Memorial Day events commemorate those who have served

BY JIM AKANS

This coming Monday is Memorial Day, a time Americans have set aside to commemorate those who have passed while serving in our nation's military. It is a tradition that began after the Civil War ended in 1865, as countless gatherings occurred in towns and villages across the country, celebrating the memories of soldiers through sermons, songs and social activities. It was initially known as "Decoration Day," with the first official observance recorded in Waterloo, New York on May 5th, 1866.

The name slowly evolved to "Memorial Day," and Congress made Memorial Day an official national holiday in 1971, moving the holiday's observance from May 30 to the last Monday in May, allowing for a threeday holiday weekend.

Throughout Charlevoix County area this Memorial Day Weekend there will be several commemorative ceremonies honoring the memories of those who have sacrificed their lives to preserve our freedoms...the

JRAC Announces scholarship winners

BY KAREN WALKER

Each year as part of their mission, Jordan River Arts Council holds a show of area high school students' artwork and awards scholarships based on their entries.

This year's show was judged by artists Jane Diller and John Stevens, longtime supporters of JRAC. Twenty-two junior and senior high school students entered this year. "You should be proud of your creativity, your skills and your courage to enter." commented show coordinator Cynthia Tschudy to the students gathered for the awards presentation this past Sunday. "No one can take that away from you.'

Winner of the $1,500 Betty Osborne scholarship was Kiley Mann and winner of the $1,000 Betty Beeby scholarship was Payton Novotny, both from Charlevoix High School. Amber Gibson of East Jor-

28 year old City Commissioner dies unexpectedly

BY KAREN WALKER

East Jordan City Commissioner and beloved local citizen Andrew Boyer, 28, died unexpectedly May 16th. Andrew was appointed to the East Jordan City Commission in 2014 to replace Tony Cutler who was stepping down. Andrew's talents were quickly recognized as he served the city with dignity and humility. Commenting on his abilities as Commissioner, Tony Cutler says, "He had a passion for serving others, was analytical and knew that questions asked were as valuable as having experience. He didn't need to be an expert but was willing to ask questions and learn.'

In spite of being new to city government, Andrew's concern for his community proved to be a valuable asset to the position. Andrew will always be known as a kind, bright young man that cared deeply for his family and community.

Upper Bay Shore Road. They took care of over 40 elderly folks until 2016 when they retired due to his health. He loved all kinds of crafts but especially quilting. Jeffrey is survived by his partner, John Caron and

Andrew James Boyer, 28

(FEB. 24, 1991 - MAY 16, 2019)

Andrew James Boyer unexpectedly passed away on May 16, 2019. Andrew is survived by his best friend and partner (wife to be) Kristen Kovel; his loving parents Jim and Diane Boyer; his dear little sister, Ellen Boyer; his mentor, partner in crime, and grandpa, Dale Manning; his partner in wit, and beloved grandma, Elaine Manning; and countless aunts, uncles, cousins, friends, and community members.

Andrew was born February 24, 1991. He was the most adorable, chubby. brown- eyed, spiky-haired baby, and he hit the ground running...verbally at least. He was never afraid of expressing his progressive opinions, and he had many. Andrew never sat still, and because of this, his death is rippling globally. From his modest house in his small hometown of East Jordan, he was on a mission to change just about everything that he felt was unjust. He worked briefly in social work but chose manual labor and city politics instead, expressing his proletarian views loudly and often. He worked tirelessly, as a dedicated leader, to improve humanity and make our country equitable for all people. He worked tirelessly, period. Andrew did everything for everyone. He was determined to change the world. He did change the world, and in ways that we never expected. With our hearts full of admiration and awe, and now completely broken, we sit around the table trying to write something to represent Andrew. We cannot do this obituary justice, which would have been better had he written it himself. Because everything was better with Andrew. To quote him, "The water in the photo looked so black and dismal, but the foliage on both sides looked serene and beautiful. I see death as a river that we

On Wednesday, May 22 from 4 to 8 PM, all are welcome to join the family at the Boyer family farm (5018 South Waterman Rd., East Jordan) to celebrate Andrew's life. East Jordan Art & Historical Society is rebuilding

BY KAREN WALKER

The East Jordan Portside Art and Historical Society is moving forward to rebuild the struggling organization. At a meeting last Monday, community members met with facilitators from MSU Extension to learn more about the historical society and brainstorm ways to move forward. Participants agreed the Historical Society is a valuable asset and steps need to be taken for its continuance.

