It has been "monsoon season" in snow country for much of the winter. The rain turned the Boyne City Elementary School playground into a pond last week. Fourth grade teacher Gordon Howle decided to make the most of it, however, by giving canoeing lessons to his class during recess.

Budget disputes led to resignations

BY DIANNE MURRAY

CHARLEVOIX - The resignations of County Clerk Clarence Rabach and County Register of Deeds Grover Geneit are a result of cuts they received in their submitted 1980 budgets, according to county Republican Party Chairman Casimir Toton.

"I just wish they would have completed their terms and then just not run," Toton said. "This resigning early business leaves a bitter taste in my mouth."

Both Geneit and Rabach are retiring early even though their terms do not expire until Dec. 31. Rabach has not submitted his resignation to the board of commissioners yet but said he plans to resign April 1.

State law says that when a county clerk resigns, his successor for the remainder of the elective term be appointed by the Circuit Court Judge, who is Martin B. Breighner.

Geneit, 62, has previously submitted his resignation and will retire March 15. Probate Judge John Murphy and Rabach will appoint someone to finish the remainder of Geneit's term. Geneit has held his county office for 27 years.

Rabach received a $1,120 salary increase from $14,000 to his present salary of $15,120. He said he requested a salary increase to $17,800, the average salary of other county clerks.

"My salary is one of the lowest in the state when compared to what other county clerks are making. I figured that with my Social Security income I'd make about as much as if I was working when you figure my salary subtracting what is taken out in taxes," he said.

Toton told The Press that Rabach felt he should have gotten more money and "the difference between him staying on and working would be in the neighborhood of $800."

Rabach said that other county government positions were being upgraded in payscale and that he was "being passed over."

Rabach did not even consider retiring prior to completion of his term until the commissioners turned down his 1980 salary request of $17,800, he said.

Geneit said he had received no cooperation with the county commissioners in reviewing his submitted 1980 budget and he "finally got fed up with it."

Geneit's budget request was approximately $53,000 and $11,000 was cut from it by the budget review committee. As a result, Geneit's staff was reduced by one position, and he said he first learned of the cut in a newspaper report.

Geneit also said that for the volume of work he had done and the way that the office work load is growing, he should have received more of a salary raise than he did. Geneit's salary went from $14,000 to $15,120—the same as Rabach's.

In regards to Geneit's early resignation, Toton said that he and other commissioners feel that "Geneit has not been doing his job for the last three or four months anyway. Steve Pond has been doing most of his work."

Geneit has recommended that Pond, 31, be appointed to fill the vacated seat. Pond said he plans to run for the office even if he is not appointed for the remainder of Geneit's term.

Geneit has been training Pond to take over his job for the past seven years and he said Pond hasn't been doing Geneit's job.

"He has not been doing my job. He has enough to do on his own because he does all the abstract work and I spend my time answering the phone and doing all the deed work," Geneit said.

When asked about the problems which seem to have erupted between the county Republican Party and its own elected officials, both Geneit and Rabach said the problems have come about because the county commissioners would rather see county administrative jobs such as Rabach's and Geneit's appointed by a county committee rather than elected.

Jane Brannon

CHARLEVOIX - Jane Brannon has announced she will run for County Clerk in this year's Republican primary election.

Brannon, 28, has worked as chief deputy under present clerk Clarence Rabach for approximately one year. She had served as a deputy clerk for six and a half years prior to being appointed chief deputy.

"My main interest in running is to keep doing as good a job as Mr. Rabach has been doing," Brannon told The Press.

County Republican Chairman Casimir Toton said the party could not formally endorse Brannon until it received the resignation of Rabach.

Rabach has announced he will retire April 1.

Old timers agree:

Never a winter like this

The winter of 1979-80 may well go into the record books as the winter that wasn't.

Several longtime area residents contacted by The Press agreed. "Other winters have started out as slow as this one but none remained mild this long."

"Until an early Tuesday snowfall, the 'Winter Wonderland' was half-filled with people wondering where winter was."

"I remember years when we didn't have snow at Christmas," said Franklin Spencer, a Boyne City native who's spent most of his 69 years in the area. "But we always got it afterward in large quantities."

"I don't remember a time when you could walk around on bare ground when it was almost Feb. 1," Spencer said. "I'm enjoying it, but I feel sorry for those who depend on it."

"I've got a picture taken in the '30s, around Lincoln's birthday, with a lot of brown ground in it," said George Secord of East Jordan. "It was around '34 or '35. There was a lot of ice; it was a terrible cold winter."

"My brother and sister drove the Model T to school most of one winter; I think it was '20 or '21," Secord recalled. "If course there was no plowing then. Ordinarily you put the Model T up on blocks in November and didn't take it down until April."

"I was 11 in 1920 but I can remember them driving the Model T to school. Ordinarily you walked," he explained.

"No, I've never seen anything like this before," said longtime area resident and Press columnist Marshall Sayles when asked if he could remember a winter like this one.

Snow at last!

Our snow drought may finally be over.

About four inches of snow fell on bare ground Tuesday, and the National Weather Service said there was a better than 50 percent chance of snow every day Wednesday through Sunday.

Cold temperatures were also predicted, with lows near zero.

"We've had green Christmases before, but right after that it'd snow," Sayles recalled. "I have an older cousin who said that he had plowed a field in January once, but there was snow before and after that."

Herb DeNise, a resident of the area for nearly 60 years and an official weather watcher for the National Weather Service for the last 10 years, like Sayles, has heard mid-winter plowing stories from previous mild winters.

"A guy I know from East Jordan told me about plowing a field in February, but that was before my time," said DeNise. "I remember one green Christmas but it snowed right after that. There hasn't been a winter like this that I can recall."

"I can't remember one quite like it," said Blanche Moblo, an East Jordan resident for almost 73 years. "Not one that lasted this far into the winter."

"I can remember winters when we'd stand on fence posts to see over the snow. I've seen some really bad winters, but never one this mild," she continued.

"I know this is the mildest winter I can remember," said Nell Blair, a resident of the East Jordan area for all but 10 of her 91 years.

Former Press publisher Gregg Smith, while doing research on annual precipitation in the county, found accounts of a winter in the late 1800s so mild that there wasn't enough snow on the ground to pull logs from the forests.

Boyne Country General Manager Chuck Moll doesn't remember a winter like this. "It's never been so mild for so long, he said.

Jim Dilworth, manager of Nub's Nob, could recall one similar winter. "I remember that the winter of '65-'66 was similar to this," Dilworth said. "I was at Boyne Highlands at the time and there was no snow on New Year's Day at all. There was just a lot of green grass. No snow and no skiers."

Cheerful teen touched many lives before he died

BOYNE CITY - Although Mike Lillis died young, he had an immense impact on many Boyne City people. He shared every aspect of his personality with friends, employers and people he was only slightly acquainted with.

Mike died Jan. 15 at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey of a rare blood disease. He was born with cerebral palsy, a disease which affects brain-muscle coordination—but his death was not related to this disease.

"He overcame his handicap and for a 16-year-old, he accomplished more in his short life than many of us will ever do even if we live to a ripe old age," said his mother, Joni Lillis.

Mike died after being afflicted with hemolytic anemia, a disease in which the red corpuscle blood cells destroy each other. It was first noticed only 10 days before his death.

Mrs. Lillis recalls Mike's struggle with life and death as a "profile in courage." "He was at that in-between age. He wasn't quite a man, but he was over being a boy. He never once complained about being in pain until the Saturday before his death," when his sister found him lying on the floor and he couldn't pull himself up. "He had a bitter struggle with death, but the thing that still brought a smile to his face even when he was lying in the hospital bed was his friends," Mrs. Lillis said. "I never knew how well liked he was until his death," she sadly added.

Mike was born March 4, 1963, in Grosse Pointe. He was one of six children in the Lillis family. The Lillises moved to Boyne City in 1956 and have lived in their home on Bay Street since that time.

"He had so many different aspects of his personality and was willing to share himself with everyone he came in contact with," said Jon Bogema, one of Mike's best friends at Boyne City High School.

