Heavy demand for apartments

Construction won't be completed until late May, but people appear anxious to rent the Jordan View Apartments.

Middle schoolers show hidden skills

EAST JORDAN - Middle school students showed their hidden skills at a Talent Show March 23. The show was sponsored by the student council and judged by middle school staff members. "We had everything from tap dancing routines to a comedy act," Middle School Principal Doug Shields said. Thirteen acts performed. A first prize of $15 was given to Michelle Lichon for a tap dance routine. Second prize of $10 went to John Buick, Jr. for his trampoline act, and a $5 prize for third place went to Tracey Lichon and Cynthia Richards for their rag doll dance. Winners were also given ribbons. All prize money came from student council funds.

After the talent show, students were treated to a performance by Sh-Boom, a professional group that plays the hits of the golden age of rock and roll. They came at the request of elementary teacher Shelley Thayer and sixth grade teacher Kate McCready. "It was really nifty," Shields said. "They gave a 30 minute gratis performance and brought the house down." Sh-Boom was "besieged by students wanting autographs" after the performance, Shields said. "The kids worked hard getting ready for the show," Shields added. "They rehearsed for two weeks, then had auditions before they performed."

EAST JORDAN - Even though Jordan View Apartments are not scheduled to be completed until late May, nearly half of the apartments are already spoken for, according to owner Jack Zoulek.

"It seems that a lot of people who no longer want to maintain homes are interested," Zoulek says. "In the apartments they will have someone to take out the garbage, and shovel the snow. It makes it easier for a senior citizen to stay here rather than go away for the winter." There are rent discounts, based on income, for senior citizens, Zoulek said. Rent will be approximately $150-$230 for a one bedroom and $174-$250 for a two bedroom, depending on income. Water and heating are included in the rent. The complex on South Lake Street is made up of three units, each having four one-bedroom and four two-bedroom apartments. One building is barrier free for the handicapped.

Each building will have laundry and storage facilities. Apartments have balconies and patios and will be unfurnished except for stove and refrigerator. Garbage disposal and pickup and snow removal are also included.

"We're hoping to have space available for gardening," Zoulek said, "but we won't know for sure until the landscaping is finished."

Law controls concerts

The Eveline Township clerk says an ordinance recently passed by the Township Board is an effort to regulate large music concerts similar to the rock concerts held at Castle Farms in adjoining Marion Township.

"This isn't necessarily to stop it," said Clerk Eric Beishlag. "It's just to regulate it, to get the jump on anything."

The new ordinance calls for the "regulation, licensing and control" of "any event attended by more than 500 attendants, all or any part of which includes a theatrical exhibition, public show, display, entertainment, amusement or other exhibition."

The law includes "musical festivals, rock festivals, peace festivals, raceways or similar gatherings." Exempted from the ordinance are government-sponsored events and annual community activities.

Beishlag said the township board is trying to prevent situations similar to some Castle Farm concerts, where they allegedly "had no control whatsoever. People who lived close to it were afraid to leave their house."

"When you have 10,000 people suddenly move in, you have things that these people around here haven't dealt with before. You have drugs and things like that."

The new law says that any potential festival promoter must provide plans for security, restroom and water facilities, food service, medical facilities, parking, insurance and fire protection.

Large assemblies may take place only between the hours of noon and 11:30 p.m., according to the ordinance.

Beishlag said no rock concerts have ever been held in Eveline Township, but "You have to close the door before the horse runs away."

Meanwhile, Castle Farms owner Arthur Reibel has announced a series of summer concerts starting the Fourth of July with Bob Seeger as the possible attraction. He has already scheduled the Statler Brothers, a country group, to play August 19.

Castle Farms will reportedly charge $5-8 for its Saturday night shows.

Reibel has announced that he has obtained a refinancing loan through the federal government's Small Business Administration to stage his productions.

Local ministers get together

EAST JORDAN - After many years of inactivity, the East Jordan Ministerial Association has been reorganized.

The Community Good Friday Services March 24 were among the first functions to be sponsored by the association. Ministers from the First Presbyterian, Full Gospel Truth, and Assembly of God Churches were worship leaders for the afternoon Good Friday Service at the United Missionary Church. Rev. Dale Turner of the Missionary Church delivered the sermon.

Twenty lay persons from the Reorganized Latter Day Saints, Methodist, First Presbyterian, Full Gospel Truth, and Apostolic Faith led the Tenedare Service at the United Methodist Church that evening. Linda Snowden of the United Missionary Church and Jim Erhcke from the Church of Christ interpreted the service for the deaf.

The association is also currently negotiating with the school board about the possibility of designating one night a week as a free night. On that night there would be no school activities scheduled, to allow children to participate in church youth groups and further their religious training.

The group also hopes to sponsor community activities for the summer months and has been asked to coordinate the churches' participation in the Centennial celebration.

