Bar owners start drive to lower drinking age

BY DIANNE MURRAY

Petitions to lower the drinking age from 21 to 19 are being circulated by Charlevoix County bar owners.

Local law enforcers, school counselors and principals say lowering the legal drinking age to 19, will not result in more students drinking at school or put more hazardous drivers on the road. There are not many 19 years olds at the high schools, and officials admit that if a student wants to get alcohol, he'll find some way to get it.

Local members of the tavern association note they had nothing to do with initiating the petition drive - but they do have a lot to gain if the legal drinking age is lowered.

It will be two years in November since Michigan voters passed Proposition D, hiking the drinking age up from 18 to 21. The state legislature had already passed a law raising the age from 18 to 19, which would have been effective later in 1978, but with the approval of Proposition D, the age was hiked another two years.

State Representative Richard G. Fitzpatrick of Battle Creek is leading the petition drive to restore the legal drinking age to 19. Approximately half of the necessary 276,000 signatures required to put the age issue on the November ballot have been collected, he said.

Area bar owners who are circulating petitions say the drive is going quite well. But ironically many of those who would be affected most by lowering the drinking age - those between 19 and 21 - are not registered to vote and cannot sign the petitions.

"Since 18 year olds have lost the right to drink for two years, I think they may get out and register to vote for this year's election," said Mac McNicol, owner of Boyne River Inn in Boyne City. "If the drinking issue isn't enough to get them out to register, then nothing will."

"The 21 year age limit has affected every bar in some shape or form," he said. In the case of BRI, McNicol said his business may have been cut about 15 percent when the raised drinking law went into effect.

"An untair burden has been placed on bar owners and that is enforcing the 21-year old drinking law. We have to let 18 year olds in the place but we must supervise everything so they're not served," he said.

"If an adult goes to the bar and orders five drinks, it's hard to insure that some young kid is not drinking liquor in the back room," he said.

Another bar hard-hit by the raised drinking age is Jerry's Place in East Jordan, owner Jerry LeDuc said. "I lost a good 20 to 25 percent of my business when the drinking age was hiked. I had the youth place in town, so it hit me hard."

LeDuc has a game room and he serves pizza, both popular features with younger folks. He thinks a more important consideration than bars losing customers is the fact that young adults have lost a legal right, he said.

Young adults between 18 and 20 who come in for soft drinks or food are offered a chance to sign the petition, but often they're not registered to vote, LeDuc said.

"They're all for the idea of lowering the drinking age but they're not registered. I think they should be registered, regardless of the issue," he said.

Dick Selissen, owner of the Flight Deck bar in Charlevoix, said he too feels young adults are not sticking up for their rights and registering to vote to insure their rights.

"At the age of 19 when a young person, male or female, can go off to war, get married and do a number of other things - he should be allowed to participate in adult recreation like drinking," Selissen said.

The 19 year old drinking limitation takes alcohol out of the high school for the most part, he said.

Boyne City High School principal Rick Casper said the drinking age limit has little to do with alcohol availability.

"No matter what the drinking age is, alcohol is easy to get if you really want it," he told The Press. "I can't really tell if the drinking age - at 21 or 18 - has made an appreciable difference in the number of kids drinking at school."

There aren't many 19 year olds left at school, he added, so if the drinking age was lowered to 19, not many high school students would be affected.

Casper said he personally supports lowering the drinking age to 19 because "When I was serving in the army at the age of 19 I found it very discriminatory that I could defend my country but I couldn't buy a beer," he said.

"I haven't noticed any change in the number of kids drinking since the law was changed," Charlevoix High School counselor Gayle Kaczynski said. "There aren't many 19 year olds left at school and I don't think lowering the drinking age will make that much difference."

East Jordan High School counselor Chub Rothenberger said the higher drinking age has not deterred high school students from drinking. It just makes it harder for them to drink in bars, he said.

"The worse part about letting 18 year olds drink was that it affected kids in school. But by lowering the drinking age to 19, it won't affect high school aged kids for the most part," Rothenberger said.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said he could not notice any difference in driving or drinking offenses in the county due to the hike in the drinking age.

"I do not see any change in the conduct of young adults when comparing the number of traffic accidents, alcohol furnished to minors or possession of alcohol by a minor" since the drinking age changed in November, 1978, Lasater said.

The trombone section blares out a tune during the spring concert by the East Jordan High School band last Thursday. The freshman band also performed.

U.S. 131, 31 have safety problems

Tourist routes north are hazardous

LANSING - The two major tourist routes from southwestern Michigan to the Charlevoix County area - U.S. 131 and U.S. 31 - are "bad roads with some critical safety problems," state officials concede.

These problems are not unique to northwestern Michigan, but exist in many areas across the state, said John B. Ouderkerk, a planning manager with the state Department of Transportation. Critical highway safety problems exist in Charlevoix County, Detroit and all over the state.

Rapidly rising reconstruction and maintenance costs and the gasoline crunch making the future of the passenger car uncertain are severely limiting the flow of funds to the transportation department to solve these problems, he said.

The bulk of funding for state highway repair and expansion comes from state license plate fees and the 13-cent per gallon gasoline tax. The trend towards smaller cars and decreased gasoline consumption caused by skyrocketing prices has put a crimp in the transportation department budget.

"People haven't stopped driving, but they have cut back enough that we feel it," Ouderkerk said.

Highway maintenance funding problems in Michigan are not new. U.S. 131 was one of the state highways that deteriorated to the point the state legislature passed a special tax in 1972 to provide extra funding for these problem roads.

Transportation department accident figures for the last decade show there are a number of areas in northwestern Michigan that have been classified as "critical safety problem areas."

Lt. James Snody of the Michigan State Police plainly states, "U.S. 131 and U.S. 31 are bad roads."

