Fire Ordinances under review following fire

The Harbor View Café fire was the third fire in the past 15 months in Downtown Charlevoix

By Michelle Medjesky

CHARLEVOIX - A fire that destroyed two businesses and seriously damaged several others in downtown Charlevoix last week is raising red flags, not only about how it started, but about the city's fire ordinances - or lack thereof.

Just before 8 p.m. Wednesday, January 3, firefighters from the Charlevoix Township Fire Department responded to a call of a fire at the Harbor View Cafe in Oleson's Plaza at 100 Antrim Street at the corner of Bridge Street. Charlevoix Township Fire Chief Dan Thorp said that upon arriving at the scene, firefighters found heavy, black smoke billowing from the roof and the cafe itself fully engulfed in flames.

Charlevoix firefighters were assisted by East Jordan and Boyne City fire departments, which worked together to get the fire fully extinguished by around midnight, but remained on the scene until about 2:30 a.m. January 4 to make sure it did not re-ignite.

The restaurant was deemed a total loss, as was the business next door, The Spa Charlevoix.

Four other businesses in the strip mall known as Oleson's Plaza were forced to close after the fire until further notice due to serious smoke and water damage, including Picture This, Pizza Girl and the Charlevoix Barber Shop.

Oleson's grocery store was also forced to close temporarily due to water and smoke damage and the Michigan Department of Agriculture seized its inventory of food products for investigation, later determining most of it needed to be destroyed.

MDOT installs new web cam in Melrose Twp.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY - Mountains of blowing, drifting snow and seemingly endless days of sub-zero temperatures can mean different things to northern Michiganders. For some, it's time to get out and enjoy the slopes or snowmobile trails, for others, it's time to stay indoors and keep warm by the fire and for still others the elements signal it's time to leave for a warmer climate.

If you do live or travel anywhere up north during the winter months, however, you know for sure all that ice and wind and snow mean just one thing: hazardous road conditions. And those conditions can vary wildly even within a short distance depending on numerous factors, including whether you're traveling along city or country roads and the geography of the road and its surrounding terrain.

(MDOT Courtesy Image) A webcam recently installed by the Michigan Department of Transportation atop a new weather sensing station in Charlevoix County along U.S. 131 in Melrose Township captured this still image January 2 and will allow motorists continuous access to view regularly updated road conditions along the stretch. This webcam is pointed north on U.S. 131 towards Bear River Road.

But thanks to two new strategies recently implemented by the Michigan Department of Transportation, motorists in Charlevoix County and elsewhere throughout the state will find new methods evolving to help them more safely maneuver through those most slippery and hazardous stretches of road in their counties for years to come. The pair of MDOT initiatives include continuing installation of "weather sensing stations" and planting of evergreen trees to serve as natural barriers to wind and snow along especially hazardous stretches of roadway throughout the state.

Two of those weather sensing stations went up in Charlevoix County just before the holidays, said Charlevoix County Road Commission Manager Pat Harmon.

The weather stations monitor temperature, relative humidity, dew point, precipitation in the past hour and visibility. All of the information is posted online so it's easily accessible to road and law enforcement officials as well as travelers. The weather stations are also equipped with a webcam that features a routinely updated still photo of the stretch of road where they are posted.

Harmon said the weather stations also feature a "frost tube" indicator which his department will utilize every spring to determine how deeply the ground is frozen to figure what road weight restrictions apply.

along U.S. 131 just south of Bear River Road in northern Melrose Township. That station was placed at a point that's locally known as "Short's Hill", which sits at a higher elevation and lacks natural protection from wind and is therefore prone to heavy icing, low visibility and overall hazardous driving conditions, Harmon explained.

The weather station on Short's Hill is situated on the west side of U.S. 131 with its webcam aimed north towards Bear River Road.

The other station in Charlevoix County went into operation just down the road south of Boye Falls at U.S. 131 and the junction of M-32 at what Harmon said is known as "Elmira Hill", also a stretch that's extra vulnerable to high winds, poor visibility and icy driving conditions.

He said there's already been one MDOT weather sensing station in Charlevoix County at the intersection of U.S. 31 and Burgess Road between Bay Shore and Charlevoix for about two years.

The other MDOT initiative to help motorists navigate wintry roads has been the planting of evergreen trees in areas where there is little or no natural barrier between the blowing snow and open fields and the open road.

It may take a few years to yield results, but the long term impact of the trees when they get bigger will be quite noticeable, Harmon said.

He said dozens of young evergreen trees, all about 3-4 feet tall, were planted last fall along the high risk stretches of road, like at Short's Hill and Elmira Hill. "Just give those trees another five years to grow, and they are going to make a huge difference during the winter," Harmon said, "Huge."

He said despite the heavy snow and freezing temperatures all over northern Michigan during the holidays, so far the going has been pretty typical for this time of year when it comes to road conditions throughout Charlevoix County.

It is, however, the first year in his 32 years at the county road commission that Harmon said he's seen such cold temperatures hang on for so long so early in the season. "It's just really cold out there," he laughed.

