5 day celebration planned for Artrain

BY JAMIE BAUMANN

The celebration begins Wednesday, June 11 when the bright red train pulls into town. An eight-foot helium balloon will fill the sky next to the Depot Restaurant to announce that something special is about to happen in downtown Boyne City.

What's all the excitement about? It's the Boyne City Artrain Celebration.

Boyne City has been chosen as one of 12 Artrain stops in the state of Michigan this year. The six-car collection of paintings and sculptures from public and private collections will be in Boyne City from June 11 through June 16. Artrain will open for the public at noon on Thursday, June 12.

"The Changing Canvas" is the name of this year's Artrain exhibition. The exhibition changes annually, so this Artrain will contain a different exhibition from the one which visited Petoskey last summer.

MODERN ART

"The Changing Canvas" will show the progression of American modern art style from 1945 to the present with an emphasis on design.

"The art will not be representational," says Carol McTaggart, local Artrain promotion director. "A tree may not necessarily look like a tree. Each artist featured on the train can do representational art, but they have chosen a new technique to bear witness to their feelings and talents."

"These paintings convey emotions. They seem to play with you and your feelings if you let them," McTaggart suggests that people take their time while viewing the exhibition to fully appreciate each work of art.

Betty Adgate, local educational director for Artrain, adds that the Artrain visit will be "the most exciting visual experience to come to Boyne City in a long time." She urges people to go into the exhibition with an open mind.

The Artrain staff will not reveal the total value of the exhibition which will be in Boyne City, but one of the paintings is insured for $500,000. The train is equipped with its own security system and staff which will be aided by the Boyne City Police.

More details on the Artrain celebration, including complete schedules of all related activities, will be printed in a special section of The Press next week. The Artrain will be the theme of the first of 12 Fun & Sun sections which will continue in The Press throughout the summer.

COMMUNITY CELEBRATION

Artrain, which has been touring this state for the past nine years, is more than the country's only traveling art museum. In each community it stops, it represents a celebration of community involvement with art. The success of the Artrain visit depends largely upon the local Artrain Committee.

The Boyne City Artrain committee has been meeting weekly since last October to involve people in the Artrain celebration. The members have scheduled special events to coincide with Artrain's arrival to try to help everyone think more creatively.

These events begin next Wednesday, June 11, with an orientation on the Artrain for the volunteer gallery guides. Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. all those who have been involved with the Artrain (committee members, donors, gallery guides and their spouses, and studio car artists) are invited to the Artrain opening ceremony at the Depot Restaurant.

The opening ceremony will feature a ribbon cutting, a history of Artrain by John Hohmann, Artrain director; skits by the Boyne City Drama Club; and local folksinger Sean Ryan singing his medley of train songs.

IT'S ALL FREE

On Thursday, June 12, the Artrain opens for the general public. There is no charge to tour the Artrain or to enjoy any of the other activities planned in conjunction with Artrain. The Artrain and festivities will take place downtown on Ray Street between Lake Street and Park Street.

The Artrain will be open Thursday, June 12, through Monday, June 16, from 12 noon to 8 p.m. for public viewing.

An educational feature of the Artrain is the studio car in which local artists will actually be working at their crafts. These artists will answer questions and explain what they are doing as they work. Three local artists will be working at all times in the studio car.

The studio car will include over 36 local artists in the five-day period. A student art show will be displayed at the Boyne City Library Thursday, Saturday and Monday.

Thursday night, June 12, the Boyne City Retail Board will help celebrate the Artrain visit by opening downtown stores from 6:30-10 p.m. for their "Great Train Robbery" Sale. More than 30 stores will be participating. The Barbershoppers will sing on Water Street from 8 to 8:30 p.m., and several works of local artists will be given away.

ENTERTAINMENT TOO

On Friday, June 13, at 5 p.m. Captain Fishook and his All Night Crawlers will entertain on the stage on Ray Street.

On Saturday, June 14, the Lionesses will sponsor a salad and cold cut luncheon at the Jaycee Bingo Hall from 11 to 2.

An Art Carnival with hands-on creative experiences ranging from auto painting to chalk sidewalk murals will take place in the Artrain area from 12 to 5 p.m.

All people, young and old, are encouraged to try their hand at one or more of the art projects. Eleven different art stations will be set up. Gymnastics lessons are also planned during the art carnival.

On Saturday from 3 to 5:30 various musical, magical and drama groups will perform in the Artrain stage area. Gymnastic lessons for all ages are being planned for Saturday afternoon.

Sunday, June 14, an Antique Car Show, historical church tours, the Lakeside Players, the Barbershoppers, square dancers and a brass band will join the Artrain celebration.

The Artrain committee has worked hard so Artrain's visit will be fun. They ask people to participate with an open mind in order to rediscover some of their own feelings about art and creativity and to appreciate the creative talent found in the Boyne City community.

Artrain committee members include: Gail Toffolo, general chairman; Carol McTaggart, promotional chairman; Ed Thurston, facilities chairman; Tim Clifton, budget chairman; and Mary Greetis, festival chairman.

Other county seats uncontested

Five sheriff candidates

Five persons—all Republicans—will be running for county sheriff in the August primary, while most other county seats will go with little or no competition.

The filing deadline was Tuesday afternoon for nominating petitions for county offices. Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon said a steady stream of petitions were handed in all day.

Filing petitions for county sheriff were Leonard H. Fuller of East Jordan, James D. McCallum of Charlevoix, incumbent George T. Lasater of Boyne City, Wallace G. Brown of Charlevoix and Wayne D. Chapman of St. James, Beaver Island.

Fuller was a former member of the sheriff posse for 2½ years until he was dismissed by the sheriff in mid-April. Fuller works as the produce manager of Olson Food Store in Charlevoix.

McCallum, 48, was undersheriff when Philo Sumner was sheriff. He has had 14 years' experience with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Lasater will complete his first four-year term as sheriff when the term expires in November. He has worked in the criminal justice system in the county for the past 19 years. Before elected sheriff, he was a probation officer for the 90th District Court.

Former county detective Brown will also be challenging Lasater in the August Republican primary. Brown, 56, previously served three years as detective under former sheriff Sumner.

Wayne D. Chapman of St. James, Beaver Island, also filed a nominating petition for county sheriff. He was recently found guilty of making libelous statements against two Beaver Island residents.

Jane E. Brannon, 28, was appointed as county clerk when Clarence Rabach resigned in April. She will be running as clerk on the Republican primary ballot in August.

Brannon worked as chief deputy under Rabach for approximately one year. She had served as deputy clerk for 6½ years prior to being appointed chief deputy.

Thure (Eric) Erickson, 43, of Boyne Falls announced his candidacy for county clerk in mid-April. He will run on the Democratic ticket and was one of the candidates who interviewed for the job when Rabach retired in April.

Erickson moved to Boyne Falls three years ago upon retirement from the Air Force.

Stephen K. Pond, 31, has been county register of deeds for four months after being appointed when Grover C. Geneit retired early from his term. Pond, a Republican, has lived in Charlevoix since 1967.

Previous to his appointment, Pond had served as deputy register of deeds and deputy abstractor for the past seven years.

Richard H. Theisen, of Boyne Falls, has also filed a petition for register of deeds as a Republican.

Incumbent Mary C. Feindt of Charlevoix has applied for re-election to her job as county surveyor under the Republican party.

Arthur A. Ranger, also of Charlevoix, has filed for the position as a Republican. Clayton Healey of East Jordan has filed his petition as the incumbent drain commissioner. Healey will run as a Republican.

Incumbent Scott T. Beatty of Charlevoix filed his petition for re-election as prosecuting attorney. He is a Republican.

All present county commissioners filed for re-election with the exception of Chad McDonald who represented Eveline and Wilson Townships. Ralph Richardson of Charlevoix and Martin Bieganowski of Boyne City, both Republicans, filed for this district. The only other contested commissioner's seat is between incumbent Ralph E. Harmon, a Democrat, of Boyne Falls and Thomas R. Kondrat, a Republican, also of Boyne Falls. They will both try for the Boyne Valley and Hudson Township seat.

Debate may decide airport future

BY DIANNE MURRAY

BOYNE CITY - The future of the Boyne City Airport may be decided after a formal debate between airport supporters and opponents late this summer.

City Manager Tim Clifton is proposing that the city commission hear the debate before making its decision on whether to keep the airport open or to close it and open an industrial park.

City commissioners think the debate is a good idea because four of the five commission members aren't sure how they will vote if it comes down to a choice between an airport or an industrial park.

The debate would have the city Airport Advisory Committee presenting arguments in favor of keeping the airport, while the Economic Development Corporation would argue in favor of establishing an industrial park.

This "debate" will probably take place in late summer or early fall during a Tuesday noon city commission meeting, although Clifton said no date has been set.

A public hearing on the comprehensive plan, which recommends that the airport be closed was slated for June 16. But because more copies are needed the meeting has been postponed for awhile, Clifton said. No new date has been set. Clifton said he postponed the meeting because copies for the public and several advisory boards, including the airport committee and EDC, have not been made available yet.

The city manager would not offer his own views on the Johnson, Johnson and Roy recommendation to use the 40-acre airport site as an industrial park sometime in the future.

JJR, the Ann Arbor consulting firm which completed the comprehensive plan, recommended the airport site as an industrial park for several reasons: It has a flat terrain, other industry already exists in the area, the site is adjacent to a major highway that will permit easy truck travel without going through downtown, major utility lines are close enough that extensions to the site can be made relatively easy and because of its large size it is flexible enough to accommodate a large industry or a cluster of smaller ones.

Also because of its size, the property is eligible for site improvement grants from state or federal sources. JJR estimate a 100 percent increase in industrial acreage will be needed for the next 20 years of growth. The airport property would accommodate this growth, they predict.

Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick also said he would like to defer any comments on the recommendation until both sides of the issue are presented. "I'd hate to see the airport closed, but I'll wait to hear both sides before making a decision one way or another," he said.

Leon Jarema, chairman of the airport advisory committee, said his committee will show why the airport is needed.

During the Memorial Day weekend, Jarema said there were 10 planes at the Boyne City Airport. Some people were here as tourists, however, others came for business purposes, he said.

"A businessman flies here because he wants to be able to get where he's going fast. If Boyne didn't have its airport, we might not have some of the industries we do have here. People have to realize how important aviation is to this area—not just right now, but also how important it will be for the future."