Ouderkerk concedes that the problems that exist with the main tourist arteries to and within Charlevoix County won't be solved soon and the problems may get worse.

Due to soaring inflation and decreased revenues, state projections show that by 1984 the transportation department won't even have enough money to provide basic highway maintenance across the state, let alone reconstruction or expansion, Ouderkerk said.

The transportation department will proceed with some improvement projects on the main arteries of northwestern Michigan, but they will be a far cry from the quality highway system the department once hoped to provide.

A 1967 department study - that came out when gasoline cost 30 cents per gallon and the economy was booming - called for the conversion and relocation of U.S. 131 and U.S. 31 into four-lane freeways. Since that time inflation and gasoline prices have scrapped those plans.

Last summer the department released a new regional transportation study for northwestern Michigan, evaluating all forms of transportation. Many of the study recommendations are tied to the amount of population and economic growth and the availability of fuel, but there are recommendations to upgrade highways no matter what the future holds.

The study recommends immediate reconstruction of U.S. 131 north of the M-75 junction near Walloon Lake to the county line. This stretch of road has had periods of over 600 accidents per million passenger car miles - a rate high enough to be classed "a critical safety problem."

The transportation department is now undertaking more detailed area studies which, depending on funding, could recommend more improvement projects by late 1981, Ouderkerk said. Specialized studies in the Manton and Cadillac areas of U.S. 131 are already underway, but changes won't come fast, he added.

"Federal and state regulations in the last decade have added years to the process," Ouderkerk said. "It takes eight to 10 years from the time relocating a piece of highway is considered until its completion."

While the process appears to be slow and cumbersome, Ouderkerk said he feels the large volume of input now required assures that highway funds are spent prudently.

In addition to the state transportation department, other state agencies, federal agencies, local units of government and the public in the affected area are all consulted in planning the state's transportation future.

Each area of the state has its own unique concerns about transportation, Ouderkerk said.

In northwestern Michigan there is a constant conflict between representatives of the tourist industries seeking large, efficient highways to bring them business and the land owners and naturalists who want to keep people out of their northern sanctuary, he said.

New station challenges air waves

CHARLEVOIX - A new rhythm will be heard in northwest Michigan starting Friday on your FM radio dial. WKHQ, the FM sister station of WVOY-AM, will be offering new sounds and new competition to other area FM and AM stations. With imported personnel, advanced electronic equipment and a large sales staff the new station at 106 on the FM dial, will challenge the waves starting this week.

The radio programming is completely automated with equipment and flashing lights as confused-looking as the control room at Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant. But actually, the automatic pilot-type programming leaves the disc jockey free of worry. Eight tracks with 24 hours or more of music and commercials are ready at the push of a button for the DJ's to activate.

"A DJ's biggest worry will be what to say during his or her show time," said Bob Harper, in charge of KHQ programming. Harper said the idea is to give the jockey more of a free hand so he or she can devote more time and thought to dialogue.

KHQ's equipment - and eight track stereo master recorder, a two-track sub-master, four reel-to-reel machines and four stereo playbacks - all ensure top quality sounds will be heard over the radio waves, Harper said. The equipment is "far superior to records. Eight-tracks don't get broken, lost or misfiled as easily as records. But at any time the announcer can over-ride or make changes in the programming," Harper said.

Sixteen people make up the staff of KHQ. Disc jockeys are co-owner Tim Moore with the 6 to 10 a.m. show; Mike Daniels, working the 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift; Harper doing the 3 to 7 p.m. show; Carey Carlson working the 7 to 10 p.m. program and John Borders (formerly with WJML) rounding out the 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. program.

Harper has had plenty of radio experience including WKBW, Buffalo; WSAL, Cincinnati; KOV, Pittsburg; director of Radio Consultation for the Frank Magid Company; and most recently before becoming a partner in KHQ, director of contemporary services at the TM Programming Company in Dallas.

Moore, formerly with WVOY and TM companies came back to Charlevoix as president and general manager of the new FM station. He shares ownership presently with Almo Franklin and Tim Ives.

KHQ bills itself as "a mass-appeal adult contemporary station," focusing on an 18 to 49-year old audience. A "real people-radio" approach will be used with emphasis on non-musical elements such as news and public affairs information and of course, "choice music" Moore said.

KHQ joins WWRM, Gaylord, and WJML, Petoskey, as area 100,000 watt stations. The area which will be served by KHQ ranges from south of Cadillac into lower regions of the upper peninsula.

"Our northern audience has changed dramatically the last few years and is tremendously sophisticated. If you put Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties together you might get an audience the size of Ann Arbor. We have to think about how to deal with people who are spread so far out in each of these towns and yet deal individually with their wants and needs," Moore said.

The area is a great radio market, he added, because of its diversity. Advertising sales, even before the station has hit the air, has been "phenomenal," Moore said, and he predicts the competition with other area AM and FM radio stations will help, not hinder, the advertising business for all stations.

To help serve and reach all boundaries of the radio's reach, eight sales staff members are employed.

Gary Buffington directs the sales staff of WVOY and manages the Petoskey sales unit of KHQ. Sales offices are open in Petoskey and Traverse City, Moore said. Buffington worked as manager of WMBN, Petoskey, before hiring on with WVOY and KHQ.

Dallas songwriter Jim Kirk, with lyrics adapted by Moore, wrote a full-length song about northwestern Michigan. The song showcasing the KHQ theme: "Rhythm of the Northwest - 106 KHQ," is very catchy and should have the audience tapping their heels and singing with the station's jingle.

Tim Moore, one trustee of WKHQ-FM, at the controls in the DJ broadcasting room. The new station is expected to start broadcasting Friday at 106 on the FM dial and will challenge the waves with new personnel and advanced equipment.

