Boyne City woman will stand trial for stabbing death of mother

By Michelle Medjesky

CHARLEVOIX - A Boyne City woman has been declared competent to stand trial for the stabbing death of her mother last year.

Charlevoix County 90th District Court Judge James Erhart recently ruled that Rachael Marie Crisman, 30, of Boyne City is competent to face a charge of open murder related to the stabbing death of her mother Regina Plevinski, 53, also of Boyne City, at the home the two shared last fall.

Boyne City police were called to the Crisman home at 606 E. Main Street around 5 p.m. October 25 to investigate a 9-1-1 call from a woman reporting that she saw a woman covered in blood standing in front of the house next door.

The bloodied woman reportedly told the 9-1-1 caller that she had killed her mother.

According to police reports, once police arrived on the scene, they entered the Crisman home to find Plevinski deceased, evidently from stab wounds.

Crisman has been lodged in Charlevoix County jail since her arrest after the incident last fall. A request for an order to evaluate her competency was granted by Erhart last November after her attorney, Kyle Legel, notified the court of his intent to assert an insanity defense in her case.

A determination of competency comes through an evaluating whether a defendant understands the nature of the charges against her or him and whether the defendant can assist in their defense.

Crisman was also clinically evaluated to determine her criminal responsibility and whether she had a mental illness at the time of the crime committed and if that was a factor in her ability to appreciate the wrongfulness of her actions or conform those to the law.

Crisman's case has now been bound over to 33rd Circuit Court where a plea hearing is scheduled for July 14. She will remain at the Charlevoix County Jail without bond and faces life in prison if she is convicted.

Shadow Trail repair will take longer than expected

By Michelle Medjesky

WALLOON LAKE - A culvert that collapsed in May and resulted in partial closure of Shadow Trail in Melrose Township could take weeks longer to repair than expected.

A portion of Shadow Trail was shut down May 8 after a vehicle traveling the road drove over the culvert and it collapsed, partly swallowing the vehicle.

There were no injuries caused by the incident, however, the vehicle did have to be hoisted from the hole.

Charlevoix County Road Commission Manager Pat Harmon explained that the culvert is decades-old and directs the flow from Fineout Creek near the south shore of Walloon Lake beneath Shadow Trail.

Giving Circle empowers our women and girls

Have you ever contemplated your own success? Was it a coach, camp counselor, parent, or friend who supported you? Was it the willpower you discovered as a child learning to swim in cold waters or the inner strength you found when faced with hardship? To be successful, we must be given opportunities and choose them. The Hestia Women's Giving Circle supports organizations in our community that empower women and girls through opportunities that they would not otherwise have.

Hestia is composed of 51 women committed to donating a full membership of $1000 or a shared membership of $500 to Hestia each year. Nonprofits from Emmet and Charlevoix County compete for a share of these funds in support of Hestia's mission: to promote the economic self-sufficiency and well being of women and girls.

Last week at the Little Harbor Point Golf Club, eight organizations were granted a share of Hestia's 2017 gifts: a total of $38,500. One of Hestia's founding members, Sujo Offield, was the wonderful and welcoming host of the event.

This and every year, Planned Parenthood of Michigan and the Women's Resource Center are major grantees. This year's recipients also included the First Tee of Northern Michigan, YMCA of Northern Michigan, the Northmen Den, Charlevoix MUN, Big Brothers Big Sisters of NW Michigan, and Petoskey Public Schools Robotics Programs.

Highlights of the evening were the many heartfelt personal stories from grant recipients. Staff expressed gratitude for the unique support Hestia funds provide to their programs. Program participants spoke of how their lives changed as they felt safe enough to step out of their comfort zones and learn new skills, find their voices, develop confidence and leadership abilities, advocate for themselves, discover a new life path, help others in need. Hearing stories from women and girls who were inspired by strong role models and in turn are inspiring others, made listeners know that Hestia Women's Giving Circle is making a difference.