There are alternative locations in the city and outside the city limits which could be used as an industrial park site, he said. "I think the (airport) advisory committee and the city should be looking into these other properties more," he said.

Richard May, chairman of the newly formed EDC said the committee has not had the opportunity to discuss the airport property. The EDC had not received copies of the comprehensive plan or discussed JJR's recommendation regarding the airport property.

Some topics which will be presented on "the EDC's position for converting the airport to an industrial park" include: the amount of land available for future industrial and commercial development, unemployment in the county, pay scales, city services available, zoning, taxes and transportation, May said.

"The EDC will present information on what is here rather than what type of industry we want to attract to Boyne City," he said, adding that sometime in the future the EDC will do more in-depth studies to attract industry.

One commissioner who supports the possible conversion of the airport to an industrial park is Marty Paul.

Paul said, "It is essential for the community to have an industrial park, but I don't think it's essential to have a community airport—especially within the city limits. If there's a necessity for a city airport, it could be located outside the city limits."

An industrial park, on the other hand, should be located within city limits because of the tax base and employment it creates, he said. "All these things hinge on the airport being switched to an industrial park," Paul added.

Commissioner Catherine Jessup calls the airport "an important issue which should be taken under deep consideration."

"It's incumbent upon the airport advisory board to prove to the city commission and the community that the airport is vital to the community. But it is up to the EDC to show the need for an industrial park. I'll have to see both sides before making a final decision," Jessup said.

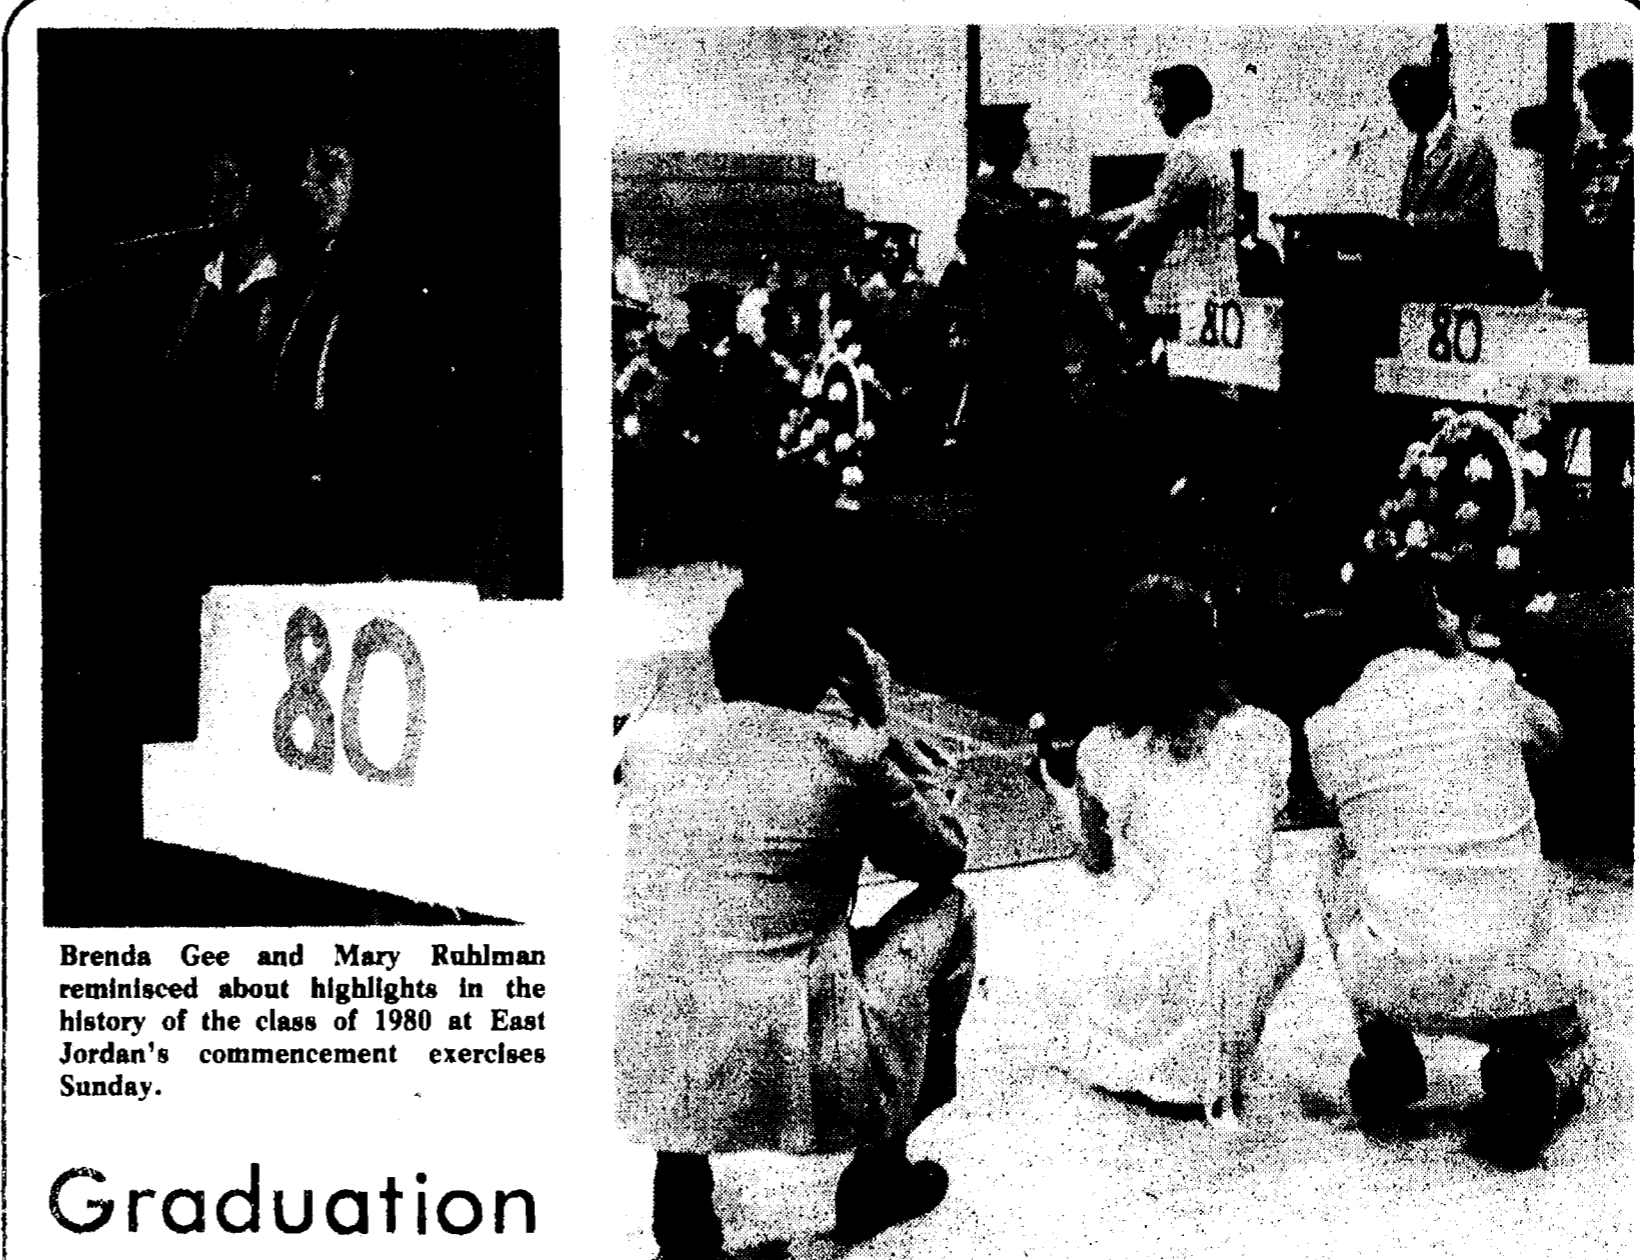

"It might be that we do not need 40 acres for an industrial park," she added.

Commissioner Steve Moody also agreed that a 40-acre industrial site "might be kind of ambitious, even for a long-term period." The comprehensive plan maps Boyne City's future for a 20-year period until the year 2000.

Moody suggested there may be a compromise between an industrial park and the airport site. "I don't foresee the airport being used as a major mode of transportation for the city. I'd prefer to see a compromise instead of doing away with it, though."

Commissioner Thelma Behling said the airport is needed, but she doesn't think it is presently used very much.

"With the economy the way it is, I don't see any industries knocking on Boyne City's door wanting in. For now, I think we'll leave it (the airport) alone until a better use is proven for it," Behling said.

Graduation 1980

Brenda Gee and Mary Ruhlman reminisce about highlights in the history of the class of 1980 at East Jordan's commencement exercises Sunday.

High school graduation is a time when parents are especially proud of their children, and dozens of cameras were in evidence at commencement exercises in East Jordan Sunday. Here, several parents are poised to snap pictures at the moment a graduate receives her diploma from school board member Ed Drenth.

One hundred nineteen Boyne City High School seniors graduated at the May 30 ceremonies at the school. Seniors here turn their hat tassel officially making them graduates of Boyne schools.

WHAT PROTECTION SHOULD I HAVE FOR MY FAMILY

Most people feel the responsibility to assure their family or survivors a reasonably smooth adjustment to life without you. Fulfilling this responsibility helps greatly in your peace of mind.

Life insurance protection, written up by a knowledgeable agent to suit your situation, is an important step.

A will is an essential document that will assure your estate will be directed as your desire. State laws vary so a competent lawyer in the state of your residence is your best advisor. Important items to include in your will might include the naming of an executor, your bequests of significant properties, trust funds, and any memorial or remembrance gifts.

Pre-planning your funeral arrangements can also be a great relief to your survivors. You will relieve their burdens in their hours of sorrow and we can help you with this without cost or obligation.

Keep in mind that safe-deposit boxes are usually inaccessible for some time after a death. A small savings account or a book of Traveler's Checks which are immediately available will help until the estate is settled.

Were you counted?

Census officials are making one last attempt to assure that everyone gets counted in the 1980 population count. "The 1980 census is about completed here, and every effort has been made to find and enumerate everyone. However, it is possible that some might have been missed," said district census manager Sue Crampton.

