Greetings, Doc!

County's top blood donor wishes we'd make our quota

EAST JORDAN--Galen "Sy" Seiler of East Jordan has been honored as the top blood donor in Charlevoix County.

The American Red Cross presented Seiler with a certificate thanking him for donating 57 pints of blood. That is a total of more than seven gallons.

The Red Cross made the award at a recent banquet at the Holiday Inn of Petoskey. Awards were given to top donors from each county in northern Michigan.

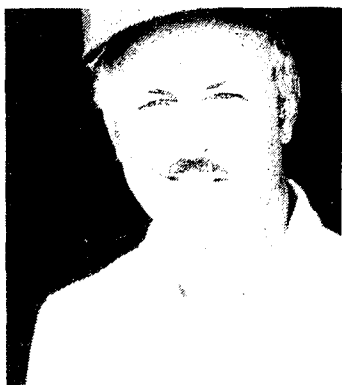

Seiler, 60, has actually donated quite a bit more than 57 pints of blood. That is just the amount he has given since he has lived in Northern Michigan.

"I gave more when I lived in Detroit and Wisconsin," Seiler said, "but I never kept track of how much."

"I wish more people in Charlevoix County would give blood," he said. "We usually only get about two-thirds of the county's quota."

"Actually, it's a very simple thing. It takes only about 30 minutes and it doesn't hurt at all."

A bloodmobile from the Red Cross Flint Regional Blood Center makes seven trips to Charlevoix County each year. Upcoming blood drives will be held Sept. 12 in Charlevoix, Nov. 7 in Boyne City, and Jan. 10 in East Jordan.

Youth program needs your help

It's a big, wide world, and one way to better understand it is by participating in Youth for Understanding, an international student exchange program.

Under the program, American families provide room and board for 10-12 months for foreign students. The program has been active in Charlevoix County for several years, but area representative Linda Patton of East Jordan is having problems this year finding local homes for foreign students.

"In Charlevoix County I haven't placed any for the 1979-80 year. It's been slow. I don't know if it's economics or what."

Specifically, Mrs. Patton is trying to find homes in the area for two teenagers, a girl from Finland and another from Germany.

Families provide free room and board for the students, who must provide their own spending money and pay for other expenses, such as clothing. The students come from 26 countries.

Mrs. Patton and her family have hosted five students, and she attests the program's value. "It's a real rewarding experience," she says. "It broadens you. I find out a lot of things about the way other people live."

"The key is to accept them as one of the family and treat them that way."

Those interested in participating can get more information by calling Mrs. Patton at 536-2504 or by calling Youth For Understanding headquarters at (617) 742-4177.

City gets housing grant

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan Housing Commission received a grant of $31,500 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for a modernization program of 28 apartment units for senior citizens.

Housing Director Margaret Sorenson said the funds will be used to keep the 20 apartment units for senior citizens and eight single-family homes for low income people up to federal inspection standards.

The funds will be used to buy smoke detectors, build a maintenance building for storage, install hand rails on the elderly people's outside patio, for roof insulation, and to buy a pick-up truck with a plow for maintenance duties.

The cost of the project will be paid for in full by the grants from HUD and the federal government.

At the July 17 East Jordan City Council meeting Mrs. Sorenson said she was pleased to get the funds for East Jordan.

"If we did not get them (the funds) up in this county, it would be going back to the big cities and they are wasted down there," she said.

Mrs. Sorenson, who resigned recently from her position to accept a supervisory job with HUD in Grand Rapids, will be replaced by Shirley Smith as housing director. Mrs. Smith will be in charge of supervising the maintenance of the apartments.

May have 40 students

It's full steam ahead for EJ Christian academy

EAST JORDAN--The new Jordan Valley Christian Academy is moving ahead with plans to open this fall.

Missionary Church Pastor Dale Turner, whose church is organizing the Christian school, said about 25 people were on hand for an organizational meeting Monday night.

Rev. Turner says he has gotten a favorable response to the new school. "They said they were very happy to see something like this coming into the community," he said.

Rev. Turner estimates the school, which will offer instruction from kindergarten through high school, will enroll approximately 40 students. But he said that figure could change, so it is not yet certain what effect the new school will have on the East Jordan Public School system.

Public schools receive state aid based on their enrollment.

Not all the students will be coming from East Jordan. Rev. Turner said he has received inquiries from as far away as Petoskey and Mancelona.

Tuition will be $550 a year for the first child in a family, $500 a year for the second, $450 for the third, $400 for the fourth and free for any additional children from the same family.

Rev. Turner said the school will be Christian but non-denominational. He said members of five or six churches attended the meeting this week.

The school will be headed by C. Glenn Parker and it will have three teachers, called supervisors, and two aides, called monitors. The school will use the Accelerated Christian Education Curriculum developed by Dr. Donald Howard of Dallas.

The Christian school will be stricter than public schools. All students will wear red, white and blue uniforms. Boys will wear ties and girls will wear skirts or jumpers. Boys' hair, Rev. Turner said, "will not touch the collar nor the ears."

Why the dress code? "It makes an organization or a group feel like a team," Rev. Turner said. "Have you ever heard of a football coach who said, 'Come as you are?'"

Commenting on the abolishment of dress and hair codes in public schools, Turner said, "We have allowed our children to think they are going to school to play, so we let them wear play clothes to school."

"But primarily, they're coming to school to learn, so we want them to dress that way."

Rev. Turner said Christian schools are becoming increasingly popular in Northern Michigan. There is a Christian school in Burt Lake, he said, and the Ebenezer Christian School in Ellsworth offers kindergarten through eighth grade instruction.

Those seeking more information about Jordan Valley Christian Academy can call Turner at 536-2128 or 536-7824.

New activities, leader for teenage rap group

EAST JORDAN--The teenage talk group that started here earlier this summer has made a few changes and is planning new activities to reach more people.

First of all, the teens have come up with a formal name for their group--Teens Rap Session.

Brad Campbell has replaced Ken Young as the second adult leader of the group. He joins Karen Bennett, a local mother who helped start the group.

Campbell is the county probation officer, but his involvement with the group is in a non-official capacity. He thinks the rap sessions are a good way kids can work out their problems.

The teen group is planning a dance for Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, at the Tourist Park beach house. The popular local band Captain Fishhook and the All-Night Crawlers is donating its services for the dance. It will be held from 1 to 5 p.m., and admission will be 75 cents.

Co-sponsoring the dance along with the teen group is the Big Brothers and Big Sisters organization.

The teens also hope to invite some guest speakers to their weekly meetings.

Rap sessions are held at 6:30 p.m.

every Monday in the East Jordan High School art room.

Karen Bennett says the group was formed to give teens a chance to "get together every week to share and to help with the problems of growing up."

"It has already produced friendships and the need to care about other people," she said.

Mrs. Bennett hopes that parents will encourage their teens to attend the rap sessions if they feel they might need them. "It's your children we're talking about, and they need your support," she said. "Let them have a place to go. Remember, the teens of today are the adults of tomorrow."

Dancin'

A group of 20 local women have been taking an aerobics dancing class for fun and exercise this summer in the East Jordan schools. In the foreground is Dixie Ashton, the instructor. The class will be giving a demonstration of what they've learned for their family or anyone else interested in aerobics at 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school.

Contest deadline soon

Hurry up, all you budding geniuses. The deadline for the Charlevoix County Press Literary Supplement is Monday, Aug. 13, at 5 p.m.

The contest is divided into the following categories: fiction, non-fiction essays, poetry and photography.

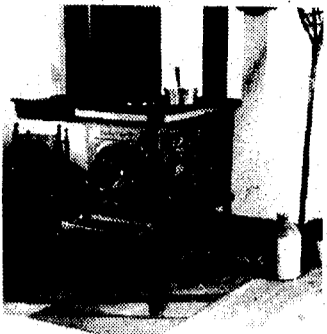

Those interested in entering should obtain contest guidelines from The Press office Box 216, Boyne City. The office is at 210 Lake Street.

All entries must pertain to Charlevoix County. The Press publishes the supplement to honor the memory of Ernest Hemingway, one of America's finest writers, who spent much of his youth in Charlevoix County.

This year's literary contest winners will be published in the Aug. 30 issue.

DO VETERANS RECEIVE SPECIAL BENEFITS AT TIME OF DEATH?

Yes, survivors of former servicemen are eligible for several different kinds of benefits. Veterans Administration will allow $300 toward funeral expenses and $150 interment allowance unless the burial will be in a national cemetery. You may also be eligible for an additional $300.00 from the county.

A headstone or marker is also provided by the VA and will be shipped to the cemetery for placement. A burial flag is also available on request.

Payment for these benefits is not forwarded automatically. Forms must be filled out and application made for them.

Information which the application requires includes: a death certificate, discharge papers, and former service serial number or VA claim number.

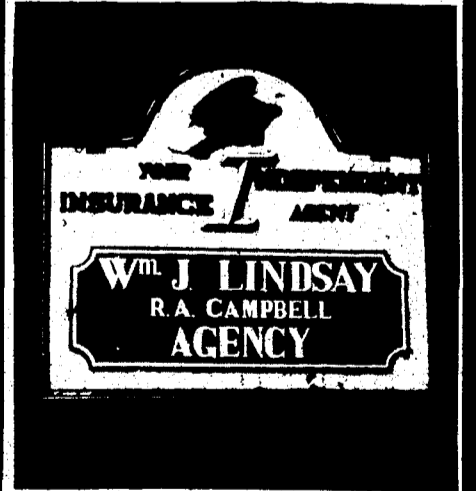

We can process these claims for you or will help you contact the VA directly. Feel free to ask us about other benefits for which survivors may be entitled.

Alternate sites

Where to put beach?

