Approved school budget leaves little cash reserve Six city seats to be filled

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan Board of Education Monday approved the proposed school budget for the 1979-80 year. Business manager Ruby Dipzinski explained that revenues increased less than expenses did leaving the system with a lower anticipated cash reserve than auditors recommend.

"We have 1.38 percent more revenues than last year," Dipzinski explained -- "5.15 percent more expenses which gave us expenses increasing 3.77 percent more than revenues."

As a result, Dipzinski explained, the school system is anticipating a cash balance of $12,435 at the end of the fiscal year, compared to the $63,270 left at the end of the 1978-79 fiscal year.

"And the auditors suggest five to ten percent of the budget for a balance?" board president Mary Jason asked Dipzinski. The business manager ruefully nodded yes.

The lower than recommended cash balance is a problem, Dipzinski told The Press Tuesday, because there isn't any money to cover major unforeseen expenses.

Superintendent Mel Rullman explained to the board that because of a drop in student enrollment the system had to cut expenses "across the board" to make up for lost pupil reimbursement from the state.

"There's very little room for subjective judgement on my part or Ruby's," Rullman told the audience at the budget hearing Monday. "All of these expenditures go before the board each month."

"I feel good about this budget in light of the enrollment cutback," he said, and added to the board: "I recommend that you adopt it."

The board followed Rullman's advice and unanimously approved the budget.

Dipzinski detailed the sources of revenue for each student enrolled. East Jordan's enrollment is 1,179 pupils and the system will receive revenue of $1,615.98 for each of them.

Property tax revenue for each student will be $1,245.40 while the state will contribute $370.58.

A taxpayer in the East Jordan school system owning a $20,000 home, (with a state equalized valuation of $10,000) would pay $300 in school property taxes.

The largest area of expenditures in the budget approved Monday is salaries.

"There is a lot of personnel in the school business," Rullman said. "A tremendous amount of the budget is in salaries."

Dipzinski estimated that total salaries amount to as much as 70 percent of the budgeted expenditures.

The system has one-half less teacher than last year but pickup-up the salaries of a custodian and cook's helper that previously were funded by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Salaries throughout the system increased seven percent.

What ever happened to sex ed in EJ?

EAST JORDAN - Sex education in the public schools has been tabled.

Michigan school districts were mandated by a 1977 state law to establish committees to study sex education. Last March East Jordan's board of education complied with that mandate and authorized a committee, chaired by middle school principal Doug Shields, to gather public input on sex education in East Jordan.

The committee, according to Shields, tabled the study after receiving input last spring.

"The message we got from the community was 'Leave it alone,'" Shields said. He explained that the community didn't get input from a large number of people but that the few who did voice their opinion on the issue were quite emphatic, and claimed to be speaking for a large segment of the school district population.

"The study is tabled," Shields said. Shields said when the committee was formed last March "If we are met with community opposition or board disapproval, so be it. But nothing ventured, nothing gained."

As superintendent Mel Rullman explained at the March 13 school board meeting, "It is not mandatory that we have this type of instruction, but it is now permissible."

Rullman said that the public had been invited to contribute input and Shield's stance on the matter after hearing the input given is, "If they (the community) don't want it (sex education) then I'm not going to push it."

So now, according to Shields, until the state, citizens, or school board mandate that the matter be given further study the committee's work is done.

EAST JORDAN - Voters will face a full ballot at the polls in East Jordan Tuesday. Five city council seats, the mayor's office, a county commission seat and a pay raise for the council members and mayor are up for a vote.

Regular two year council seats are being voted on in each of the three wards while two seats could be filled by write-in votes.

A vacancy in the second ward caused by the resignation of Lorraine Gagnon is open for a write-in vote as is the third ward seat vacated by Harry Watson.

The third ward write-in vote has two announced candidates, Ken Hagen, who was appointed to fill Watson's seat until the election, and Hazel Colburn. No candidates have shown interest in Gagnon's seat.

The seat is currently vacant. Meredith can appoint someone to fill the position until the winner, if there is one, of Tuesday's election is sworn in in January.

If Meredith wants to he can appoint the winner of the election to fill the seat the rest of the year. If no one gets at least three votes in the write-in race then Meredith would appoint someone to fill the office.

Gagnon and Watson's seats each have one year remaining of the two year term.

A breakdown of the races is on page seven with candidate profiles.

Tom Breakey, who filled a county commission seat opened by Richard McKinnon's resignation in May, will be running unopposed for the remaining year of the District 8 seat.

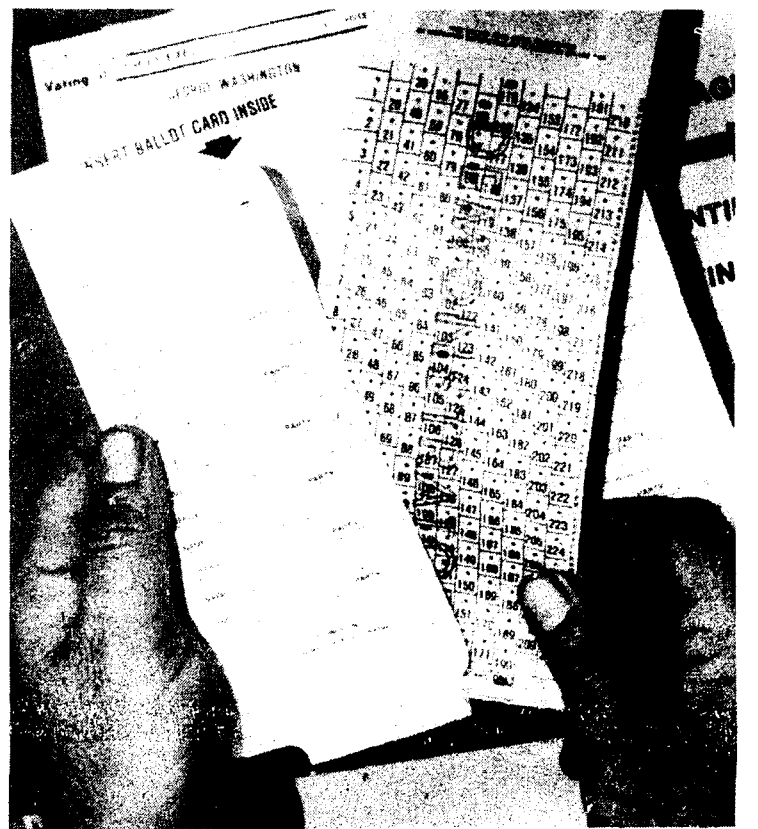

Breakey describes himself as political independent. When forced to register as running as either a Republican or Democrat he chose the latter.

"I'm replacing a Democrat so I'm running as a Democrat," Breakey explained.

A retired postal worker, Breakey said his first months on the commission have been "fascinating".

City voters will also vote on a charter amendment to change the salary for the mayor and city councilmen.

The mayor's pay would change from

Two council seats in Tuesday's election will be write-in contests. The write-in method is slightly different than in past years because of the use of the punch card voting machines. The envelope in which the ballot is being placed in above serves as the write-in ballot. An inside flap of the envelope has an area for the write-in candidate's name and the office for which the vote is cast. Explanations of how to use the punch card system will be available at the polls.

$200 per year to $100 plus $10 for each regular council meeting attended and $5 for each special meeting attended, the total not to exceed $300 in any fiscal year.

The councilmen's pay would change from $150 per year to $10 for each regular council meeting attended and $5 for each special meeting attended, the total not to exceed $300 in any fiscal year.

A three-fifths vote is needed to amend the pay scale, which, according to city clerk Fern Morris, has been in effect at least since the last charter amendment which was in 1954.

Women's Resource Center aids personal growth

BY DIANNE MURRAY

The Women's Resource Center was established to help women become more aware of services available to them and help them grow as individuals, according to the center's director.

Janet Mancinelli, director of the center for one year has had past experience with women and children as a social worker for the Charlevoix Department of Social Services and as a counselor with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

The Women's Resource Center, located in the lower level of the administration building at North Central Michigan College, started operation in 1977. It provides assistance, classes and special workshops to women from Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Otsego and Cheboygan Counties.

In their room at the college, you can usually find women sipping coffee sitting on one of the couches or bean bag chairs. The topics of discussion range from women's problems to world politics. The walls are lined with posters depicting famous women in history or women's liberation cartoons.

The atmosphere is open and offers a place to meet and to share and enjoy the fellowship of other women.

The center services include personal and career counseling, information and referral services, a 500-book lending library and several workshops.

A $5.00 membership fee entitles one to the use of the lending library, reduced rate for workshops and gives the center money needed to continue its programs.

Several of the workshops and counseling provide women with options they may never have known were available to them and can offer the service of getting "women back on their feet", Mancinelli said.

The average age of women who use the center are between 30 and 55 years old, she said. Many of these women feel stifled after their children have left home and want to take on new skills or try a "second chance at life," she said.

"Sometimes a woman will come in who has had secretarial experience maybe 10 or 15 years ago before she was married. Now that her children have left, she may decide to take on a secretarial job. But the problem is that in those 15 years she has been out of the job market, all the office equipment has changed and she needs to brush up on her skills or upgrade them. We offer that service and also interviewing skills," Mancinelli said.

The center offers six week workshops on topics of personal growth, assertiveness training, communication skills, transition into single life and coping and dealing with alcoholics.

Mancinelli said the workshops, offered once a week for three hour sessions, give women the opportunity to interact with others who share similar problems. The sessions are based on a "support-group idea," she said.

"For a lot of women, they find that once they are in the group just talking with another woman who share your problem is a lot of help. It is a sharing support group and also a source of meeting new friends," she said.

Ideas are tossed out to solve problems a woman may have or directional advice is offered if a woman is not sure how to resolve a problem.

A new area the Women's Resource Center has become involved in is spouse abuse. According to Mancinelli, in the last two years the center has come into direct contact with over 250 victims of spouse abuse. They have not had adequate funds or services to handle these cases in the past, she said.

In the past the center has maintained the spouse abuse program through private donations, assistance from area churches and the Salvation Army, and center funds earned through speaking engagements.

The center has just received a $50,000 grant from the state Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board to operate a spouse abuse shelter. The shelter, located in Petoskey, will serve women in the five northern counties. The grant runs out Sept. 30, 1980.

The spouse abuse program offers counseling for victims of domestic violence and their children. Emergency health care services, legal, financial, housing and transportation assistance and child care services are also provided.

Mancinelli said the abuse program's main goal is to help women explore resources available to them. Many times a woman may not know what she can do if she is being abused. The abuse shelter allows a woman and her dependent children to spend up to 30 days in the shelter home.

"Our emphasis is to keep the family together. Many times a woman needs to seek alternatives or get direction in order to find the necessary changes to make her marriage work," Mancinelli said.

For more information about the Women's Resource Center or to have your name added to the mailing list for the center's newsletter, call 347-3973, extension 365.

Several directors of the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey take a break during their day to informally discuss upcoming programs for the center. Seated from left to right are director Janet Mancinelli, Robin Crane, Jo Anna Mulhauser, Debbie Poineau and Ardis Merrill.

'Special Needs' course begins

Women's Resource Center is sponsoring a new project called "Special Needs."

The project is a 22 to 24-week course offered in five cities. The course covers the areas of personal growth, consumer skills, and parenting skills.

Parenting skills will teach how to discipline your child, how to better communicate with your child, health and safety measures for your children and family; and many other factors involving parent-child interactions.

The consumer education segment will deal with budgeting a family income, food buying and preparation, good nutritional habits and how to do home repairs inexpensively and efficiently.

In order to take the course a woman must be in the low-income bracket, unemployed or intermediately employed or undereducated.

In Charlevoix County, the course is offered in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix.

In Boyne City the course is offered in the Presbyterian Church on Park Street starting Thursday, Nov. 1, from 9 a.m. to noon.