The main functions of the ministerial association, according to Presbyterian minister Rev. Alan Pareis, is to foster fellowship among the clergy in the town and to allow the churches to witness together in the community and therefore "symbolize the oneness we have in Christ."

"Ministers tend to have little professional contact," Pareis said.

The association reorganized Jan. 20 and has held two meetings. The only membership requirements are that clergymen attend the meetings or participate in functions sponsored by the association.

Pareis said that at a later date formal membership lists will be made up. "We're not as concerned about membership and meetings as we are about doing things together."

Businesswomen help health center fund drive

EAST JORDAN - Instead of dropping the change in your pocket after your next shopping trip, you could put those few cents toward the East Jordan Family Health Center.

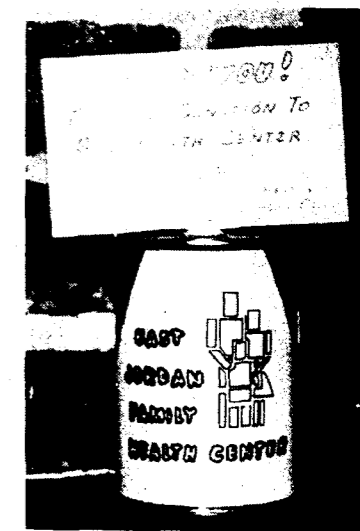

Bright green and yellow canisters displaying the health center logo of a man, woman, and child were placed in businesses and stores March 27 by the East Jordan Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Association (BPW).

"We don't have money for a big donation because we're a new group," BPW member Janet Walters said. "We thought the canisters would be a good way for people who couldn't afford to purchase the $25 bonds or never got around to sending a donation to the health center to be able to give something."

Cans for the fund raising project were donated by Sherman Canning Company and the paper to cover them was given by the Jordan Valley Greenhouse. Members of the BPW covered the cans and distributed them.

Walters said the response seems to be good so far. Some canisters are nearly half full already. As canisters are filled, they will be replaced with a new one.

"As long as the health center needs

Be generous, it's your health center.

money we're willing to help out any way we can," Walters said. "And as long as we get a good reaction from the people, we'll keep the canisters going."

Health center opening delayed

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan Family Health Center will not be ready by April 1 as the board of directors had hoped, according to board President Don Bowers.

"April 1 was just a tentative date," Bowers said. "I'm sure it will open within a couple of weeks."

Jim Petrie, owner of Petrie Construction Company which was contracted for the health center project, said that a delay in getting natural gas lines run into the building held up work. "It's hard working in a building with no heat," he said.

Petrie said that Dr. Hergt and his staff will have to be moved in by April 9 because rent on the temporary office at 123 Main Street will be up on that date.

Petrie said that the only work left to be done in the health center is putting on the hardware, painting inside, and flooring. He is confident that the center will be ready by April 9.

"By the end of next week it should look pretty good in there," he said.

Deer kill gets worse

BY JOE McELROY

For Walt Mikula of the Boyne City Department of Natural Resources (DNR) office, coming to work is a little less pleasant these days.

That's because he and other DNR officers are again facing an annual problem - the killing of deer by dogs.

The problem starts in the winter months when the deer are weakened from lack of food. "Every day, without exception, this field office receives a complaint of dogs running deer," Mikula says.

"One day I had three complaints."

It's an ugly fact of life for men who work in the outdoors. "It's just gruesome," Mikula says. "The dogs will run a deer until it can't run any more."

"Then one will yap at the deer in front while the other bites it from behind. When the deer turns around, the other dog starts biting it."

"They just rip them apart alive."

Are the deer being attacked mainly by stray, wild dogs? No, says Mikula. "Little Fido, a little poodle or something, will get together with another dog and go running deer. These are dogs that people just let out of the house."

"Around here, dogs don't have to go far to find deer."

In the winter, deer instinctively gather in protected areas of the forests called deer yards, where they can find at least limited food supply without roaming far. This helps them preserve their strength, which is necessary because food is scarce and the deep snow makes traveling difficult for the long-legged animals.

But Mikula says Charlevoix County, with its hilly countryside, has deer yards in narrow valleys. "It's just duck soup for the dogs," he says. "The deer don't have much room to run." He said the deer are weak now because they have nothing to feed on except cedar.

'They just rip them apart alive.'

-- Walt Mikula

Mikula says this winter has been "a lot worse" than last year, when "the snow went away faster. The weather is the biggest factor."

Mikula says the law prohibits a dog owner from letting the animal run loose unless its within sight or sound distance. But many dog owners are ignoring the law and letting their dogs run loose, killing deer.

Mikula says DNR officers have the right to shoot a dog they see hunting deer. "I like dogs myself, and I don't like to shoot them," he said. "But if they're on a deer, they're going to get it."

The DNR is faced with the same problem that hampers all law officers. In many cases, by the time an offense has been reported and the DNR man has arrived, the dogs are long gone.