BOYNE CITY - What would be the best place for a Boyne City beach? Officials from the state's Department of Natural Resources Department visited the city last week to investigate that question, and found all the various sites considered pose various problems. The best place for a beach would be southwest of the city's sewage treatment plant on Front Street, according to Les Nichols of the DNR's recreation services division. "That has the best possibilities," Nichols said. "It's a larger site." He said water quality would probably be better there because of prevailing winds and currents. But that site is private property which will be donated to the city by Lake Associates only if the developers' request for a closing of Front Street is approved in an Aug. 7 election. Because the tannery property site might not be available, the DNR officials also considered three other sites: Directly in front of the sewage treatment plant; in Memorial Park, just north of the Boyne River; and behind City Hall, near the present Little League field.

The city already owns all these alternate sites and is seeking a DNR grant to help build a beach. City Manager Tim Clifton said it would be a matching grant, under which the city must match the amount of money given by the state. Clifton said the city could use the tannery beach site property, worth approximately $100,000, if the property is donated to the city. But he said if the beach goes anywhere else, the city won't be able to use the land as its match and will instead have to pay half the expenses. Clifton said no firm conclusions were reached as a result of the DNR's visit last week. "We just walked all along the waterfront to find possible sites for a beach," he said. "It's all still conjecture at this point." Nichols said that whatever site is chosen, the city should do "soil borings" to determine the quality of the lake bottom near the beach. "Whatever site is selected, we need some very careful studies," he said. Commenting on the tannery beach, the scene of much pollution when the tannery was operating, Nichols said, "God only knows what's under that soil. It could be no problem, or it could be a big problem." Nichols said he didn't think the beach in front of the sewage treatment plant would be good for development. He said a small wetland there might help prevent development, and he said there would be a "psychological effect" keeping people from wanting to swim near sewage. He said the site near the Boyne River would cause problems with boat traffic and would necessitate the removal of part of the seawall and the rocks now along the waterfront. Regarding a beach behind City Hall, he said, "That's a possibility, but that's not a very good beach in there. Nichols added that while Boyne City is a "high priority" area for a beach funding, the DNR is not certain how much money will be available this year for beach development projects.

An 11-year-old hero

An 11-year-old Redford Township boy and his mother received Citizens Awards from Sheriff George Lasater for their rescue of three adults who almost drowned in Lake Charlevoix at Young State Park on July 22. While camping at Young State Park with his family, John Lengyel noticed three adults attempting to swim to shore from their moored boat about 100 yards off shore. John noticed the two men and one woman had stopped swimming and were calling for help. John swam out to the adults on his inflated tire inner tube. When he reached the subjects, all from Detroit, they were at the point of exhaustion. By this time, John's mother Nancy had also grabbed an inner tube and swam out to assist. The three adults were then brought in to shore. One adult had to be treated at Little Traverse Hospital for shock and exhaustion. He was later released. The survivors said, "We would not be alive today if it had not been for the Lengyel family."

Consider options, close Front St.

For well over a year now, the proposed closing of part of Front Street has been the dominant political issue in Boyne City. In fact, it is unfortunate so much conversation has centered on the street closing, which is in fact just one part of a larger, more important question: How should the old tannery property be developed? What should be done with it?

Apparently, some residents don't believe this. They cling to the belief that if the project proposed by Lake Associates is voted down Aug. 7, the whole issue will just fade away, and that the property will remain vacant, as it has since the tannery was demolished.

Whether you like it or not, this is not the case. The property, although it has never been fenced off from the public, is privately owned and it is for sale. It's nice to have a large stretch of undeveloped lakefront, but the property's downstate owners apparently don't plan to pay property taxes forever so that local residents can continue to enjoy this benefit.

The lakefront property is too valuable to remain vacant and too expensive for the city to buy to add to its already extensive network of parks. Even most of those urging you to vote "no" on closing Front Street aren't opposed to the condominium project. They simply don't want the street closed for it.

So voters Tuesday will not be deciding whether the tannery property will be developed; they will be deciding the fate of one proposed use of the property. If Lake Associates' condominium plans are scuttled because Front Street isn't closed, they or someone else will build something else.

The future of such a large portion of our lakefront demands careful, considered judgment from voters, and thorough coverage from the community newspaper. To meet this responsibility, we have published information regarding alternative proposals for the property and the people involved in the controversy. Today we have given both sides the opportunity to state their positions in guest editorials.

We hope you will read their position statements carefully before you decide how to vote. It is not an easy decision, and there are good arguments on both sides. But after carefully considering and covering the issue since March, 1978. The

Editorial

Press still feels that Boyne City's future would be best served by the closing of Front Street to make possible Lake Associates' initial proposal to build a condominium, marina, restant complex.

Why? Because if the property must be developed, the people of Boyne City deserve to get as much benefit as possible from it. The project proposed by Rick and Dave Smith of Lake Associates would contribute significantly to the tax base of the economically strained community. Yet the project would not require many expanded city and school services. It would at the same time be physically attractive, provide a sensible traffic alternative to Front Street and provide the city with a lakefront park which might be developed into a sorely needed public beach.

Let's look at each issue separately. In a time of questionable economic conditions, in a city that has problems approving taxes for its public schools, present day economic realities are more important than emotional considerations such as, "The people of Boyne City have been using that street for over 100 years."

What's more important is what price you are willing to pay to use it for the next 100 years. Are you willing to give up initial tax revenues estimated at more than $50,000 after the first phase of the project is completed? Upon completion, the project could generate approximately $350,000 a year in tax revenue, a figure that would more than offset additional fire and other city services that would be needed.

The greatest tax burden on property owners is school taxes. The proposed condominiums would add few children to the schools, since most of the units would be second homes. But it would add significant tax dollars to the school system.

If you want to "save Front Street", are you willing to see thousands of your tax dollars soon go to rebuild that crumbling thoroughfare City officials say additional right-of-way would have to be purchased to widen the old road, which could drive the costs of improvements higher.

Front Street is, we admit, a heavily used, scenic drive. But the proposed alternative of widening Second Street would solve much of the problem of added traffic on Division Street. As for the scenery, we are convinced there will eventually be some type of development which will block part of the lake from public view.

The public would get a better look at the lake from the park and beach that the developers have offered as part of their initial proposal. It should be remembered that their "Plan B," a proposal to develop the land without removing Front Street, does not include the offer of a park and beach.

Because waste from the old tannery and lumber industries has been dumped into the lake over the years, it is still uncertain whether the proposed park site, or any other location in Boyne City, is suitable for a beach. But it's still a possibility, and even if a beach isn't developed, the public would benefit from a lakefront park on the south end of the city.

The land is presently zoned for commercial use. That means the developers must seek zoning variances to build their condominiums. When they seek these changes, it gives the city the chance to ensure the project is done in the manner which will most benefit the city. Otherwise, it can deny the zoning changes. The city and public have a great deal of control.

However, if a commercial project is proposed, the city has virtually no control, since the property is already zoned for commercial use. Unsightly development could mar the lakefront, and would seriously hurt efforts to revitalize the downtown business district.

So now the decision is before the voters. Admittedly, there are risks involved in the project proposed by Lake Associates, as there are risks in any development or business venture. But the Smiths had the economic resources and ability to withstand a recession during the construction of their successful Wildwood on Walloon condominiums. The result today, is good looking, financially successful project.

What do you want, Boyne City voters? Do you want to pave the way for a 270-unit project that would slow down tax increases, stimulate the local economy, provide jobs, a park, beach, marina and develop the lakefront in a manner that would make the entire city more attractive?

Or do you want to save a portion of Front Street? The choice is yours, and no matter which way the election goes, we trust Boyne City residents will do what they believe is best for their community. We hope all registered voters take advantage of this special opportunity to help decide the city's future.

This window display at Twin Valley Carpets in Boyne City expresses one point of view on the upcoming Front Street election. A "yes" vote would enable the city commission to proceed with its plans to vacate Front Street to make way for 270 condominiums, a marina and a restaurant on the old tannery property. The election is Tuesday, August 7.

Sound off!

Should Front Street be closed?

Yes

On Tuesday, Aug. 7, Boyne City voters will decide whether a portion of Front Street should be closed to make way for 270 condominiums proposed by Lake Associates. The plan has been actively opposed by a group of residents organized as the Save Front Street Committee.

In an effort to help voters make informed decisions on this important issue, The Press has asked representatives of both sides to state their opinions in guest editorials, which appear here unedited except for minor changes in grammar.

The substance of the articles was basically left up to the two groups, but The Press did pose several specific questions to both sides to address in their articles. We would like to thank Violet Mangos, Carol Judkins, Maurice Dixon and Rick and Dave Smith for their cooperation in this effort.

We have been asked by The Charlevoix County Press to once again state our position relative to the closing of Front Street and the proposed condominium development of the tannery site and to address certain specific concerns which have frequently been expressed by those individuals opposed to the road closing. We are happy to comply with this request and welcome the opportunity to communicate to all concerned the facts as we understand them.

First, we have been asked, "What assurance is there that the city would actually get the beach if the road is closed?" The answer to that is a very simple one: the City Commission would require that the city be deeded the park and beach PRIOR to allowing the street to be vacated, thus assuring that regardless of the subsequent outcome of the proposed development, the city would have clear title to the land.

Second, questions have arisen regarding the suitability of the land and quality of the water in the area of the proposed park and beach. We have not performed any soil borings nor have we requested a water quality analyses. To the best of our knowledge the area would be suitable for the proposed use however, further and detailed investigation would be necessary before a final determination could be made.