Crampton said that if anyone has been missed in the counting for the census, they may contact her office at (616) 941-9630 or by writing U.S. Census District Office 2480, 1100 Woodmere, Traverse City, 49684. A census form will be sent immediately to your home, she said.

Essex closed for 3rd time this year

BOYNE CITY - Essex Wire was closed last week for the third time this year due to lack of work, according to plant manager John DiMartino.

He told The Press the automotive-related plant will also be closed for a week starting July 7 "because of low sales in the auto industry."

He added some good news that new assembly lines may be added to the Boyne plant during the week in July when the plant will be closed. Essex, Inc. closed down a plant in another state and some assembly lines from this plant will be added to the Boyne Essex plant, he said.

"We'll be moving some assembly lines from another plant and that will give us some more work up here," DiMartino said. But, he added, the additional lines will not mean any more employees will be hired.

"We're not talking about hiring any new employees because we have people on lay-off who would be hired back first. If the work volume warrants it, we'll go to a five-day work week and back to two shifts a day."

Almost 50 people have been laid off at the plant since the first part of December and workers have been on a four-day work week rather than a five-day week. There are about 200 people presently working at the plant. There is also only one shift, rather than two, each day, he said.

Blood drive Monday

EAST JORDAN - The blood drive for East Jordan will be held from 1-7 p.m. Monday, June 9, at St. Joseph Catholic Hall at the corner of Second and Nicholls Streets. The blood quota this year is 80 to 90 pints.

Previous donors are being contacted by a telephone committee urging them to make an appointment. Appointments can be made by calling 536-2390 and this will ensure that you get right in and out when donating blood.

Anyone who is in good health and between the ages of 18 and 65 may donate blood. Seventeen-year olds may donate with parental consent by calling the same number listed above.

Your body can spare a pint of blood very easily. The healthy body contains 12 to 13 pints of blood and the liquid part of the blood is replaced almost immediately and the cells and minerals are replaced within 10 days.

County residents to vote on school millage

Voters in the Boyne City, East Jordan and Boyne Falls school districts will be asked June 9 to approve millage to help cover 1980-81 operating costs.

BOYNE CITY

A 2.6 mill increase over last year's 18.8 voted millage will be asked of Boyne City voters. A total of 21.4 mills will be voted on.

Boyne City voters will also be asked to Voters will also be electing school board members Monday. Stories about the East Jordan candidates are on page 5, while the Boyne City candidates are profiled on page 11. Two Boyne Falls candidates are unopposed.

approve one mill to cover the cost of purchasing and installing an elevator for handicapped students at the middle school. This one-year, one-mill proposition will cover the cost of buying and installing $52,000 worth of elevator equipment.

EAST JORDAN

With the two mill increase on East

Jordan's June ballot, voters will be asked to approve a total of 23.2 operating mills. The two mill increase is partially offset by a 0.63 mill decrease in the tax rate for repaying the building debt.

BOYNE FALLS

Boyne Falls School District voters will be asked to retain the full 22.24 mills to cover next year's school operating costs.

The 22.4 mills were already approved by voters for the next year, but due to the state Headlee Amendment, the proposal is being put on the ballot.

Without voter approval, the 22.4 mills will be reduced by 1.33 mills because of Headlee.

Voters in 1978 authorized the district to levy 22.24 mills for three years of operation. This voted millage does not expire until June 1981, but with the passage of the Headlee Amendment, schools were required to reduce its voted millage by 1.14 mills and will be asked to cut another 1.33 mills for the 1980-81 school year.

The school made no attempt last spring to reinstate the 1.14 mills but, the board feels it should attempt to retain the full 22.24 mills this year.

Sex ed on the way in BF

BOYNE FALLS - A Boyne Falls School health and family life advisory committee has recommended that health education be taught in all grade levels at the school.

The 15-member committee, made up of teachers, counselors, ministers, parents and administrators of the school system, has worked for over a year to come up with the recommendation.

At the next school board meeting June 16 the board will set a date to discuss the committee's recommendations, said school Superintendent William Upton.

If the recommendation is approved, an advisory committee will be set up to review material which may be used in the classrooms. Any family health and life classes would not be implemented in the school curriculum until June, 1981, said committee chairperson Carolyn Mons.

"The hardest part is still ahead for us and that is selecting the classroom material. I think the board will accept our recommendation and then we'll start working on a day-to-day curriculum," Mons said.

The committee feels the school "is best positioned to offer a sequential, coordinated, health education program because all district children must pass through the school system. . . Parents have the prime responsibility to assist their children in developing a strong value system. The schools should support and supplement parents and church's efforts in these areas by offering students formal instruction and opportunities to discuss concerns, issues and attitudes inherent in family life and sexual behavior including traditional moral values."

Parents will have an opportunity to review all material which may be used in the classes, Mons said. She added she would like to see more parents input in selecting class materials. Students may be exempt from any class or portions of classes if given parental consent, she said.

Some of the suggested curriculum which could be included at the various class levels is as follows:

Kindergarten through third grade: basic hygiene, learning about values and social responsibility; fourth through eighth grades: responsibilities to one's family, emotional development, inter-personal relationships, male and female reproductive organs, personality, friendships, standard of conduct, problem solving and dating.

Suggested curriculum for ninth and tenth graders includes: learning about sexuality, values and social behavior, dating and decision making and sexuality, marriage and parenthood.

Suggested curriculum for eleventh and twelfth graders includes: male and female roles, preparation for marriage, pregnancy and birth and child care.

BC to celebrate 125th year during July '81

BOYNE CITY - The city will be 125 years old next year and to celebrate its anniversary, the historical commission is already planning some special activities.

The celebration will last one week and will be held in conjunction with the 1981 July 4th celebration, according to commission chairman Bill Underhill.

Although many of the activities have not been finalized, Underhill said the commission is hoping to have activities similar to those during the 1956 centennial celebration in Boyne City.

"A lot of people, including the police department, will be dressed in Gay '90s costumes. We will also have contests for the longest beard and fines for any male caught without a beard," Underhill said.

He said the commission is trying to encourage high school class reunions to be held during this week of celebration. Other tentative plans include contests for the oldest person in Boyne

City and the person who has lived the longest in the area.

Entertainment will be supplied one night by the Boyne City Snow Belt Chorus barbershoppers. A museum displaying city artifacts may be set up.

Phil Johnson, Bob Morgridge and Marshall Sayles will be updating and amending the city's 100th anniversary history book. The book will be on sale during the festivities.

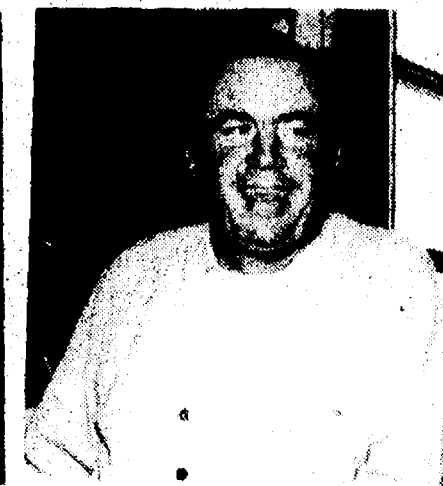

If you have an activities you'd like included in the 125th city anniversary, contact any of the historical commission members. Members include: Underhill, Gail Toffolo, Thelma Behling, Vera Tokoly and Loton Wilson.

The quality of tomorrow's graduating classes depends on community support in annual school millage elections. This scene was recorded at East Jordan's commencement exercises Sunday.

Taxes painful but school millage hikes needed

It's that painful time of year again, when we are asked to go to the polls and vote to increase our own taxes.

We realize this gets harder and harder to do every year, but we do, nevertheless, encourage voters in Boyne City and East Jordan to approve the moderate millage increases being asked of them by the local school boards next Monday, June 9.

Boyne City is asking for a 2.6 mill increase, while East Jordan is asking for a 2.0 mill increase. That amounts to a tax increase of $2.00 or $2.60 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

For an average home of $30,000 market value ($15,000 SEV), that would mean an increase of $30 a year in East Jordan or $39 a year in Boyne City.

We realize that this increase will be added to an increase of a similar amount which will take effect because of the annual increases in property values—something that goes up every year no matter how you vote in a millage election.

We have editorialized in the past (last week, in fact) about the unfairness of heavy property taxes and the confusing system of decreasing state aid to education when property values increase. But our local schools have no control over the state tax situation.

Editorial

All we can ask is that our local boards of education keep these inevitable tax increases to a minimum, and we feel they have done that. We also feel that the boards have been quite open in their discussions of prospective cuts.

Board members, administrators, teachers and even some interested citizens attended quite a few meetings in March and April to discuss the sometimes agonizing choices that had to be made to balance the school budgets.

The choices were not easy. A few teaching positions were able to be cut because of declining enrollment, but a number of other cuts were made in existing worthwhile programs. But board members are in the difficult position of having to strike a balance between preserving good educational programs and also keeping tax increases to a minimum in a time when unemployment and inflation are already cutting deeply into the wallets of taxpayers.

This puts the boards in the unpleasant situation of really making nobody happy. Teachers and some parents of school children may be displeased because good programs have been cut, while other taxpayers aren't happy either because taxes continue to rise.

In this no-win situation, we feel the Boyne City and East Jordan Boards of Education have done a pretty good job of balancing both points of view, and we urge you to vote yes on the school millage proposals on June 9.

Our schools are vital to the future of our communities, and they are faced with the same inflation-related problems that individual taxpayers are wrestling with.

Letters to the editor

School board action puts all extra-curriculars in jeopardy

Editor,
It is time to speak out. The teachers in the Boyne City School system feel we must voice our concerns regarding recent actions of the Boyne City Board of Education.

1) Coach Harvey was dismissed as varsity basketball coach without any explanation.

2) A request by the Boyne City teachers to discuss with the board the criteria and procedure used for evaluation of extra-curricular personnel was denied.

We are convinced that the board's position not to discuss these items is detrimental to extra-curricular activities, unfair to students, and harmful to our entire educational system.

Without some kind of assurance of fair treatment, staff members serving in extra-curricular jobs will be increasingly unwilling to give the enormous amount of time required to work in these areas. We think it is only reasonable that when a person is released from a position he or she should at least know why.

Another grave concern is the numerous staff dismissals as well as the elimination of some programs for the 1980-81 school year. Although we recognize the current economic conditions, we are nevertheless greatly worried about the effect of larger class sizes, fewer class offerings, and lack of appropriate extracurricular activities will have on the students of Boyne City.

