Big sign denied for new Glen's

EAST JORDAN-Fearing that a precedent could be set, the city council denied a zoning variance requested by Glen's Market for a sign at their new store on M-66.

Councilman Ken Hagen expressed his appreciation for the work done by the planning and zoning committee who had recommended that the variance be approved—but said that the variance would allow a potential eyesore.

Councilwoman Pat Sweet agreed with Hagen, saying "I'd hate to set a precedent" and mentioned problems other towns have with big store signs.

"Gaylord is starting to look like (Detroit's) Gratiot Ave.," Sweet cautioned. "We have to take a stand somewhere, look into it real cautiously."

The council denied the request but left the door open for Glen's to come before planning and zoning with a different sign proposal for another variance request.

The zoning ordinance allows a 32 square foot sign. Hagen said "My feeling is that 32 square feet would be sufficient. It would be short-sighted of us to approve a sign of this size."

Councilman Gil Fox agreed with Hagen and Sweet, citing the number of signs around the Glen's store in Mancelona.

Two other matters recommended by the planning and zoning committee were approved. One was for a special use permit for a bookkeeping service to be operated in a home at 208 Esterly. The other was for a special use permit to allow A to Z Maintenance Unlimited to operate an office for their business from a home at 218 Echo St. No equipment or supplies can be stored on the property.

The council also made a motion, to grant a side yard variance to George Gregory for a lot on Christensen's Ridge, contingent to receipt of written permission from property owners of adjacent land.

City Superintendent Herm Rasch reported to the council that the Department of Natural Resources had sent the city a letter telling them to close the city landfill.

This has happened before, according to Rasch, and he advised the council to be prepared to take a position on the matter at the next council meeting.

Hagen requested that stop signs be erected at the intersection of Josephine and Mary Streets, stopping traffic on Josephine. It was moved to turn the matter over to the police department, giving them the power to act.

A resident of Christensen's Ridge asked the council what influence they had with the Lake Charlevoix Cable TV company, explaining that he had some misunderstanding about when, if ever, the company was going to extend service to the Christensen's Ridge area.

Rasch told the man that the city had granted a franchise to the company to supply East Jordan with Cable TV service.

Part of the agreement, Rasch explained, was that whenever 10 prospective customers indicated in writing an interest in the service, the company had to provide it if the cable needed to reach them wasn't farther than 1,000-odd feet from the existing service.

If fifty people were interested, Rasch explained, then the company had to go up to a mile if necessary from existing service to reach them.

No candidates yet for 2nd ward seat

EAST JORDAN-Still no candidates have indicated that they will be seeking a write-in victory for the remaining year of Lorraine Gagnon's unexpired second ward city council seat.

Five of the six city council seats are up for election Nov. 6 as is the position of mayor. Only councilman Bud Kenny is in the middle of a term.

Incumbent mayor Jim Meredith will be opposed by Fred Vincent for the one year position while the following will be seeking two year council terms.

Gil Fox, running for the unopposed in the first ward; Jerry Anderson and Al Joseph running for the second ward seat currently held by Frank Campbell and Pat Sweet and Jerry Vrondran running for a third ward seat held by Sweet.

In the third ward, Rev. Ken Hagen and Hazel Colburn have both indicated that they will be seeking a write-in victory for the seat vacated by Harry Watson earlier this fall.

She can pick the right food for you

BY JON DENISON

EAST JORDAN - You've been asked out to dinner but when you get to the restaurant you realize that because of your recently diagnosed medical problem you're not sure what you're allowed to eat.

That's a typical problem that Diane Moore, a registered dietician with District Health Department No. 3, could help you with.

Moore works on Thursdays at the East Jordan Family Health Center helping patients with nutrition information.

She takes referrals from the health center doctor, and physician's assistant and works out an individual diet for each patient she sees.

People at work

A Detroit native, Moore received her dietetic training at Michigan State University and has been working as a dietician for about two years.

"It's challenging and sometimes frustrating work," Moore described her job. "You always wish you could do more."

She sees a number of different diet problems during her time at the East Jordan center and in her work as a nutritionist with the health department's four-county diabetes program.

"They're all medical problem diets," Moore explained. "The doctor or physician's assistant would give me written specifications on a diet and then I'd instruct the patient accordingly, based on his diet history and individual lifestyle."

Low sodium diets, diets for diabetics, weight control diets, low fat diets and low cholesterol diets are just a few of the kinds of diets that Moore gives consulting on.

"It's not just giving everyone the same diet," she said. "I take income, age, ethnic background, whether you eat out a lot into consideration."

Diane Moore

"A lot of poor nutrition is lack of education," Moore commented. "Many people don't know about the four basic food groups."

She said that nutrition education in the public schools is up to individual school systems.

"The dairy council prepares a lot of material for schools," she said. "They have good resources."

"More and more agencies are doing nutrition research as there's more stress put on good nutrition," Moore continued. "It's a rapidly changing field."

"If the doctor feels a patient could benefit from Moore's diet assistance, a fee of $5 is charged for a 20-30 minute consultation. Moore can't see patients without the referral from the doctor or his assistant."

Health Center drive gets $6,000

EAST JORDAN - Initial donations of $3,000 each from the East Jordan Iron Works and Northwestern State Bank have put a new building fund drive for the Family Health Center off to a good start.

The drive to finish the basement of the center now has a $22,000 goal, to go with $24,000 already on hand. Part of this amount was donated in the original health center fund drive and the rest has been donated since that drive.

When completed, the basement will provide space for screening clinics for District Health Department #3, for mental health offices currently housed upstairs and for some administrative offices currently upstairs.

The space freed upstairs by the relocation of the mental health and administrative offices will be used when the center adds a second doctor next year.

The construction project will be funded by donated local funds. No federal monies will be used.

East Jordan students to look at careers

EAST JORDAN - Approximately 75 students from grades seven through 12 will be better prepared to answer the question "What do you want to be when you grow up?" after attending a career education night Monday.

The program is being sponsored by the East Jordan Rotary Club at the high school from 7 to 9 p.m. and will feature representatives of 14 occupations.

Students have a chance to attend three different segments at the career night and can choose from the following fields:

Architecture, artist education, audio electronics, banking and finance, dentistry, electrical contracting, engineering, heavy equipment, law, law enforcement, manufacturing, and tool and die office management, real estate and telephone service.

Rev. Dan Minor, chairman of the Rotary Club's vocational service committee, explained that the career night is a project the club has wanted to sponsor for a long time.

"The purpose is to educate young people about some of the vocations in the community," Minor said.

Minor said that the career night would begin with a general orientation meeting in the high school auditorium from 7 to 7:15 p.m. Three 20 minute segments will then follow.

He emphasized that even if prospective participants haven't pre-registered, they can still take part.

"We hope this will become an annual affair," Minor said. "And we hope it will become bigger and better."

But who would be his boss?

County board considers hiring detective

BY DIANNE MURRAY

Whether he is called a detective or an investigator -- and whether he would work for the sheriff or the prosecutor -- county law enforcement officials are pushing for their own "Dick Tracy."

Coincidentally, both Sheriff George Lasater and Prosecutor Scott Beatty are asking the County Board of Commissioners for similar positions.

Lasater is asking for a "sheriff's detective." Beatty wants "prosecutor's investigator."

Now it is up to the county commissioners to decide whether either position is necessary -- and if so, which office it would be assigned to.

Ira Davis of Bay Township, chairman of the sheriff's committee of the county board said it would be "impossible to hire both positions." The county just doesn't have that kind of money, he said.

The sheriff's committee approved Lasater's budget which included the sheriff detective's position. Davis would not comment on the position of prosecuting investigator because he had not seen Beatty's budget. He expects to receive the prosecutor's budget on Friday or Monday.

Even if the sheriff's committee approves both budgets, it is up to the county board to decide which position it will implement.

The county budget hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 31 in the Courthouse Annex in Charlevoix.

The salary and job description of both the prosecutor's investigator and the sheriff's detective are similar.