County highways safe

While U.S. highways 31 and 131 have severe safety problems in some areas, local law enforcement personnel point out that within Charlevoix County, these highways have been relatively safe. Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater, said "Both (highways) are pretty straight stretches and they're maintained and patrolled well within the county."

Of all county road fatalities, Lasater said "not one was caused by road conditions." Instead alcohol was the factor in the majority of them, he said.

Since January of 1977 to present, there have been 25 county traffic fatalities. Out of the 25, only six fatalities occurred on U.S. 31 or U.S. 131. Alcohol was a factor in 11 of those 25 fatalities, Lasater said.

Two intersections - U.S. 131 and M-75 at Boyne Falls and U.S. 131 and M-75 at Walloon Lake - are where many of the accidents in the county occur. But the accidents have usually not resulted in serious personal injury to drivers and passengers.

Sgt. Louis Girard of the traffic services department of the Traverse City State Police uses the Michigan Accident Location Index to record and locate information on highway roads.

"Usually accidents occur at intersections and we have no report of any intersections in Charlevoix County tagged serious accident problems," Girard said. Of the accidents which have occurred within Charlevoix County on these two highways, most have been property damage accidents, he said, agreeing with Lasater.

A computer check of the U.S. 131 and M-75 north intersection at Boyne Falls showed 11 accidents there since January of 1976.

Eight of those accidents involved no personal injury, only damage to the vehicle, Girard said. "For one of the busiest intersections in the county, I'd call that a pretty safe record," he said.

Lasater notes that the U.S. 131 and M-75 intersections at Walloon Lake and Boyne Falls are more prone to accidents than other roads, especially during winter months.

Due to the harsh winter weather eating away the shoulders, some accidents have occurred by people driving off the shoulder into a ditch or swinging the car into head-on traffic when trying to get their car back on the road, he said.

But after each complaint about poor road conditions, the Charlevoix County Road Commission immediately patched the shoulder, Lasater said.

Administrators say

Staff cuts won't affect class size

BOYNE CITY - Class size won't be affected much by the drop of five full-time and three half-time teaching positions school administrators say.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The elementary school will lose two teaching positions in first and second grades. Nancy Anthony, a half-day title I math teacher; Kris Skornia, a half-day kindergarten teacher; and first grade teacher Carol Powers will not be back to teach during the 1980-81 school year.

"There will be very little change" in class size, elementary principal Ed Snyder said. Class sizes presently range from 26 to 30 students per room.

There are three kindergarten sections now and 10 more students are expected to enroll for kindergarten for the 1980-81 school year. There are presently 78 kindergartners. Class sizes may jump from 26 to 30 or more if enrollment for kindergarten gets any higher, he said. Another section may have to be added and possibly another teacher would be hired in the fall if enrollment gets too high.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

Middle school science teachers Ron Hausler and Ricka Jarema have been laid off for the upcoming 1980-81 school year. Sherry Drake from the high school will be teaching one section of science and the rest of the science classes will be picked up by middle school staff members, principal Jack Cyr said.

When asked if the teacher cuts will affect class size or education, Cyr said, "Everything will adjust okay. It will have to."

Class sizes range from 32 students in the sixth grade to 23 in the eighth grade. The class size will remain about the same for each class as it moves up one grade next year, Cyr said.

HIGH SCHOOL

The high school received the largest teaching staff cut with three positions terminated. English teacher Rick Fowler and science teacher Don Lockman are being cut back to half-day positions rather than full-time.

Art teacher Chuck Britton and foreign language teacher Gunnar Lundteigen, will teach half-days at the middle school in addition to half-days at the high school. High school science teacher Sherry Drake will also be moved from the high school to the middle school.

High school enrollment is expected to drop 30 students next year from the present enrollment of 485 students, Supt. Rich Kelly predicts. "So there will be less enrollment and less staff to even things out," he said.

The following non-instructional employees will also be relieved of duties for the 1980-81 school year: Sharon Johnson, bus driver; Eleanor Stradling, part-time cook at the elementary school; and Jerry Crozier, custodian.

Middle School cook Nora Cole was cut from a four-hour to a two-hour work day for the 1980-81 school year.

Even if the requested 2.6 mill increase over last year's 18.8 current voted millage is approved in June, these cuts will be made, Kelly said.

President, delegates to be picked Tuesday

Voters at the May 20 election will be voting for Republican and Democratic presidential candidates and Republican party delegates.

Democratic presidential candidates include: Edmond G. Brown and Lyndon H. Larouche, Jr.

Republican presidential candidates are: Ronald Reagan, Harold Stassen, John B. Anderson, George Bush and Benjamin Fernandez.

Democratic candidates President Jimmy Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy did not file for the Michigan presidential primary.

State Republicans have said they will go to court to force independent candidate John B. Anderson's name off the Tuesday GOP presidential primary ballot. Attorney General Frank J. Kelley said Monday that Anderson's name would remain on the ballot. Anderson earlier switched from a Republican to independent candidate, but not in time for the May 21 withdrawal deadline.

The only other issue on the ballot is naming Republican delegates to the county convention. Thirteen county residents have filed for a possible 56 delegate seats. The remaining 43 seats will be filled by write-in candidates, county clerk officials said.

Those who have filed for delegate seats are: William Ohle of Horton Bay, John E. Haggard of Charlevoix, Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix, Clarence Rabach of Charlevoix, Ronald Geer of Charlevoix, William Carey of Charlevoix, Richard Dubin of Boyne City, Arthur Rouse of Boyne City, Oral Sutliff of Boyne City, Marvin Loding of Boyne City, Steven B. Wilson of Charlevoix, Edward Hansen of Charlevoix and Cheryl Browe of Charlevoix.

Voters in each city or township will vote for only those delegates located in their district.

Polls are open Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at each city or township hall.