The Society was officially formed in 1975 as a registered non-profit. The original Museum Committee was established through the East Jordan Tournament Bridge group in 1966 by Cygred Riley, Elaine Savory and Jane Jackson. Founding members established a museum at the City owned Elm Pointe park with a second display space added more recently next to City Hall. The Portside Art Fair has been the major fund raiser for the Society but participation in the Society and art fair has been slowly declining over the years. This year's art fair was cancelled due to lack of volunteers and low artist attendance. Anyone interested in helping to rebuild the Historical Society is encouraged to attend the next meeting scheduled for Thursday, May 30th, 5:30pm at the Community Center, 116 Main St., East Jordan. For more information, contact the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

EJ High school junior designs unique bike repair device

ARTICLE AND PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY BETH PIEHL ECKERLE

CHAR-EM ISD COMMUNICATION COORDINATOR

Mike Cortright needed a device to help him service mountain bike shocks at his Boyne City business, North Country Cycle Sport. Commercial devices cost upwards of $1,000 or more, and Cortright was looking for a less-expensive option. He contacted a friend at Classic Instruments, Devin Butterbrodt, knowing the company's engineers and manufacturers are brilliant at developing devices, even those not specific to their classic car business in Boyne City.

With the project in mind, Devin approached fellow Rotary Club member Liz Nachazel with the idea that her son, Aaron, might be able to design the device. Aaron is a junior in the Computer Aided Design class at East Jordan High School, a Career and Technical Education program offered in 9-12th grades.

Once Liz and Devin started talking, Liz knew Aaron would be perfect for the job of designing a device like Cortright needed, based on the skills he has learned in his class under instructor John Cross. The CAD class has helped Aaron develop his skills over the past three years, and he was excited about taking on a project with real-world application.

"I used 2D and 3D software to create the design for Shock Squash 1.0," said Aaron, 16, who is interested in pursuing an engineering career after graduation next year. "We have the necessary software programs in class, so I was able to use what I learned at school and work on the designs over the summer last year at Classic Instruments."

After researching existing models and putting together the necessary dimensions for fabrication - about 20 hours of time - Aaron's version was streamlined and therefore, more cost-effective. After the CAD drawings were completed, Classic Instruments used them to fabricate the Shock Squash, which presses a bike shock down with enough force so that it can be properly re-

Cortright is thrilled to have such a useful tool in his shop for making repairs. It's not a process that can be done by hand, because of the force required to adequately compress the shock. The Shock Squash allows him to make repairs and retest the shock before putting it back on the mountain bike - saving steps and ensuring the shocks are functioning at their optimum capacity.

"It's really an awesome device. And it's been great to be part of this collaborative effort that involved a student utilizing his skills from the classroom to make a product that is really useful in the real world," said Cortright.

Butterbrodt said Classic Instruments was likewise pleased to work with a student and a local business.

"We knew this would be a perfect high school CAD project," he said. "It involved all sorts of collaboration, and we are glad to play a role."

Once it was delivered, Aaron paid a visit to Cortright's shop to see the device in action. "I couldn't believe I designed it," he said. "It looked too professional almost for a 16-yearold to have designed it!"

His teacher, John Cross, however, was not surprised. He describes Aaron as an exceptional student and one interested in learning new skills. "It's few and far between to have a project like this by a student," he said.

"Aaron has outstanding skills and works really well independently and with others. He's a great problem solver with a great work ethic."

"I'm definitely pushing that we need more involvement with the workforce and real-world applications, like this, in our classes," Cross said.

The Shock Squash earned Aaron a second-place award at the annual MITES competition for career tech projects, during the state-wide event held recently in Bellaire. He will next put his skills to work during his senior year, having landed a Career Internship at EJ working with the company's design/engineering department - offering him even more real-world experience in his field of interest.