Third, regarding the question of additional traffic being routed into Division Street, there is no question but that the proposed development and the closing of Front Street would result in an increase in traffic on Division Street. However, as was stated in the Williams & Works impact study, "The increase should not cause any major noise or air quality problems nor would the increased level of traffic be considered objectionable."

Presently Front Street is in need of repair. It is our understanding that this is due in part to certain relatively unstable soil conditions. The question has been asked, if the soil conditions are too unstable for a roadbed, how can we expect to construct building foundations? The answer is that soil characteristics suitable for roadbeds differ greatly from soil characteristics suitable for building foundations. Based upon our engineering reports of numerous soil borings conducted at proposed building sites, the soil is very suitable for construction.

Another important fact that should be mentioned here is that the existing section of Front Street from Second Street to the intersection of Division Street is less than half as wide as the other sections of Front Street (28 feet compared to 86 feet) As result of this we have been informed that any major improvement of Front Street would require that the city acquire additional right-of-way land to accommodate the necessary road building heavy equipment as well as to provide for adequate shoulder and drainage ditch construction.

In addition to the above points we would like to reiterate some of our earlier comments in an attempt to further clarify our present position. It has been over two years since our initial planning for the tannery project began. During this period many differing opinions have been expressed at a number of public hearings and through the media. Some constructive modifications have been made as a result of these exchanges. For example, a more suitable beach and park location was selected and agreed upon. An emergency route through the property was incorporated, an improved by-pass was designed and communication regarding the possibility of a public marina through a cooperative effort with the city was initiated. Clearly the present plan is a better one than the original, a favorable result of the meetings, discussions and the differing opinions.

From the very beginning, we have taken the position of not wishing to pursue this plan without the strong support of the vast majority of the community. The success of the project will depend upon many things, not the least of which is the acceptance by and the enthusiastic backing of the residents. Without this we feel it is unwise to proceed with this plan. Many times members of the "Save Front Street Committee" have stated that they were not opposed to the development of the tannery property. They asked that we revise our plan in a manner that would retain the street. As a result of this, we presented an alternative plan to the City Commission July 24. This plan provides for development on the lake side of Front Street and does not require that it be closed or relocated.

The total number of units would be fewer than the original plan, however the total density would be greater. Condominium development would occur on 13 acres rather than 60. This would not allow for city park and beach and does not clearly identify the use of the majority of the land south of Front Street. This remaining land would be probably a combination of residential and commercial use. This alternative plan would serve as a compromise to the original and perhaps will satisfy those who feel strongly about the road closing. In our opinion it would not be the highest and best use of the land.

So it is with a feeling of anticipation and some relief that we enter into this last week of waiting for a decision that is of considerable importance to the community and to us.

We certainly want to take this opportunity to thank the many citizens who have helped and supported us throughout this very long process. We believe they have done this because they realized that something was going to happen to the tannery property and they thought our plan was the best of many possible alternatives for their community.

Dave and Rick Smith

No

Thank you for the opportunity to answer some pertinent questions which you have asked concerning the upcoming vote on the closing of Front Street. Our position is now, and always has been, that we are not opposed to the building of condominiums, but only to the closing of the road. We believe that closing the road is not in the best interest of the majority of the people.

Your first question is: Do we think that keeping Front Street open is more important than the increased property tax revenue and a public beach. Our answer is: Yes, we do believe that keeping Front Street open is a prime necessity of this community for access. Besides, Lake Associates has already stated that it will develop a project with or without the road. So what's the argument?

As far as that promise of new revenue lowering our taxes is concerned, we see this as a myth. Currently, the Landings' taxes of $85,000 have not created this effect. In fact, Boyne City taxes have increased steadily over the last several years, so there goes that argument out the window.

The proposed site for the bathing beach is definitely objectionable. A sewage disposal plant on one side of the proposed beach and a marina on the other does not provide a very safe or healthy place for children to swim.

Good common sense dictates that the proper place for our municipal beach is behind our new City Hall. We understand that the city administration and the Department of Natural Resources are currently exploring this possibility. This area is already landscaped and provides parking, restrooms, and drinking water. Looking back, that whole "Beach Bit" last year with those pins and placards seems to have been nothing but play.

In answer to question number two which brings up the second usage option, you ask which one we would rather see chosen.

If the second proposal were to be pursued, our only concern would be that the plan meet with the approval of all those controlling agencies dedicated to the best interest of the public, such as the Zoning and Planning boards, Johnson, Johnson and Roy, consultants, the city government, the county Health Department, the State Department of Natural Resources, and National Waterways Protection Agency. As long as Front Street is left open, this committee would approve. We're not opposed to development. We are opposed to closing Front Street.

In question number three you ask: Is Front Street worth the expense of rebuilding? Is it worth the purchase cost of additional right-of-way? To this we answer: Yes, emphatically: Obviously, every municipality has to maintain its roads. Front Street is well worth whatever it costs. As far as the purchase of a right-of-way is concerned, this is a separate issue. And it is one, no doubt, that will probably have to be settled in court between the city and the people who purchase the tannery property. Our attorney has researched this question thoroughly and there is nothing that substantiates the width of the road as being only 23 feet, as claimed by Lake Associates.

Finally, we address ourselves to the question number four: How should the property be developed? We understand that the property is for sale, and we realize that it will not stand idle for long, nor should it. The old Tannery property is a natural terrace with more than an impressive view. It is beautiful, it has value, our only hope is that it will be developed carefully in keeping with the natural beauty of its setting, and that it will gracefully blend into our community today, and in all of the tomorrows of our children.

This is your chance to save Front Street, and its lovely view of Lake Charlevoix. Let your voice be heard on August 7 at the polls.

Vote NO to keep Front Street open.

Front Street showdown

THE ISSUE - Should 52 miles of Front Street between Second and Division Streets be closed to make way for 270 condominiums proposed by Lake Associates?

The developers say their project won't succeed unless Front Street is closed; Their opponents say they favor the project but object to the road being closed.

THE OPPONENTS - The developers, Lake Associates, are headed by Rick and Dave Smith of Walloon Lake, who also developed Wildwood on Walloon, a smaller condominium project.

The opponents are made up of two groups: The Save Front Street Committee and the Right To Vote Committee. The first group has been fighting the street closing for a year; The Right To Vote group takes no official stance on whether the road should be closed, although their leaders don't approve of it. The group says its only interest is having a public vote on the issue.

THE DECISION MAKERS - Approximately 2,500 voters who live within the Boyne City limits. Registration for the election is closed.

DECISION DAY - Tuesday, August 7. The election will be in the Boyne City Hall auditorium.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS - Available now at Boyne City Hall. Deadline for returning absentee ballots is Friday, August 3.

Discretion: The better part of valor

Q--How are you going to vote on Front Street?
 A--No one is going to vote on Front Street. Voting is usually done in the city hall.
 Q--You're evading the question. How will you vote?
 A--I shall not vote on the issue.
 Q--Then you're not a good citizen. Why aren't you a good citizen?
 A--I've been honest and respectful so long I'm getting tired of it.
 Q--Come, now. Why aren't you going to vote?
 A--The city throws a fit every time a township resident sneaks into the city hall and tries to vote.
 Q--That doesn't prevent you from giving an opinion. What is your opinion?
 A--It's my opinion that Jimmy Carter will run for President again and, in doing so, his wife will have a difficult campaign on her hands.

 Q--You've changed the subject. Why are you so wishy washy?
 A--I don't know, really. Sometimes I wish I weren't so wishy.
 Q--OK. If you lived in the city how would you vote?
 A--Oh, I'd probably favor the status quo if each pot was repaired as soon as it became a hole.
 Q--I knew it! You're against progress. You have no consideration for out coming generation. You don't care if the community develops or not. You don't care if more people come here so our merchants can thrive. You have no consideration for the young, the vigorous, the forward looking people of the community. You're against the good life for the people of our community. You're getting old and afraid of change. How come you are against so many things?

 A--Oh, poop. I'm glad you were born with two eyes and only one tongue.
 Q--Now just a darn minute. How come all of a sudden you've started to get personal about this?

Who will decide?

Editor,
 On Tuesday, August 7, Some of us will vote on the closing of Front Street and "the few" who vote may determine the future for "the many" and "it's not fair".
 "The few" of us want no growth at all; "the many" want to control growth that benefits everyone. "The few" of us think that if Front Street is not closed the tannery property will remain unchanged, "the many" of us know it cannot stay the same.
 "The many" of us know growth is coming and that the tannery property will be developed, the only question is how will it be developed. "The few" say if we close Front Street we will lose the view, the fact is that under plan B or another plan we will also lose the view but will gain a lesser quality development and we will not have a city beach.
 "The many" of us know that the tannery property will be developed and the view will be changed, regardless of how the land is developed. "The many" of us also know that for a long time with no chance of saying "I'm sorry, I made a mistake." "The many" of us know that if we reject good development now that Boyne City will be passed by and we will not gain jobs and tax base.

It's time for "the many" of us to take charge of our lives and our town and vote for the best possible solution to the tannery property and the best for our city. "The few" will go to the poles to vote no, and a lot of us will go to vote yes. It is now time for "the many" of us to go to vote and to vote yes for good development, yes for the beach, yes for the tax base, yes for the jobs, yes for the future of Boyne City and yes for the future of Boyne City and yes for the closing of Front Street.

It's not fair for the few to speak for the many. The voting time is from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. This time really do it! Take 10 minutes out of your day, drive or walk to the City Hall and vote YES for the future of Boyne City. DO IT!

Charlevoix wedding for Dave Crumbaugh

Cindy Staph and Dave Crumbaugh were married June 16 in an outdoor ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McIntire of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McIntire. The groom is a Boyne City resident and the son of Mrs. Joanne Crumbaugh.

