SOCCER STATE SEMIFINAL RESULTS

Rambler ride comes to an end

GRAND RAPIDS SOUTH CHRISTIAN 2, BOYNE CITY 0

CEDAR SPRINGS — For now, it wasn't meant to be.

The postseason run that the Boyne City girls soccer team went on, has come to an end.

The Ramblers, who captured the programs second straight conference championship, and then went on a run that saw them grab district and regional titles to reach the semifinals over the past few weeks, coming up just one win shy of reaching the Division 3 state finals, as they fell to eventual state champion Grand Rapids South Christian 2-0 on June 11.

An impressive class of underclassmen, mixed with the talent and leadership of five seniors, in a sense, reached a point in this tournament that not many people saw coming this season. The team and area followers knew the team was good, but were not sure that they would reach this stage at this point and time, as most projected this type of run over the next few years.

The Ramblers found that GR South Christian was were bigger, more physical, deeper and more experienced, something that Boyne was not used to this season as they were usually the aggressor and controlled the matchups almost each and every night on the field.

The Sailors would use their experience and aggressiveness to their advantage throughout the entire night.

From the opening kick, both teams held the other in check as the defenses locked down, keeping their opponent out of the goal for most of the first half.

With 7:04 to play in the first half, the Sailors worked their way deep into the Ramblers defense, and would score to make it 1-0, a lead they would carry into the half.

With the lead, Grand Rapids South Christian would control the ball, moving it from side to side with perfectly placed crosses or headers, as they substituted regularly, trying to wear the Ramblers out.

That game plan would work as the Sailors notched their second and final goal of the game with 22 minutes remaining in the second half.

Boyne finishes the season with a 25-3-1 record, and while saying goodbye to five seniors, Molly Burch, Katie Burley, Katie Harmeling,

Cora Hauger and Emily Sterling, the future looks bright for the Ramblers as they return the core nucleus of their team in sophomores, Jordan and Taylor Noble, Inanna Hauger, Jaelyn Jarema, Ally Herrick, Ariel Himmelpach, Megan Harmeling and Kari Day, a group that will welcome an incoming freshman class of talented players as well, so look for Boyne to make another run in the near future.

DNR officers offer ORV safety tips

Speed and reckless driving are the primary contributing factors for off-road vehicle accidents, with 24 percent of all ORV accidents reported in 2017 resulting from people driving too fast, and 16 percent of riders not wearing a helmet.

Michigan DNR conservation officers are seeing more ORVs hitting the trail earlier in the season. They're also seeing more accidents, which easily could be avoided by keeping safety in mind.

Most ORV accidents can be avoided by riding at a safe speed, riding sober, riding on the right side of the trail, easing up around corners, being familiar with the terrain and riding within the ORV's limits.

"There may be designated ORV speed limits on public

As more off-road enthusiasts hit the trails in Michigan, common-sense riding habits are more important than ever. Michigan conservation officers have plenty of good advice to keep people safe on the trails. (courtesy of DNR) roadways approved for ORVs," said Conservation Officer Ben Shively, who patrols Oceana County. "And while there are no posted speeds on trails, riders can receive a citation for excessive speed or reckless riding."

It's also important to wear a helmet and to remember that there are many ORVs on the trails, including a growing number of side-by-side vehicles.

"We want to remind riders to take corners easy and ride on the right side of the trail," said Conservation Officer Josiah Killingbeck, who patrols Lake County. "Side-by-sides are wider than dirt bikes and quads, taking up more room on the trails. You never know what's around the corner."

Conservation officers are seeing a big increase in ORV users drinking and driving, according to Killingbeck. "ORV riding is a great sport," he said. "Families and youth are enjoying it – please be responsible and ride sober so everyone can continue to enjoy this sport."

To learn more about ORV safety and rules or to view an interactive, printable map of state roads available for ORV use, go to Michigan.gov/ORVInfo or Michigan.gov/RideRight.

DNR News

On the road again: DNR fish-stocking trucks

If you've been driving Michigan's highways and back roads in recent weeks, you might have spotted DNR fish-stocking trucks nearby. The department is right in the middle of its spring stocking season, which means there's a good chance of coming across one of these trucks releasing its prized recreational cargo – thousands of fish – at hundreds of locations throughout the state.

Stocking is a valuable tool used by fisheries managers to restore, improve and create fishing opportunities in Michigan's inland lakes and streams and the Great Lakes.

The DNR accomplishes

this task by rearing fish at its six fish-production facilities, cooperatively managing up to 29 rearing ponds and six Great Lakes imprinting net pen/pond locations and maintaining a fleet of 18 specialized fish-stocking vehicles.

Every year, the DNR stocks more than 20 million fish weighing more than 350 tons. Species stocked include steelhead; Atlantic, chinook and coho salmon; splake, brown, brook, lake and rainbow trout, plus muskellunge and walleye. Beginning in mid-March and ending in early June, DNR trucks will travel well over 100,000 miles to stock more than a thousand locations.

Wetland Wonders Challenge through July 14

Scattered across the state, Michigan's wetlands provide great year-round recreation opportunities like birding, boating, fishing, hiking, photography and hunting. Now through July 14, the DNR's Wetland Wonders Challenge offers even more reasons to visit. Stop by one of the 14 Wetland Wonders locations at state game and wildlife areas around Michigan, snap a picture next to the official sign, and you could win a Cabela's gift card valued at up to $1,000.