Hestia Women's Giving Circle is a donor-advised fund of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and welcomes new members. By combining tax-deductible annual membership contributions, many worthwhile local programs and activities are supported through grants. For more information please contact Denise Simon (231.526.9302 or info@hesticircle.org), find the organization on Facebook, or on the Charlevoix County Community Foundation website www.c3f.org.

DEATH & DYING AMERICAN STYLE

To the Editor:

The USA has not learned to cope with death and dying. It remains vague and inchoate even though we know it is ultimate and inevitable. Funeral parlors of course capitalize on this and take much of the sting out of the process – for several thousand dollars. Some families are relegated to making payments on burials of loved ones because they like so many are living month-to-month.

Social Security will extend their largesse to the extent of $100-$200 for burial of recipients which of course doesn't cover the cost of a eulogy let alone an actual burial. Death and dying is the unspoken taboo in America, you're on your own when the end comes. Or your family is.

Supposedly all are well-to-do enough to have a bank account to handle all this variable inevitability but in these times one half of this country has nothing of backup funding. Certainly it's proper to honor the deceased with a casket and funeral wake but if unaffordable the other options are body donation, cremation or in extreme cases publicly funded pauper's graves. The best way is body donation to medical research, very tidy and expeditious, no cost whatsoever. Plus you are doing a good to society in research potential. There are those who believe that the soul lingers after death for some amount of time but that has been debunked enough to be negligible. Psychic sources state unequivocally that the soul leaves the body at or slightly before death and certainly material sources extrapolate the same.

Not knowing exactly what the life force is leaves us rather nascent as to how to deal with it. Having seen many animals and people die, I cannot explain the process, only that it appears that the force is depleted at some determinate point never to be resuscitated in this physical world. All the authorities that govern such affairs can conceive is that they no longer have control of such things and must simply acquiesce to this reality regardless what the deceased may have done or not done. Case closed.

The unknown known, or known unknown, is daunting to be sure. People in general don't like to talk about it hence the authorities and undertakers do most of the talking. We can't bury grandpa out on the back forty anymore lest we be arrested and investigated for murder. No matter how elaborate a ceremony this is still illegal. Funeral pyres are likewise banned. We have to go through the funeral parlors now, coroner, certificate, cost and all.

U-T Knoxville as other places has created a unique alternative to death, namely leaving corpses out in the open to decay so that doctors, students and researchers can study the process of degeneration. Rather macabre and creepy it does provide medical research with valuable information which also aids in forensic detection for investigative police work. The dead as it develops do tell tales. The story of otzi the iceman of Europe is unique in that he was found in the Alps after 5300 years fully preserved in ice. Researchers were able via DNA and other testing to determine his precise lifestyle, manner of death, place of origin, even living relatives in Austria today. Otzi's body is entombed in a viewable room in Italy, a lifelike replica of how he looked and dressed available also. This was more than 3000 years BC, essentially before recorded history.

Jack Kevorkian also begs to be heard herein. He it was who singlehandedly provoked the authorities to recognize the will of some to end their lives of suffering before the ghastly end came nigh. "Doctor Death" performed many early death rituals for those so desiring to end lives of misery incurable. The law of course says you can't do that. In some places on this Earth it is against the law to commit suicide, rather a ludicrous ordinance when once the deed is done. Corpses do not take well to jail and court. Advice: if you're going to do it, make sure you finish the job.

Euthanasia does occur regularly in hospitals but the public never hears about it but for some "black widow" and "angel of mercy" nurses who take matters into their own hands. Doctors end lives every day for various reasons. This has to be covered up with proper rhetoric but that is not difficult in hospital environments. No one ever questions such deaths because death examiners are in league with hospitals.

The average person however hears nothing of all this. Death and dying remains the end of something inexplicable, namely the life force itself. Where did we come from? Why are we here? Where are we going? That was the question of Paul Gauguin in his famous painting on Tahiti. Answer that riddle and we may begin to understand death and dying.

Boyer City Police Fireworks Laws & Safety Reminders

The Boyne City Police Department would like to remind residents and visitors that Boyne City has a fireworks ordinance that spells out when fireworks may be used.