The wedding was officiated by the Rev. John Spohn of the Trinity Pentecostal Church of God, Boyne City. Maid of honor was Donna Jean Jones and bridesmaids were Kim Carter, Cindi Spohn and Lesia Klintworth.

Dan Robinson was best man and Mike Southwood, Brian Underwood and Joe Gay were groomsmen.

Following a wedding trip through Michigan, the couple is residing in Boyne City. The bride is a 1979 graduate of the Trinity Bible Institute of Ellendale, North Dakota. The groom is a Pentecostal Church of God Minister.

Couple wed in Illinois park

Kay Severinsen and Joe McElroy, both of Boyne City, were married July 21 at the Lake Argyle State Park Chapel in the Hills, Colchester, Illinois.

The Rev. John Carlson, of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Macomb, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Severinsen of Macomb, Illinois. The groom is the son of Joe McElroy, Sr., and Eileen McElroy, both of Chicago.

The bride wore an antique white batiste skirt, circa 1890, and matching white batiste blouse designed by the bride and her mother. The skirt featured candlelight lace and rows of bias tucks forming a V in the front. Bias tucks also rimmed the hem, which flowed into a short train, and edged the short cape of the blouse. She wore a white lace hat and carried a large orchid surrounded by Yellow rosebuds and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Joy Meade of North Aurora, Illinois and Carolyn Johnson of Normal, Illinois. They wore matching blue flowered, A-line gowns with short capes trimmed in bias tucks, all made by the bride's mother.

Groomsmen were Thomas McElroy, brother of the groom, of Chicago, and James Dalton of Champaign, Illinois. Ushers were Kris Severinsen, brother of the bride of Morton, Illinois and his fiancée, Maureen Olafson of Hinsdale, Illinois.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. A rehearsal dinner was hosted Friday evening by the groom's mother.

Noon Saturday

Rotary Park dedication

BOYNE CITY - The recently completed facilities at Rotary Park will be formally dedicated Saturday, Aug. 4, with the ceremony beginning at noon.

A special highlight of the day will be the honoring of Forbes Tompkins and Lynda Christensen, two of the people most responsible for the development of the park into a recreation facility for the public.

Tompkins was Boyne City manager when development of the park began. Christensen is an avid softball player who helped raise funds for the park and coordinated volunteer efforts.

The park's two softball fields will be named after Tompkins and Christensen. They will be designated by new signs, made and donated by Bruce Janssen.

Recently completed facilities include four tennis courts, a well, and fencing for the park. A ribbon cutting ceremony will be held to dedicate these facilities.

Following the ribbon cutting, exhibition matches between professional tennis players will be held on the new courts, which will be closed for public use from noon to 1:30 p.m.

The development of Rotary Park was a project sponsored by the city's Bicentennial Committee, beginning in 1975. Catherine Jessup, a member of that committee who is now a city commissioner, will moderate the dedication ceremony and give a short history of Rotary Park.

The facilities to be dedicated Saturday cost the city $68,000, although $25,000 of that was paid by a grant from the Department of Natural Resources.

City Manager Tim Clifton said the establishment of the ball fields cost the city approximately $3,000 in labor and equipment. Costs were kept down because ball players provided volunteer labor.

A co-ed softball tournament, sponsored by Boyne City Ace Hardware, starts Friday night and continues through Sunday.

Work on the park is not quite complete. The fields will be further improved next year and a parking lot will be built. A water fountain is also scheduled to be installed.

Hole in one

Quality play at golf club

Ye Nyne Olde Holes Golf Club held a scramble tournament Saturday, July 28, which ended in a tie when two foursomes shot excellent rounds of 61 each.

The winners were the team of Bill Korthase, Jim Anthon Tim Welch and Don Peck and the team of Mike Cummings Ed Robinson, Bill Konola and Lon Kowalske.

Also at the golf club, the first hole in one in two years was shot recently by Milo Scheffels of Rockford, Illinois, who was staying at his father's home in East Jordan.

The golfer used a six iron to ace the par three, 152-yard par three sixth hole. It was his first hole in one.

The golf club was also the recent site of a fashion show by Gocha's of Boyne City, put on for the benefit of the Ladies Golf League and their friends from Springbrook Hills Golf Course.

First National Bank & Trust now pays 5 1/4 annual interest compounded continuously on regular savings.

When you put your money in regular savings at First National Bank & Trust, you'll earn the highest bank interest allowed by law. A full 5 1/4 percent annual interest... effective July 1st.

And with continuous compounding, your money earns money continuously - every minute of every day, from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal - for an effective annual yield of 5.467 percent.

5.467 percent annual yield. No bank in town pays you more on a regular savings than First National Bank & Trust. And that's a fact. Which is one reason why more people put their money in Daily Interest Savings at First National Bank & Trust, than in any other bank in town.

New $1,000 high-return 4-year Money Market Certificates

First National Bank & Trust is now offering high-return 4-year Money Market Certificates of $1,000 or more.

New interest rates are established monthly and after purchase remain the same for the 4-year period. The total of your deposits at First National Bank & Trust is insured up to $40,000.

High-return Money-Market Certificates

$10,000 minimum deposit for 26 weeks. Interest rates are established weekly, and after purchase remain the same for the 26-week period.*

*Substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal on all Money Market and Investment Savings Certificates. Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest during term of deposit on 26 week Money Market Certificates.

Business briefs

Pizza news

Little Lena's Pizza of Boyne City has two new owners, Maurizio Bacciocchi and Gino Longo. They bought the business from Lee Howard, who plans to open a pizza business in Arizona. The new owners have expanded the hours of the store, which is now open from 4 p.m. to midnight Sunday through Thursday and from 4 p.m.-3 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Chamber director

Tom Vanderwall has been named to the board of directors of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce. Vanderwall is the owner of the Vanderwall-Watson Funeral Home, which he purchased this spring. He replaces Freda Winter, who resigned her position on the board. Mrs. Winter had served as the secretary-treasurer of the Chamber, and Debbie Carey has been appointed to take over that post.

New salesman

Gregg Toomey is the new salesman at Parrish Chevrolet. He replaces Mark Parrish, who has returned to the Lansing area.

Bank building

First National Bank officials expect to begin construction on a permanent building within the next week, according to manager Steve Woodcock. The bank is presently operating out of a trailer on M-75 South. The permanent building will be done in an Alpine design and have four teller windows and two drive-in lanes. The building is expected to be completed by early December.

Floral shop moves

Boyne City Floral has a new home. The store has moved from its old location at 116 Main Street into the building at 116 Water Street formerly occupied by Shear Beauty Hair Salon. The store is staffed by Barbara Brochu, Penny Churchill and June Habasco. The new building offers additional space, so the shop will be offering more gift items in the future.

Boyerne City news

Front Street day of decision nears

Plan A

Plan B

BY JOE McELROY

BOYNE CITY: Finally, after well over a year of controversy, comes the election that everyone from beachcombers to businessmen has been awaiting.

City Clerk Tom Garlock said he is expecting a heavy turnout of the city's 2,112 registered voters for the Tuesday, Aug. 7 election on the proposed closing of a portion of Front Street to make way for a condominium/marina/restaurant complex proposed by Lake Associates.

The number of absentee ballots is an indication of public interest in an election, and Garlock said Tuesday 161 absentee ballots have already been turned in. He said the highest previous absentee total for any Boyne City election was 158 for the 1976 presidential election. The deadline for absentee ballots is Friday.

See related story and commentary on Front Street vote on pages three, four and five.

Approximately 50 people registered to vote in the last 30 days before the registration deadline for the election. The vote will be held in the auditorium of the new Boyne City Hall, the former Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company building on south Lake Street. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

The ballot will read: "Shall the City Commission vacate Front Street in the City of Boyne City from Second Street to Division Street?" Voters will have two choices: "yes" and "no."

A "yes" vote will allow the commission to close the street to Division. A "yes" vote will allow the commission to close the street for Lake Associates' 270 condominiums, which they say can't be built unless Front Street is closed.

A "no" vote will prohibit the commission from closing the street. The vote is not legally binding, but the commissioners have gone on record as saying they will abide by the results of the election.

If the voters approve the street closing, the developers plan to build the "Plan A" shown on this page. It calls for 270 mid-rise condominiums.

To replace Front Street, they have agreed to pay the cost of widening and re-engineering Second Street, hoping this will relieve traffic pressure on Lake Street and Division Street east of the project.

If the street closing is voted down, Lake Associates says it will proceed with "Plan B", also illustrated, which could be built without moving the street. Unlike Plan A, it does not include a public park and beach.

Plan B calls for condominiums and single family homes along the lakefront, northwest of Front Street, and a variety of commercial and residential uses on the other side of the street.

Rick and Dave Smith announced their initial plans in March, 1978, and received early support from the City Commission. Last summer, the Save Front Street Committee organized, collecting over 1,000 petitions against the road closing.

The Save Front Street Committee had planned to fight the street closing in the Circuit Court hearing required by state law because the road is close to a body of water. That hearing will still take place, if the people vote to close the street, but became less important after another citizen group, the Right to Vote Committee, entered the picture.

This new committee circulated petitions asking the commissioners to hold a special binding election on the street closing. When told the commissioners couldn't do that because it would conflict with the city charter, the committee started a petition to amend the charter.

Their proposed amendment would have taken all street closings out of the hands of the commission and put them to public votes. Faced with the possibility of having to hold frequent elections, the commissioners agreed to the advisory vote on Front Street, but promised to abide by the result.

When similar vote was held on whether to build a sidewalk along Boyne Avenue the election wasn't legally binding, but voters fixed the sidewalk idea and the commissioners went along with them.

There has been no organized opposition against the entire project. Save Front Street Committee leaders say they favor the project, but not at the cost of losing Front Street, one of the principal routes to Advance and East Jordan.

