tumors shrink; the same positive results happened for 27 percent of the study participants with kidney cancer and 18 percent with lung cancer.

ONLINE AT WWW.CHARLEVOIXCOUNTYNEWS.COM

Meanwhile, researchers at Columbia University announced that for some people, Parkinson's disease, which affects more than 1 million North Americans, may turn out to be an autoimmune disorder. That means the neurological symptoms of Parkinson's disease -- tremors and shaking, for example -- occur because immune-system cells mistakenly attack and kill specific neurons. This controversial idea could lead to new ways to treat and prevent the condition.

Next on the list, Emory University scientists are rebooting the immune systems of organ-transplant recipients to cut down on the need for toxic anti-rejection drugs. Even the U.S. military is getting into the act with an ongoing study of the effects of stress on soldiers' immunity.

But you don't have to wait for the results of the latest wave of immunological research to bolster your own special forces. To keep your immune system running at peak efficiency, here are six proven ways to turn summer fun into solid immunity:

Drink iced tea. Classic black tea contains l-theanine; it primes the immune system's gamma-delta T cells to respond five times faster to invading bacteria and viruses. Meanwhile, a compound in green tea called ECGC increases the number of regulatory T cells; they help rev up or tone down immune-system activity. Love herbal tea? Go for chamomile. This relaxing botanical increases blood levels of hippurate and glycine, which aid infection-fighting.

Have more fun. Outdoor concerts, hiking, street fairs: Stroll and take in the view: your immune system loves goofing off. Just anticipating something you enjoy bolsters immunity by reducing levels of immune-weakening stress hormones cortisol and epinephrine. And you'll bolster your defenses if you laugh out loud! Enjoy easy exercise. It turns out playful exercise routines that speed up and slow down are kinder to your immune system than hardcharging, steady-paced workouts. Try varying your pace during a morning walk around a garden, an afternoon bike ride by the shore or a swim in the pool. Haul out your tennis racquet (a game where the pace is always changing) or play backyard badminton and kickball with the kids. Have a glass of wine. In moderation, alcohol can enhance immune response and bolster your reaction to vaccines. Not an alcohol drinker? You can get your immune benefit by snacking on fresh berries or grapes, or opt for peanuts at the ballgame -- both contain this beneficial compound. Visit the farmer's market. Bumping up your fruit and veggie quotient is a proven way to rev up your immune system and cut down on doctor visits, recent research says. Produce (wash it well) seems to support the activity of infection-fighting T-cells. And the fiber it contains feeds immune-boosting good bacteria in your digestive system. Now, relax. Kicking back in a hammock for some serious R&R is deep-down good for you. It busts stress, which wears down immunity, and then relaxation goes a step further: One recent study found that deep rest switches on genes involved in healthy immune functioning. Yoga, deep breathing and meditation can get you into this zone. (c) 2014

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Early reading proficiency is the most important factor for academic success, since students in grades K-3 are learning to read while 4th grade students start reading to learn.

The fact that onethird of students cannot read at grade level is a bad sign for Michigan's future, and that's why we support the bipartisan "3rd Grade Reading Guarantee" bills sponsored by Rep. Amanda Price (R-Holland) and Rep. Thomas Stallworth (D-Detroit). These bills, currently on the floor of the House of Representatives, represent a com prehensive approach to early literacy that focuses on screening and interventions for all students in grades K-3, along with potential retention for non-proficient 3rd grade readers. The approach in these bills strikes a proper balance between setting a statewide expectation to end social promotion for non-proficient readers and local control – since there are multiple options to avoid retention which are implemented by the district, principal, teacher and parent.

Even though 35 states have a statewide approach to improving early literacy, Michigan's traditional school lobby is working overtime to stop these bills from becoming law. Are they more interested in preserving the status quo and continuing social promotion than in helping all students succeed?

Unfortunately, Rep. Greg MacMaster has not yet decided to supmental anguish and emotional distress. But this was always about restoring her reputation which we believe this resolution has done," stated Bogas.

The lawsuit indicated that Fanara had allegedly been repeatedly harassed by Jarema due to her gender, and that he especially targeted her after she reported his actions to the County Board of Commissioners.

female employees as "personal errand runners and whipping girls." Bogas said however this treatment was not given to male employees. The court documents claimed he threatened to fire Fanara multiple times, "yelling" at her in front of other employees, and allegedly treated her like a "servant." "We are pleased that the County recognized the issues and made the correct decision to settle this matter rather than continue the court fight. It is unfortunate that this entire matter could not have been avoided by Mr. Jarema acting in a responsible, respectful, and legal way and the County stepping up to assure a valued employee was not abused," said Bogas of the settlement.

The attorney for Jarema, Deborah Lujan, also came forward after the settlement stating that Jarema "denies any of his interactions" with Fanara had "anything to do with her gender."

"Although he admits there was a 'breakdown' of their relationship, it had nothing to do with the fact she was female. He hired her knowing full well she was a female and they worked together for a number of years without any reported incidents of alleged gender discrimination," said Lujan.

Lujan also stated that if Jarema had the choice he would have "preferred to try the case." But the insurance carrier for the County chose to settle after evaluating the risks and potential costs.

"Ms. Fanara chose to stand up against a bully and a person who refused to follow the law. She was discriminated and retaliated against. This chapter of her life is now over and she can move on ... " stated Bogas.

using an agreement from the 1950's between homeowners and the County Road Commission that allowed for additional right of way on properties along the Charlevoix/Boyne City

Natural Resources Trust Fund. Initially Sullivan stated that the MNRTF would only grant funding for "detached" trails. Those in the audience questioned this as another grant had been available that would have given funds to either a detached or attached type of trail. However, it was not only audience members who questioned the way grant funding was sought. Commissioner Richard Gillespie also stated concern over this matter. "I don't want to ignore people's constitutional rights...I do think Mr. Sullivan did mistake certain facts in his application," stated Gillespie at the meeting.

spie further commented on his concern that Commissioner Sullivan may have misrepresented certain facts in order to get a quick decision.

"...I believe Mr. , who was working for the planning department and county at the time, made misrepresentations of fact in telling us all that the only way we could do this was detached, this was not true," said Gillespie, "At the time Mr. Sullivan made this 'pitch' for whatever reason the road/trail steering committee was in majority in favor of attached, and according to the records Mr. Sullivan steered them to the detached insisting that the grant would not be available under the attached scenario." Gillespie made it clear that he is not against the trail, but is against violating the property rights of those living along the road without "due cause and due diligence." He stated that he voted "not against the trail" but did chose to vote no against "procedures which were to get everything going and then go hen pick" property owners who did not want to allow the trail to run across their property. At the time of printing, Mr. Sullivan had not responded to emails as to what he felt about this matter. At the meeting the board passed a resolution 5 to 1 for seeking funding for Phase 2 of the non-motorized trail project. All members except Gillespie voted yes.