Beatty said a prosecutor investigator working out of his office would have a salary "between $11,611 to $13,013."

Under his jurisdiction, an investigator would have "better coordination county-wide with no allegiance to any one police department," he said.

The investigator would assist in handling victim assistance cases assigned by the prosecutor. Beatty said a detective is needed to handle follow-up work involving victims of crimes, such as investigating recovering stolen property or child abuse cases and assist in Friend of the Court investigations.

"A prosecuting investigator would also be in a position to handle complaints about police officers. In the past there has been no impartial agency to handle these complaints," Beatty added.

When Sheriff George Lasater took office three years ago there was a position of sheriff detective. Detective Wally Brown was hired as county detective under the Regional Detective Program.

Lasater fired Brown shortly after taking office and since then the job has been vacant.

Lasater said Brown was "recommended to be relieved of his responsibilities but (Lasater) did not recommend that the job position be eliminated."

The sheriff has asked to have the detective position reinstated, but in past years, the county board has not provided funds.

Lasater said he is presently functioning with one and three-fourths less staff positions than previous sheriff Philo Sumner did, despite the fact that he is handling more complaints than Sumner.

Sumner handled 965 complaints in 1976, on the other hand, January through July of this year, Lasater has handled 1,525 complaints. "We've handled double the amount of complaints, and we're functioning with less people," he commented.

The salary for sheriff detective would be $13,750, which is approximately the top pay for a deputy sheriff. A detective, Lasater said, would be able to take some of the pressure off his deputy sheriffs and allow them to devote more time to patrolling.

"I've had to take them (deputy sheriffs) off the road to do some investigating and that means less manpower for protection," Lasater said.

A detective, he said, would spend "100 percent of his time doing investigations."

The main thrust of a sheriff detective's investigation would involve recovery of stolen property, Lasater said.

So far this year the sheriff's department has recovered $22,000 worth of stolen property and "hopefully with this detective we'd be able to double that," he said.

A detective would assist Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix city police departments and coordinate county drug investigations and child abuse investigations.

Boyne City Chief of Police John Talboys believes that "regardless of which position is hired (the Boyne City police department) will get assistance."

He said there's plenty of work for both positions although he has "no preference" as to which should be hired.

"We don't have enough policemen to do all our work. Only the most important work gets done," he said.

Lasater said he "hasn't gone far enough to have someone picked out for the position," because his budget first has to have approval by the county board of commissioners.

We're glad you asked!

If you're ever in doubt about whether or not to visit a friend or relative whom you know to be terminally ill, then MAKE THE VISIT! It will benefit both of you.

Cheap gas

Mel Howard's service station on South Lake Street changed from selling Sunoco to Marathon gasoline recently. As a result Howard said he can sell gas for two cents cheaper and he feels "more secure" about his gasoline allocation this winter.

In May, 1975, Howard and other northern Michigan Sunoco station owners were told by Sunoco officials to look for another gasoline supplier.

As a result, Howard is able to sell his regular gas for $1 a gallon, no lead for $1.06 a gallon, and premium for $1.08 a gallon. Howard added that he believes the gasoline "supply from Marathon will be a lot more secure than it was from Sunoco."

Howard had sold Sunoco gasoline for 26 years.

Ski sales

CHARLEVOIX - Silent Sports North will celebrate its grand opening at the Market Mall Saturday, with refreshments, special ski package sales, and door prizes.

Nellie Hiehle, co-founder of the store, along with Tom Short of Flint, will be on hand for the grand opening. She wants to sell skis, but she says she's even more interested in promoting a winter sport in which she strongly believes.

"It's even good for your mental health," she says. "This is a family sport. It doesn't have to be competitive. "Everyone can ski at his or her own pace."

To bring that message home, Nellie will conduct a series of three sessions on cross country skiing for Adult Education classes at Charlevoix High School, beginning Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

Completion near

Work is nearing completion on the new Glen's Market store on M-66 in East Jordan. Target date for the opening of the store is the end of this month. Approximately four days will elapse between the closing of Glen's current store and the new facility for moving merchandise. More non-food items will be sold in the new store, a Glen's representative reported.

New home

Vallance T.V. of East Jordan is going to have a new home sometime after the first of the year. The store, currently at 120 E. Main, will move into a new building under construction on Water Street. Guy Vallance reports that the new building, which will be 40 ft. by 50 ft., will house the T.V. store and a beauty shop operated by his wife Charlotte.

Jordan Carpet, which shares the building on Main Street with Vallance T.V., will expand and use the whole building when Vallance T.V. moves.

Campground director

Stewart Boal, owner of the Windmill Farm Campground, on Boyne City Road at Burgess Road, in Hayes Township, has been elected to the 1979-80 Board of Directors of the Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds.

Boal, a retired manufacturer, has been in the campground business for eight years.

Law firm hired to fight nuclear plant

CHARLEVOIX - Twenty-four people living near the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant have hired a Washington, D.C., law firm to represent them in hearings to determine if the capacity of Big Rock's spent fuel storage pools should be increased.

Earlier this month the residents, calling themselves the Concerned Citizens for Charlevoix Area, filed a petition which was accepted by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission which allows the group to intervene.

The petitioners contend that expansion of the spent fuel storage area represents a "direct threat to our personal health, the health of our children and to our property." The NRC also accepted two other petitions. One was filed by John O'Neill of Burdickville and the other was filed by John Leutheuser of Levering.

The date and site for the hearings between those filing the petition and Consumers Power have not yet been determined.

The law firm of Cheldon, Harmon, Woisman and Weiss has been hired by the Charlevoix residents. These lawyers won a similar case to this at the Vermont Yankee Nuclear power plant.

Consumers Power, which owns Big Rock, has asked the NRC for permission to increase its spent fuel storage capacity from 193 fuel rods to 441. The increase is necessary if the plant is to be kept in operation, Consumers Power officials say.

The plant, which was closed in February for refueling and repairs was originally expected to be back in operation Oct. 15. Consumer official Jimmy King, said the plant will not be opened until the first of November because repairs on the plant are taking longer than expected.

Year of Child fair

BOYNE CITY - A movie produced especially for the International Year of the Child and booths staffed by several area organizations will highlight the International Year of the Child fair this Saturday at the Boyne City City Hall auditorium.

The fair, planned to run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., is being organized by the Center of Light - Universal Center of Awareness to provide area youth-related groups a format to present information about themselves to the community.

Some of the organizations to be at the fair are the Boyne City Girl Scouts, the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, the Boyne City Library, the Petoskey Montessori Children's House, the Touchhaven Project from Gaylord, the Charlevoix-Emmet youth activities program and a booth with catalogs to order Unicef greeting and Christmas cards.

The movie to be shown is "Step by Step" and will be shown at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. It chronicles the role of the child through history.

At 3 p.m. a donation will be made to the Cross Village Youth Center of the fees charged to the organizations manning booths at the fair.

East Jordan royalty

Steve Drenth, son of Ed and Margie Drenth, and Jackie Brzozowy, daughter of Ed and Mary Brzozowy, were chosen as king and queen of East Jordan's homecoming activities. The senior class won first place in the float competition for their "Close Encounters of the Devils Kind".

Float

The Boyne City Junior class won first place for its "Carnival on parade" float. The homecoming parade including the floats, the homecoming court and the high school band marched through the city streets Saturday. The sophomores took second place with their mixing bowl "Saint whipper" float. Freshmen placed third with their float of "Snoopy and Woodstock," and the seniors pulled in fourth place with their "Still" float.

BC teacher receives fitness award

Should schools teach sex education?

A 10-member advisory committee last week recommended that reproductive health -- including sex education -- be taught at all grade levels in the Boyne City Public Schools.

Most other school districts in the area, including Boyne Falls and East Jordan, are also studying the issue.

Also studying the issue are committees in Boyne Falls and East Jordan, although no recommendations have yet been made in these communities.

The Boyne City advisory committee made its recommendation on a 9-1 vote. Both the majority and the minority presented written summaries of their arguments to the school board.