“Consumer Fireworks” which are defined as firework devices designed to produce visible and/or audible effects by combustion, are only allowed to be used on the day before a national holiday, on the holiday, and on the day after a holiday; ON THESE DAYS THE IGNITION, DISCHARGE, AND USE OF CONSUMER FIREWORKS IS PROHIBITED BETWEEN 1:00 A.M. AND 8:00 A.M. This is a new addition to the ordinance this year.

Consumer fireworks include devices such as; firecrackers, roman candles, bottle rockets, consumer size aerial and other exploding devices.

Low Impact fireworks, which include sparkling devices that do not explode are allowed any time of the year

Boyer City Police Chief Jeff Gaither said the Police Department has been fielding questions about the use of fireworks. Basically, if it goes bang or is launched, you can only use them between 8:00am and 1:00am on the designated days. Gaither said the police department will investigate all reports of fireworks that are used outside of the permitted days and hours, or where prohibited. The penalty for a violation of the fireworks ordinance is a municipal civil infraction. In all violations of the ordinance, the fireworks will be confiscated. Gaither also cautioned that fireworks users are responsible for any damage caused by the use of fireworks. This includes damage caused by “flying lanterns” because as he noted, they will come down eventually.

State law prohibits the use of Consumer fireworks on any public property including city parks and streets.

We are again, coming up on the time of year that fireworks become very popular. Following some simple guidelines will help everyone to have an enjoyable holiday in Boyne City.

- be considerate of your neighbors
- follow the laws and ordinances
- children using fireworks should be supervised by adults
- don't consume alcohol or drugs when using fireworks
- don't use fireworks in public parks or streets

Antiques, Art, Consignment and New at The Brickery in Grayling

By Jim Akans

Shoppers in downtown Grayling will find two floors of treasures embracing a wide array of fascinating items at The Brickery. Established by Linda Nickert in June of 2007, items offered throughout the approximately 1,000 square feet of retail space in this historic building cover just about any interest or gift idea.

Nickert states, “We offer many items made by local crafters, Michigan-made products, lots of antiques, art, and more. We have new products and consignment items, gift items, scarves, hats and gloves, and we are beginning to offer salvage products so people can make their own crafts. Customers can spend an hour in our store and still not see it all.”

The stately brick building that is now home to The Brickery was originally the International Order of Odd Fellows building, constructed in 1908. The downstairs held a theater that would put on plays for loggers and for Camp Grayling. The building has gone through many incarnations over the years, but shoppers at The Brickery can still see the original tin ceiling and hardwood floors.

Nickert recalls that the idea for her shop's name came from her daughter; “We were trying to think of a name. Since there are so many bricks both inside and out; the walls are three bricks thick, my daughter suggested calling it The Brickery.”

It's the perfect name, reflecting solidity and tradition; an apt representation of the enduring quality of the wide variety of items offered at The Brickery. The store, located at 107 Ottawa in downtown Grayling, is open Monday through Friday from 10am-5:30pm, Saturday 10am-5pm, and Sunday from 11 am to 3 pm. Visit www.the-brickery.com or call 989-348-8999 for additional information.

SHADOW TRAIL

He initially projected the culvert would be repaired and the affected portion of Shadow Trail re-opened before July 4, however, the project is now on standby awaiting Consumer's Energy to temporarily relocate an electrical distribution line that runs over the site of the collapsed culvert.

Harmon said safe re-positioning of that electrical line is imperative since it runs the main electrical supply to the Village of Walloon Lake and shutting it down is not an option, so it must be moved using a crane and then must be run underground.

Harmon said Consumer's Energy has indicated it should have the electrical line safely relocated by July 19 and that it will take about two weeks after that to repair the culvert so Shadow Trail can be opened. He said the project is estimated to cost between $150,000 - $200,000.

While Shadow Trail remains closed, those traveling in the areas west of the road closure have to travel south to Boyne City or north on Camp Daggett Road to reach northern and eastern destinations.

The FY 2018 budget is good news for the 37th Senate District

By Sen. Wayne Schmidt, 37th Senate District

The Legislature has finalized a fiscal year 2018 budget that will maintain the state's commitment to education, public safety and job creation.