As for the fun and unique name, Shock Squash? Aaron said he couldn't take full credit for that. "My dad is pretty creative at that kind of thing," he added.

Jack Laucher Remembered for dedication to young people

For twenty years, the Jack Laucher Outdoor Education Fund has provided grants to enable students in Charlevoix, Emmet, and northern Antrim counties an opportunity to experience challenges and personal growth through summer camps and other programs. More than 30 young people have had once-in-a-lifetime experiences that would not have been possible without financial support from the fund established in honor of Jack Laucher. This year, the Fund will transition to a Fund for Youth to honor Jack's dedication to young people.

A learning disabilities consultant for Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD) before his passing in 1998, Jack had a specific goal: to support young people in reaching their potential. The year after his passing, Jack's wife Sandi and sons Adam and Andrew worked with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation to establish the Fund in his honor.

"Jack's philosophy was that children's feelings were critically important. The quote from Maya Angelou sums up his goal in working with children - 'people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel.' I'm so pleased that Jack's Fund has reinforced his commitment to young people over the past twenty years," says

ISD to share the impact of the Fund on local students with employees from eleven school districts and to encourage them to support the Fund.

"Our family has continued to support Jack's Fund, but the people of Char-Em ISD who truly care about children in our communities have made this work in Jack's name possible," says Sandi. "I am so grateful to them for their contribution to his legacy."

This year, the Jack Laucher Outdoor Education Fund will make its last awards to help individuals gain a camp experience, but the new Jack Laucher Fund for Youth will continue to make a difference in the lives of young people through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

"Jack's Fund has been very hands-on since it was established in 1998, with applications submitted by ISD teachers, a review of those applications, communication with families and camps, and also the updates to friends who have supported the Fund at the ISD," explains Sandi.

Beginning this fall, the Jack Laucher Fund for Youth will boost the grantmaking from the Youth Fund and other Funds for Youth, achieving more together when allocated by the Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee.

"We know this Fund is so very special to Sandi, her family, and the many donors who have contributed in Jack's honor over twenty years," says Community Foundation President, Chip Hansen.
"Jack's legacy will continue through his Fund for Youth, forever."

Honoring 30 years of home-based care

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is honoring over 30 years of excellent service in the Home Health and Hospice industry, but even longer as a 'skilled nursing' home care establishment as they prepare to close the Home Health and Hospice division on September 30.

Home Care has always been a part of public health nursing and continues to be. Public health nurses from the Health Department have provided home care to individuals for many years. When home health care became more complex and specialized in the 1980's, the Health Department responded by separating their Family Health and Home Health divisions so that nurses could specialize and provide the most comprehensive, quality care; the same dedicated care that has given this division the 'sterling' reputation within the counties it

As the health care landscape, certifications and regulations change, it has become increasingly difficult to continue to provide these specialized services as a smaller organization. Lisa Peacock, Health Officer at the Health Department acknowledged "We know that, for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, Home Health and Hospice has a longstanding tradition of excellence and quality due to the highly qualified staff who have cared for our patients over many years. Their dedicated service is embedded in the history of our organization."

Peacock also noted, "We recognize that older adults are the fastest growing sector of the population and we remain committed to serving their needs. Adult health will remain a local public health priority and we look forward to exploring, along with our community partners, how to best promote health in the aging population." Hospice of Northwest Michigan (doing business as Northwest Michigan Hospice) is a long-standing partner and non-profit entity which has long provided support for hospice needs in the community, and the Health Department is working closely with their Director and Board to discuss future possibilities.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan will continue to embrace the historic model of home visiting as a means of reaching those who need it most in a variety of programs and services but will always look back with pride on the long history of Home Health and Hospice services.

For additional information about the closing of the Home Health and Hospice Division, call Erin Luckhardt at 989-906-6202 or visit www.nwhealth.org.

Public Act 210 Public Information Meeting in Boyne City

The City of Boyne City has scheduled a Public Information Meeting to share information regarding it's consideration of the establishment of a PA 210 district for properties located at the southeast corner of the North Lake and State Street intersection. The Public Information Meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 21 at 6pm in the City Commission Chambers on the 2nd floor of the Boyne City Facilities building located at 319 North Lake Street in Boyne City.