In East Jordan, the classes start Wednesday, Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to noon in the city hall. The United Methodist Church at 106 State St. will be hosting the Charlevoix classes starting Tuesday, Nov. 6, from 9 a.m. to noon.

For more information, contact Ardis Merrill at the Women's Resource Center, 347-3973, extension 365.

Walloon boat retires for winter

BY AUDREY COLLINS

"One more blast, Bert," Walloon Lake villagers requested Saturday as Frank (Bert) Burns rode his steamboat into winter storage.

The blast the villagers referred to is the sweet tone of the whistle Burns uses to announce the coming and goings of his unique home made craft, a wood-and-coal-burning pontoon stern wheeler.

"Bert's Burner" was a dream a dozen years in the making.

In 1951, Burns bought "at a bargain", a used pontoon boat for which he constructed a new deck and all new rail panels.

He acquired the used 20-inch boiler in 1953 and re-fitted it with new flues and valves.

In 1958, he found his engine. "I can't say what the engine had been used for, probably a farm engine or for a small shop. I found it at Central Lake. It was leaned up against an apple tree out behind a garage and gas station.

"I had to soak it in penetrating oil for a month before I could even get a bolt out of it. It is probably more than 100 years old, old enough so that...you could see that all the part were hand made."

The antique engine had to be completely rebuilt, and now "runs like a clock," says Burns. He figures it develops about 3 h.p., driving the boat about 5 miles per hour.

With friends Si Simpson, Earl Hock, Ray Garlinghouse, Ernie Schultz and Peter Storm, the pieces were put together and the engine was hooked up to the paddlewheel. A six-volt belt-driven generator was powered by the fly wheel to provide running lights.

June 2, 1963, was the date of the boat's maiden voyage, and she was the star attraction at the Walloon Lake Water

Show later that summer. In the 16 years since, Bert and his steamboat have become a familiar sight on Walloon Lake.

Burns, 75, has earned a special place in the hearts of the young people who are lucky enough to get an unforgettable firsthand lesson in old fashioned energy along with a ride in a very unusual boat. Firing the boiler to "get up a head of steam" is a metaphor that suddenly has meaning to a member of the generation reared with gasoline engines.

Burns is a life-long resident of Walloon Lake. He and Mildred Laurie were married in the middle of the Depression, 46 years ago. They have three children: Lucinda Fraley of Walloon Lake, Barbara Sisson of Gaylord and Irvin, Walloon Lake.

"Frank is a carpenter, really a master craftsman," Mildred says of her husband.

While the boat that bears witness to that fine craftsmanship is resting for the winter, the craftsman has plenty of projects to help keep him active. He does snowplowing in addition to special wood-working jobs.

Bert has also been active with Walloon Lake's Boy Scout troop for the past 30 years, one of his favorite activities being the mid-winter Polar Bear camp-out.

When the snow is gone, however, and the ice in the lake has melted, once again you will hear a cheerful "toot" wafting over the clear waters of Walloon Lake. Then you'll know that the skipper is back where he most likes to be -- behind the wheel of his steamboat.

Girl's death being investigated

BOYNE FALLS - The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating the death of a 19 year old Boyne Falls girl found dead in the Boyne Falls Trailer Park on Monday.

According to Lasater, Miss Leazier was found by an acquaintance in a house trailer in the trailer park. He did not name the acquaintance.

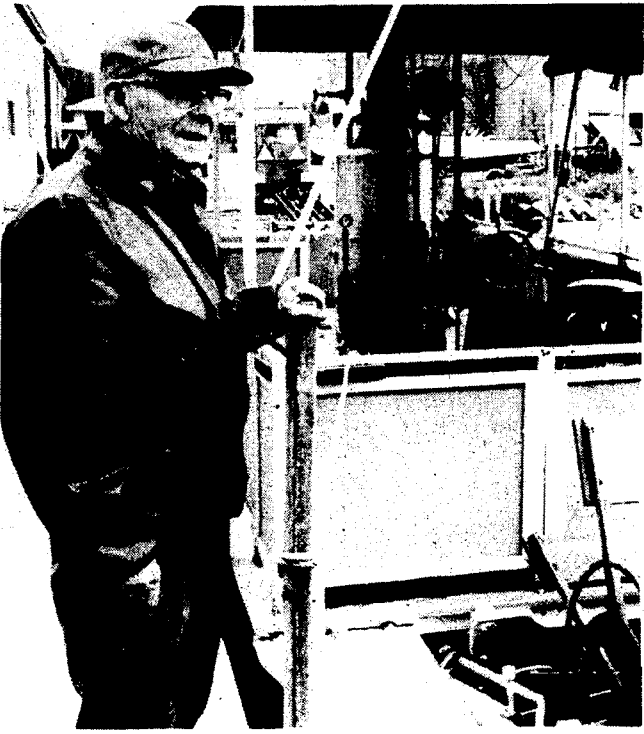

She was taken by Boyne City ambulance to Northern Michigan Hospitals where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Miss Laurie Leazier, 19, of Elmira died Monday, Oct. 29. Miss Leazier was a 1978 graduate of Boyne Falls School.

She was born July 6, 1960 in Gaylord and has been a resident of Elmira all her life.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1 at the Nelson Funeral Home in Gaylord, Rev. Dennis Stilwell officiating. Burial will be in Boyne Falls Cemetery.

Miss Leazier is survived by her mother Doris; one sister, Mrs. Jean Corpe, of Gaylord; two brothers, Clifford of Ada and Robert of Wyoming, and many nieces and nephews.

Your voice is loud here; Get out and vote

It has been said here and other places countless times, but we think it bears repeating. We urge residents of East Jordan and Boyne City to "get out and vote" in the city elections next Tuesday, Nov. 6.

On a national scale, it seems that voter participation continues to go down. And participation in local elections is usually much lower than when there are national elections.

Besides being a little disturbing, that strikes us as somewhat illogical.

Your vote means more in a local election. Several times in just the past few years, we can remember local elections being decided by one -- or a few -- votes.

It can also be argued that the issues will affect you more closely in a local election than in a national one. If your major interest is getting a street paved, a beach built or a stop sign installed, you have a decent chance of accomplishing those things at a local level.

Editorial

Whether we need a nuclear arms limitation treaty or national health insurance could be argued for years in Washington before anything is accomplished -- and your input would probably be ignored or negligible in determining how such a program would be set up and carried out.

The Press has tried to do its part in soliciting position statements from our local candidates so that you can make an informed decision when you go to the polls Tuesday.

We encourage you to read what the candidates have to say on pages 6 and 7 of this week's Press. Find out where they stand on the issues that are most important to you. If you're not satisfied after reading our election stories, call them up on the phone and ask them your own questions.

We feel both East Jordan and Boyne City are possibly at important crossroads. Future growth and development pressures seem to be increasing dramatically in the past few years, and the people we elect next week will have a big part in dealing with those pressures. ## Letters to the editor

Hard to condone egg throwing

Editor,

In response to the letter to the editor concerning the suspension of a student for possession of an egg -- I, too, wish to express my feelings.

Yes, homecoming in East Jordan was a festive day. The pie auction by the cheerleaders is and has been a part of this event. It is a money-making event. Also, a permit was received from the city for not only the parade but also the throwing of the pie. Consequently, the throwing of the pie was not done with malicious destruction in mind.

As for the eggs, whether malicious destruction was in mind or not (and I suspect it was), two cameras were hit by eggs being thrown. There were people struck by these eggs and several small children standing in this vicinity and serious injuries could have occurred.

As for the punishment of the students, I find it hard to condone the smashing of an egg on a band hat. That doesn't seem to make a whole lot of sense... especially for someone "dressed in his band uniform representing our school." Granted, the boy decided not to throw the egg given to him. But smashing the egg on the band hat does not seem to be a wiser decision.

The issue of this matter is the punishment of those who threw or carried the eggs. The ordinance was written to stop this behavior. Anyone driving through town last year during the month of October and especially on Devils' Night would understand why this ordinance was passed.

The sense in this town at that time was one of malicious destruction. There was no fun or "festivity" in mind except on the part of the person(s) throwing the food. I'm not saying I've never thrown an egg before, but I knew it was wrong and would have accepted my punishment.

Does Mr. Ahston (East Jordan High School principal) have the right to punish these students? It was a school function and Mr. Ashton is the principal. As to whether or not the punishment was too severe, I feel that is between the principal and the students. I felt there was a need to print a few of the "other facts" involved in this matter.

Boyne planners ask for input

Editor,

On Thursday, Oct. 18, the second workshop on the Boyne City Comprehensive Plan was held. Dave Tyler and I wish to thank all the persons who attended. Like the first workshop, comments made by city residents were insightful, and will help us to prepare a plan that responds appropriately to your community's needs.

Often, after a meeting like the one we had, people have ideas that they didn't think of during the meeting that they would like to have considered. We recognize this, and encourage persons who have additional comments to share them with your City Manager. He will relay your thoughts on to us. For those persons unable to attend the meeting, please talk with someone who was there. If you feel like commenting on something based on what you've learned, please send your ideas to us as well.

We are at an important point in the planning process. The next time we return to Boyne City, we'll be presenting our final recommendations. Hence, the more input we have from your prior to that time, the more relevant our proposals will be. We encourage you to reflect on the meeting, and talk to your friends, and send your comments our way. They will be considered, and they will make a difference.

Candidate isn't awed by 'progress'

To the Editor,

My platform as a candidate is to work to promote a better Boyne City. First, let me say I am not one who is overly awed by the mere mention of the word progress -- too many sins have been committed in its name. I am, however, committed to an orderly development of the city, which takes into account all sociological, environmental and economic factors that benefit all of the citizens rather than one special group.

As a member of the planning board, I have already turned in a suggestion for the development of a beach behind the City Hall adjacent to Courter's.

In a recent study conducted by the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, it was stated that "Economic development activities in this area have been based on the widely held assumption that economic growth automatically produces economic benefits". This is clearly not the case. The report concluded by saying that "High unemployment plagues this area, because of seasonal work and low wages and population growth is outstripping the jobs available.

I would work for the development of an Industrial Park which would attract non-polluting industry offering new jobs with a promise of a living wage as an incentive to keeping our young people in our community. The logical place for an Industrial Park is the present airport. It is large enough and ideally located. As an airport it gets minimal use and is dangerously close to two of our schools. Airport facilities for the few people in the city that occasionally utilize it can be found at the nearby airports.

The sewer, water and sidewalk projects now being implemented would have my whole hearted support.

It is imperative that we work for a solution to the dangerous flow of traffic on North Lake Street in the vicinity of the Country Star Market and the two manufacturing plants, Essex and Courters. Part of the solution lies in limiting access and exit to specific points on Lake Street.

Suggestions for traffic flow changes would require study. I believe there is an excellent opportunity here to erect beautification barriers which would funnel and control this excessive traffic.

These are my goals, and if given the opportunity to serve as your commissioner, it will be my solo purpose to see that they are carried out. I will faithfully work for the stability and well being of the entire community.

Depression warnings from people with money

Our financial wizards are upset. They've been predicting a recession for a long time now and it keeps avoiding them. They can't figure out what went wrong.

To help them along, the daily newspapers have replaced violent death between the ads with scary bits of financial news. Some are running long stories on the history of the big depression asking, "Can this happen again?"

It's true. All across America, and into the far reaches of Horton Bay, financial circles are discussing the strong possibility of a general slump. They are determined, one way or another, to talk us into it.

The idea is to lower the cost of goods (whip inflation) by raising interest rates and generally putting people out of work. If enough people are out of work the price of goods will drop to where we can almost afford to live.

These people, who are smarter than I am, say that if we do not have a depression, inflation may bankrupt the country. As soon as the average person can no longer amass enough money to last much beyond Sunday night the country will again be financially sound. Up until now I always thought that two and two made four but I guess it doesn't.

