After graduating from art school, she moved to Detroit with her husband Russell where she worked freelance for Hallmark cards and the J.L. Hudson’s display department. ceived many awards. For over 21 years Sue was active in the Detroit art scene teaching at Wayne State University and Oak Park High School. She has conducted many workshops in ceramics and paintings for the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, the Flint Institute of Art Museum, Michigan State University, Grand Rapids Public Schools, and the Detroit Institute of Arts. Her ceramics, paintings and prints are exhibited in many galleries, and museums and are in many public and private collections.

She adds, “Sue is recognized in northern Michigan for her whimsical ceramic work and moving angel paintings. What we endeavor to do in our exhibitions is to explore aspects of an artist’s journey to show how earlier work travels forward to influence the work they do today. There are movements that link a career together even though a medium, environment or influences may change.”

For more information about The Seasons of Sue Bolt exhibition opening on August 25 and running through September 23, please contact the Charlevoix Circle of Arts at 109 Clinton Street in the heart of downtown Charlevoix or go online to: www.charlevoixcircle.com. The exhibition is free and open to the public, Monday – Saturday between the hours of 11 am – 5 pm.

Bolt Studio has been an operational working studio since 1974. Sue and her husband Russell, purchased 15 acres and a 100-year-old Farmers Grange Hall in Charlevoix, Michigan with the idea of creating a working studio. The family moved to Charlevoix and started to refresh the old Grange Hall into the working studio they have today. The Studio has completed many varied and diverse projects in its 34 years of operation. Some highlights are the custom, large ceramic tile installations and large painted commissions for private clients and various organizations.

“What I feel will be enlightening to many when they visit the exhibition is the vast amount of work that Sue created during her earlier career while living in the Detroit area. On display will be a collection of her illustration work for the Detroit Free Press and

ber of the Michigan legislature. A lifelong Michigander, Whitmer was raised in Grand Rapids and East Lansing. She graduated from Forest Hills Central High School just outside of Grand Rapids. She received a BA (Bachelor of Arts) degree in Communications from Michigan State University in 1993 and a JD (Doctor of Jurisprudence) from Detroit College of Law at Michigan State University in 1998.

Whitmer was first elected to the Michigan House of Representatives in 2000, and served until 2006, when she was elected to the State Senate, where she served until 2014. On November 5, 2010, Whitmer's Democratic colleagues chose her to be the Senate Democratic Leader, making her the first woman in history to lead a party caucus in the Michigan Senate. As Minority leader, she was the lead negotiator for Democrats during the Healthy Michigan Medicaid expansion, which expanded health care to 630,000 Michiganders.

In May 2016, a panel of judges selected Whitmer to serve as the Ingham County Prosecutor, to replace Stuart Dunning III, who resigned amidst a scandal. As Ingham County Prosecutor, she implemented stronger ethics standards, established a new Domestic Violence Unit, and sped up the rehabilitation of non-violent first time offenders.

Gretchen currently lives in East Lansing with her husband Marc, daughters Sherry and Sydney, and stepsons Alex, Mason and Winston.

Local SAFE Youth attend Community Anti-Drug Coalitions Training

Eleven students from Antrim, Charlevoix, and Emmet counties, all members of SAFE in Northern Michigan, just returned from the prestigious Youth Leadership Key Essentials Course at the Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America's Mid-Year Training Institute in Atlanta.

"Participating in the Training Institute is a great opportunity for anyone working to prevent drug use in their community," said Susan Pulaski, Community Health Coordinator at the Health Department of Northwest

Michigan, who coordinates SAFE of Northern Michigan and accompanied the students. "I am so pleased we were able to bring so many SAFE students, thanks to a grant from the Northern Michigan Regional Entity. It was a great experience for all of us."

The training represents the first large-scale initiative of coalition development for youth and adult coaches in the country. Over 100 courses were available as part of the Training Institute, covering topics such as how to prevent prescription drug abuse, create tobacco-free environments, reduce impaired driving, and develop policies to reduce marijuana use. Participants heard from leaders of several federal agencies and learned ways to increase their local coalitions' effectiveness to build safe, healthy, and drug-free communities.