The most treacherous winter roads in the county tend to be those that run between farm fields, Harmon noted, like some in southern parts of the county and throughout Hayes Township, where there are stretches of road with little or no natural barrier to winds and blowing snow.

Other MDOT weather sensing stations have been placed at the U.S. 31/M-88 intersection in Eastport, I-75 at Exit 337 south of Mackinaw City, I-75 at Levering Road exit, I-75 at Exit 301 in Wolverine and I-75 at Exit 270 in Waters.

caine was dismissed as was a drug enhancement. The delivery of heroin charge has a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

Stolt admitted providing heroin to a woman on May 25, 2017 in South Arm Township.

Sentencing on both files will occur on Feb. 23. The cases carry discretionary consecutive sentencing meaning the two sentences may be served back-to-back.

"I want to thank the prospective jurors who showed up and waited around. It may have seemed to them that they were wasting their time, but without their presence these convictions could not have been achieved," Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said.

Judge Roy C. Hayes III apologized to the jurors and told them there were no last second deals and that neither the prosecution nor defense counsel was to blame for the last minute decision to plead.

In October, Stolt pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of suboxone after a jury had been selected in his case but before the first witness was called. On Dec. 1, he was sentenced to nine months in jail, four months held in abeyance, and 24 months of probation.

Northern MI Camping & RV Show this weekend

By Jim Akans

It may be a touch on the cool side right now, but in just a few months the camping and RV season will be in full swing. To check out the latest equipment, accessories, vehicles and more, don't miss the Northern Michigan Camping and RV Show taking place at the Ellison Place in Gaylord January 11-14. This is a one-time opportunity to view a vast selection of products, meet directly with manufacturer representatives and save up to thousands of dollars.

This is the largest original indoor RV show in Northern Michigan. The 30,000 square foot Ellison Place facility will be packed with the latest offering by such well recognized brands as Coachmen, Forest River, Heartland and Keystone, with models such as Big Horn, Carbon, Catalina, Clipper, Cedar Creek, Chaparral, Freedom Express, Impression, Outback, Puma, R-pod, Raptor, Saber, Trail Runner and Wildcat. Whether a seasoned camping or RV enthusiast, or those looking to start their first outdoor adventure, attendees can easily spend hours perusing the show, learning about products and applications, and discovering the equipment and accessories that will fit and enhance their experience.

The Northern Michigan Camping & RV Show will also be a food drive benefit for The Refuge, and emergency overnight shelter for those who are homeless in Otsego County. The Refuge is a no-debt organization whose mission is "to facilitate community organizations and churches to help those without a home by providing a warm, safe place for adults to sleep overnight, November-April."

Admission to the show is to bring three non-perishable food items or a cash donation, and all food items and donations will go to The Refuge. Members of The Refuge Board will be at the show accepting the donations and answering questions about their much needed service for the homeless.

The Northern Michigan Camping & RV Show will take place over a four-day period. There will be door prizes given away every day of the show. Show hours will be:

- Thursday, January 11; 9am-9pm

Ellsworth students complete "Life Skills" course first semester

Ellsworth Community School high school students have just completed the first semester of a new elective course geared towards the teaching of essential real world skills. The new elective class, "Life Skills," comes as a direct request from students for having more elective opportunities built into the high school schedule.

At the end of the previous school year ECS superintendent/principal, Aaron Gaffney, met with every student in grades 6-12 to gather input and suggestions for improving the school experience in Ellsworth.

"Among many suggestions for improvements was the expressed desire for more elective opportunities," said Gaffney. "One of the specific requests students made was for a class that taught them daily living skills such as balancing a checkbook, changing the oil in a car, cooking, and basic sewing skills." As a result of the students' request, ECS built a new elective course option for high school students called Life Skills.

The new class is being taught by English teacher and ECS alum, Amanda Terryberry.

"It has been eye opening to teach a Life Skills class," said Mrs. Terryberry. "At the beginning of the semester, I had a list of ideas that I thought were skills that the students would want to learn. I was surprised to find out that some of the skills they wanted to learn were quite different from what I planned to cover."

According to Mrs. Terryberry, the high school students wanted to learn skills such as how to make an appointment, remove a stain, read a contract, and dress professionally. "With the help of the community, I've been able to chip away at their list and hopefully we will have a chance to learn all of the things they asked for."

Students have been extremely appreciative of the skills and lessons being taught in the class.

"I've learned so much already," said ECS junior, Ana Oviedo. "From how to pay my bills to everything that comes with saving."

Fellow ECS junior Atlas Marlatt echoed Ana's feelings. "This year 'Life Skills' has taught me, and is continuing to teach me, about real world situations."

In addition to student requests, students have spent time in the bus garage learning to change the oil in a car under the guidance of ECS Transportation Director, Larry Essenberg, learned to can jam and salsa at the Banks Township Hall, and observed the voting process on election day.

"This class would not be successful without the assistance of the community," stressed Mrs. Terryberry. "Larry Essenberg shared his knowledge on how to change the oil in a car. Rose McPherson gave the students the opportunity to make salsa and use a canner to preserve it. Louise Alfred has worked with the students on goal setting and preparing for life after high school. Not only are the students learning valuable skills, they are also making connections with people from the community."