Marshall Sayles

Depression warnings always seem to come from people who have lots of money. Tycoons with three or four corporations. Politicians who have accomplished the amazing feat of rising from a regular person to genius within three or four years. If I had two or three million safely stashed away I wouldn't mind talking about a depression myself. I've often thought of making a million or so like my dad did. He never made it.

but he thought about it.

I went through one of those things the government experts are trying to bring upon us. And I want to say right now that I dislike slumps. They bring the price of candy bars down to five cents when you don't have five cents. When I was a kid only millionaires had five cents. I hated that slump right down to my broken shoestrings.

But I guess if we have to go broke to save the country, we'll just have to go broke. I do think it's a pity though that the experts are talking about us, not themselves.

There's one thing they seemed to have overlooked. Lots of people are already broke. Take me. I brought nothing into this world and I've never been able to get rid of it since.

Let the experts figure that one out.

Innovation should be rewarded, not stifled

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Connections: Technology and Change." This series was written for Courses By Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

BY NATHAN ROSENBERG

Rapid and pervasive technological innovation has been primarily responsible for the long-term improvements in material well-being that have characterized western industrial societies.

But it has also been responsible for such undesirable consequences as damage to the environment and depletion of some natural resources.

The development of an effective set of policies toward the generation of new technologies -- technologies that will meet our social goals -- is therefore one of the highest priorities confronting our society.

Technological innovation has, of course, done more than just increase the output of goods with unchanged characteristics. Its effects are not adequately summarized in terms of so many more automobiles, bushels of wheat, or square yards of cotton textiles.

Rather, and more importantly, technological innovation over the past two centuries has dramatically transformed the composition of the economy's output as well as increasing its volume. In doing this it has also transformed our lives. It would be an unproductive intellectual exercise even to look for 18th century equivalents (or even the recognizable antecedents) of certain products that we take for granted today -- jet airplanes, computers, plastics and synthetic fibers, vast quantities of electric power available at the touch of a switch, television, telephones, antibiotics.

TECHNOLOGY AND CAPITALISM

Historically, this technological development has been very closely connected with the rise of capitalist institutions and the powerful incentives that these institutions have provided, through the profit motive, for new technologies. The point was forcefully highlighted well over a century ago by even the severest critics of capitalist society. Marx and Engels, in the "Communist Manifesto," published in 1848:

"The bourgeoisie, during its rule of scarce one hundred years, has created more massive and more colossal productive forces than have all preceding generations together. Subjection of Nature's forces to man, machinery, application of chemistry to industry and agriculture, steam-navigation, railways, electric telegraphs, clearing of whole continents for cultivation, canalisation of rivers, whole populations conjured out of the ground -- what earlier century had even a presentiment that such productive forces slumbered in the lap of social labour?"

Note that Marx and Engels do not attribute this explosion in productivity to the emergence of science, or to a religious ethic, or to some new impulse to human ingenuity. They attribute it specifically to the rise of bourgeois (that is, capitalist) institutions.

In a capitalist market place, the possibilities for profitmaking through the introduction of new technologies are vast. Indeed, Marx and Engels take an even stronger position: not only does a capitalist economy offer powerful incentives to innovation; it is also essential for the very survival of the entrepreneur that he innovate as rapidly as possible. As they had pointed out earlier: "The bourgeoisie cannot exist without constantly revolutionising the instruments of production..."

PROFIT MOTIVE

Subsequent history has lent support to this aspect of Marx's analysis of capitalism. The market economy, in which private entrepreneurs actively seek to increase their private profits, has proven to be immensely effective in mobilizing inventive and innovative talent.

At the same time, the market economy has strongly shaped the direction of technological innovation as well as its rapid rate.

Unfortunately, the profit motive has not always worked to advance society's interests. Consequently, the government has supplemented the operation of the market place with public institutions of financial support for specific kinds of activities. These include agricultural experiment stations and a wide range of public subsidies to basic scientific research, from which private profits are not readily available and for which market incentives alone are therefore insufficient.

Additionally, we have become increasingly concerned in recent years with aspects of the innovative process to which we were surprisingly indifferent in the past. New technologies often inflict certain costs upon their natural and human environment that deserve to be recognized in any social accounting but are not ordinarily part of private profit accounting. These include environmental pollution in a variety of forms and safety and health hazards to workers and consumers.

NEW POLICIES

We urgently need new public policies that will offer incentives for innovation and at the same time protect us against some of the undesirable side effects of technology. Developing such policies will call for political courage and leadership as well as social imagination. The task of reconciling conflicting group interests and priorities without, at the same time, dulling or even destroying the incentive mechanisms underlying technological innovation will be an extremely delicate undertaking.

Large issues are at stake. History makes it clear that private business is strongly influenced by market forces concerning the direction as well as the pace of inventive activity.

Thus, for example, the abundance of forest lands and the cheapness of forest products in colonial America (and later) led to the invention of a vast array of ingenious technologies for exploiting wood. The abundance of good farmland in the American mid-west in the 19th century generated an incredible profusion of machines enabling a single farmer to cultivate a far larger acreage than his European counterpart. And the exhaustion of high quality mineral deposits in the 20th century has already prompted the development of techniques for exploiting low quality ores that were previously neglected.

SHAPING TECHNOLOGY

Our history also shows us that technology is extremely versatile and that it is highly responsive to changes in incentives and rewards. It should not be beyond our ingenuity to use the incentives of the market place to develop new technologies that will deal much more effectively with such current concerns as environment and energy.

It is hardly surprising, for example, that private enterprise developed technologies that fouled the air and treated watercourses as open sewers for their effluents when no cost was imposed upon them for doing so. On the other hand, we can confidently predict that a system of taxes or other charges for industrial activities that pollute the environment will eventually lead to the development of new technologies that produce far less pollution. Indeed, in many industries far less polluting technologies are already emerging.

It is a mistake to regard technology as simply constituting part of the problem, although that has undoubtedly sometimes been the case in the past. Technology is an extremely powerful force whose shape and thrust can be influenced to a far greater extent than is generally recognized. But we cannot shape technology if we reject or strait-jacket it, as has been increasingly the case with some of the regulatory activities of the government in recent years.

Rather, we should seek ways of increasing the rewards for technological innovations of the kind that we regard as socially desirable. Prizes, patent grants, and favorable tax treatment are some of the mechanisms devised in the past to encourage innovation.

By strengthening such incentives and developing new ones, we can assure that technology will, in the future, be more consistently arrayed on the side of the solutions rather than on the side of the problems.

Ahh, those sibling rivalries

I'm not sure what prompted them, but while driving the other day memories of some of my best sibling conflicts came to mind. My family isn't overly large -- five children -- but being the youngest of the lot it seemed like I had more than my share of the hassling.

Some of the attention reaped upon me by my two brothers and two sisters was of the kind, loving nature. I don't remember too much of that though.

The incidents that stick in my memory are the class cases of sibling harassment. I was rather reticent for a brief period of my life. Because of my slight stomach my brothers and sisters delighted in making me drink copious amounts of water and then run up and down the stairs -- so they could hear the water sloshing in my stomach.

At times the joking around took a more physical turn. My oldest brother, Tim, loved to throw me on the floor, a couch or bed and play "lumpy mattress" with me. I was the lumpy mattress and he would toss and turn, trying to "smooth me out". Loads of fun.

He and my other brother, Chris, would get me on the floor, pin my shoulders to the floor with their knees, and tickle me until I screamed.

One of their most creative tricks though didn't even involve physical torture. They'd wait until I'd been sleeping for a while and then run up to my room shouting "Jon, wake-up! We overslept and you're going to be late for school".

Being the conscientious student that I was I tried never to be late.

So I'd scramble to get dressed and run downstairs to gulp down breakfast. Half-way through a bowl of cereal, rubbing the sleep from my eyes, I'd notice that it was still dark outside. A glance at the clock would show it was 11 or 12 at night, not 8:30 a.m. Retaliation was always dangerous.

They were much bigger and stronger than I and to try anything too serious against them was toying with sure death.

Occasionally I'd throw cold water into the shower or flush the toilet while one of them showered, momentary scalding him. These moments of bravery however were few and far between.

I once knocked Chris' two front teeth out, accidentally, and ran as if the devil was chasing me, fearing his wrath. He was in too much pain to bother with me but I was very cautious around him for a long time after.

We still have brief confrontations when the family gets together. Tussles over the couch or the best TV chair, but nothing like before.

I don't have the same apprehension about confrontations with them now though. Somehow, over the years, I've outgrown both Tim and Chris and no longer have to live in fear of brotherly attention.

Boyerne City candidates state their views

Kate Schafer

Kathleen (Kate) D. Schafer, 31, 115 E. Lincoln, will be seeking one of the two city commission seats. Kate and her husband Gary have one daughter. They moved to Boyne City in April, 1977.

Kate, a graduate of Saginaw High School, attended Michigan State University for one and a half years. She is currently employed as a licensed property and casualty agent at William J. Lindsay Insurance Agency in Boyne City.

She lists as relevant experience for her commission bid her experiences with Michigan Bell Telephone Company including budget planning, development of training programs and extensive management training.

1. Why running: The first Johnson, Johnson and Roy workshop cemented my desire to run for a commission seat. Comprehensive, professional planning for our city's future is absolutely essential. Not just to satisfy future growth, either, but to maintain and upgrade the facilities of our present residents.

2. Goals: 1) Formal adoption of and commitment to a comprehensive long-range Master Plan for our community.
2) More low-income and senior citizen housing facilities.

3) Seek out and bring in light manufacturing or industrial to our industrial park.

4) Development of recreational areas to enhance community pride and resources: completion of Rotary Park; municipal beach and waterfront (lake and river frontage) for pedestrian and bike traffic; Barn Mountain - preserve its natural scenic beauty by developing hiking and nature trails; Downtown redevelopment; and adoption of city wide zoning ordinance compatible with Master Plan.

3A. Front Street: I will abide by the decision of Aug. 7. Everyone must understand, however, that the property along Front Street starting from the sewage treatment plant all the way to Division Street is zoned commercial, and this zoning cannot be changed simply because it is unpopular: zoning cannot be used to prevent people from using their property. There are yet, issues such as egress and ingress, utilization of water and sewer, dwelling density, accessibility -- to name a few, that will have to be resolved with the developers of the property.

3B. Downtown Redevelopment: I back this 100 percent. This is important for our sense of community as well as encouraging and stimulating cash flow in our city, from which we all benefit. I especially support a more pedestrian orientation in our downtown area for comfort and ease of shopping, as well as the beauty more greenspace would provide.

3C. Master Plan: There are far too many communities where the evidence of too-late, too little, or inadequate planning is sadly apparent. We have the enviable choice at this time to do something about our future development. Either we are going to manage the inevitable changes or they will manage us. With long-range planning we can prepare ourselves to meet the future and give it shape -- the shape we want.

3D. City Manager: Simply stated, the City Manager is employed by the City Commission to figure out how to implement the policy(ies) it sets. S/he is accountable to -- and only to -- the City Commission, who determines as a body what should be done and why. Our City Manager provides the professional expertise in specific areas like fiscal planning, for instance, where the elected commissioner may or may not have much experience. I have to say that the City Manager reflects the views of the City Commission, in that his/her employment rests solely with the commission.

Boyerne City residents will have six candidates to choose from when they cast their votes in the election for city commissioners Tuesday, Nov. 6. Each voter can vote for any two of the six candidates, and the two with the most votes will be elected for four-year terms.

Voting will take place at City Hall, and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The questions

To help voters make up their minds, The Press asked each candidate to answer several questions on city issues. Their answers, plus some personal background on each candidate, are printed on this page.

Listed below are the questions each candidate was asked to answer:

1. Specifically, what questions you run for office?
2. What are your goals for the city for the next four years?
3. What is your position on these issues:
  - A. Front Street
  - B. Downtown redevelopment
  - D. Master plan
  - C. Relationship of city manager to city commission was a waste of the taxpayers money. If there had been a master plan perhaps the sewer would have been replaced two or three years ago when the road was originally repaved.