Public Act 210 of 2005, also known as the Commercial Rehabilitation Act, is a law created by the State of Michigan that creates a financial tool that can be considered for re-development projects that freezes the taxes on the properties involved at their pre-improved levels for a period of up to ten years. After that time the tax levels increase to reflect the higher improved value of the property involved. It provides a financial incentive/tool to redevelop properties while not reducing existing tax revenues. While Boyne City has used similar tools to help developments in its downtown and Business Park this is the first time the use of PA 210 has been considered. The request is associated with the proposed Lofts on Lake Street mixed used redevelopment.

Representatives from Boyne City and the City's consultant on the matter, Otwell Mawby, will be present to review the act, the adoption process, how it works and answer questions members of the public may have.

The Boyne City City Commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing to further consider the establishment of the PA 210 District at another public meeting to be held on Tuesday, May 28 at 7mm

Boyne City High School student receives 2019 Breaking Traditions Award

A Boyne City High School junior is among 91 high school and college students statewide to receive 2019 Breaking Traditions Awards for overcoming obstacles and stereotypes to succeed in Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs, the Michigan Department of Education (MDE) announced Thursday.

Erin Smith, a junior at Boyne City High School, has been breaking traditions as the only female member of the new Energy Essentials: Line Worker Emphasis program launched this year at her school, in partnership with Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District's Career and Technical Education Department and three large Michigan utilities – Great Lakes Energy, Consumers Energy and DTE.

"Building talent is a priority in Michigan, so it's important that we recognize students who overcome perceived barriers and the programs that helped them," Interim State Superintendent Sheila Alles said. "These 91 students achieved success in career and technical education programs that are nontraditional to their gender, and therefore are role models for peers who may be considering such a career path.'

Awards criteria included: Complete a CTE program nontraditional to their gender;

Enroll in a Michigan high school or career center program during the 2018-19;

Be nominated by a teacher, counselor, administrator, or other staffer employed by the student's school or career center;

Have satisfactory academic standing, acceptable citizenship, and disciplinary history; and Contribute to awareness of nontraditional careers.

Applicants provided two letters of support and wrote a brief narrative explaining career obstacles faced and key accomplishments. Erin received one of several Merit Awards bestowed by the state.

In her application materials, Erin wrote: "I chose this nontraditional program because I wanted to help my community in a way that is not typical for females. I first became interested in this career path freshman year after a visit to Alpena Community College. While there, I observed a climbing arena and I knew right then that I wanted to become a line worker... While registering for classes in the fall of 2018, I was thrilled to see 'Energy Fundamentals: Line Worker Emphasis' on the roster. I registered and was excited to be accepted in the program."

"On the first day of school, I walked into the classroom with a huge smile on my face. I quickly found out that I was the only female in the class, and I told the teachers, 'Just treat me like the guys.' Within a week, we received our gear and headed to the training grounds. I instantly fell in love with the set-up of the yard and the potential it held for my future. Through the school year, I have gained much more information and skills about becoming a line worker and feel more certain than ever that this is the career for me."

Her instructors, Derek Maki and James Rincon, both working linemen for Great Lakes Energy, praised Erin's work ethic and commitment to the program. Great Lakes provided the instructors and the company's Boyne City training grounds for the course.

"From the first day of class in September 2018, she has been eager to learn, ready to participate and prepared for whatever challenges we present to the students on any given day," said Maki. "Erin made an impression on us shortly after the school year began. On the second day of class, she had her climbing boots and work clothes ready to go! We were impressed by that; several other students didn't have their boots even a week later."

"During class, we can count on Erin to pay attention to the lessons. She is careful about safety, which is paramount in this line of work. She takes the class and our instruction seriously, and has the desire to perform well. When either myself or my co-instructor, James Rincon, ask a question, Erin is usually the first to answer. She has an innate desire to learn and improve, making her conscientious and a student that teachers appreciate."

MDE's Office of CTE oversees high school instructional programs that teach students skills in a specific career cluster. Most programs offer early college credit opportunities to provide a seamless transition to postsecondary education – a key strategy to help Michigan become a Top 10 education state in 10 years.