One of the main projects and experiences planned for the second semester involves childcare. Thanks to a previous grant received by Mrs. Terryberry the class was able to purchase a "real-care baby" from Realityworks, a company that specializes in creating innovative learning tools for teaching real world skills. The real-care baby is a life-like infant simulator. The baby is programmed to cry, need its diaper changed, and be fed, in addition to many other infant activities. Each student in the class will have the opportunity to take the baby home, and carry it with them in school, for three days during the second semester.

"Mr. Gaffney and I are excited students will have the opportunity to interact with the real-care baby as a part of the Life Skills curriculum," indicated Mrs. Terryberry. "It represents another great opportunity for students to learn some of the many skills needed to be an adult."

In regards to the overall curriculum, Gaffney shared that Life Skills has been an extremely positive addition to the school's offerings.

"Often because of state and national curriculum requirements we as educators become too focused on college prep types of classes. I'm thankful that students expressed their desire for elective opportunities that focus more on real-world skills."

The class is already starting to pay dividends for the students of ECS. "I felt very unprepared for the real world, but now I feel more confident in my future," said Ana Oviedo. ECS is hopeful that it will be able to continue even more student generated elective opportunities in the future.

Exciting treasures always on hand at New Beginnings Thrift Store

By Jim Akans

"We are well known for having very high quality items that someone doesn't typically find in a resale shop," observes New Beginnings Thrift Store manager, Carol Grissom. "Our inventory is constantly changing, so there is something new and exciting to discover here each and every day."

Located at 650 W. Conway Road in Harbor Springs, New Beginnings Thrift Store has an incredible selection of top quality, gently used clothing and accessories, furniture, books, jewelry, tons of household items, and much more on display. In 2014, the store expanded to encompass the whole building at their location. This doubled the square footage, from 12,000 to 24,000 square feet.

Grissom states, "As a result our inventory has increased. We now carry seasonal items all year long. We have a huge book section, lots of furnishings. Customers spend hours browsing the wide array of items we offer."

The shop was originally located in the basement of the Holy Childhood School when the operation was founded back in the 1980's. Proceeds at that time helped to support the school's day care program. The store began operating under the direction of the Holy Childhood of Jesus Church in 2005, being re-organized to function more like a typical Thrift Shop, featuring donated inventory from local residents and businesses with a level of quality that far exceeded shoppers expectations.

Proceeds from sales at the shop are utilized to support tuitions for children from Holy Childhood School who attend St. Francis in Petoskey, with remaining funds going to assist area individuals in need.

"What truly sets our shop apart is the incredibly high level of quality items that we offer," states Grissom. "The clothing, furniture, and other household items we have to offer are beyond what shoppers will typically find at a resale store."

New Beginnings Thrift Store is open Monday through Friday from 9 am until 6 pm, and on Saturday from 9 am until 5 pm. For additional information call (231) - 348-2980 or visit New Beginnings Thrift Resale on Facebook.

Boyne Falls Public Schools STUDENT OF THE WEEK

Nicoma Sayles

Grade: 10

Parent's Name(s): Tait Sayles, Nicole Skinner

Future Plans: Nurse Practitioner or Physicians Assistant

Favorite Book: A Child Called "It"

Hobbies and Interests: Racing, Hunting, Fishing, Camping

School Activities: Class Secretary, Volleyball, Basketball, Student Council

Staff Comments: This has been a defining year for Nicoma. From her participation in the Class of 2020 fundraising through her contributions in business class discussions, Nicoma has taken a significant step forward with her educational and leadership skills. She is willing to take on stressful tasks that other students might shy away from. As she nears the halfway point of her sophomore year, Nicoma has a newfound confidence in her capabilities, accentuated by a friendly and helpful demeanor towards her classmates. Nicoma has an inquisitive mind that links her past experiences with new challenges. She is currently a player on the Girls' Varsity Basketball Team and helps keep statistics for the Boys' Basketball team. Besides her academic and school extracurricular activities, Nicoma races at Northern Michigan Speedway in the summer. Ironically, she is not yet old enough to have a drivers' license, though, having recently passed her driver's road test, only has the torturous wait for her birthday, mere weeks away, to gain that privilege and responsibility. Putting her active life, diverse interests, and entrepreneurial skills to work, I can see Nicoma being very successful in life.

was on the scene to investigate the fire on January 5 and were focused on the kitchen area of the Harbor View Cafe, where the fire is believed to have possibly started.

Fire Investigative Unit Specialist Sgt. Daniel Drew noted there are furthermore 'some concerning factors' about the fire, which will be investigated in tandem with the Charlevoix Police Department. Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan could not be reached for comment before press time.

This was third major fire in downtown Charlevoix that destroyed numerous businesses in just more than a year, which Drew said is concerning because it leads to questions about whether the city has adequate ordinances in place to oversee fire safety inspections of commercial establishments and their equipment.

Chuck Schilling, owner of the Harbor View Cafe, just took ownership of the restaurant in late December and said it's still too early in the investigation to comment on the fire or whether he will re-open his business.