3D. City Manager: I feel the City Manager has too much say over what happens to Boyne City. The city commission tends to see things his way. I have to keep emphasizing the point that the city commissioners are there only because they were elected by the people of Boyne City to represent them. The City Manager in turn was chosen by the city commission. He also has to answer to the people. It's time that the people of Boyne City get involved in their city government and that the city commission begin to do the job they were elected to do and that is to represent the people.

wonderful development and helped everyone by the amount of tax money it would have given us to do other improvements with. I also believe the kind of people it would bring would have helped improve the general quality of life in Boyne City.

3B. Downtown Redevelopment: I think this is wonderful and am pleased to see it taking shape. I don't want to see anyone who can't afford to make changes feel pressured into doing it. I am glad the plan didn't develop into a look alike for everyone. I like the old buildings and am happy to see them restored.

3C. Master Plan: I am glad we decided to go for the Master Plan. I am sure it won't please everyone but it could be a good guide to keep us from making more major mistakes. We know Boyne is going to grow so I would like to see it go in the right direction.

3D. City Manager: I think Tim relates well with the commission. Tim is young but he is well trained in his job and works very hard. Since coming to Boyne City he has learned a lot about life in a small town and I think this shows in the way he deals with the public. He has done an excellent job on the city budget and has helped us to understand it.

Thomas Michael Handy

Thomas Michael Handy, 29, 526 S. Park, will also be trying to fill one of the two city commission seats. Handy and his wife Katherine have three children. They have lived in Boyne City for 19 years.

Handy received his associates degree in education at North Central Michigan College. Handy is a lathe operator at Impact Tool Company.

1. Why running: The uproar over Front Street showed me that the commission wasn't listening to the people. They seemed to be following a course that they chose and initially ignoring the wishes of the people of Boyne City. I feel that by running for city commission that I could listen to the people and represent them.

2. Goals: If elected I would try to get businesses interested in settling in Boyne City. The town definitely needs to expand but in ways that are going to bring jobs and higher paying jobs. The tourist industry is fine but with the rising price of gas, it is not a good idea to count on tourism to keep our businesses going.

3A. Front Street: I think the city commission and the city manager found out that there was no way that they could ram an unpopular idea down the throats of the people. They seemed to forget that they are elected by the people to represent the people. The vote brought them back to reality.

3B. Downtown Redevelopment: I think that this is an excellent idea and that any business who wants to refurbish the outside of their building should be given all the help possible. The city is headed in the right direction with the sign ordinance and the planting of trees. The better a town looks, the more chance there is of getting new industries to locate here.

3C. Master Plan: The city needs a master plan badly. Take for example: This summer different sections of the sewer system were replaced. This needed to be done. However, on Park St. a section of street was torn up on Cedar St. to Lincoln St. This street had been paved two or three years ago and now they tear it up to replace the sewer line. With the cost of materials for paving, this

Thelma D. Behling

Thelma D. Behling, 58, will be trying for her second term on the city commission Nov. 6. Behling and her husband Marshall have one child and she has resided in Boyne City all her life.

Behling is a registered nurse, graduated from Hurley Medical Center and received her bachelors of science degree in school health from Central Michigan University. As relevant experience Behling lists her 27 years as a school community nurse.

1. Why running: I decided to run for office because I thought it was time for a change and because I felt there should be a woman in the office. I had been upset for years over the selling of Avalanche. I wanted to see if I could find out why we didn't have a beach in town. I had worked hard with a group of people to get floride in our city water. It has taken a long time but we do have a new water system.

2. Goals: I still want a beach in Boyne and I think we can still have one but, it should be a real community project with everyone helping. I want to see the Avalanche Preserve grow into a place with something for all ages. I want to see the housing at Litzemberger Place doubled. I hope to see the capital improvement plan for new sidewalks and roads continue to grow. I hope to see the Master Plan take shape.

3A. Front Street: My position on the Front Street issue hasn't changed; however, I can accept the vote of the people. We thought it would have been a

Chuck Rivard

Charles Rivard, 39, 220 S. Park, co-owner of Kadens Emporium, is one resident running for city commission. Rivard and his wife Ruth have two daughters. They have lived in Boyne City for over seven years.

Rivard received his bachelor of science degree in business administration from Central Michigan University. He lists as relevant experience in his bid for council his position as president of the Boyne City Housing Commission, past president of the Rotary Club, and director of the Chamber of commerce.

1. Why running: I feel Boyne city has some needs that I would like to have a part in meeting. I believe I can do a good job for Boyne City's citizens. I like to think I can make contributions that will meet the citizens' desires and that will enhance the quality of life in Boyne City.

2. Goals: It is most important that we begin to meet the basic needs of the city. By basic needs I mean adequate water and sewer systems and improved roads and sidewalks. Once these basic needs are met we can move on to other priorities.

3A. Front Street: The advisory vote by the citizens of Boyne City clearly indicated their desire to have Front Street remain open. It is incumbent upon the City Commission to follow the advice of the citizens.

3B. Downtown Redevelopment: I would like to see a continuation of the cooperative efforts among the City Government, Chamber of Commerce, individual citizens and business persons toward the betterment of downtown Boyne City. A viable downtown insures a solid tax base and continued employment.

3C. Master Plan: I hope the Master Plan, because it encompasses direct citizen input, becomes a vehicle to assist in identifying the basic needs and priorities of the City. It should be a valuable tool for City Government at all levels.

3D. City Manager: The City Manager is hired by the City Commission whose members are elected by the citizens of Boyne City. The relationship therefore is that the City Manager works for the City under the direction of the City Commission.

It must be well planned and done at a moderate rate following that plan. Tourism adds pressures on parking, parks and businesses because of a large difference from summer to winter traffic. The ski season also creates problems in some residential areas.

3C. Master Plan: I feel we do need some kind of Master Plan to develop the future of Boyne City. We should have a lot of different parts involved in the Master Plan -- redevelopment, sewers, parks, and parking facilities. We have a lot of park land but it takes money and management to run them and maintain them. Parking, especially in the winter needs to be planned. With the abundance of snow the parking problem is bad.

3D. City manager: The city manager was hired by the commission and is paid to do a job for the city and city commission. With all the departments involved, the manager and city commission must be closely involved in all planning and changes. The manager is only one person so with input from the commission a larger majority of the people's ideas and wishes can be served.

Clare Dietze

Clare Dietze, 53, 134 W. Lincoln, is running for a position on the city commission. Dietze, a carpenter, and his wife Helen have four children. They have lived in Boyne City 14 years.

Dietze is a high school graduate and attended college for two years. He lists as relevant experience that he was a school board member in Spring Lake and owner and operator of the Cedar Street Grocery store.

1. Why running: I feel I can be of service to the people of the city and help to express the ideas of the majority of the people.

2. Goals: I would support and encourage additional small types of varied industry to locate near Boyne City as earnings would help all types of existing business in the city. Varied small industry would give the younger people a chance at different types of employment and not be geared to as many lay-offs and unemployment.

3A. Front Street: The people of the city voted the closing of Front Street down and I agree with that decision.

3B. Downtown development: I am in favor of downtown redevelopment. This is really needed as the downtown grows.

Martin L. Paul

Martin L. Paul, 69, 2514 Charlevoix Street, will be seeking a seat on the city commission. Paul and his wife Gertrude have five children. They have lived in Boyne City for 20 years.

Paul, a high school graduate, lists as relevant experience in his bid for a seat, that he was a union official and instructor, a county commissioner and he holds a seat on the Boyne City Planning Commission.

Paul did not respond to The Press questionnaire directly. Instead, he submitted a statement of his goals. This statement is printed as a letter to the editor on page four.

East Jordan candidates discuss issues

Jim Meredith
Mayor

James Meredith, 47, 106 Third, is seeking his fourth term as mayor of East Jordan. Meredith was born in East Jordan and has lived in the area all his life. He and his wife Gloria have three children.

Meredith works at Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative. He graduated from East Jordan high and lists as relevant experience his previous years on the city council and experience on the Jordan Township board.

1. Why running: I was kind of drafted by a group of interested people who filed a petition for me.

2. Goals: I think primarily goals are set by immediate needs. I'd like to see two or three things. Road work on the west side and in the Hillcrest-Christensen Ridge area for one thing. And I'd like to see airport improvements for another.

3A. Sewer: I think it's much too costly. Residents can't afford the total program. I think we can make necessary improvements without going that route.

3B. Downtown development: The city can only participate as far as its own buildings go. I think it (the redevelopment project) should be done. I would wholeheartedly support it as far as the city can legally go.

3C. City superintendent: The city superintendent should answer in all areas to the council. Any purchases over $700 have to be brought to the council. Policy is dictated by the council and so is spending. Directives have been set forth so he's already answering to the council.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: In the last three years we've budgeted money and tried to get money to re-do the lakefront and the bids for grants have been declined. It looks good for next spring though. I'm definitely for lakefront development and tourism promotion.

Fred Vincent
Mayor

Frederick F. Vincent, 32, 104 Division is running for mayor against incumbent Jim Meredith. A self-employed barber, Vincent has lived in East Jordan for 25 years.

Vincent and his wife Lorie have three children. A barber college graduate, Vincent lists no relevant experience for his bid for the mayor's position.

1. Why running: and 2. Goals: I'm a citizen of East Jordan as well as a businessman and I hope to see more people get involved with the running of the city.

3A. Sewers: Something will have to be done in the future but I feel I should look into it further for myself.

3B. Downtown development: It's a good idea but there are a lot of people and money involved. It needs to be looked into from everyone's point of view.

3C. City superintendent: I feel he should consult the council on all major matters that concern the people. After all, what is the council for except to represent the people.

3D. Lake front improvement and tourism: Some sections of the lakefront need work but other areas of town also need it. East Jordan does get a lot of tourists and we should make the best of that situation.

Ward 1

Gil Fox, 49, 215 Bridge St. is running unopposed for his third term as councilman from the first ward. A councilman since his write-in election in 1975, Fox is a chemistry and radiation protection supervisor at the Consumers Power Big Rock plant in Charlevoix.

Fox has a B.S. degree from San Jose State in California. He and his wife Bonnie have lived in East Jordan more than 17 years. The father of five is a pastor in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Gil Fox

1. Why running: Urging of other people. The opening was there (in 1975) and I was approached. Once I got into it I sort of stayed.

2. Goals: I certainly would like to see the community center completed. It's a real good project, real good for the town.

3A. Sewers: The completion of sewers within the city I am very favorable about. The other aspects of the plan I don't have enough information on. I have some questions I still need answers for.

3B. Downtown development: I think the plans are good. I'm pleased with the direction that it's going. The merchants are taking the major burden. The Chamber of Commerce has got the ball. I'm pleased with the way it's going.

3C. City superintendent: As a whole I'm pleased with the work he (current superintendent Herm Rasch) is doing. A city superintendent must have a certain amount of leeway that any administrative officer needs. Mostly, with anything involving large amounts of money, he comes back to us (the council).

3D. Lakefront improvement and tourism: I'm for these. Many of these areas (lakefront improvements) we've been working on for many years. Many of them we don't have financing for ourselves and are always looking for ways to finance.

3C. City superintendent: The city superintendent should answer in all areas to the council. Any purchases over $700 have to be brought to the council. Policy is dictated by the council and so is spending. Directives have been set forth so he's already answering to the council.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: In the last three years we've budgeted money and tried to get money to re-do the lakefront and the bids for grants have been declined. It looks good for next spring though. I'm definitely for lakefront development and tourism promotion.

Gary Anderson
Ward 2

Gary Anderson, a self-employed painter who listed his address as 104 Bowen on his candidate petition, didn't respond to the questionnaire sent by The Press.

Al Joseph
Ward 2

Albert A. Joseph, 34, 401 Garfield, is one of two candidates for the second ward seat currently held by Frank Campbell. Joseph works in pattern storage at the East Jordan Iron Works. He and his wife Bev have three children.