MEA officials consulted after hearings denied

BOYNE CITY - High school staff members will meet with Michigan Education Association union officials later this week to discuss their next step after being denied a request to meet with school board officials and discuss contract for extra-curricular activities.

The school board Monday night received two separate written requests probing into the recent dismissal of boys' varsity basketball coach Russ Harvey.

Harvey sent a letter to the board requesting a hearing - either open or closed at the school board's discretion - in regard to his not being rehired as basketball coach for the 1980-81 school year.

The board also received a similar letter from high school staff members requesting a hearing to "explain the procedure and criteria used to evaluate B schedule (extra-curricular) personnel."

Harvey's hearing request was turned down in a 5-2 vote. The resolution to hold a hearing was supported by Mark Behling and Betty Johncheck. Shirley Crozier, Bill Chipman, Ray Towne, George Shiotelis and Tom Neumann voted against having a hearing.

Behling also made the motion to hold a hearing requested by the teaching staff. The motion died for a lack of support.

Behling was the only board member who voted in favor of rehiring Harvey as a coach when the school board voted on the matter April 28.

Harvey's letter requesting a hearing said: "Various questions remain unanswered. Most prominently of which is why?"

A hearing would provide an "opportunity to be represented, to face my accusers and to know the exact reason for which I was denied the varsity basketball coaching assignment for 1980-81," Harvey's letter said.

Harvey said he was disappointed his hearing request was denied, but he did not expect it to be approved. "It just makes one believe that they have something to hide," he said.

Harvey said he is looking into other ways to find out why he was dismissed and if he has any legal rights, but he would not elaborate.

"B schedule contracts are completely unprotected and that is why they can put the screws to me," Harvey said.

Staff members Dale Parsons and Bill Frye said they too are concerned with the legal rights of coaches, class advisors and anyone else signing a B schedule contract.

There is no tenure with the extra-curricular contracts and no set criteria for hiring and firing, the teachers said.

Frye told the Press after the meeting that "We see what the board is doing to Russ (Harvey) and we're afraid they could arbitrarily do the same thing to anyone on B schedule too," he said.

"We have not arbitrarily stepped out and dismissed anyone from a position," board chairman Chipman said. "We are a public body discussing a private matter and we can't elaborate anymore."

School board members stuck to their guns and would not give any reason for the nine-year coaching veteran's dismissal. The board's Lansing attorney told the board members they did not have to give any reason for dismissal of B schedule positions.

We're glad you asked!

BOYNE CITY ACE HARDWARE

As master plan nears

Concern over losing airport

BOYNE CITY— City commissioners received four letters Tuesday night from businessmen opposed to closing the city airport to construct an industrial park on the site.

The city is considering the possibility of using the airport property as an industrial park site.

Land use recommendations from the consulting firm hired to develop the city's master plan have included using the airport property as an industrial site.

City manager Tim Clifton would not comment on future plans for the airport. The master plan should be completed and in commissioner's hands later this week. The plan will include a recommended direction for the industrial park site and the city airport.

Communications were received from Marvin Lieberman of the Standard Stamping Company of Nashville, Mi.; Bernard B. Friedland of the Friedland Iron and Metal Co., of Lansing; Mike Stowe, president of Industrial Magnetics of Troy and Boyne City; and Larry G. Trumble, president of Trumco, Inc. of Boyne City.

Each letter said that the airport was used for business purposes by the men's respective company and that use of the airport is essential to their business.

Lieberman said he has considered moving part of his metal stampings, assembly and welding business to the city. But, "This move would be dependent upon the use of the Boyne City Airport," his letter states.

Stowe said Industrial Magnetics has a company airplane which flies out of the city airport approximately five times a month and if the plant expands its Boyne City location, use of the airport may become more frequent.

Trumble of Trumco, Inc., a building contractor business, said the company's plane is kept at the city airport.

"We feel with growth in the area as it is, the airport can only be a benefit in the City's favor...," his letter states.

Trumble said the city should be looking into other industrial sites other than the airport. The city has "hardly begun to use the area set aside for industrial use. Also it would not be to the advantage for an industrial plant to build inside the city," his letter states.

Approximately 15 acres north of Rotary Park on M-75 are presently zoned industrial but if the city should decide to draw up site plans for an industrial park at this site, it would not be available for state or federal funding because the site is too small. An industrial park site, in order to be eligible for funding to draft site plans, has to be at least 40 acres in size.

City officials and the Johnson, Johnson and Roy planning firm have noted the airport site is favorable for an industrial park because the land is flat, developable, located near public utilities and has easy access to highway M-75. City services would have to be extended out to the M-75 location and much of the traffic would be routed through neighboring residential areas, the planners have pointed out at past workshops for the master plan.

Once arrived, copies of the city's comprehensive plan will be available at city hall for public review.

Doing their part for nature week are (left to right) sixth graders Lori Campbell, Jill Danson and Jody McDermot. East Jordan students planted trees at Brown's Creek Nature area, made posters and wrote reports in observance of wildlife nature week.

Rotary Park improvements

BOYNE CITY— Construction of a concession stand, press box and restrooms at Rotary Park should start soon and be completed this fall, City manager Tim Clifton said. Construction of these facilities is being donated by the Boyne Area Lions Club.

City commissioners Tuesday night approved hiring Bidstrup Engineering of Harbor Springs for $900 to complete engineering plans for installation of a septic tank and drainfield to service the facilities.

The city previously wanted to install humus toilets but were denied permission by District Health Department #3. The city next looked into installing a sewer system at the park but decided against it because of the high cost. It would have cost in excess of $20,000 to extend city lines to the park.

Schafer named chamber manager

BOYNE CITY - The Chamber of Commerce now has a part-time manager, Kate Schafer.

Schafer was named manager at the May 8 chamber board meeting. She will work two days a week, possibly from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesdays.