Mike always came to classes smiling, Jon said. Mike's third-hour history class missed him so much while he was in the hospital that they sent him a card saying the class was not the same without their favorite classmate. If he didn't hurry up and get well and get back in the class, they would all quit studying, his classmates said.

The card from his history classmates was one of hundred Mike received while in the hospital. Many cards were from people who did not know Mike but who were writing to wish him well and sending prayers for his speedy recovery.

His mild case of cerebral palsy, as Mrs. Lillis described it, prevented Mike from having the full use of his left hand. From the age of four he went to occupational therapy to strengthen his hand, but the handicap did not stop him from being a normal kid.

Mike was "a normal, sassy, 16-year-old smart aleck kid," according to Mrs. Lillis.

Jon Bogema said Mike probably would have been voted "best liked" and "class joker" in this year's class elections. "He was such a clown and a joker, and he always had a joke to crack you up."

"If he had any problems he always kept them from me and I was a good friend of his and we talked a lot," Jon recalled. Jon and Mike stuck together through many good and bad times—like when they both ran for junior class president—and Mike won.

Mike was also very active in the Boyne City Boy Scouts and his leader, Fred Moore, of Troop 49, described Mike as a hard worker who never gave up easily.

Mike received a merit badge for hiking 50 miles; an emergency preparedness merit badge for strenuous exercises including climbing a 25 foot high cement wall on a rope; and the mile swim merit badge.

"Mike made sure that in anything he was involved with, he knew everyone. No matter how large a group he was working with, in the end Mike knew everyone," Moore said.

Mike's fellow members of the Order of the Arrow, a Boy Scout organization, will sponsor a boy to Boy Scout Camp Greilick in Traverse City each year in memory of Mike.

"It will be a gesture of Mike's service and contributions to the camp," Moore said.

Mike was holding down two jobs at the time he became sick with the deadly blood disease in early January. He worked as a busboy at both Mr. J's Restaurant in downtown Boyne City and at Boyne Mountain.

"I've hired a lot of good workers," Larry Judkins of Mr. J's said when describing Mike. "But I never had an employee like Mike and probably never will again."

His attitude was super, Judkins said. If one of the employees was cranky or complaining about something, Mike had the ability to get that employee to forget about complaining and in five minutes would have him laughing.

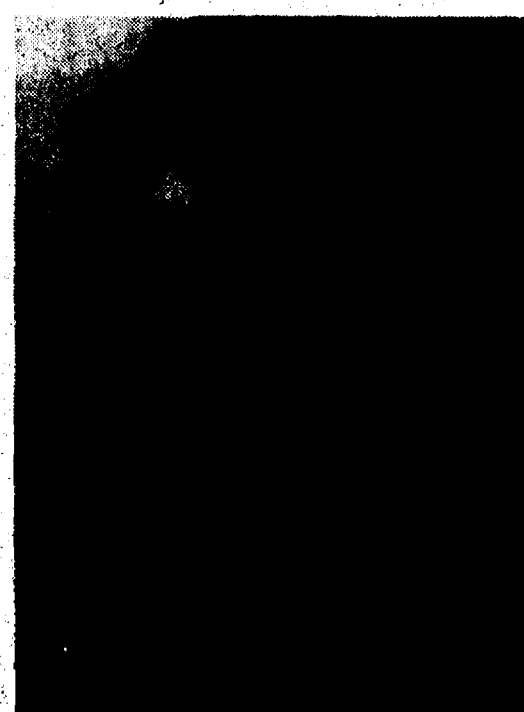

When Mike was admitted to the hospital Jan. 6, the Lillises first learned of his battle with the blood disease. Mrs. Lillis said when the doctors at Little Traverse Hospital first told Mike that he might not recover, Mike did not bat an eye. "He was a strong-willed young man," Mrs. Lillis said.

Four days after being admitted to the hospital, Mike slipped into a coma and never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Lillis had a hard time picking among Mike's numerous friends for pallbearers at his funeral. And when more than 150 friends showed up for services Jan. 16 at the Stackus Funeral Home, Mrs. Lillis said she felt like the mother of a celebrity.

"I felt 10 ft. tall. I'm so proud that he was my son," she said. "He brought so much happiness to so many people. Mike had a couple of strikes against him when he was born but his struggle for life and to be a normal boy made him extra special in my eyes and in the eyes of many other people who knew him."

CETA funds available

Charlevoix County has approximately $360,000 left in Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds to spend in the county before Sept. 30. CETA funds "are practically coming out of our ears and we haven't been able to spend them fast enough," program director, Helen Phillips, said. "You do not have to put someone to work immediately to reserve this money, but you do have to do some advance planning and submit a plan to (the Charlevoix County CETA committee) outlining what needs doing, the man hours necessary to do the job and the time period and benefits that will be derived from it," she said. All participants for funding must be CETA eligible and average wage is $3.41 an hour. "This is money we want spent in Charlevoix County, and we are asking that the public employing agencies and private non-profit agencies do their best to come up with worthwhile projects and help us to see that the money is spent in the county," Phillips said. For further information or help in applying for CETA funds, contact Phillips at the County Building in Charlevoix at 547-6661.

Big Rock closing -- in 20 years?

CHARLEVOIX - Consumers Power Company is making preparations to close its Big Rock Point nuclear power plant—but not for another 20 years. To cover the costs of closing Big Rock and another nuclear plant, the company is asking the Michigan Public Service Commission for a rate increase which would be in effect for 20 years. Decommissioning Big Rock would involve making sure it poses no health problems and would cost $31 million today. But that cost is estimated to be $133 million after 20 years of inflation.

Consumers is asking for a rate increase for the $133 million to decommission Big Rock as well as $393 million to decommission Palisades nuclear plant near South Haven. When the plant is decommissioned, Consumers Power has three options. Consumers could completely dismantle the plant, partly dismantle the plant and remove the radiation, or cover the radioactive portions of the plant with concrete and assign security people to permanently guard it. According to Phil Loomis, public information director for Big Rock, when the plant is shut down it will be completely dismantled. "We would not leave an eyesore. We would take everything down and clear out the area," he said. The plant, which was shut down 279 days last year, generates enough power to serve 100,000 customers. It employs 101 people and 40 security personnel. Big Rock was constructed between 1959 and 1962 at a cost of $25.8 million. The plant went into operation in 1962 and is licensed by the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission until the year 2002.

"I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY....."

Does the question of knowing the "proper" thing to say at the visitation keep you from going to the funeral home or funeral? It shouldn't! Your appearance at the funeral home or funeral is always a support and expression of love to the bereaved. The words you express as you embrace or extend the clasp-of-hand can add a sincere feeling of warmth and concern -- but the words aren't nearly as important as your "just being there."

Here are some expressions you might consider:
"John was such a fine person. I will miss him."
"My warmest sympathy to you and the family."
"Mary was such a dear friend."
"Mary enjoyed life and shared her joys so often with others."

You may find it easier to say these words of comfort if you practice them beforehand when you are alone. Sometimes just hearing yourself say the words out loud makes them easier to express to others.

1976 fire results in lawsuit against chimney company

BOYNE CITY - A fire in December of 1976 which resulted in the death of a Boyne City youth has led to a civil lawsuit against a chimney manufacturer.

Keith and Jane Holley have charged the Hart and Cooley Manufacturing Company of Holland, which makes Melvent chimneys with improper design, manufacturing and packaging of its chimney.

The fire completely destroyed the Holleys' two-story wood frame home located at the corner of Pleasant Valley and Behling Roads.

Keith Holley, Jr., 14, was killed in the fire. The home was occupied by Keith's parents, two brothers and one sister at the time of the fire.

A fire marshal called to the scene reported that the "Melvent chimney and related components became so hot that they ignited the surrounding combustible materials," according to brief filed with the court.

The fire started in the living room ceiling where the Hart and Cooley chimney was located and spread to the upstairs bedrooms.

Charges against the chimney manufacturing company include failure to utilize a chimney design which would accommodate normal expected heat build-up and failure to package the chimney with reasonable and proper installation instructions.

Earlier in the fall of 1976, Mr. Holley purchased and installed the Melvent chimney and its accessory parts. Holley contends that he followed the instructions when installing the chimney.