Dick Dubin, spokesman for the Right To Vote Committee, says his group has no official position on whether the street should be closed; They just wanted the issue put to a vote.

Now that the committee is about to get its wish, Dubin says, "we'd like to appeal to everybody to get out and vote. Vote your conscience. What we want is that everybody gets involved."

"I'd like to see at least 1,200 votes cast."

"Then it will be all settled and everybody can relax and be friends again."

None of those involved cared to hazard a prediction on the outcome of the election.

Leona Griffin

24 good years at Kaden's

BOYNE CITY - The owners and employees of Kaden's clothing store decided they were going to give fellow employee Leona Griffin a surprise last Wednesday.

They succeeded, but the surprise was on them as well.

Kaden's owners Don and Gail Toffolo thought Mrs. Griffin would be celebrating her 25th anniversary at the store this month, so they planned a surprise party for her.

People at work

When they gathered around and brought out the cake, she was indeed surprised, because, as Gail Toffolo said, "She looked at the cake, looked up and said, 'But I haven't been here 25 years.'"

It turns out Mrs. Griffin started at the store 24 years ago, on July 18, 1955. So her 25th anniversary will be a year from now.

No matter. The staff still celebrated the beginning of Mrs. Griffin's 25th year, and her eyes were filled with tears as she accepted the congratulations of her co-workers.

Mrs. Griffin said it's been a good 25, or rather, 24, years at the store, which was owned by Frank and Florida Kaden Bowman when she started there.

Her children were raised, Mrs. Griffin said. "So I just decided I should work. It's been a good job for me. I've known Florida since we were children and the new owners have been good to work for, too."

Mrs. Griffin, a Boyne City native who lives on Lake Street with her husband, George, started at the store as a clerk. She still does clerking, but a bad leg has led to a switch in responsibilities. She now spends most of her time in the back room, marking prices on merchandise.

"I like the work," she says. "You're busy all the time, but it's not hard work."

"I'm old enough to fully retire now, but I still like to meet the public."

Slow sales

Essex work slowdown

BOYNE CITY - Essex Group, Inc., one of Boyne City's biggest employers, has put approximately 200 production workers on four-day work weeks because of a drop in business.

Essex primarily makes automotive turn signals. Its biggest customer is Ford Motor Company. Plant Manager John DiMartino said Ford sales are down 20 percent, so the auto company needs fewer turn signals from Essex.

"You could see it coming," he said. "It isn't unexpected. You just have to watch the car sales."

"There is a downturn in the buying power of the public. Car sales are down a little."

DiMartino said another reason for the four-day work week is the annual lull in automotive production as manufacturers prepare for the new models, which will come out in the fall. DiMartino said the shorter work week for all production employees is an alternative to layoffs. "It's one way of keeping the work force together so they can all continue their jobs," he said.

The employees also continue to receive full fringe benefits, such as health insurance. The absence of layoffs also eliminates unemployment claims.

DiMartino said the factory has gone to four-day weeks before, and said he doesn't know how long the present work schedule will remain in effect.

"This is very costly, both for the company and the employees, but they're not an alternative."

Office workers and all salaried employees are still working full weeks, but the production cutback makes a dent in the local economy. DiMartino said the normal production weekly payroll is well over $40,000, which has now been cutback 20 percent.

You gotta have art

BY DIANNE MURRAY

Art in Northern Michigan is as plentiful as our beautiful landscapes and clean lakes. One local artist said the reason there are so many artists and galleries is because Northern Michigan is an inspiration in itself. The following is a list of some area galleries to visit:

BOYNE CITY

The Wood Shop. Bruce Janssen, the artist behind the brilliant wood signs many stores use as their store front signs. He uses wood chisels to produce the unusual hand carved creative work. His store at 111 East Street is open for visitors to browse through some of Bruce's work which also includes antiques restorations and wood bowls, planters and trays.

Misty Morning Trading Company. Light shining through dazzling designed stained glass windows, skylights and wall hangings can be seen from the store windows but there's more. The visitor can watch stained glass being cut and creative art work being done. The store at 419 East Pine is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

HORTON BAY

The Red Fox Inn. This store, eight miles north of Boyne City on Boyne City Road, emphasizes local crafts, local pottery, Indian crafts, wood carvings, hand embroidered tablecloths and much more which are exhibited and for sale at reasonable prices. The building itself, with a false store front, is a pleasant tourist attraction. Local books, homemade maple syrup and honey are also for sale.

CHARLEVOIX

Bullfrog Bazaar. For creative oddities and conversational pieces, owner Todd Warner's "critters and cohorts" might just be the thing for you. Warner, a sculptor of weird animals and playtoys for the young and old alike, includes adult size moose rockers and climbing frogs. His clay animals have gained him national fame. In the basement of the store is an art gallery featuring local and statewide artists. Jewelry, painting, wall hangings and weaved pillows are there for the browsing and buying. Open six days a week at 405 Bridge Street.

Staffel's Pottery. Original hand-crafted stoneware pottery, decorative and functional, all hand made on the potter's wheel in the studio of Bonnie and Bill Staffel. Many crafts on display. Be sure to visit their outdoor patio for additional surprises exhibited. Open year round; summer hours 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week. Located on U.S. 31, seven miles south of downtown Charlevoix.

PETOSKEY

The Art Rendezvous. This gallery's speciality is weaving. Supplies for weaving are numerous; yarns of every color, looms, and dress or shirt patterns are available. An art gallery and Petoskey stone jewelry are also on display. Kathryn Hodgkiss, owner, teaches weaving classes each week. The cost is $15 per session for eight hours of instruction. Basic weaving techniques are taught. For further information contact Kathryn at 347-3501 or come into the store in the Hollywood Arcade, 325 E. Lake St., open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Petoskey Pottery. The wheel-thrown and hand built pottery on display range from complicated pots to simple tiles. Many brilliant glazes and unique pots. All work done right in store. John Caron, owner and Jerry Bleem do all the design, building and glazing in the back of the store. Located across the hall from Art Rendezvous in the Hollywood Arcade. Open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Ward and Eis Gallery. You can smell the leather as soon as you walk in the front door. Purses, belts, hats, jackets, vests, anything you can imagine is on display and for sale at the gallery. Work from 121 artists from 32 states and Canada plus original work by the owners, make up the displays. Open all year, Monday through Saturday in Petoskey's Gaslight District, 315 Lake St.

HARBOR SPRINGS

Hemlock House Summer Art Gallery. The gallery can best be described as an art fair with a roof over head. Twenty-five members of the Battlecreek Artists Guild display their art. July 29, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. there will be an open house with some artists there to talk to. Wine, cheese, soft drinks and homemade bread will be served as refreshments. Open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday 1 to 5 p.m.

CROSS VILLAGE INDIAN CRAFTS

Great Lakes Indian Village. Fine area Indian crafts are on display in the museum. Handmade crafts including jewelry, quill baskets, corn husk dolls, and books of Indian history are for sale. Admission fee is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. summers only. Visitors can see craftsmen's work from Michigan's Ottawa, Chippewa and Pontawatomi tribes. Cross Village on Lake Michigan is just 18 miles north of Harbor Springs on U.S. 131.

Indian Hills Trading Post. Indian jewelry, baskets and other crafts for sale. Located on M-131 one-quarter mile north of the U.S. 31 junction.

These are just a few of the area art studios and museums. The list is too numerous to mention all places of interest. For a more detailed list pick up an "Art Craft Trails" or "Artists North" brochure available in many stores and at area Chamber of Com-merces.

Late starter turns talented artist

It took Elaine H. Retherford 43 years before she realized her talent of watercolor painting.

"I didn't realize I had the skill to paint until after I had raised three children and they'd left home," she said. After her children left she had a lot of time and was looking for new ways to release her extra energy. "Watercoloring has been a wonderful 'filler' since my children left," she said.

Mrs. Retherford started taking watercolor classes taught by F. Douglas Greenbowe, a member of the American Watercolor Society, and immediately found enjoyment in this new craft.

Mrs. Retherford's specialties included eye pleasing pictures of Northern Michigan scenery and other landscape pictures.

"With watercolors you either have it or you don't. It's not like oil painting in which you can keep going back to if you don't like something. Watercolor painting is a one-time thing. As soon as you start changing something on the canvas, you end up with a muddy hole," she said.

Mrs. Retherford and her husband, Stewart, live in the Belvedere Club during the summer and have a ranch in Scottsdale, Arizona which they retreat to in the winter months.

"We live in the best of two worlds," Mrs. Retherford said, "I can paint landscapes year round in warm weather."

Mrs. Retherford said she like to please others with her art work. "It's not that I always have to please everyone with my art work, but when people genuinely like my art that really makes me feel good."

Her paintings will be on display at both the Charlevoix and East Jordan art fairs. In the past, Mrs. Retherford said she has done pretty well selling her art at the fairs. Be sure to look for her landscape paintings.

Elaine Retherford poses on her porch at the Belvedere Club with a few of her landscape watercolor pictures.

Polish Festival time

It's time for some lively, homespun good times as the Annual Boyne Falls Polish Festival kicks off this weekend with a parade, homemade Polish food, a footstomping polka tent, and many other events.

Festivities begin at 11 a.m. Friday, with a carnival, booths, concession stands and a flea market. Children will enjoy the regular shows by Willy the Clown and the Amazing Byron Magic Show under one tent while adults gather under another for beers and polkas. The Ellsworth Lions Club will man the polka tent bar and the Elmira Fire Department will serve food.

Friday's tent will feature the Polka Towners, the Karen Stroiwas band and the Harmony Tones. Saturday will be the Gaylord Polka Masters, the Polka Towners and the Polkateers. Sunday will feature the Karen Stroiwas Band, the Gaylord Polka Masters and the Polkateers.

