Veterans from Boyne City and East Jordan among group of Veterans on Honor Flight to Washington DC

BY KAREN WALKER

When Boyne City native Harvey Crozier joined the Air Force in 1953, he didn't give it a whole lot of thought. Serving your country was something you just did. When the recruiter told him that his buddy Howard Carson had recently signed up, Harvey enlisted as well. Harvey's two older brothers had fought in WWII and Harvey felt that now it was his turn. This past spring, Harvey had a chance to experience firsthand the public's appreciation for his service. Accompanied by his daughter Keisha Crozier-Krumm who served as his escort or "guardian", Harvey and 64 other Northern Michigan area veterans were flown from Gerald R. Ford International Airport in Grand Rapids to Washington, D.C. on the 11th Mid-Michigan

Honor Flight. Honor Flight transports America's Veterans to Washington, DC to visit those memorials dedicated to honor the service and sacrifices of themselves and their friends. "The whole trip was nothing but thank you, thank you, thank you," Harvey said. Everywhere they went, people were lined up to greet them. Waving American flags, saluting, cheering, and shaking hands with the veterans. "Sometimes both hands at the same time!" Harvey served during the Korean conflict as crew chief on a B47 bomber. His experiences during his time of service was seldom something he talked about. He's proud of his service but he says it felt like he was just doing his job. "When you're asked to serve, you serve," he said. East Jordan resident Carl Massey was with the same group and echoed Mr. Crozier's excitement. "Traveling to the airport, almost every overpass was lined with fire trucks, police cars; there were people waving and saluting all along the way despite the fact it was cold and raining," he said.

"It was unlike anything I'd ever experienced." One of the highlights of the trip for Carl was when a shy young girl came up to him and handed him a hand painted stone with the word "Hero" on it and thanked him for his service. Carl was deeply touched by her heartfelt act. Another souvenir Carl received was a special coin honoring his service. Carl is a Vietnam veteran and also served as a guardian on the trip. He came home from the adventure with a more positive

EAST JORDAN CITY COMMISSION
MEETING, JUNE 4, 2019

Fireworks use further restricted by EJ commission

BY KAREN WALKER

At Tuesday's East Jordan City Commission meeting, City Manager Tom Cannon reported he expects work to begin next week on the new boat launch facility located just east of the Tourist Park with completion scheduled for early this fall. Some of the material dredged from the site will be used in the Tourist Park to fill wet areas in the campground. Several camping sites at the Tourist Park recently had to be closed to prevent damage to the soft soil. With lake levels at record highs the rising water table combined with heavy spring rainfall has oversaturated the area. The City plans to reopen the sites the last weekend of June in time for the Freedom Festival.

In other business, the Commission introduced an ordinance that would amend the current fireworks ordinance. The proposed ordinance would

OBITUARIES

John W. Zoulek, 59

(SEPT. 3, 1959 - MAY 8, 2019)

John W. Zoulek surrounded by his loving family peacefully joined our Father in heaven on May 8, 2019 in Pueblo, CO.

He was born on September 3, 1959, in Midland, Mich., the first born son to Jack Zoulek and Jean Petrie, loved and cherished by his devoted wife, Rubi and adoring sons, John Elliott, Jacob William and Jared Everett. He will be greatly missed by his father and wife, Nancy, his mother Jean and his siblings, Debbie (Marty Carey), Carrie (Bryon Murray), Jerry, Tommy (Gina), Mindy (Bill Joy) and Angie along with many nieces, nephews, cousins, uncles and aunts, as well as, his lifelong friends from East Jordan.

After age five, John would live in East Jordan for the next 13 years. He attended Lake Superior State College pursuing a degree in Engineering. A few years later his nuclear industry employment would take him to Texas where he met his beloved wife of more than 28 years. He was a highly respected Engineer working for Ebasco, Raytheon, URS and AECOM making many loyal and lifelong friends. His career allowed his family to live in many states with 16 years in Kennewick, Wash. and six years in Pueblo, Colo.

John was an avid hunter, a fisherman, an outdoorsman and he had a farmer's spirit. His most treasured moments were when he could spend time with his sons camping, fishing and hunting. More than anything he cherished the years of watching his sons play soccer and then football and was so proud of each and their own individual talents and later he would relish a unique type of pride as each of his sons declared their wish of pursuing an Engineering degree.

He was an amazing husband and loving father. He was kind, generous, religious, loyal, strong, brave and resolute and above all he loved his family greatly. We know in our hearts that John's pre-deceased nephew, Zachary Zoulek, welcomed his arrival in heaven and that we all will see our John and Zach again.