Joseph has lived in East Jordan 12 years and lived 12 years in Bellaire. He's a graduate of Bellaire High School and attended Tri-State College one year. As relevant experience for his council bid he lists 10 years' experience working with the East Jordan Boy Scouts program.

1. Why running: After ten years of telling boys that a person has a duty to serve his community where he can, I couldn't say no when asked to run for city council. Now I'm looking forward to serve East Jordan more actively than I have in the past.

2. Goals:

2A. A comprehensive solid waste management program!

2B. An extended community recreation program!

3A. Sewers: If you've ever used an outhouse, how can you be against a sewer system? - But - I can't afford a large increase in taxes, nor a larger 'city sewer' bill. Therefore I must be against the proposed sewer additions, until we can find a better way to finance it or cut costs!

3B. Downtown development: The city has two buildings in the downtown district which I feel we should renovate to keep pace with the business community.

3C. Superintendent: Let me start by first saying, I believe our city superintendent should be a professional person with the good interest of East Jordan in mind. With this in mind, he is an advisor to the East Jordan residents will be choosing a mayor and five council members from three wards in the city election on Nov. 6.

[City residents will also be voting on pay raises for council members. See front page for details].

Voting will take place at the Senior Center, and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

All registered voters living in the city can vote for mayor. For the city council positions, voters will only be able to vote for candidates for their ward.

Here's how the races stack up, ward by ward:

In the first ward Gil Fox is running unopposed for the only first ward seat being voted on.

In the second ward Gary Anderson and Al Joseph are running against each other for one seat while the other second ward seat is open without any announced candidates.

In the third ward Pat Sweet and Jerry Vrondran are facing off for one seat while the other seat has two announced write-in candidates, Ken Hagen and Hazel Colburn.

Jim Meredith and Fred Vincent are both running for the mayor's office.

The questions

To help voters make up their minds, The Press asked each candidate to answer several questions on city issues. Their answers, plus some personal background about each candidate, are printed on this page.

Listed below are the questions each candidate was asked to answer:

1. Specifically, what prompted you to run for office?
2. What are your goals for the city for the next four years?
3. What is your position on these issues:
  - A. Proposed sewer system additions.
  - B. Downtown redevelopment.
  - C. The relationship of the city superintendent to the council -- what responsibility should he have on his own, and in what areas should he answer directly to the council?
  - D. Lakefront improvement and tourism promotion.

council as a professional who spends his full time working for East Jordan. He has the responsibility to run the city and answers to the city council in all matters.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: I can foresee no major lakefront improvement in the near future. But we need to maintain and repair our existing facilities.

Pat Sweet
Ward 3

Patricia A. Sweet, 42, 301 Mary, is running for re-election in the third ward. She and her husband own Yesterday's Treasures Antiques and Amity Furniture Stripping. Sweet has lived in the city for 15 years. She and her husband Jerry have three children.

Sweet, who has attended several college classes since graduating from high school, lists her positions with the East Jordan Housing Commission, St. Anne's Altar Society and East Jordan Historical Society as relevant experience for her council bid.

1. Why running: I chose to run again for a seat on the city council because I enjoy the opportunity of serving the community and being a part of guiding our city's progress. Sitting on the city council is like listening to the heartbeat of the community; you learn of its strengths and weaknesses and administer to it accordingly.

2. Goals: I hope to see East Jordan continue to upgrade and improve its services to its residents, while spending our tax dollars wisely. Our community is growing, and we need the foresight to visualize our growth in ten or twenty years from now in order to formulate our plans for today; so the resulting progress is something we can all be proud of.

3A. Sewers: The proposed sewer system addition would definitely be an asset to the community, but at present, I can not see how to avoid it also being a financial hardship on those property owners directly involved. An important question is: "If we can not afford it today, how will we possibly be able to afford it tomorrow?" Hindsight tells us we should have done South Maple when the rest of the city's sewer lines were put in. We should look into the availability of Federal or State monies that might be a help in funding such a project.

3B. Downtown development: Our downtown redevelopment or renovation is crucial at present. Unless we make our downtown area attractive and with adequate parking facilities, we can not hope to attract new businesses to the downtown area. We must keep our downtown vital to the community or we shall soon be referring to it as "old town" while the city's perimeter flourishes.

3C. City Superintendent: I believe the relationship of the City Superintendent's responsibilities to the city council is to manage the city's business and departments within the guidelines set forth by the city council, for the city's best interests. To spend our monies wisely, exercise good judgement, draw upon his technical expertise, act as a liaison for close working relationships among city departments and the city council, to delegate authority so that his time is spent on problems others are not as qualified to solve, and to be adept at public relations, for he represents the city in many situations.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: Lakefront improvement is high on the project priority list of the city. Presently we have engineering submitted toward a Federal R.C.&D. grant relative to the shoreline of Memorial Park, as well as a tentative grant of $10,000 from the Michigan Coastal Management Program toward planning of improvements for the tourist park shoreline and beach, which if passed in Congress, will be a positive step toward achievement of the project.

Jerry Vrondran
Ward 3

Jerry L. Vrondran, 36, 615 Main St. is running for the second ward city council seat currently held by Pat Sweet. Vrondran is a marina mechanic for Walker Marina. He and his wife Juli have three children.

Vrondran has lived in East Jordan all his life, attended East Jordan schools and completed the eleventh grade.

1. Why running: I have attended some of the meetings this past nine months and was not too impressed with the way things were run with some of the city council members. They didn't seem to know what was going on with the city affairs.

2. Goals: I hate to say that we need some changes in this city if we want it to stay a city. It is so far backward that instead of going ahead we keep going backward. We should get together and talk about what we want for the town but most important what about the kids that are growing up now. I would hate to see it in the next four years.

3A. Sewers: I really have not had time to get into this.

3B. Downtown development: It would be nice to see the stores improved, but I hate to see that money go into something that when you go to the back of the stores they look like they could fall at any time.

3C. City Superintendent: At this time I don't know all of the city superintendent's responsibility.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: In the interest of the tourism park I feel that it was a mistake to make the people move, because of the simple fact that they are not making the money they were making when they had a steady income off the year around residents, and the money they took away from most of the business people.

Ken Hagen
Ward 3

Kenneth Reid Hagen, 37, 803 Main St., is one of two third ward residents who've announced a desire to fill the remaining year of retired city councilman Harry Watson's term. Hagen is the pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan. He and his wife Jane have three children and have lived in East Jordan one and a half years.

Hagen has a bachelor of arts degree in history and sociology and a masters degree in theology. He lists as relevant experience for his council bid his current position on the council, he's filling Watson's seat until Jan. 1.

1. Why running: Some people convinced me that I would be a good addition to the council. I think that I can be fair in making judgement about what to do when presented with an issue.

2. Goals: Provide services and protection for the people of East Jordan.

This protection and service hopefully can be done with the least amount of money spent. I also hope that we always keep looking toward the future in all of our actions. We must not stop looking ahead.

3A. Sewers: The sewer project at this time seems to be neither wanted by the people nor is the city financially able to do it. It seems to me that the people need to want a project like this or it will not work. I do not see a need at this time for the extension of the sewer line. I do not see an immediate need to expand the lagoon either. I think that we still need to watch this situation very closely and be prepared to act in the future if we need to.

3B. Downtown development: The primary responsibility for the downtown area lies with the merchants. I think that the city council needs to work with the merchants, but only to the degree that council will try to help the merchants if the merchants also are wanting a redevelopment. The merchants are the ones most directly affected and therefore the impetus must come from them.

3C. City Superintendent: The city superintendent is directly responsible to the council. Council may delegate to him as much as council wants, but council is still the controlling body. He may do as much or as little as council decides. This contract of responsibility should be reviewed periodically by council and city superintendent.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: East Jordan has a great potential since it is located on the lake. The harbor improvement project should be a high priority for the coming year. More dock space, fishing areas, boat launching facilities need to be improved. We are letting this natural resource pass us by if we do not do something soon.

The promotion of tourism can only work if we have something to offer the tourist. Promotion can only work after harbor, downtown area, and other parts of the city are taken care of. This town needs to first make sure it has something to offer before it starts inviting tourists to come.

Hazel Colburn
Ward 3

Hazel B. Colburn, 28, 708 Milton, is one of two residents of the third ward seeking the council seat vacated by Harry Watson. The seat will be a one year term. Colburn is an artist and housewife who has lived in East Jordan her whole life. She and her husband Neal have three children.

Colburn is a graduate of East Jordan High School and lists as relevant experience in her bid for the council her membership on the Chamber of Commerce Renovation Committee and her experience as a reporter for the Charlevoix County Press covering city council meetings.

1. Why running: East Jordan is experiencing a time of change and opportunity. The new health center, school, and developing community center are just a few examples. I would like to actively participate in this time of progress.

2. Goals: I would like to see more comprehensive, long-term planning. Beyond this, I would like to see greater use of the council's standing committees to completely review the matters placed before it. This would help to insure better decision making.

3A. Sewers: I presume that the plan for expanded waste water treatment facilities is accurate and justified, but I feel that no action should be taken until two conditions are satisfied. First, the city should await the publishing of the results of the 1980 census in order to confirm the accuracy of the population projections of the plan. Second, if the final plan is acceptable to South Arm Township, a fair agreement should be entered into so that the township could share both in the benefits and the cost of the expanded facility.

3B. Downtown development: I feel that it is commendable that the city passed a tax plan to encourage renovation. This was a step in the right direction, however, I would like to see greater communication and cooperation between the council and the business community.

3C. City Superintendent: It is the responsibility of the city council to reflect public opinion and to act in the best interest of the city residents by creating policy in the form of ordinances, plans, etc. Since the City Superintendent is the council's executive, it is his responsibility to carry out the council's policy decisions utilizing his professional judgement. As their employee he is responsible to the council regarding the appropriateness and effectiveness of his professional actions.

3D. Lakefront and tourism: Further development of Memorial Park and the city docks, greater development of the Tourist Park picnic area, and cooperative development of Sportsman's Park would be helpful in making a pleasant lakefront. This, downtown renovation and the improvement of some residences would be activities that could be encouraged in order to make East Jordan an attractive community to visit and in which to live.

SURVEY QUESTION

What do you think of the oil company profits?

I knew all the time that when the gas prices went up that we still had plenty of oil.

It's a rotten shame the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

I'm glad the House reversed itself on the gasoline decontrol otherwise we would probably pay up to $5 a gallon in the next few years.

It caused indigestion in Washington and it just makes me plain sick.

Well, to me it's like the coffee situation a few years back. Once the prices got up to an outrageous amount there was more coffee than anyone knew what to do with.

Someone has to be making a profit because the gas station owners aren't.

Let's all go back to wood stoves for heat and driving wagons for riding trains and watch the oil prices go down.

Anything in great demand always increases in price.

Hopefully the car companies will come up with a car that runs on water and someone else a furnace that heats with hot water.

I try not to think about it.

More direct dial calls for Boyne Falls phones

BOYNE FALLS - Michigan Bell customers in Boyne Falls will be able to dial their own long distance person-to-person, collect, credit card and bill-to-third-number calls beginning at 8 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 1.

E. W. "Mike" Reid, Michigan Bell local manager, said the company is gradually phasing out its Petoskey long distance operator service operations as part of a continuing program to give customers greater cost and efficiency benefits from new technology.

Beginning Nov. 1, long distance calls from Boyne Falls will be routed to the company's electronic long distance center in Saginaw, Reid said.

When making one of the new time-saving calls, customers dial "0" (Operator), immediately followed by the area code and then the telephone number in the distant city, Reid said.