Saturday morning the pace quickens with a Polish dinner at 11 a.m. in the school cafeteria and a "Grand Royale Parade" at noon through the town featuring this year's honored citizen Eva Gillespie.

Heavyweight and lightweight horse pulling begins at 2 p.m. near the school. Also that day, the V.F.W. and the American Legion Colors and Guards, Drill Squad and

best bet

Auxiliary will present a wreath at Veteran's Memorial Park, U.S. 131 and M-75. And the women of the Methodist Church will have a luncheon on the church lawn at 11 a.m.

Sunday the St. Augustine's Ladies Guild will host a chicken dinner at the fire hall beginning at 11 a.m.

The festival committee also will sponsor a River/Road Relay of running, canoeing and bicycling Sunday at 10 a.m. for non-residents and 2 p.m. for residents. Five-member teams should register at 9:30 a.m. Entry fee is $15 per team, and trophies will be awarded. For more information, call 582-6444.

An old time threshing machine and steam engine show will be presented at 5 p.m. all three days, 1:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. The machines will be provided by A. D. and Tom Graham and Bernie Kondrat.

Those looking for a bird's eye view can take a helicopter ride over the festival.

A teen dance will begin at 8 p.m. each evening in the school gymnasium, featuring rock group Elijah.

Sunday evening the Polish Festival Committee will hold a door prize drawing. First prize is a trip for two to Hawaii plus $500. Second prize is $100.

The New Mogul Inn

About nine months ago Mike Pitiglio and Joe Rzepecki took over the Mogul Inn and changed the name to NEW Mogul Inn. Their specialties include homemade reuben, stacked ham and polish sausage sandwiches.

The Mogul Inn now provides banquet facilities and services.

For entertainment, check out a different band every two weeks. Rock dominates the scene, although Sunday is country and western night.

The Mogul is located on Highway M-75, just west of Boyne City. The Inn opens at 11 a.m., and the kitchen remains open until 10 p.m.

It's art fair time again

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

People a-stroll, pictures a-glow; it's art fair time again. East Jordan Portside Art Fair, now in its 17th year, will start things off Saturday, Aug. 4 from 9 'till dusk, and the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 5 at Elm Point, just off M-66.

Charlevoix's Waterside Art Fair follows. Aug. 11 and Aug. 18, Petoskey will have its Arts and Crafts tour.

Intended expressly to encourage and reward area artists, both amateur and professional, East Jordan's Portside Art Fair is, as always, limited to 100 exhibitors. Original sculptures, paintings, prints, jewelry, collages, and so on will be on display.

A special exhibit emeritus this year will be a collection of large pieces by sculptor Walter Midener. The Portside Art and Historical Society are particularly delighted to show the work of this internationally-known artist. President of the School for Creative Studies in Detroit.

Strollers will also be able to have themselves caricatured, or portrayed in pastel or charcoal. And the fair features the "Children's Canvas" again. Strolling children will be encouraged to do their own art work.

There will be plenty to ooh and ah over. Leah Anderson will be doing folk art. The artist for the cover of the latest Michigan Fisherman magazine - James Annis - will be on hand.

Back for this annual affair this year are Ted Jeffery, general chairman and Toni Jeffery, hostess chairwoman. Registration was done by Phyllis Malpass and Esther Porter. Entries: Joanne Schenck and Jean Zoulek. Northwestern State Bank participated in the purchase prize awards to be given to both artists and craftsmen.

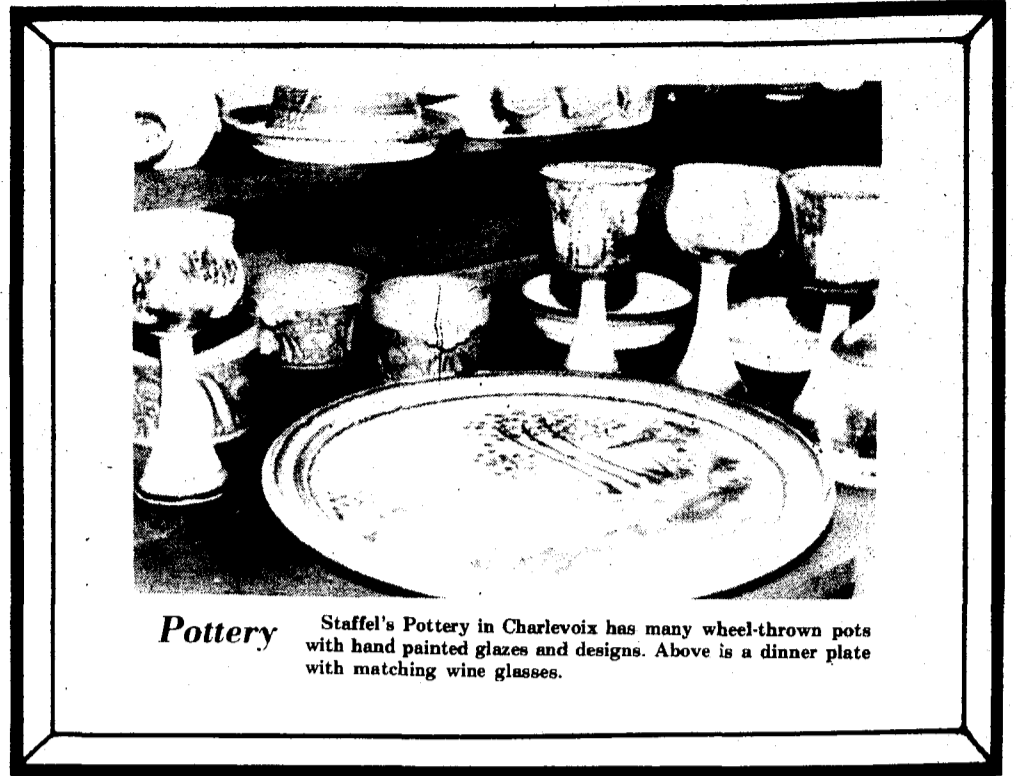

Society director Cygred Riley, speaking for associate directors George Secord, Betty Boswell, and Doris Huckle, and the Portside Art and Historical Society, believes these shows help make this area a haven for artists.

Not the smallest event of the 2-day affair will be refreshments served by the Lutheran Women's Group. Lunch will be available - and their famous pies.

One artist, who has exhibited here before, wrote on his entry application that he had dreamed about those pies all year. Deep in the vision of pies, he forgot to include his entry fee. It was fixed up, though. He will be there with pictures - and pie.

Waterside Art Fair in Charlevoix which will be held from 10 a.m. 'till dusk at Downtown East Park, is a foster parent to East Jordan's fair. It started 21 years ago, and last year according to Suzi Reis grossed in sales over $100,000. Suzi Reis has been chairwoman for the past few years. The fair is sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and Suzi is convinced it will draw a larger crowd than ever this year.

Artists North; artists together to help each other

Are you an artist with problems that might be solved by talking to other artists? Or do you like to gather with other artists and talk about new ideas, exchange notes, and learn the ways of other artists in a different area of art from you?

If the answer to any of the above questions is yes then the group for you is Artists North.

Artists North is a non-profit organization of 30 local painters, sculptors, potters, jewelers and every other walk of life there is to art. They gather the third Tuesday of every month and hold interacting sessions with other artists for encouragement, understanding and problem solving. "Our meetings give potters a chance to compare notes about kilns and different glazes and painters a chance to talk about the paints which dry the quickest. Jewelers talk about the price of silver and what they are going to do about the price going up," said Nancy Cunningham, publicity chairman of Artists North. Her husband, Dick, is a potter and painter.

Some political facts are taken care of during the meetings and such things as when the next art fair is coming up, or discussions on the pamphlet of studio tours put out each summer by Artists North are decided on.

The members are from Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmett Counties. The meetings are informally held in an artist's studio, home or sometimes in the basement of the Boyne City library. A membership fee of $10 per person or $15 per family for a year helps pay for the cost of putting out a newsletter once a month to all members and refreshments for the meetings. Friends, good times and new ideas are guaranteed for all who come to the meetings.

"Artists are accustomed to working by themselves. A committee does not make a sculpture or painting so artists are not used to interacting. But that's what makes Artists North unique. We are so loose and get along together just great," Mrs. Cunningham said.

At the meetings artists from different fields of the fine arts demonstrate their unique personal expression of art. One month it might be a potter showing the others how to glaze and fire a pot or another month everyone tries wood carving.

The organization has created a new medium to bring art to the public, one of their most discussed topics, by bringing the public to the art through the annual "Artist North Tour" in November. The tour takes its followers to the studios of 11 artists between Harbor Springs and Elk Rapids. The tour offers the community a chance to see the artist at work, ask questions and browse through and buy some works on display.

Artists North is always happy to see new faces at their meetings. For further information contact Bill Murray, president, at 347-1559 or Nancy Cunningham, at 582-9373.

Talent runs in the Bolt family

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Artists are definitely people, according to the Bolts, a family of artists. Maybe that's why the kiln looks so normal standing by the cornfield, and why the old grange makes such a good studio.

Daughter Lori, a student at Cleveland Institute of Art, tries to explain it. "Everyone says to me you're so lucky to be talented." The point, she emphasizes, is that art is the product of hard work.

Is there an artist in everyone? Mrs. Bolt - everyone calls her Sue - answers, "I'm sure there is, but everybody might not have the discipline... Or want to apply it in that way," adds another voice from the midst of Bolts.

The Bolts chime together on these ideas as they do in their art. The studio teems with paintings, prints, water colors, fabrics, pottery that they have produced.