The committee noted that it had the benefit of very little public input, even though input was sought.

In the interest of informing the public of the arguments for and against sex education, The Press is reprinting the "pro" and "con" viewpoints written by the committee. [The majority opinion is presented in its entirety. The dissenting opinion by Rev. John Beard of the First Baptist Church has been shortened for space reasons.]

It's not too late to make your views on the subject known. The East Jordan and Boyne Falls committees are still discussing the matter. And in Boyne City, the issue must be reviewed by another committee and approved by the school board.

A professional study committee, which includes board members, administrators and teachers, will make specific recommendations about how reproductive health and sex education should be worked into the curriculum.

Here are two arguments to the question of whether reproductive health and sex education should be taught in the schools:

YES...

In February of 1979 the Boyne City Board of Education appointed a special advisory board to make a recommendation as to whether reproductive health, family planning, and venereal disease should be taught in our public school system. The following is the advisory board's majority (9 positive; 1 negative) recommendation:

The areas of reproductive health, family planning, and venereal disease should be taught only within the context of a broader program on human sexuality.

Education in these three areas is only a small part of sex education. To teach them apart from a total program on human sexuality would run the risk of reducing a sex education program to a simple imparting of information on genital sex. To do this would be a grave injustice to our children and to the community. Our recommendation is that abortion should not be taught at this time.

Since genital sex is only a small part of sex education, greater attention must be focused on interpersonal relationships, body integrity, personal growth, psychological change, individual sexual identity, family roles, personal responsibility, and morality. In other words, the total person must be focused upon.

This special advisory board has learned that very little formal attention has been given to human sexuality in the Boyne City Public School system. Apparently, the only course that deals with human sexuality is the Human Growth and Development course taught in the high school; a relatively small number of students have participated in this course. The majority of these students are girls.

A poll among the teachers at all grade levels shows that there is an overwhelming majority of teachers who see a serious need for a complete sex education program. A poll taken of the public was unsuccessful; that is, only a very small number of citizens responded to an invitation to voice their opinion. We cannot determine the mind of the public from this minimal response.

This advisory board is grateful to you for taking your responsibilities seriously by appointing us to study this important question. It is our hope that our recommendation will be of service to you in your efforts to come to the right decision.

The advisory board: Thelma Behling, chairperson; Rev. Dennis Stilwell, Dr. Jack Karkosak, Barbara Martin, Rick Casper, Carol Lauterbach, Janice Kimbler, Eleanor West and Tom Plulster.

NO...

I have been asked to give an answer to the question: "Should sex education be taught in the Boyne City public school system?" My answer to that question and any question related to it is: "No. I do not believe it should be taught in Boyne City public school system or any other public school system."

My reasons are based upon convictions from the Bible and what God says about this subject. Already we have seen prayer, Bible reading, and moral standards taken out of our schools because they have rejected God. When you look back in American history, you will find that our education system was founded upon the Bible first and other material second. Today we have the results of a society of rebellion, disrespect and lack of any authority.

By allowing sex education to be taught you are opening doors that can and will destroy the home, parents' relationships with students and the students' future.

It is the parents' responsibility regardless how good or bad they may be.

The children still belong to their parents and not to the state or government.

God has given the responsibility to build a relationship between parents and children.

We need education for parents so they can pass information on to their children would be more scriptural and proper according to the Bible.

The parents who do not have full understanding would better benefit from this. The parents would be able to decide what they want their children to know. They would be able to pass their morals on to the children without having to question anyone else's teaching.

We must stop having the public schools taking tax dollars and using them for something that is none of their business. Here is truly another step toward socialism in America.

You claim that you want to keep church and state separated in our school system. I agree 100 percent.

You are already teaching that life did not come from God with evolution. How are you going to teach the facts of life without giving God the glory and credit. We disagree. Where did life come from? God.

There is no way you can truly have part of all sex education in public schools without destroying good morals and standards that are found in the Bible.

There is enough sex in the local theatre, on the TV screen, and other places already without being in our school system.

Every other subject that is taught we expect the students to practice before they get out of school. If we are saying to ourselves that they won't be more promiscuous we are kidding ourselves and those we are trying to convince.

You say we have to have sex education in our schools because of the law. How about getting laws to stop drug usage in the schools? If you cannot stop them in this simple matter how are you going to prevent them from having sex on the school grounds after they get "turned on" in class? I believe you are asking for trouble.

Even if students are permitted to withdraw from (sex education) class; the materials, language and peer pressures are still there.

What kind of standards can we expect in our school systems in the years to come? Morals are still important today as they were 100 years ago.

Doing your own thing is not always right.

It is very important how and who uses the most sacred relationship God has given to man and woman. It was one of the first commands God gave man and woman, to have children as He commanded.

Sex rightly used is not sinful or wrong: Hebrews 13:4 - "marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled; but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge."

But sex, wrongly used is sinful: God's word is plain that sexual relations before marriage (called fornication in the Bible), and adultery are sinful and wrong and tells us why. I Corinthians 6:18 - "Flee fornication".

Matthew 5:27 - "Thou shalt not commit adultery".

Nature's way to show what is wrong and the results of disobedience is venereal disease.

All through the Bible we find standards, rules, guidelines and regulations for sex. Never do we find it outside of marriage or is it to be taught outside of the home.

You can tell a town by the shoes it sells

I have always told myself that I wouldn't live in a town where the stores had outdated shoes. Luckily, Boyne City doesn't have obsolete shoes.

I know that must sound like an odd way to judge a town, but in the past whenever I visited small towns, I'd look in the windows of the local shoe shop. If the place has old-fashioned shoes, I figured no one under 60 must live in town.

I don't own lots of shoes. As a matter of fact I only have two pairs that I actually wear. (Not including my tennis shoes which are only worn on rare occasions.)

So, upon arriving in Boyne City one of my first tasks, even before looking for a place to live, was to check out the shoe stores.

I'm sure you'll all be ecstatic to know that Jake's Shoe Store and Kaden's Emporium have a good supply of "modern" shoes. I'm not talking about disco footwear -- just some up-to-date dressy shoes to go with everyday dress-wear.

The shoes make the town because in order for the young to survive in a healthy, fresh environment, they can't be running around wearing pointed-toe shoes from the 50's or loafers with shiny pennies stuck in the tongues.

If a town is going to be successful and survive in these hard times of gas and tourist shortages, it has to first appeal to the locals. And the locals here have good shoes, at least to the point where they could own contemporary shoes if they'd choose to do so.

There is a town in Colorado similar to Boyne City in that it is somewhat off the beaten path (highway) of tourism. At one point I thought I'd like to live there. But after touring the town and peering in the windows of the shoe stores I knew I could never call this town my home.

The shoes were covered with dust and a sign advertising three pairs for $1 was hardly visible amidst the cobweb covered high-buttoned shoes. It looked like the used-shoes section of a Salvation Army Store.

My final realization to call Boyne City home came when I saw an identical pair of shoes in a store here which I had purchased previously in East Lansing. The only difference was the shoes here sold for $6 less.

"I'm going to like Boyne City," I thought to myself.

Juvenile joins Geritol generation

It wasn't that noticeable until the cold weather hit. The old fingers now complain every time they're asked to bend. The knees scream when they first swing out of bed in the morning and the back -- well it cries all the time.

You'd think someone with all those ailments would be preparing to travel to Florida or Arizona for the winter. Anyone with that many physical discomforts must be approaching 80 and couldn't have been very nice to his body, right?

Well, the part about not being very nice to the body is true, unfortunately, the decrepit individual detailed above is not anywhere near 80 -- for he is me -- still on the sunny side of 25.

My mother was the first to notice my degenerating condition. As I hobbled through the family room after an evening of playing basketball she commented on the difficulty I was having moving. "You're crazy to play that silly game if this is what it's going to do to you," she scolded.

As usual, she was right. But I didn't stop.

Some mornings I have to descend the stairway in our house without bending one knee. Other days I'd have to ease myself into a chair by holding onto the arms of it and slowly letting my body down.