Mikula said a DNR officer can shoot a dog only if he sees it actually hunting a deer. "We have to use good judgement," he says. "because sometimes somebody's $2 mutt will turn into a valuable, $2,000 coon dog or something like that after we've shot it."

Mikula said some people have taken the law into their own hands by shooting dogs they see attacking deer. "They're right there and they see what's happening," Mikula said, "but legally, they can't do that."

Dogs left to roam face another danger besides the DNR and vengeful hunters. Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater has announced a "get tough" policy on stray dogs.

Sheriff's police will now be issuing $25 citations instead of warnings to the owners of dogs found running loose.

Citizens with complaints regarding unleashed dogs can call the sheriff's department at 547-9062.

Correction

BOYNE CITY - In the March 23 story on the Tannery development it was reported that development of the park and abandonment of a portion of Front St. would cost the city about $120,000.
 Acting city manager, Tom Garlock clarified this, stating that potential development costs for the proposed park on the Tannery property would be about $120,000; however, actual cost to the city taxpayers would be very little.

 The city will be applying for a DNR grant of $72,500. This and other grants to be applied for in the future are expected to cover development costs.
 The city's portion of these match grants would be the value of the land decided to the city by the developers, therefore, actual costs to the city would be very minimal.

Community education

A classy operation

You can add some class to your evenings without even going out of town. In fact, you can fill four nights a week with classes - adult education classes in the Boyne City and East Jordan Community Education programs.

Community education is one of the best ideas the state of Michigan has ever developed. For many years, schools throughout the country would empty out after regular school hours and stay empty, except for a few students in extracurricular activities, until the next day. The large, expensive buildings would just sit there, producing nothing.

Editorial

Then educators realized that the end of full-time schooling shouldn't mean the end of education, and that adults need to continue education, a life-long process. Michigan pioneered efforts to keep schools open at night and fill them with members of the community who want to develop their bodies' most important muscle - the brain.

In the Boyne and East Jordan programs, you can learn something as practical as meat cutting or as entertaining as cake decorating. Or you can do yourself a big favor by taking high school completion classes to earn a high school diploma. There are without doubt many people in the area who are smart enough to be high school graduates, but had to leave school for financial or other reasons.

But there's no law stopping you from going back to school at night and getting that diploma. It could lead to a better job, and it definitely will help your self-respect. There's nothing to it but to do it.

The classes are taught mostly by average citizens, not professional educators, but all the instructors have backgrounds in the fields they teach and know what they're talking about. That's one of the nice aspects of community education, neighbors share their knowledge with their neighbors - those of you with special skills or fields of knowledge should consider teaching a class. The community education directors are always open to new ideas.

It's the children of the community who use the schools most of the time, but it's the adults who pay the ever-increasing property taxes that finance the schools. It only makes sense for adults to use the schools and the programs it offers. Go ahead, get your money's worth.

Oh, hang it all! And you too

Reader: How come you are always snapping your whip over the roof of Boyne City and letting East Jordan go to hang?

Answer: East Jordan has not gone to hang. You've confused going to hang with the city being hung up on celebrating its 100 years of pressing forward. Hang and hung have different meanings.

Reader: I mean you write more often of Boyne City than you do about East Jordan and I don't like it. In fact, I've read everything you've ever written and I don't like everything you've ever written.

Answer: That makes two of us. I don't like everything I've ever written.

Reader: I believe you could work more zest into your foolishness if you were to creep into the bosom of East Jordan and give 'em whams for.

Answer: I did that once, but to no avail. The Lord still reigns and East Jordan still lives.

Reader: I don't understand that.

Answer: If you've read everything I've ever written you should know that some of it was not meant to be understood. Reader: What happens when you don't Answer: This conversation is getting annoyingly close to the ridiculous.

Reader: Hey! Speaking of ridiculous,

Pop culture

This is the ninth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Popular Culture: Mirror of American Life." In this article, Robert Lipsyte, sports commentator and writer, begins a two-part discussion of the meaning of sports - variously called "the opiate of the people" and "the new religion" - in our society.

BY ROBERT LIPSTY

On the day the Steelers clinched their second straight Super Bowl appearance, the streets of Pittsburgh were suddenly thronged with people jabbing their forefingers at a wintry sky and screaming, "We're number one, we're number one!"

It didn't seem to matter that day that the teachers were still on strike in Pittsburgh, that there had been no public education in the city for weeks, that millions of lives were feeling dislocation and damage; the Steelers - hyped as a mythic extension of the city - had won to show the world that the Iron City was "OK, Jack," and deserved to be plugged into the national happy news network. For the moment, at least, it was a hero city of super people.

Those cries of "We're number one!" from major league cities and from high school gyms, have been described lately by social scientists as symptoms of the growing need of Americans to identify with tangible and respected organizations; the increasing fragmentation of American life has made sports fandom a hook to hang onto.