We urge all concerned citizens of the Boyne City School District who care about the educational program to voice their opinions to the Boyne City Board of Education.

In addition, your support in the upcoming millage election is essential. We must work together to assure that no additional cutbacks occur which will further jeopardize the educational opportunities of our most precious resource... our children.

Airport busy—with no coaxing

Editor,
I have just read the first article on the planners' recommendations for the city of Boyne, and I am more than a little astonished.

"The Airport—luxury ill afforded," the article stated. Before I comment on this ill afforded luxury, I should explain that I am a pilot who has a home barely out of the city limits. But during the past eight years, we have contributed much to the economy of Boyne, and would not even be here, were it not for the airport.

First, let me take issue with some of the facts stated in the article. $12,000 was mentioned as the cost of operation of the airport, and we would like to know how that figure was determined. As near as we can figure (for removal of snow and an occasional grass cutting), that budget was more accurately about $6,000.

Other real costs, such as the replacement of runway lights and the installation of a pay phone in the office, have been shared by the active pilots based on the field or flying out of the field.

The article goes on to say that the airport is forecast to be less busy in the future. Why, of course it will... if there is less and less interest taken in it. No one likes to trade at a store that looks like it is not open for business.

The airport is not attended on a regular basis and when a pilot calls in for weather or fuel assistance—no answer often means that he will proceed to the next airport that does want him to land.

And this is the time of the year when air traffic reaches a peak. The article mentions that the benefits are to only a few people. Last weekend, I counted 14 planes tied down for the weekend.

Frankly, I'm amazed that so many planes come in without any coaxing... to spend money for gas, oil, provisions, some shopping in town, and perhaps to rent or buy property.

Although some may question it, the airplane is here to stay, and the community that works with it rather than fights it will grow. (This assumes that we want Boyne City to grow.) The bottom line is growth. If the city is sincerely interested in growth, then pulling back is certainly not a positive step.

There is a big investment in the airport and the runway. Tearing up the runway is not only dumping $100,000 down the drain, but it is also eliminating a possible critical need should the occasion arise, either for business or for health.

Many years ago, a friend of mine started Boyne Products (acquired later by Essex Wire), and the growth of that original company was due largely to the available airstrip, which was then only sod. Other industry that might be attracted to Boyne City may find a need for air transportation for critical parts or important personnel.

Airports do attract industry. Take a look at Gaylord, or Charlevoix, or even Harbor Springs. Let's take advantage of what we have, and not lose it.

Skate rental price is too high

Editor,
I am writing in regard to the recent opening of our Civic Center in East Jordan. When our family learned there would be roller skating, we were extremely pleased, as we have three sons.

I read articles on how the city would not be making a profit out of a place which was built for the community until we read the price per person to enter and roller skate, two dollars and fifty cents.

In a town where over 50 percent of our people are unemployed and inflation is eroding every dollar, this is the same price commercial skating rinks charge!

One hundred skates with possibly two skating dates per week amounts to $2,000 per month income for the city. If only 50 children attend each session, it would still be a $1,000 per month income! Built by the people, and for the people?

If the city of East Jordan would like to conduct a business in this building, making a clear margin of profit, let them at least stand up and say so. Let us not pretend they are helping our community. In times as difficult as these, this kind of help our families could well do without!

Sharon M. Diederich
East Jordan

Editor's Note: The Press contacted city superintendent Herman Rasch and recreation director Pat Berlo. Both said the charge for use of the skates helps pay for building maintenance, purchase price of the skates, skate repairs and also for the salaries of employees who have to be on hand to supervise skate nights.

"We would like to see the activity self-supporting," Rasch said. "And the people who support the activity are those who should foot the bill instead of those who are unemployed and might not be participating."

Rasch said the council may sometime consider lowering the price of skating, but the price was set at this time to insure that the cost of skate nights would be covered.

Crawl under the bed...protest!

I went in and asked the banker when interest rates were going to drop back to five or six percent.

He took two aspirins and told me to come back tomorrow.

With merchants counting the "No Sale" signs on their cash registers and with so many people mowing their lawns instead of sweating at the shop, my wisdom told me that interest rates would have to take a sharp drop. Either that or it would be "Good night, Irene."

I explained this to the banker. Ten minutes later I found myself wondering how I could be so wise and yet have so little influence. Since then I've kept my mouth shut. It gives me a reputation for deep thought.

But I can't help thinking how rapidly things hit the ceiling. It happened when I was in the middle of the bed at night. I crawled in, covered up my head and when I awoke in the morning, times were teetering on the edge of the city dock.

Marshall Sayles

When the ruling class decides to have a slump, it doesn't fool around.

Loans aren't made willy nilly like yesterday. Not since the man riding shotgun listed the evils committed with borrowed money. Those who scoffed were cattle prodded with 16 or 17 percent interest—a trick to get your attention.

Have you ever seen a full blown recession with interest and retail prices climbing? Well, you have now. When you're hoeing a garden full of nice tomatoes this summer, the store price will probably be higher than ever. A 10 percent reduction in gasoline usage has raised the price.

That old reliable system of supply and demand has lost its marbles. Not like the big depression when it knew how to act.

It seems to be popular these days to blame high interest, unemployment and inflation on "that knucklehead in the White House." Although someone once said that popular opinion is always wrong.

I don't know about that, but if this thing continues I'm not going back to bed and wake up to another round of dock teetering. No, sir, I'll take two aspirin, crawl under the bed and protest. It's my way of protesting. A lot easier than carrying signs and marching.

No, I do not care for our modern brand of recession. I want mine with interest and retail prices shot to hell.

Them's the best kind.

They volunteer for more than fires

To all who should be concerned,

No midnight fire alarm! No screaming sirens! No flashing lights!

But there they were, the volunteer firemen of Boyne City, giving the business area a new spring look.

I'm told that 19 of Fire Chief Butch Erber's crew were out early on Sunday morning to wash away some of the winter's sand and grime to make our town a bit more bright and clean. City Manager Tim Clifton and his Street Department crew lent a hand moving more than two truckloads of sand. There was no hesitation on their part when midway through the project Larry Judkins yelled, "Come and get it!" Mr. J's had fixed breakfast, gratis, for the whole gang. They were ready for it, too, for they had started to work before 5 a.m., while it was still dark.

They were nearly finished when I discovered their activity, just a few minutes before 11, on my way to church. I must confess that witnessing their work and interest in our town sent me on to church with a quickened spirit and a more grateful heart... for volunteers, such as these.

Anyone can use horseshoe pits

Editor,
Just a letter to supplement and update your picture and article on page 12 of your May 29 issue.

Horseshoe pits are ready for use in Veteran's Memorial Park in Boyne City. The concrete approaches will be installed at a later date.

Horseshoes are available at the Boyne City Police Station and may be borrowed from there on a one time use basis.

Names and addresses of borrowers will be kept on a register to assure return of the shoes. Horseshoes are the property of the Boyne City senior citizens. You are welcome to use them at any time.

We are hoping to see enough interest and participation develop so that tournaments can be run locally.

Planning will promote park use

Boyne City is known for its beauty and wide open spaces—and that includes its parks. Recently the consulting firm doing the city's comprehensive plan suggested that although the city has enough park space, the parks aren't developed to their full potential.

By looking at some of our parks—Veterans Memorial and Sunset—I see a lot of use. Some other parks such as Old City Park seem to be used by a more select few. And Rotary Park is a good example of the kind of use a park may receive when it is developed to what the people of Boyne City would like.

During the past week I have had a half-dozen conversations with Boyne residents about our city parks. Some do not see any need to develop the parks further and others stressed that they believe not enough is being done for children's and adult recreation.

Johnson, Johnson and Roy, the Ann Arbor consulting firm, pointed out in the comprehensive plan that Boyne City has enough park space to keep up with the population increase expected over the next 20 years. That's a significant factor; the 165 acres of park and open spaces will be enough for the projected 1,400 population increase to 5,000 people by the year 2000.

Rotary Park is a prime example of what the city can do with open space once it has both money and direction. Total amount of money invested into Rotary Park since 1975 is $72,175. The city expects to invest another $10,500 at the park this year for furnishing a concession stand being donated by the Lions Club.

Of the $72,175, private contributions make up $7,468. A grant of $25,000 and city funds amounting to $39,706 complete the contributions to the park.

What makes all that money worthwhile is that the park is used a lot. From now until the end of summer you can go to Rotary almost anytime and find softball teams playing. It's getting almost impossible to find an open tennis court—especially with the weather getting nice.

But Rotary Park is also an example of park use only after money is spent on its development. Before 1975, the park was a forest and wasn't used for much of anything except for lovers to park and a few nature buffs to go exploring.

What the consulting firm has recommended in the comprehensive plan is the city come up with plans for the type of use for different parks. Even though some people may not think our city parks need development for passive use, this is a way of assuring we get the right use out of our parks. Not everything has to be developed today. JJR is not suggesting that, but some ideas like tying the business district with Boyne River and Lake Charlevoix may be essential for both business and recreation.

These studies will also let the people of Boyne say where and how they'd like their money spent on park development.

Even though the city has spent a lot of money on park development and will continue to in the future, the comprehensive plan helps us prioritize where growth should occur.

Good station

Editor,
I have been listening to the new radio station, WKHQ, and I am impressed.

They don't have commercials after every song, or endless repetition of the station's name.

As far as I'm concerned, WKHQ has them all beat.

EJ candidates state their views on school issues

East Jordan residents will be choosing three school board members candidates at the school election Monday, June 9.

Voting will take place at the Civic Center, and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Six candidates, Rick Lord, Terry Lord, Shirley Bauer, Dan Nachazel and write-in candidates Lucille Malpass and Dick Barnett, will be competing for two, four-year seats on the board. Incumbent Ed Drenth is unopposed for a one-year position on the board. Voters will vote for three candidates all together.

There will be two write-in candidates on both the Boyne City and East Jordan school ballots for Monday, June 9. To assure that a write-in vote counts, you must have the term of office included with the person's name. It is also suggested that the full name of the write-in candidate is used. For example, to vote for East Jordan candidate Lucille Malpass, her full name should be written out rather than L. Malpass or Cell Malpass. Or to vote for Boyne City candidate Betty Johnecheck write out her full name rather than B. Johnecheck.

Make sure that you vote for the correct number of candidates and no more, otherwise the ballot will be invalid.