There aren't too many days that I can remember in the last five years that I was in perfect physical health, able to move freely without the reminding twinge of an aching muscle or joint.

It's not that I abuse myself out of masochistic joy. I'm just one of those people who has aged before his time.

My hair is turning gray. At first it was only a hair here or there. That didn't last too long however. Before long my friends were asking, "Is your hair turning gray?" and I'd answer, "Maybe in a few places."

My barber was the one who really sunk

the truth into me when he noted not only the rapidly graying locks but the concurrently receding hairline.

Maybe I missed out on one of the many essential vitamins that today's youth get in their morning cereal. It could be a rare, medical phenomenon destined to be featured in the American Medical Association Journal or maybe it's some higher being punishing me for the shady dealings in my past.

Who knows the cause, I've resigned myself to the fact that I'll never be chosen for a coffee commercial on TV featuring me leaping out of bed, eager to start the day right with brand X coffee.

My agent tells me though that he's been contacted by the Geritol people. It seems they're interested in expanding into the youth market.

Letters to the editor Preventing abuse

Editor, October is not only Child Protection Month, but it is also the month that a group of caring people formed the CAP (Child Abuse Prevention) Committee in East Jordan. So to mark the one year anniversary for the group we'd like to thank the volunteers who helped organize the CAP Committee.

Parents who abuse or neglect children are people who desperately want and need help. How can we help? How can we get involved?

First of all, we can help by understanding some of the things that may cause Child Abuse and Neglect, things like stress, depression, lack of knowledge about how to care for children, and parents being abused or neglected themselves as children.

Second, as we begin to understand some of these causes, we can offer help. Help can be offered in many ways.

Help can be: offering a cup of coffee and a chance to talk, offering to babysit so a parent can have time to catch up with work or just have a chance to relax.

The Social Service Department of Charlevoix County is offering just such a program of people helping people. This program is called the Parent Aid Program.

Fighting nuclear power

Editor, We need your help.

Each day new evidence concerning the dangers and costs of nuclear power comes before the public. It has now become the responsibility of informed, caring citizens to join together to protect the health and safety of ourselves and our children.

Soon after the Three Mile Island incident, a number of citizens in the Charlevoix Area formed an Energy Awareness Group. We found that the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant, located two miles north of Charlevoix, and nuclear plants across the country, have alarmingly unsatisfactory safety histories.

The Union of Concerned Scientists has named the Big Rock Nuclear Plant one of the ten most dangerous plants in this country! We also found that there is absolutely NO safe method by which radioactive nuclear waste materials can be stored.

When Consumers Power Company put a request before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to expand the storage capacity of its spent fuel storage pool at Big Rock, a new organization, The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix Area, was formed. We have petitioned the N.R.C. for the right to intervene in this request by Consumers Power.

Our petition has raised questions regarding the technical soundness of such an action, as well as questions concerning the health and safety of the general public. The N.R.C. has responded that this petition is adequate for intervention.

To pursue this legal process is, however, complex and extremely costly. We must therefore appeal to you, and all concerned persons, to stand behind us now. We need your support.

Any donations, pledges, or commitments of time will enable us to continue in our efforts to insure a safe and healthy environment for ourselves and our children.

Please send all contributions to The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix Area, P.O. Box 222, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720. The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix Area are in the process of incorporating and obtaining non-profit, tax exempt status.

Low blow from Congress

Editor, We were shocked and surprised to read of Rep. Bob Davis' vote to lift all price and allocation controls on gasoline. We also note the votes of Rep. Broomfield, Pursell, Sawyer and Stockman (all Republican representatives) were in line to lift controls.

All of us will feel the blow by this decision of our elected representation. Senior citizens on fixed incomes, young families with children, struggling to make ends meet will now have the added burden of buying "sky-high" gas for car transportation to and from work. The tourist industry and the automobile industry, on which many Michigan citizens depend will have to lay off many employees.

The only ones not affected will be public officials and others with expense accounts or wealthy individuals who don't mind paying $2 or more per gallon of gas.

Congress cannot be proud of its record so far, but this is a low blow indeed. I would like to urge voters to write our congressmen, protesting this latest irresponsible action.

So who needs a plumber?

"Why are you pounding and hammering in the bathroom?"

"The lavatory flushed, but no water came back into the tank. I'm fixing it."

"With a hammer and wrench?"

"Wives don't seem to realize that we do-it-our-selves can fix most anything if we're left alone."

"What's that lying on the floor?" she asked.

"They're the parts I've taken out. I'll get the water coming into the tank in no time."

"It looks like the stuff you had left over when you fixed the lawn mower."

"Please, I'm a busy man."

"I'll call the plumber," she said.

"No, I'm saving us money."

"If you mess that up," she said, "it will cost us plenty of money."

"Since when have I ever messed anything up in the bathroom?"

She asked how she could help.

"You can help," I said, "by going over to Charlevoix and marching with those people who are against the Consumers nuclear plant."

"And leave you here to break things up? That's my toilet as well as yours."

"Quit saying toilet. I can't use that word in a family newspaper."

"You mean to tell me that you are fixing this toilet and writing your column at the same time?"

"Look," I said, "I've always done two things at once. You know that."

"I've seen the time you couldn't do one thing at once," she mumbled.

"Look at the cheap john things they put in here. Most of them are plastic. Take that right there. I'll bet it didn't cost ten cents to make."

"What does it do?" she asked.

"It doesn't do anything," I said. "They put it in there so they could charge more."

"Now, how would you know that?"

"Ralph Nader was on television talking about things like this," I said.

Marshall Sayles

She left in what I thought was a huff. I put all the parts back and tightened every screw. Then I tapped a few things and the tank began to fill up with water.

Ha! So I couldn't fix it. Well, look at that water coming. I flushed it and it worked perfectly. The water went down with a stronger gurgle than usual. Just like a brand new lavatory. Plumbers. Who needs a plumber? I saved at least $25 merely by using my head.

I called to my wife, dancing a little jig. "Come and see how nice I've got the lavatory working."

She had a funny look on her face. "Why are you dancing a jig in the bathroom?"

"I fixed it," I said. "You don't seem to be very happy about it."

"I was in the furnace room," she said. "Remember this morning when you shut the water off to the outside faucet so it wouldn't freeze? Well, you turned the wrong knob. I just turned the water on that goes to the toilet."

Culture, the link between nature and technology

BY CLARNECE J. GLACKEN

We live in a period in which technology is complex and rapidly changing and are inclined to think of it in terms of computers, machine and precision tools, and electronics. However, even in prehistoric times, humans used simple but powerful technologies, such as a fire, to modify nature.

The relationship between nature and technology, whether simple or complex, can be understood only in terms of culture—those patterns of behavior and thought common to a people.

Culture is the crucial link between nature and technology. Culture determines both how we use and modify nature and how we think about it.

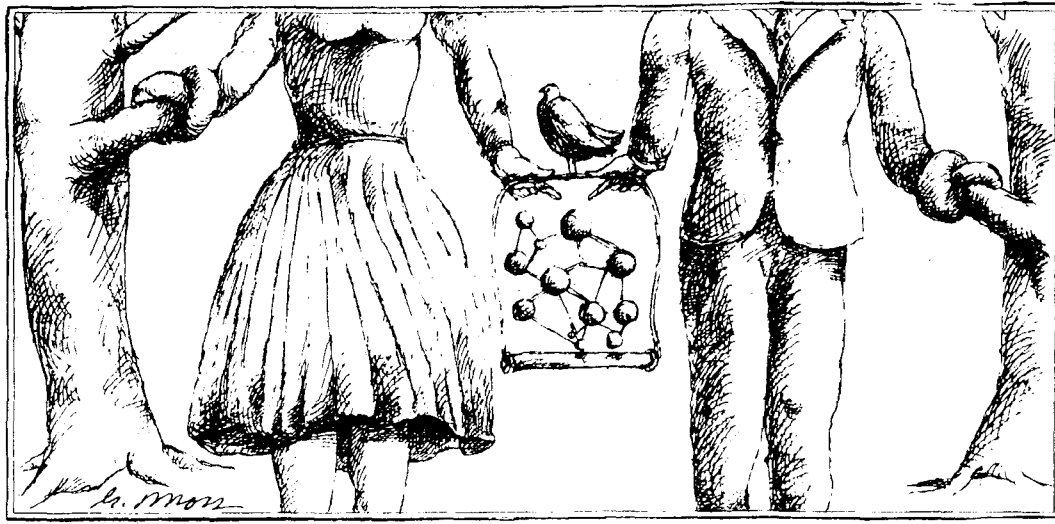

Let us think of the earth's surface as if it were a huge relief map. We can place thousands of overlays on it to show various distributions: physical elements like climates, mountains, minerals, and oceans; organic elements like forests, swamps, and cultivated lands; cultural elements like settlements, religions, languages, and technologies.