THE OPIATE OF THE PEOPLE

More and more commentators have begun describing spectator sports as "the opiate of the people," as the "modern bread and circuses" and as the nation's "real religion" while describing religion as America's real spectator sport, as if it were a seventies' phenomenon, sprung full-blown from the swollen coffers of the television networks, instead of a logical progression in the growing cultural importance of sports as a shaper of ethics, values and definitions.

Since the industrial revolution, the playing and watching of competitive games have been promoted as healthful activities for both the individual and the nation. Youth will develop courage and self-control, while Age will find blissful nostalgia. Or so we were told.

Stop raising taxes

Editor:

To the people of Boyne City: Wake up! This town is going crazy with taxes, where are all the millionaires? Do you know we pay the highest tax rate of any area around here?

Now our Boyne City school wants a 11 percent hike in their budget and the teachers need a 6.5 percent pay hike next year. Do you on social security and other places of employment get a 6.5 percent pay hike?

We are building new schools even though we have had a dip in enrollment. Petoskey is closing schools to save people tax money.

People wake up! Vote "No" to anything that is going to increase our taxes or we'll all be out in the street.

Don't get hopes up

Editor:

Two items in the March 26 issue deserve comment. They could possibly, completely change the order of the dating game among teenagers!

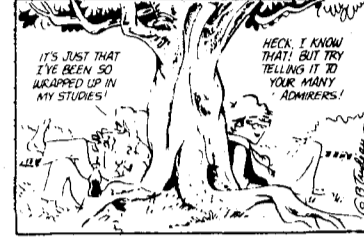

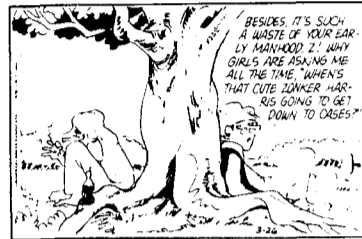

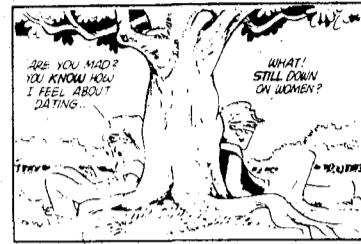

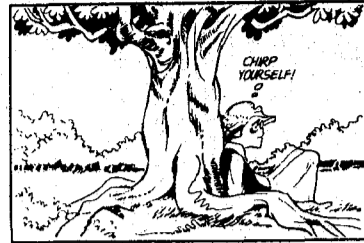

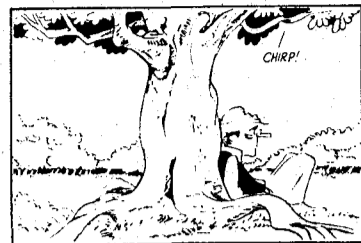

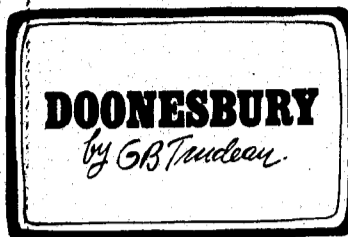

The items were about the house being built by the boys in B.C. and the one, where, in this part of the school year, the girls in E.J. will be given a supposedly man's wages and told to go out and buy the groceries, pay the light bill, gas, water and sewer bills, and hopefully have enough left to go bowling or whatever!

One can foresee the possibility that the football hero who blocked the pass that helped Boyne City beat East Jordan would not be the prize date that he has been for years past!

With the high cost of housing nowadays, the girl who has just been shopping on that budget will most surely be looking for the boy who can build not only a suitable house to live in and can provide the cutest vanity in the bathroom! And what boy wouldn't pass up the possibility of a date with the pretty cheerleader for one with the girl who could buy the most groceries on $25.54?

But a word of warning girls! If this sounds like utopia, beware! Just as sure as you land the boy who builds the beautiful house, you'll discover that some pretty divorcee moved into the house next door and she won't know which end of the electric tooth brush to stick into the outlet! And she'll be continually calling on your man to adjust her extension cord! The only safe bet would be to build far from town, without a telephone line or even a CB radio!

Alas, though it sounded good in the beginning, a UTOPIA THERE AIN'T!

Letter from the editor

Happy days are here

Maybe it's spring, but there seem to be several "good news" items worth discussing this week. So those of you who complain that the newspapers never print anything but bad news should clip this out and save it.

First of all, I'm proud to report that Ginger Jackson, our cooking columnist, really can cook. I had been a little worried. Her columns looked good to me and it sounded like she has a background in cooking, but I had this vision of coming in the office some Thursday and facing a mob of angry heartburn victims complaining about the recipe they read in the paper.

Not to worry. Ginger contributed Venita Abel's broccoli casserole and Linda Felton's Hot Fudge Sundae cake, which appeared in her column last week, to the Easter dinner I stuffed myself at last Sunday.