The Holleys, represented by attorney Steven L. Barney of Carpenter, Fenner, Barney and Hofmann of Petoskey, further state that the chimney manufacturing company knew that without the proper material and installation instructions the Melvent chimney "presented unreasonable risk of harm to its users."

Hart and Cooley Manufacturing Company, represented by John C. Buchanan of Cholette, Perkins and Buchanan of Grand Rapids, said the cause of the accident "was due to the negligence of Keith L. Holley in failing to install the furnace and its appropriate accessories property."

The Holleys are asking for a $10,000 judgment. Court date in Charlevoix Circuit Court will be this summer.

EJ Tourist Park changes will make it a 'quality park'

EAST JORDAN - A landscaped earth mound to shield the Tourist Park from highway M-66 and the elimination of one entrance are the major changes planned under phase one of a five year plan to upgrade the park.

Trevor Wood, an associate designer with Site Planning Development Inc. of Charlevoix, the firm doing the plan for the Tourist Park changes, explained that the end result of the Tourist Park project will be "a quality park."

Plans for the project, which will be funded jointly by the city and the U.S. Department of the Interior, tentatively include: improvements to the park's beach; a new parking and entrance arrangement; improvements to the existing recreation building; a new bath house and a planted earth mound (called a berm), separating the campground and recreation area from M-66.

"The plan is to develop the campground as a destination campground, one where people would come for several days opposed to overnight," Wood explained. "Make it a quality park."

The berm will help create a "park-like atmosphere within the area we're working with," the designer explained.

The project is being done in phases. Application for a grant for the first phase has to be made by the end of January.

City Superintendent Herm Rasch explained that a public hearing held Tuesday night, while not an actual requirement for grant aid, served to "fortify the grant application."

The community is encouraged to give input on the project at all steps of the project, Wood said, not just at public hearings.

If funding for the first phase is approved, the work would get underway this spring, Wood said.

Once the project is begun, Wood explained, getting funding approval for the additional steps of the work becomes easier.

Wood's firm, Site Planning Development Inc., has recently won a national environmental award for work done for the Medusa Cement Company in Charlevoix. The firm provided Medusa with a long range reclamation management program.

Business not bad enough to apply for state aid?

County business owners have been asked to show that their business has decreased as a direct result of lack of snowfall this winter in order to help the state qualify for federal aid.

But some business owners insist business isn't bad enough to justify applying for aid.

If the state qualifies for federal aid, those businesses whose dollar sales volume are directly affected by the snow would be eligible to apply for Small Business Administration low-interest loans of up to $100,000 each.

Loans at 8 1/2 percent interest would be available if Michigan receives the economic emergency declaration Gov. William Milliken is seeking.

Vicki Williamson, co-owner of Boyne Valley Lodge in Wallow Lake Village, said she does not think that declaring the state an emergency should be rushed into.

"I am in favor of the (Small Business Administration) loans if it came to the point that I needed it, but I can't see people rushing into it," she said.

Williamson said that business is down, but she added not to the point that she would need to apply for a loan.

Jim Dilworth, manager of Nub's Nob ski resort in Harbor Springs said that rather than apply for loans, businesses should do as he has done and cut back on operating expenses.

"We're not going to send any figures to the state or apply for a loan. Instead of borrowing money, we're watching our expenses and doing the best we can with what we have," Dilworth said.

There are still two and a half months of skiing left, he said, and "instead of sitting around and giving up ship, Nub's Nob will promote the good skiing we do have."

general manager, said he hadn't thought about securing a government loan.

"Our snow making machines are working all the time and our skiing is good; there's no brown spots on the hills. As a result, business hasn't been down that much this season—maybe 25 percent."

Terry Toomey, owner of the Granary restaurant and TJ's Tannery saloon in Boyne City called the disaster loans "far-fetched."

"I suffered through the gas crunch of '74 and '75 and made it and my business will make it through tough times now," he said.

Toomey said rather than apply for a loan, he'd cut back in entertainment expenses and in profits.

Loan application forms are available by writing to the association at 136 East Fulton Street, Grand Rapids, 49503.

Unique speaker at dinner

EAST JORDAN - A handwriting analyst from Grand Rapids will speak at the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce annual dinner this Sunday.

Antonia Klekoda will be the dinner speaker and will provide the entertainment for the Chamber members.

Chamber officer George Secord saw her perform at a recent West Michigan Tourist Association convention and recommended that the local Chamber ask her to its dinner.

"She is really very entertaining," Secord said. "She can tell everything about you just by looking at your handwriting. She's got a great personality and a great sense of humor.

"It's a different type of program than we've ever had before, but I think people are really going to enjoy this."

The cocktail hour starts at 6 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7.

Besides the dinner and entertainment, Chamber members will be electing three members to their board of directors. Nominations will be taken from the floor Sunday night.

Tickets are $8 per person and are available from Chamber board members and at Jordan Valley Pharmacy, Dressel Realty, Healey Hardware and the EJ Shop.

Present: Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick, Commissioners Martin Paul, Catherine Jessup, Steven Moody and Thelma Behling. Absent: None. Also Present: City Manager Timothy J. Clifton, City Clerk Tom Garlock and City Attorney Harvey Varnum.

The Minutes of the Regular Meeting of December 11, 1979 and the Minutes of the Regular Noon Meeting of December 11, 1979 were approved as received in the Commissioner's Monthly Packet.

The Mayor called for citizen comments on non-agenda items. There were no comments from the audience.

A Public Hearing scheduled for Tuesday, January 8, 1980 to consider an application for establishment of an Economic Development Corporation of Boyne City was rescheduled to permit adequate public notice of same.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to re-schedule the Public Hearing for the establishment of an Economic Development Corporation for January 22, 1980 at 12:00 Noon in the Office of the City Manager and to publish said Notice of Hearing in the Charlevoix County Press at least 10 days in advance of the meeting.

The City Manager presented a report on the request of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, 926 N. Lake Street, to split two lots. The Planning Commission reviewed the requested lot split at its November 19, 1979 meeting and unanimously recommends that this split be approved.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Paul to allow the split of Lots 3 and 4, Miller's Addition, City of Boyne City, known on the tax roll as parcels 1551 143 003 00 and 1551 143 004 00. Lot 3 and 4 would be split equally in half, making both lots to measure 82.5 feet by 132 feet. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager distributed six bid proposals from firms regarding the Coastal Zone Management Park and Beach Study, to the Commissioners for their purusal.

Bids received were:

The Proposed bids will be studied by the Administration and recommendations forwarded at the January 15, 1980 Noon meeting of the City Commission.

The City Manager gave a report on the alternatives available to supply Lakeview Village with a compound meter that would measure water usage more accurately. The cost of a new meter would be $1,400.00. If the present meter were re-built, the cost would be approximately $700.00 including freight charges.

Moved by Moody, seconded by Behling to have the compound meter at Lakeview Village re-built at a cost not to exceed $700.00. Monies for said repair shall be taken from Account Codes 592-592-727.06, Supplies and Meters and 592-592-730.12, Equipment Maintenance. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

2. Provide comparative costs of extending a sewer line to the site or installation of a septic tank and drainfield at the site.
3. Submit details concerning special assessments and associated costs if a sewer line extension was determined most advantageous.
4. Negotiate an agreement with the Boyne Area Lions Club stipulating which services and equipment are to be supplied by each party.

Following discussion, the City Commission authorized the City Manager to gather further information and preliminary figures and contact each land owner abutting State Street advising them of the costs involved in installing water and sewer mains in this area, as well as to extend to the city limits, said water and sewer mains to accommodate anticipated growth in this area. The Commission further directed the City Manager to schedule an informal meeting with the land owners to hear their remarks and opinions on this matter.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Behling to adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 8:02 p.m.

Remodeling your business?

Don't miss out on a tax break

Both East Jordan and Boyne City have now started approving commercial redevelopment tax breaks, which is a good time to remind business people that these financial incentives are available.

Editorial

Because of the newness of the idea, there have been a few business owners in both cities who remodeled their buildings but have missed out on the tax breaks. Some were totally unaware of the tax break, and others applied for it too late to qualify.

In brief, the commercial redevelopment act allows cities to give tax breaks to businesses which have rebuilt or remodeled buildings in a pre-defined area.