The questions

To help voters make up their minds, The Press asked each candidate to answer several questions on school issues. Their answers, plus some personal background on each candidate, are printed on this page.

Listed below are the questions each candidate was asked to answer:

1. What do you think are the major strengths and weaknesses of the school system?
2. A committee has recommended that sex education and reproductive health not be taught in the schools. The school board will make the decision. What do you think?
3. Do you have any general statement you would like to make concerning your goals, reasons for running or other issues?
4. One of the most important things the school board will be doing in the coming year is hiring a new superintendent. What type of person will you be looking for in this position?

bid as a school board member that she was a former member of the Twin Valley Advisory Council, a former Girl Scout leader, chairman of the Boyne City Swim school board and chairman of Charlevoix County Red Cross.

1. School strengths and weaknesses: The strong points of the school system is a very fine new school, and a cooperative board of education that works with harmony and supports the administration. The weakness is a lack of concern by some parents and a few teachers and their unwillingness to become involved.

2. Sex education: The question of morality should be taught by parents and the church. The problem is that parents, teachers and most other adults are not able to answer the questions of our youth with ease and accuracy on this subject. Our young people should have truthful answers from a knowledgeable person. I feel truthful answers and facts do not cause pregnancy, only lack of information.

3. Why running, goals: I am running for the school board because it is something I have always wanted to do. I was encouraged to run by citizens and board members and I feel the education of our young people should be of prime importance by the people in East Jordan.

4. Superintendent: The superintendent should be a person with experience in his or her field, someone with a strong character, willing to accept a challenge and someone who would be comfortable living and being part of a small community.

3. Why running, goals: If we can get the millage passed in June so we don't have to eliminate any more classes, I will be satisfied.

4. Superintendent: One that can work with the public, the administration and the teachers.

Richard W. Lord

Richard Lord, 28, is a coremaker at the Iron Works and lives on Bailey Road with his wife and three children. He turned in a petition just minutes before the filing deadline in April. He will be trying for a four-year term, but did not turn in his questionnaire to The Press.

Lucille K. Malpass

Lucille K. Malpass, 31, of Boyne Road, has lived in East Jordan all her life. She is a homemaker. She and her husband Robert have two children. She is a graduate of East Jordan High School.

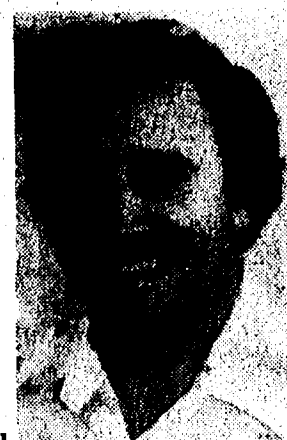

She lists as relevant experience that she served as a trustee for three years at the First Presbyterian Church and was a teacher's aide at the elementary school for two years.

1. School strengths and weaknesses: The major strengths are a new and large enough facility, staffed by competent instructors who educate the general public. There are no more weaknesses in our school system than there are in any school system built and staffed for the education of the public.

2. Sex education: I personally feel sex education and reproductive health should be taught in the home. However, this does not always happen. I would want to know who was on the committee and what materials they reviewed. I guess it won't hurt those who have already been given the education at home and it will benefit those who have not been educated at home. I would like to see the parents involved somehow in choosing what their child studies.

3. Why running, goals: I feel I have the time and ability to be a conscientious school board member and that I have the ability to communicate well with the public, administration and teachers. My goal for our children is a quality education within a reasonable budget.

4. Superintendent: I think we can afford to be choosy. We need someone who can handle authority well, is knowledgeable in unions and has a good business mind. Someone who has had sufficient past experience will enable us to find out how good an administrator he or she may have been in a previous school system. I would not hesitate to ask frank questions. Public relations is very important as well as open, honest answers.

Daniel J. Nachazel

Dan Nachazel, 34, lives at 624 State St., with his wife Shari and four children. He is a special needs coordinator for the Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate School District in Indian River. He received his bachelor of science degree from Central Michigan University and his masters from Michigan State University.

Nachazel lists as relevant experience as a school board member that he has been working in the education system for 7 1/2 years teaching junior high and high school classes.

1. School strengths and weaknesses: The education facilities are modern, providing the proper educational atmosphere for learning. The staff has a fair mix of new and seasoned teachers providing the opportunity for all teachers to grow professionally. If so ever there are some weaknesses, I do not wish to address these until I can obtain more information about the problems, thereby allowing me to put the problems in their proper perspective.

2. Sex Education: In response to the recommendation by a committee that sex education not be taught in our school leaves many questions in my mind, there being: what was the make-up of this committee—what I mean by this, is it a group that have children in school and are concerned with the stated issue, or a group of irate parents that are unhappy with a teacher and not the concept? I would like to look over the objections and any stated recommendation of the group before drawing any conclusions.

3. Why running, goals: No answer.

4. Superintendent: In looking for a new superintendent, I would be looking for a person who is aggressive—aggressive meaning a person who will be alert to all programs that can help our schools educationally and financially—and a person who can make sound decisions and provide the board with sound alternatives to problems that arise in our school system. A superintendent who feels that professional development through education is extremely important in the development of the staff and finally a person that is alert to trouble in its infancy and is developing strategies to correct the problem.

Richard Barnett

Write-in candidate Richard Barnett, 43, is safety director at the East Jordan Iron Works. He is the fire chief for the local fire department, and he also is an instructor for the Fire Fighters Training Council.

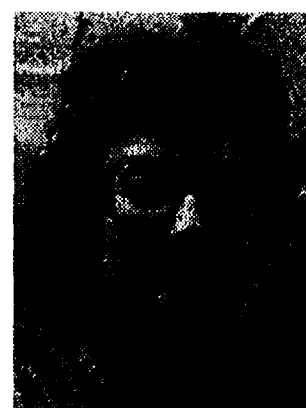

Except for a period of military service, Barnett has lived in East Jordan all of his life, and he graduated from East Jordan High School.

He and his wife Elaine have one daughter, a 1979 graduate of EJHS. They live at 208 Cedar St.

Barnett said he did not currently have enough information to answer questions 1 and 4 of our questionnaire. His answers to the other questions:

2. Sex education: I think it should be provided on an informed, parental consent basis by qualified instructors.

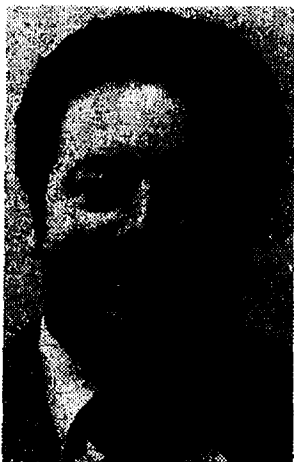

3. Reasons for running: A citizens group contacted me and presented me with reasons they thought I should run. I feel I am as qualified as anybody.

Shirley M. Bauer

Shirley Bauer, 47, Ironton Ferry Road, is a homemaker. She and her husband Arnold, a dentist in Boyne City, have three children. All her children attended East Jordan schools. She has lived in the area for 21 years and graduated as a registered nurse from Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

She lists as relevant experience in her

Edwin Drenth

Edwin Drenth, 36, of 606 Fifth St., is vice-president and cashier at Northwestern State Bank in East Jordan. He and his wife Marjorie have three children and have lived in East Jordan 15 years. He is a graduate of Northern Michigan School of Banking in Marquette.

1. School strengths and weaknesses: One major strength in the school system is the discipline this past year.

2. Sex education: I would go along with the committee on their recommendation at this time.

With Equi-Loan, your home's equity works for you

If you need money now, for college tuition, home remodeling, a family vacation, an investment opportunity—or any other use you think important, Equi-Loan could make it possible. This special loan lets you use your present equity as collateral to borrow money at a reasonable "Simple" interest rate and with liberal repayment terms.

EQUI-LOAN

An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage

An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage. It will not alter your present mortgage interest rate.

The amount of equity in your home is the difference between its appraised value, and your first mortgage (if any). This equity provides the basis for borrowing a substantial amount of money, with the maximum loan size being determined by the size of your equity.

An Equi-Loan can save you interest charges.

The earlier you pay back your Equi-Loan, the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment, or an additional payment, you reduce the amount of interest you pay on the loan... and this can amount to significant savings over the life of the loan.

How much can you borrow?

Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval; however, we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgages will amount to 80% of the valuation of your home. For example:

Appraised Valuation	$30,000
	x80%
Total Loan Value	24,000
1st Mortgage Balance	12,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage	$12,000

Softball's a 'hit' in the area

Becky Kimbler got on base with this hit, but her team The Mogul Inn lost 17-5 in a scrimmage game against Kaden's. Charlie Myers, coach of Kaden's is catching while Ray Zavesky umpires. Both teams are in the Boyne City Women's Slow-Pitch League which begins play June 10 at Rotary Park.

Men, women, kids, churches get in on fun

BY DIANNE MURRAY

It strikes like wildfire as soon as the weather gets nice, and everyone from young to old participates. It hits mothers, fathers, high schoolers, young kids and even ministers.

Of course, it's the phenomenal sport of softball. Slow-pitch caught on in the area about six years ago. It started with leagues of maybe three or four teams and has grown to leagues for men, women, church groups, and children.

What's the catch? Why the interest? Nowadays when you go into a store, walk down the street or stop in at a neighborhood bar, you always seem to see someone in a baseball uniform talking about their game last night.

According to Gary Boden, president of the Boyne City Men's Slow Pitch Church League, the sport is popular because just about anyone can play.

"With me, I play a fair game of ball, but I wasn't good in a fast-pitch league. Slow-pitch is not a pitcher's game like fast-pitch is. It's a hitters' and fielders' game. In slow-pitch, you don't strike many people out, so it gives the fielders a lot of activity," Boden said.

Even though the idea behind the church league is fellowship, Boden said the games get quite competitive. Most of the ministers from area churches play ball, and the ones that don't umpire the games.

There are nine teams in the Boyne church league and games begin June 10. Eight churches from Boyne and one church in Walloon Lake participate. Games are played at 6:15 and 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday at Rotary Park and the Boyne City Free Methodist Church ball field.

The Boyne women's church league has five teams and the members play "to give them something to do during the summer months," said league president Pat Upton. "There's no way you can get around baseball up here. Kids pick up a ball and bat at the age of six and they keep playing until they're 60," she said.