Any inhabited area on the earth's surface is composed of different combinations of these distributions. We may have Spanish-speaking Catholic farmers with a few sheep living on a dry plateau, and Hindus, to whom cows are sacred, speaking English and growing rice where monsoon rains cause disastrous floods.

The existence of these mosaics is the reason we cannot profitably talk abstractly about technology and nature. There is no direct relationship between them except through the medium of culture.

VALUES AND CONCEPTS

Throughout history, and up to the present, different cultures have valued and sought in nature different things. For example, the native Americans did not search for plutonium as we do now. We no longer seek whale oil for lamps, as our forebears did.

Every culture, prehistoric, primitive, and civilized, so far as we know, has developed a conception of nature. In primitive and prehistoric cultures, it may be a form of nature like "Mother Earth." Some modern societies have a purely utilitarian conception of nature, as a resource there for human beings to use. Others may think of it esthetically or biologically or both, as a beautiful, harmonious but fragile system of interlocking physical and biological elements.

EARLY TECHNOLOGIES

If we look back to prehistoric times, two technologies that modified nature stand out: plant and animal domestication, and the use of fire.

The domestication of plants and animals began the long series of experiments in breeding which have completely transformed the nature of organic life on earth. Millions of square miles are now cultivated crops; they are vast substitutions for what was there before the intervention of human beings with their tools. With animal domestication, the dog, the horse, the ox became agents in the modification of nature by human beings.

The use of fire to clear land for grazing, to deforest it for agriculture or other purposes, has been of the utmost importance. We cannot study the resources and geography of large parts of Southeast Asia, Latin America, and Africa—especially south of the Sahara—without recognizing that fire, now as in the past, is an agent of significant environmental change. People living in a culture like our own, dependent on advanced technologies based on applications of theoretical science, either overlook these fundamental facts or are unaware of them.

Thus, there has been a tendency to think that technology is a modern phenomenon coming from the basic inventions, like the steam engine, of the Industrial Revolution in the latter part of the 18th century, and that before then, humanity relied primarily on its own and animal power.

This belief ignores the role of water and wind in the history of technology. Water management by aqueducts, canals, stream diversion, and draining is ancient. Drainage has been one of the fundamental activities of the human race in many parts of the earth, and its cumulative effects have been to make the earth drier.

PROBLEMS AND SOLUTIONS

Have such inventions and technologies been developed as solutions to problems that nature creates for the human race? This is an influential and ancient idea, which we can restate in the words of the old and familiar proverb, "Necessity is the mother of invention."

We do not know if it is or not, or if necessity explains the origin of technology. The late geographer Carl Sauer in his classic study, Agricultural Origins and Dispersals, argued that leisure may have been necessary for the discoveries leading to plant domestication: "The needy and miserable societies are not inventive, for they lack the leisure for reflection, experimentation, and discussion." One might think the wheel would be an excellent example of necessity being the mother of invention, but it was not known as a technological device in the New World before Columbus.

Since ancient times, people exploiting the earth's resources have tried to interpret what they have done and have often philosophized about it. Such interpretations go back in China at least to the time of Mencius (4th-3rd centuries B.C.) and in Greece to Plato (5th - 4th centuries B.C.). Both men were interested in the effects of deforestation.

In the last two centuries an enormous literature covering many parts of the world has come to light regarding these environmental changes through various technologies, simple and complex; it had been slowly accumulating since antiquity.

CONFLICTING VIEWS

Our conclusions regarding nature and technology depend partly on how we look at history. If we study the history of technology, we are apt to be impressed by inventions, successes and failures, anticipations, improvements, and applications. Our perspectives would be different were we to study the history of the modification of the earth by human beings and their technologies.

The first view of history is likely to show purpose and rational acts based on theory or experience; the second, to uncover unforeseen consequences of human intrusions into the natural world.

In our times, we are seeing a dramatic meeting of these historic and often opposing streams of thought: (1) an optimistic belief that science and technology, through directed and rational change of physical and organic nature, can manage the environment for continuing human use indefinitely and (2) a pessimistic view based on an organic conception of nature whose delicate balances can easily be destroyed by humans with only partial knowledge of extremely complex interrelationships.

Hints of this second, or ecological, viewpoint (the "ecosystem concept") appear in antiquity, but the significant developments began in the last years of the 17th century. Its outstanding contribution is the stress on the interrelationships in nature.

In an 18th-century example, farmers killed birds because they ate the fruit in their orchards; they later regretted doing so because insects quickly multiplied. It is this concept that makes possible a deeper understanding of the effects of pollutants, plant and animal extinctions, deforestation, the use of fire, soil erosion, and other massive transformations of nature.

The mosaic pattern of the earth with its physical, biological, and human elements and the distributions of simple and complex technologies, ancient and modern, have made culture the crucial pivot in the relationship. And human cultures now give little evidence of becoming homogeneous.

On the contrary, people wish to keep their customs, traditions, religions, languages, arts and literatures. Many of these are intimately concerned with their attitudes toward their natural surroundings and to their tools, whether they are computers or digging sticks.

This means a complex worldwide diversity of attitudes both to nature and to technology. They have now become key elements in the future of the earth and of its peoples.

These two ideas could improve car insurance for everybody

And WITHOUT Senate Bill 428!

Michigan urgently needs changes in our car insurance laws. To hold down costs. And to assure the protection people want

The Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan favor such changes. We see several fairly simple ways to make some worthwhile improvements. Two are discussed in this ad - others in other ads in this series. And they've all been recommended to the Michigan Legislature. But...

The Legislature's going a different way. Shaping up Senate Bill 428 - the "essential insurance reform" bill - to cut car insurance costs in a few large metropolitan areas, and boost the costs everywhere else in Michigan. The proposal is complex and technical. So much so, we suggest you ask your Legislator to explain. But don't ask for details. Just ask how Senate Bill 428 will affect you! Then we hope you tell your Legislator you favor the I.I.A.M. position. For simple, effective action to improve everybody's car insurance. Action such as:

1. Admit a motorcycle is not an automobile.
2. Add some collision coverage to the "No-Fault" requirements.

Michigan's "No-Fault" automobile insurance law is meant to cover automobiles. But some sloppy wording results in "No-Fault" automobile insurance benefits for people who get hurt while riding motorcycles. So your car insurance premiums help pay motorcycle losses. A car's a car, a cycle's a cycle - and the Legislature ought to admit the difference by separating the two for insurance purposes.

Too few Michigan car-owners realize that standard "No-Fault" insurance gives no coverage for collision damage in a moving accident. Or that they can't sue a driver who causes such an accident. Or that even if they buy an optional collision coverage - which most car-owners don't know they need - they can't collect if the at-fault car isn't insured! The sensible cure for this mess is a reasonable amount of collision coverage as a requirement in "No-Fault". If Senate Bill 428 scares you, as it does I.I.A.M., tell your Legislator. And if you favor these I.I.A.M. proposals, say so. Loud and clear.

Do it today.

BOYNE VALLEY RAILROAD will make its final trips of the year this weekend. Color tours to Boyne Falls and back start at 11 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. in Boyne City.