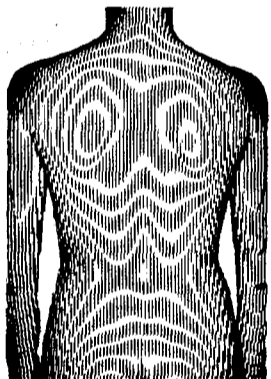

An operator at the company's electronic long distance center in Saginaw will come on the line long enough to get acceptance of a collect call, obtain credit card or bill-to-third numbers, or to get the right person on the line for a person-to-person call.

The Spectrum in Petoskey

Coffeehouse is a showcase for performers

BY DIANNE MURRAY

PETOSKEY - The talent mixes with the atmosphere. The audience mixes with the talent. And they all blend together to make the Spectrum Community Center.

The Spectrum Center is located on the second floor of the Victorian-era building at 421 Howard Street in Petoskey. On the main floor is a natural food store, the Grain Train.

The Spectrum, just past its one-year anniversary, is a coffee house founded by a group of young artists and musicians who needed an outlet for their creative abilities.

It is a non-profit community center offering "space and an atmosphere" for musicians, artists, theatre groups and anyone who likes to perform, said Jim Gillespie, co-ordinator of the center. Gillespie is also manager of the Grain Train.

"It's a place for those who like to hear local talent away from the bar atmosphere," he said. Quite a few of the people who hang out and listen to the talent are either members of the steering committee for the center, or are musicians wanting to hear other groups jamming.

Frequently members of the audience will join the entertainers and perform with them, Gillespie said.

As you listen to the entertainment you can sip on a cup of hot herbal tea. The selection is wide, ranging from Red Zinger to Emperor's Choice, Mette Orange Spice or Rosehops, just to name a few. Coffee, juices and mineral water are available also.

Every Saturday evening, beginning at 9, local musicians are featured. Any musician wishing to perform at the Spectrum should contact Gillespie. He schedules one or two artists each Saturday night, but the schedule is quite "loose" he said and the Spectrum is always looking for new talent.

Performers range from the young to the old, and from hard rock to banjo. "Usually we have a single guitarist-singer, or two people playing folk music or jazz, but several times we have had a rock band."

Many of the performers are just starting out and the Spectrum offers them a chance to play informally in front of an audience. Although they may seem nervous, it is an excellent time to find out how it is to perform for and in front of others. But the initial fright vanishes soon because the audience, though small, gives strong moral support. Of the 15 to 20 people in the audience sitting at wooden tables, half of them are musicians with a genuine interest in hearing new, local talent.

Also on Saturdays, between 10 a.m. and noon, there are puppet and mask-making classes. Gillespie said the mask-making class has been very popular with Halloween just around the corner. Several people attending the class will use the masks they've made for Halloween costumes.

The white stucco walls are decorated with several of the masks -- monsters, spiders, and other odd faces.

Between 1 and 3 p.m. on Saturday, a crafts class is offered. It is a "do-your-own thing" class with supervision available but what is made is up to the individual. Gillespie said.

Monday evenings are "open-mike" jam sessions. Musicians and listeners all participate in this fun. No one is scheduled to play, Gillespie said, and several of the "house musicians" usually play.

Some of the local artists who often show up Monday nights include Phil Harrison of Harbor Springs, a ragtime guitarist; Sue Wood of Petoskey, who plays piano, and Gillespie, who plays guitar.

Wednesdays at 8 p.m., poetry readings and any special performances fill the Spectrum Center. The Theatre of Transformation, a puppet and poetry group, perform Wednesdays along with other poetry readers or theatre groups.

A special class coming up the first or second weekend in December will be about herbs. A herbologist will speak about the historical uses of herbs, herb preparation and how to grow your own herbs.

Other classes which are available and are announced before hand include women's exercise, dance classes, baton twirling and children's day classes.

The front room, which has floor-to-ceiling windows, is used for several of these classes and for a dance floor when bands perform.

For more information or to reserve your place on the calendar of events, contact Gillespie at 347-2381.

Playoff hopes still dim

One foe left for undefeated season

Senior halfback Duane Cutler scored two touchdowns in the Red Devils' 38-0 win Friday and tied his father Don's single season scoring record of 19 touchdowns. Cutler will be trying to break the 30 year old record and the Devils will be shooting for an undefeated season against Inland Lakes Friday.

EAST JORDAN - One more game and a season long goal could be reached -- the Red Devil football team is within one victory of an undefeated season and sole claim to the Ski Valley conference title.

Kalkaska was the latest victim in the Devils' march to the league crown. Steve Graham and Duane Cutler led the way in the 38-0 win, as they have all season long, each scoring twice.

The last game, this Friday in East Jordan, should be one of the toughest tests of the year. Indian River Inland Lakes brings a 6-2 record and one of the league's strongest defenses into the game.

"Inland Lakes is really a hard-hitting team," Devil coach Frank Holes said, looking ahead to Friday's game. "Their defense is much better than their offense."

Inland Lakes' losses were to Manacelona and Bellaire -- to date the strongest foes the Devils have faced.

"We're going to have to play a really good game," Holes predicted. "They pursue well, they hit. People say they have the best class D lineman in northern Michigan."

"We'll find out because we're going to run right at him," Holes said. "It's going to be a challenge for our offense."

The offense will be up to the challenge if previous performances are an indication. Friday's two scores and 137 yards rushing gave Cutler two milestones.

The senior back tied the school season scoring record of 19 touchdowns set by his father Don in 1949 and went over 1,000 yards rushing for the season.

Cutler's 1,000 yards made him the second back to reach that plateau this season. Graham now has 1,390 yards following his 154 yard night against Kalkaska.

The Devils' 403 yards rushing wasn't the extent of East Jordan's offense by any means.

Quarterback Del Ingalls hooked up with Tim Kraemer for a 25 yard scoring pass while second string signal caller Dan Goebel completed three of four passes for 56 yards.

Holes said that despite the near-500 yard offensive night the defense was the key in Friday's win.

"I thought it was our best defensive game of the year," the second year coach said. "They (Kalkaska) were a little beat up coming into the game and more beat up when they finished."

"It's the old saying," Holes laughed, "the offense sells tickets at the defense wins games."

Steve Hilden led the defense with 14 tackles, a fumble recovery and two quarterback sacks. Tim Vermillion and Mike Cihak each had 11 tackles and Vermillion added a fumble recovery. Jerry Fuller had ten tackles, a fumble recovery and an intercepted pass and Bill Spence and DuWayne Dougherty each had eight tackles.

Holes expects more of the same against Inland Lakes.

"The defense is going to do a good job," Holes said confidently. "If we win this game we win the conference all to ourselves."

Undefeated season or not the Devils' hopes for a playoff berth are slim.

"I haven't given up hope yet," Holes maintained. "I still think there's an outside chance."

The chance is definitely outside though. The Devils were rated fifth in their region in the ratings that came out last week, some 15 points behind the second place team.

Only the top two teams from each region qualify for playoff competition and with only one game left the Devils' have little hope of moving past three teams in the standings.

In an effort to improve the Devils' rating next year, when the team again should be strong, Holes has been working on some schedule changes to pit East Jordan against some stronger foes.

"We've got a game against Roscommon," Holes said, "a good class B team. We have some good kids coming back next year and want to go for everything. Find out how good they really are."

It was Parents' Night at Boyne City last Friday night with parents of players, cheerleaders, statisticians, managers and members of the band honored. Unfortunately the Ramblers couldn't provide the crowd with a win. Boyne dropped its eighth game of the season, 35-0, to Cheboygan.

JVs true to Devil tradition

EAST JORDAN - The Red Devil junior varsity football squad ran its winning streak to eight with a 30-0 win over Kalkaska.

Tom Peters, with 191 yards, and Bob Parsons, with 183 yards, led the junior Devils offense while Dave Morris, with 11 tackles, Tom Russell with 10 and Todd Ingalls with nine led the defense.

The defense provided the early scoring for East Jordan. Dave Karlskin fell on a blocked punt in the first period for the first score. Peters added the conversion.

In the second period the defense scored a safety. Peters had two touchdowns in the third period while Parsons scored after a 40 yard run in the fourth quarter for the final score.

Boyne's last chance

BOYNE CITY - The Ramblers' last hope to avoid a perfect season -- perfectly awful -- will be Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Charlevoix.

The 0-8 Ramblers will try for their only win of the year against the Rayders in a cross-lake rivalry featuring two teams suffering down years.

The Rayders started out strong, holding a state rating the first part of the season, before they succumbed to the same problem the Ramblers have run up against -- injuries.

Boyne City has had its share of sick or injured players this season and as a result has had problems scoring, let alone winning, this season.

Last Friday both squads lost. Charlevoix fell to St. Ignace 21-6 while Boyne City was losing to league-leading Cheboygan 35-0.

Despite the score Friday, Boyne coach Bob McCullough said the game was "a good game".

The Ramblers trailed only 14-0 at the half and McCullough said the atmosphere at halftime was optimistic.

"We thought we were going back out and win," McCullough said.

A long touchdown on the Chiefs' first possession knocked the wind out of Boyne's sails and the Ramblers' old nemesis carelessness turned their hopes around.

As the game wore on and the Chiefs' score ran up McCullough substituted freely and reserves gave up the final scores.

The players aren't mentally down though, McCullough noted.

"They realize they're good," he said, "they realize they've screwed up and they want to win one."

"Charlevoix ought to be a helluva game," he claimed, "it always is. It doesn't matter who's good."

Boyne JVs drop second straight

BOYNE CITY - The Rambler junior varsity football team fell to 5-2 on the year losing its second straight game 26-8 to Cheboygan.

"They ran the ball well," coach John McGeorge said of Cheboygan. "Boyne tried hard but was outclassed."

The win was the junior Chiefs 18 straight.

Cheboygan scored twice in the first period and twice in the second period.

Boyne scored its only touchdown on a third quarter run by John Tompkins. Bob Christy added the extra points. A Nov. 1 game at Boyne versus Charlevoix will close the JVs season.

Men's league starting

The Tri-City Basketball League will begin its season with games this Sunday and next Wednesday.

Sunday's games at Boyne City High School include Schafer's vs. Great Lakes Energy Systems at 12:30 p.m., Boyne River Inn vs. EJ Patterns at 1:45, and Payton's Well Drilling vs. Bos at 3 p.m.

Next Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the new East Jordan High School, Country Star

Market will play Stevens Concrete at 7:15 p.m., and Ski & Shore Real Estate will play Ellsworth at 8:30.

A schedule of all future games will be available at the first game. All team and individual fees must be paid before the first game.

Anyone interested in playing or officiating in the league may call Boyne City Recreation Director Mark Guitart at 582-6765.

Tim Crumbaugh

Tim Crumbaugh is the Rambler Athlete of the Week. Crumbaugh, son of Joanne Crumbaugh, 232 Court St., qualified for the class C state finals in cross-country by finishing 16 in the regional meet at Ludington Saturday. The junior runner "ran a strong third mile" according to coach Bob Wollenberg, to qualify for the state meet. Crumbaugh and teammate Tom Finister will both run in the state meet, the first time Boyne has had two runners qualify for the finals.

"Last year with seven players all the parents fit around the center circle," Carl Moser, Boyne Falls principal recalled. The Parents' Night crowd Oct. 23 was quite a bit bigger though, stretching the length of the gym. The Loggers had a tough time in the game following, dropping the contest to Johannesburg-Lewiston 106-20.

Falls varsity drops two

BOYNE FALLS - The Boyne Falls girls basketball team ran into a high-powered Johannesburg-Lewiston offense last Tuesday before a Parents' Night crowd, losing 106-20.

Debbie House, a junior forward for Jo-burg, set a new school scoring record in the win with 40 points.

"I still feel we're about two years behind their program," Logger junior varsity coach Joel Donaldson said of the Johannesburg-Lewiston team. "They have a very fine program -- they're way beyond learning fundamentals."

Donaldson's junior varsity team also lost to J-L, falling by a 52-25 score. The loss was the second in league play for Boyne Falls against nine league wins.

Both of the losses have been to the strong Johannesburg squad.