The women's church league starts June 9 and they play Mondays at 7 p.m. at Rotary Park and the Free Methodist diamonds.

One league which has seen a lot of growth the last few years is the Boyne City Men's Slow-Pitch League. The league has grown to 13 teams this year in only four years of play.

"It's a fun league, but still very competitive," league president Denny Christenson said. "There's a good cross-section of players—from doctors to high school kids, he said.

Christenson said there are a lot of good ball teams this year so the competition for the league trophy should be quite high. "There are several teams who have been around since the league started. The Depot is the defending champions, but the Horton Bay Generals, who had a good team last year, look real good again this year. One new team, the Hausler Car Wash, has a lot of high school players, and The Boyne River Inn team looks like it could be good contenders for the title," Christenson said.

The games are played at 6:15 and 7:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Rotary Park fields.

There are five teams in the Boyne City Women's Slow-Pitch League this year, according to league president Sandy Vansteenkiste.

"Some of these girls played ball during grade school, high school or maybe just with their brothers in the backyard and now they'd like to come out and get involved with a team," she said.

There are about 70 players in the league, most of them between 15 and 22 years old, she said. The women's league plays Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:15 and 7:45 p.m. at Rotary Park. The season begins June 10 and ends around the middle of July.

East Jordan's Women's Slow-Pitch League has seven teams this year. League play begins the same day as in Boyne City and ends Aug. 19, said secretary-treasurer of the league, Debbie Skrocki.

"It's really something fun to do," she said. "It's my first year but I like it," she added.

Randy Bennett, president of the East Jordan Men's Fast-Pitch League, "has been playing ball for nine years. East Jordan has the only fast-pitch league in Charlevoix County.

There are about 80 ball players in this league, he said, which is down about one team from past years.

One ace pitcher for the upcoming season which starts June 9 is Brian Bolser of Chuck's Place. "He's gotta be the best pitcher in our league. I've never seen anyone strike out guys like he can," Bennett said.

LITTLE LEAGUERS: GOOD HUSTLERS

If you want to see some good hustling teams, watch the Boyne City Little League ballplayers. The minor, major and senior league players have games practically every night and the public is invited to come watch the youngsters play.

Softball comes on strong

old—play at the diamonds behind the elementary school. Major players—10 to 12—play at the waterfront park behind city hall. And the minor league players—age eight and nine—play at the ball field on Jefferson Street.

All together about 240 young boys and girls play Little League, said league vice-president Ted Pinner. Pinner is also manager of the major league Tiger team.

"I'm really not too sure what makes so many kids want to play ball. It might be because our facilities are so good. But also I think it has to do somewhat with the competition," he said.

The season began May 19 and will continue until July 4. After that all-star teams will be picked to play in the state tournament games, he said.

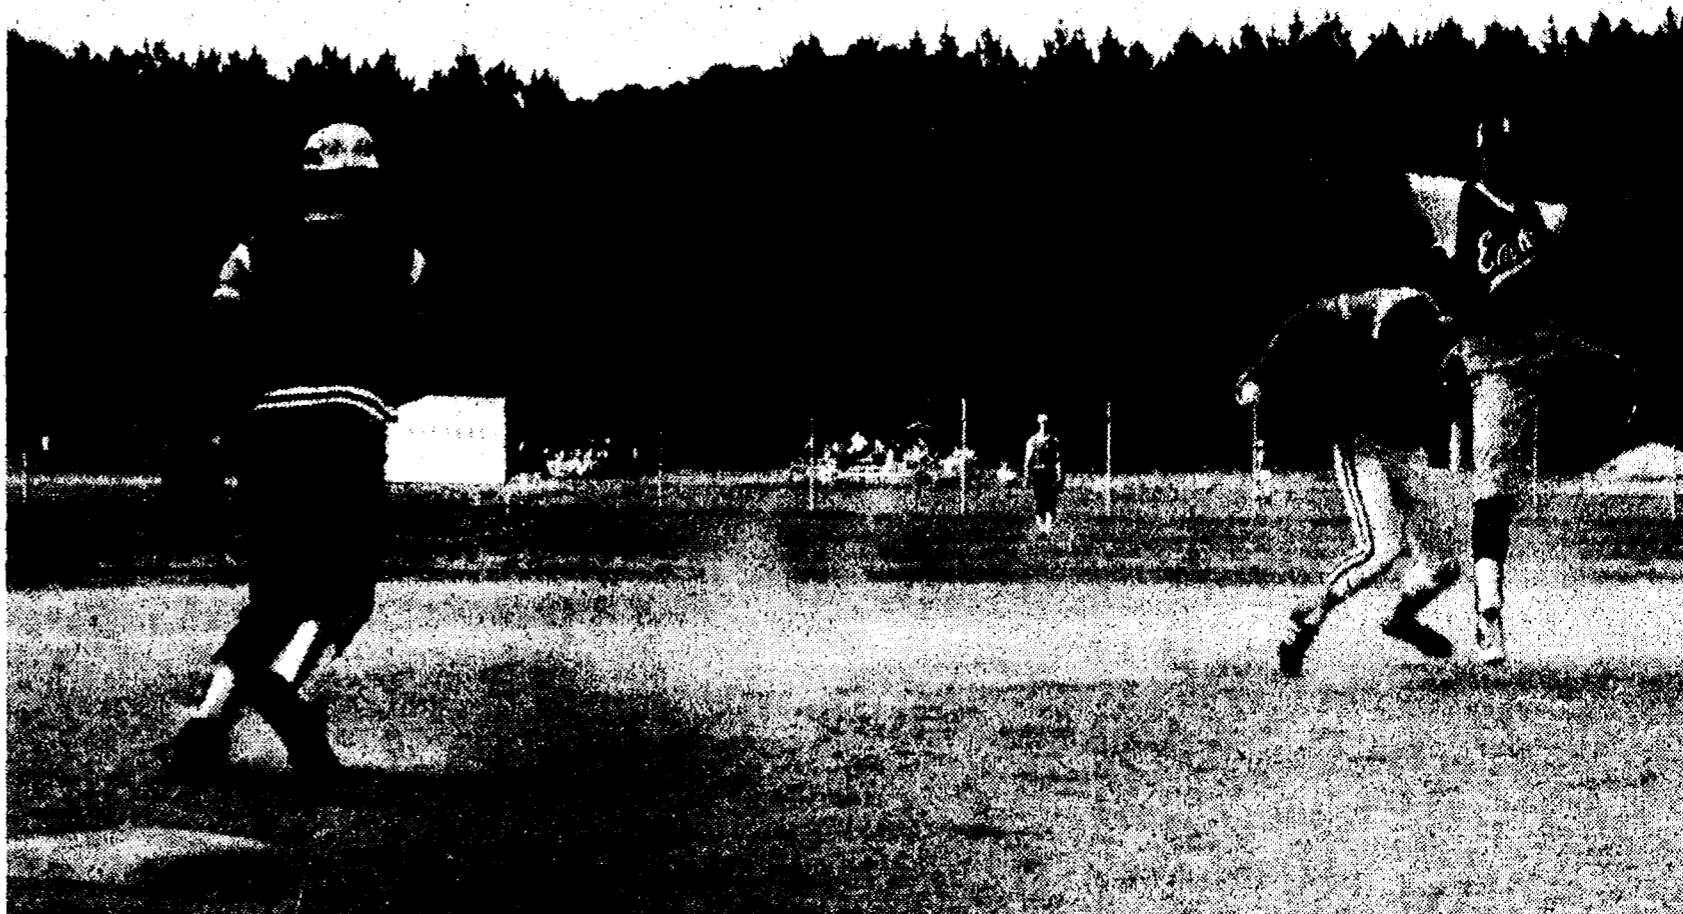

This year there are about three girls playing in the major teams and about four or five girls on each minor league team, he said. "They're really quite good, too," he added. "This year there are a lot of good hitters in the league."

East Jordan's Little League has eight teams involved in minor and major teams. There's no senior league this year because of lack of interest and not enough kids in this age group, according to Larry Chanda, past manager of the league.

"There are some pretty well coordinated and gifted ballplayers out there playing this year," he said. "The players develop from day to day so it's hard to pick who's going to be your good ballplayers. Somebody who doesn't look good at the beginning of the season sometimes ends up to be your best player by the end of the season."

Major ball teams play at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at the Murphy ball field. Minor games are played the same time and days at the Third Ward Park behind Vanderwall Funeral Home.

The youngsters learn good sportsmanship, manners and how to play good ball, Chanda said.

This close call in which an Eagle player was tagged out at second base was typical of the game between the Eagles and Control Engineering. The Eagles just skimped by Control Engineering, beating them 12-11 Thursday at Rotary Park.

Club offers free lake map

Copies of a 32-page index listing 2,500 mapped lakes in Michigan are available free to fishermen and boaters from the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Arranged by counties, the index pinpoints the locations of Michigan's best lakes for fishing and boating, indicates the size of each lake, and explains how to obtain maps of each of the lakes.

The maps show lake depths, shoreline contours, bottom types, and other characteristics of each lake—information that is helpful to fishermen and boaters and essential to fish management by the Department of Natural Resources, the agency that conducted the surveys on which the maps are based.

In addition to the lake maps listings, the index contains a chapter on "The Scientific Approach to Lake Fishing" and sections on topographic maps of Michigan and nautical charts of the Great Lakes and how to obtain them.

MUCC, a private, nonprofit federation of sportsmen's and conservation clubs, is the state's largest distributor of maps.

Copies of the index may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, long, stamped (30 cents postage required) envelope to MUCC, Box D-30235, Lansing, Michigan, 48909.

Five BC candidates vie for three school board seats

Residents in the Boyne City school district will have five candidates to choose from when they cast their votes in the election for two school board candidates Monday, June 9.

Voting will take place at the Boyne City Middle School and the polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Three candidates, Mark Behling, Bill Chipman and Francis Wicker have filed for two vacancies for four-year terms. Betty Johncheck and Eleanor West will be write-in candidates for one, one-year seat on the board. Voters will vote for three candidates all together.

There will be two write-in candidates on both the Boyne and East Jordan school ballots for Monday, June 9. To assure that a write-in vote counts, you must have the term of office included with the person's name. It is also suggested that the full name of the write-in candidate is used. For example, to vote for East Jordan candidate Lucille Malpass, her full name should be written out rather than L. Malpass or Coll Malpass. Or to vote for Boyne City candidate Betty Johncheck write out her full name rather than B. Johncheck.