COLOR CRUISE - The last Lake Charlevoix color cruise of the season aboard the Beaver Islander will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday. The cruise departs from the Beaver Island boat dock in Charlevoix, and tickets are $6. Call the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 547-2101 for reservations.

Four performances with famous musicians, singers

It's not too often that a foremost saxophone player or an opera singer who has performed in operas in San Francisco or New York City will make it up to our part of the woods for concert performances.

But that's exactly who you'll see if you join the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association.

There are still about 100 membership tickets available for the four concerts during the 1979-80 season. Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for children under 12 for the four concerts. The concerts are held in the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium, which accommodates 950 people. Louise Dean, an organizer for the association, said good seats are still available.

The association has been bringing "fine quality symphonic concerts to the north for 35 years," Mrs. Dean said.

The purpose of the concert association is to bring good music to Northern Michigan. Mrs. Dean said. People from Boyne City, East Jordan, Charlevoix, Gaylord, and as far away as Mackinac City, Alanson and Rogers City join the association, she said.

Mrs. Dean commented that they usually sell out of membership cards but this year their May ticket sales drive did not prove to be as successful as past years. Therefore, luckily there are still season tickets available.

Individual concert tickets are not available. A concert-goer has to purchase the whole season tickets schedule. Mrs. Dean said.

The schedule for the concerts is as follows:

Thursday, Oct. 25 - The season's first performer, Spiro Malas, regularly sings with the San Francisco Opera as well as the New York City Opera. Males will be accompanied by a pianist, Mrs. Dean said.

Friday, Nov. 9 - Rostal and Schafer, England's popular duo-pianist, will be the second featured performers this season. Their musical training and renditions of Bacharach and the Beatles will make for a good concert, Mrs. Dean said.

Saturday, March 22, 1980 - The new year will bring to Petoskey the Harvey Pittel trio, a woodwind ensemble led by saxophone virtuoso, Harvey Pittel.

Pittel is the foremost saxophone player in the United States, Mrs. Dean said. Their music includes that of composers Bach, Duke Ellington, Ravel and Richard Rogers.

Saturday, April 26, 1980 - Closing the season will be Serenade, a company of vocal artists accompanied by piano, harp and viola.

Serenade is a group of 20 male and female adult singers who sing selections of songs from light opera, operetta and the musical stage, Mrs. Dean said.

All concerts are at 8:30 p.m. in the middle school auditorium and those interested in getting tickets should contact Virginia McCune at 347-2284 or Louise Dean at 347-3275.

Opera singer Spiro Malas will perform in Petoskey Oct. 25 in the first of four concerts presented by the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association. Malas is recognized for his performances on New York City and San Francisco opera stages.

SINGLE-FAMILY HERE TO STAY

Have you gotten the impression that the detached single-family home is being priced out of the market and that it's only a matter of time before most people will be living in apartments and condos? Not by a long shot!

If you look at the figures for recent years you'll see that the future for the single family house is quite healthy. In 1974, one of the worst years in this country's housing industry, over 66 percent of new housing starts (887,400) were single family homes.

You can see that despite land costs, construction costs, mortgage costs and real estate taxes, the single family home did very well. Yes, it is a luxury. But it's a luxury that many Americans are willing to sacrifice other luxuries in order to afford. If they bought in one of the worst years in real estate sales history -- the year when the Dow Jones sunk to the lowest point in ten years, when unemployment reached a new high along with interest rates and the cost of living, it's a safe bet that the single family home is here to stay -- probably stronger than ever.

Saints spoil homecoming

BOYNE CITY - Neither the weatherman nor the St. Ignace Saints cooperated in making the Boyne City homecoming festivities the success they could have been.

Rain and sleet dampened things periodically throughout the game and St. Ignace squelched Rambler hopes most of the afternoon in racking up a 31-0 victory Saturday.

Unfortunately the winless Rambler lost to the one team that appeared to be a likely victim this season. The next three contests for the Boyne squad are against two powerful class B squads and traditional rival Charlevoix.

Despite the loss to St. Ignace and the tough schedule ahead, Rambler coach Bob McCullough isn't writing off the rest of the season.

"It wasn't a very good football game," McCullough said of Saturday's loss. "It wasn't very well played by either team."

"I always have fears about homecoming games," McCullough said, noting the excitement and distractions that go along with homecoming activities.

"At times we can be a very good team," he added. "If we're not consistent Friday it's not going to be a very good night."

That could be the understatement of the season, considering Gaylord's performance to date this season. The Blue Devils lost to Cheboygan 28-21 in overtime last Friday in battle of previously unbeaten teams.

"They're two very fine class B football teams," McCullough said after seeing the Gaylord-Cheboygan game Friday. "It was a hard-hitting game."

"Gaylord uses a multiple offense," McCullough said, "with a lot of splits, slots and motion plays."

The Rambler coach explained that Gaylord's fortunes were aided by the transfer of a 6-6, 240 pound end from Gaylord St. Mary. A good end on the other side to go with him and two good backs -- one who McCullough claims was one of the league's best last year and the other a four-year veteran quarterback -- round out the offense.

The Blue Devils will have more depth than Boyne City, carrying a roster of around 45 players. They have almost a complete platoon system, changing 10 players when they switch from offense to defense.

McCullough thinks the Ramblers will do better against Gaylord than they did against St. Ignace.

"Our kids play to the competition," he explained. "Last year we took Gaylord to an overtime before we lost. Petoskey was 6-0 last year and we went into overtime before we lost to them."

"We're capable of playing better than last week," he continued. "We have five weeks."

Junior back Gino Longo meets a horde of St. Ignace tacklers during the 31-0 loss last Saturday. He and his Rambler teammates will try to pick up their first win of the season against tough class B. Gaylord Friday.

EJ beats stubborn Mancy

EAST JORDAN - Christmas was coming early for the Mancelona football team last Friday but fullback Steve Graham and his Red Devil teammates dashed Mancy's upset hopes.

Snow fell all through the game Friday, stopping only when the game finished.

The snow wasn't the only thing falling at the start of the game. The Red Devils fumbled the ball on their first two possessions, the first miscue resulting in a Mancelona touchdown.

"I was amazed at the way we came back," East Jordan coach Frank Holes said after the game. "There was a turning point there where it could've gone either way."

"We fumbled, they punched it over. We fumbled again and then held them," recounted Holes. "Especially with the weather conditions the way they were, I was happy with the way we came back."

"It was very slippery, wet and cold -- all kinds of weather conditions going against us," Holes said. "I'm sure it hurt both teams, they had to play in it too."

"We were able to move the ball though," he said. "Our defense was super. It bent a little, but it rose to the occasion."

Duane Cutler and Jerry Fuller each had interceptions for East Jordan, Cutler's setting up a score and Fuller's insuring the victory as the clock ran out.

The Devils didn't give Mancelona a chance to intercept any of their passes -- they didn't throw any.

East Jordan racked up 437 yards on the ground. Graham, just a sophomore, picked up 227 of those yards as he went over the 1,000 yard mark with three games left on the schedule.

"For a sophomore that's amazing," Holes said of Graham's yardage milestone. "He's a phenomenal athlete."

The key factor in Graham's rushing ability, according to Holes, is that he's not alone as a running threat.

"You can't key on him," Holes explained, because of his backfield mates -- Cutler and Bob Thompson. "When you key on one you've got the other two."

Graham got two of the Devil scores against Mancelona and added the extra-point after Cutler picked up the final Devil TD. Cutler had 130 yards against Mancy and Thompson added 90.

The Devils can't afford to suffer a mental letdown after peaking for the Mancelona game last week. This Saturday night they have to travel to Gaylord to take on the only team to defeat them last year -- the St. Mary Snowbirds.