They were both delicious, and I usually hate broccoli. So don't worry, readers, your stomachs are in good hands with Ginger, who tests all the recipes before they go into the Press.

Another highlight of my Easter weekend was the ecumenical Good Friday service at St. Matthew's Catholic Church. The church was packed for a service that combined some of the best aspects of Protestant and Catholic liturgies.

Joe McElroy

All through history, one of the stupidest things men have done to each other is fighting wars over religious differences that most of the warriors don't understand anyway. On a smaller, less dramatic scale, some small towns occasionally become divided along religious lines.

This doesn't make any sense, since the differences in beliefs between most Christian churches are less extensive than the similarities. It's nice to see people around here figure that out. Everyone benefits.

Speaking of community benefits, Kalkaska County stands to gain from the recent purchase of the local paper, the Leader and Kalkaskan, by Gregg Smith Jr.

Spike Smith is a former editor of the Charlevoix County Press and son of Gregg and Margaret Smith. The three of them built the Press into one of Michigan's best weekly newspapers.

A few years back Spike became publisher of the Antrim County News, which is now another of the area's top weeklies. Kalkaska is now the third community that the Smith family has served by providing good community journalism, a blessing many small towns lack.

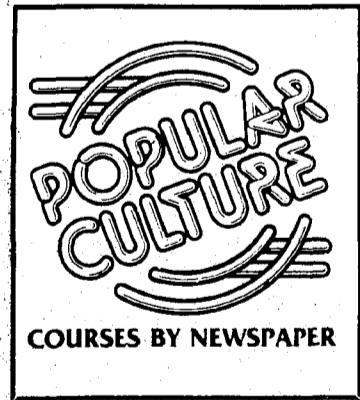

The first issue of Smith's new paper arrived here last week, and we were quite impressed. Spike and his editor, Paul Novoselick, are off to a fine start. Congratulations!

Sports-- America's love affair internal communication, and immigrants will find shortcuts to recognition as Americans.

Industry, the military, government, the media, have promoted this faith in sports, and in so doing have imposed the values of the arena and the locker room upon our national life.

"Only winners are truly alive," said George Allen of the Washington Redskins, one of the all-time winningest coaches and a friend of presidents. "Winning is living. Every time you win, you're reborn. When you lose, you die a little."

There are dissenters, of course, more and more these days, ranging from parents trying to defuse the tense competitiveness of Little League programs to such sports radicals as Dave Meggyesy, the apostate bill-pro linebacker, who said: "Football is an attempt to sell a blown out, smacked out people, fighting inflation, the exploitation of their work, of their earth, that our system is still socially, economically and politically viable."

IMPACT OF SPORTS

Heretic of defender of the faith, or nonparticipant, there is no escape from the impact of sports.

Traditionally, sports has acted as the first separator of the sexes; sometime soon after kindergarten, half the population - the girls - were cut from the team, literally or symbolically handed the majorette's baton and told to prepare for their careers as encouragers of men.

In recent years, the resurgence of the women's movement has significantly increased the number of females who participate in sports, but equality on the playing fields is nowhere near as prevalent as one might guess from the current hype of female sports stars.

From the middle grades on, boys are divided into athletes and failed athletes, worthy and unworthy, just at a time when they are most confused about their bodies and their relationships with their peers.

Most Americans, early winnowed from organized sports, either turn away from sports entirely, or become avid fans, a pastime encouraged by daily newspapers (which typically fill 25 percent of their newshole with sports results and gossip), by television (for whom sports programming and revenue is a mainstay), and by the ritual man-chat that makes sports our most common currency of communication.

Those who have survived all the cuts to make a world-class amateur team or a professional club have beaten odds that have been figured at one in a thousand. (Even then, success is generally short-lived - few pros spend more than five years playing for pay.)

They have usually sacrificed the chance to develop themselves socially, emotionally and intellectually, so narrow is their specialty. As Mel Rogers, a black high school basketball coach in Louisiana once pointed out, a boy who devotes his life to becoming president of the United States, even if he fails, will pick up enough experience and information along the way to make a successful and fulfilling career. A boy who devotes his life to becoming center for the Philadelphia 76ers had better get there if he expects to get anywhere at all.

SUPERFICIAL GLORY

Athletes are seemingly lionized in our society, but the adulation is superficial and comes mostly from children, groupies and the adult male "jock worshipers" that athletes hold in contempt. People usually want something from the athlete.

"Thousands of people who don't know me," says Bill Bradley, the Rhodes Scholar who played 10 years in the National Basketball Association, "use my participation as an excuse for nonaction, as a fix to help them escape their everyday problems."

If the pro athlete sometimes seems "ungrateful" for this ephemeral and hypocritical celebrity status, small wonder that the black athlete, who has been most cruelly used by the sports industry, has led the way in demanding more concrete rewards in the form of super salaries.