The chamber had a manager more than five years ago but due to lack of funds, ended the position.

Schafer said her biggest task as manager will be to make money for the chamber. "In part, I have to figure out how to pay for my own salary," she said.

The people who serve on the chamber board are full-time business owners, she said, and it's hard for them to take time away from their jobs to run the chamber. "So that's where my job comes in," she said.

Schafer said in order to keep money flowing into the chamber she will re-evaluate the dues structure to see if there are any ways to get more people involved in chamber membership. She will also keep aware of any new businesses moving into the area and make sure the new business owners know of all chamber activities, she said.

Other money-making ventures she would like to pursue include a stag night, a couples boat cruise during color season, bingo and opening concession stands in city parks.

Business beat

New chamber officers named

Chuck Rivard, co-owner of Kaden's Emporium, has been elected president of the Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce.

Other new officers elected last week include Vice-president Kathy Toomey of the Granary, Secretary Art Gibbs of the Dairy Queen, and Treasurer Don Parrish of Parrish Chevrolet.

Other members of the board of directors are Randy Lightfoot, Marty Bieganowski, Jim Baumann, Gary Schafer, and Mac McNicol.

BOYNE CITY - Merla Vought was the prize winner of a microwave oven given away recently during grand opening celebrations at F.O. Barden and Son, Inc.

"I also want to make sure Boyne City is advertising enough and in the right places to attract tourists from 'downstate up here,'" she said.

Other ideas include having a winter carnival the same weekend as the Avalanche Ski Classic and sponsoring concerts in city parks.

Schafer and her husband Gary are owners of Schafer's store in downtown Boyne City. They have lived in Boyne for three years.

Other prize winners were Don Erickson, Ralph Brooks, Robert Breidenstein, Dorothy Mariage, Ron Bingham, Susan Matison, Mike Smith and Ken Anderson.

NWSB employee named bank chapter vp

Ellen Anderson of Boyne City has been elected first vice-president of the Great Lakes Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Anderson is assistant cashier of the EAST JORDAN - East Jordan students planted trees, made posters and wrote reports in observance of wildlife nature week last week.

Students from first through sixth grades planted 450 trees and shrubbery in Brown's Creek Nature Area in East Jordan last week. Red pine trees and different types of shrubs were planted along nature trails so the students could return to water and watch "their" trees grow. Jamie Baumann, director of community education, sponsored the hike and planting at the nature trails.

Posters with wildlife scenes and sayings were also made as part of nature week. Poster contest winners were: First grade - Sally Marr, David Prevo and Sara Oliver; second grade - Mike Prevo, Chad Looze and Mike Rebec; third grade - Gerry Cisewski, Eric Fuller and Tammy Lavake; fourth grade - Shawna Knapp.

Brian Lalonde and Colette Staley and fifth grade - a two-way tie between Margie Roberts and Mark Brewer.

Loss of grant shouldn't stop Tourist Park plan

It was disappointing to learn that the city of East Jordan will not receive an expected grant for improvement of its Tourist Park.

But we are encouraged by City Supt. Herman Rasch's reaction to the news. He wasn't happy, of course, but he firmly stated: "This isn't going to stop us from doing the project. It might take a little longer this way, but we're still going to get the job done."

While the city council has yet not taken a position on the matter, we have reason to believe that its members have the same feelings as Rasch. Council members were visibly impressed with the Tourist Park plan presented to them last month by the Recreation Commission and a professional landscape architectural firm.

The park plan is a good one. A first class campground for visitors and an improved beach and park for city residents will eventually take shape. Some of its features include more beach area, better traffic flow, more parking, boat docks, a new caretaker's home and an attractive park entrance. A landscaped earth mound will surround the entire park, shielding the sights and sounds of the highway from campers.

The new park, although it will take money and time to complete, will be an immense improvement over the city-owned mobile home park that had evolved over the years. Now, as hoped, a privately owned mobile home park is being built elsewhere in the city (on Deer Lake Road).

The park plan calls for development in three stages as local and federal grant money becomes available. The first stage was to cost about $29,000, with half of the funding to be federal.

In times when balancing the federal budget seems to be a political necessity, East Jordan and other communities probably ought to get used to the idea of getting fewer handouts from Uncle Sam. That's what we ask for when we demand lower taxes and fewer federal programs.

But if federal taxes go down (does that seem possible?) or at least stabilize, theoretically local taxes could go up a corresponding amount. That's what local control is all about. The money that used to go to Washington and filter back through various agencies could stay at the local level and (again theoretically) be used more efficiently and with fewer strings attached.

Whether or not this actually turns out to be the beginning of an era of decreasing dependence on the federal government, it is good to see East Jordan determined to go ahead with a worthy project on its own.

At Rasch's urging, the city is just now completing a major project, the $70,000 renovating of the downtown community building, which was accomplished entirely with local funds. That's a good precedent for proceeding full steam ahead on the Tourist Park. In view of the loss of grant money, perhaps the city council will even be able to allocate additional funding for the park development by re-examining its priorities.

Landscaping plan

The Chamber of Commerce office in Boyne City could look like this in a year or two. The Boyne City Garden Club, with the help of Petoskey landscape expert Jim Hoffman, drew up this plan for the building and presented it to the Chamber board of directors last week. Board members were impressed with the plan and said they hoped they could work towards beautifying the grounds. Structural repairs to the building are also being contemplated. Garden Club President Violet Manglos told the chamber that her club would assist with the care and planting of flowers and shrubs. The club will also be making future plantings at Old City Park, the Main Street bridge and at the main roads into the city.

Ape or angel?

You may never know

When we were fighting Japan to transform it into the automobile capital of the world, I was told that a copy of my birth certificate was needed before joining the Army.