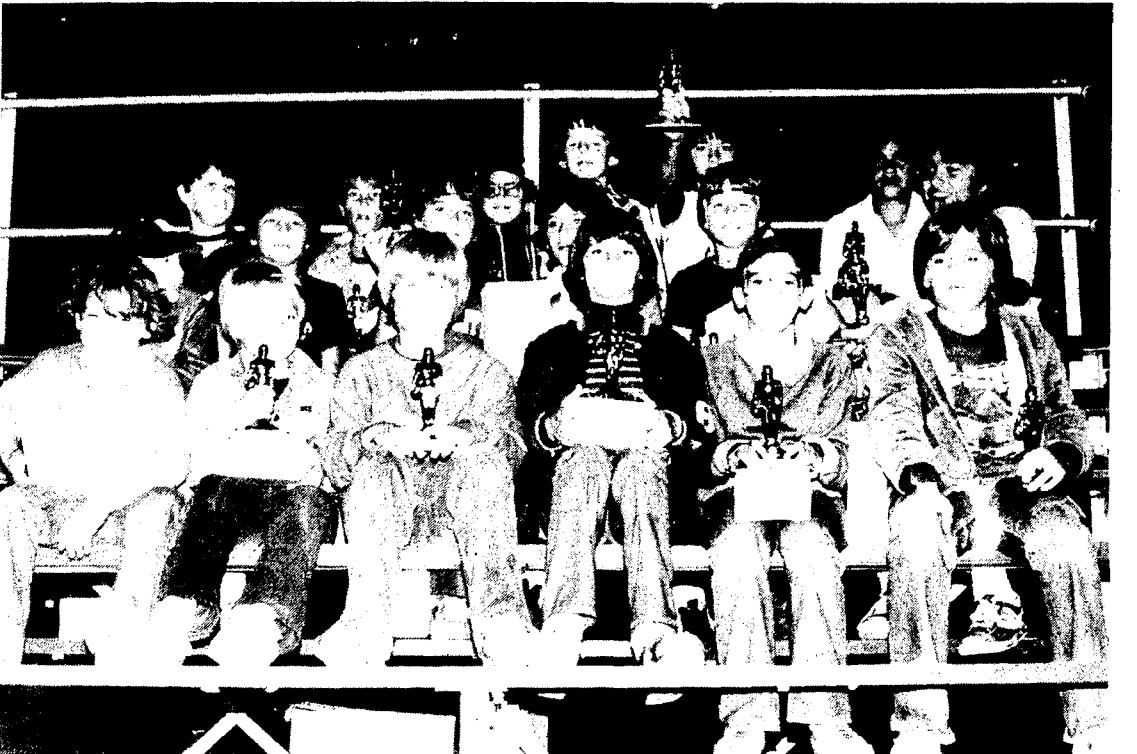

"I don't think it's going to be too hard to get the kids up for it," Holes said. "They want to avenge the loss."

"We seem to have a lot of momentum," the Devil coach commented. "We're going to go right at them."

Depending on how well the weather cooperates, Holes is hopeful that the Red Devils will be able to use a more balanced attack than in last week's game.

He expects a large East Jordan fan contingent at the 7:30 p.m. kickoff Saturday. "We had a lot of people at Mancelona," Holes said, despite the foul weather.

"It does something to the kids when they hear those horns honk when they run out on the field," he said. "We have tremendous fan support, the best following in northern Michigan."

Punt, Pass & Kick

Boyne JV gridgers win sixth

BOYNE CITY - The Rambler junior varsity football squad improved its record to a perfect 6-0 with a 26-8 win over St. Ignace last Thursday.

Bob Christy paced the Boyne attack scoring three times on runs of 20 yards and one yard and on a 25 yard pass play. Shawn Aimesbury scored on a four yard run and Benji Williams scored a two-point conversion to round out the Rambler scoring.

St. Ignace would've started the game's scoring but had a first quarter touchdown called back after a penalty.

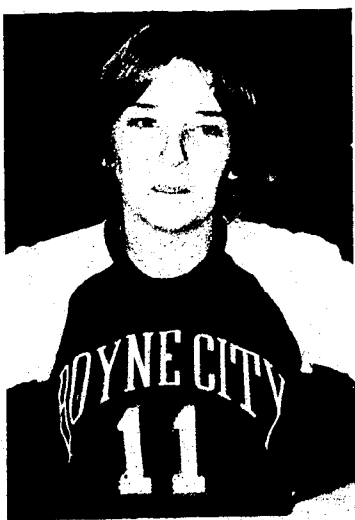

Aimesbury's first period tally and Christy's pass touchdown, coupled with William's successful point after attempt, gave the Ramblers a 14-0 halftime lead.

Christy then scored once in the third period and again in the fourth before the host Saints pushed across their first and only score of the night.

The Rambler JV's will host Gaylord at 6:30 p.m. this Thursday.

Logger JV's hustle, win 6 straight

BOYNE FALLS - The junior varsity Logger basketball girls team has won six games in a row as they head into a key conference showdown Tuesday.

The JV's are 7-1 in the conference, 7-3 overall, and Tuesday play Johannesburg-Lewiston, the only team in the conference to have bested them this season.

Coach Joel Donaldson's charges don't boast much size but he says their hustle has kept the opposition worn down.

"We run and gun," Donaldson said. "Putting pressure on from minute one."

"We have a team-oriented offense," Donaldson explained, "we interchange guards a lot to maintain pressure on defense."

Sophomore center Sandy Payton, the biggest player on the squad at 5-11, has led the team in scoring and rebounding, averaging 11 points and 14 rebounds per game.

"She's playing very aggressively this year," Donaldson said.

Melody Wilson and Sharon Frankowiak, starting guards on the team, are playing what Donaldson terms "outstanding defense" this year.

Pat Frankowiak has been providing Payton with assistance on the board, gathering in about 10 rebounds per game in addition to scoring at a 5 points per game rate.

Barb Fiel and Maureen Harmon have been sharing the fifth starting position, giving the loggers "outstanding passing" according to Donaldson.

The showdown with Johannesburg-Lewiston will start at 6:30 p.m. at Boyne Falls.

The Logger varsity team hasn't been faring as well as its younger counterparts, posting a 2-7 record to date.

Carol Carson, a senior guard, has been leading the varsity in scoring while forward Kathy Bauman has been the leading rebounder for the team.

Junior guard Janice Green, junior center Sally Bauman and junior forward Carol Bears round out the starting lineup for the varsity.

Both Logger squads have enjoyed the biggest turnout of players in recent years.

Devil JVs 6-0

EAST JORDAN - A 28-0 win over Mancelona last Wednesday upped East Jordan's junior varsity football team's record to 6-0 on the year as the little Devils continue to follow the varsity's example of not giving up many points and winning all their games.

In the win last Wednesday the Devils got touchdowns from Kevin Russell, Bob Parsons, Rick Hawley and Mike Brennan. Hawley also had a two point conversion as did Rick Newville.

Tom Peters led the rushing attack for East Jordan with just over 100 yards.

Mike Sheridan had three interceptions for the Devils defense. Peters and Parsons also picked off Mancelona passes.

BC girls split pair

BOYNE CITY - A mental lapse in the third quarter proved to be the downfall of the Rambler girls basketball team against Petoskey last Thursday. Boyne was ahead by eight points before they briefly "sat back", said coach Steph Moody, and when the period ended they were down by five points.

A cold night at the free throw line didn't help either, Moody said, noting that the Ramblers missed 10 of 24 charity tosses in the 58-56 loss.

The loss followed a win over Rogers City Tuesday. That score found the Boyne squad cruising to a 20 point, 59-39 win, despite a slow start.

The Ramblers record is 2-1 in the conference now, 5-2 overall.

Welch's 614 leads bowlers

Tim Welch rolled games of 223 and 216 enroute to a 614 series in the Pin Twisters league to lead area bowlers last week.

Lana Middgett rolled a 538 series in Jordan Valley Ladies League play to top area women. Rita Moody had the high women's game with a 212 in the Thursday night Boyne City league.

"When somebody's out to get everything you've got, you'll be glad you've got executive liability insurance."

"Suppose you were sued for $500,000—and lost! Could you stay out of bankruptcy and still meet the financial obligations to your business and family? You could survive a financial crisis if you had an Auto-Owners Executive Liability Insurance policy. It provides up to $5,000,000 of protection. And costs a lot less than you think. We'll be glad to discuss it with you. Just give us a call."