Spencer Haywood, the 19-year-old hero of the 1968 Olympic basketball team, set some sort of record by jumping from one college to another, then suddenly turning pro, then jumping to another league.

It was very hard to argue with his credo: "If you're from the ghetto, it doesn't matter what you do or how you get it, only if you got it. What loyalties you got? To your family. To your (black) brothers and sisters. But to basketball? To some team? Forget it."

Sports is a socializer for work or war or depression. Listen to the historian, John A. Krout, prepare us in 1919 for tough innings: "During depression, with thousands out of work, sports helps refocus our attention on the Great American values and ideals, and also helps us remember that life does not begin and end with the dollar."

THE NEW SPIRITUALITY

Forty-five years later, a Miami Dolphin lineman, Norm Evans, prepares us for the new spirituality: "I guarantee you Christ would be the toughest guy you ever played this game. Jesus was a real man, all right. . . aggressive and a tremendous competitor. . . I have no doubt he could play in the National Football League. . . He would be a star. . ."

Even in golf, tennis and bowling, the sports with the greatest spectator-participant interface, the media thrust has been consumerism - the clothes, money and strength to buy more - rather than the joy of games.

Perhaps it is the lingering Puritan influence or the work ethic that compels us to justify our leisure, to make of sport a metaphor and a lesson and a preparation rather than a healthful high, the most fun a body can have in public.

The emphasis on the discipline of sport, rather than the creativity, and on spectatorship rather than participation, has made sports into a work camp. Those who would break out to truly play have been made to sound radical.

"For starters," wrote the distance runner, Bruce Kidd, "we should stop preaching about sport's moral values. Sport, after all, isn't Lent. It's a pleasure of the flesh."

NEXT WEEK: Lipsyte discusses the symbolic importance of three sports heroes, Joe Namath, Billie Jean King, and Muhammad Ali. (Copyright 1977-78 by the Regents of the University of California).

AN HONEST SUPER GAS SAVER FOR YOUR CAR

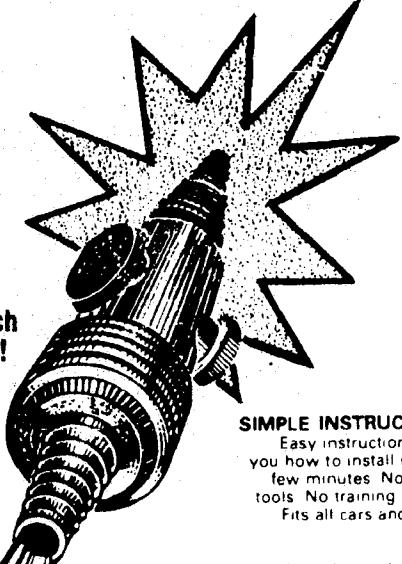

New Ram-Jet Actually "Jet Assists" Your Car Engine... Makes It Burn Up To 15 Gallons Of Air For Every Gallon Of Gas... And Gives You As Much As 15% More Clean Power! Jet Like Acceleration!

We believe Ram-Jet is the most exciting piece of high-performance automotive equipment since the V-8. Yet it weighs only a few ounces. Installs in a couple of minutes (No special tools or training needed. You won't even get your hands greasy). Costs less than a tankful of gas. And saves you so much gas, it's like getting up to one gallon in every ten FREE!

The brainchild of Ed Almqvist, internationally famous automotive engineer and the "Thomas Edison of high-performance accessories" The Ram-Jet took over 20 years to develop and perfect.

How does it work?

Just as a jet engine requires a certain supply of air to operate so does the gasoline combustion engine in your car. And it's the carburetor that mixes this air with fuel to fire the cylinders and make your car go. The problem is that carburetors were invented over 50 years ago when gas was plentiful and cheap and air pollution wasn't even talked about. The carburetor hasn't changed much since then. It's still a big compromise! It only works perfectly on those rare occasions when all driving conditions are perfect. (Which averages only a couple of minutes at the most out of every driving hour.) Your carburetor just can't efficiently adjust itself to your stop and go driving, sudden bursts of speed, or to put it in technical terms, those many occasions when your engine is operating under 0.10 high load conditions. When this crucial mixture of air and gas is not right, on the money, the result is a loss of power with a lot more gas being burned than is really necessary!

SIMPLE INSTRUCTIONS

Easy instructions show you how to install in just a few minutes. No special tools. No training needed. Fits all cars and trucks.

Now, at last, the Ram-Jet to the rescue! It solves both problems at once. It brings your 50-year old carburetor design into the Jet Age.

It works like a mini-computer. It automatically adjusts the air-gas mixture in your very driving moment. It thus steps up gas molecules 24 hours a day, including the over rich mixture before it becomes wasteful. Just as a jet engine sucks air into it, the Ram-Jet automatically and safely jets air into the gas mixture the very split second your driving conditions require it.