Memorial Mass will be 11:30 a.m. on June 7, 2019, at St. Joseph's Parish, Kennewick, Wash. with interment and "friends and family gathering" at Desert Lawn Memorial Park Cemetery ending with a Repass picnic and a celebration of John's Life in East Jordan at the Snowmobile Club on June 11th.

Rose Marie (Armbruster) Sadlowski, 88

(APRIL 18, 1931 - JUNE 1, 2019)

Rose Marie Sadlowski slipped away peacefully on June 1, 2019, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

She was greeted at heaven's gate by her loving husband, Ralph Sadlowski of 58 years; brother, Joseph Armbruster; son, Robert and her parents. She also leaves behind nine grandchildren and eight great grandchildren whom she loved dearly.

Rose was a spirited, strong willed, independent, opinionated, and a generous woman. After raising her three sons in the Detroit metro area, Rose and Ralph took on a challenge almost comparable to early frontiersmen. In 1974, they moved their lives to an isolated place here in Northern Michigan. Living in a tiny mobile, they managed life with only a generator, a hand well pump, and a large garden. They slowly built what became a warm and welcoming home, where friends and family near and far came for vacation. Rose reveled in the company, always entertaining the constant flow of visitors, with her home cooking and lively conversation. Rose's real pride was the half acre garden she meticulously maintained, growing fruits and vegetables that she canned and passed out to friends and family.

With the arrival of each grandchild, Rose became a caring nurse, a creative chef, their strictest teacher, their most boisterous cheerleader, and a friend on whom they could always depend on.

She will be tremendously missed.

She is to be cremated and ashes brought together with those of her husband Ralph. Memorial and celebrations of her life are still pending at this time and will be announced at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, please contribute to Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Harbor Springs students earn drone operators' safety certificates, FAA licenses

Four students in the unique drone program at Harbor Springs High School have achieved two major milestones – they have received their flight safety certification and also their UAV license from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), two designations that will set them on the path of commercial drone operation.

The students are all graduating seniors in Rob LaPoint's drone class, known as STEM sUAS. The students are: Colin Flinn, Peter Molosky, Tyler Rushing, and Garth Vorce.

First, the students completed a proctored safety exam administered by the Small Unmanned Aerial Systems (sUAS) to receive their Safety Certification. The safety exam is part of the curriculum used in the class that is provided by the Unmanned Safety Institute (USI), which provides a robust set of coursework for the students to accomplish during the school year.

Instructor LaPoint explained that the safety certification can save future employers thousands of dollars when they need their employees to study, train and pass the exam to execute their job duties.

"I'm really proud of these students. They have taken this class seriously and they now have another tool in their tool belt as far as potential career opportunities. They can also use their skills to earn some extra money professionally, as drone operators are in high demand across a number of different industries," LaPoint said. "Further, these exams can cost a lot of money. To have these completed in high school and paid for through the program is really remarkable and a real benefit to them for working so hard in class."

For those students who pass sUAS safety certification, they may next take a UAV (Unmanned Aerial Vehicles, aka drones) flight exam administered by the FAA to become Certified Remote Pilots, including as licensed Commercial Operators. The same four seniors performed well on the FAA test and have received their temporary licenses. The FAA "Part 107" license means the students can fly drones for work or private business under the FAA's rules.

The students will need to register their drones and complete background checks to receive the final certifications.

Senior Tyler Rushing said he's excited to have the certifications in place so that he can put his drone skills to work this summer at a Harbor Springs golf course, shooting video. "It's very cool to now have these completed, while I was still in high school," said Tyler.

His classmate, Peter Molosky, echoed his comments. "Once I get my certicate, I'm going to throw my name out there and be ready to work."

The FAA testing took place at Northern Michigan College (NMC) in Traverse City, through the college's CATS training center, which has been a partner with Char-Em ISD's Career and Technical Education department and Harbor Springs High School in getting the drone program off the ground the past two years. The students are also eligible to receive six articulated college credits at NMC should they attend the college's UAV program.

Jim Rummer, Char-Em ISD Career and Technical Education Director, said jobs incorporating UAVs are many and diverse. Drone operators don't only capture eye-catching aerial pictures and unique videos; the technology is used in innumerable ways, including search-and-rescue operations, pinpointing land parcel boundaries, calculating volume of fill dirt at a construction site, delivery of packages, and much more. It's likely many uses for drone technology haven't yet been developed or explored, he added - leaving a future that's wide open and potentially profitable for those with the safety and operational skills learned and perfected by the Harbor students.