School budget approved; Worse is yet to come

BOYNE CITY - The drop in student enrollment has resulted in the school system possibly facing cutbacks in January, according to School Superintendent Rich Kelly.

Kelly presented the 1979-80 school budget to the board of education Monday night in a meeting that was better attended than usual.

About 20 citizens listened to Kelly's line-by-line summary of the $2,555,768 budget, asking several questions during the discussion.

The worst is yet to come, Kelly said, because next year's budget will have to start with a carry-over cash balance of only $13,250. Last year the ending cash balance was $185,306.

The increase in this school year's budget from last year's is 5.8 percent. Kelly said the increase in expenditures from $2,424,724 in 1978-79 to $2,555,768 for 1979-80 is due mostly to salary increases.

Boyne City teachers received raises of 8 to 12 percent this year. Non-teachers negotiations are still taking place and Kelly had to "adjust accordingly" to insure that the budget would cover whatever the contract settlement resolves in.

One factor which affected the budget drastically is the decrease in state aid the schools will receive this year, Kelly said. Enrollment was down a total of 79 students resulting in a decrease of approximately $173,000 in state aid. Last year enrollment was 1,454 and the school received $385,529 in state aid. This year enrollment is at 1,375 and the school will receive $212,300 in state aid.

The majority of the money for the budget comes from the property taxes, which increased from last year. Property taxes included in the 1979-80 budget equal $1,869,381 compared to last year's property taxes of $1,654,057; a difference of $215,324.

The salaries of teachers and non-teachers make up approximately 81 percent of the budget. Kelly cut 3 1/2 staff positions, but the majority of the budget cuts came in supplies, services and utility expenditures, Kelly said.

"We had to trim our spending expenditures to keep (the budget) at a 5.8 percent increase," he said.

With inflation rising nationwide at 13 percent, board president Bill Chipman commended Kelly for holding the school budget down to only a 5.8 percent increase.

Kelly said he is "looking into having to make any adjustments at the end of the first semester" in January of school programs.

Next school year there will have to be adjustments in programs or staff -- or more millage, Kelly said. The next millage vote is in June, 1980, and Kelly said about three mills would be needed to restore the $180,000 cash balance.

There have been cuts in custodial employees, bus runs and cafeteria hours to eliminate some budget expenses, Kelly said.

"We're looking everywhere, not just at teachers and in the classroom to see if anything is possible" to cut back on expenditures, he said.

Total expenses for the three schools are: elementary, $474,814; middle school, $265,552; and high school, $389,570.

Other expense areas include: vocational education, $148,242; special education, $86,210; adult education, $15,650; alternative pregnant teen program, $30,243, which will be refunded from other area schools participating in the program; guidance, $41,152; health services, $23,760; library, $42,880; general administration, $71,232; school administration, $162,523; operation and maintenance, $272,796; transportation, $157,588; community education administration, $38,394; transfers, $63,562; (main items include building payments, athletic and cafeteria expenses); and Board of Education, $259,300.

The board of education category included such things as election costs, employee insurance and workmen's compensation. Only $2,400 goes to the board members in salaries.

Copies of the budget are available at the administration office on Water Street. After unanimous approval of the 1979-80 school budget, the board also took action on:

--Assigning the following winter coaching positions: Rick Fowler, wrestling; Russ Harvey, varsity boys basketball; John McGeorge, junior varsity boys basketball; Sue Hobbs and Julie Halloran, high school cheerleading; Cindy Willson, middle school cheerleading; Jim Felton, safety patrol; Pat Upton, girl's varsity volleyball; Carla Harshman, junior varsity volleyball; and Van Greene, freshman girl's basketball.

--Appointed Mark Behling and Betty Johncheck to meet with high school representatives to discuss whether senior class trips should be reinstated. There have not been any senior class trips since 1959.

Queen

Boyne City homecoming queen Julie Dunlop gets a congratulations kiss from her mother Mary while her father Bill looks on. Julie was crowned queen during halftime ceremonies Saturday. Later that evening at the homecoming dance, Scott Hausler, son of Vernon and Ruth Hausler, was crowned king.

Early snow

A picture to remind us of last winter? No, this shot of snow-covered Boyne Mountain was taken last Wednesday when Charlevoix County residents awoke to find an early-season snow. The Boyne Falls area had a full covering of the white stuff Wednesday and got another dose of it Friday night.

Planners here to discuss goals, city's future

BOYNE CITY - The planning firm drawing up the city's Master Plan is three months ahead of schedule.

The planners, Johnson, Johnson and Roy of Ann Arbor, will be at the commission chambers in City Hall at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 18 to discuss their progress so far and answer questions from the public.

City Manager Tim Clifton said the two topics of primary discussion at the meeting will concern the "proposed goals and objectives for the city and alternative ways of managing our city's growth."

The planning firm has drawn up a list of proposed goals and objectives which the city should implement in its Master Plan.

These will be discussed further with a technical advisory committee made up of Clifton, Don Toffolo and Mary Loding of the planning commission, County Planner John Hess, Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick and city commissioner Katherine Jessup.

Some of the recommendations include: --An industrial park within our community which would have "buffers or screening" to eliminate any conflict between industry and adjacent sites.

--Development of pedestrian oriented facilities to provide for safer pedestrian walkways connecting major activity centers.

--Develop the waterfront to include a wood-pier along the water's edge, stressing a community focal point and gathering place to accommodate social and recreational activities.

--Encourage merchants and property owners along the Boyne River to provide access to the river's edge. Increase accesses, walkways and crossovers over the river's edge.

Kim Woodrow, one representative of the planning firm, said this workshop will be "more involved" than the last hearing held July 19. Woodrow said he hopes the meeting will "bring new ideas and thoughts from the citizens which could be incorporated into the final comprehensive plan."

"The intent of the comprehensive plan is not to change the city but to help us understand the direction the city should go," Clifton said.

Clifton said that as a result of implementation of the Master Plan, Boyne City will go through "drastic changes", but the changes will enable Boyne City "to continue as a rural community."

"The changes which will take place will be in policies and programs to make sure that Boyne City remains as it is today," Clifton said.

The changes will not happen overnight, he said, and they will not change the character of the community.

Included in the study are a future land use plan, present and projected population figures, and analysis of transportation, community and utility facilities.

The cost of the planners doing the comprehensive plan is approximately $30,000. About half that amount was included in this year's budget and the other half will be included in next fiscal year's budget.

Basketball coach rehired --but with reservations

BOYNE CITY - Russ Harvey was re-hired as varsity boys basketball coach Monday, but not without some debate.

Last May the school board's athletic committee met to decide whether Harvey should be reinstated to the coaching position he has held for almost a decade.

The committee decided nothing at that time. The issue was forgotten until the Oct. 8 school board meeting. It was tabled at that time until the board meeting Monday night.

The athletic committee met about a week before the Oct. 15 meeting to discuss this topic. The committee, comprised of Shirley Crozier, Mark Behling (filling in for George Shotelis), and Bill Chipman (filling in for Ray Towne) unanimously decided not to rehire Harvey as coach.

However, when the topic of hiring Harvey as basketball coach came up at this week's meeting, Behling made a recommendation to rehire Harvey, reversing his earlier position on the athletic committee.

Behling said he recommended rehiring Harvey because basketball season starts soon and it would be disruptive to fire the coach at this time.

Chipman would not state publicly why the committee recommended not to rehire Harvey. When one member of the audience asked why the committee decided this Chipman said that he could ask any board member after the meeting for an explanation.

But when The Press asked for explanation after the meeting, Chipman said, he would rather not disclose the reason.

Chipman said "I do not want to answer the media's question but I would answer the question if asked by a member of the public."

Board members Chipman, Tom Neumann, Shotelis, Behling and Betty Johncheck voted to rehire Harvey, while Crozier voted against the hiring. Ray Towne was absent from the meeting.