Russ Bolt, the water colorist, is busy packing mirrors framed in ceramic designs to go to the Ann Arbor Art Fair. Sue is wrapping prints in plastic to prevent their being thumb marked by fair visitors.

Son Bob is in the midst of putting his stylized pottery cars into the van outside. He shows us one. We don't want to let go of it.

Everything in the studio is appealing. Anyone walking in would be drawn equally in every direction. But it's a nice feeling.

The studio is about 4 miles south of Charlevoix on Marion Center Road. It's open even in the winter, Russ smiles, if you call ahead and see how the roads are.

The Bolts well illustrate Sue's own answer to the question on how to learn to enjoy art. "What is neat," she says, hauling out some more clear plastic, "What is neat about this area is you have artists who are working here. You can go in and ask them questions. It's not like going to a museum where only the pictures are there."

The Bolts will answer your questions. Lori contributes on the subject: "The more you look at (art), the more open-minded you become."

And Sue adds, "I don't think people should worship art. I think they should let it enrich them... Art gives another way of looking at things."

Sue and Russ Bolt have been looking at things in these ways from a variety of stand points. They met in Detroit and lived there 21 years. Sue worked for the Free Press as illustrator, for J. L. Hudson, and for Hallmark. She taught at Wayne State and the Detroit Institute of Arts, and has had many one-woman shows. She and Russ have also shared a two-person show.

Russ designed automobiles for General Motors during their Detroit days, doing his quick, meticulous water-colors on the side. There is a display of them now at the East Jordan Inn. He is known in the area also for his willingness to help others learn water color, teaching in the East Jordan Community Education Program.

Do they ever wonder if their work is any good? Sue laughs about... "days when I throw things away and Russ gets them out of the trash again - and vice versa."

Artists are people. It's just that, according to Sue, "Somewhere along the line people lose their childlike expressiveness. Their freedom."

They're making film strips showing how to do prints, how to paint. These will be made available to school systems. It appears artists can be busy people.

"It's the way of life," Sue concludes, "to be open to creative experiences." She means it for everyone.

Marion MacKay

Local artist not one for labels

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

"Even what they term abstract is real to me," says Marion MacKay, the artist talking about art. "I'm not one for labels."

Possibly she started out with realism, she says. "Everything is based on realism. When I do a figure, I do the bones . . . pretty soon when I do the bones, I do them in one line. And they're there!"

Paintings are a concentrated expression of the courage to be. On the walls of her log home are some of Marion's big oils. They are confident, bold. You look at the slight woman with the gentle voice and say to yourself, "She is the artist?"

Sometimes she does smaller things, working easily in pastels and mixed media. Flowers, she does, and portraits, animals, clowns.

"Generally when I'm down in the dumps, I do clowns."

She will paint something over and over - the branch of an apple tree, seen out the window. Each time in a different way.

Marion and her "blue-nose Nova Scotia" husband Basil have brought new life to this ancient log farm house and its apple trees, located off Route 32, nearly nine miles south of East Jordan.

Before that they lived in Detroit where their two children grew up. Her artist daughter-in-law, Cheryl MacKay, painter and potter, just recently moved to East Jordan.

Marion's first art studies were in Toronto - Marion was born in Canada. After the children grew up, she went to Arts and Crafts in Detroit. The school is known now as the School for Creative Studies.

Even as a student she fought off imitation, encouraged in this by the school's Sam Pucci.

Eventually she became secure in her own approach. This was followed by one-woman shows in Gault Gallery in Birmingham, Diamond Art Gallery in Flint, and others. She has a show going on now at Art Rendezvous in Petoskey.

Some of her larger work is on display.

"I'm an action painter," she laughs. "Slap the color on. Walk back and see it." Still she also will work on almost minutely small pieces of jewelry.

"But no lithography. No etching." She likes the directness of warm metal to fingers, of color to canvas.

Black and white? Yes, valuable for understanding. "I think you reach a point of saturation sometimes and go back to black and white - and come out stronger than ever."

Is art for everyone? "Should be," she says. "I don't know if it ever will be. But look at the pleasure it can bring. Do people get pleasure from a pet dog? From a piece of furniture? Art brings its pleasure." Then she reminds you, "What's life without pleasure?"

For a moment she glances back over the years. "And a sense of humor when you don't have the pleasure." She laughs, herself.

And the black ink goat, deftly scrawled in an open notebook - no question - laughs too.

Marion MacKay standing before one of her oil paintings, calls herself an "action painter."

Charlevoixan Clarence Way finds art intriguing, pleasing

Tonight I'm a tired, weary sculptor I've been at my counter all day Toiling in true sculptor fashion On pieces for rich display Full many a home we've embellished Full many a host we've made glad In addition to gain monetary Just think of the fun that I've had.

Clarence S. Way

"You don't have to be crazy to be an artist, but it helps," said the 80-year old man from behind his gray beard and stripped caboose cap.

Clarence Simeon Way still works 40-hours, five days a week at his counter in the back of Norman and Judith Brumm's Studio in Norwood with a torch in one hand and tweezers in the other holding his piece of work to be soldered.

Clarence describes himself as an "interpretive artist. I don't design a piece of art but create it from other's ideas," he said.

The copper-glass enamel birds, flowers and leaves are put together by Clarence's worn hands. He has learned from his 12 years of experience with welding that his hands take a lot of misuse. "They get burned from me touching the metal before it cools off."

Clarence said he finds it intriguing and rewarding to help make pieces of art which people will buy and soon have on display in their living room at home.

"Art is the highest or best part of an artist that is put into action. It is your physical and mental best pulled together to create something. Art is all the finer things in life," he said.

Clarence was born in Kalkaska and lived in Detroit 18 years before buying a dairy farm in Charlevoix which he ran for 34 years. After retiring from the dairy business, Clarence found he had more time for the things in life he enjoys - writing poetry and creating things with his hands.

He has a book of his poems published titled, "Rhyme, Rhythm 'n' Reason." Clarence said that through his art and poetry writing he has found a new way of expressing himself.

"I know I'm getting old and tired but I still have what it takes to do the things I like. I have good eyes, which is more than a lot of 80-year old men can say and I still have delicate fingers which is what it takes to handle the small art objects I work on."

There's no better way, I've been thinking.

For an old man to finish his days Then to toil for the gladning of others As they wend down life's glamorous ways

Just let me keep faithfully at it: My talent and gift to expend For this makes me feel kinds needed So thus I would be 'til the end.

Clarence S. Way

Staffel Pottery

Well established, internationally known

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Outside, the yellow yarrow is in bloom. It looks well established, as do the old farm buildings covered with gray shingles.

Inside are the shop and studio of Staffel Pottery. Also well-established.

Bill and Bonnie Staffel came up here from Maumee, Ohio 12 years ago to make a studio out of this farm 7 miles south of Charlevoix on Route 31.

Bill, a commercial artist, does some of the designs. He also has turned his versatility to rehabilitating the buildings, and creating tools and machinery for the pottery - like the slab roller.

Clay is stalwart. When you have to flatten lots of clay - well, Bill made a slab roller with turning handles as big as a ship's wheel - and as finely crafted.

Bill has also been busy with things like the logo for Crooked Tree Arts Council and a directory of North-western Michigan artists.

Bill and Bonnie met at commercial art school in Chicago in 1945. Ask Bonnie what is the biggest ingredient to success in pottery-making and she says "Marry somebody like Bill."

But most of the pottery itself comes from Bonnie's mind and heart. Even though they need apprentice help to keep up with the demand, Bonnie, with some contributing from Bill, does the designing.

Her move from commercial art came as a result of an adult education course in ceramics. "Got hooked," she smiles. She went on to study at Cranbrook on a scholarship.

Potters' wheels, dusty as they may look, are expensive. Bonnie's first potter's wheel had to be what Bill could put together. He came up with something made from an Edison phonograph. On it Bonnie made enough coffee cups to buy a professional wheel.

It's been like that. Scrounge, work, and turn out treasures. It took awhile, but now the path to their door is well beaten.

How far away is Staffel work known? A Staffel bird feeder was accepted for a Japan International Pottery Show. Some work is owned by museums. This goes into becoming established.

Pottery wind chimes clink in the breezeway. A host of flower pots, plates, jars, colanders, casseroles, ovenware suitable for micro-wave cooking stand everywhere in the shop, their colors - golden brown, soft blue, or blue-into-greens.

Bonnie used to make animals and birds until the demand for pottery tableware took over. "But now I will be trying more animals." She loves to do them, loves the country, loves natural things. "Nothing fakey," she says firmly.

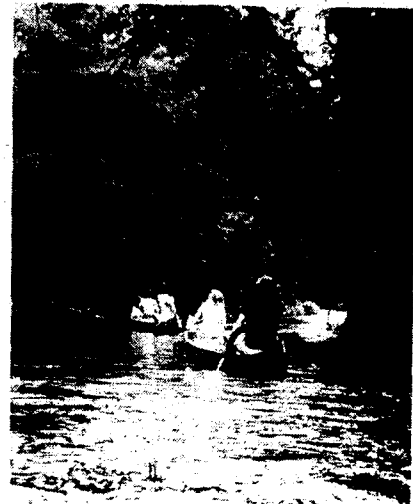

Near the laundry tubs, filled with Staffel glazes, back in the work rooms, hangs a blackboard. On it, copied from a Detroit Free Press article, is written, "Love that is not expressed . . . does not really exist, just as talent that does not express itself in creative works does not exist." It concludes that these two are either activity - or myth.

Along the walls, bags of wet clay season as they wait for activity. The Staffel talents aren't myth, though after 12 years here they are getting close to legendary.

In the backroom-studio of Staffel's Pottery in Charlevoix, owner Bonnie Staffel does many of the pot designs and glazing.