Businesses which remodel can have their property valuations frozen for up to 12 years, while new buildings are eligible for a 50 percent property tax cut for 12 years.

There are, however, a number of specific rules which must be followed and forms which must be filled out. For example, a remodeling project must cost at least 10 percent of the total value of the building in order to qualify.

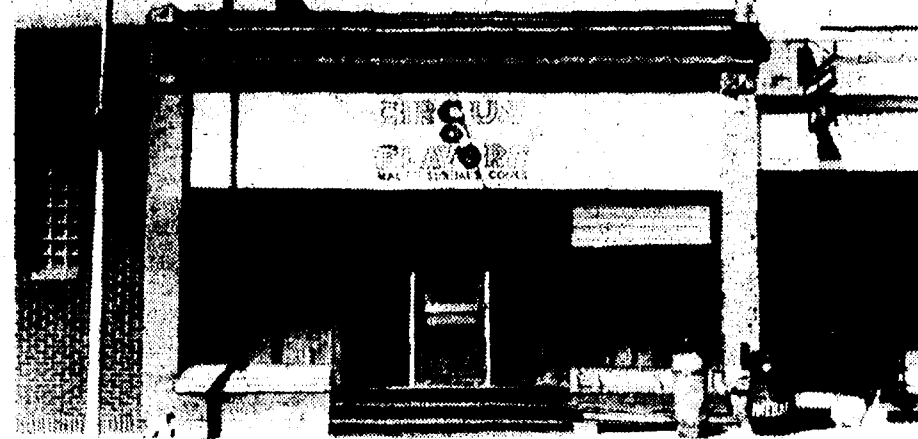

City officials in both East Jordan and Boyne City can provide the rules, forms and advice. We strongly encourage business people who are considering a remodeling project to discuss their plans with their city officials well in advance of construction.

That's the idea of the commercial redevelopment tax breaks in the first place—to encourage business owners to improve or rebuild their buildings rather than to move to a fringe area or allow the downtown to deteriorate.

We think that is sound reasoning and will improve the overall character and economic health of the community in the long run. And it also provides some well-deserved assistance to small business owners in a time when it is becoming harder and harder to survive.

This East Jordan building is the first to be approved for a commercial redevelopment tax break. Formerly an ice cream shop, it is being remodeled for use as a restaurant and racquetball court.

Barden Lumber of Boyne City was the first business in the city to take advantage of the commercial redevelopment tax break. The Barden facility was rebuilt on its old location after a fire last May.

E&M Standard of Boyne City has just completed this service station building after tearing down its old facility. Application has been made for a tax break.

Sign me up for parenting--if there's an opening

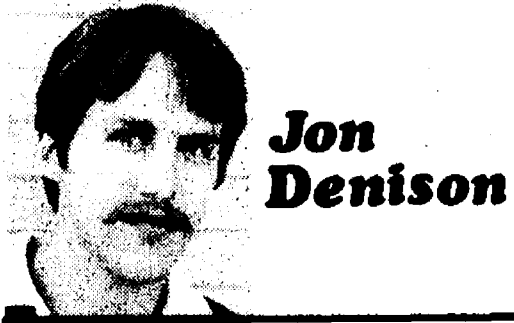

The last East Jordan School Board meeting was nearly over when Mike Distelrath, a teacher at the East Jordan Middle School, inquired as to the fate of sex education in the East Jordan Public Schools.

Distelrath was told, as The Press reported Nov. 1, that a study on implementing a sex education program in the schools that was begun last March had been tabled following negative feedback from the community.

Distelrath voiced the opinion that a parenting class should be considered, whether a sex education program was begun or not.

A parenting class is taught during the spring semester at the high school. Entering its third year, the class has 11 students enrolled this year, down slightly from about 15 the first two years. It's a class that could benefit all future parents, not 11 or 15 a year.

Jon Denison

The class meets five days a week—three days working with pre-school children and two days discussing the needs of children and doing demonstrations of parenting skills.

I agree with Distelrath wholeheartedly. As he said, being a parent is one of the most important responsibilities in many people's lives, yet most of us don't ever receive instruction on how to be a parent.

In days when large families were more common, older children learned how their parents took care of children by observing them in action with younger siblings.

The younger children unfortunately didn't get the benefit of an actual example and thus learned how to be a parent as they went along. That's the case with a great deal of today's parental prospects.

Many of my friends have become parents in the last few years. Each time one does I think to myself that I wouldn't have the foggiest idea of even where to begin a job as awesome as raising a child. In talking to them I find they have the same fears.

I came from a school system that implemented sex education classes into the curriculum long ago. As beneficial as the classes were, they did little in the way of telling me how to prepare a formula, change a diaper or quiet a crying baby.

My ignorance in the field of child-rearing was emphasized to me when my brother Chris and I were left in charge of my nephew while his mother and grandmother went to a party.

The poor little fellow had been disrupted by the excitement of travel and he hadn't cleaned out his system in about three days, my sister warned as she left the house.

The presence of two of his uncles must have had a calming influence on him. Not five minutes after his mother left the house he cleaned out his intestines completely, letting us know by a combination of an overpowering odor and much screaming due to his discomfort.

Neither my brother nor I were experienced in the art of diaper changing.

After a few false starts in getting his cleaned up we gave in and called my sister at the party. The job was too big for us to handle.

I've thought about that incident whenever I've received word of a friend having a child. I always hope they're better trained than I am.

A class such as Distelrath is lobbying for would have given me enough of a basic grasp of the requirements of parenthood to get by. The finer points of child-rearing I'm sure are best learned through experience. Rudimentary skills would be a nice base to build from, though.

I hope that the citizenry of East Jordan will support Distelrath's idea and not confuse the idea of a parenting class with a (heaven forbid) sex education program.

For such an admirable venture to be struck down because of an unwarranted and unrelated fear of a sex education program would be a crime.

A society of better trained parents is a worthy goal to shoot for. Maybe I'll audit the course if it becomes a reality.

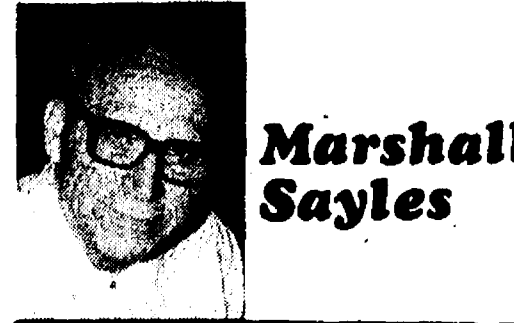

Pew! A true story for the historical society

The historical society is quite busy these days gathering information concerning the community from the time the first boat moved down Pine Lake tying up at Spring Harbor. I have a little something that has not yet been gathered and, because of its importance, wish to pass it along to the society without charge. Passing things along without charge seems to be a hobby of most older residents. Young folks are forever looking toward things to come, but the older we get the backer we look. And that's good. For how can we establish a historical society without looking back?

Here, then is my contribution to the society's archives.

It happened in my extreme youth. On a rainy Sunday when my folks had gone to Clarion to visit a sick friend, I was charged with the responsibility of staying home and going to church with a. "Don't let me hear about you misbehaving in church."

Marshall Sayles

I did not want to go to church. Other boys my age did not have to stay home alone and go to church. Besides it was raining. My raincoat was pauper coffin gray, making me look poor, which I was, but did not wish to advertise.

I waited as long as I could before rushing off. Then I spit on the fire, put the cat out, drove a fence nail over the door latch and ran to church.

It was late. The preacher was already beginning to warm up about those women out on the Boyne Falls road who were yielding by appointment. He was spelling out the evils of the situation and the effect it was having upon our fine community.

"With our help," he was saying as I took my seat, "the Lord will burn the house to the ground and Boyne City will be pure once and for all."

I had ridden in a wagon past the house in question. I saw nothing wrong with it. A farmhouse with a windmill and a lone cow grazing in the front yard. It was just a house to me. Why would the preacher want to burn it down?

What a boring sermon. I put my thumb on the pew in front of me, tracing the colored grain marks. It came to a knot and I pushed so hard it fell out with my thumb going into the hole.