Make sure that you vote for the correct number of candidates and no more, otherwise the ballot will be invalid.

The questions

To help voters make up their minds, The Press asked each candidate to answer several questions on school issues. Their answers, plus some personal background on each candidate, are printed on this page.

Listed below are the questions each candidate was asked to answer:

1. What do you think are the major strengths and weaknesses of the school system?
2. A citizens/teachers committee has recommended that sex education and reproductive health be taught in the schools. The school board will make the decision. What do you think?
3. Do you have any general statement you would like to make concerning your goals, reasons for running or other issues?
4. The school board recently dismissed a coach, but declined to give any reasons for doing so. Do you think this was handled properly?

of local people and communicate with them and listen to what they say. My goal is to try to do a good job representing the public in what they want of their school system.

4. Coach dismissal: I will stand by the way I voted which was I voted 'yes' to keep Russ Harvey as coach instead of dismissing him. I was also the one who made the motion to give him a hearing with the board to discuss why he was dismissed.

Willard J. Chipman

Willard J. Chipman, 44, 705 E. Main St., is presently the chairman of the school board. Chipman and his wife Mary Jo have four children and he has lived here all his life. He is a 1953 graduate of Boyne City schools.

Chipman is a master plumber for Chipman Plumbing and Heating, Inc. He has been a member of the Boyne City school board for 3 1/2 years and was a member of the Twin Valley School Board for half a year.

1. School strengths, weaknesses: In my opinion, our major strengths, among many, are: curriculum, administration and discipline. Some of our weaknesses might be (moral or school spirit) the system of property taxes to finance schools.

2. Sex education: We as parents have not done the "complete" job of "sex education" of our children, and it is a failure of our entire society, not just Boyne City. Whether it should be done in the school system, church or still by the parents, I would like to see more information concerning the subject. I am not personally ready to make a binding decision one way or another, yet.

3. Why running, goals: I would like to be re-elected to the school board so that I may have a voice in the continuity of the programs that have been enacted during my first four-year term.

4. Coach dismissal: I do think that this issue was handled properly as the board was advised by legal counsel.

Betty J. Johncheck

Betty J. Johncheck, Camp Daggett Road, will be contesting as a write-in candidate for a one-year seat on the school board. She and her husband Albert have seven children and have lived in Boyne City 36 years. She is a mail carrier with the U.S. Postal Service in Boyne City.

Johncheck has served one year on the school board sitting in for an unexpired term.

1. School strengths, weaknesses: I believe the discipline has improved over the past few years and will continue to improve with our present administration. I will continue to support and improve educational curriculum, keeping in mind the basics, vocational educational classes and the budget we must operate on.

2. Sex education: I believe if any sex education and personal hygiene classes are offered in our schools the instructor(s) should be a school nurse (or nurse), doctor and the clergy.

3. Why running, goals: With the past year experience as a member of the Board of Education, I feel I can better represent the people and work toward our goal of a better education for the children.

4. Coach dismissal: No answer.

Eleanor L. West

Eleanor L. West, 40, 200 Trent St., will be contesting for a one-year term as a write-in candidate. She and her husband William have three children and have lived in Boyne City for 12 years. Mrs. West is a clerk at Country Star Market in Boyne City. She is a high school graduate.

She lists as relevant experience for her bid as school board candidate that she is a member of the commission studying sex education in the schools, past P.T.A. president, past Girl Scout leader, a member of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate parents advisory committee for children with special needs and a youth camp director.

1. School strengths, weaknesses: We have excellent buildings and in general our staff is very good, cooperative and helpful to students and parents alike. As for weaknesses in the school system, I believe we always need to work on curriculum and our public relations with the community.

2. Sex education: As a member of the committee, I have found there is a great need for these courses as well as a course for everyone in the art of parenting. I believe if these were given we would not have to spend so many tax dollars for aid as well as making better citizens.

3. Why running, goals: I feel we need a stronger program for those who will need to go right into a job situation from high school and a general up-grade of people toward our schools. Public education is the cheapest education we can give our youth, as anyone sending children to private schools or colleges knows, so let's give them the best we can.

4. Coach dismissal: No (I do not think this was handled properly). I do not know the reasons behind their decision.

Francis Wicker

Francis Wicker, 48, 413 Groveland St., housewife, is a 1979 graduate of the Boyne City Adult Education program. She and her husband Jim have two step-children and have lived in Boyne City 24 years.

As relative experience as a school board member she lists that she filled in as Community Education director for several weeks when the director was gone on maternity leave.

1. School strengths, weaknesses: I feel the major strength of our school system is being able to give a good education to the young people of our school district. After all, the young people are the ones we should be most concerned with. I am proud of the education I received through the Community Education Program and can even go on to college if I so desired. As for weaknesses, people do not seem to be working together as they should in quite a few instances.

2. Sex education: No comment at this time.

3. Why running, goals: The only statement I'd like to make concerning this question is that if elected I would do the best job I am capable of. My reason for running is to be more involved in school affairs. Education is very important to me.

4. Coach dismissal: I do not have any comment to make on this question. I know none of the details so it would be foolish for me to try to answer this question.

Mark Ervin Behling

Mark Behling, 31, of Division Street, will be trying for a seat on the Boyne City school board. He has lived in Boyne City all his life except when he was away attending college. He received a master degree in mechanics from General Motors Institute of Flint.

Behling is a farmer and also works at Behling Little Cub Market.

He lists as relevant experience that he has served on the school board for the last three years.

1. School strengths and weaknesses: I think we have improved in the last three years, in our disciplinary problems. Also, the courses that we have been offering have improved and I hope we can keep it that way. The weakness of the school has been that in these tough times we've had to lay off part of the staff and when you do that you hurt the curriculum.

2. Sex education: I think health education should be taught in the schools. From talking to parents, I think there are a lot of parents lacking in these areas and they do not know how to answer questions their children ask. Because of this, their children are also lacking in this area.

3. Why running, goals: I feel I have no grudges to grind against anyone in the school system and I can sit there with an open mind to view the issues. I know a lot

MATHEMATICS OF INSULATION

The oil boycott has resulted in huge savings to homeowners who have come to appreciate the value of conserving energy. The major source of energy conservation in the home is insulation. The dollar results can be staggering.

For example, one major gas company provides statistics that show that if just one percent of the 1.4 million uninsulated homes in their marketing area were equipped with adequate insulation, saving would be sufficient to heat 3,500 single family homes a year. By adding attic insulation to 5 uninsulated homes, enough energy can be saved to furnish all of the energy needs to heat one additional home - 20%.

What's the absolutely lowest cost home insulation/energy saving device? The window shade. The lowly window shade can save 21 cents of each dollar spent cooling an otherwise well-insulated home or apartment. Research by the Ill. Inst. of Technology found that an opaque shade mounted within a window frame admitted about 45% less heat than unshaded windows.

Dear Friends, How can we ever say thank you for all you've done and continue to do in helping us adjust to the loss of Don and a new life? Your cards and letters are still coming and we so appreciate your concern and continued prayer support.

Don so enjoyed hearing from you during his battle with Leukemia. A special thanks to the Class of 1960 and to the Northwestern Bank for the plants sent to brighten his room, and to all of you who took time to write so often. He spoke fondly of each of you and would share how you'd influenced his life, and encouraged him so many times.

Many of you have asked if we plan to return to Michigan. I'm sure you ask you of Don's family you'll learn that we also have a "family" out here on the Dakota Prairie! The Christian friends here have stood by us spiritually, emotionally and financially. We feel a part of Canistota and at this time hope to remain. The children are doing very well, though they miss their daddy often. They all know Christ as their Saviour, as did Don, and as do I. We gain much comfort in knowing that God has a plan in this loss and we continue to claim Romans 8:28.

We are planning to be "home" for Christmas. Boyne City will always be that for us because we grew to love you as Don did. God Bless you all for your expressions of love and sympathy.

Our love to you, Lucia Tomkins, Lisa, Lorelei, Glenn and Trevor

...and our first issue will feature the Boyne City Artrain Celebration

The Michigan Artrain will be visiting Boyne City from June 12-16, and the summer's first issue of Fun & Sun will tell you all about it. You'll be able to see local artists at work and local musicians, singers, magicians and actors will be performing. There will be sales in the stores, and an antique auto show.

We'll have the complete schedule--plus background on how this big celebration was organized.

It's the start of Great Summer '80 for Fun & Sun. Every week, we'll feature different aspects of summer living and playing: entertainment, dining, fishing, boating, sports and more.

You'll also want to check our expanded Out & About guide every week. It is a continuously updated listing of movies, entertainment, live music, plays and other things like where to canoe, hike, golf, play tennis or ride a horse.

We're back in our old home!

The Charlevoix County Press has moved. Now we're right back where we used to be at 106 S. Lake Street, Boyne City.

The newspaper has been in this building (or the one next door) since 1909, and we're glad to be back in this familiar location.