For the seventh consecutive year, we completed a fiscally responsible budget months ahead of schedule. This budget is good for the state and good for the 37th Senate District.

The FY 2018 budget is included in two bills: House Bill 4323 and House Bill 4313.

HB 4323 contains budgets for state departments and the judicial and legislative branches. The measure supports several initiatives important both to northern lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

$3.4 million is set aside for classroom renovations and expanded learning spaces for North Central Michigan College. The bill also includes $100,000 for the Beaver Island Rural Health Center and $100,000 for the Mackinac Island Medical Center.

This funding is great news for the residents of Petoskey and these two islands. North Central students will benefit from the upgrades to the college, and the money for the island clinics will maintain essential health services.

In the Upper Peninsula, $1 million is designated for work on the Sault Ste. Marie Carbide Docks, $300,000 for power grid improvements at Lake Superior State University, and $800,000 to pay for legacy costs associated with counties consolidating into the UPWARD Talent Council.

The money appropriated for the UPWARD Talent Council in particular is a great win for the Upper Peninsula. This council is vitally important to the region, and this funding is needed for its continued operation.

HB 4313 is the education budget for K-12 education, state universities and community colleges, totaling $16.6 billion.

The K-12 budget, which is nearly $14.6 billion, includes the key provision of “2x funding,” in which the lowest-funded school districts in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula will receive up to twice as much of an increase as the higher-funded districts. Base funding for those districts will include a $120 increase per student plus an additional $25 for each high school student.

The bill also features $300,000 in funding for the Michigan Indian Tuition Waiver. The Indian Tuition Waiver is important for the entire state and critical for helping to ensure that the thousands of Native Americans living in the district are able to pursue higher education, per the 1836 Treaty of Washington.

The FY 2018 budget bills are now on the governor's desk. The budget will take effect on Oct. 1.

Sen. Wayne Schmidt, R-Traverse City, represents the 37th state Senate District, which includes Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Luce and Mackinac counties.

Dr. Oz and Roizen

Television's Dr. Oz and Cleveland Clinic's Dr. Roizen report on health, wellness and quality of life.

Keep kids in the game by playing several of them

According to a National Federation of State High School Associations' sports participation survey, over 1 million (1,085,272) high school students, including 1,954 girls, played on their school's football team in the 2015-2016 school year. That's a lot.

Other findings: 546,428 boys and 429,380 girls played basketball; 440,322 boys and 381,529 girls played soccer; over 1 million boys and girls participated in outdoor track and field; almost a million played baseball and softball; and over 800,000 played volleyball and tennis. Swimming, wrestling, golf and cross country also had impressive numbers.

It's truly wonderful that so many young people are active and engaged in building healthier bodies, learning about teamwork and forging friendships that come with participating in high school sports. But (why is there always a but?) far too many of them, from the age of 7 on, are focusing on one and only one sport.

It seems many parents and coaches have the mistaken idea that one-sport specialization will make the child a superstar athlete when he or she gets older. According to a study in Strength & Conditioning Journal, that's not the case, and young athletes who specialize in one sport are risking repetitive-use injuries that could permanently sideline them.

Another study, in the American Journal of Sports Medicine, found that athletes who exceeded expert guidelines by competing in their sport more than eight months of the year and more hours per week than their age — a 16-year-old athlete participating for more than 16 hours per week — were more likely to report an injury of any type in the previous year. And serious overuse injuries were common among young athletes who played for excessive hours a week and had little free time to enjoy other physical activities.

A third study, in Physician & Sports Medicine, looked at how specialization was associated with injury patterns: The researchers found that children ages 7 to 18 who were specializing in individual sports started at a younger age (around 11) and put in more hours a week (almost 12) than kids who specialized in a team sport. More than 44 percent of the individual sportsters experienced overuse injuries, while 32 percent of the team players did. Respectively, 23 and almost 12 percent of those injuries were characterized as serious. Overall, says the study's lead researcher, "The results of this study provide further evidence of the relationship between early sport specialization, increased sport training volume and injuries."