Since I was so young, this was the first time I had caught my thumb in a pew. I couldn't pull it out. I looked around to see if anyone noticed. One man was snoring contentedly, perhaps dreaming about something the preacher had said.

Now it began to throb. I thought of interrupting the preacher to say that my thumb was in a hole and I couldn't get it out. Only the serious looks on the faces of all those people kept me still. Now it hurt like hell, something I could not admit until I was at least a block away from the church.

When the man came for the offering I clasped my left hand over my thumb so he wouldn't see that it was stuck in the pew, making as if I had squeezed my hands together in such deep prayer I couldn't get them apart.

Now the sermon had ended and the songs had been sung and everyone was rising to leave. The man in front of me leaned back moving against my protruding thumb. Somehow it hooked into the top of his pants. He stood up quickly bursting his suspender buttons. I watched as he escorted his wife with one hand while holding his pants with the other. It wasn't until the congregation had left and the preacher had come to my aid that I was set free from that pew hole.

Leaving the church, I hurried down the street holding my thumb. A few members were lingering outside and one was heard to say, "That poor boy. He is still praying for the souls of those lost women."

This is a true incident which the historical society might want to include in its findings about the Boyne City of by-gone days. For documentation, I will be happy to show where the stitches were made on my thumb to mend it. After all these years the sewed up wound is still visible.

It is my understanding that lumberman W. H. White donated material to construct the church—an outgrowth of his high integrity and deep consideration for the souls of Boyne City. But it was not like him at all to work off a loose knot in his charitable activities.

There is a possibility that I am wrong. Perhaps the congregation pooled its funds and purchased the wood at regular lumber company rates. That would be a more satisfying explanation for a loose knot in the pew.

Greed, not nuclear power, will be our undoing

[The following editorial is reprinted from the Jan. 9 issue of The North Woods Call, a statewide paper published by Glen Sheppard of Charlevoix. In its masthead, The Call states it is "An admittedly biased newspaper, dedicated to the proposition that there is only one side to any issue involving natural resources - Natures."]

The Call's editor is weary of kooks warning that he has spent much of his life within a hairbreadth's flash of being fried by radiation from nuclear power plants. The melodrama of the nuc freak has distracted us for too long from the real challenges of energy conservation and nuclear power safety.

George Reiger's attack on the nuclear industry, under a "Conservation" heading in the December issue of Field and Stream, served as a reminder that this typewriter has labored under the shadow of Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock nuclear plant for going on 20 years. Big Rock, the kooks--and some objective people, too--say may be the country's most dangerous nuclear generating plant. It was an early prototype, supposedly lacking the more sophisticated safety technology required in more recent plants.

But this editorial writer's "exposure" to nuclear plants goes back long before Big Rock. Back in the mid-1950's he drew an assignment to cover construction of one of the world's earliest, crudest, nuc's, at Fort Greely, in interior Alaska. The job required him to poke around the thing for days, getting right down into the cell, as memory recalls it being called then.

About the same time, another big story broke in Alaska. As it is recalled, some Russians shot something called a Sputnik into the heavens and folks were running around the ice floes of the Bering Sea trying to figure out what in blazes became of it. That was a whole of a lot more fun to write about than the beginning of the nuclear power era.

Back then, a reporter made notes with a pencil; ballpoint pens were still unreliable, and fountain pens didn't work at 20 below. The wireless still wasn't a completely reliable way to send copy down below. Ike was president. A cast of three flies often produced two hooked grayling, and sometimes three, in streams they now say are fished out. A few helicopters were just starting to poke around the Slope looking for oil. And the cost of driving from the Lower 48 to the Last Frontier was less of a consideration than the cost of imported hamburger and premium beer. Litter hadn't even become a problem on the slopes of Mt. McKinley.

Things have changed. Not, necessarily, for the better. The improvements in technology and safety regulations on nuclear plants would be awesome if we weren't so overwhelmed with ten dollar calculators that do things considered impossible then. Even going to the moon has become boring stuff.

The worst of it is, though, that we kept guzzling oil, producing babies, and generally trying to swallow up the world, and ourselves, so fast that we are being engulfed by our greed. It is ourselves, not nuclear power, that we should be frightened by.

Some serious questions remain to be ironed out with nuclear plants. The most important is disposal of radioactive wastes. The industry says that because government owns the stuff it is its job to get rid of it. This, perhaps more than anything, is alarming.

Only a blind fool would trust bureaucrats and transient politicians with a problem of this proportion. Industry must take the initiative and come up with a solution.

Another nagging concern is that bureaucrats and politicians are in charge of regulating the safety aspects of nuclear plants. There seems to be no alternative. But, like everything else, we must be haunted by their incompetence.

The only convincing argument we hear for halting construction of additional nuclear generating facilities is that they are a part of our overall energy picture. In this light, we can support a halt to use of any new energy source—including oil, gas, coal, solar, etc.—until meaningful conservation measures are working.

It would be far more constructive to see the nuclear plant demonstrators parading before the Michigan Transportation Commission, in support of mass transit and against construction of I-275, or against the import of foreign oil, or in support of mandatory use of buses for urban area commuters and for resurfacing of railroads into the north.

To repeat, if we are destroyed it will not be by nuclear power. It will be by our insatiable lust to force a showdown with destiny by consuming the last bones of the planet.

114-mile trip in north Ontario

Ride the snow train for glimpse of winter

BY DIANNE MURRAY

Whatever happened to winter? Winter Fun's roving reporter decided to make a search, and we found winter hiding in Ontario.

Longing for a glimpse of real winter, we took a day-long trip on the Algoma Snow Train to a land of frozen blue waterfalls, rolling hills, steep snow-covered cliffs and lakes dotted with fishing shanties.

The Algoma Central Railway Snow Train winds its way from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, through 114 miles of untouched forests and mountains interlaced with numerous frozen lakes and waterfalls.

About 13 inches of snow covers the Algoma Country which the 17-car train takes its passengers through. From the comfort and warmth of your seat the nine hour round-trip unfolds sights that are picture postcard perfect.

A camera is a must on the trip. It's a good trip to take the family or a group of friends on. A good suggestion is to pack a cooler full of lunch, snacks and drinks. There is a diner car which serves breakfast and lunch, but the food is somewhat expensive (about $3 for a sandwich), and no liquor is served.

Passengers are welcome to bring beer or liquor.

Snow Train tours are available through March 30. Round trip tickets are $17 for adults, and $9 for children. Kids under five ride free. Reservations for the popular one-day tour should be made two to three weeks in advance, a railroad employee stressed. The train departs at 8:30 a.m. and returns to the depot at 4:30 p.m.

Business has been slower this winter than past years. There is usually over 50 inches of snow in the area, but this winter there's only been about 13 inches of snow, so the tour has not been swamped with reservations. The train, which can hold about 600 passengers was only about half-full and people could get tickets the day of the tour. But, starting next week, business should be picking up and reservations should be made.

Passengers board at the Algoma Central Depot, only one-half mile over the International Bridge. Just past the bridge, there are signs directing you to the depot.

As soon as the train departs from the depot, the sights begin. Lake Superior and the International Bridge are seen to the left and two of Sault Ste. Marie's biggest industries, the Algoma Steel Mill and Pass Abitibi Paper Company are within a few miles of the depot.

A little over a half hour into the trip, the train passes over a 100 ft. high, 810 ft. long trestle. From here, there's a great view of the roaming hills in the Bellevue Valley.

A little farther into the trip the train might stop to let off some downhill skiers at Mount Searchmont. Skiing ranges from beginning to advanced and all runs have chairlifts or T-bars.

Most of the country next to the railway is still a wilderness area and sportsmen's paradise. Skiers, fishermen, snowshoers and snowmobilers are dropped off along the trip north. They boast about the open spaces for their sporting activity, and by looking out the window you become envious of them getting out in the beautiful surroundings.

The train next passes several lakes including Little Achigan Lake, Ogidaki Lake and the Chippewa River. Tour brochures brag about the trout fishing in these lakes and rivers and you can see many people in ice shanties.

The train starts to climb at Batchewana River, 80 miles into the trip, until it reaches the Montreal River at mile 97.