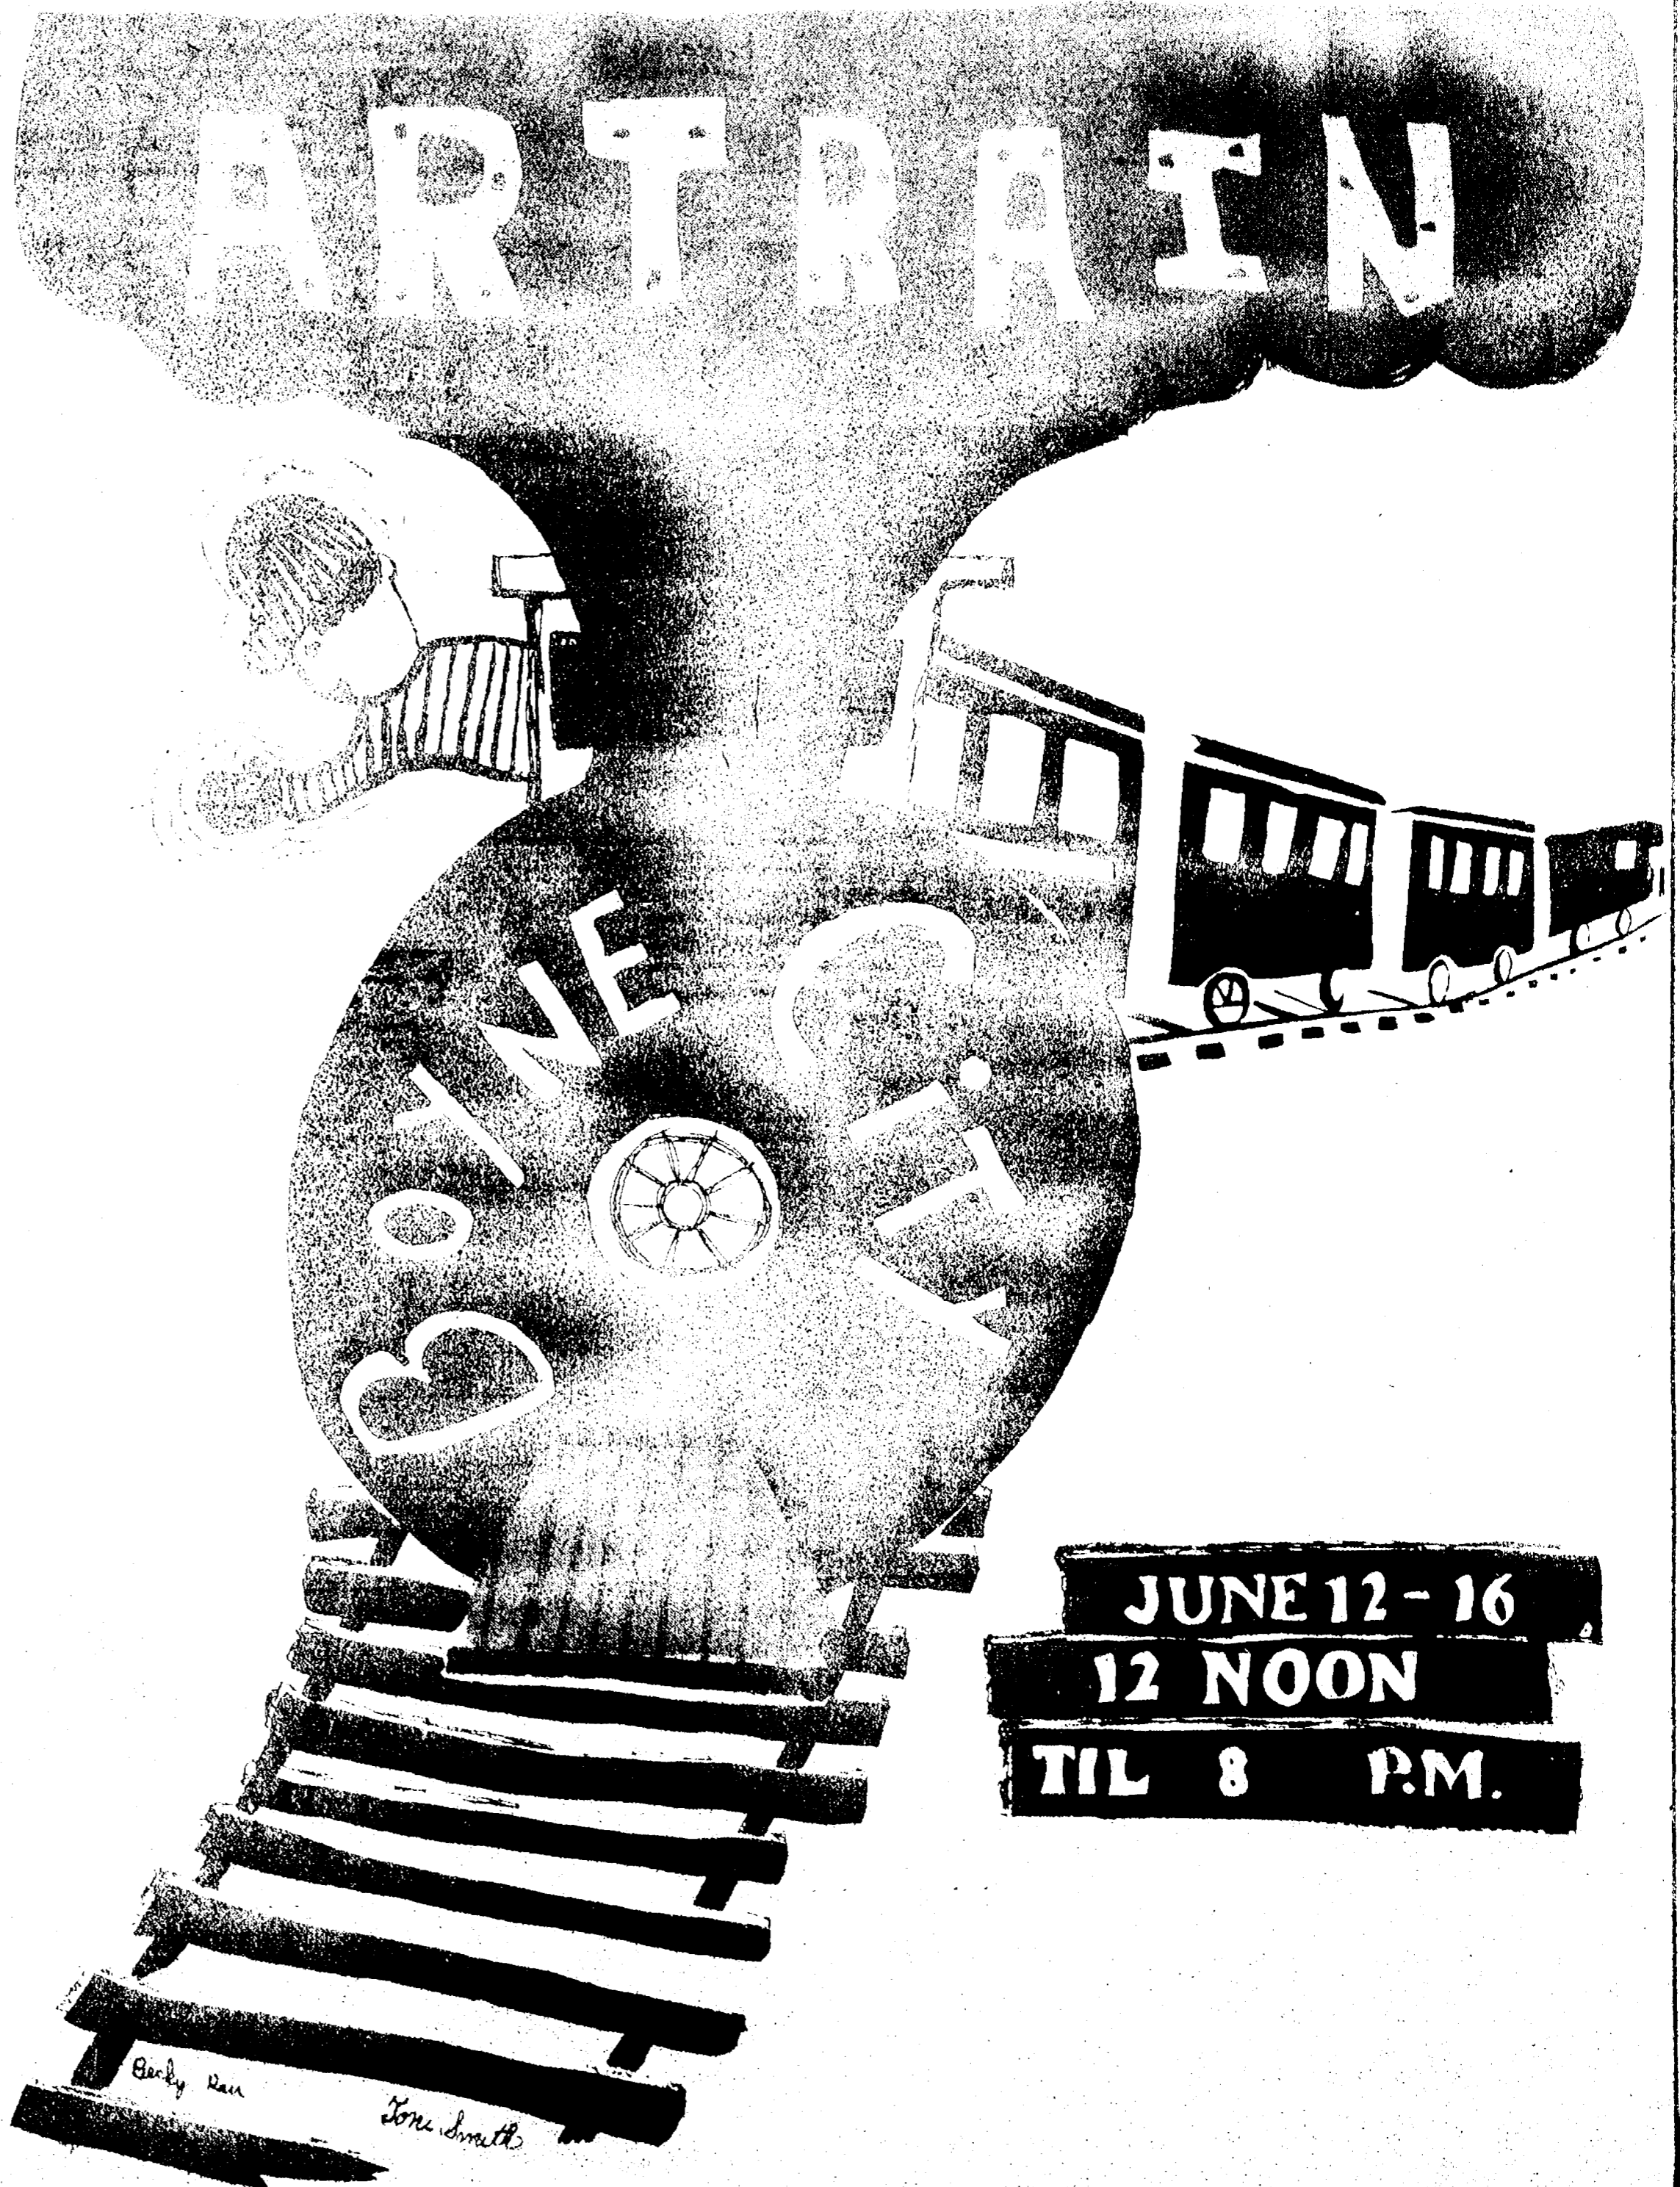

This office is considerably larger than our former quarters and we will be able to serve you better as a result. Stop in, say hello and have a cup of coffee sometime. We'd love to show you around.