"We learned so many new skills and strategies to become community leaders and agents of change," said Gavin Kerley, a student at Petoskey High School. "My favorite part of the conference was knowing I could apply the things we learned back in Northern Michigan."

SAFE in Northern Michigan is a community coalition dedicated to preventing youth substance use, increasing community awareness, and creating change through collaboration, education, and prevention initiatives and implementing environmental change strategies in Antrim, Charlevoix, and Emmet counties. For additional information, visit www.nwhealth.org/SAFE.

Great live music at Farmfest in Johannesburg this weekend

The annual Farmfest music festival near Johannesburg is taking place this weekend, August 10 - 13. Featuring a huge variety of Michigan performers covering just about every music genre, Farmfest offers a main stage crafted of recycle wood at the bottom of a natural amphitheater, plus several other stages situated throughout the beautiful, Northern Michigan grounds. There is also a play area for the kids, lots of informative workshops, vendors selling handcrafted items, collectables, artwork, t-shirts and other clothing, and much more. Top it off with top-notch home-cooked food, snacks, plus on-site camping and Farmfest is an event where it is easy to spend the entire weekend.

Founded by Stacy Jo Schiller in 1998, Farmfest is a relaxed and intimate music festival held each year in the second weekend of August. In a beautiful northern Michigan farm setting situated on the 45th parallel, the festival features scores of live acts playing everything from traditional folk and bluegrass to modern reggae and folk-tinged rock'n'roll. Among the many performers this year will be Adam Hoppe, A Brighter Bloom, Oh Brother Big Sister, Drew Nelson, The Galactic Sherpas, Madcat's Midnight Blues Journey, The Blue Water Ramblers and many, many more.

Stages and event areas at Farmfest include:

- Main Stage: Built from a re-purposed barn, the main stage is located in a natural amphitheater with a large grassy area for audience seating. Bring a blanket or a lawn chair and stay a while.
- Second Stage: Our second performance area is in the woods near the camping area and provides a more intimate performance space.
- Dance Pavilion: This is the newest performance area at Farmfest. It features a covered wood floor and is located in the back corner of the parking area.
- Kids' Area: There will be crafts and creative fun for the young and young at a heart throughout the weekend at the kids' area.

- Fire Circle: Located in a natural depression in the wooded area, the fire circle is perfect for late night sing-alongs and storytelling.

- Drum Kiva: The drum kiva is located behind the wooded camping area, and provides an intimate venue for rhythm enthusiasts.

While Farmfest is certainly about live music, there are plenty of other attractions attendees can enjoy throughout the three-day event. The Kids' Area offers lots of exciting activities for the youngsters, including a nature walk and scavenger hunt, stories, a talent show, a kids parade, live music geared for the kids, a tie dye workshop, relay races, board games and more.

There are also several workshops for adults during Farmfest, such as the Drum Kiva, a Labyrinth Walk, a Fire Circle for late night stories and sing-a-longs, and a Sunday morning Wagon Ride to a vintage nearby church for some wonderful a cappella singing.

Farmfest also features arts and craft vendors with items for sale the include jewelry, quilts, drums, soap, tie-dye and leather clothing, paintings, pottery and more. Nutritious and healthy food is also available that has been harvested right from the Farmfest gardens.

Advance admission to Farmfest is $80 per person for the full weekend or $95 at the gate. Daily fee is $30 per person and those ages 12 and under are admitted for free. Attendees are welcome to camp on site or just drive out for the day. Event organizers do ask that you don't bring your pets to the event. Do bring a blanket or a lawn chair and stay a while.

For a detailed list of artists and event times, as well as directions to the festival, please visit www.farmfest.com

With Fall sports practices getting into full swing, when is it too hot to play sports? It depends on Heat Index

When deciding when it is too hot to play sports, it depends on the heat index.

Using the heat index to modify or cancel sports practices, always be alert of the following:

Hot, dry weather can be extremely dangerous. Because perspiration evaporates very quickly in such conditions, your child won't feel sweaty, and neither you nor your child may recognize how much water he or she has lost.