At the Montreal River the train goes over a trestle 130 ft. high and 1,550 ft. long. There is an excellent view of the river and surrounding area when looking out the back of the train on an open platform. Many photographers opt for this view because there's no dirty window to fog up the picture.

A power dam at the base of the trestle retains the waters of the Montreal River. The power generated at the dam supplies the city of Sault Ste. Marie and surrounding areas.

For the next 12 miles of the trip north, the train starts descent of over 500 ft. to Agawa Canyon. Lake Superior can again be seen off in the distance between the high hills and trees. Rocky hills dotted with blue frozen waterfalls are on the horizon.

One of the prettiest views is Bridal Veil and Black Beaver Falls which are caught by winter's cold, frozen solid.

At the end of the line, the engines switch positions and go to the end of the train to make the trip home to the depot. Tour hostesses suggest that passengers switch seats for the ride back. Most people do, because it's a chance to catch some of the sights they missed on the trip north.

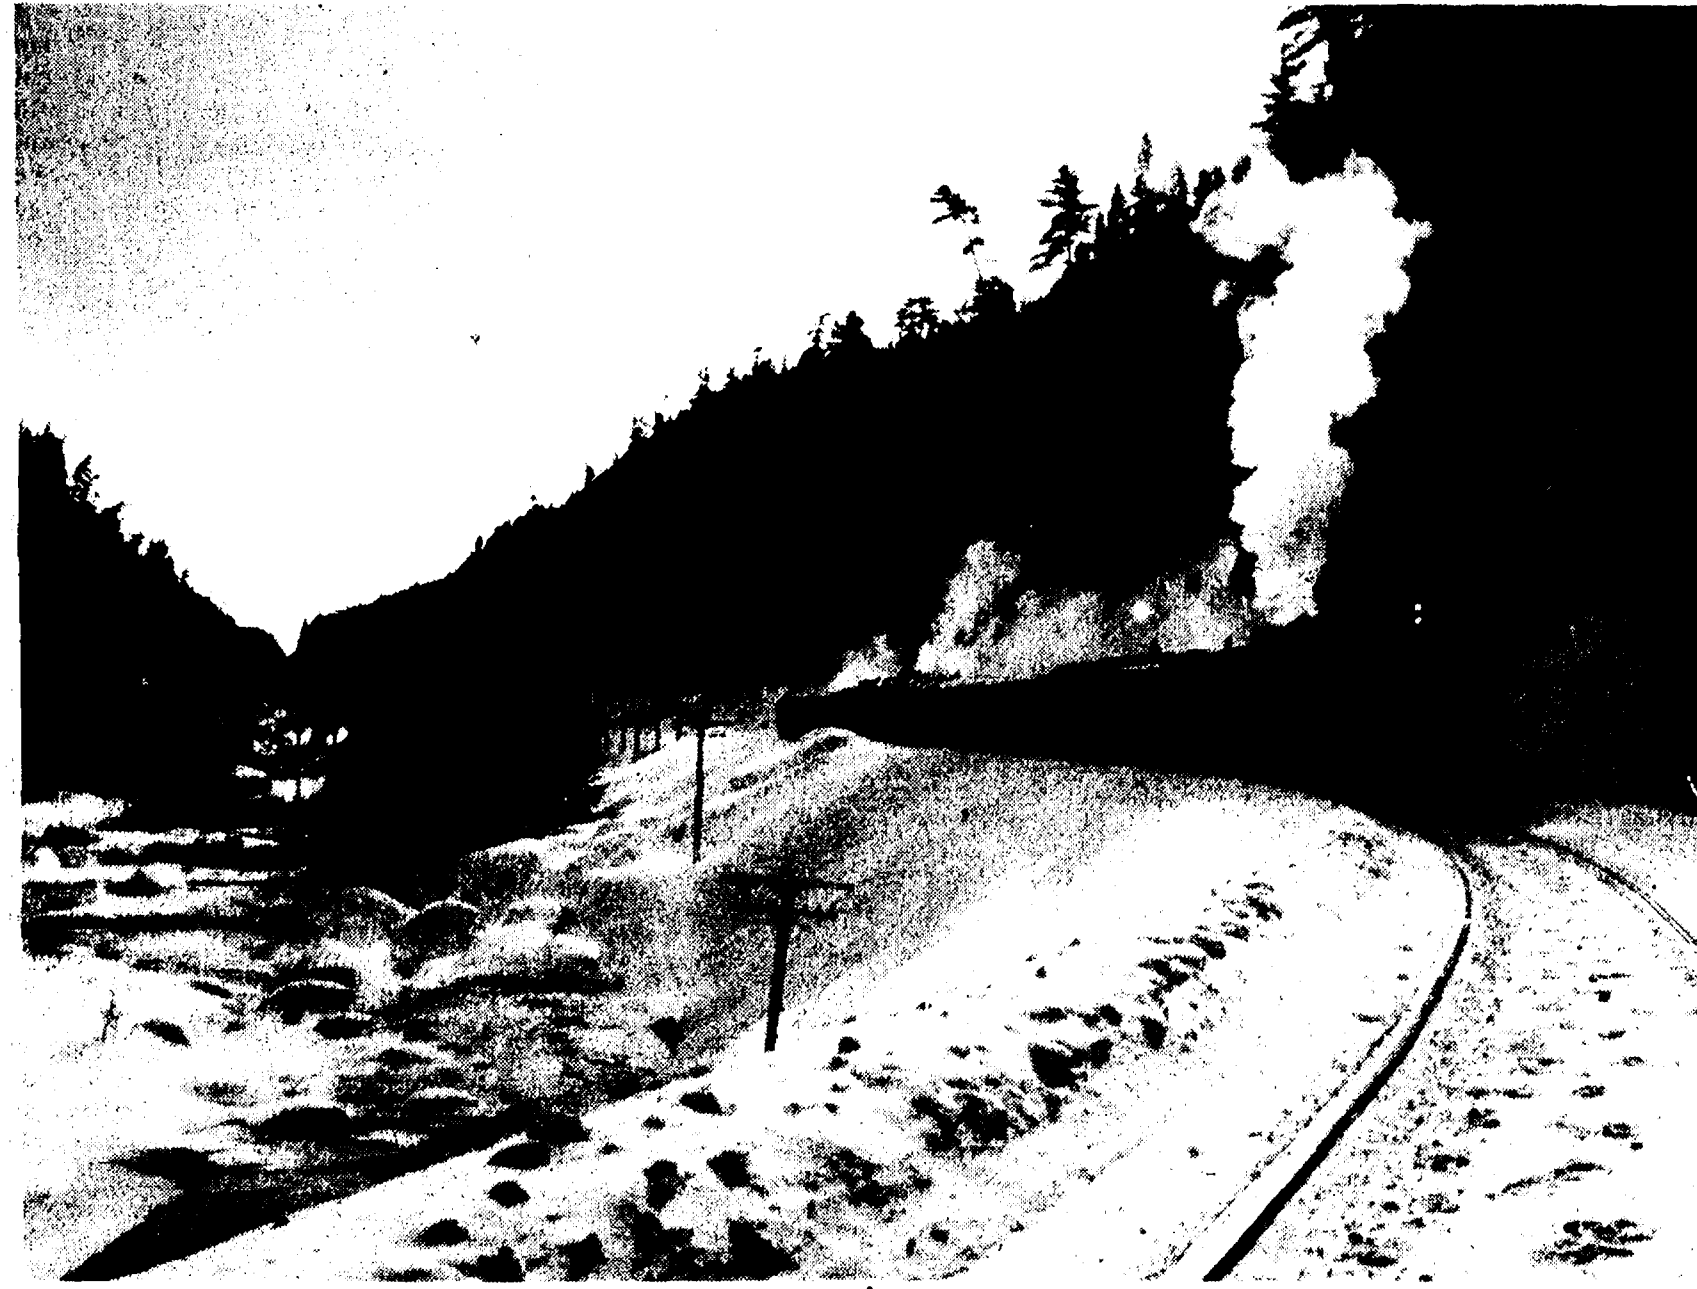

The trip back to the depot is much quieter with many passengers taking a nap or settling down with a good book.

After the long train ride, rather than drive back two and a half hours to Charlevoix County, stay at one of several hotels and motels available close to the Algoma Central Depot.