The Risks of Repetitive-Use Injury

According to the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, kids' tendons, ligaments and bones grow unevenly, making younger athletes more susceptible to muscle, tendon and growth plate injuries from repetitive stress. When growth plates — areas of developing cartilage where bone growth occurs — are injured, normal bone growth can be disrupted. While throwing injuries of the elbow and shoulder are prevalent in baseball players, overall the most common overuse injuries are to the knee and foot.

The National Strength and Conditioning Association adds: "Diversification in sports at an early age has the potential to provide stimuli so that a child's body can adapt and develop multiple motor skills that may cross over between sports. Only once the mental, physical and social aspects of a child are fully developed can specialization be considered."

Your Game Plan

Introduce your children to a wide variety of activities and sports. Teach exercises, such as skipping rope, that build footwork — a skill that can be used in many sports. Pay attention to what's fun and engaging for them at each stage and age. Keep pressure off as your child discovers what suits his/her interests and abilities. Your goal is a physically fit, mentally sharp, happy kid.

If coaches and travel teams pressure your child to commit to excessive time and practice, first talk to the coach and school about a healthier approach and then encourage your child to find alternative ways to enjoy that and other sports.

New archery target dedicated

On Thursday, June 29, the new archery target at Camp Daggett was dedicated. This was an example of real community support. The Charlevoix County

DAVE Says

(Let him be mad)

Dear Dave,

My dad wants me to buy a house on a 30-year loan for him and my mom in my name, and let them make the payments. I'm 24 years old and have a good credit score and a nice apartment, but my job depends largely on how the oil industry is doing. My dad filed bankruptcy nine years ago, and he's already $150,000 in debt again, so he's never been very responsible with money. I think this would spell big trouble for me, but I'm sure he will be mad if I say no. What are your thoughts?

Emmanuel

Dear Emmanuel,

Yeah, I think doing something like this would spell big trouble for you. If your dad is irresponsible with money — especially to the point of having to file bankruptcy — what makes you think he'll make these house payments on time?

I know this would be an uncomfortable conversation to have with your dad, but you need to brace yourself and just do it. Be respectful and explain exactly why you won't do this. Think about it, Emmanuel. When he doesn't pay the bill on time, it's going to screw up your credit score. And when you get ready to buy a house, guess what? You're going to have trouble qualifying because you already own a house. Most people don't make enough money to qualify to buy two homes.

Basically, your dad is asking you to not buy a house so they can have one. I can't tell you how to make your dad okay with saying no to this, but I can tell you that your answer should be no. Let him and your mom know that you love them both, but this is something you just can't do.

—Dave

(The Family Nightmare)

Dear Dave,

My fiancé told me the other day he's going to buy a failing restaurant with his mom, sister, and a family friend. None of them have any food service or business experience, and he has never said anything about wanting to own a restaurant. When I questioned him about it, he said it was his mother's idea. I don't want to be part of this, and it wouldn't be his first big surprise decision, so I told him I would walk away from the marriage if he pursues this. I feel bad about it, because he didn't really do anything wrong. Do you think I'm making a wise decision?

Carla

Dear Carla,

Yes, he did do something wrong. He put his controlling mommy ahead of his bride-to-be, and it sounds like it's not the first time he's made big decisions without consulting you. Any man who doesn't consider the feelings of his wife or fiancée in an important decision-making process is not marriage material. I think your decision was heartbreaking, but wise.

Going into a partnership with family like this is unwise. There's a lot of messed up stuff in his family dynamic. And it's not like you won't support your man and his dreams and decisions, but those dreams need to contain wisdom and consideration for you. Otherwise, any dream will fast become a nightmare.

I know it hurts, Carla, but this was not the right guy for you. Money problems are one of the biggest causes of divorce in America today. Trouble with in-laws is another, and you almost signed up for both. I'm sorry you had to make such a tough call.

If you want to salvage this, you could explain to him that he needs to make better decisions to win your hand again. In this case, making better decisions means involving you in the process, and giving your thoughts, feelings, and opinions the respect they deserve.