At the Charlevoix County Clerk's office, where certificates were given out to prove to the Army that you had been born, Pete Bulow, a friend, laughingly said, "I see by this old form that you were born legitimate." The word "legit" had been typed at the bottom.

Yes, when I came into the world birth certificates noted whether or not you had been born free and clear.

The young fellow with me was also after his birth record so he could help make Japan the automobile capital of the world.

"I'll be damned," he said. "It says here that I was illegit."

We joshed about it and then dismissed it as we stopped for a cold one on the way home. But I could see that he was disturbed.

He never forgot it. And for years afterward he tried everything possible to stop being illegitimate. Nothing worked. And he remained an illegitimate child all his life.

When clerks became nauseated typing that stuff at the bottom of the certificates, they stopped it. And now, in these modern times, you can read your birth record without knowing whether you are an ape or an angel. In fact, the illegal condition is so common these days it takes two to discuss it. One to talk and one interested enough to listen.

My old Army buddy brought this up when I was down-state awhile ago. He said that things could have been worse for him.

"If five other children had not come to bless our home," he said, "I would have been an only child. And if I had not had a father and mother, I would have been an orphan. So being illegitimate ain't so bad after all."

That's how he had worked it out in his mind so he could laugh off an impaired social status.

I commend those clerks who got tired of typing that stuff at the bottom of birth certificates. It should not have been allowed. For no matter what my friend had said, I knew that he could not forget it.

After all, who wants to be reminded that they are illegitimate everytime someone drives a Toyota down the street?

Corrections

The price of the water well permit of District Health Department #3 was incorrectly reported in last week's paper. The past fee and new fee permit cost is $10.

A recent feature story on people who make maple syrup identified Bob Omland of East Jordan as owner of the Jordan Valley Trout Farm. Omland actually rents the farm from Marie Hughes, who is the owner.

Candidates must file petitions by June 3

The Press reminds county residents who may be interested in running for county, township and city offices that the deadline for filing nominating petitions is 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 3.

Petitions for county offices are available from the County Clerk's office at the courthouse in Charlevoix, and the petitions are also to be turned in there.

County positions which will be up for election in the August primary and November general election include: sheriff, clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, surveyor, drain commissioner and 15 county commissioners, who are elected by districts.

County petitions filed so far include Republican's Stephen Pond, the incumbent, and Richard Theisen for register of deeds. Three incumbents on the board of commissioners have filed for re-election: Ira Davis of District 4, Donald Meggison of District 13, and Oscar Ward of District 14.

Also to be elected are all township board members in the 15 townships of the county.

City council positions are up for election in Charlevoix and East Jordan. (Boyne City elections are held in odd numbered years.)

The filing deadline for Charlevoix petitions is June 3, the same as for county and township offices. Petitions are available at City Hall.

Up for election this year and every year are Mayor Sam Supernaw and Clerk Deanne Balch. Balch is not a voting member of the council. Also up for election are three of six council members: Raymond Wood in Ward 1, Ivan Whitley in Ward 2 and Shirley Roloff in Ward 3.

In East Jordan, the city charter dictates that the filing deadline for the August primary is June 17. Petitions are available at City Hall.

Terms which expire this year include Mayor Jim Meredith and council members Bud Kenny of Ward 1, Frank Campbell of Ward 2, and Ken Hagen of Ward 3.

No drinks without votes

Our 18 to 20 year olds should wake up to the fact that they are passing up one of their legal rights. I'm not speaking of their (past) right to drink at the age of 18, but of their right to vote.

It's sad to hear these young adults complain about not being able to drink, the possibility of being drafted and the poor shape our country is in when they have not taken the time to register to vote.

In elections, sometimes the issues get more publicity than the candidates and it seems this may be getting to be the case with the campaign to lower the drinking age to 19. Publicity, press releases and the campaigning has only begun for this issue.

I don't think there will be any problem getting enough signatures to get the lower drinking age issue on the ballot because enough older registered voters also support lowering the drinking age. But the problem lies in getting it passed by Michigan voters.

A turnout of voters at the polls in the

Dianne Murray

Campaigning in college towns is simple. There are always enough students who want to pick up some kind of issue and carry it. Getting people to register 18 to 20 year-olds on campuses is simple. The difficult part is getting them to register in other places, whether they be small or large.

These young adults are entering a period in their lives when many of the issues decided in elections will be affecting them most - from being drafted to setting new tax rates to their rights as Michigan citizens.

I think they are missing the biggest right they have as an adult - the right to vote. With that right exercised properly, they too can have a bigger say in their lives. As one bar owner said, if this issue can't get the 18 to 20 year-olds out, registered to vote, than nothing can.

Anyone 18 or older and a resident of Michigan has until 8 p.m. on Oct. 6 to register to vote in the November election. Please exercise your right and register - then make sure you get out and vote.

Letters to the editor

Can't we do more?

Editor,

Tying yellow ribbons is something very Americanish, but isn't it rather like tying a string around your finger so you won't forget the bread at the grocery store?

If our hostages were informed of this ribbon tying, would they say "Yes, that's my country" or would they be ashamed that we as Americans aren't doing more?

Go ahead and tie your ribbon. We need lots of ways to boost egos these days.

Purse-snatching footnote

Editor,

I am writing in regard to a letter published recently in your paper from Hinako Regier of Charlevoix. This lady had the misfortune of having her purse taken while at the Boyne City Middle School.

However, I would like to point out that her association in the building was with an Adult Education class which is held there and not with our students as her letter might have indicated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: As Ms. Regier requested in her letter, whoever took the purse [whether it be adult, middle schooler or someone else] returned at least some of the contents, although money and the purse itself were not returned.

Not much for kids to do

Editor,

When I was 15 in 1967, my friends and I had a lot more than I think people do today.

We went to all the East Jordan High School dances. We had a place called D.Z. Den on Main Street where the Senior Center is now. We held weekend dances. A friend and I picked some local bands.