Over a dozen hotels and motels can be found within seven miles of the depot. The Empire Motor Hotel, Royal Hotel

The scenery along the Algoma Central Snow Train tour in Agawa Canyon is spectacular. This river, one of many viewed from the window of the Snow Train, was not frozen although most rivers and lakes were frozen.

The Algoma Central Railway Snow Train in Ontario offers a one-day tour into the wilderness of Agawa Canyon. On the nine-hour train ride passengers see blue frozen waterfalls, tall timbers covered with snow and breathtaking views of canyons.

and Windsor Hotel, all in downtown Sault Ste. Marie are within walking distance of the depot. Since they are downtown, double occupancy room fares are a little more expensive than those outside the city limits and range between $30 and $40 a night.

Pine Grove Motel, Sheraton Caswell and the Traveller's Motel, all on Highway 17 East (the main street from downtown), were between $20 and $25 a night for double occupancy.

Reservations should be made before hand to assure that your room will be available when you arrive.

Two-day tours of the vast northern wilderness are also available year-round. The two-day tour of the line is a 300-mile tour of the rails from Sault Ste. Marie to Hearst, Ontario. Passengers stay overnight at Hearst and can stay longer if they wish.

This tour is a combination of the beauty of Agawa Canyon and a further look at the flatlands of the Great Clay Belt region.

Rail fares are $49.50 round-trip for adults and $25 for children under 12. This tour is available year-round.

Fall tours of Agawa Canyon and Algoma Country are also popular. Many passengers on board the Snow Train last weekend had taken fall and summer tours and said the fall color tours are spectacular. At the end of the fall tour, there's a two-hour stop-over. Passengers depart and can walk to many waterfalls and rocky cliffs for photographs. There's time for a picnic by the Agawa River and you can try catching a trout.

Color season is from Sept. 13 to Oct. 13. Tickets for both tours are $19 for adults and $9 for children under 12.

Summer tours are from May 31 to Oct. 13 daily. The train departs the depot at 8 a.m. and returns at 5 p.m.

SKI

YOU CAN DO IT

CURL YOUR TOES ON THE UPHILLS

At times, skiing uphill can feel like you are taking one step forward and two steps back. Try this hint to see if you can improve your progress uphill.

Curl your toes and dig them into the snow when using the diagonal stride to ski uphill. This exercise should help you to move most of your weight over your front ski where it is needed to set the ski and help your wax or non-wax surface grip the snow. If your weight remains equally balanced over both skis, you will slip backward down the hill.

It is a simple idea, but it works well. Curl your toes, dig them in and ski uphill with no trouble.

Technical assistance provided by Eastern Professional Ski Touring Instructors.

Pro-Am racing returns to Boyne

Professional ski racing is returning to Boyne Mountain Jan. 26.

Not since 1972 have professional racers the caliber of Jean Claude Killy, Spider Sabich, and Hugo Nindl raced head to head on the slopes of Boyne Mountain. But come Saturday 60 professional racers representing tours from Lake Tahoe to Killington, plus the Midwest's finest amateur racers will compete in Boyne Mountain's first Pro-Am Race of the decade.

The skiers will race on a dual slalom course on South McClouth, with eliminations beginning at 9 a.m. and the Pro-Am Race starting at 1 p.m.

"If you're insuring a snowmobile, your policy should cover you on somebody else's machine, too."

"We recommend that people choose their snowmobile insurance the same way they pick car coverage. You should pick a policy, for instance, that helps protect you while you're driving someone else's snowmobile, too. A policy that pays for your own medical expenses as well as those of your passenger. To get this kind of comprehensive coverage, we recommend an Auto-Owners recreational vehicle policy. Want to know more? Give us a call."

Auto-Owners Insurance is for recreational vehicle owners, too.

Film festival in the works at library

BY REV. K. A. SMITH
Library Board President

Remember the last time you got to see the Keystone Cops streak across the screen? Or how about the Hunchback of Notre Dame ringing his bell?

The library is hoping to have these and many more of the old time favorites as part of a four week, fund-raising film festival starting in February. Films will be shown two nights a week for, yes that's right, four weeks.

Donations are 80 cents or eight pop cans for adults and 20 cents or two pop cans for children under 12. Films are being ordered and gathered, so look for future announcements on the final schedule or you just might miss Buster Keaton or Humphrey Bogart appearing at the library.

The library's specialty is books, and there are a few that are new to the shelves. In fiction, William Golding, author of the classic "Lord of the Files" gives us another chiller about orphans after World War II.

Library corner

And for those of you who found you couldn't put down John LaCarre's book "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold," get ready. "Smiley's People," his newest, is said to be his best spy novel yet.

In non-fiction, for those of you who may be dreaming of warm days and nights or maybe want to plan a grand cruise, there's the "Sunset Travel Guide to Mexico." From Baja to Yucatan you can plan for the fiestas or auto exploring. Ahh sweet Mazatlan, there's nothing quite like the thought of a warm ocean breeze and a palm tree (with a good book, of course) to get you through weather that can't quite make up its mind what season it wants to be.

Just a reminder, the library has film projectors and screens available for public use. Please reserve this equipment in advance as arrangements must be made for pick up during regular library hours.

Watch for the coming library book and bake sale on Feb. 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All proceeds go to help the library. It's not every day you get to buy a homemade brownie and a paperback book for only 35 cents.

The beginning of a new year has traditionally been the time to look back with gratitude for all that has been received, as well as beginning, with fresh enthusiasm, the projects of the new year. The Boyne City Public Library is no exception to this.

We would like to extend our deep appreciation and gratitude to all those who have so generously donated to the library this past year. Some of the very special donations have come from Mrs. Jacqueline Koehler-Miller to the children's department and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richardson of East Grand Rapids who have made several memorial donations for books.

A very special thanks goes to the Boyne City Historical Society for their financial aid in the purchase of a new microfilm reader. By the way, these gifts to the library are tax deductible. . . you wouldn't happen to need another deduction would you?

Borrowing Power

Many homeowners borrow against their property when they need large amounts of cash to make major improvements, pay college costs, handle emergencies, make a down payment on a second home or on some investment property. The two major borrowing routes are refinancing and second mortgages.

If the rate on your present mortgage is less than the current interest rates, financing can be costly. On the other hand, rates and monthly payments on long-term financing are lower than short-term credit. Even if the total amount you pay in interest is greater, monthly payments on a long-term loan may fit your present financial needs best.

You might also obtain a sizeable amount of money on a short-term basis in the form of a second mortgage or a personal loan. Both are based largely on the strength of your financial position as a property owner. However second mortgages are more costly because the risk is higher for the lender and generally last for about five years in length.

All a group has to do is register with the Store Manager and begin saving the green cash register tapes. Glen's will pay 1 percent of the total qualified amount of all tapes brought in by any registered group; and not just once, but each time a group brings in $25.00 worth of slips or more.

Pictured at left is Rev. John Roberts and Dan Shaw receiving a check for the Church of the Everlasting God in the amount of $136.38. This is one example of a non-profit group making use of the Save-Share Program to help raise funds. There are many more groups using it too, and there will be a picture of one each week in this paper.

Devils face crucial game

East Jordan's Red Devils, coming off a one-sided win over Inland Lakes, will find themselves in a crucial Ski Valley Conference game Friday when they travel to Gaylord for a game with Gaylord St. Mary.

Boyer City will host Rogers City Friday in a game the Ramblers just might win and Boyer Falls will be shooting to break a losing streak spanning two seasons at Mackinaw City Friday.

The Devils and Friday's foe, the Snowbirds, each sport 5-2 conference records to put them, along with Harbor Springs, one game behind league leading Bellaire.

Rogers City is one rung up the ladder from Boyer City in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference with a 1-7 conference mark. In the first of the schedule, the Hurons beat Boyer in Rogers City.

The Boyer Falls Loggers will face a run and shoot offense at Mackinaw City, according to Logger Coach Joel Donaldson. "We're going to slow it down," the Boyer Falls coach said.

Donaldson was disappointed in his team's play in last Friday's 86-39 loss.

"I was very disappointed," he said. "I don't think we played up to our potential. Ellsworth has a fine club but I'm disappointed that we didn't do better against them."