"This program says a lot about Harbor Springs' leadership in seeing the potential for their students with this evolving and exciting technology. Seeing these students achieve these certifications is the ultimate satisfaction, knowing that we are helping set them on a successful career path, if they choose to pursue drone piloting," Rummer said. "We are all about giving students in our area every possible opportunity to create successful futures, and we congratulate these seniors on their hard work and dedication to this class and for taking on the additional training."

view of today's youth. He said they encountered thousands of kids visiting the memorials that were very respectful.

As most any service person will tell you, your comrades are your family. Harvey said "You are part of a special group and you don't let them down. Everything you do is for the United States of America. And the life of the person serving next to you is more important than your own." This deep devotion to family and country is one of the reasons veterans are so deserving of our appreciation.

The Honor Flight experience was an emotional one for the veterans. Many had never visited the memorials created to honor their service. All aspects of the trip including transportation, meals, lodging and tour guides are provided free to the veterans. Carl had this advice for his fellow veterans: "If you ever have the opportunity to go on an Honor Flight and pass it up, you've made a grave mistake. You should go."

"It was a wonderful experience" Harvey said. "Everything was first class and done to perfection." The trip restored his faith in society. He said he'd do it all again in a heartbeat, both taking the Honor Flight, and serving his country.

Do You Have Buyer's Paralysis? – Part 2 of 3

A conflict in goals

Many couples purchase homes with the idea that they will have a child, so stretching buying power to have the extra space makes sense. But if you are trying to accomplish two big financial goals at the same time - buying a home and adding to your family, then something has to give.

You can't have it all - peace of mind, a large mortgage, and burgeoning expenses all at the same time. Something has to give and the way to do that is simply to prioritize your goals. In what order of importance do you want things to happen? What is most important to you? Whether you are planning a family, returning to graduate school, paying off a student loan, or buying a new car, you surely realize that your financial pie can only be sliced so many ways. Your mortgage is the largest, and the larger it is the smaller the other pieces.

Problems in the marriage

This is one of the toughest issues to address, and one your Realtor can't help you with. But just as you are listening to your instincts about the amount of money you should spend on your new home, you should be paying even more attention to your feelings about your marriage. And only you can answer the question - will we still be together in five years? You should at least be able to predict being together long enough to pay off the interest on your loan! Or you'll be selling your home without the benefit of building any equity and equity only comes with appreciation and mortgage reduction.

Buying a home will not fix a poor relationship. It will only make things worse. So you have a decision to make and it isn't which house to buy. It is whether or not you want this relationship to survive. If you decide you want the marriage, then you must pour your efforts into fixing its problems, including your share of the blame. Be willing to change some things, compromise on others, or accept many things as they are. If you can't do all of those, then to dissolve the partnership is your only other choice. After you have solved the problems in your relationship, you will find your home more easily.

shorten the number of days the public is allowed to use fireworks within the City. The previous ordinance limited use to the day before, the day of, or the day after a federal holiday with no fireworks to be used between the hours of 1:00 a.m. and 8:00 a.m. The amended ordinance will allow consumer fireworks use December 31 from 11 a.m. until 11:59 p.m., January 1 from midnight until 1:00 a.m., and Saturday and Sunday immediately preceding Memorial Day, June 29 to July 4, (and July 5 if that date is a Friday or Saturday), and Saturday and Sunday immediately preceding Labor Day from 11 a.m. until 11:45 p.m. on each of those days.

A violation of the ordinance would be a civil infraction punishable by a fine of $1,000.00. In addition to a civil infraction, fines and penalties stated within the Michigan Fireworks Safety Act may be imposed.

The use of low-impact fireworks, (i.e. ground and hand-held sparking devices) and novelties (i.e. snappers, party poppers, snakes, smoke balls) as defined in the Fireworks Safety Act are permitted year-round. This change is in line with similar changes in surrounding towns.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m., Tuesday, June 18, 2019.

No-fault insurance reform signed into law

BY SEN. WAYNE SCHMIDT
37TH SENATE DISTRICT

Reforming auto insurance has been a priority since the beginning of this legislative term — in fact it was a key issue during November's campaign season for many members. Folks from every corner of our state have been overly burdened by the current system and they made their voices heard.

That's not to say the current system is bad. In fact, several people called my office or came to Lansing to testify in support of the fantastic benefits traumatic accident victims receive under auto no-fault. I can personally attest to the quality of care, so initially I had some reluctance as we began looking at reforms.