We also had a carnival come for the Fourth of July. It's not active like it was back then.

Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc.
Wolverine Electric Cooperative, Inc.
Finding Of No Significant Impact
Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc. (Northern) of Boyne City, Michigan, and Wolverine Electric Cooperative, Inc. (Wolverine) of Big Rapids, Michigan, are owners, respectively of 11.22 percent and 8.78 percent undivided interests in the Enrico Fermi Unit No. 2 nuclear project. Detroit Edison Company, the owner of the other 80 percent undivided interest, has contract responsibility for construction and operation of the project. The plant is located in Monroe County, Michigan, and is approximately 85 percent complete. Financing assistance to Northern and Wolverine was provided by REA on September 28, 1977, through loan guarantee commitments. The loan guarantee commitments were in an amount then estimated to be sufficient for Northern and Wolverine's combined 20 percent ownership responsibility in the plant and the initial fuel core. Consideration is now being given to additional loan guarantee commitments to Northern and Wolverine. This financing assistance will enable the Cooperatives to obtain loan funds for the current estimated cost of the 20 percent ownership responsibility in the plant and fuel. The estimated cost includes fuel related costs that will be incurred until the projected commercial operation of Unit, No. 2 and for design and safety changes resulting from investigation of the nuclear plant accident at Three Mile Island.
Continued ownership participation in the project is the preferred alternative. Among the alternatives considered is evaluating the requests from Northern and Wolverine for additional financing assistance were to purchase additional power, to construct a coal-fired plant or to take no action. These alternatives are considered not to be viable.
REA prepared an environmental assessment covering the additional financing assistance to Northern and Wolverine for the increased cost of the 20 percent undivided ownership in the Enrico Fermi Unit No. 2 nuclear project. After a review of this assessment, REA concluded that its loan guarantee commitments will have no significant impact on the quality of the human environment and prepared a "Finding of No Significant Impact" (FONSI). This FONSI can be reviewed in the office of the Director (Room 5831, South Agriculture Building), Power Supply Division, Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D.C. 20250 and at the offices of the cooperatives, Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Boyne's breakfast battle Larry Roberts of Ethica helps himself to a mouthful of pancakes at Mr. J's Restaurant in Boyne City. A battle of low breakfast prices in Boyne City have complicated matters of where to eat breakfast.

Roberts' Restaurant offers a different breakfast special each morning to start the day right. Waitress Karen Roberts serves mushroom carnival worker John Klomp from Hollywood, Fla., Friday's special of two eggs, bacon and American fries for $2.25.

BY DIANNE MURRAY

BOYNE CITY - Whoever said a dollar can't buy anything nowadays hasn't witnessed the battle for Boyne City's breakfast crowd.

No restaurant owner will admit there's a battle going on, just that they're in business to make money and if lowering breakfast prices will sway customers into their restaurant, they'll do it. Even bars have entered into serving breakfast.

Instead of gasoline price battles, local residents and visitors to Boyne City are tantalized with the decision of where to eat breakfast.

From all-you-can-eat pancakes to the rock-bottom price of 99 cents for eggs will make any person's head spin for where they'll spend their morning dining hours. So wake up early and enjoy a good breakfast at one of Boyne's restaurants:

ROBERTS' RESTAURANT - On Lake Street has a different breakfast special each morning starting at 6 a.m. and varying all day.

The specials are: Two eggs, bacon, and toast for $1.50; all the French toast or pancakes you can eat for $1.50; eggs, potatoes and toast for $1.75; or two eggs, toast and two strips of bacon and American fries for $2.25.

Owner Marilyn Roberts recently installed new booths and expanded the kitchen. Business hours are Monday through Friday, 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m.

MR. J'S - Ninety-nine cents will get you a full breakfast here. The special includes two scrambled eggs, toast and hash browns, and it is served all day long.

Owners Carol and Larry Judkins started the breakfast special to keep up with other restaurant specials. "We started it because everyone else had a gimmick of some sort and we needed one too," Mrs. Judkins said. The breakfast special has been going quite well, she added.

Mr. J's is open Monday through Thursday from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Friday through Sunday from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

COUNTRY STAR - Many area businessmen congregate here to eat breakfast and chat before their stores open. The tempting Country Breakfast - two scrambled eggs mixed with chopped ham, served with toast, jelly and orange juice - is only $1.39.

This and other breakfast items are served from 7-11:30 a.m. each morning. Omelettes, hot cakes and French toast are also included.

BOYNE RIVER INN - Breakfast special is "Just a good, solid breakfast at a fair price," owner Mac McNicol said.

Eggs with a choice of sausage, ham, bacon and toast start at $2.25. Hot cakes or French toast with sausage, bacon or ham is also $2.25. Omelettes with cheese, ham, mushrooms or served western style cost between $2.25 and $3.

The BRI special is two eggs, choice of potato, sausage, bacon or ham and toast with a bloody mary for $3.40. A good eye-opener.

Breakfast is served from 7-11:30 a.m. Sandwiches and dinners are served throughout the day, too.

DEPOT RESTAURANT - Has two breakfast specials served daily from 7-11:30 a.m.: Scrambled eggs with diced ham and toast costs 99 cents or you can have all you can eat pancakes for $1.25.

The Depot is open Tuesday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch and dinner menus are available and other breakfast items too.

TJ'S TANNERY - On Lake Street is the place to go for a late-night breakfast.

Starting at midnight Friday and Saturday, a limited breakfast menu with omelettes, eggs and pancakes is available. Owner Terry Toomy says it's designed "for those people who need a little something in their stomachs before they go home."

Charlevoix boat show

CHARLEVOIX - Come to see powerboats. Come to see sailboats. Come to see boating accessories. The Charlevoix Boat Show will premier Saturday and Sunday on Round Lake at Charlevoix's beautiful yacht basin in East Park.