Members of Artists North studios open to public

Several of the Artists North group of creative visual artists open their studios and workshops to visitors on a daily basis. They portray a vast scope of media for personal expression, but all hold a major goal for excellence. Each artist has personal motivations which are expressed through their creative works.

The following are passages from the "Artists North" collector's guide book of past and present artists from Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. There are many other artists who open their studios to visitors on appointment or a daily basis. For a more complete listing of the area artists, see the "Artists North" book, part two for short write-ups of local artists.

JERRY AND LINDA BEERS AYDLOTT

Nestled in the Jordan Valley, the AydloTT homestead radiates a harmony and joy one can feel. Linda's exquisite jewelry is airy, intricately delicate, almost ethereal looking. Her etchings and one-of-a-kind pieces, often punctuated with semi-precious stones, express her deep spiritual feeling of peace and love for the earth and its inhabitants.

Jerry does metal work. He makes elegant boxes and inlaid belt buckles, mostly in copper and bronze; fine cutlery from recycled saw blades; wood burning stoves; and solar collectors. You'll find their studio by traveling five miles south of East Jordan on M-66, to Webster Road to stop sign, then right to first house. Phone 636-2704.

MIKE FULKERSON

Hidden in the heart of Boyne City is a dwelling that holds much more than the obvious. Mike is a weaver extraordinaire.

Mike's strong belief in the old adage, "Practice Makes Perfect," is illustrated in his experimentation with new techniques. He is constantly trying new designs, fibers and colors.

You will be greeted with warmth and smiles at the Fulkerson home-studio located at 608 Douglas in Boyne City. Please phone for your appointment, 582-6135.

SWEET MARCIE BROWN

There is no doubt that the magnificent beauty of Northern Michigan is the source of inspiration for Marcie's work.

Marcie defines art as "that creative work which truly captures the essence of its subject and evokes a response from the viewer."

She does not do production work, each of Marcie's designs are intended to personally enhance and blend with the collector's environment.

Marcie dyes her own yarn and always tries to include natural yarns, she said. Her works use the nuances of earthy seasons, be it wall hangings, lamp shades, plant hangings or other innovative creations for which Marcie is so well known.

Marcie and her husband are moving to Mexico soon. They are holding an open house moving sale to sell her work and other fine art pieces. Aug. 3 and 10, her doors will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Aug. 4 and 11 her sale hours are 8 a.m. to noon. Marcie's studio-home is located on the southwest corner of East Lincoln at 401 Alice Street, two blocks east of U.S. 31 in Charlevoix, 547-6119.

JIM KUHN

When the enterprising young man named Jim Kuhn wants or needs something in his life, he goes about acquiring it the hard way.

Midstream in his engineering career, Jim embarked on a house-building project. As the structure evolved, it seemed to require leaded glass windows to blend with the tudor style of architecture.

That was nine years ago. Now, finer craftsmanship can not be found anywhere. Jim makes attractive planters, special windows, mirrors and lamp shades.

His studio is located just west of Boyne City on Pleasant Valley Road.

The beauty of Northern Michigan is in Sweet Marcie Brown's macrame pieces. She uses natural yarns dyed by herself, stones, beads and driftwood to create a personalized macrame creation.

Crooked Tree brings art to public

The most important of the multitude of interests of The Crooked Tree Arts Council, says past-president Suzi Reis, is to bring cultural events to children in the area schools. Living far from the cities' daily fare of fine arts, children here must have art brought to them.

"Every year we try to bring in a dance troupe, an orchestra, a play..." She names Prince Street Players who come once a year to one of the communities, and describes also how the children can be "shoulder-to-shoulder" with perhaps a famous pianist. They aren't limited to seeing a performance far up on a stage, she says.

It's expensive, even with grants. School bussing from one town to another for an event can cost $500. Opera is as costly as it is magnificent. "But children now know what an opera is." She emphasizes "know."

And they do know. Unlike many of their elders, they will come, knowing the whole story that is to be sung. "Maybe they won't like it, but they get a chance to make a choice." That's not a small matter in education.

The Council stresses the arts as another dimension to life. As Suzi puts it, something besides the important but wearing world of doing everyday things.

Without the Council, in its association with The Michigan State Council of Arts, there would be next to no opportunity for the children to see and hear artists from outside the area. Such things as ballet troupes can hardly be supported away from population centers.

We are fortunate, say Council members - often - that our area has attracted as many individual artists as it has.

The Council itself is not made up of people who are necessarily artists, or even people who can tell Beethoven from Michelangelo. It is people who want to make it possible for everyone in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, and everyone near enough to come, to enjoy the arts, be they dance, drama, painting, sculpture, or music.

Many are members simply through the contribution of their membership fee. Many get fascinated into doing more.

The Council is close to 8 years old now, and for a crooked tree - and one so young at that - it is bearing fruits innumerable.

Suzi Reis has been chairwoman for the past few years. The fair is sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and Suzi is convinced it will draw a larger crowd than ever this year.

Some of the top artists of the United States will be showing in every media of fine art. One whole family will be exhibiting their work.

Suzi mentions soft sculpture entrees, particularly. "I think they will be great fun," she says.

Two artists will be doing pastel portraits, and a young man will be making dulcimers.

One block over on Clinton Street The Episcopal Church members will be putting on their luncheon, as they have for other fairs. It is their fund-raising event.

And the busy Fair Committee? Look for Mrs. Tom Pointner, Mrs. Ed McNamera, Mrs. Peter Pace, Mrs. Vincent Chew, Mrs. Barbara Bump, Mrs. Jeff Porter, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. Julius Gilbert, Mrs. Jack Rader, Mrs. Joe Hayes, and Mrs. Tom Merta.

Petoskey's Arts and Crafts Fair this year will be at their Pennsylvania Park where the cannon is. Russ Seymore, who is shouldering the affair for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, says they will be accepting entries 'till the end of July, but haven't much more room. Artists from all over are coming, and there is increased interest in variety of media, both on the part of artists and the public.

Colorful as these fairs are, they have advantages on the serious side, not only for a possible investment in an original work of art, but also for a very contemporary art experience - a chance to broaden one's tastes in art, say the artists, and a chance to talk to the artists about their work.

Northwood Symphonette

Orchestra concerts coming

In cooperation with the Crooked Tree Arts Council, and under the direction of Don Th. Jaeger, the Northwood Symphonette will present four concerts of "Midsummer Night's Music" on Aug. 4, 11, 17 and 18 in Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, and Petoskey.

The Northwood Symphonette is a new professional 36-chamber orchestra featuring instrumentalists from throughout the United States and Europe.

The Symphonette will premier in the area on Aug. 4 at 9:30 p.m. at the Historic Holy Childhood Church, 150 W. Main, Harbor Springs. The concert will feature soloist lyric soprano Paulina Stark.

Aug. 11 at 9:30 p.m. the Symphonette will perform at St. Frances Xavier Church, 415 State St., Petoskey. The guest soloists will be Jacqueline Hofto, 1966 world champion accordionist; and Ulrich von Stemm, on horn.

Friday, Aug. 17, the Symphonette will perform at the Community Reformed Church, Petoskey Avenue, in Charlevoix at 8:30 p.m. The same concert series will be played at the St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey on Saturday, Aug. 18 at 9:30 p.m. This series will highlight soloists William Preucil, on violin, and Dennis Horton, on trumpet.

Tickets for all concerts are $4 and may be purchased by mail from Northwood Institute, Midland, Mich. 48640 and at the Petoskey, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs Chambers of Commerce. Tickets will also be available at the door the night of the concerts.

Pottery at the Blisswood Art Summer Program is put out to dry in the sun before it is glazed.

Blisswood Program for college credits

If your taste in art leans toward the bizarre and less traditional, the Blisswood Summer Art Program could lend the escape you've been looking for.

Blisswood is an Albion College summer program offering full-time studio courses in painting, sculpture, fibers and ceramics. Students seeking an opportunity for intense, personal involvement in art may take the program for credit. You do not have to be an Albion College Student to take the class. Guest students are welcome and credits can transfer easily.

The program is also a learning experience in community interaction and experimentation. Students are responsible for their housing and food arrangements. Some rental housing and public camping facilities at a nearby campground are available.

Elissa Olenych, drawing and painting instructor, said the program is set up to allow students an escape from the traditional liberal art classes offered in college.

"We stress involvement and experimentation with art rather than a certain stability or quality. We have come here to experiment and brought our own audience with us - ourselves."

Students are graded on their involvement and progression of ideas. Creative work, even if unsellable, is stressed.

Facilities include a complete workshop, ceramics studio, forge, welding area, indoor studios and seven acres of outdoor work space.

The total cost of the program, $354, includes a registration fee of $15, tuition of $300 per session, a $9 lab fee and $9 for insurance per month.

To reserve your spot in next year's summer classes contact: The Department of Visual Arts, Albion College, Albion, Mi. 49224.

The village of Harbor Springs sits upon the harbor formed by Harbor Point, a peninsula one mile in length. The small bay gave the place its Indian name, We-Que-Ton-Sing. Several writers and poets have tried to recapture the beauty of the picturesque village through art and writing, in an effort to explain the scenic landscape. Needless to say, their efforts were in vain.

According to Ottawa Indian traditions, the Mush-quah-tas, a western Indian tribe, were the first inhabitants of the Little Traverse area. Ottawa and Chippewa Indians were also numerous at the time, and for many years the area was home for these groups.

The first Indian school was founded in 1827 by Father Pierre Dejean, the first resident priest. The first one was a log-structure, and 12 or 15 years later the present church was constructed.

Today, the authentic and legendary history of the area still endures. Research Courtesy of Dante Melotti Jr.