It captures the polluted air that would normally be fed back into your engine, and it injects it into a Jet-Stream that is cleaned and injected into useful clean power instead of clogging up your engine and making it hesitate and stall and waste gasoline and power.

Thousands of similar devices sold in Europe for more than $30 a piece. The Ram-Jet Supercharger is now available to you for just $14.95. Because of a special arrangement, it comes to you direct, no middlemen, from the inventor manufacturer himself, Mr. Ed Almqvist.

WHAT DO PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE RAM-JET SUPERCHARGER?

An airline pilot writes: "Suddenly my little six cylinder engine seems to have the power of an eight. Yet it saves gas like it was a four. That's a Ram-Jet. It's amazing!"
Phillip, Shade Plymouth, Conn.
"I have a Ram-Jet. And so do many of my passengers. We found out that we average from 2 to 6 more miles per gallon with much more engine pep and acceleration."
The Rev. P. Mick Harvey, Illinois

GREATEST GUARANTEE IN AUTOMOTIVE HISTORY. THE 100,000 MILE 100% MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Anytime within the next 100,000 miles you put on your car, if you don't think the Ram-Jet Supercharger is the best automotive investment you've ever made, simply return it to us for a full money back refund. No questions asked. (And don't forget - with the Ram-Jet turning pollution into free power instead of turning it back into your engine, it's not telling how many extra power-packed miles you'll be able to log on your engine before it's ready for the junk heap!

Churches join together for Good Friday services

BOYNE CITY - For the first time within memory, Boyne City's Protestant denominations joined with the Roman Catholic Church to hold an ecumenical Good Friday service last week.

Ministers from eight of Boyne's 14 Protestant denominations joined Father Dennis Stilwell at St. Matthew's Catholic Church for an afternoon service attended by approximately 500 worshippers.

The service apparently is going to stimulate greater cooperation between different religions and lead to a revival of the Boyne City Ministerial Association.

"The Association has been in existence for years," said Rev. Milton Walls of the Presbyterian Church, "but we just haven't done anything with it."

Rev. Walls said the ministers group began meeting again after Father Stilwell approached them with the idea of an ecumenical service at the Catholic church.

"That was the reason we got together, to plan for the Good Friday service," Rev. Walls said. "From there the conversation expanded."

Rev. Walls said the group will now meet each month. He said the association members plan to help the Seventh Day Adventists rebuild their community center, which was destroyed by fire two years ago.

Father Stilwell described the Ministerial Association as "an attempt to unite the ministers and help them provide the spiritual leadership Boyne City needs."

"We hope to make people more aware of Jesus Christ and the principals that he taught."

Father Stilwell said, "The ministers are as excited as could be and really anxious to get this thing off the ground."

Rev. Ray Grienke of the United Methodist Church is the group's chairman and Rev. Walls is secretary-treasurer.

Rev. Grienke and Father Stilwell planned the liturgy for the Good Friday service, a combination of Catholic and Protestant rites. Father Stilwell gave the sermon.

Both Rev. Walls and Father Stilwell agreed the service was well-received by those present. "If there was any negativism, I didn't hear it," Father Stilwell said. "All I heard is that people are pretty excited."

"They say, 'It's about time.'"

Rev. Walls said the various congregations were all well-represented at the service. "I noticed the other ministers were greeting their members as they came in."

Rev. Walls said the Protestant churches have had services together before, but that Friday was the first time the Catholic church had participated.

Members of different churches spoke highly of the Good Friday service. "It was very meaningful to me to see people of many denominations worship together," said Dr. Rob Polleys, who attends the United Methodist Church.

"I thought it was a good community effort," said Jeanie Buick, who usually attends St. Joseph's Catholic Church in East Jordan.

"It was a very genuine effort by everybody to get together, particularly the ministers. I thought the ministers showed a lot of leadership by organizing this."

A long year

Dr. Fritz Jordan comes home

BOYNE CITY - After a year of illness, Dr. Fritz Jordan appears to be on the road to recovery. The 38-year-old physician returned to his home on Marshall Road Wednesday from Potoskey's Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital.

Jordan said he can now walk on crutches and expects to return to work late this spring.

He said his medical problems were caused by an infection in his spinal vertebra that gradually weakened his legs and paralyzed them.

"I didn't think I was ever going to walk again," Jordan said. "But now, slowly but surely, it's coming back."

"There are all sorts of good signs that I'll improve to the point that I won't need crutches," Jordan said.

He said the muscles in his left leg, which was completely paralyzed, are recovering faster than expected. He added that his legs are losing the numbness that always causes concern in such cases.

Jordan's physical problems began last March with a kidney and liver failure, which he says were probably caused by the same spinal infection that later weakened his legs. But nobody was aware of the infection at that time, so Jordan was treated for the kidney and liver problem and sent home.