"We are so proud of Erin for how she has represented Career Tech education overall and the line worker program itself in this inaugural year," said Jim Rummer, Career and Technical Education Director for Char-Em ISD. "When we partnered with Boyne City in launching this program, we knew it would attract serious students who could benefit from learning the skills of this in-demand field. Having a female of Erin's caliber in the class has added to the program in many ways. Her hard work and dedication will take her far, and we congratulate her on this state-wide recognition."

Karen Jarema, Boyne City High School Principal, said Erin's name came to mind immediately when she was informed about the Breaking Traditions award opportunity.

"Erin Smith is one of the hardest working students that I know," Jarema said. "She excels in the line worker program, the band program, in 4-H; in everything that she does, Erin puts forth 100 percent effort. Erin is poised in her speaking abilities and has impressed many individuals who have come to visit the line worker program. She is a leader and a student who staff can rely on to make responsible choices and encourage others. She is also enjoyable to spend time with."

Brian Pyles, Director of CTE at the Michigan Department of Education, said the Breaking Traditions Awards extend beyond individual students. "These awards also represent the quality of the school culture," he noted. "Clearly, these schools embrace an inclusive student focused instructional environment supported by staff, students and community."

Awards were presented during a formal ceremony in Lansing on May 16, which Erin attended with Jarema, co-instructor James Rincon, her mother Tami Smith and other family members.

"Being the only female in the class has been not only a challenge, but also a positive experience," Erin added. "I feel that I have proven myself capable of competently doing this job, regardless of my gender."

East Jordan Elementary holds Enterprise Day

6th grade students at East Jordan Elementary School completed another successful Enterprise Day Friday, May 17 in the Elementary School gymnasium. Started in 1997, Enterprise Day is a chance for students to be an entrepreneur for a day and sell items they have created to fellow students, school staff, and the general public. Students keep fifty-percent of the profit and donate the other fifty-percent to two local non-profit organizations chosen collectively by the students. Students are still deciding on this year's recipients. Some past recipients include Kiersten's Ride, The Depot teen center, Crossroads Resale Shop, and Charlevoix Area Humane Society just to name a few.

While Enterprise Day businesses were only open for about two hours on Friday, 6th grade students spent the past few weeks taking a business class that led up to Enterprise Day. In this class, students conducted market research, developed a product idea, wrote a mission statement, and filled out paperwork in class as if they were applying for a "doing business as" (DBA) designation to open a business. After learning business fundamentals, students were excited to run their own business for a While students are still tallying sales and calculating their profits, 6th grade teacher Mrs. Noirot said that all businesses made money. This is a fun and educational event that East Jordan's 6th graders will remember forever.

MDHHS invites public comment on Title V Block Grant application

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) invites the public to comment on the Title V Maternal and Child Health (MCH) Services Block Grant application. Title V of the Social Security Act of 1935, as amended, provides funding to states to improve the health of mothers, infants and children, including children with special health care needs.

Per federal requirements, a five-year needs assessment was completed in 2015 and a summary is included in the application. Based on the needs assessment, the seven priorities for the State of Michigan for fiscal years (FY) 2016-2020 are aimed at improving the health of the MCH population:

- Reduce barriers, improve access and increase the availability of health services for all populations.

- Support coordination and linkage across the perinatal to pediatric continuum of care.

- Invest in prevention and early intervention strate-

- Increase family and provider support and education for children with special health care needs.

- Increase access to and utilization of evidence-based oral health practices and services.

- Foster safer homes, schools, and environments with a focus on prevention.

- Promote social and emotional well-being through the provision of behavioral health services.

These priorities are linked to seven national performance measures and four state performance measures across five federally-identified population domains: women/maternal health, perinatal/infant health, child health, adolescent health and children with special health care needs.

Michigan's Title V application is for services from Oct. 1, 2019 to Sept. 30, 2020, and also includes a report on activities and services provided in FY 2018.

The Title V draft application and annual report are available online. MDHHS welcomes comments on the application by 5 p.m. on June 5, 2018. Comments can be submitted to daviss11@michigan.gov.