Thursday night the story was different for the junior varsity as they topped Ellsworth 26-25 in a defensive struggle. The varsity fell again, this time 58-15.

The JV's fought off a stubborn Ellsworth 2-1-2 zone defense to win while turnovers plagued the varsity.

Runners qualify two for finals

BOYNE CITY - Coach Bob Wollenberg's cross-country team performed as expected Saturday, qualifying a runner for the state finals for the sixth year of the eight years Boyne has had a squad. That wasn't all though, the team recorded one milestone and just missed another.

For the first time in the eight year history of the sport at Boyne, two runners will be making the trip south for the state finals. Tim Crumbaugh, a junior runner, will be joining Tom Pluister when the senior runner makes his third straight state finals-appearance.

Marie Behling narrowly missed qualifying for the girls' state finals, missing by five places the cutoff for qualification.

The Ramblers did well as a team at the regionals Saturday, according to Wollenberg.

"We placed sixth out of 12 or 13 teams," Boyne's coach said. "We'd hoped to place fifth or sixth, Benzie Central turned out to be stronger than we thought and beat us."

Clare won the regionals with an amazing performance. The Pioneers placed runners first, second, third, sixth, seventh and tenth to run away from the rest of the field.

Pluister hung with the leaders past the first mile mark in the race. The torrid pace, on a day marked by rain and chilling sub-40 degree temperatures, was too much for Pluister to maintain though.

The all-stater had missed practice the week before the race due to an infection.

"Tom went out too fast," Wollenberg explained. "He was trying to do more than he was capable of on that day."

Pluister hung on to finish 14 in the field, two places ahead of Crumbaugh.

"Crumbaugh is doing really well," Wollenberg said. "He won't take no for an answer. He has total desire, he's a real tough kid."

Sophomore Jim Brabbs was the third finisher for Boyne missing state qualification by 11 places with his 35 place finish.

Jeff Snyder, Matt Irwin, Bob Herman and Brian McGeorge rounded out Boyne's finishers.

Penny Grunow had a team-high 28 points in the Ramblers' come from behind win over Charlevoix last Thursday. The 69-54 victory left the girls at 6-5 on the year, 3-4 in the conference. The junior varsity Ramblers won big against the Rayders, 54-24. The girls entertain Rogers City tonight [Thursday] at 6:15.

New head coach for Logger hoop team

BOYNE FALLS--Joel Donaldson, who has coached boys and girls junior varsity teams for two years, has been named boys varsity basketball coach at Boyne Falls High School.

"What I'm interested in doing," Donaldson said, is building a long-term strong program and changing some attitudes.

"The school's behind me. They're getting us new warm-ups and jerseys, and they've been very supportive."

Under Bernie Corpe last year, the Loggers didn't win a game, and Donaldson doesn't expect the cagers to be a powerhouse this year. "But we've got a good bunch of kids, and they have good attitudes. If they work hard, they're going to have some success."

Donaldson, 27, is in his third year of teaching at Boyne Falls. He holds a political science degree from Grand Valley State College, and he teaches eighth grade and a senior government.

He grew up in Ellsworth and graduated from Ellsworth High School in 1970. In high school he was interested in all sports, and he lettered in basketball, football, track, and baseball.

Donaldson and his wife Lilly now live in East Jordan.

Moving into the boys junior varsity coaching slot for the Loggers will be Dale Reinhardt. He has coached varsity and junior varsity boys and girls basketball for Boyne Falls in past years.

Two more ways to hold down insurance costs for everybody

Which Senate Bill 428 WON'T do!

The Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan see two sure ways to hold down insurance costs throughout this state. We favor a stop on double benefits for injuries in automobile accidents. And full investigation of suspected arson-caused fires, to stop cheats from collecting insurance on buildings they deliberately burn.

I.I.A.M. has asked the Michigan Legislature to put these changes into law. But, as with other insurance changes we've discussed in these ads, the Legislature seems not to hear. Instead ...

The Legislature is shaping up, as "essential insurance reform," a plan to cut the cost of car and fire insurance in a few large metropolitan areas. But this plan -- proposed Senate Bill 428 -- would boost the cost of car and fire insurance everywhere else in Michigan.

Sound unreal? Ask your Legislator. SB 428 is complex and technical, so don't get drowned in details. Just ask how it will affect you. And what it will do to your insurance rates.

Then, if you're convinced, join I.I.A.M. in asking for simple, workable changes in the law. Changes that could hold down insurance costs for everybody. Changes like:

- 1. Require co-ordinated health-care benefits on automobile accidents.
Most Michigan residents have "hospitalization" insurance that covers medical costs after any accidental injury. For auto accidents the same costs and losses are also covered by "No-Fault" car insurance. Some injured people collect double benefits! But all car insurance buyers would benefit if the law required co-ordinated coverage, with any "hospitalization" insurance paying off first.
  - 2. Appropriate funds for strong investigation and enforcement on arson.
Too many arsonists get away with fire-for-profit -- burning a building to collect insurance money that comes from premiums honest people pay. Because our police don't have the budgets for investigating every suspicious fire, to enforce the law. We believe the Legislature should provide funds to put a stop to arson. It's a smart way to hold down insurance costs.
- If you share these I.I.A.M. views, tell your Legislator. But do it before Senate Bill 428 becomes the law.

salutes the East Jordan "Player of the Week"

Steve Hilden

Steve Hilden is the Red Devil Athlete of the Week following his standout defensive performance in the Devils' 38-0 win Friday. Hilden was moved from noseguard to defensive tackle before the game and responded with a team-leading 14 tackles. The son of Bill and Harriet Hilden, Ellsworth Road, also had a fumble recovery and a pair of quarterback sacks in the game. "He has a heck of a nose for the ball," coach Frank Holes said of Hilden.

DON'T BUCK THE INEVITABLE

Mr. Tub meets a friend on the street who greets him: "Wow, looks like you've gained a lot of weight". Mr. Tub answers: "Yes, I only weighed eight pounds when I was born".

Real estate value along with everything else, has also climbed upward from the beginning of time. The early settlers bought land for two cents an acre. Ever since then, real estate has provided the largest single means for individual accumulation of wealth in this country. Why real estate more than any other investment? Because of the principle of leverage.

When something continually increases in value the more you own, the more you will profit as prices rise. In real estate, because of its excellent loan security, your profit can be magnified. For example, if you invest $25 as a down payment for a $100,000 building and this property later doubles in value. Your profit would then be actually four times your cash investment of $25,000.

Does Boyne City need its airport?

BY DIANNE MURRAY

BOYNE CITY - The city airport has not been in demand as much as in past years and the firm doing the city's Master Plan has suggested the airport be disbanded to make room for an industrial park on the property.

Controversy over the issue include restrictions in the land deed and grant from the state, and opposition from citizens. These restrictions have to be compared to the advantage of having additional income in the city due to more industry.

At a master plan workshop Oct. 18, the planning firm of Johnson, Johnson and Roy predicted that by the year 2000, the population of Boyne City will be 5,227. That is a 75 percent increase over the present city population.

Due to the population increase, the need for industry will be greater, the planners said. The firm predicted that an additional 30 acres will be needed for industrial purposes. Currently, 16 acres are used for industrial needs.

The airport is on approximately 40 acres of "ideal land" for industrial purposes, according to planning representative Kim Woodrow.

According to the planners, an industrial site should have nearby public utilities, flat developable land and access to highways.

The planning firm suggested two sites for industrial use. One is the airport 40 acres and the second site is approximately 20 acres on State Street east of Rotary Park. That land is currently zoned agricultural.

The problem with the property on State Street, according to City Manager Tim Clifton, is that in order for truck traffic to get to an industry built there, the traffic would have to be routed through the downtown, past residential neighborhoods.

In 1972 the city airport received a $25,000 loan from the Michigan Aeronautics Commission for paving the runways. A condition of the loan was that the airport must be used as an airport by the city for 20 years.

As of June, 1979, the remaining balance on the loan was $8,500. The city will probably pay off the remaining balance over the next four years, Clifton said.

The city originally acquired the land from the state. The deed states that the land must be used for public use only. In order for the city to use the land for an industrial park, it would have to purchase the land from the state.

City attorney Harvey Varnum is investigating the deed and its restrictions. Clifton said the city could possibly get out of the restrictions but the city will know more when Varnum recommends action.

Clifton did not know how much money it would take to buy the land from the state but, "Whatever the figure is, the return in investment (for putting in an industrial park) would be well worth it," he said.

The airport has not been "carrying its own weight and is only benefiting a few people," according to Clifton.

The city budgeted $20,000 to operate the airport last year. This year Clifton budgeted $12,000. The reduction in expenditures is due to the elimination of an airport manager and cutbacks in gasoline use and utilities.

An airport advisory committee was recently established by the city commission to "encourage use of the airport and make it a break even operation. Leon Jarema, chairperson, said that "tearing out the airport would be a step backwards" for the city.

"A city without an airport is like a dead town. Every progressive town has an airport and Boyne City would be defeating its purpose to eliminate the airport to put in an industrial park," he said.

Jarema, a pilot, said most industries look for a city which has an airport.

The airport is only used by approximately 20 people, he said, "but indirectly the airport services between 100 and 150 people."

Jarema said he has flown supplies for area industries, clients for several businesses and has taken aerial photos for realtors and other business people.

One complaint industries in Boyne City have about the airport is that the runway is too small to handle company planes. Boyne City Airport can handle light, twin engine planes and single engine planes.

Several industries said they use the Pellston Airport or the Boyne Mountain Airport in Boyne Falls. Boyne Mountain is a private airport, but can handle larger twin-engine planes and small jets.

Forbes Tompkins, former city manager and airport manager, said approximately 2,000 ft. would have to be added to the current 3,000 ft. runway in order to handle bigger planes.

"But that (runway extension) is impossible because there are residential homes to the west of the runway and railroad tracks are to the east," he said.

Of six plant managers The Press contacted, two said the airport was "vital" to their industry. Most said they rarely use the airport and that it is more of a convenience than an essential.

John DiMartino, manager of Boyne Essex, said his company has had "considerable use for the airport." Essex uses the airport for shipping out parts to suppliers, he said, and would like to see it remain open.

Supervisor for Industrial Magnetics, Larry Trumble, said that although his company does not use the airport often now, he plans to use it more in the future.

"Johnson, Johnson and Roy are wrong" for suggesting to eliminate the airport, he said. "Industries would look elsewhere if the airport were disbanded. It is an ideal situation to have the airport here."

A representative of Courter said if the airport were closed it "probably would not hurt our business." Courter uses airlines out of Pellston or Traverse City if they need to send for equipment or deliver supplies, he said.

Charles Bartlett, plant manager of Control Engineering Company, said his company has "never used the airport." Control Engineering owns a large company plane which is based in Pellston and flies out of that airport.

Tom Hanna, acting general manager of Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company said the airport is "more of a convenience than an essential" for his business. He said it is almost as close to use the Boyne Mountain Airport as the city airport and the city airport is not "vital to our operation."

Chamber considers big projects

BOYNE CITY - The City Chamber of Commerce is strongly considering three major new projects - hiring a planning firm to complete architectural drawings for the entire downtown, hiring a full-time chamber manager, and taking over a bingo game previously organized by the Jaycees.

Johnson, Johnson and Roy, the Ann Arbor planning firm doing the city master plan, was hired by the chamber last week to do architectural drawings for the proposed storefront renovations.

The firm recently completed a drawing of businesses on the north block of Water Street between Lake and Park Streets. The chamber is paying $1,500 for that project and board members liked it so much they decided to go ahead and finish the entire downtown.

Mac McNicol, chamber president, said the fee for doing the remaining drawings will be $4,200. The cost will be approximately $600 per block, he said.

The firm will complete one drawing per month, with the first drawing to be completed around the end of November.