But Michigan's wetlands offer more than amazing recreation and prize opportunities. They're key to improving and maintaining the state's environmental health.

"Michigan's wetlands are beneficial to humans and to wildlife," said Holly Vaughn, DNR wildlife communications coordinator. "They provide important flood control functions, especially important when communities are experiencing a great deal of rainfall, and help to filter water, making our groundwater cleaner. Wetlands also provide nesting areas and resting spots for migrating birds to stop and refuel for their long migrations."

Besides serving a vital environmental function, Michigan's thousands of acres of wetlands are a great way to explore Michigan's outdoors – wetlands are teeming with a diverse array of species, and opportunities abound for people who want to get involved in nature year-round. Whether that's by wildlife viewing, kayaking or hunting, wetlands should be every outdoor enthusiast's next stop.

Learn more about the state's wetlands, Wetland Wonders locations and the current contest details at Michigan.gov/WetlandWonders.

Keep fire safety in mind this spring and summer

The Memorial Day holiday weekend marks the unofficial start of summer fun in Michigan, complete with campfires, cookouts, fireworks and other outdoor activities.

But spring and summer also are key times for wildfires in Michigan, and most of these are started accidentally by people. So far in 2019, the DNR has fought more than 140 wildfires on nearly 800 acres around the state.

"Just a little bit of precaution and planning can reduce the risk of fires and keep outdoor activities fun and safe," said Paul Rogers, a DNR fire prevention specialist. "Michigan's late spring this year means that some trees and plants are still in a dry winter state, and more likely to burn when hit by a stray spark or ember."

The DNR's new fire safety page, available in the Safety Information section of the DNR's Michigan.gov/DNRE education webpage, offers tips on:

Campfire safety. Always douse your fire thoroughly with water before leaving it.

Debris burning. You need to get a permit to burn debris at Michigan.gov/BurnPermit or by phone at 866-922-2876 if you live in the northern Lower Peninsula or the Upper Peninsula. People in other locations should check with local municipalities. Keep your fire at least 10 feet away from logs, stumps or other debris and make sure no branches are hanging overhead.

Firewise landscaping. This type of landscaping protects your home or cabin by minimizing the number of shrubs, leaves and trees that are close to the house. You can learn more about Firewise landscaping from the National Fire Protection Association.

New House or an Old One?

CONSIDER THE PROS AND CONS TO EACH

As you embark on your venture to buy a home, one of the first decisions to make is whether to buy new or purchase an existing home. Each choice has its advantages, and there is no single answer that works for everyone.

You may be drawn to the shiny new, energy-efficient appliances, the great room, and the beautiful master suite offered in a new home. But you may also like the charm, the canopy of trees that drape over the sleepy neighborhood streets, and the increasing value of an existing home you've been eying.

Here are some things you'll want to ponder as you decide which route to take.

Existing homes
Existing homes offer many considerations for potential homebuyers, including:

The neighborhood. Many people are drawn to developed neighborhoods for the sense of community that has been established. The mature landscaping and developed trees are often a considering factor.

Maintenance and repair. If you're considering an existing home, be sure you have a good handle on the working status of all major systems. Hire a professional home inspector to check out the house. As appliances and systems age they naturally require repair and replacement, something which may be reflected in a purchase price.

Home improvement. If you enjoy small repairs and home improvement projects around the house, then an existing home would be your cup of tea.

Existing features. When you buy an existing home, you typically don't have to worry about buying the extras, such as blinds for the window, a security system, or a landscaped backyard.

Land. In most metro centers, new homes may have less land than newer properties. Why? Because of changes in land-use patterns.

Location. Existing homes are often found in older, more convenient metro core areas rather than outlying suburbs.

The opportunity to remodel. In some cases buyers may prefer an older home in a particular location which can be modernized or expanded. In effect, use the existing home as a base to build a unique property.

Price. In general terms, existing homes tend to be less expensive than new properties. As well, existing homes are likely to come complete with items which may represent new home extras—blinds, landscaping, built-ins, etc.

Track record. When you purchase an existing home, you know how much the property has appreciated over the years—in effect, you have an index of sorts which measures the community's marketplace appeal. At the same time, like stocks and bonds, you know that past results do not guarantee future marketplace performance.

Taxes. Depending on your state, you will likely have lower property tax rates. Also, many older households aren't required to pay for local bonds associated with new development, such as schools, parks, or road or transportation improvements.

Traditional layout. If you like the formal living and dining rooms, an existing home will likely satisfy you.

Park Your Boat on Lake Charlevoix For the summer, or for the day.

At the tip of Lake Charlevoix's South Arm, the East Jordan Municipal Harbor has captured the attention of more than just boaters.

Located only one block off Main Street, the Municipal Harbor is within walking distance to local restaurants and friendly shops.

Memorial Park which is part of the marina has picnic tables, grills and public restrooms. A band shell was constructed in 2005 which has entertainment most weekends throughout the summer.

The Municipal Harbor offers 27 seasonal boat slips, 27 transient boat slips, shopping docks, full-service Midgrade (87 Octane) and Premium non ethanol (91 octane); both have Valvtect Marine fuel additive, pump-out station, ice and restrooms. Shower facilities are available for seasonal and transient slip holders.