The final product that evolved as the bills moved through the process ended up being the best of both worlds. Under the plan, which was recently signed into law by Gov. Gretchen Whitmer, individuals will now have a choice when choosing their auto insurance coverage. The new law gives consumers multiple personal injury protection (PIP) coverage options, which will allow them to choose coverage based on their personal needs. Seniors with Medicare or individuals with private health insurance could opt to use those benefits as well.

This allows drivers who wish to pay for the premium package to still do so and still receive the quality care that makes no-fault so appealing to many. Folks who simply cannot afford that level of coverage will still have options that provide quality care at a more affordable rate. This is the most important part of the package. People should always have a choice; they should never be saddled by a one-size-fits-all plan. No other insurance operates that way and auto insurance should not be an exception.

The new law also targets excessive health care costs by installing a fee schedule to bring medical care from an auto accident in line with non-auto-related care. We've seen medical bills with costs inflated exponentially simply because a car was involved. That's not right and I am glad that was addressed in the legislative process.

The Legislature also included language to establish a fraud authority to cut down on fraud within the system, reduce frivolous lawsuits and establish a list of non-driving-related factors that cannot be used by insurance companies when setting rates.

I think this was a great effort that required countless hours of discussion and testimony, tough negotiations, and compromise. We finished with a bipartisan product that isn't perfect but will provide meaningful relief to Michiganders from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie.

Sen. Wayne Schmidt, R-Traverse City, represents the 37th state Senate District, which includes Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Luce and Mackinac counties.

300th Anniversary of Fort Michilmackinac Lecture Series presentation

On Monday, June 10, the Mackinaw Area Historical Society will present its monthly Lecture Series, this month featuring Craig Wilson of Mackinaw City. The topic of his program will be an overview of the 300th Anniversary of Fort Michilmackinac. Craig Wilson is the Curator of History for Mackinac State Historic Parks. He supervises interpretation and exhibits at Colonial Michilmackinac and the Old Mackinac Point Lighthouse in Mackinaw City.

Fort Michilmackinac, a rebuilt stockade standing in the shadow of the Mackinac Bridge, is wrapping up its tricentennial anniversary. The fort, built in 1715 by the French, was an important early European settlement that functioned as a bustling crossroads during the Great Lakes fur trade era.

In 1763 an attack on the fort by Native Americans was part of the widespread revolt across the Midwest and became known as Pontiac's Rebellion. The Michilmackinac attack was the most dramatic event in the fort's history. On June 2, 1763, several hundred Ojibwe overwhelmed the British garrison, killing at least 27 soldiers. The natives staged a game of Baggitway (early form of lacrosse) near the fort entrance and duped the British into complacency before springing an attack. Despite the victory, the British reclaimed the fort in 1764. Other than the siege at Fort Detroit, it was said to be the biggest military action that had ever taken place in Michigan.

Between 1780 and 1781, the British moved the fort garrison to Mackinac Island, a more defensible stronghold, and abandoned Michilmackinac. The stockade was burned and eventually covered by blowing sand. When Mackinaw City was plotted about 80 years later, the "Old Mackinac Point" fort was reserved within a community park. The land was transferred to the state in 1904.

Since 1959, excavations of the fort grounds have uncovered more than a million artifacts left behind by French traders, British soldiers and the Native Americans who occupied the Great Lakes region long before Europeans. This program will take a quick tour through 300+ years of Michilmackinac's history, including a discussion on the community's role in bringing people to the Mackinac area.

The program will begin at 7:00pm at the Mackinaw Area Public Library, 528 West Central Ave., Mackinaw City. Admission is free. Refreshments will be offered following the program.

Boyer City Shoreline Demonstration Gardens dedication June 9

The newly planted Boyer City Shoreline Demonstration Gardens will be dedicated Sunday, June 9, beginning at 2:00 pm. The dedication will take place at the (garden's) site, the shoreline of Sunset Park, located at the foot of Water Street. The gardens are the result of a two year collaboration between the City of Boyer City, the Boyer Valley Garden Club and the Lake Charlevoix Association. There will be a short dedication ceremony and simple refreshments will be served. Representatives of the sponsoring organizations and the five local landscaping companies whose work is on display at the gardens will be present to answer questions about the gardens. Plugs of Little Bluestem Grass will be presented to the first 30 visitors. Anyone interested in lake-friendly property management techniques is invited to attend.