—Dave

(Dip in, pay it off!)

Dear Dave,

My wife just had our first child. Now, we now have about $3,000 in medical bills not covered by insurance. We've got $8,000 in our emergency fund, and I make between $25,000 and $30,000 a year. Should we try setting up a payment plan with the hospital, or is dipping into our savings a better idea?

Matt

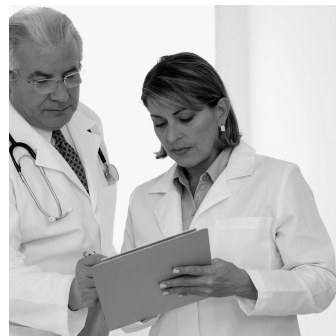

Dear Matt,

I'd write a check today and knock out that hospital bill. This falls under the heading of "emergency" in my mind, so pay the bill and jump back into rebuilding your emergency fund.

You've done a really good job of saving on your income, but let's see what we can do about making better money in the future. Extra practical training in your field, or more education in the classroom, could increase your income quickly. Your emergency fund needs to be a little bigger as well, and it'll be a lot easier to make this happen if you're making more money.

I'm sure you're a hard-working guy, but it's going to be tough for even a small family to make it on what you're bringing home now. The unexpected can become a common occurrence when there's a little one in the picture. Congratulations!

RECORD BREAKERS!

Boyne City Girls tear up the track

BOYNE CITY — With a new track comes new records.

The current members of the Boyne City Track & Field team couldn't quite wait for that new track that will be installed over the next couple of months, so they got started a little early.

This past season, numerous members either set, broke, or re-broke previous records that, prior to this season, seemed that they would hold their place in the Rambler record books for quite a few years longer.

In a "passing of the torch" ceremony, the new Boyne City record setters, presented some alumni that previously held those marks with their record displays.

Coach Place celebrated the accomplishments of the alumni, many of them that helped him continue to establish the Track & Field program as a competitive sport, but also that Helped start the Cross Country team that was a club sport when it began.

Those alumni in attendance were: Jackie (Cyr) Garrett, Charlotte Brandt-Stackus, Kelsi Brewer, Jane Stieber and Kylie Hicks.

A little bit about their Boyne City history:

Jackie (Cyr) Garrett: Former school record holder in the 800M with a time of 2:25.0. Jackie was the first All-State Cross Country female in Boyne City history.

Charlotte Brandt-Stackus: Former school record holder in the 4X800M relay and was part of the 4X400M, one of the original members of the Boyne City Girls Cross Country team.

Kelsi Brewer: Former school record holder in the 200M dash and the 300M Hurdles. She was part of the 4X200M relay record and still part of the record holding 4X100M relay team.

Jane Stieber: Starting her senior year in track, Jane held the 1600M and the 3200M run records as well as the 4X200M, 4X400 and 4X800M relay records. Stieber earned All-State honors in Cross Country the previous fall. During her senior season, she was Conference and Regional champion in the 800M run and still part of the school record 4X800 relay team.

Kylie Hicks: Only the second Boyne City female in history to be State Champion and the first to be All-State four straight years in the 100M High Hurdles and three years in the 300M Low Hurdles, including State Champion. Kylie is the former record holder of the 400M dash and still hold both hurdle records and is currently running for Grand Valley State University.

Other Rambler alumni that were unable to be present:

Katie Martin: She was the first State Champion in school history, earning All-State two years in the Pole Vault. Former Pole Vault record holder.

Nicole Kurtz: Former school record holder in the 100M High Hurdles and 300 Low Hurdles and placed sixth at the State Meet her senior season in the 100M HH (Only the Top three were All-State at that time). She was a member of the 4X400M relay team.

Sarah Hall: State Qualifier in the 100M dash. Was part of the 4X200M record team and still part of the 4X100M relay record team.

Brean Smith: 200M and 400M runner and was part of the 4X200M record holding team.

Mindy McCutcheon: Former Cross Country Individ-