An Architectural Review Committee has been set up to give advice to businessmen who want to remodel. Members are Chuck Rivard, a chamber director; Anne Thurston, who has been active in designing old-fashioned storefronts; City Manager Tim Clifton, and a builder and architect vet to be named.

The chamber plans to pay for the drawings by taking out a five year bank loan and by soliciting donations from the business community.

The chamber will pay the remaining balance of what is not collected from businesses, McNicol said.

Because the chamber no longer pays for the July 4 fireworks, McNicol said an additional $2,500 per year will be available to pay for the drawings and other promotional activities.

The chamber is also looking into the possibility of hiring a full-time manager. At present, the chamber employs a half-time secretary.

There are a number of things a full-time manager could do to promote business, industry and tourism in the area, McNicol said, but in the past the chamber has not been able to afford more than the half-time position.

But now the chamber is considering taking over sponsorship of a weekly bingo game. That could bring in enough money to a chamber manager.

The Boyne Area Jaycees had operated a bingo game every Sunday night until the organization disbanded in the last few weeks.

The Chamber of Commerce has applied for a bingo license through the state lottery commission. If the application is granted, the chamber could be operating the bingo in about three weeks.

Goals to be discussed

What should the local Chamber of Commerce be doing for the business community?

For Boyne City Area Chamber board of directors is throwing that question out for general discussion this Friday morning.

The chamber will be the topic of discussion at the Percolator Club from 8 to 9 a.m. at City Hall.

Chamber board members will present their 1980 budget, along with their goals for the coming year. The idea of paying for downtown redevelopment drawings, a full-time chamber manager and other plans will be discussed.

City announces leaf pick up schedule

BOYNE CITY - The annual fall leaf pick up schedule has been announced by the city manager.

Residents north of the Boyne River will have their leaves hauled away Nov. 12 and 13. Residents living south of the Boyne River will have their leaves hauled away on Nov. 14 and 15.

All leaves and grass clippings must be placed at curbside by 7 a.m. and must be secured in plastic garbage bags.

No exceptions can be made for the pick up dates but citizens can haul leaves themselves to the North Boyne Dump. A key must be obtained at the Street Garage in city hall.

The new Glen's Market in East Jordan is nearly twice as big as the old one.

New, larger Glen's Market will be unveiled Thursday

Glen's

Helping out during the big moving process at Glen's Market this week was Denny Freeman, at left, who was manager of the first Glen's Market in East Jordan in 1963. He is now a supervisor for the 11-store chain. Chatting with Freeman are Mark Weisler, the current store manager, and Glen A. Catt, vice-president in charge of operations.

EAST JORDAN - A new Glen's Market which is almost twice as big as the old store will be unveiled at an open house this Thursday night.

The open house will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the new location on highway M-66 on the west side of town.

Nothing will be for sale during the open house hours. The store actually opens for business at 9 a.m. Friday.

The open house will strictly be a time for proud -- and probably somewhat tired -- Glen's officials to show off the new store they've been working on and dreaming of for many months now.

Most of the local store employees, plus managers and assistants from most of the 10 other Glen's Markets in Northern Michigan will be on hand to conduct tours of the new store.

They'll be telling "the inside story" about how the store operates and why they do things the way they do. Refreshments will be served, and coupon books and other items will be given away.

The old Glen's store closed its doors Saturday night, encouraging customers to "stock up" while the move to the new store is being made. Store employees have been working long hours moving everything off the shelves of the old store to the new store.

The store will be ship-shape by the open house Thursday night -- even if it means working round-the-clock.

Glen A. Catt, vice-president in charge of operations and son of store founder C. Glen Catt, has been working on the job in East Jordan with the local staff to supervise the move and the new set-up.

"Our philosophy is that we want to be completely ready when we open. We want to do it right when we do it, even though that may mean some 20-hour days for some of us in the final rush before we open," Catt said.

Everything will be in place and the floors will be thoroughly shined by the time the public walks in for the open house Thursday night, he promised. Then the floors will even be re-shined after the open house for the "real" opening on Friday morning.

The new store will be 20,400 sq. ft. in size. The old store in downtown East Jordan was 12,000 sq. ft. There was no room for expansion of the building and the parking area in the old location, which is why the store moved to an undeveloped area near the edge of the city limits.

"We tried to purchase more land downtown, because it would have been nice to stay there," Catt said. "But we weren't able to get what we needed at a reasonable price."

The old store is for sale, and Catt said the company is anxious to sell the prime downtown commercial property. Glen's Markets are planning further building projects in other areas, and they'd like to have the cash from selling the old East Jordan store and property.

Besides the size of the new store, its brightness will probably be the most noticeable to customers as they first walk in.

The walls are painted in reds, oranges, yellows, blues and greens. The store is decorated in a nautical theme with actual ships wheels and riggings mounted on the walls. There's a large sunburst at one end of the store, and a huge mural at the other end.

Each department is labeled with large headings: beverages, dairy, produce, meats, etc.

Every department has been expanded considerably, but the most obvious one is general merchandise. Nearly 40 percent of the new store will be devoted to non-food items such as clothing, fishing tackle, automotive supplies, decorative items and household goods.

The general merchandise department is so much bigger it will now take two Customers will be seeing a much larger store when they walk into the new Glen's in East Jordan. This is just about half of the new market as seen from the manager's office, which is elevated from the floor level.

Store manager worked his way up through the ranks

Mark Weisler's career with Glen's has been of the "Local boy makes good" variety. The manager of East Jordan Glen's Market has worked all the way up the Glen's ladder.

Weisler, 29, started with Glen's as a part-time bagger while still in high school in East Jordan. In the 13 years since he's risen through the company's ranks and now finds himself manager of the new Glen's in East Jordan.

Following graduation from East Jordan high in 1968, Weisler became head of the East Jordan store's dairy department. "Then I moved through the ranks," he described the progress of his career.

He became assistant manager of the East Jordan store in 1973 and two years later moved to West Branch as assistant manager of the Glen's store there.

The next stop in his career was Gaylord where he served as assistant manager.

Weisler was transferred back to East Jordan as manager in 1977, completing the circle. He and his wife Ann and their two daughters moved back to his home town.

"I enjoy my work," Weisler said during a break in moving from Glen's old store into their new facility. "I'm the third generation of my family in the grocery business."

"I really enjoy working with people. It's not an everyday routine," Weisler explained. "I enjoy the changing business."

"The last few years the grocery business is coming of age," he said.

"It's growing with the times as fast as anything," Weisler continued. "The sophistication and modernization is what attracts me."

The new store in East Jordan is somewhat a fulfillment of a dream for Weisler.

"I've always wanted to see a larger outlet in East Jordan," he said. "East Jordan has plenty of room to grow. I'd like us to progress with them."

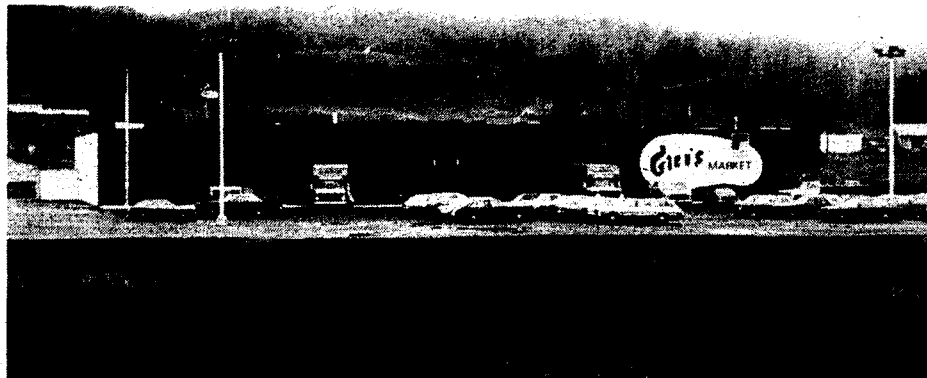

Assistant store manager Rob Westfall, at left, and store manager Mark Weisler, go over their long list of "things to do" before they'll be ready for Thursday night's open house.

Mark Weisler, at right, pitches in to help load one of many trucks that were used to accomplish the move from the old store to the new one.

Save-Share tops $500,000

The Glen's Market Save-Share program has topped the half-million dollar amount. The milestone was reached in mid-October. Glen's officials announced.

Glen's Save-Share is a program started in 1972 which was set up to enable community organizations and groups to earn money for projects that would help improve the communities in which they live.

Any non-profit group can register at their local Glen's Market and save Glen's Market green register tapes, add them up and turn them in to earn one percent of the total.

East Jordan non-profit groups have always been big participants in the Save-Share program, earning more than $75,000. The East Jordan fifth grade holds the record among all 11 Glen's Markets for receiving the largest single check in the program -- $1,887.75.

Further details about Glen's Save-Share can be obtained by contacting the store manager or his assistant at any Glen's Market.

Owner Glen Catt opened first store in 1951 in Gaylord

When Glen Catt opened his first grocery store in Gaylord in June 7, 1951, he had no idea that someday he would own 11 of the largest, most modern supermarkets in Northern Michigan.

He started with 3 full-time and 2 part-time employees. Now Glen's Markets employ more than 500 persons. "Yes, it's grown a little!" laughs Glen, reflecting on the last quarter century. "But our people are our biggest asset. I have to give them an awful lot of credit for our growth. Some of our employees have been with us for more than 20 or our 25 years."

Glen also credits Spartan Stores, the Grand Rapids based grocery suppliers, for a good deal of his stores' growth and success. "Their store planning, financing, merchandising and advertising programs have been invaluable," he said.

Glen Catt started out in business on the proverbial bottom rung of the ladder -- he was a stock boy at a Kroger store during high school in Kalkaska. After serving in the armed forces during World War II, he managed a Kroger store in Paw Paw. He later worked for an independent chain in Kalamazoo before opening his first store in Gaylord in 1951.

He joined Spartan in 1953, and he was elected to Spartan's board of directors in 1958. He is still a member of the board.

Glen opened his second store in 1956 at Kalkaska, and later additions to the Glen's "family" were Grayling in 1959, East Jordan in 1963, West Branch and Mio in 1972, Mancelona in January of 1975 and Roscommon in October of 1975. More recent openings have been in Charlevoix, Rose City and Houghton Lake.

Dennis Freeman, who is married to Glen's daughter Sandra, was the manager of the first East Jordan Glen's Market. Glen bought Boss's Locker Plant from John Boss and converted it to a grocery store. The smaller store was located on Mill Street, on a corner of the downtown Glen's Market property. It was torn down in 1968 when a larger new supermarket was opened. That store served Glen's customers until it closed last week on Oct. 27, 1979.

Other department heads Ken Kassuba, meat manager; Teri Jones, dairy; Jean Peterson, head cashier; Darren Hawley, frozen foods; Donna Derezy, produce, and Bill Niswander, grocery. Assistant manager to Mark Weisler is Rob Westfall.

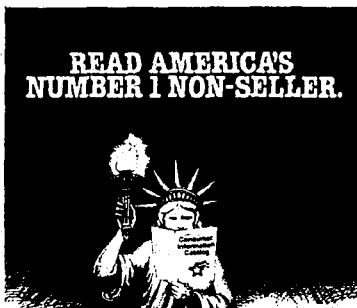

Glen Catt says, "We're very enthusiastic about this new store. The town of East Jordan has been very good to us. For its size, our store here has been one of our most profitable.

"Even though we were doing well with our old store, we feel the people of East Jordan need and deserve better shopping opportunities, and we're doing our part to provide them with that."

Other shopping opportunities besides Glen's Market may also be available in the coming months. Glen's officials hope there will eventually be about 60,000 sq. ft. of additional retail space as a shopping center develops around the Glen's store.

"I think you'll see several new stores opening in the shopping center in the next 18 months," Catt said. "We're very close to finalizing two agreements right now."

Drug stores, hardware stores, shoe stores, clothing stores, variety stores and even a restaurant have expressed interest in building in the shopping center.