Boats on the water and at the docks will be available for public display.

The United States Coast Guard will be present for courtesy inspections of your craft and will have information on boating regulations starting at 11 a.m. both days.

The marine dealerships will be displaying products Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Lots of morel pickers for mushroom fest

BOYNE CITY - No records were broken, but Boyne's Mushroom Festival last weekend drew more entrants than in the previous three years.

A total of 153 pickers entered the event sponsored by the Boyne City Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. The 12 resident and non-resident hunters who found the most morels divided over $700 in cash prizes.

Hunters were taken to a secret picking place chosen by the Lion Club and given 90 minutes to collect as many mushrooms as they could. This year's hunting ground was Springvale Corners in Chandler Township about five miles east of Springbrook Hills. Contestants in each division from Saturday's pick are the hunters in Sunday's final hunt.

Winners for the mushroom festival were:

Men's resident division - first place, Tony Williams of Boyne City with 368 mushrooms; second place, Tom Habasco of Boyne City with 315 and third place, Nord Schroeder of Boyne City with 231 mushrooms.

Men's non-resident division - first place John Pfeiff of Wilson with 162 mushrooms; second place, Mike McGinnis of Flint with 160 and third place, Earl Whiteman of Pontiac with 40 mushrooms.

Women's resident division - first place, Irene Mackie of Walloon Lake with 236 mushrooms; second place Eleanor Sutliff of Boyne City with 223 and third place, Kathy Moore of Boyne City with 105 mushrooms.

Women's non-resident division - first place, Beryle Brown of Muskegon with 107 mushrooms; second place, Joyce Brenneman of Elida, Ohio with 74 and LaVeta Coe of Berkley with 24.

The top woman picker, Irene Mackie, attributed her success to many seasons of mushroom hunting. "I really enjoy going out and looking for morels and I can spot them pretty easily."

Mrs. Mackie participated in the first hunt when it started in 1960 and many since then. She missed about six years while working and this is her first year back on the hunt since then. She has always been a finalist in each hunt she's been in, she said.

Of this year's hunting grounds, she notes there were quite a few mushrooms in that choice spot. "But it seems that whatever mushroom you spot, that's the one everyone else sees too," she said.

"This is a good year for morels," she added.

Boyne City High School students from Charles Britton's art class decorated downtown business store windows and received recognition for their work.

First place winners in the window contest were Betty Schlink, Michelle Bridenstein, Paula Avery and Shelly Newton for their window at Northwestern State Bank entitled "Home of the Morels."

Second place winners were Lynnda Ecker, Melanie Sims, Adrian Alama and Lorraine Sims for their window at Coon's Furniture Store entitled "Mushrooms Are Worth Risking Your Life For."

Third place winners were Kim Gibbons, Bill Stokes, Elaine Pouliot, Rick Smith and Rick Nelson for their window entitled "Mushroom Madness Brings Great Gladness" at Ski and Shore Realty.

The East Jordan Little League held its annual jelly sale last week. Despite a cloudy evening mixed with a few rain drops, players and parents turned out with eagerness and sold over 700 jars of jelly. The proceeds of over $300 will buy new uniforms and equipment for minor, major and senior league teams. Shown here are Jamie Vincent and David Patton picking up a case of jelly from the crew of parent organizers.

Unbeaten sprinters lead BC track team

BOYNE CITY - An undefeated quartet of sprinters have provided most of the points for the Rambler boys track team this spring.

Through four dual meets and two multi-team invitational meets, the relay team of Mitch Moor, Don Kleinschrodt, Pete Knysz and Jerry Grice have won every 440 and 880 yard race they have entered.

Coach Bob McCullough said the most pleasant surprise for the team this year has been the addition of Grice, who did not participate on the team last year.

Grice ran the 100-yard dash in 10.4 seconds in the Soo Invitational last week which was a fine effort, even though he was assisted by a tailwind.

Eric Sevener, the team's top sprinter as a sophomore last year, joined the team late this spring because of driver's training, and he ran a 10.7 in the 100 his first time out.

Although the Ramblers haven't been doing winning dual meets, their sprinters have enabled them to finish fifth in the 13 team fields at the Soo and Newberry invitationals.

Other top performers include sophomore John Bragenzer, who took second and third in the big invitational meets in the long jump and two seconds in the high jump. He has been long jumping in the 19 ft. 6 in. range, and his high jumps have been 5 ft. 10 in. and 6 ft.

Todd Shay also placed second at Newberry with an 11 ft. 6 in. pole vault effort. Mark Pruetz has also hit that mark in the vault, although not quite as consistently, McCullough said.

The Regional meet will be held this Saturday at Benzie Central, and while the Ramblers are not one of the favorites, McCullough said his squad could finish high if his relay teams and sprinters all have "hot" days at the same time.

Perennial track powerhouse Rogers City is again the favorite in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet next Thursday in Petoskey. Boyne could be scrambling for a runner-up position, however, McCullough said.

Correction

In a story last week, The Press mixed up the title of two East Jordan High School baseball coaches. The story should have said that Gary Cihak was head coach and Frank Holes was assistant coach.

Earns degree

Diane Pluister of Boyne City was among 223 candidates for bachelor's degrees at Alma College.

Diane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pluister is a candidate for a bachelor of music degree.

School approves use of ball fields

BOYNE CITY - It's batter up for softball and baseball teams, who have received approval from the school board to use the ball diamonds at the high school.

City and church softball leagues will be allowed to practice at the three softball fields at the high school and adjacent to the elementary school playground in exchange for maintenance of the fields.

Senior and independent baseball leagues received the same approval from the board to use the hardball diamond for league practice.

Both uses will be reviewed at the end of summer.