The Shoreline Dedication Gardens began as an idea which emerged from a meeting two years ago attended by members of the Lake Charlevoix Association and the Boyer Valley Garden Club. Together with the Michigan State University Extension Service, these organizations had been trying different methods of illustrating shoreline landscaping that was both pleasing to the eye and protective of Lake Charlevoix water quality. Why not, thought these gardeners and community leaders, install lake friendly planting on a stretch of publicly accessible shoreline, where it could easily be seen?

This concept soon found a pair of advocates, Joel VanRoekel and Tom Darnton, who were looking for a project they could adopt that would satisfy the requirements of a course they were taking. Tom and Joel recruited three additional team members Nancy Cunningham, a Master Gardener who had extensive experience working with Boyer City government, Gow Litzenberger, a retired landscape architect and Jason Brabbs, a landscape designer working with North By Nature. These five individuals, frequently assisted by Dan Mishler and John Hoffman, past and current LCA presidents, began working together in August of 2017. The Demonstration Gardens were first planted in September of 2018.

Key to the success of the gardens was the recruitment of local landscaping companies willing to install and maintain an example of an approach to shoreline landscaping. Five area landscape companies answered the call to create a shoreline plot that was aesthetically pleasing and focused on the use of native plants species. North By Nature of Petoskey, Ryan's Landscaping of Boyer City, Charlevoix Landscaping of Boyer City, Vidosh North of Petoskey, Water Paw of Boyer City and the volunteers from the Lake Charlevoix Association installed their garden plots last fall.

The importance of these gardens rests in the fact that thoughtful design of shoreline property provides protection against two major threats to lake health. Well designed shorelines help protect against the erosion caused by wave action. Left unchecked, erosion degrades the shoreline and allows increased sediment to enter the water, decreasing water quality. The majority of the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix has experienced some development. When native species are planted in the buffer zone between land and water, they capture much of the runoff. This runoff often contains nutrients like fertilizers and pollutants from human activity upland from the shore.

The Shoreline Demonstration Garden is the result of the successful collaboration among citizens, non-profit environmental groups, city government, and civic minded businesses. The lake and its inhabitants will benefit from this endeavor for years to come.

State and Federal Leaders Support Business Network Initiatives

Mackinac Island — U.S. Senator Gary Peters, several state congressional representatives, and Michigan's Attorney General Dana Nessel thanked the Great Lakes Business Network for taking a leading position to decommission the Line 5 pipeline in the Straits of Mackinac, and engaging on other critical Great Lakes policy issues during a reception hosted by the business network on Mackinac Island. The event was held during the annual Detroit Chamber of Commerce Mackinac Policy Conference, when nearly 2,000 Michigan leaders in government and business gather at the island's Grand Hotel.

Attorney General Nessel delivered a strong pledge to take legal action to decommission the Line 5 pipeline "by the end of next month." She noted that shutting down Line 5 was a top priority of hers during her election campaign, and that she intends to "keep that campaign promise and assure all of you that I'm doing everything I possibly can to decommission Line 5." She also indicated that she is allowing Governor Whitmer time to negotiate a solution that will shut down the pipeline as quickly as possible and avoid protracted litigation. She conceded that "I know [litigation is] scary to a lot of people. But guess what, I'm a goddn lawyer. That's what I do for a living and I'm not afraid of this."

Founding Great Lakes Business Network member Rich Bergmann, of Lake Charlevoix

Brewing Co., moderated the event and recognized other members of the GLBN Executive Committee in attendance: Carrie Veldman, BarFly; Beryl Skrocki, Sleeping Bear Surf & Kayak; and Juliette MacAvoy-King, King Orchards. The network has more than 120 business members from across Michigan and the Great Lakes basin. In addition to the Line 5 pipeline issue, the network is also working to address harmful algal blooms in Lake Erie, and to promote and advance clean energy policies and projects in the Great Lakes basin.

Michigan Senator Peters also addressed the reception and spoke of his longstanding concerns about an oil spill in the freshwater of the Straits. He specifically highlighted the lack of adequate oil spill cleanup solutions under ice cover. He also described federal funding for a Center for Innovation that would focus on the science of cleaning up oil spills in freshwater.

Congressional representatives Dan Kildee (D, Flint) and Andy Levin (D, Warren) also spoke at the reception. They addressed concerns about PFAS contamination and discussed advancing Electric Vehicle charging stations across Michigan and the nation. They both acknowledged the important role that business voices can play in shaping public policy and thanked the business leaders in the Great Lakes Business Network for their leadership.