He thought his problems were over and began working on moving to his new office building on State Street. But in December Jordan fell while outside his house and was soon back in the hospital.

"The fall didn't cause the problem," Jordan says. "It was probably a sign that the problem was starting, that my legs were getting weak."

Jordan said nobody knows what started the infection that has caused him a year of medical problems.

After returning to the hospital, Jordan went to Saginaw for back surgery performed by one of the state's best neurosurgeons, Dr. Malcolm Field. The doctor removed the infected section of Jordan's spine, which is why Jordan is now an inch shorter, 5-8, than he was before the operation.

After the surgery, Jordan returned to Potoskey for physical therapy. Asked if he had to learn to walk all over again, Jordan said, "That's it, exactly. That's what it amounts to."

Now, after three months of therapy, Dr. Jordan is home and says, "I'm feeling good. The hardest part now is to stay in bed when I feel so good."

"But it's a relief to feel good."

Jordan said he welcomes visitors and added, "I sure appreciate all the concern people have shown. It helped keep my morale up."

Derek Smith, left, and other Cub Scouts watch the action at the March 22 Pinewood Derby, held at the elementary school. Cub Scout winners were Danny Dunlop, Steve Ketchman, Scott Parks and Kevin Snyder. Webelo winners were Chris Jenkins and Burt Myers.

An East Jordan bowler gets ready to roll another winner. The East Jordan youngsters had a fine showing last weekend at a tournament in Antrim County.

Young East Jordan bowlers win big

EAST JORDAN - Twelve of East Jordan's 24 youth bowling teams were on the board after the Upper Northern Michigan State Team Finals at Mancelona Lanes in Mancelona March 18. They competed with 162 teams.

The four first place teams were: Junior Boys Division (ages 13-16), the Pin Jivers; Prep division (ages 9-13), the King Pins; Prep Girls Division, the Bowling Bums; and Peanut Boys Division (ages 9 and under) the Pin Killers. East Jordan also had four second place teams, and four third place. Gemini Lanes owner Gene Plite said that 120 of the bowlers averaged 16.5 pins per game over their averages.

The top three teams in each division will be guests of the Youth Bowling Association at the area banquet and will receive trophies. The top team in each division will compete against 64 other state area teams in the Pro Bowl state finals to be held in Lansing on May 20-21.

All finalist teams will receive state finalist patches. Winners in each division will receive trophies and be guests of the State Y.B.A. at the State Awards Banquet.

"There is only one weekend left in the tournament," Plite said. "I hope we can hang on. They are really super kids. They not only bowled well, but were polite, courteous, and showed excellent sportsmanship. This is a group East Jordan can and should be proud of."

Remove fish shanties soon

The Department of Natural Resources is advising ice fishermen to remove their fish shanties from state lakes before warmer weather makes ice conditions unsafe.

Mike Holmes, DNR Conservation Officer stationed in Escanaba, says every fish shanty in the state is checked by conservation officers during the winter.

"If shanties are not removed in the spring before the thaw, they sink into the lake and become serious hazards for boats and water skiers," he says.

Holmes also reminds ice fishermen that all structures and shelters placed on the ice must be identified with the name and address of the owner affixed on all exterior sides in letters not less than two inches high.

"If a shanty does not have the owner's name on it, Holmes leaves a card advising the owner of the law.

"Structures must be removed before ice conditions become unsafe," Holmes emphasizes. "Failure to identify, wrongly identifying or failure to remove the structure are violations of the law and are subject to prosecution."

(From the DNR).

Softball meeting Monday

The Boyne City Women's Slow Pitch League will meet Monday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Boyne City High School, room 4.

This meeting is open to the public and anyone interested in working with the league in any form is urged to attend. If you wish to participate in some way but are not already with a team, either come to this meeting or call one of the officers for more information.

Many important items will be decided upon at this meeting, including a change in the by-laws and constitution and possibility of changing the games from twice a week to one game per week. Entry fee for teams and player fees will be decided upon also.

A tentative budget has been set up and this will be acted upon, along with a discussion on a money making project. Also at this meeting a final team entry date and a tentative game schedule for the coming season will be set.

The Boyne City Women's Slow Pitch League has decided not to host its annual Memorial Day tournament as they have for the past four years. Because of the early date many teams had difficulty getting their teams ready, and many times high school graduation fell during tournament time and presented difficulty for the players trying to be both places at once.

The women's league and the men's league hope to host a combination men and women's tournament on a non-holiday weekend during the summer. Lynda Christensen, the league president and also the district slow pitch commissioner will be attending the state A.S.A. (American Softball Association) meeting on Sunday, April 2 in Mt. Pleasant and will be reporting on this meeting at the local meeting on April 3.

If you have any questions contact Lynda Christensen at 582-9555 or call Mike Davis, the Community Recreation Director at 582-6765.