Don Green led the Loggers in scoring and rebounding in the loss with 13 points and nine rebounds. Don Sevanski and John Hausler added five points each.

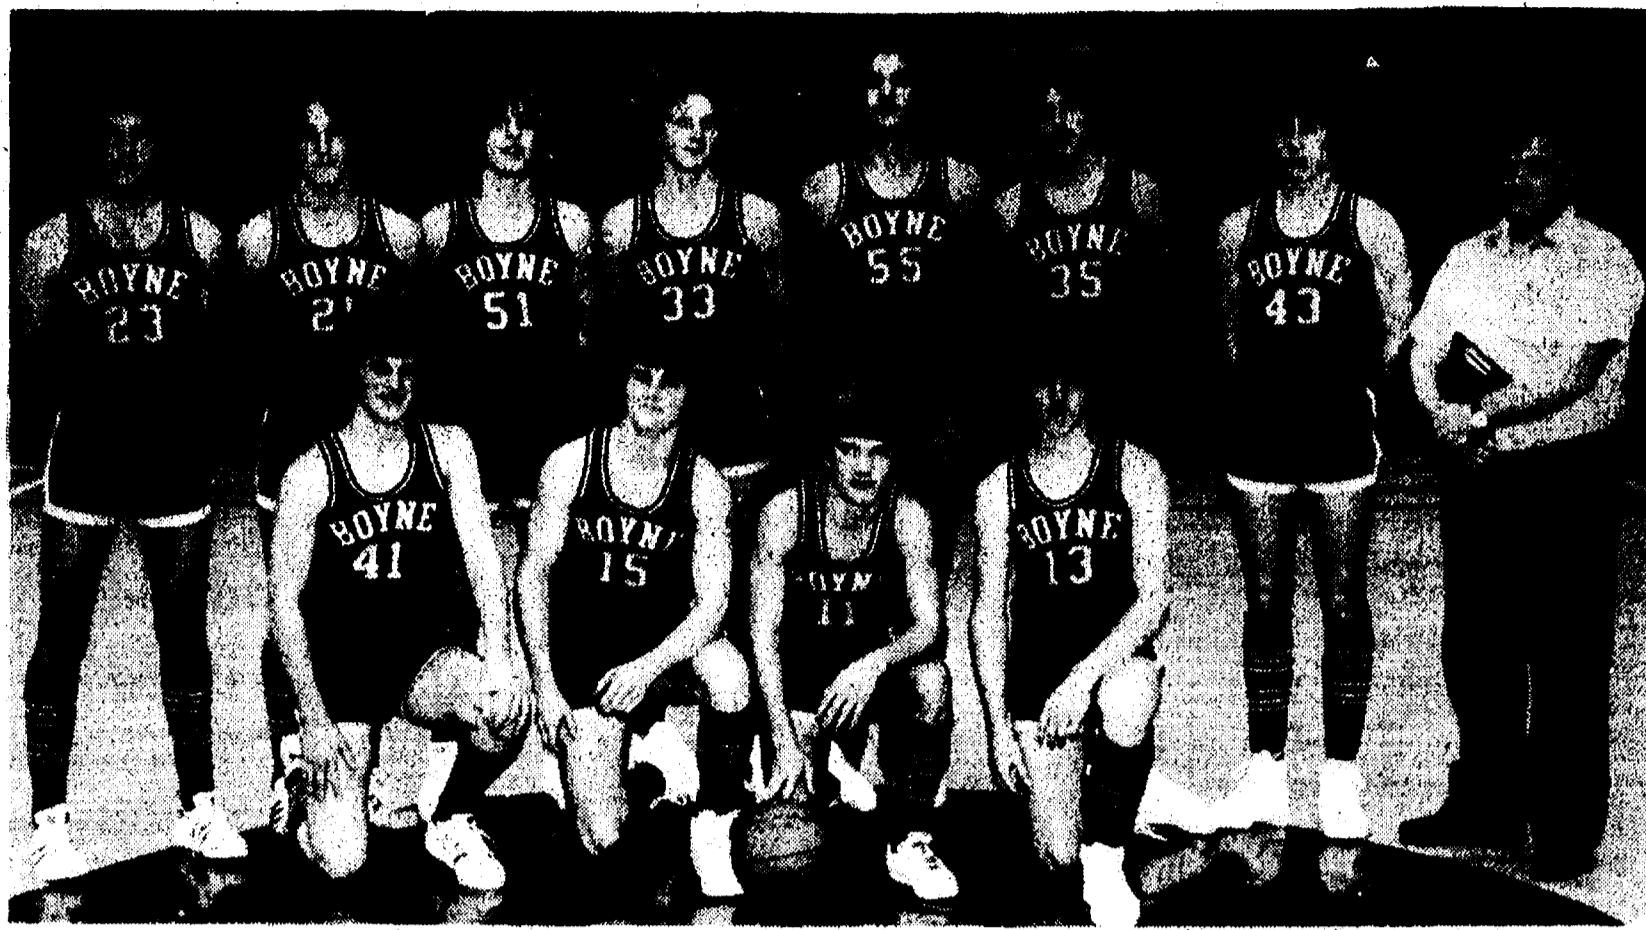

Boyer City Coach Russ Harvey is looking for a close game with Rogers City.

"By Michigan-Huron Shores statistics it's a three point ballgame," Harvey said. "It should be a really close game all the way down the line."

Boyer was led by juniors Larry Jarema and Daryl Tims, with 12 and 10 points respectively, in its 68-52 loss.

While East Jordan was posting an easy 82-51 win over Inland Lakes Friday, Gaylord St. Mary was having an equally easy evening, winning by 15 at Mancelona.

Jerry Fuller, with 14 points, Del Ingalls, with 13, and Duane Carpenter, with 10, led the Devils in their win.

Net squad to meet tall Petoskey team

BOYNE CITY - Boyer City's volleyball squad upped its mark to 5-1 overall with wins last week. The next opponent for the Ramblers is a tall Petoskey team.

"Petoskey is going to be tough," predicted Boyer Coach Pat Upton. "They're 2-2 in the conference but they've played tough teams."

Boyer beat Gaylord St. Mary two out of three games Thursday despite not getting back from a Wednesday match with Rogers City until 12:30 the night before. Becky Aimesbury and Donna Kleinschrodt were the top servers in the Ramblers' win over Gaylord St. Mary.

Wednesday the Ramblers won four out of six games against the Hurons. Kim Wandrie, Bardell Aimesbury and Cindi Scott provided the serving punch against Rogers City.

The junior varsity won two games against St. Mary and fell two of three to Rogers City. Karen Winter was the top server against Gaylord St. Mary while Becky Kimbler, Judy Upton and Winter were the top point getters in the games with Rogers City.

Young Rambler skiers do well despite falls in quad-meet

BOYNE CITY - A young Boyne City ski team fared well in a quad-meet competition Monday, finishing first in the boys' meet. The girls' squad skied well but had three skiers fall and finished fourth.

"The only skier on the boys' squad who is an upperclassman is Mike Neumann," explained Rambler Coach Bob McCullough. "Julie Dunlop is the only senior on the girls' team; the rest are ninth graders."

"I'm happy with the girls," McCullough said, despite the fourth place finish. "They're coming on."

Dunlop was the top finisher for the Boyne girls. The senior placed third in the slalom event and ninth in the giant slalom despite falling on her second run. Her first giant slalom run was the second best time turned in among the girls.

The boys' top skier, Mike Neumann, didn't compete due to an injury. In his absence his brother Marty came on with some strong performances, taking second place out of 24 racers in the slalom event and ninth, even with a fall, in the giant slalom.

Ramblers Chris Kuhn, Scott Stackus and Todd Ward placed sixth, seventh and ninth in the slalom. In the giant slalom it was Kuhn placing third, Stackus fourth and Ward seventh.

The balanced finish for the Ramblers gave them the low team total of the four schools competing—Charlevoix, Mancelona, Bellaire and Boyne City. Final scores in the boys' competition were Boyne 44, Charlevoix 59, Bellaire 67, and Mancelona 149.

The Ramblers had another meet scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at Boyne Mountain against Petoskey and Harbor Springs.