As humidity increases, the effectiveness of perspiration (sweating) in cooling the body decreases.

When humidity is high, perspiration drips off the skin so that the cooling benefit of evaporation is lost even at cooler temperatures, resulting in a buildup of body heat.

Some groups have issued guidelines for modifying or canceling practice based on the heat index (air temperature and the humidity). One of the strictest is the one issued in 2009 by the Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Association:

Heat Index under 95°

All sports:

Provide ample amounts of water. This means water should always be available and athletes should take in as much water as they desire.

Optional water breaks every 30 minutes for 10 minutes duration.

Ice-down towels for cooling

Watch/monitor athletes carefully for necessary action

Heat Index 95° to 99°

All sports:

Provide ample amounts of water. This means water should always be available and athletes should take in as much water as they desire.

Mandatory water breaks every 30 minutes for 10 minutes duration.

Ice-down towels for cooling

Watch/monitor athletes carefully for necessary action

Contact sports:

Helmets and other possible equipment removed if not involved in contact

Reduce time of outside activity. Consider postponing practice to later in the day

Re-check temperature and humidity every 30 minutes to monitor for increased Heat Index

Heat index 100° to 104°

All sports:

Provide ample amounts of water. This means water should always be available and athletes should take in as much water as they desire.

Mandatory water breaks every 30 minutes for 10 minutes duration.

Ice-down towels for cooling

Watch/monitor athletes carefully for necessary action

Alter uniform by removing items if possible

Reduce time of outside activity as well as indoor activity if air conditioning unavailable

Postpone practice to later in day if possible

Contact sports and activities with additional equipment:

Helmets and other possible equipment removed if not involved in contact or necessary for safety. If necessary for safety, suspend activity

All sports:

Stop all outside activity in practice and/or play, and stop all inside activity if air conditioning is unavailable

For more information on the Heat Index and how it's related to all outdoor activity, visit these websites: www.ready.gov/heat; www.osha.gov; www.mhsaa.com

Are you ready for some football?

Area teams getting set for another exciting season

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY — It's that time of year again and with area teams, Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan hitting the gridiron for the first week of practice, one can only expect each program to build upon their success of a year ago.

Each school belongs to the Northern Michigan Football League, playing in different divisions.

Boyne City and Charlevoix will look to return to the postseason, while East Jordan will look to knock down the door that kept them just out last season.

The Ramblers finished 10-2 a year ago, and coach David Hills will look to a trio of seniors (All-Area defensive player of the year, Jacob Ager; offensive player of the year, Joseph Baugh; and third year quarterback, Mason Gardner) to lead the rest of the squad as they should challenge for the Legends Division title.

The Rayders will break in a new coach in Ken Provost, following the retirement of Ron Bindi.

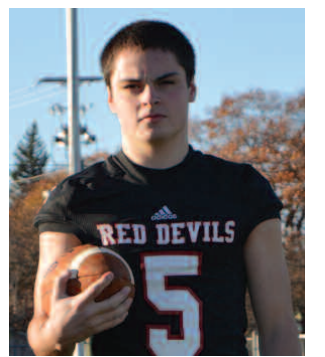

Charlevoix graduated a lot of talent off of last years team, but return All-Area selections; Colin Davis, Ray Cunningham and Colin Smith.

With a new playbook expected and a tradition to uphold, look for the Rayders to make a push to towards the top of the Leaders Division.

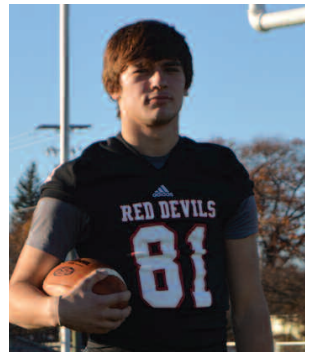

The Red Devils will look to continue their resurgence to an elite program, as year two under coach

Greg Kitson is about to unfold.

All-Area talent, Keegan McDuffie, Spencer Reid and Nick Norton will look to push the rest of the team to achieve those goals in the Legacy Division.
